FLORIDA STATE COLLEGE
TALLAHASSEE

Where Your Money Goes Shown In Itemized Budget Report

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOLUME XXIII. Tallahassee, Florida, January 10, 1936. NUMBER FOURTEEN

O'Neill's "Emperor Jones" Presented Here Monday Night

FSCW Faculty Vacations All Over Country

College Represented At Educational Meeting By Large Group

PROFESSORS GO TO CONVENTIONS

Many Make Long Trips To Spend Holidays With Their Families

Members of Florida State College faculty spent their Christmas holidays in many different ways. Some used part of the season-day vacation to attend conventions and meetings, relative to their work, in different parts of the country. Others made trips of shorter and miles to be with their relatives for the festive season.

President Edward Conrad headed the largest convention group that of the annual Florida Education association meeting at Orlando January 2, 3, and 4. Thursday Dean Nathaniel Moss Dailey of the school of education was guest speaker at the F. S. C. W. luncheon.

Hew York drew two persons from Florida State college—Dean Ida Scoble Copperman, dean of the women, and Dr. Mary Martin Hay, associate professor of education. Dean Copperman attended the convention of the National Music Teachers association of which she is a member, president and the convention of the National Association of Schools of Music in Philadelphia after which she planned to go to New York, returning here early January 10. She is a member of the ethics committee of the latter group with which Florida State college is associate affiliated in 1926. She was re-president of the association in 1921.

Two meetings of two national organizations were attended by Dr. Hay. One was that of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish in New York city and the Modern Language association of America in Cincinnati. The Spanish meetings were at Columbia and New York universities while in New York Dr. Hay also attended an executive meeting of the Institute of International Education which she is a national officer and has helped as a given in the Institute at its headquarters at the Spanish house at Columbia university in honor of the visiting Spanish professors She was elected a delegate to the New York meeting by the Florida Chapter of American Association of Teachers of Spanish as a meeting at Tampa recently.

Dr. Christian Paul Heinlein, professor of experimental psychology, and Dr. Henry Forbes Liddell, professor of philosophy, attended the American Psychological Association convention at Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore.

The American Association for the Advancement of Science was attended by Dr. Paul Bunnell of St Louis. He spoke on "The 60s

Continued on page three

Unit of Amateur Hour to Be Here

24 Artists Sponsored By Major Bowes to Come

A unit of the Major Bowes Amateur Hour will make its first personal appearance in Tallahassee next Wednesday at the State theater. Twenty-four artists will appear on the program, many of them are well known to listeners of the Major Bowes radio program. Among them are Thelma Gates, of Orlando, Florida, a student at the University of Missouri Quartette from Wyoming, a singer, Leonard Maretta, the Collegiate Troubadours of Mexico City, Mexico Bell Ringer, Meyer Golding the Whistling grocery clerk, and Joseph Rondo, the dancing fool with the Carusso voice.

Major Edward Bowes is the originator of the first radio amateur hour of its kind, and the father and promoter of the world's most famous family, the Capitol Theatre Family. He is considered equally famous as the man who opened the heretofore locked door to beginners like Capitol Family, which has been on the air since 1926, was the first theater to take to the other waves.

The unit which will appear here next Wednesday is only one of many which are touring the country under the sponsorship of Major Bowes. Four performances will be given during its stay here.

College Girls Plods Hopefully to Town, Ignored by Female Drivers

Thumb Pointed and Neck Craned, She Starts Weary Travel

With thumb pointed, and neck craned, a typical college girl starts on the weary grind to town, wearing a hopeful and appealing (often woe-begone) expression.

There is one main thought in her mind, that is the ecstacy of traveling up those hills on wheels instead of shoe-leather, and with this object in mind she swallows her pride and starts her journey.

At the sound of the first car her head turns, her face breaking into an appealing smile, but the car driven by a woman and loaded with either children or packages, shoots by. She can be forgiven.

Another car!! Same signs. It too passes, this time driven by a woman with an empty back seat! An unforgivable sin.

Another car!! Occpanis of the car turn their heads at each other for someone, then speed on. By this time our college girl is half way up town, and has decided to give up in hope. The walk will do her good.

However, before she realizes it the car ceases and there she stands the girls ahead. Her heart thumps and her steps quicken. She reaches the car rather breathless only to hear the girls reply to her well-known but seldom-heard question, "Dya wanta ride?" with a surprising answer, "No, thanks. We've only come to town to lend arone to the conclusion that there must be Florida State College students.

While recovering from this shock, her face is set in blank and expressionless that it is doubtful whether anyone would dare to pick her up. At this point, she is in front of the Baby Shoppe and how she shall get to practically at her destination she waves at three or four passing cars and a large grad to give her a ride, either to sell her Christmas seals collect a bill, or to share her enjoyment of relieving human suffering, but they are deaf on one ear.

Before making the trip back, her face is red and her feet sore, having been exhausted, she interposes herself against her former desire by filling her hands with sacks of candy and popcorn. Before she gets to the college she is a screeching of brakes, and a friendly voice calls out, "Ya goin' to the college?"

Vance Attends Journalism Meet

Presidential Conference Is Program Feature

Mr. Earl L. Vance, associate professor of English and journalism, attended a convention of journalists in Atlanta, Georgia, December 27-30, during the holidays.

The meeting which was held December 27-30, was a joint convention of the Southern Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism with the American Association of Teachers of Journalism.

Among the outstanding features of the program, Mr. Vance said, were an informal presidential conference with President Frank Dn D. Roosevelt and a symposium on "News of Europe as Seen in American Newspapers," which was presented by correspondents representatives of the London Fress, the German News Bureau, the Havas (or Agency Fernch), and the Tass Agency (Russian).

A severe criticism of contemporary journalism, according to Mr Vance, was given by Dr Edgerton by Kenneth Durant of the Tass agency when he said that the press is becoming sensationalized by the use of emotion for its own sake instead of for the sake of truth.

Among those who took part on the program were prominent newspaper editors and publishers, professors of journalism, foreign news-writers, government officials, and editors of the National Editorial association.

Faculty Senate Meets

The faculty senate held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon at which time the changes in the curriculum recently passed by the senate were discussed.

College Rank Third In Size

Hunter, Smith Again Top Enrollment Lists Of Women's Colleges

Florida State College for Women ranks third in enrollment among the women's colleges in the United States, according to college enrollment statistics for the current year released today by Dr. Raymond Walters, president of the University of Cincinnati. This year's enrollment of full-time students is 1,835.

The ten largest women's colleges in the country as given by Dr Walters follow: Hunter, 8,720; Smith, 2,012; Florida State College for Women, 1,835; Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, 1,505; Simmons, 1,468; Wellesley, 1,459; Wilson, 1,395; Georgia State College for Women, 1,238; Vassar, 1,219; and Mt. Holyoke, 982.

Six of the ten colleges retained their rank from the number of enrollment. They are Hunter, Smith, Florida State College for Women, Simmons, Winthrop, and Mt. Holyoke. This year Wellesley, which in 1934 was fifth in enrollment, changed places with the American Council of the Education activities. Dr. Figures, compiled as of November 15, show 700.The full-time students with a 6.6 per cent increase in enrollment over that of the Middle Atlantic region and there is a 5.8 per cent advance over 1934. Florida State College for Women has a 6 per cent increase over last year.

Rutz to Tell Of "Passion Play"

Only One in 300 Years To Play "Mary" Twice

Miss Anny Rutz, who is the only person in 300 years to be twice honored with the role of the "Virgin Mary" in the famous "Passion Play," will give an illustrated lecture on the "Passion Play," Wednesday, January 15, at 6:15 p. m. in the Augusta Conradi Theater.

Miss Rutz played the role of "Mary" in the 1930 performance of the "Passion Play at Oberammergau which has been given for the 300th anniversary of the first presentation of the Play. Her father has lived in Oberammergau for 400 years. The first time Miss Rutz played the part was in accordance of here.

Miss Rutz's story of the "Passion Play" through its leading actors is told with dramatic quality and is full of fascinating incidents which take the audience "behind the scenes." She will illustrate her lecture with lantern slides and will appear in her native Bavarian costume.

Miss Rutz is now in this country on a tour of Europe as Seen in American Newspapers," which was presented at Oberammergau.

Miss Rutz is now in this country on a tour of the leading actors of the famous "Passion Play" in America available as a speaker in the United States.

Design Classes Exhibit Animal Art Work Today

A group of decorative animals will be exhibited this afternoon in the design classes of Miss Ruth Johnston in their drawing building, according to Miss Amy Perrin Briggs, assistant professor of art.

Among those exhibited will be a decorative cat by Miss Ruth Gibbs, a dog by Mary Ella Beckon, a giraffe by Marjorie Eifler, and a pig by Mary Phillips Chalker. Others will be an elephant by Eleanor Hasking Freer, and a cat by Ronna Powe.

These decorative animals are from the work of the first year design classes of Miss Briggs and Miss Helen Alcorn Thrash.

Approved Report of Budget Committee

EDITOR'S NOTE—The following itemized copy of the budget of the college government, organizations, campus publications, the athletic association, and the four classes, is printed for the benefit of the students, who have no idea wandered audibly, "What happens to the money that is spent by various organizations, and what happens to our student activity fee?"

COLLEGE GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

1. Conventions:
Fees—
N. S. F. A.	$ 40.00
W. I. A. S. G.	16.00
S. T. A. G. O.	18.00
Traveling—
N. S. F. A.	200.00
S. I. A. S. G.	75.00
F. S. G. A.	170.00	$	535.00
2. Printing
Big handbook	300.00
Freshman bulletin	100.00
Study aims, management cards, light cut cards, etc.	150.00		550.00
3. Annual stamp for Flambeau			25.00
4. Foreign students' scholarship			42.50
5. Day student organization, 171 @ 25c
6. Office supplies:
Stationery, stamps	75.00
Mimeographing	25.00
Telephoning	25.00
Stenographer	50.00
7. Miscellaneous—Typing paper, soap, toilet tissue, thumb tacks, candles, officers, service on typewriter, blotters, notebooks, files, carbon paper	50.00		250.00
7. Corsages, flowers, and necessary gifts			75.00
8. Emergency fund			100.00
9. Social committee			150.00
10. Thanksgiving program			15.00
TOTAL			$1,857.75

INCOME

Student Activity Fee @ $0.9512 for 1600 ..... $1,857.75

C. G. A. BUDGET FOR SOCIAL COMMITTEE

1. Clerical work:
Mimeographing, notices, printing	$	8.00
Posters, cardboard, ink, time		4.00

Continued on page three

Auction Sale Is Attraction For Students

Girls Waste Opportunity To Bid on Leap Year Wedding Ring

"Going once, going twice, gone to the girl with the red hair!" Everything from "genuine camel's hair" coats to worn-out rubbers and discarded jewelry went under the cry of the auctioneer as the auction and found enthusiastic bidding its semi-annual auction sale with a large audience of gigling college girls publishing and making sale in lower Bryan on which the varied articles were displayed.

"What am I bid for this exquisite red linen halter?" "Five cents, five cents, seven cents, gone to the noisy freshman for eleven cents!" Corduroy coats go for a paltry sum. A perfectly sane individual pays 10 cents for a 15 cent bathing can The worn rubbers and a sticky rain cape go up for sale. There is a terrific battle as two bidders fight over the previous owner's name written within. Gone to the young lady with the bull dog ten-city over in the fifth row.

Jewelry is the big attraction for the auction sale. Wedding and Rings of all description were auctioned off in the true high bidding fine. Some were sold for the selling style of genuine auctions. An identifying mark with the initial H brought down many a laugh as the college cut-ups on the side crowd tried to the approach of Christmas and how one does have to buy Santa presents.

Squeals of mirth greeted the presentation of a wedding ring for auctioning. Starting at a penny ever, nary a Florida State girl bid in full of Florida State girl bid in Leap year!

Only one of the rightful owners was there to claim her lost property, a purse Unfortunately the only means she had of identifying her lost property was by a picture of "four grins in the center" which was not at all adequate.

The auctioning off of a score or so of fountain pens concluded the lively affair. It was then that practical conscientious souls who had been watching the capricious bidding of the crowd with mixed ity with amusement stepped forward to purchase something of practical and lasting value. Green fountain pens, red ones, blue ones—all were sold at bargain prices. Penny raising was turned into an auction at $1.50—Sold to the highest ridder!

Miller Will Give Report

A meeting of the Home Economics club will be held Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock in th chemistry lecture room for the purpose of hearing a report on the Florida Home Economics association dinner in Orlando during the Christmas holidays. Mary miller will present the report.

Seven Attend Indiana Meet

Two Thousand Students Convene to Discuss Christianity

The twelfth quadrennial convention of the Student Volunteer movement, which was held in Indianapolis, Indiana, during the holidays—January 1, was attended by 2,-286 students, seven of whom represented Florida State College and all of whom were from foreign countries, according to Lucy Lee Linn, one of the local delegates.

The purpose of the convention was to bring together the outstanding students of the world to discuss the place of Christianity in the modern, economic, political, social, and industrial problems of today. The students attending the convention were divided into seminar groups each composed of fifty-five delegates. This was necessary in order to bring each individual into close contact with the different students present and to give each individual an opportunity to express his opinions on the various subjects presented.

The students were conducted by prominent people who gave very interesting lectures on such subjects as Christianity, missions, industrial and political problems. Each student had a choice of life work. A very good display of thought and intelligence was shown by all the students at the seminars which were a kind of an open forum discussion, Miss Lee Gee.

Among the outstanding men who addressed these groups of delegates were Toyohiko Kagawa of Japan, Kagawa, the Archbishop of York from England, Dr. Sherwood Eddy from North America, Edwin McNeil Poteat, D. D. of China, and Dr. Stanley Jones famous emphasis week here, John R. Mott, and John A. Mackay.

During the holidays plays and other kinds of entertainment were given for the delegates.

International teas were held in the various Indianapolis hotels in order to give the delegates a chance to meet the outstanding people present and to bring them closer to the foreign students. The climax of the entertainment was a Bach-Handel concert given on January 1 under the direction of Mr. Samuel Ames Cook of Boston.

There were 271 delegates present from Canadian colleges and 1,800 from American colleges, making a total of 2286 students representing 458 colleges in America. Every state but Delaware, Montana, Nevada, Utah, and Vermont sent delegates. The University of Toronto had the largest representation with a delegation of 80 students. The number of foreign students present was 103. Florida State College and Duke University were the only southern colleges were Lucy Gee Linn and Mary Ellen Chase, representing dele-gates, and Frances Lewis, Kathryn Todd, Virginia White, Carol Ramage, and Lollie McGuire.

Three English Courses Added To Curriculum

Stevenson is Teacher Of Trailer Class, 210-A, Next Semester

LONGMIRE HEADS LITERARY GROUP

Rogers to Lead Study Of Nineteenth Century Romantic Poets

Three new courses in English will be offered during the second semester, according to a recent announcement by Dean William O. Dodd of the College of Arts and Sciences.

One of these, English 210-a, will consist of a trailer course in that portion of English literature which is generally studied in fulfillment of first semester requirements for English 210. The class, with Dr. Hazel Stevenson as teacher, will meet on Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday at 1:30.

New Poetry Course

Another of the new courses is English 217, The Romantic Poets of the Early Nineteenth Century, which will be devoted to an intimate study of the poetry of Wordsworth, Coleridge, Byron, Shelley, and Keats. This course will meet on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday at 9:30.

Attention of those students in the College of Arts and Sciences who are preparing to teach in high school is called to the new requirement that such teachers must have had a three-hour course in the education of general and the part students could take in political life, "I believe," said Margares, "that she spoke more frankly and personally and inspired more confidence than any other speaker. This was probably due to the fact that she had no political strings in this country, being from the Canadian parliament." Professor John Ise, professor of economics at the University of Kansas, talked about the coming dark age and predicted that America will eventually be a fascist state if it keeps up its general trend. Senator Henry G. Allan, former United States Senator from Kansas, who has been on communism to Italy talked on Mussolini's policy and gave his opinion of what would be the result of the Italo-Ethiopian situation.

Mary Jeanne McKay, Thomas Nesbitt and Wallace Brooke spoke on a national broadcast concerning the attitude of American Students since the Geneva Peace programs. "Four important questions were discussed," said Mary Jeanne. "They were: 'Are college programs adequate'? 'What curriculum changes shall be made necessary'? 'What extra-curricular activities should be encouraged or suppressed?' 'Are students on

Continued on page three

Ten from Florida State Attend Methodist Youth Conference in Memphis

The Methodist Young People's conference, which takes place every ten years, was held in Memphis, Tennessee December 27 to 31. Six thousand delegates attended, including representatives from every section of the United States.

Morning and evening sessions were held to address given by prominent men. The most outstanding of these were Senator Ernest P Nye of North Dakota and Dr. Kazawa of Japan. Afternoons were devoted to seminars by discussion groups which met at designated places in every section of the city.

Delegates from the Florida State Colleges for Women who attended this convention were Jo Beth Forrester, Dora Lee Sargent, Lula Walker, Florence Jones, Mary Tiller, Carl Brigman, Emma Jean Holland, Leth Andrews Miss Elizabeth Thomason and Miss Winnie Lee Davis.

CELE McLAUGHLIN

Miss McLaughlin, a graduate of Randolph-Macon and Michigan by birth, is a member of the Hedgerow Theatre which will present "Emperor Jones" on the campus Monday night.

FSC Sends Two To Convention

Round Table Discussions Featured in Program For NSFA Meet

Mary Jeanne McKay and Margaret Graham attended the NSFA convention in Kansas City, Missouri, during the holidays as student representatives of Florida State College. The convention which will carry credit for three semester hours, will be conducted by Dr. Henry Suzzallo, and will Thursday at 10:30 and on Friday at 9:30.

Sixteenth Century Literature

The third of the new courses to be offered will be English 215, Dramatic Literature of the Sixteenth Century. This will consist of a study of sixteenth century life and ideals as mirrored in contemporary literature exclusively of the drama. Students enrolled in this class will be required to read by Miss Rowena Longmire, will meet on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday at 8:30.

Attention of those students in the College of Arts and Sciences who are preparing to teach in high school is called to the new requirement that such teachers must have had a three-hour course in the education of general and the part students could take in political life, "I believe," said Margares, "that she spoke more frankly and personally and inspired more confidence than any other speaker. This was probably due to the fact that she had no political strings in this country, being from the Canadian parliament." Professor John Ise, professor of economics at the University of Kansas, talked about the coming dark age and predicted that America will eventually be a fascist state if it keeps up its general trend. Senator Henry G. Allan, former United States Senator from Kansas, who has been on communism to Italy talked on Mussolini's policy and gave his opinion of what would be the result of the Italo-Ethiopian situation.

Mary Jeanne McKay, Thomas Nesbitt and Wallace Brooke spoke on a national broadcast concerning the attitude of American Students since the Geneva Peace programs. "Four important questions were discussed," said Mary Jeanne. "They were: 'Are college programs adequate'? 'What curriculum changes shall be made necessary'? 'What extra-curricular activities should be encouraged or suppressed?' 'Are students on

Continued on page three

Emperor Jones Plays Here On Artist Series

Hedgerow Theatre is To Present O'Neill's Modern Classic

DAVID MARTIN TO HAVE LEAD ROLE

Production Consistently Popular in Lands In Over World

The Hedgerow theater will present the most popular play when it brings Eugene O'Neill's modern classic "The Emperor Jones" to the college auditorium on Monday night, January 13, at 8:15, Active in the Pennsylvania company's lists since the first year, this play alone has been presented over 126 times since 1923, out of a repertory of 13 plays.

Jasper Deeter who staged The Emperor Jones" at the Provincetown in New York has directed the Hedgerow's production, and he also will appear as Smithers, the role he created in the original presentation. David Terry Martin, a white man and director of the Oklahoma playhouse in Stillwater, will appear in the titular role of Brutus Jones, the Pullman porter who rises to eminence as ruler of a Carribean island.

Miss Mary Blair explains: "The Emperor Jones" was the first play to achieve success for O'Neill, who is now America's foremost playwright. In writing the play, "Emperor Jones" has been influenced from Rhode Island to Australia in over ten different languages and it has been presented in four different media, theater, opera, motion picture, and radio.

Jasper Deeter has played "The Emperor Jones" for over fifteen years. With "Jig" Cook at the Provincetown Theatre he staged its first showing, when it created an artistic furor in Greenwich street. And Deeter played in the show over 200 times in Its New York run and American tour. When the Hedgerow started, Charles Cook, the first man to play the difficult role, came over with Deeter. This production has been the best drawing card on the Rose Valley playbill.

Ensembles Classics

Against the incessant beat of pursuing drums, Deeter, with a verdant jungle background, the Great Silhouette Performer eight rarely equalled in the theatre. The play is the first experienced psychological study of a man's mind.

The cast of the fates, it has often been compared to the best in the gardens in a play of the second act, composed of the Jungala scenes, is one of the most artistic on the modern stage, a psychological deterioration of Brutus Jones, the fear, and finally a universal touch.

Paul Bunnell made very few comments on his own work. One time, however, he did break his silence to tell a staff writer on the "New York World about his first part, in an interview he said:

Organ to Play

"The idea of The Emperor Jones Continued on page four

Dean Salley Is F. E. A. Speaker

States Education Really Begins in the Home

Dean Nathaniel Moss Salley, dean of the school of education, was a guest speaker at the annual F. S. C. W. dinner held in Orlando, during the recnt meeting of the Florida Education association.

In his address to the graduates at the annual alumnae dinner, Dean Salley said that the modern educational institution that is laying the foundation for learning in the art of life's activities is literally —the "school of the mother's knee." The child is taught largely by the proper or the improper ethical attitudes that make or mar moral life.

Any person who helps the individual to escape out of the confines of a narrow experience into the world of ideas, Dean Salley said, to a great teacher.

Mr. Salley concluded his remarks with the statement that, who "wished to be all things to all men that he might save some."

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

RUTH PERSONS ..... Editor
ALTHEA SMITH ..... Associate Editor
GERTRUDE KUHN ..... Managing Editor
HAZEL BOWMAN ..... News Editor

Entered as second class mail matter January 16, 1919, at the post office at Tallahassee Fla. under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

"People Who Live In Glass Houses"—

Each day brings an assortment of mail to the Flambeau mailbox, the majority of which is waste-basket material. But now and then something important peeps out above the rest. A few days ago we received a letter which is so interesting that we are prompted to share it with you. The letter, which was written by Miss Katherine E. Hite of Chicago, Illinois, follows:

During a recent visit to Tallahassee I was privileged to see an issue of "The Florida Flambeau," dated December 13, 1935. It was most disappointing to find there an editorial entitled "Looking to the Future," which reflected an unscholarly and near-sighted point of view.

Having graduated from the University of Chicago and/or its New Plan of liberal education, Class of 1935, and being a science major rather than a student of the humanities, I feel justified in replying to this editorial. This university is maintaining its high language requirements.

It is true that few undergraduates have either time or inclination to read source material in a foreign language. However, the possibility that an undergraduate may find the comprehension of a foreign language valuable presents itself. I, myself, as an undergraduate was assigned a term paper in the choice material for which could be found only in German. It is also true that the graduate students find time to acquire a reading knowledge of the foreign language and information which one cannot obtain a ligher degree at our leading universities without passing a foreign language requirement—usually two languages. Some among the graduate students do, however, acquire this knowledge.

In reply to your suggestion that a more practical use of English might be intelligently studied, I can only say that if English is to be taught exclusively, English a foreign language will hardly find it an adequate means of expressing themselves in the field of translation.

But, we were looking into the future, it seems. One who has a specific educational or vocational aim will find it impossible to proceed far with only an English vocabulary. Many students of advanced study in psychology, doctor, economist, biological or physical science, to name but a few, read a lot of their printed in foreign languages. Moreover, success in any field is becoming increasingly more dependent on an ability to be well posted on recent work. The possibility that students at Florida State hold mediocrity as their goal is untenable. The student who is neither mercenary nor scholastic may have a cultural aim for obtaining an education. Any university student should hope to achieve a widened cultural background as a result of his college education. The usefulness of a reading knowledge of a foreign language in this field of endeavor may be quickly ascertained by comparing the quality of the translation of a few well-known pieces of literature. For example, read "Schmeckebier" in English and in German, or "Erlkonig" or "Loreley." If you prefer prose, read Guy de Maupassant or Andre Maurois.

Those successful in self-social life, where the fraternity pin and extracurricular activities do not constitute the sole aim of the person alone on 'beauty bare' but upon stimulating conversation and pleasant entertaining. These qualities are not peculiar to the English-speaking people.

The trend of modern life is toward the closer association of the nations of the world; therefore, wholly necessary that the universities, through the leaders of national and international affairs shall continue the requirement of a reading knowledge of at least one foreign language and, if possible, Esperanto, pig-latin, English, French or other means of expressing ideas be adopted.

My survey of the campus and slight contact with people on the campus gave me the impression that Florida State was an alert, progressive institution of learning. With such a beautiful background intelligent student body and wise curriculum behind it, it seems incredible that a note of backwardness should be found in the college paper. Such is usually the test of campus leaders.

I am sending a copy of this letter to the office of the Dean of Students. The writing of this letter has been prompted by an interest in true progress in education, and a sincere regard for Florida State."

Since the letter had no return address on it, we were somewhat at a loss to know how to find out something about the author. However, we did learn (from a very reliable source) that Miss Hite holds a research fellowship and is now working on her doctor's degree at the University of Chicago. We also learned that the "unscholarly" editor whom she visited while in Tallahassee, but this bit of information is not for public dissemination.

It would be interesting to know just what prompted the writer of this letter to pick up a Flambeau while on her visit here and, after so doing, to read the editorial, "Looking to the Future," to which she refers. We wonder if she also read section III of the report of the curriculum committee in which the following statements appeared: "Achievement tests will be given on basis of a reading knowledge . . . to students who enter with two acceptable high school units, a more advanced course of three semester hours for two semesters will be sufficient to meet this objective. . . The language requirement is to be met before the beginning of the junior year." Compering this with the language requirement at the University of Chicago the conclusion to be drawn is obvious. On page forty-four of the bulletin, An nouncement of The University of Chicago, 1934-35, the following statements are found in regard to the requirements of the Colleges which are "two entrance units in a foreign language or a passing grade in an equivalent Board examination." Many of the schools have no further language requirements for either the bachelor's or master's degree. Is this the high language requirement of which the writer speaks?

In her argument she points out the possibility of an undergraduate finding the comprehension of a foreign language valuable, citing herself as an example of one who was assigned a term paper in which the "choice" material could be found only in German. Wouldn't the situation have been tragic if through either intention or accident she had chosen Italian or Latin to fulfil the language requirement of her college? And would a college be justified in making all students aquire a reading knowledge of a language on the possibility that a few might find such information "handy" at some time?

The writer next points out that all undergraduates should be able to read one language because some of these may later be graduate students. Recently a letter from Florida State College for Women, according to information from the president's office, have ever gotten the Ph.D. degree. (Many more, of course have obtained a master's degree, but this fact does not seem available.) Comparing this with the total number who have graduated from this institution, even though the number who will seek Ph.D.'s in the future may be doubled or even tripled, the per cent will still be practically negligible. Such a calculation from some other institution, the University of Chicago, for instance, might show a different result, but after all isn't Florida State a student of F. S. C. W. the thing of paramount importance in planning a curriculum for this college?

We confess we are baffled by the fourth paragraph. We do not remember implying or even intimating that English might be considered a foreign language. Moreover, we do not believe, as many students of the languages contend, that the study of a language may be justified on the basis that "it improves one's English." The report of the curriculum committee stated that "Foreign language courses will be organized . . . so that the student may acquire a reading knowledge of a foreign language as a research tool," but it neglected to say in what way this tool was to be used. The suggestion made in the Flambeau editorial was to the effect that "if an increased facility in the use of English will assist in the solution of problem be attacked more directly by improving other existing courses"

That "many articles of advantage to the psychologist, doctor, economist, biological or physical scientist or student are printed in foreign languages," we do not doubt. Neither do we doubt the entheuticity of the statement that "success in any field is becoming increasingly more dependent on an ability to be well posted on recent work." But we still contend that few students, even graduates, have time to read all of the best material available in the field of knowledge which is written in English. And even more significant is the fact that although a student may learn to read a foreign language well enough to pass the examination, she probably will not retain the facility of such a language to the extent that she will get much pleasure from reading articles in the language.

The writer also says that until such time as Esperanto, pig-latin, English, French or other means of expressing ideas be agreed upon, a student should be able to read at least one foreign language. But doesn't the writer forget only very few people a student is able to read a language it does not follow that she can also speak same language. Nor does it follow that she will be "successful in social self-life" and "depend upon more than on 'beauty bare' but upon stimulating conversation and gracious understanding," imagine a student with twelve, eighteen, or even twenty-four hours of language, let us say, trying to carry on a stimulating conversation with a native of Spain! We are of the opinion that language teachers do not even claim such, in spite of their "Conversation" classes.

We wonder if it ever occurred to the writer that some members of this "intelligent student body" of which she speaks right some of the articles which are published. And because the opinion expressed therein doesn't happen to jibe with here, is it necessarily "backward" and "unscholarly"?

But we appreciate such a communication, and we appreciate the writer's "interest in true progress in education and sincere regard for Florida State." Thus we rall attention to it—readers of the Flambeau.

Magazine Thumbings

BY ELEANOR WILLIAMS

FREE SPEECH AND PLAIN LANGUAGE

By Albert Jay Nock

Atlantic Monthly, January

Mr. Nock sympathetically explains to Dean Russell whose article, "So Conceived and So Dedicated" appeared in the Atlantic Monthly several months ago that Mr. Russell is for license rather than liberty.

For liberty, Mr. Nock says, is in existence when some perfectly respectable person gets up and says something that everybody agrees is. License, on the other hand, is when some infernal scoundrel who ought to be hanged anyway, gets up and says something that is true.

Plain language is the natural accompaniment of free speech. Mr. Nock thinks, and he resents all the euphemistic terms gradually being absorbed in our language: terms such as "reorganization" for bankruptcy, "patronage" for downright bribery, "indemnity" or "reparations" for the ancestral words of plunder or booty.

Euphemism is an attempt to sound respectable and end in debilitating, he says, and indirectness is very much so. Nock would prefer an editorial writer coming out and declaring Mayor Jones an adulterer, if such were a fraud, to his reciting facts in such a manner everyone knows Mayor Jones is that without mentioning his name.

HOW STRONG IS THE TOWNSEND PLAN?

By Paul W Ward

Nation, January 8.

Although political writers have of late given much space to the Townsend movement, they have left the facts stack up meagerly in its favor.

Only a few representatives (who also remain loyal to their respective political parties) have condescended to wear the Townsend badge and the button which is awarded. The election of Verner Main, Democrat, who rode for the Townsend plan, as representative of a Michigan district has caused considerable stir and triumphantly of late, but Ward explains that Main is a Republican in an almost solid Republican district. Furthermore, Main received in the primary campaign part of the bonus and the balancing of the budget as well.

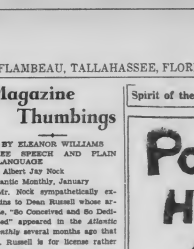
With the Townsend plan adverse to President Roosevelt's plan and the supposed policies of the Republican party, Ward also predicts the Townsend plan will be as dead as the French revolution in eighteen months. It will have to succeed quickly he says, or not at all.

THE FALLACY OF CONQUEST

By Nathaniel Peffer

Harpers, January

Showing the pressure of population and the need for new markets and raw materials are ancient moded reasons for expansion and colonization, this author finds that the fine words of diplomats and statesmen sound silly.



Mr. Peffer asks us to look at the facts around us. Japan, who is ever complaining of over-population, seized South Manchuria from Russia in 1905 at a cost of 300,000 men. Since 1905 more Japanese are in California alone than were in the whole of South Manchuria, says Mr. Peffer, while the people have increased in Japan than were killed in obtaining Manchuria. Further, many more Italians are flourishing in New York City than in all the Italian and Germans colonies.

Since we have passed over the first epoch in the age of mechanization, the writer feels that only we can maintain its sovereignty now is in industrialization. We must learn to organize within ourselves, he says, and strive to produce superior articles at low cost. We depend neither on 'beauty bare' but upon stimulating conversation and gracious understanding," imagine a student with twelve, eighteen, or even twenty-four hours of language, let us say, trying to carry on a stimulating conversation with a native of Spain! We are of the opinion that language teachers do not even claim such, in spite of their "Conversation" classes.

We wonder if it ever occurred to the writer that some members of this "intelligent student body" of which she speaks right some of the articles which are published. And because the opinion expressed therein doesn't happen to jibe with here, is it necessarily "backward" and "unscholarted"?

But we appreciate such a communication, and we appreciate the writer's "interest in true progress in education and sincere regard for Florida State." Thus we rall attention to it—readers of the Flambeau.

Spirit of the Week — By Adams

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

By GRACE MARY WEBSTER

THE Supreme Court of the United States smacked tie lips mightily Monday as it swallowed another dose of New Deal alphabetical soup, completely demolishing the AAA in a 6-3 decision. Cardoza, Brandeis and Stone, always the left-wingers, declared that their majority brethren had given a "tortured construction of the constitution" in the decision.

The agricultural administration was objected to chiefly on the grounds that it was an invasion of the right of states to regulate their local activities, leaving a possible opening for a Statesaid program along similar lines, with the processing tax definitely out. The government has factored to assure farmers that all AAA debts will be taken care of regardless of the death of the plan. Meanwhile the agricultural leaders have been called to Washington for a meeting on Friday and Saturday, and five different plans are before the house for the management of the AAA with some organization.

The AAA decision foreshadowed probable doom for the Tennessee valley authority case, the Guffey coal-mining regulations and all the new crop control laws. Although the administration in Washington is preserving a calm exterior, the decision of the court was a heavy blow. Roosevelt had only just inscribed the AAA in the national budget, thinking that it was no longer an emergency.

• • •

HEBE MacDONALD, daughter of Ramsay MacDonald, was fairly rushed off her feet at a reception given in the heart of the Buckingham country estate here she just opened Yo Olde Tea Shoppe. The tiniest cream puffs ladies hadn't seen so much excitement since the Jubilee, so the reporters gave, and the one-man police force had to be called into action to direct traffic. Miss MacDonald's London friends, including the United States' ambassador Robert W. Bingham and Mrs. Bingham, flocked to the Inn as soon as it opened for business.

• • •

OF THE two university bills before Congress now, the Pittman-McReynolds which was introduced last week, and the Nye-Clark-Maverick, indications are that the latter will be more popular since it is more strict. The principal points of the Nye-Clark-Maverick bill are:

(1). An immediate arms embargo upon the outbreak of any war;

(2). A five-year pre-war basis for the determination of shipment of key products;

(3). The restriction of commercial credit to belligerents;

(4). Prohibition of American vessels traveling through zones of belligerent operations.

(5). Placement of the risk of shipment of goods during war in either a foreign country or the government rather than upon individual.

(6). Imprisonment for ten years and $100,000 fine for violation of regulations.

• • •

HERBERT HOOVER commented upon Roosevelt's message to congress as one which might be called "War on earth and ill will among men." Mr. Hoover also accused Roosevelt of "setting up a bogey to create fear in the hearts of those not relief."

"The most ominous note in the message," the ex-president is quoted as saying, "was the presidential warning that the power to tax involves the power to destroy. It is a power dangerous in other hands."

• • •

GREAT BRITAIN'S flag is now at rest, blue and white rather than the traditional red, blue and white, according to the British Color Council. Quite an uproar was caused when the change was made from the costly cochineal hitherto used to a less expensive synthetic dye for the red in the British flag.

• • •

THREE of the leading Jewish men of Great Britain are reported on their way to the United States to consult with representatives of the American Jewry about the condition of Jews in Germany. The plan up for consideration would provide for a

Continued on page three

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT

University Editorials

"LET FREEDOM RING"

The Alumni Association of University Professors acted forcibly and courageously in urging the University of Pittsburgh and asking a strong stand against the "Loyalty Oath" to be taken by teachers' oaths.

No lofty group would be better qualified to judge an erring unethical than a group of university professors. If all other institutions fail during these troubled times, our colleges and universities should remain the bulwarks of intellectual freedom.

Action on the Pittsburgh case followed an investigation by the Pennsylvania Legislature. Dr. Ralph E. Turner was dismissed by the alleged "Communistic" and Prof. F. E. Beutel left after making inferences that his academic future at Pittsburgh would be ruined. He testified that a Pitt man was "lucky" to obtain an article "which doesn't disturb the Pittsburgh industrialist."

The popular deluge of teachers' oaths has already been argued throughout the country. Conservatives patriotic groups and frenzied legislators have rushed laws which reduce loyalty to lip service. History dredges up the memory of hysteria. Post-war periods are always marked by idiotic nationalism. America, it seems, proves no exception to the rule. Our teachers' oaths call for allegiance to the pledges Mussolini demands of his Fascists. The A. A. U. P.'s action has been courageous. It was not batting foul when it repported the "tyranny of public opinion in a democracy may become as dangerous as the absolutism of the despot."

"Loyalty is something one lives and breathes and professes, in spite of views of the contrary held by misguided patriots and owners of low-class newspapers," the report stated.

In the midst of our panic-stricken nationalism it is encouraging to find the A. A. U. P. attempting to make people realize that "Loyalty is something one lives." Now, of all times, no plea for intellectual freedom should go unheard.

• • •

ARE WE BEING EDUCATED?

The title of Dean Christian Gauss' article in the current Saturday Evening Post, "Why Don't College Graduates Stay Educated," is either very misleading or else more than slightly satirical, because the essence of his article is that they were never educated in the first place.

Dean Gauss' criticism of higher education comments on the lack of discipline and concentration of Princeton University, who is by no means alone in the University of Michigan, points out that if the present attitudes of the best colleges of liberal arts in the country were subjected to tests, not a few of the graduates in the report could guess what were the best and worst books they have supposedly been trained.

The greatest single obstacle that bars any real progress of study in American college education, according to Dean Gauss, is the intellectual smugness of the college graduate. Such an completely excludes the myth that a degree is sort of parchment paper can transform an ill-bred person of average mentality into a "super brain-trusters," who can automatically devote himself to a scholarly or cultural ideal, and the outraged alumnus is left to come back.

Education should serve to enlarge the student mentally, but how many students are there who have learned to be more interested in the fields of study which they have chosen? Usually his sole interest is his alma mater and in its football team, and he is more concerned with the way the coach removed if the team has a poor season than with the whole-some research work done by the faculty.

Dean Gauss paints a discouraging picture of the intellectual standards of the college graduate, who has his Bachelor of Arts degree and is supposedly trained, but is even more discouraging when we consider that every year thousands of college graduates are turned out for the same mill. How then can we hope to have a better class of 1946 will be any better than that of 1935?

Even in regard to vital problems of the day, it is not the colleges graduate who is the leader who the end in insisting on an intelligent and fair solution. Their complacent acceptance of the status quo would lead us to believe that no reforms are needed in the United States, that we are living in a Golden Age.

They seem to be blind to the fact that if the great army of graduates is to remain under

Continued on page four

College Girls Revive Clingy Woolen Wear

Chilled Bodies Are Kept In Defrosted State With Flannels

Style in Florida State college these first cold days has given way to comfort. Woolen socks that keep feet have to be warmed and chilled ears stand kept in a defrosted state, regardless of whether the outward appearance lives up to the title, "well-dressed."

One cold-shodded senior got up one morning and found a mismated pair of hose insufficient to keep her legs warm, so she donned an extra pair. Ankle socks in most cases have lost prestige or have been entirely abandoned. This is not true in all cases, for the socks in several instances are still worn —over a pair of long stockings. One fortunate had a pair of those three-quarter socks, reminiscent of grammar school days, with the turn-down cuff. Still other innovations are ribbed socks to match woolen socks and stockings.

A shade of dependable grey is flannel underwear right here on the campus. It isn't red, but iron information received confidentially it's white and short and doesn't need tucking in the top of the stockings or down long sleeves. A positive saving of time is to show below the hem of the dress.

However, pajama legs worn under the dress, "Ma Perkins" style, seem guaranteed by their manufacturers to stay in the dress even when used in this capacity as a wee sophomore student discovered when she went to the infirmary due to the Administration building. Another co-ed who thought the fashion world wore her pajama top in the place of a sweater, because it was warm and "nobody knew the rule." Her day was just about ruined, though, when a friend asked at the dinner table if she were ready to retire and another passenger asked her if she "wore the top to your pajamas?"

Red cozy slippers worn under squashed-down berets and flatly-pressed hats in bright colored scarfs fill in the gap between hem and hat. Mittens, each finger a different color, and bright colored scarfs are among those accessories that tend to keep college girls warm.

In this array of two or three coats, not to mention the sweaters underneath a fur coat is the last farther down there is a discordant note. This is the girl who wears no coat. She has a coat but she leaves it off because she isn't cold. A little shivering and teeth chattering swells up as she passes by in her light dress and bare arms. Her cheeks glowing. "I bet she's trying to catch cold," is whispered, but the healthy look on her face plainly peasants why she does it.

Collegiate Come-Backs

About this time of year the Christmas spirit is wearing it's ten-cent finger nail polish and we're discovering that what we suspected all the time is true. The hose our roommate gave us do shade her real plum-colored dress better than they do the black crepe. And the perfume we gave her is now really beside the point.

• • •

We wonder if you are having a hard time making the resolutions keep the new year resolutions promised for her.

• • •

Life is real, life is earnest.
Cuts in drives for our team
And departing leave behind us
Notebooks that will help the rest.

—Tech Talk

• • •

From the Rollins Colleges we learn that fifty students in Yalpin looked two professors in a room until they had counted a 2.11992 men. We would be rightful over getting even the .1062.

• • •

According to the Mirror Chatter, a CCNY professor of philosophy was caught dozing three times in class. Three strikes and you're out.

• • •

The Daily Trojan reports that should all the men in college be equally divided among the coeds, each girl would receive exactly 2.11992 men. We would be rightful over getting even the .1062.

• • •

According to the Mirror Chatter, a CCNY professor of philosophy was caught dozing three times in class. Three strikes and you're out.

• • •

The Daily Trojan reports that should all the men in college be equally divided among the coeds, each girl would receive exactly 2.11992 men. We would be rightful over getting even the .1062.

• • •

According to the Mirror Chatter, a CCNY professor of philosophy was caught dozing three times in class. Three strikes and you're out.

• • •

Ah, Chemistry!
Bottles there,
Test tubes there.
Smoke and fumes
Pull the air.
A lot of stink,
A lot of smell,
That's chemistry—
So what, I ask you?
—Exponent.

• • •

We nominate for the best definition of the year the one so dumb by a young Western Reserve University of Pennsylvania freshman, who guessed as "a black cat's with a white kit in every members of the male sex in themselves out for formal functions."

• • •

More than half of the 160 colleges graduates who are Rhodes scholars during the first years of ages, says an exchange, are born in "Who's Who in America." From this it would seem that the begins at forty.

• • •

The New Rochelle Tatler tells of a freshman at Allegheny College who, when intelligence test was administered the question, "Why do birds begin to twitter with the statement:

"Because the midnight oil begins to burn—the night before exams."

The freshman must just naturally come smarter in that part of the country.

• • •

From the Johnsonian we gather the following maiden name down through the years:

1932—I don't know you.
1933—You're not my idea!
1934—You have no social status.
1935—You have no money.
1936—You must just naturally come smarter in that part of the country.

• • •

Dr. Alfred Adler, noted Viennese psychologist, advises the younger generation not to marry for love. He says that they should not to marry a man to "save him from what have you got against me" stage, for a.

• • •

The Wooden Shoe gave guts us wo on semester exams. Every student seeking a degree in any of colleges or university in Argentina is required to know how to dance the tango. The student's proficiency must be able to project into his mouth, and nose, and ears, ten feet without missing a shot. Students in America a lot of things for both their education and the instructor, might be eliminated if institutions of higher learning admitted only those students who do not smore in their sleep.

• • •

You can always tell a senior by her strut around the town.
You can always tell a junior by her foolish-looking frown.
You can always tell a sophomore
By her color, hair, and such.
You can always tell a freshman
But you cannot tell her much.

—Villanova.

Orlando Host To FEA Meet

Group Celebrates Golden Jubilee in Three-Day Semicentennial

Celebrating its golden jubilee the Florida Education Association met for its semicentennial program in Orlando on January 2-4. Among the educators present at the meeting were several representatives from the faculty Florida State College for Women headed by President Edward Conradi.

As a member of the board of directors of the association Dr. Nathaniel Moss Bailey, dean of the School of Education, took an active part in all the events of the convention. Besides serving as chairman of the committee on memorial scholarship, he addressed the conference on teacher training on "Laboratory School Facilities for Preparation of Teachers" and Friday was also the principal speaker at the annual Florida State College luncheon.

Other members of the faculty who attended the convention and took part in it are: Miss Martha Chapman and Mr. Kenneth Williams of the Demonstration school were active in the department of classroom teachers; Miss Bonnie Lucas, associate professor of English, who spoke to the same assembly on "Twenty-Five Fifty Years"; Dr. David H. Riggs, professor of education, who spoke on "Proposal for Reorganization of State and County School Administration System in Florida"; Dr. Lynn L. Raiya, professor of education, "Science Fiction"; Miss Florence Tyron, teacher at the Demonstration school, who was chairman of the committee on social studies.

Others going were Miss Mary Settle and Miss Katherine Hennessey, of the physical education department, took part in the conference on physical and health education; Miss Margaret Sanson, dean of home economics, who is counsellor of the conference on home economics; Dr. H. F. Beck, professor of geography, who spoke on "Some Applications of Geography to Contemporary Problems"; Miss Luella Richey, assistant professor of accounting, who spoke on "Objectives in Teaching Accounting"; Miss Dorothy Rose Disher, associate professor of psychology, who spoke on "F. W. Norwood Speaks—Its Contribution to the State."

Among the distinguished guests at the convention was Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, who spoke on "Arms and Profits." Mrs. Herberta Leonardy, Florida director of The Youth Administration, who was also present, delivered an address on "The Youth Movement Administration."

One of the most interesting features of the convention, according to Dean Bailey, was the series of commercial exhibits which were maintained by various large commercial firms in this and southern states.

FSCW Faculty Vacations All Over the Country

Continued from page one

cal Psychology of Parents." Miss Gladys Fawler, instructor in geography, also was a guest in St. Louis during the holidays and attended three conventions, the National Council of Geography Teachers, Association of American Geographers and American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Earl Lynn Vance, associate professor of English and journalism, was in Washington, D. C., where he attended the convention of the American Association of Journalism Teachers, taking part in a luncheon group. He is secretary-treasurer of the southeastern section of the national association.

Presiding over the meeting of the executive board of the Florida Chapter of the American Guild of Organists, at Tampa, was Miss Margaret Willsey Dow, associate professor of organ and theory. Miss Dow is dean of the state guild.

Miss Florence Bethea, assistant librarian in charge of periodical and binding, journeyed to South Carolina for the Christmas holidays where she visited at her home. Miss Rita Robertson, associate professor of voice, invaded Minnesota for a Christmas vacation with her family.

Family members of the demonstration school spent their vacations in various parts of the state and country. Miss Martha Chapman, W. W. T. Fletcher and Miss Florence Tyron, Kenneth Williams and Dr. R. B. Parsons attended the Florida Education association convention at Orlando. The Parsons also enjoyed a tour of South Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Williams spent Christmas with Mrs. Williams' parents in Ocala. Miss Kathleen Fletcher, librarian, visited her parents in Boston, Louisiana. Miss Elizabeth Hunt, of the language department, spent the Christmas holidays with her family in Elizabeth, South Dakota.

Approved Report of Budget Committee

Continued from page one

Envelopes, cards, invitations to Thanksgiving dinner	8.00
3. Decorations:		$ 18.00
Placecards, favor, for faculty dinners, Thanksgiving, etc.	5.00
4. Victrola records	10.00	15.00
4. Dances:
Thanksgiving—
Orchestra	75.00
Decorations	15.00
Printing	5.00
(minus)	20.00	60.00
Street carnival—
Orchestra	75.00
Decorations	10.00
Printing	3.00
(minus)	38.00	50.00
TOTAL EXPENDITURES		$ 196.00
C. O. A. BUDGET FOR DAY STUDENTS
Annual		$ 25.00
Correspondence		10.00
Convention—F. C. G., Miami		10.00
Social		7.75
TOTAL EXPENDITURES		$ 42.75
Income 171 students @ 25c		42.75
FLASTACOWO
INCOME
1. Fund to be raised by staff from:
Advertisements	$ 732.78
Classes—4 @ $50	200.00
Prizi—10 @ $30 plus Pachelbelnic	300.00
Honoraries	80.00
Organizations	1,285.00
Skit night	54.85
Photographs	3,824.95	$5,487.58
2. Fund from Student Activity Fee, Income 171 students @ $2.50		4,000.00
TOTAL INCOME		$9,487.58
EXPENDITURES
Engraving	$2,250.00
Photographing	2,000.00
Printing	4,833.00	$8,488.80
Two delegates to P. F. A. convention	90.00
Possible trip to Jacksonville to confer with engraver	7.00
National Scholastic Press Association—
Membership	5.50
Scholastic edition—one yr. subscription	2.50
Stamps and telephone calls	3.50
Railway Express Agency for annuals and cuts	5.00
Emergency fund	453.00
Spec. color printing	130.00
Additional paste and paper cutter and color boot store supplies	340.00	1,002.50
TOTAL EXPENDITURES		$9,487.58
DISTAFF EXPENDITURES
Printing (45 pages)		$1,018.00
Annual		15.00
Mail		8.00
Conventions		75.00
Correspondence		2.00
Distribution expense		30.00
Social		50.00
Emergency		256.00
TOTAL EXPENSES		$1,430.00
INCOME
Advertising		$ 300.00
Student Activity Fee, 1600 @ 70c		1,120.00
TOTAL INCOME		$1,430.00
FLAMBEAU EXPENSES
Printing		$3,400.00
Office production		400.00
Postage		80.00
Conventions		150.00
Dues		10.00
Club		100.00
Annual		13.00
Emergency		250.00
TOTAL EXPENSES		$4,400.00
INCOME
Advertisements		$1,990.00
Sale of production		10.00
Student Activity Fee, @ $1.50		2,400.00
TOTAL INCOME		$4,400.00
WOMAN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION
1. Sports		$ 500.00
2. Swimming		100.00
3. Carnival—dance program—		60.00
4. Play night—music and entertainment		30.00
5. Dues to national organizations
National Amateur Athletic Ass'n	$ 8.00
Units' State Field Hockey Ass'n	2.00
American Federation College Women	10.00
Tallahassee Board of Basketball	3.00	30.00
6. Publicity and publications:
Handbook	45.00
Annual	67.00
Physical Education Association Swimming
Physical Education Association, Swimming, Life Saving
Women's Athletic Ass'n Club Units' Service Committee work	60.00	100.00
7. Outing Club (chiefly transportation		100.00
8. Courts		150.00
9. Conventions
American Red Cross Life Saving		60.00
Athletic Fed. College Women		65.00
10. Repairs (sport equipment) (equipment older now)		100.00
11. Physical Education Association (such as field "days of play days sponsored)		65.00
12. Miscellaneous (stationery, etc.)	38.00
Emergency Fund		1,200.00
TOTAL		$1,300.00
INCOME
Student Activity Fee @ 80 for 1600		$1,300.00
FRESHMAN ASS EXPENDITURES
Annual		$ 15.00
Frolic		30.00
Club and miscellaneous		80.00
TOTAL		$ 130.00
INCOME
Student Activity Fee @ 80¢ for 1600		$ 130.00
SOPHOMORE CLASS EXPENDITURES
Torch Night:
Costumes	$ 3.7.
Cotton and kerosene	4.00
Programs	7.00	$ 14.75
May Day exercises:
Flowers	15.00
Costumes	10.00	25.00
Sophomore-Senior breakfast		40.00
Sophomore hop:
Decorations	30.00
Orchestra	40.00
Tickets	5.00	95.00
Miscellaneous gifts, etc.:
Dr. Conradi	5.00
Emergency		15.25
		25.00
TOTAL		$ 200.00
INCOME
Student Activity Fee @ 250 for 1600		$ 200.00
JUNIOR CLASS EXPENDITURES
Thanksgiving:		$ 5.00
Decorations		10.00
Favors for players		5.00
Candy for Events		$ 35.00

Femina Perfecta Admit They Have Had Moments of Fright

Members of Faculty Tell Of Experiences Which Scared Them

Have you ever been scared? As I chattered—terrified, I tripped scared? How would you feel if you heard queer noises under your bed in the middle of the night and were just too paralyzed to move? How would you like to have a fellow student have a fit right before your eyes? How would you like to be blown into the air by gun powder? How would you like to have any of the experiences these people have had?

Roommates in Broward hall were one night clamped to their beds in terror. Last lights had flashed and the dormitory was quiet (with only the proctor stirring).

Suddenly in the midst of the silence, they heard a noise that sounded as if some animal were scratching the boards on the floor directly beneath the beds. At first they were both startled; by the loudness of the sound and then so frightened they were unable to move to see what it was. Then the noise stopped. They waited tensely to hear it again. Surely enough, it came again with a scratching sound, faster and louder this time. At last one of them managed courages by the forelock and arose to see what it was. She turned on the light and looked under the bed. No wild beast met her eyes, only a stack of bridge cards. As she shook the bedcovers, the roar of the cards fell to the floor, and the mystery of the scratching noise solved, the girls went to sleep.

Fear grips members of the faculty as well as their students. So Raymond Bellamy has had his moments.

One time he spent the night in a lonely cabin in the mountains of Montana. Just as he was about to fall asleep, he heard a rumbling noise which seemed to come from the attic. He waited to discover the noise, but could find no way of reaching the loft. He remained all night shut up with the thing in the mysterious attic. In the morning he discovered that the noisemaker was a blue bottle fly.

Another time in the age of sixteen, Dr. Bellamy started out to shoot rabbits and climbed to the height of twelve thousand feet, reaching the frozen waters of Lake Rio Grande. He had followed a creek which flowed around the end of the mountain, and planned to return to camp by crossing over the mountain. When he started down he had only gone about a hundred yards when he came to a sheer cliff three hundred feet high. He had either to go over the cliff or back the long distance he had come.

Night was coming on and his only hope seemed to be to go over the cliff. He found it water course which had deepened the rocks on the steep course. He worked down this for a ways, sometimes lowering himself over a ledge and hanging till he found footing. He finally reached sound ground, tired. Later he learned that experienced mountaineers the year before had been unable to descend the cliff at the top.

Dr. William H. Rogers, professor of English was very frightened when, as a boy, he took some gunpowder from the place where his father kept it, carried it to a field some distance from the house, put it in a hole, set a fuse to it and withdrew to a safe distance.

After he had waited a while, he became impatient and went back to see what was the matter. Just as he leaned over the hole, the explosion came. He was blown into the air, and when he came down he found that his face black with powder and both eyes closed. The result was fear but was that his eyes would never open again. Three weeks later, however, his eyes were well and within a few years the scars from the powder had disappeared.

Miss Sarah F. Thomson, instructor in speech, said, "I'm the scariest person in the world, but I never have been really frightened." Miss Thomson related an interesting series of events that happened in one day and night.

She was at the time a sophomore and lived in Reynolds hall. The day was during exam week, and the first scare took place in her speech class. The girl who was just before her arose to recite, but, instead of reciting, she had a fit.

The rest of the day went along fairly well until light flash. Soon after lights had flashed, a knock came on her room and she opened it. A girl was standing there in

College Organist Will Give Recital

Miss Margaret Whitney Dow will give an organ recital in the college auditorium on Saturday, January 18, at 8:15 p. m.

The public is invited to attend. There will be no admission charged.

Odd Demonstration:
Costumes	40.00
Orchestra	30.00
Typing	5.00
Music	5.00
Cleaning	5.00
Scenery	10.00
Props	8.00
Janitors	2.00
Miscellaneous	10.00	138.00
Gifts and Favors		10.00
Annual		80.00
Emergency		37.00
TOTAL EXPENDITURES		$ 215.00
INCOME
Student Activity Fee @ 1345 for 1600		$ 215.00
SENIOR CLASS EXPENDITURES
1. Investiture	$ 50.00	$ 5.00
2. Thanksgiving		181.50
3. Junior-Senior from:
Orchestra	50.00
Decorations	50.00
Programs and invitations	50.00
Cups	75.00
Refreshments	35.00
Rental dishes	2.50
Miscellaneous	25.00	288.00
4. Annual		50.00
5. Senior Tree		6.00
6. Class Day		50.00
7. Class Gifts, etc.		30.00
8. Gifts		11.50
9. Miscellaneous		350.00
TOTAL		$ 892.00
INCOME
Student Activity Fee @ 2750 for 1600		$ 850.00
Sair prom tickets		250.00
TOTAL		$ 900.00

STATE THEATRE

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—JANUARY 10-11

"COLLEGIATE"

with

Joe Penner—Jack Oakie—Ned Sparks

SUNDAY AND MONDAY—JANUARY 12-13

"MAGNIFICENT OBSESSION"

with

Irene Dunne and Robert Taylor

TUESDAY—JANUARY 14

"SPLENDOR"

with

Miriam Hopkins

WEDNESDAY—JANUARY 15

MAJOR BOWES' AMATEURS

—ON THE SCREEN—

BETTE DAVIS in "DANGEROUS"

THURSDAY—JANUARY 16

"KING LADY"

with

Aline McMahon and Basil Rathbone

FSC SENDS TWO TO CONVENTION

Continued from page one

your campus interested in governmental activities?"

Round table discussions played an important part in the convention. Among the subjects discussed were campus forums, led by Mary Jeanne; student curriculum commissions, of which Margaret was a commissioner; discussions of national politics, and the honor system. These discussions were conducted by a chairman and everyone was invited to enter into open discussion of problems which resulted in the making of resolutions passed by the entire NSFA Congress.

"I believe that Studebaker's speech was the keynote of the entire convention," said Margaret Jordan, delegate. "He said that the convention, "It made the delegates realize the value of the NSFA and belong to the National Student Federation of America.

"I believe that the campus forums are the most vital part of a federation, and it seemed to be the general opinion that such forum on the campus to see just exactly what students think. Later he learned that experienced mountaineers the year before had been unable to descend the cliff at the top.

Dr. William H. Rogers, professor of English was very frightened when, as a boy, he took some gunpowder from the place where his father kept it, carried it to a field some distance from the house, put it in a hole, set a fuse to it and withdrew to a safe distance.

After he had waited a while, he became impatient and went back to see what was the matter. Just as he leaned over the hole, the explosion came. He was blown into the air, and when he came down he found that his face black with powder and both eyes closed. The result was fear but was that his eyes would never open again. Three weeks later, however, his eyes were well and within a few years the scars from the powder had disappeared.

Miss Sarah F. Thomson, instructor in speech, said, "I'm the scariest person in the world, but I never have been really frightened." Miss Thomson related an interesting series of events that happened in one day and night.

She was at the time a sophomore and lived in Reynolds hall. The day was during exam week, and the first scare took place in her speech class. The girl who was just before her arose to recite, but, instead of reciting, she had a fit.

The rest of the day went along fairly well until light flash. Soon after lights had flashed, a knock came on her room and she opened it. A girl was standing there in a long white nightgown. She had a peculiar look on her face. The girl asked her the way to Jennie Murphree, and informed what

In a little while she came back and informed the girls that finally the house chairman found the girl and discovered that she was sleepwalking. There was an infectious epidemic at the time and the infirmary was so crowded that beds had been set up in "Rec" hall for the extra cases. The girl had wandered from the room she was trying to go to her room in Jennie Murphree.

Miss Thomson and her roommate went to bed after this thought, order, law and everything turned out of the convention was student led and student made. I was surprised and pleased to find that college students could run and plan such a program.

"I enjoyed the round tables and the forums and derived a great deal from them. One of these is that our forum is the adequate answer for keeping a well informed student body and of keeping ourselves up to the standards of contemporary students.

"I was impressed with, the fact that the leaders among American students are concerned with today's political problems, and that with the great value of this organization of a large numbers of the United States and the contacts and ideas that can be gained from a convention of this sort—a convention of student leaders. The scope was ultimate. It is so impressive to think that we college people could do this by ourselves. There was friction, of course, and well based arguments that made it interesting. Yet it was well controlled and it seemed remarkable that youth could handle a convention of 250 students in such a manner."

Budget Committee Meets Treasurers

On Tuesday, January 14, at 7:30 p. m., treasurers and business managers of the college's government, day students' and athletic associations, of the Distaff, the Flambeau, and the Flatacowo, and of the social classes will meet in the C. O. A. office, according to Evelyn Kennard, chairman of the budget committee.

The purpose of the meeting is that these representatives may help the budget and auditing committee to inaugurate a uniform system of bookkeeping.

STATE THEATRE

Wed., January 15

FOUR SHOWS: 2 P. M., 5:15 P. M., 8:30 P. M., 10:15 P. M.

Matinee 60c

Night after 6 P. M. 75c

NOT A MOTION PICTURE

On the STAGE

MAJOR BOWES' Amateur HOUR on TOUR

IN PERSON

24 Artists

Superb Entertainment

You Must Not Miss!

On screen BETTE DAVIS in 'Dangerous'

Cotterill Goes To History Meet

National Assembly Held At Chattanooga

Dr. Robert Cotterill, professor of history, attended the national meeting of the American Historical association, which was held in Chattanooga, Tenn., December 27-30, 1935.

The convention, which was held in conjunction with the conventions of the Hispanic-American Historical association, the East Tennessee Historical association, and the Mississippi Valley Historical association, was attended by professors of history from all parts of the United States. There were particularly large delegations from California and Texas.

Papers dealing with all fields of history were read and studied by the delegates.

Martha Baker Awarded Commission Essay Prize

The five-dollar prize for the best essay on "What Freshman Commission Should Mean to this Campus" has been awarded to Martha Baker junior. The contest was sponsored by Freshman Commission which is headed by Hattie Borden, second president of the College Government association.

This contest was designed to give practical criticism and advice for future work to the commission from the campus as a whole, according to Pauline. The contest was open to all students except freshmen and present commission members. The essays submitted were judged by the present commission and the winning essay was chosen as the one which was of the most value to the commission in planning future program.

Headlines and Footnotes

Continued from page two

tion meeting of the Georgia Jewry to Palestine at the court of co-regionists in America and Great Britain. According to the resolutions laid down by the Reichstag German Jews may leave Germany if they liquidate their capital into German unfastened goods. The plan which follows is that American and British Jews will buy up this goods to give the emigrants a chance. There are some problems connected with the plan, however. Would other nations react in a beginning anti-Jewish programs follow suit and flood the world with German goods? If German Jewry can be helped, why not the Polish, etc.?

Weekend Specials

Slant fudge Sandwich with Potato Salad	10c
Chocolate Pie	5c
Pecan Pie	5c
Ginger Ale with Ice Cream	5c
Choc. Milk with Ice Cream	5c

WE DELIVER—PHONE 327

The Three Torches

Cultivate Your Springtime Personality!

Make the most of your appearance by flattering your style and your figure with our adorable SUITS, DRESSES, COATS for the approaching Spring season in lightweight woolens, linens, rayons and tubardines . . . voile, pastels, navy.

And we've finally planted low price tags on each model.

The Vogue

ADAMS' STUDIO

"Photographs that Please"

121 E. College Ave. Phone 397

Freshman Describes Experiences In Glamourous City of Hollywood

Meets Ken Maynard; Hold Twelvetrees' Shoes; Sees Others

At least one girl on campus has realized a desire which is cherished by almost every modern girl: to go to Hollywood, disdain city of the cinema.

This girl is Lovina Spalding, freshman. Two summers she and Lovina and her parents made a trip to California where they visited the United studios in Hollywood.

"When we were waiting in the casting office to be admitted to the studio," said Lovina, "Ken Maynard came out, dressed in a cowboy outfit. He was a friend of my father's and when daddy introduced me to him, that was my first thrill. I was so overcome I could hardly speak."

The interior of the studio, said Lovina, was like a little city with houses, country stores, shops, docks, churches, airplane hangars and almost everything you could think of.

"But there was something particular about all these buildings," added Lovina, laughing. "When I went around and looked in back of them, there wasn't anything there. It was the skyscrapers are props."

"We saw Chester Morris rehearsing a scene for "Kid Glove." It was very unusual—all he had to do was come in the door, mop his forehead with a handkerchief, and look at a dead man on the floor, but the director made him do it over nine times before he was satisfied.

When Helen Twelvetrees came on the set, she stood by me until her cue came, then she suddenly thrust a pair of shoes in my hand and said, "Please hold these." I was left standing with her shoes till the maid came and took them from me."

Slim Summerville and Andy Devine were making a comedy on a nearby set. Slim Summerville is just like he appears on the screen," Lovina said. "He has that sort of dumb expression on his face and big hands that he never know what to do with. He doesn't try to be funny. He's just natural."

"The funniest thing I saw in the studio," Lovina said, "happened in the shooting of a scene with Joan Blondell and Alan Mowbray. There was an airplane in this scene, and at the most dramatic moment the propeller fell off the plane and made a dreadful noise. The director was furious.

"I saw so many people with their 'bit' parts in pictures," continued Lovina. "I had seen them on the screen so many times that I almost spoke to them—I felt as though I knew them."

Lovina met Orrie Nelson, Harriet Hilliard, and Rudy Vallee. She said she saw Mae West at a boxing match and was surprised at the quietness and dignity of the star. She saw Polly Moran, Mary Brian, Leila Hyams, and many others.

"We had a glimpse of Harold Lloyd out in his back yard, penciling the kitchen chairs red, while we were driving through Beverly Hills," said Lovina. "The house out there are all built on hills. The higher the house, the more prestige its owner has."

The city of Hollywood is much larger than most people think, stated Lovina, and is simply over-run with beautiful girls. The drug store clerks, waitresses, and the others are all stunning. These are girls who have tried to get into pictures, and failed. There are a great many requirements for even an 'extra.' Among other questions on the application blank they ask if the girl can dance, swim, ride horseback, sing, play tennis, drive a car, play golf, and play any kind of musical instrument.

Appearance is still the most important thing, thought Lovina. "The main thing they look for is a complete set-up—hair and eyes—they want blonde hair and dark eyes, or dark hair and blue or grey eyes. Complexion is very important, too."

But the worst part of getting into the movies, Lovin. thinks, is the waiting part. "You must stand in front of you and suddenly tell you to cry," she said. "Everyone has to act your command to speak. Or he may say, 'Your face is very attractive and you aren't seen him for seven years! Register joy' and you have to smile."

Emperor Jones Plays Here on Artist Series

Continued from page one

came from an old circus man I knew. This man told me a story current in Haiti concerning the late president Sam. This was to the effect that Sam had said they'd never get him with a lead bullet; that he would get himself it with a silver one. This notion about the silver bullet stuck me, and I made a note of the story. About six months later I got the idea of the woods, but I couldn't see how it could be done on the stage, and I passed it up again. A year elapsed. One day in the theatre I saw the ghost feasts in the Congo and the uses to which the drum is put there; how it starts at a moment pulse and is slowly intensified until the heartbeat of everyone present corresponds to the frenated beat of the drum. There was an idea and an experiment! How would the effect of thing work on audience in a theatre? The effect of the tropical forest on the human imagination was instantly come by. It was the result of my own experience while prospecting for gold in Spanish Honduras."

The Hedgerow company has been associated with the O'Neill production since its early beginnings, and much of its fame has developed through the artistry of Jasper Deeter, director, Actor Audrey Sedwick, editor of "stage Manuscript" calls the Hedgerow's "Jones," "a study for a great actor. Watch that easy bombast, that ruthless, magnetic personality, that bravery and greed splitter slowly and then the tom-tom's merciless crescendo. Watch Deeter's subtly malignant Smithers, and then watch the lighting of the spectre scenes."

Four Offices Move From Ad Building This Week

Offices which have been moved from the north wing of the Administration building have been new locations in the History building, as follows: the registrar's office, rooms 107 and 108; the business office, 205 and 206; the dean of women, 207; assistant secretaries 215 and 216; and the modern language department, office room 106.

Sports Editor Appointed

Martha Mathewson, a junior has been appointed to the position of sports editor of the Flaflocoma, according to a recent announcement by Edith Webb, editor-in-chief. Miss Webb will serve only on the book second semester. Margaret Thompson, copy reader, will also have the work at that time.

The work on organizing the book's annual number was begun today, and plans for strenuous work on it after the semester have been made.

Jasper Deeter, founder and director of the Hedgerow Theatre, with pipe, the role of Smithers in "Emperor Jones," which the organization Monday night in the college auditorium as one of the Artist Series attractions. The versatile actor, originally a painting enthusiast, is conceded to be one of America's most experienced actor-directors and a rare teacher of the theatre.

Florida State Kitchens Are Among Most Modern of Campus Equipment

Ice Cream Room Probably Has Greatest Appeal For Non-Dieting College Femmes; Cauldrons Suggest Giant Culinary Region

By FRANCES HARTLEY

It would not be strictly fair, perhaps, to say that the kitchens at Florida State College are the most modern thing on campus, but it is certainly true that their complete electrical equipment and up-to-date devices make them the latest thing of their kind.

The kitchens are made up of the upper main kitchen, which extends beyond the main dining hall, and the lower kitchens and pantries, which are located under the main kitchen and the south half of the dining hall.

The main kitchen is an immense, light, airy room, divided into compartments for the preparation of different foods. To the left as one enters from the dining hall is the section for fruits and salads, separated from the rest of the room by a long counter. Here are the machines to shred, chop or slice vegetables or fruits, and the mixers to make salad dressings and mayonnaise. Against the east wall is a huge electric refrigerator, equipped to hold 2000 individual salads.

Further on in the section for special diets, where the trays are made up for the 47 students on special diets, and where the dietitian for these students has her office.

Beyond this one enters what seems to be the culinary region of a family of giants. Huge freezing pans two feet in diameter, tengallon saucepans and twenty-gallon pots, are hooked on racks hung from the rafters to keep them out of the way. Electric ranges twenty-feet long cook the meats and vegetables.

Six huge sixty-gallon cauldrons, standing in double rows, give rise to an impish thought of what a nice Christmas present they would make for some cannibal chief who prefers his visitors boiled in oil. In these are prepared the oatmeal, soups, boiled hams, and other foods cooked by steam.

Standing in the middle of the room are the gigantic urns for coffee and cocoa, one holding sixty gallons and the other forty. In the next-to-last corner of the kitchen is the dish-washing department. Here are washed, daily, at least 15,000 pieces of china, 4,500 pieces of glassware, and 14,500 pieces of silverware. The dishes are placed on a rack and run through a machine which sprays them with jets of scalding water from above and below. Then they are subjected to a steam bath just before they emerge. Automatic as well as the cold air hits them, and are ready to be stacked. The steam, by the way, causes the lively clattering noise that is heard in the kitchen and dining hall for two or three hours after each meal.

At the very back of the kitchen is a mysterious device. Two ropes hang from the ceiling in front of an electric clock on the wall. These ropes, when pulled, ring the bell that swings above the roof of the kitchen and that calls the Florida State student to meals. A small negro lad rings the bell four times daily.

At the front of the main kitchen, to the right is the staircase that leads down to the lower regions. There are the baking ovens, the bone machine room, cold-storage rooms, and the pantries. In the baking room are baked all the pastries served at the pantry consumed in the dining hall. At least one hundred loaves of bread are baked each day, and when biscuits are on the menu the number is doubled.

The bone machine room, according to the dietitian for these students has her office.

Beyond this one enters what seems to be the culinary region of a family of giants. Huge freezing pans two feet in diameter, ten-gallon saucepans and twenty-gallon pots, are hooked on racks hung from the rafters to keep them out of the way. Electric ranges twenty-feet long cook the meats and vegetables.

Six huge sixty-gallon cauldrons, standing in double rows, give rise to an impish thought of what a nice Christmas present they would make for some cannibal chief who prefers his visitors boiled in oil. In these are prepared the oatmeal, soups, boiled hams, and other foods cooked by steam.

Standing in the middle of the room are the gigantic urns for

W. W. PUTMAN

ANNOUNCES

the removal of his jewelry and watch shop to 209 S. Monroe St.

Opposite Wilson's

The Gift Shop
Mrs. Fitzgerald has moved from the Lewis Bank Building to the corner of College and Adams

DIRECTOR OF HEDGEROW PLAYERS

Schedule Card Must Be Made

Doyle Tells Students Of Registration For Next Semester

Simeon R. Doyle, college registrar, has announced that his office will be ready to make up second semester schedules beginning Monday, January 13.

In releasing this information Mr. Doyle asked that students follow very closely the following instructions:

"1. If a change is made from one course to another, you must have a written permission from your dean.

"2. If you change from one school to another, you must have a written permission from the dean of the school you are leaving and a written permission from the dean of the school you are entering.

"3. If your schedule is exactly as it was the first semester, you need not report to your dean, but you must come to this office and fill out your schedule for the second semester.

"4. If the change is a natural one, such as from botany 101 to zoology 101 or from history 102a to French 202a, etc., you need not report to your dean but you must come to this office to fill out your schedule for the second semester."

Students are asked to report as soon as possible and to note that the registrar's office is now located in the library building.

AAUW Offers First Of Series of Convocation Addresses on Tuesday

Mrs. Fay MacCracken Stockwell, the first of the convocation addresses sponsored by the local branch of the A. A. U. W., will address the student body Tuesday morning at 11:30 in addition to Euthenics."

Mrs. Stockwell, field secretary of the Institute of Euthenics at Vassar college, will e plan Vassar's experiment in Euthenics, a course given to persons interested in the problems of the family in a changing society.

During her stay here Mrs. Stockwell will be a guest of the college.

Tallahassee Guild Has Christmas Celebration

The Tallahassee branch of the American Guild of Organists had Christmas party Tuesday, December 31, at Rugg hall.

Dr Annie Marie Therese Popper told of Christmas customs in Germany. Dean Ella Scobie Opperman, spoke on the French customs and Miss Marchetta spoke of Christmas in Italy.

A group from the college sive carols. Miss Marchetta's address followed by "The Song of the Chimes" sung by Mrs. Carroll, and "No Candle Was There and No Fire" by Lola Bowen. Many favorite Christmas carols were sung by the entire group, assisted by a piano, string quartet. Later in the evening refreshments were served.

Phone 800 — Phone 800

Soda Luncheonette Specials

Saturday and Sunday Luncheon

35c

Baked Young Turkey and Dressing, Cranberry Sauce
Western Tenderloin Steak—Country Style
Sliced Pineapple and Grated Cheese, Salad
Fancy Buttered Peas, Creamed Whipped Potatoes
Bran Muffins, Short Cake with Chocolate Fudge, Dessert

Hot Sliced Turkey Sandwich, Potato Chips, and Fresh Strawberry Short Cake, Special 35c

Minced Ham and American Cheese Combination Sandwich, Potato Chips, and small Chocolate Milk with Ice Cream 20c

Collegiate Special 10c — Fresh Fruit Banana Split 15c — Hot Caramel Jumbo Soda 10c

Students Asked To Take Hearing Test

All students who have not taken the auditorium test are asked to report to Miss Usher or Miss Dickson in the Personnel Office Friday afternoon, January 10, to make an immediate appointment, according to Elisabeth G. Andrews, director of personnel.

Students will note that the test will not be given after Saturday morning, at 11:30.

Five Injured in Auto Accident En Route To Homes for Vacation

Five Florida State college girls, who were returning home for the Christmas holidays, were seriously injured when their car overturned near Perry, Florida, Friday afternoon, December 20.

Three of the girls, Jo Belle Taylor, Agnes Reedy, and Elisabeth Beckford were taken back to Tallahassee to the college infirmary but Alyene Gilbert and Virginia Bridges were taken to Perry.

Jo Belle Taylor from Tampa suffered a fractured skull and Dr. Hugh Dr. L. Lgerly, brain specialist of Tallahassee, was called in on the case to operate. she died early Sunday morning.

Elisabeth Beckford and Virginia Bridges are expected to be back in school Monday. Alyene Clayton will probably return in about a month.

NSFA Forum to Discuss The Olympics Question

"Should the United States Enter the 1936 Olympics?" will be the topic for discussion at the next open forum sponsored by the college branch of the National Student Federation of America. This meeting will be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 in 203 Administration building.

At the present time, according to Mary Jeanne McKay, chairman of NSFA, there is sentiment to be quite a controversial subject owing to the fact that German participation in the Olympics is contrary to all Olympic Ideals.

AAUW Meeting Features Group of One-Act Plays

The regular monthly meeting of the American Association of University Women will take place Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Augusta Conradi theater.

The program on the evening will consist of a group of one-act plays directed by Miss Kemper Martin Moore, professor of speech. All members of the faculty and administrative staff are extended a special invitation to be guests at this meeting.

Contemporary Students

Continued from page two

Gauss estimated a 9,000,000, united and demanded action, such problems as crime political corruption, and unemployment could be more easily solved.

Individuals, some alumni may be interested in reform, but as a group they have accomplishnothing. It is time college adustes who are struggling to establish world peace." Although no higher education v orthy of the name can exist, for instance, if freedom of inquiry is threatened," Dean Gauss writes, "yet college graduates as such must no protest during the Scopes trial."

Of course these accusations can always be answered by a shrug of the shoulders, implying that they may apply to other universities, but not to our own. However, if uh shoe fits, put it on.

—Michigan Daily

COTILLION CLUB AND VILLAGE VAMPS TO BE GIVEN DANCE TOMORROW NIGHT

Members and pledges of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority will enjoy informal dancing in the sorority house tomorrow night from 8 to 11:30 o'clock with specially invited guests being the members of the Village Vamps and the Cotillion club.

The spacious lower floor of the house will be decorated with seasonal flowers and arrangements of white roses and white Japonicas carrying out the color scheme of dark and white, the colors of the guest clubs.

Dancing will be enjoyed during the evening while punch and cokies are served. The punch bowl centers a hole in the dining room which will be overlaid with a lace tablecloth. At each end of the table lighted black and white tapers will be placed further carrying out the black and white motif.

About 75 young men have been invited to enjoy this affair.

Members of the Cotillion club who will attend are Jane Crook, Jere Crook, Nell Robey Webb, Anne Mizell, Jane Tharin, Helen Miller, Sue Whitaker, Lilla Patterson, Ethlyn Mae Edwards, Nina Kirkland, Virginia Peyton, Dorothy Watson, Sally Wall, Polly Asher, Eva Powles, Elise Richards, Mary Telmer, Helen Mead, June Maule, Charlotte Stevens, Mae Emmelhainz, Martha Hoses, Edith Ayers, Jean Matthews, Mary Frances Hanson, Helen Hall, Katherine Rogers, Dorothy Barr, Amelia Hale Lockwood, Virginia Grace Faircloth, Augusta Tyre, Dorothy Olmstead, Sarah Mae Davis, and June Michel.

Members of the Village Vamps include Peggy Mitchell, Peggy

Sorority to Entertain Informally Sunday For Friends

Friends of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority will be entertained informally with a tea in the sorority house on Park avenue Sunday afternoon from 4:30 to 6 o'clock.

Seasonal flowers will be arranged with greenery to decorate the lower floor of the house. During the afternoon the members and pledges will serve tea and cookies to their guests and a musical hour will be enjoyed.

Hostesses at this time will include Bruce Jamison Burdick, Betty Brooks, Beverly Brown, Elisabeth Carter, Helen Cox, Cheney Roberts Diamond, Mary Katherine Brennan, Lorena Hall, Patricia Foster Lurline Goodman, Margaret Graham, Rosemary Gooch, Mollie Holden, Mary Harriette Lawrence, Dorothy Lee Mangum, Sarah Mae Margaret Murray, Lillian Schuler, Mildred Seeking, Sarah Sessions, Marie Spurlin, Elizabeth Stone, Bertha Vitch, Martha Wollison, Edna Bufkin, Dorothy Cannon, Dorothy Crews, Betty Hall, Anita Leonard, Marie Mann, Ruth Reddoc, Lillian Tolliver, Virginia Tolliaferi, Jane Cpss, Mary Connely Walls, and Frank Williams.

Chemical Society Holds Committee Meeting Here To Make Financial Plan

A special committee of the Florida section of the American Chemical society met here during the holidays to work out the plan for use of the initiation fees of the band. The committee was composed of Dr. Alvin P. Black of the University of Florida, who acted as chairman, Dr. John Ferguson of Stetson University and Dr. Leland J. Lewis, professor of chemistry of Florida State College.

The committee agreed on the plan of adding funds for student membership in the American Chemical society, which would in turn be used to encourage students to take up work in this society.

"This project may not be a much importance to the student of Florida State College," said Dr. Lewis, "for most of them will be forced to pay their own membership fee. But it is of a good deal of importance to men in the University of Florida who are working in chemistry and carried forward the expense of membership

Shoe Sale

With every pair of shoes purchased at the sale prices of $1.99, $2.99 or $3.99 you can buy another pair for

77c

If you can't use two pairs, bring a friend. These shoes are from our regular stock.

QUALITY SHOE SHOPPE
College Ave. Near State Theatre

Be Wise! Buy Now

You Save With Safety In This Clearance

Values to $6.00 $1.95

PUMPS STRAPS TIES OXFORDS

U. S. Keds— Gym Shoes 69c

LINDEN'S FASHION SHOPPE

Let Intelligent Study Not Blue Dresses Be Your Examination Charm

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Attend Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra Concert Here January 29

VOLUME XXIII. Tallahassee, Florida, January 17, 1936 NUMBER FIFTEEN

Textiles to be Displayed as Artist Series

American Federation Of Arts Shows Coptic, Peruvian Cloths

VARIETY IN HUE, DESIGN, WEAVE

Exhibits Similarities And Contrasts Between Two Diverse Cultures

An Artist Series exhibition of Coptic and Peruvian textiles will be shown in room 114, Education building from 9 o'clock to 5 each day, beginning this Friday, January 17, and lasting through January 24, according to Miss Emily Wilburn, assistant professor of Industrial Arts. The exhibition from the Textile Museum of the District of Columbia is circulated by the American Federation of Arts, an organization for the cultivation of the arts.

The origin of the Egyptian pieces can be traced about the fourth to seventh centuries A. D. while the origin of the Peruvian pieces is placed between the first and twelfth centuries. Precise dating of specific examples is not possible in most instances because the local forms are well known.

Tapestry Technique Developed

The tapestry technique was quite developed at approximately the same time in history in those far separated regions. Though the subjects of the designs or patterns are different, and are treated in a regional, their superficial effects are so much alike that many pieces would be difficult to distinguish were known of their origin.

Four decorated Coca Leaf bags are included in this exhibition. Such a bag being part of every Peruvian costume. On these bags may be embroidered their "private skill, but used every subtle technique of weaving.

Other pieces of interest are a piece of cloth lace, worn by dancers at fairs, and said to have been near the "Temple of the Sun." An ornamental headband, said to carry a burden or pack mounted from the forehead, and a piece of an ornamental tunic.

Design Weaving Compared

Fragments of tapestry, described, and illustrated in the fabric make up the rest of the exhibit. Color charts and illustrations are for the most part fragments of wool tapestry.

The decorative weaving from figures to geometric and conventionalized designs. A number of methods of weaving are adapted to the design, and some adapted to the type of the fabric which is produced.

The materials are wool and cotton. The Egyptian materials are from sheep, Peruvian from Vicuna, and llama. The cotton is from Egypt and Peru are very similar.

The thirty pieces of this collection show the similarities and contrasts between these fabrics far separated geographically and culturally. They also show the variety of weave, design, and color.

Continued on page two

U. S. Hockey Team To Exhibit Here

Players Chosen from Over Country Tour South

The United States field hockey team will visit Florida State College for exhibition games with the boys of the south. The team is made up of women players selected from outstanding teams all over this country and the tour is being sponsored by the United States Field Hockey association.

To help promote interest in field hockey in the south where the sport is regarded as comparatively new Dr. Joy Sheer of the field hockey was first introduced at Florida State around 1910. Miss Sheer, Florida State graduate is the only college in Florida which has played hockey and which will visit. The group will go from here to Mississippi.

The visitors will coach the players here and play an exhibition game to which the public is invited. Fourteen young women, including the manager, will be in the party.

Arrangements to bring this team here are being made by the women's athletic association of which Rose Panowski is president.

Personnel Office Requests Pictures

Application pictures, which were due in the Personnel office this week, should be brought in not later than January 25, according to Elizabeth G. Andrews, director.

Students who have not yet filled their placement cards (registration and pledge cards) are asked to do so immediately.

Acheivements Shown In Talk

CGA President Discusses Organization's Work For Past Year

In a recent talk to this year's Freshman Commission Katherine Blood, president of the college government association, summed up the achievements of the past year of that body. Throughout her talk she stressed the point that the work being done by the present college government association is in the form of a foundation for future years in the organization.

Discussing the work of the executive council...the president pointed out that the council was able to deal with various phases of activity including participation in N.S.F.A. meetings...the selection with the approval of the dean of students, of students who were sent in as candidates for the collegiate Who's Who meetings with the dean on the subject of the problems concerning legislature, and the consideration of the question of budget.

Explaining the work of senate Katherine Blood told of that body's work in the manipulation of legislation, revising, and alternating. She also mentioned several changes that had been made in the standing committees, the budget committee, and the freshman advisory council. This year, she said, was the most important work of the senate has been in the study of campus problems," said the president as she told of the senate's discussion of the election of N.S.F.A. delegates dining room conduct, continuation of membership in national or district organizations, and the raising of money for sending delegates to the national youth movement convention.

She also told of two of the problems that senate dealt with, namely: the elimination of third topics, and suggestions for the national youth administration in this state.

Summing up the work of the president's council the president mentioned the work of that body in the planning of a college calendar with no conflicting activities and their study of campus organizations with the view to doing away with the accurate recording of a registered student.

In speaking of the work of Jo-

Continued on page three

Exams Change Intellectuals Into Staunch "Hoo-doo-ers"

Despite a Strict Study Ritual Students Rely On Potent Hues of Blue, Charms, Rings, And Twice-Told Data

From the preparations for examinations which any observer might note in the corridors of our campus, one might gather that the college girl were in the grip of a superstition. Heaven helps those who help themselves. But no. At this more than any other time in her college career does the coed indulge in her favorite superstitions. Only her roommate's notebook or Shakespeare, or her sorority sister's last lecture on modern history or her next-door neighbor's account of the last time she got enough for her in her time of stress.

Getting ready to study for the exam entails more worry and trouble than studying for the exams, itself, a slow and often tedious grind. First, the psychology student. For a passing grade in a course must take a shower and put on her best pair of pajamas and this to assure herself that she means to remain in her own room. Then comes the weighty question of a study aim. There's just the possibility that black might call to say he's sorry for hurting his feelings last night. Too, Jane may have gotten a letter from home, and even a crammer likes to know who's coming and who's not, forced, or involved in her home affairs.

After deciding not to put up the study aim, she slumps into the chair, pulls out pencil and notebook, and begins the ordeal of cramming. The Coca-Cola bottle is next. She has to get up to adjust the light, which was nothing in the first place, caused again, she murmurs intently, "Crossing the Blue River . . ." and is up again to get a drink. At the fountain she meets Jane who is breathless with excitement, rages that Bob, who rushed her all last summer, has not called or even sent her that ugly little snapshood girl who works in the bank. Study hall-flash interrupts Jane. Back to her room. And so the evening wears on.

Superstitions are not uncommon in college society. Every girl has her own particular secret of making a passing grade. It is a good one, on exams. A touch of blue on one's outfit is good, or better still a blue charm. Every school has campus without this shade on their clothes will often admit that appearances are many times deceiving: that the color, though not in evidence, is worn, thank you. Charms are ever-present, too. Pink elephants, gold monkeys, and even a crammer like so many who've come before are reported to be guarantees of good grades, according to their owners.

Continued on page three

Second Issue Of Distaff to Come Out Soon

Several Contributors To Make Their Debut At This Time

ARTICLES DEAL WITH THE TIMES

Editor Announces Display Of Exchanges From Other Schools

The Distaff, which will be published the last of this month, promises to be one of the best issues so far this year, according to Sara Kreutzmann, editor. Many contributors, several from the sophomore class will make their Distaff debut this time.

Articles on issues of current interest include "Liberty At the Stake" by Gertrude Kuhn, which is a discussion of the live issue of the day concerning or dictatorship. Clotilde O'Rourke gives her views on "The Collegiate Woman and Marriage," the title of which is self-explanatory. Althea Smith's "Plenty-Panic-Panaces" discusses the trend of modern college youth. Dr. Margaret Evans Pound writes "Trees" gives us some more of her liberating nature studies.

The stories chosen are Nellie Lamar's "Havana Bound." Catherine Bryan's "Mrs. Wall" and Ermine Lawrence's "The Adventures of Jimmie Lee."

The poetry is written by Maxis McMillan, Nac O'Shaughnessy, and Sara Kreutzmann.

In the "All Wool" section, we find "Purchase Price" by Ethel Evelyn Fisher, and "My First Tragedy" by Edna Earle Hobbs.

The book section has charge of Frances Porth and deal in the form of reviews, biography and the novel and poetry. Mary Poore's Childhood and Ellen Glasgow Pauline Paine, is reviewed by Grace Mary Webster. The Vein of Iron, by Ellen Glasgow, by Margaret Claire Lafferty, Clotilde O'Rourke reviews Dorothy Aiken's Landscape West of Eden, written by Clark Foreman and Michael Gold's Jews Without Money. Mary Poore's Childhood of Ellen Glasgow is reviewed by Elise Davis and Ken of Tarnawa, autographed by reading authorities, by Hazel Bowman.

The art work is by Martha Makemson and Grace Whitaker. Martha has drawn several things Plastacovo while Grace contributes a pen-and-ink sketch for the Book Review section and the sketches for "All Wool."

It was announced that a display of magazines from other schools is posted on the Distaff bulletin board near the college bookstore. Among these magazines are The Florida Review from the University of Florida, Florida Sketch from Williams college of Williamsburg, Massachusetts.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA CONDUCTOR

Eugene Ormandy, who has become an American sensation in three short years, will direct the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra in its concert here January 29. Ormandy is already well-known here, not only from audiences encountered on his tours but also from numerous radio fans.

Ransom Notes Tell of FSCW Kidnap Case

Snatch Racket Invades Campus as Jo Bunny Leaves Home

How many students at F. S. C. W. know that a kidnaping drama is in process on their own campus? Jo Bunny, who, under normal circumstances, resides in 517 Gilchrist, disappeared on the Thursday before Christmas by some brutal ruffian who left an unmouth note telling Jo's mother to be sure cash and to watch for further notes.

The following day, another note, coarsely around the edges and smeared with blood, was left attached to a study sign on the door of 517. In the note the ruffian opinion of those familiar with the case that Jo's mother was in the route giving vent to her grief over the disappearance of her son. The note was written in Jo's own childish scrawl.

Bunny was usually kept under close observation, for he was being raised psychologically and the fact that he was allowed to roam about the room—alone—did not make a pleasant one. In fact, it leads some to believe that it was all an inside job.

The detectives seem to think that Bunny's mother could talk if she would but she is in such a state of collapse that her doctors will not allow her to be questioned.

It is reported that several suspicious looking characters were seen loitering in the corridors on the day the crime was committed and detectives are trying to check up on these persons.

At the time of his disappearance, Jo was wearing his grey fur coat with a red and green collar around his neck. His mother is an Even.)

Many people concerned seem to think that this kidnaping is the culmination of a plot which has been simmering for some months. And there is also a great deal of variance of opinion as to the motive or motives of the kidnapers.

There are those who believe that it was done for purely mercenary purposes but on the other hand, there are those who believe that the act was motivated by jealousy. Jo's mother is a prominent journalist and it is believed that she may have had brilliant offspring kidnaped Jo, in an attempt to crush his mother's brilliant, dazzling career.

Guest Room Redecorated

The guest room in Jennie Murphree has been redecorated with new furniture. The style of the furniture is early American and is complete with the curtains, floors, and walls.

Fifteen Named For Who's Who

Compilation Lists Those Having Outstanding College Records

Fifteen girls, nominated by the student executive council and approved by Dean Dorman, have been chosen by the University of Alabama for the 1936 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges which is expected to be out late in the part of February. Only juniors and seniors are selected for the book. The girls who have been chosen from F. S. C. W. are Marzaret Graham, Minna Lee Marcus, Jo Anderson, Sara Kreutzman, Mary Etta Thiesenhusen, Katherine Blood, Edith Webb, Ruth Persons, Dorothy Leach, Lucy Gee Lips, Mary Miller, Mary Jeanne McKay, Josephine Binion, Martha Makemson, Jane Bostick.

The University of Alabama over two years ago conceived this plan of publishing annually a compilation of biographies of the outstanding students of America. A candidate for inclusion in Who's Who is judged by his character, scholarship, leadership in high standard of politics, athletics, and other forms of extra-curricular activities, and the possibility of future usefulness to business and society.

The purpose of Who's Who is fourfold: an incentive for students to set the most out of their courses as a means of compensation to students for what they have already done; a recommendation to the business and social world; and as a standard of measurement for membership comparable to such agencies as Phi Beta Kappa and the Rhodes Scholarship Award.

Recent Survey Reveals Methodist Church First In Student Membership

Twenty-eight per cent of the student body of Florida State College, a total of 467 students, are members of the Methodist church, which places this denomination first in religious preference on the campus, according to a recent survey made.

Nineteen church groups are presented by the 1,679 students on campus. Other preferences, in order, are: Baptists, 237; Presbyterians, 228; Episcopalians, 227; Catholic, 96; Jewish, 49; Christian Science, 35; First Christian, 34; Congregational, 19; Church of Christ, 4; Lutheran, 3; Advent Christian, 3; Mormon, 1; Community, 1; Primitive Baptist, 1; Assembly of God, 1; Unitarian, 1; Nazarene, 1; Protestant, 1; Holiness, 1; students not stating church preference, 78.

Vassar Courses In Euthentics Explained Here

Mrs. Stockwell Describes Unique Institute Held During Summer

COURSES GIVEN DURING SUMMER

Local AAUW Presents First of Speakers In Series

Mrs. Frederick MacCracken Stockwell, field secretary of the Institute of Euthenics at Vassar college, spoke on the subject, "A Convert to Euthenics," at conversation Tuesday. Mrs. Stockwell was introduced by Dr. Annie Forbes Liddell, president of the local branch of the American Association of University Women on which sponsored the talk.

Mrs. Stockwell, a Bryn Mawr graduate and a sister of Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, president of Vassar college, said that the academic term known as euthenics was originally interpreted in forty different colleges. Vassar interpreted the term as being "the betterment of life through the application of arts and sciences." It is the attempts of an educational institutions to help people to live satisfactorily by means of knowledge, according to this definition.

Begins as Summer Course

The institute had its origin in 1924 as a summer course for those individuals interested in the problems of the home. It is, explained, "that the young people meet for their best—and their good times."

Control Board Makes Changes

Florida Graduate Added To Teach Economics And Accounting

Several changes have been made in the membership of the college faculty, according to a report issued by the Board of Control at its meeting last week.

W. R. Joubert of Tampa has been appointed to the accounting and economics faculty as an instructor. He succeeds Miss Ruth Hendricks who resigned at the conclusion of the second semester. Mr. Joubert received his B. S. and M. A. degrees from the University of Florida and has been a member of the faculty of the University of Tampa.

The board has also announced that Miss Katherine Montgomery, director of physical education, will take a leave of absence during the second term. Miss Montgomery, a graduate of Florida and Ph.D. degree at New York university during this term but will return for the summer session of session here.

Miss Mary Bettie, instructor in physical education, will be acting head of the physical education department during Miss Montgomery's absence. In addition Miss Elizabeth Kinsey and Miss Mary Fox, both assistant instructors in physical education, will hold full-time teaching positions.

Another appointment sent made known was that of Miss Josephine Stevens, Miami, a graduate of the college last year, to the faculty of the university of middence halls. Miss Stevens fills the vacancy left by Miss Ruth Hendricks and Miss Margaret Brinson, who has accepted the position of secretary to Senator W. C. Hodges.

President of Peabody Visited Campus Monday

Dr. Bruce Payne, president of Peabody college, Nashville, Tenn., drove to the campus Monday in a Florida State campus Monday. Dr. Payne with Mrs. Payne is making a tour of Florida.

Dr. Payne was the guest of Dean Nathaniel Dabney of the school of education at breakfast in the college dining room. The visitor was escorted by Miss Anna May Tracy, college dietitian, through the kitchen. He was taken through the college dairy by J. G. Kellum, college business manager, and visited the college library here. The preceding night Dr. Payne addressed the Tallahassee and townspeople went to the Floridan hotel to greet the educator.

Anny Rutz Tells Of Universities In Deutschland

"American women are much better looking than they men," announced Miss Anny Ruta Turnley. "An American friend of mine has said that our women always dresses for other women; the European dresses for her man."

Miss Ruta's voice was soft and guttural, a little of an English accent mixed with the German. "I hope that I do speak English and not American," she continued.

"I learned to speak English during an eleven-month stay in England, and since my arrival in this country in October I have had much trouble with American slang."

"Oh! My Heavens," was Miss Rutz' next remark, "and that, she said, "was one slang expression she had picked up."

In speaking of the courses which she is taking at Rollins college she spoke of her difficulty in learning French from an English textbook.

Miss Ruta expressed her early desire to study in medicine. "It was only," she stated, "because I was needed in the office of my father that I did not attend the medical school.

"But, of course, women are allowed in the German universities," she smiled in reply to our question. "We have about the opposite of man woman. ". . . If they make good grades on the entrance examinations. In the general public as a former child violin prodigy. Making his debut at fourteen as such a young age that he had to take a one-eighth size instrument, he has won the approval of the critics for a space of thirty years. He was a soloist and a conductor of musicians.

The assistant conductor of the orchestra are found, besides Mr. Ormandy, such musicians as Harold Ayres, concertmaster; George Grisez, clarinetist, Frank Miller, bassoonist; O. Ben Stad, trombonist; Glenn R. Cooke, tuba player and director of promotional; James Stamp, trumpet player; Alexander Pfeil, violinist; Frank Kuchynka, bass player, and Henry J. Williams, harpist.

Paul Lemay, head of the percussion section, is the oldest member of the orchestra, having played in every concert since its organization.

Some of the younger musicians and newcomers to the organization are Peter Pan, twenty-one-year-old first horn player; Emil Opava, twenty-year-old first flutist; William Santucci, first bassoonist; and Sidney Halpern, English horn player.

Orchestra To Play Here On January 29

Personnel of Eighty-Six Includes Musicians Of Great Note

LAUDED BY CHIEF MUSICAL CRITICS

Ormandy, Former Child Violin Prodigy, Is Conductor

The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra under the direction of Eugene Ormandy renowned conductor and violinist, will appear in a concert here in the college auditorium on January 29 under the auspices of the Artists' Series committee.

Recognized, according to leading musical critics, as one of the four or five outstanding organizations of kind, the orchestra makes its second appearance here and, incidentally, brings with it a reputation gained through thirty-one years of existence as a major contributor to the history of musical effort in America.

Former Child Prodigy

The conductor, Ormandy, although well-known for his work with the orchestra, is perhaps better known to the general public as a former child violin prodigy. Making his debut at fourteen as such a young age that he had to take a one-eighth size instrument, he has won the approval of the critics for a space of thirty years. He was a soloist and a conductor of musicians.

The assistant conductor of the orchestra are found, besides Mr. Ormandy, such musicians as Harold Ayres, concertmaster; George Grisez, clarinetist, Frank Miller, bassoonist; O. Ben Stad, trombonist; Glenn R. Cooke, tuba player and director of promotional; James Stamp, trumpet player; Alexander Pfeil, violinist; Frank Kuchynka, bass player, and Henry J. Williams, harpist.

Paul Lemay, head of the percussion section, is the oldest member of the orchestra, having played in every concert since its organization.

Some of the younger musicians and newcomers to the organization are Peter Pan, twenty-one-year-old first horn player; Emil Opava, twenty-year-old first flutist; William Santucci, first bassoonist; and Sidney Halpern, English horn player.

Catholic Clubs To Confer Here

Southeast Province Group Meets Here February

Committee appointments were made and plans for the southeast province conference of the Colleges Catholic clubs, which will be held here February 21-23, were discussed at the meeting of the Newman club last Sunday evening.

Mary Lasseter, vice president of the local club, is chairman of the conference committee. Delegates to the conference are expected from the University of Florida, University of Georgia, Georgia Tech, University of Miami, Spring Hill college and the City College of Charleston.

Grace Mary Webster, president of the local club, is general chairman of the convention program. Committee appointed for the following chairmen of committees: Publicity and registration: Margaret Claire Lafferty, publicity, Rita Gillespie and Ruth Reekin, hospitality; arrangements; and Nan O'Shaughnessy, dates.

Registration of delegates to the conference will take place Friday afternoon. Friday afternoon there will be a reception in one of the college parlors.

Business sessions will take place Saturday morning and afternoon. Saturday night there will be a

Continued on page five

Library Adds Many Volumes

Latest Fiction, Poetry, Biography, History Are Represented

The library has recently added many new books of various types to its shelves, according to Miss Louise Richardson, librarian.

Among the fiction additions are some of the recent novels which are of great popular demand. The fiction list is comprised of Adams, Christopher Columbus; Aldrich, Spring Came on Forever; Bercovici, Edna, His Wife; Benjamin, Great English Short Stories; Bolleau, Map of Days; Bolitho, My Shadow As I Pass; Bradford, Of King David and the Philistine Boys.

Cather, Lucy Gayheart; Chase, Silas Crockett; Cobb, Paths of Glory; Corbett, The Constant Sex; Cross, Book of the Short Story; Dohan, Mr. Francisco Tolo; Garth, Never Mind the Lady; Keyes, The Sale Bridge; Lincoln, Storm Signals; McRae, The Beachcomber; Nordhoff, Pitcairn's Island; North, Shining Windows; Parker, Impersonation of a Lady; Thurston, Cook, They Lived Down, Good Old Yesterday; Van Doren, A Winter Diary; Walpole, The Inquisitor, and Young, White Ladies.

To the literature shelves, which include letters, plays and poetry, have been added: Pullington, Purposeful Living; Gordon, Tragic Literature; Cruse, The Victorious and Their Reading, Field, Little Book of Western Verse; Masefield, Basic Texts of Arabia; DeWattville, Wanderers in the Earth; Bacon-Gringa, An American Woman in Mexico; Hicks, I Live in Virginia, Knaiw, School-house in the Foothills; LaVarre, Gold, Diamonds, and Graphite, and Overbeck, Living on High.

Among the biographical additions is the Pulitzer prize winner, The Lees of Virginia by Hendrick, as well as biographies of modern men whose lives are of current interest. This group is composed of: Wrights, Forgotten Ladies, Albert, Albert and the Belgians; Audubon, Singing in the Wilderness; Bagnold, A Diary Without Dates; Dorsey, Chronicles of Sorabbus; Duranty, I Write as I Please; Garratt, Lord Brougham; Gottschalk, Lafayette Comes to America; Guitry, If Memory Serves, Harding, Phantom Crown; Harrison, There's Always Tomorrow, Haskell, Diaghilef; Ishimoto, Facing Two Ways, Kagawa, Kagawa; Karasavina, Theatre Street; King, Parties in Evening Star; Perry, And Gladly Teach; Rippy, Joel R Poinsett, Versatile American; O'Brien, Will Rogers; Scott, Private Letter-Books; Undset, The Longest Year; Vida, Vina Villa; Waldemann, Books as Windows, Bowden, Friend and Master, Bradley, Autobiography of Earth; Brand, Song of Wild Birds; Brody, The American State and Higher Education; Clements, Flower Families and Ancestors; Crowder, Between the Tides; Haines, Living With Books; Hall, Romance of the Patchwork Quilt in America, Hanby, Songs Sung in the Southern Appalachians; Hoffman, Leadership in a Changing World, Hopkins, "Let Your Second Act"; Lindbergh, North to the Orient; Melvin, Building Personality; Morgan, Opinions and Attitudes in the 20th Century; Oliver, The Ordinary "It"; Ottis, Ottis of Ordinary People; Pratte, An Almanac for Moderns; Rockwell, Flower Arrangement; Rusk, Methods of Teaching the Fine Arts; St Louis Post Dispatch, The Drift of Civilization; Seldes, Freedom of the Press; Shannon, Book of the Seashore; Thompson, College Music, and Veal, The Pleasure of Collecting.

THE SWEET SHOP
Opposite Gilchrist
708 W. Jefferson We Deliver
Phone 1091

WEEK-END SPECIALS
GOODY SPECIAL WITH HOT FUDGE 10c
LARGE LIMEADE 5c

PERSONNEL OF THE MINNEAPOLIS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra will present a concert in the college auditorium January 29. The personnel, directed by Eugene Ormandy, comprises 86 accomplished musicians, many of whom are considered masters in their fields and among whom are theoretic composers. These musicians represent 21 foreign nations, yet all have become American citizens. "The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra has played a noble part in the promotion of musical ideal," says enthusiastic critics.

Florida State Students Plan to Enter Varied VocationalFields

Twenty-Two Girls Enroll For Course in Pre-Medical Work

A few weeks ago the announcement that Florida State College for Women had enrolled students entering a great variety of fields aroused interest not only among the students but among the professors as well.

After further investigation it was discovered that students in the past few years have been choosing more and more courses that would lead them into professions other than the teaching profession.

The percentage of students entering the medical field in the past five per cent higher this year than in former years. A decided increase in the number of students studying to be nurses is shown this year, there being twenty-eight students enrolled in the nursing course as contrasted to the six or seven usually expected.

In the study of social case work there is an increased interest, and it is rapidly becoming one of the most important fields for study on the campus. Whereas five years ago, there were only about five students taking the social work, now there are enrolled seventeen students for study in this field.

In the commerce field, the secretarial course takes a slight lead over the accounting course. There has been a decided increase in the whole department.

What is happening to the college girl to bring about such changes? Many influences, probably.

One answer may be found in the year 1930 when paper fortunes crashed around men's heads. Even one of the students today has felt the depression. A sudden collapse which has made them make sober inquiries as to what kind of world they are living in. The growing concern for unemployment has forced them to see the necessity for economic security.

The depression has turned their minds to ideas about how to make a living. It is true that the majority of girls expect to be married sometime in their life, just as it is true that all girls will not marry. The uncertainty proves an impetus to force many girls into preparing for some kind of a job. Indeed, many of them that do marry have to be forced to be the breadwinner for their families in later years.

In addition to preparing for a vocation in this day, students are appearing to be more vocationminded. Here again, economic circumstances have driven students to awareness of the world outside the campus gates. A growing concern for answers to problematical questions may be seen throughout the students as a whole.

A student interested in the social, political and economic trends of the nation is taking the place of the former companion of Joe College, the play-boy who existed during the 1920-1929 era. The rah-rah type of college student is dead.

It is impossible to make a hard and fast rule and say that all students have become social minded. The campus presents many contrasts thoughts. Yet in all ideas the vast majority of students are inclining towards more and more liberal thinking and more social ideas.

A great deal of the enthusiasm over the social interest is to a

Rutz Gives Talk On Passion Play

Describes Origin, Casts With Colored Slides

Miss Anabe Rutz, dressed in her native Bavarian costume, spoke Wednesday evening in the Augustus Conradi theater on the Oberammagau Passion Play as seen through the eyes of one who has twice portrayed the Virgin Mary.

Although our girls are forced to go far from home to make a living, they all come back at least six months before the time for the presentation," she declared, stressing the important part the performances play in the lives of all the citizens of the little village, nestled among high mountains. "Every child spends the eight and nine year periods between the presentations working, hoping to be chosen for one of the coveted parts."

"The costumes of the players are all the finest materials," she stated, while showing colored slides of scenes from the play. "The dress of the high priest, Anas alone cost over eight hundred dollars, being made of materials brought from the Orient.

When Miss Rutz played the part of Mary for the second time in 1934, the special performance was given to commemorate the three hundredth anniversary of the founding of the play.

In the year 1633 when the plague was sweeping Europe one-tenth of the population of the little village in the Bavarian Alps died. "The citizens then gathered in the churches," said Miss Rutz, "and called upon God to deliver them from the pestilence. They were that if the plague were large degree still undefined and undirected. There is much work to be done towards the concentrating of this interest into some definite form and shape. However shapeless it may be at present, that step is decided advance over the former type of college student who came to college for fun.

With the advanced thinking students will no longer drop out when what the gradidation speakers formerly termed the cold cruel world as unprepared as an Eskimo.

Prediction for the future seems to be an ever increasing number of women doctors, accountants, nurses and social workers in addition to the always large number of teachers.

STATE THEATRE

FRIDAY and SATURDAY—JANUARY 17-18
"I DREAM TOO MUCH"
with
Lily Pons and Henry Fonda

SUNDAY and MONDAY—JANUARY 19-20
Warner Baxter
"KING OF BURLESQUE"

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY—JANUARY 21-22
Ronald Colman
in
"THE MAN WHO BROKE THE BANK AT MONTE CARLO"

THURSDAY—JANUARY 23
Wendy Barrie
"MILLIONS IN THE AIR"

Home Economics Club Has Meet

Two Projects are Planned For Future Work

At the monthly meeting of the Home Economics club held Tuesday night in the Science Building, plans were discussed for two projects which the club hopes to undertake.

One of the anticipated projects is that of providing clothes for a needy child, recommendations for whom they will get from the Welfare agency. The other is that of planning diets for various families.

The club will also sponsor an eight-weeks sewing class, beginners, and numerous other interesting articles that have been handed down from generation to generation.

Also at this time Mary Miller gave a brief summary of some of the important questions discussed at the state-wide Florida Home Economics convention recently held in Orlando. Another talk was given by Edith Mandford, who discussed the "Folk Foods of a Slovakian Village," showing how the Slovakia cookery varies from extreme simplicity to oriental complexity.

Members attending this meeting were Jeanne Williams, Bernice Stockbridge, Gladys Harrard, Mary Jo Johnson, Marjorie Mylrick, Clara Bell Tipton, Lois Cubilas, Clara Langford, Virginia Pinney, Sarah Tweed, Irene Day, Mary L. Hornshel, Constance Windham, Jean Willis, Virginia Duke, Miriam Blalsdell, Edith Hobson, Katherine Fox, Gwendell Adair, Helen Wahlberg, Wilma Sulnick, Florence Wagner, Mary Wilson, Margaret Walker, Mary Jane Bush, Julia Harris, Ruth Stapp, Dorothy Hamilton, Polle Margaret Daniels, Margaret Mizell, and Miss Edna Mae McIntosh, sponsor.

Dean N. M. Salley Announces Hours

Daily 10:30 to 11:30 a. m.
Daily 2:00 to 4:30 p. m.
Special Office Hours for Examination Week
Mornings 10:30 to 12:30
Afternoons 2:00 to 5:00.

Vassar Courses In Euthentics Explained

Continued from page one

try, according to the speaker.

"The summer course is for children as well as adults. Mrs. Stockwell said that the youngest child at the institute last summer was twelve months old and the oldest child eight years of age. These children live in dormitories with each child in a separate room. Experienced teachers are with them twenty-three hours of the day, supervising them in play and training them in good habits.

In the nursery school records the children learn control of their muscles and good eating habits. This training is given to help the child in social adjustment, beginnings of friendship, and emotional control.

The older children, those from four to seven years of age, are in the progressive school. There they learn to face reality and to interpret life for themselves as they go. The children are urged to make their observations part of their body of experience and to express themselves in concrete form.

By means of anecdotes Mrs. Stockwell portrayed the many different types of people who attended the six weeks session at the college. Engaged and married couples, married women, widows, and grandparents mingled together for the common purpose of learning how to benefit the family and increase social progress and how to live parenthood worthy of their highest aims.

CATHOLIC CLUBS TO CONFER HERE

Continued from page one

dinner and dance, and Angela Orlley is in charge of the committee for making arrangements.

Sunday morning the clubs will attend Mass in a body, after which a communion breakfast will be held. Vivian Testa is in charge of the communion breakfast.

Former Student Receives Poetry Award

Feature Article Appears In New York Times

The name of Dora L. Byrons of Pomona, graduate of '32, has appeared in print as the author of special articles in several metropolitan newspapers. Her latest article is one written for the New York Times, appearing in the rotogravure section of that paper last Sunday, January 12.

Miss Byrons, who was prominent in journalistic activities during her college career, was feature editor of the Flambeau her senior year. After graduation she accepted a teaching position, although she found time to write a number of special articles for newspapers. This fall she gave up teaching to devote herself entirely to writing. Her articles occur regularly in the Daytona Beach Sun-Observer, the Atlanta Journal, and she contributes special stories to the Christian Science Monnitor, Chicago Tribune and New York Times.

"Life in 'Other Florida'" is the title of the feature Miss Byrons has written for the Times. In it she describes scenes of gayety in "other Florida," such as peanut bolls, possum hunts, all-day sings, orange watching parties, fish fry and corn roastings, contrasting these with the recreation of the more familiar resort Florida. She begins, "Florida is not all roof-gardens and yacht trips, white satin gowns and bukedos, long black cars and surf boards." Then the night clubs is another Florida, a land of simple folk and fields of swishing sugar cane." And she adds, "Perhaps it's all the same Florida after all."

Textiles to Be Displayed As Artist Series

Continued from page one

in variety of weave the Peruvian far excels the Egyptian, and in fineness too the Peruvian is superior.

It should be remembered that in Peru the textile art was the chief means of expression. Sculpture and architecture were less important, but the pieces seem to have been highly valued. Peru and possibly China are the two countries where the textile art reached its greatest height.

Brown's

At Our Soda Luncheonette Dept.
Saturday and Sunday Luncheon
25c and 35c

Choice of—
FRIED COUNTRY STYLE CHICKEN
BREADED WESTERN VEAL CUTLETS
Mixed Fruit Salad, Selection of Fresh Vegetables
Bran Muffins, Hot Rolls, Dessert, Caramel Cake with Whip Cream COLLEGIATE LUNCHEON
25c
Toasted Chicken Salad Sandwich, Potato Chips, Dish Ice Cream, topped with Marshmallow and Nuts.

Minced Ham and Cheese Sandwich, Potato Chips, Coffee 15c

Bar-B-Q Pork on Hot Bun, Cold Slaw, Coffee 15c

Butterscotch Fudge Covered Goodie 10c
Get a Jumbo Pineapple Marshmallow Nut Royal 10c

Florida State Looks at a School Atop Tallahassee's "Other Hill"

Florida Agricultural and Mechanical College Efficiently Serves the Negro Cause With Steadily Rising Standards

By SARAH SEALEY

On the watermelon hill of Tallahassee lies the Florida State College for Women, on the south-ernmost hill is the Florida Agricultural and Mechanical college for negroes.

We speak frequently and in glowing terms of the first-named of the two institutions. We are proud of its size and of the fact that only three or four women's colleges in the country exceed it in enrolment; we are proud of its chapter of Phi Beta Kappa; we are proud of its beautiful campus; we are proud of its distinguished faculty; we are proud of the achievements of its alumnae.

Of the other school, however, we know very little. In fact, we know so little about it that we forget that it is in the same city as we. We are not particularly proud nor ashamed of it. Our attitude, generally, is one of unconcern.

Yet if we take the time to look fairly at the Florida A. and M. college and consider its merits, we shall begin to get some conception of its value to the state and to the Negro race.

The Florida A. and M. college is the only college supported by the state for the education of the nearly one-third of its population that is of color.

The number of students this year is 787, a figure exceeding that of last year by 100. Only three other negro colleges in the country equal this enrollment. Including the students in the high school and children's school operated by the college, the total number is 1078.

More than half the students, according to Dean E. F. Southall of the Division of Liberal Arts and Sciences, are part or all of their expenses by working in their spare time. Because the FERA work assigned to students, nearly all the work about the college is done by students instead of by full-time workers.

As for the expense of attending the Agricultural and Mechanical college, a lower-priced school could hardly be imagined. Negro girls pay an enrollment fee of $27, which includes the first month's board and room rent, the resident physician's fees and the athletic fee. Payment for board and room is made monthly at the rate of $7 for the next seven months. Other expenses include books at $13, a fee of $2 per semester, and a day during sickness.

Expenses for the boys are the same except for $18.50 added to the entrance fee for military uniform and cap. The boys pay $7 a month to cover board, room rent, and laundry.

In return for these reasonable fees, Florida negroes have the opportunity of studying under a faculty which probably ranks with the best in negro colleges. A mere mention of the schools at which the faculty members have studied tells much as to their ability. The president of the college, Dr. J. R. E. Lee, holds his A. B and A. M. from Bishop college, LL. D. from Wilberforce university and Ph. D. from Bishop college. He has also studied at Chicago, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Cornell university.

Entering the colleges whose graduates are teaching at the A. and M. college are Tuskegee, Fisk, Hampton, Atlanta, Talladega, Boston, Cincinnati, Iowa, Pittsburgh, Michigan State, Kansas, Simmons, Morehouse, Atlanta, Carnegie Institute, and special schools.

In regard to buildings on the campus, the Florida A. and M. college has much to be proud of. A good example is the college auditorium, which has a seating capacity of 1700 in the auditorium and 100 in the choir loft. It is a two-manual pipe organ and has a Carnegie Corinne, Aeolian picture system.

Other outstanding features are the Carnegie library with over 10,000 classified volumes, the thoroughly modern, well-equipped dairy (used to print all school printing and literature), the 40-acre farmary, the dining room with a seating capacity of 903, the dairy and farm, the home economics equipment, three practice schools, and so on.

Despite all its good equipment, the college has several grave needs. Dormitory facilities are entirely inadequate. The school needs a larger library, a larger hospital, a central heating plant.

Continued on page three

FIRST SHOWING of
NEW SPRING DRESSES

What to wear is aptly answered in this new collection of Spring clothes. You will find coats, suits and dresses, and if you're wise, you'll select your fashions right from this group.

DRESSES
$2.95 to $6.95

SUITS
$5.95 and $6.95

You will save money by buying your wearing apparel at

THE HUB STORE
104 E. Jefferson Street

nusual Florida Hostelry Famous for Protective Air: Takes Only Women Roomers

Quiet Variety: Hours Reading Writing

RLE SHEPARD

he picturesque hills Florida is a large d ed one of the kind in the ructure and me- ue this large Am- hment has re- eption some 30 patronage. From oons have been o th demand a 528 bedroom ons of the dating 1 107 ally long fou months—and even ume there are a flock there for stay. Reser a- be made some time nt rates are so y more than taken care There are even so at ached though they can reservations at the they find ac- not far om the an effort to be in the of the hotel have erests interests that them together in institution They oy an early morn- and then are off to occupations At on each other for meal and then the ed to each in Again at din gather a and the evening very quietly re early never later except for a drag themselves resting books has no been during the open In the to private baths s and 42 have are not equipped out in many There is cry but the hotel laundry for the s guests main lobby which the other divisions are connected of the five are small parlor, omfortably and for the guests has its two in other large hotels with the pleasure guests there is a va- offered and our matches of all sort for the entertain At their di large swimming pool week-ends several either in one of the hotel or in the center are further enter- world-famous arts ught to the hotel and ms arranged by groups guests interested in the sions.

one characteristic that otel apart from other protective att ude guests Never ould nd a hotel that takes of its guests so ser ever they go what or whatever they do carefully observed by agement If one of the hes to leave for a visit ne other part of the ostesses are most he trip and make it a all of the detail hour that the guest n And usually he appreciative of the in hotel has shown that ne not return when she in the beginning he telegram to that effect late one of the hos waited up for her read e her in the main lobby officials are very ing their opinions on our of the guests do something that agement or some of the do not sanction, the immediately told of oval Sometimes the necessary to ask patrons to leave, but undings of the hotel The weather t ideal of the time and ng the rooms are kept steam hea. The con- ience is beyond e and should ar o sue medical attention hotel physician and take care of But with all of these onveniences there is one regular of its hotel o women

Bouillion Served During Exam Week

Bouillion will be served Monday, Tuesday Wednesday and Thursday mornings during examination between 11 and 12 o'clock in Gilchrist, Reynolds and Jennie Murphee parlors for the girls living in those dormitories and in lower Bryan and for students living in Bryan, Broward and off campus

Florida State Looks At School on Other Hill

Continued from page two and new home economics building science horticultural building and athletic stadium

In ho ist work the college is organized in seven divisions economics, liberal arts and sciences, mechanic arts music nurse-training and health and teacher-training and education.

The number of students in each division during the year 1934-35 shows this distribution agriculture 66, home economics, 61, arts and sciences 270, mechanic arts 50 music 1 nurse-training 21 teacher-training 10 in the four year course 163 in the two-year course

One of the interesting things about the A and M college is the policy of giving the students a broad general background in addition to their highly technical specialization For instance a music major besides his requirements in music must have twelve hours of both English and education six of practice teaching three each in United States history, American government, economics and sociology and four hours of physical education

Among the requirements for a candidate for the Bachelor of Arts degree in the school of arts and sciences are listed English a foreign language mathematics, philosophy, government psychology, economics sociology, biology, public speaking, a major, and a minor.

In the same curricula with these general and diversified courses are found such specialized courses as the following electric wiring, farm organization and management cooperative marketing, school lunch and cafeteria managing, salesmanship, negro literature, plumbing and heating proofreading and copy preparation and elementary school supervision

Probably the best known division of the college is the school of music It sponsors a 125-voice choir men's glee club, women's glee club, military and concert band a cappella choir freshman choir women's quartet, and women's trio The a cappella choir makes an annual tour of the state Last year's men's quartet is to begin in December a three months engagement at Radio City in New York The glee clubs give frequent concerts to which white people are invited

Another interesting phase of the work of the school is its publications The Famcean is a bi-weekly newspaper written and printed by the student The Quarterly Journal is a literary magazine published by the faculty A few representative titles of articles will give some idea about the nature of the magazine The Negro in the American Economy" "A Study of the Incidence and Effects of Unemployment in the Case of Five Hundred Negro Families of Tampa, Florida," John Milton and His University Career "The Contribution of Colleges and Professional Schools Toward the Education of the Negro"

Besides the students enrolled in the winter sessions there are large numbers of other negroes touched in some way by the college in its work. A total of 14,665 Florida negroes were helped in some way during 1933-34 through such activities as these summer school, 4-H club work teachers' conferences home economics conferences midwifery conference clinics hospital care doctors meetings and so on

In regard to the benefit received by Florida negroes directly through the graduates of the A and M college Dean Southall says that most of the alumnae accept teaching positions in the state The fact that the percentage of college-trained Florida negro teachers has increased from one and one-half per cent of the total in 1930 to 2 per cent in 1935 indicates the general quality of negro education in the public schools has been greatly improved can be made of the value of the Florida Agricultural and Mechanical college to the negro race He says and her friends outside that

EXAMINATION SCHEDULE
First Semester
JANUARY 20 TO 24

Class Hours	Examination Hours
M W Th. 2.30	8:30-10:30 Mon. Jan. 20
Hygiene 101 (all secs. in auditorium)	10:30-12:30 Mon. Jan. 20
M.W Th 1:30	2:00- 4:00 Mon. Jan. 20
M W.F 11:30	8:30-10:30 Tues. Jan. 21
History 101 (all sections)	10:30-12:30 Tues Jan. 21
T Th. 10:30. F 1:30	2:00- 4 00 Tues Jan. 21
M W.F. 10:30	0:30-10:30 Wed Jan. 22
Industrial Arts 101 (all sections	10 30-12:30 Wed. Jan. 22
Art 109 (all sections)
T W.F. 9 30	2 00- 4 00 Wed. Jan 22
M Th. 9 30; T 2:30	8 30-10:30 Thurs. Jan. 23
English 101 and 102 (all sections)	10 30-12:30 Thurs. Jan 23
Political Science 201 (all sections)
T.W.F. 8:30	0 30-10 30 Fri Jan. 24
M Th 8.30, T. 1 30	6 30-10:30 Fri. Jan. 24
Geography 101 (all sections)
Economics 201 (all sections)	10 30-12:30 Fri Jan. 24
Home Economics 111-201 (all sections)
All one two and three-hour classes not included above.	2 00- 4 00 Fri Jan 24
All conflicts

NOTE

1. There should be no changes in this schedule except for most urgent reasons; such changes as are necessary should be reported to the Registrar in advance.

2 Individual conflicts, not provided for above, will be worked out by the instructor and student concerned. All such examinations must be set during the week and the hours of examinations.

3 Students may not change sections for the examinations even if the two sections are under the same teacher

Jan 11, 1936 S. R. DOYLE Registrar

Speech Students Give Three Plays

Presented for Meeting Of AAUW Branch

At the regular meeting of the Tallahassee branch of the American Association of University Women held in the Augusta Conradi Little Theatre January 14, three one-act plays were presented under the direction of Miss Kemper Moore, assistant professor of speech.

The plays presented were "The Crown of Saint Felice" by F. Sladen-Smith; "The No-Count Boy" by Paul Green and "Highness" by Ruth Giorloff

Students in the speech department taking part in the presentations were Elouse Frink, Betty Peck Margery Jones, Sallie Burt Nuzum, Lillian Burford, Rachel Seay, Jean Treadwell, Barbara Wells, Dorothy Hill, Sarah Hoses, Vivian Marshall, and Betty Sweet Smith. Acting as stage manager and in charge of properties were Betty Ettlinger, Dorothy Dietrick, and Jane Gray Stevens.

Guests of the A. A. U. W. at the meeting were Mrs. Fay MacCracken Stockwell, field secretary of the Institute of Euthenics at Vassar college, and members of the faculty and administrative staff of the Florida State College for Women dictary the president showed how various cases had been dealt with, and pointed out the excellent cooperative work between the student and faculty on these occasions She also announced that at the present time a faculty-student committee is working on a definite plan for class-room procedure and examination regulations. "Our plan" she said "is to simplify regulations in every possible case."

Achievements Shown in Talk

Continued from page one

Ending the summary of the past year's achievements, Katherine continued with an outline of the college government association's work for the rest of the year and enumerated the things that it hopes to accomplish "The stress must be put on the idea of self-development she said, and it should be the aim of each individual to do whatever she does well"

Florida State Students Chosen for Lead Parts In Progress Festival

Several Florida State students filled leading roles in the Festival of Progress parade held in downtown Tallahassee last night.

Mildred Hurst, gowned in metallic silver cloth and cardinal red velvet, portrayed Miss Tallahassee while Sara Bell Palmer acted as queen of the festival.

Marguerite Gehan portraying the honor roles of Miss Progress, rode on a float which carried a floral piece in the form of a streamlined wheel of progress.

Isabel Yon reigned over the Egyptian float as Cleopatra

Other college students in the cast were Mary Alice McNeill, Adelia Appleyard, Mattie Lou Love, Mary Emily Parker, Virginia Baggs, Virginia Amann, Mary Hamilton Meginniss, Letitia Bond, Dorothy Bellamy, Betty Harrison, Ermine Lewis and Sara Moor, through her efficient service and competent graduates Florida negroes will be enabled to reach the higher standards of the white man's civilization and to make their contribution to its upbuilding.

Administration Building Sees Clearing Preparing For Reconstruction Job

Several rooms in the Administration building have already been cleared preparatory to the beginning of reconstruction work.

Although contracts for work on this building have not yet been awarded, Federal authorities have given sufficient assurance that the work will be done, according to Herbert D. Mendenhall, resident engineer.

The top floor of the Education building was subdivided, thus making three rooms. Platforms were built in over the stage in the Augusta Conradi theater and an area in the top floor of the Music annex was also floored over to provide more space for storage.

Presbyterians To Hear Talks

Baptist Students Making Plans to Entertain New Secretary

Many church activities of interest to the student religious bodies of the campus are listed for the new year, according to announcements given out by the church secretaries this week.

Several religious workers have been invited by the Presbyterians to give talks this coming term about their experiences. Among the guests will be James Unger from Soonchun, Korea, who will speak on his work among the lepers there. The proceeds obtained from a broom sale conducted by Presbyterian members will be given for the aid of orphan lepers in Korea

Another visitor will be Dr. Calvin Caldwell, missionary to China, who has started many stations there. He will speak to the Presbyterian league. Mr. Walter Passiglia, who has charge of work done in Ybor City in Tampa, will also be a speaker.

Method'st teas have been planned during examination week for the relaxation of students. Council members and hall chairmen will be hostesses. The student house is to be divided into sections for puzzles, music, reading and games

The Baptist students are making plans to entertain their new student secretary, Miss Billie Ruth Vurrin of North Carolina, who is to arrive the first of February. Lucy Gee Linn, Dora Hellen Baggot, and Louise Doyle recently gave informal talks concerning the conventions they attended in Indiana, Tennessee, and Alabama, respectively, during the holidays.

The Catholic Newman club met Sunday, January 12. Plans concerning the convention which they intend to hold here February 20-22, were discussed. Several committees were appointed to serve during the convention.

Miss Rachael Wylie, Presbyterian student secretary, entertained a group of those attending the Indiana convention. Miss Winnie Lee Davis, Methodist student secretary; Miss Julia Gehan, Episcopal student secretary, and Miss Anna Forbes Lidell, Y. W. C. A. advisor, attended. Others attending were Lucy Gee Linn, Carol Ramage, Martha Makemson, Lilly McGuire, Catherine Todd, Francis Lewis and Virgina White

Special Room Is For Meditation

A meditation room, named by the Life Service Band, in one of the towers of Bryan Hall, was opened January 13 for the use of students.

The room is located at the top of some winding stairs directly over one of the date parlors. It is equipped with chairs, tables, rugs, drapes, and lamps. According to the group sponsoring this room, studying is forbidden there. Besides students' use of the room for meditative purposes, the Life Service Band will also hold some of it meetings there.

Intellectuals Changed Into "Hoo-doo-ers"

Continued from page one

who even sleep with them during exam week.

The most popular hangout before exam is not, as many might think, the tea room, but the sorority house. It is here that the disturbed student may find the balsam for her troubled spirits in the accumulated examinations of past years, left by those dear sisters who did unto others as they would be done by. The only fear of the soothed A-aspirant is that the professor may be mean and detestable enough to change the exam which he has been duplicating for the last ten years. You never can trust in the integrity of human nature.

The real bane of the student's life, however, is the Friday afternoon exam. Anyone seen emerging from the History building, tearing her hair and gnashing her teeth is a living example of what such cruelty can bring out in a mild, peace-loving college student.

nwyO Bhcnnn

Pearle Shepard Gives Her Views On Difficult Life of Society Editor

States Men on Newspaper Staff Enjoy Vexing Woman Reporter

By JEWEL TURNER

Clicking typewriters . . . voices raised in a babbling murmur . . . people hurrying back and forth, some busily scanning papers, others impatiently giving telephones quick staccato jingles . . . all eager for news . . . all alert and ready to tackle any unknown leads which happen their way. This in short is the life that confronts the daily reporter, according to Pearle Shepard, sophomore at Florida State who has just returned to college after an absence of four years during which time she has worked as assistant society editor and school editor on the St. Petersburg Times.

Last year Pearle covered both the school news and part of the society news. The latter, she confessed, was the most interesting and preferable, but the hours were not good. She had to start out every night at seven-thirty and work until twelve-thirty. "I never could count on having much fun unless I took my recreation before working hours, or unless I started after twelve-thirty," she said. The last idea was not so successful, she added, for she was usually ready for bed when twelve-thirty arrived.

"The time that is really fun in a newspaper office," Pearle said, "is during the tabulation of election ballots. Everyone is in a highly excitable frame of mind. There are no regular hours for anyone, and everybody is willing to work overtime That is the time when typewriters really click and everyone runs in and out of offices jotting down numbers and scoring up the latest tabulation."

When asked if she could recall any outstanding events that had happened to her during her work, Pearle said that she had had several embarrassing experiences, two of which happened while she was covering society news.

One Saturday it was necessary for her to cover a tea which had been held at the home of a minister and his wife in St Petersburg. She had tried all day to get in touch with anyone who might give her sufficient information on the gathering but her efforts were to no avail. Finally, in despair, she decided to call the minister himself. When she finally managed to reach him by telephone it was almost 10:30 p. m., at which time the minister seemed to have lost all interest in teas and proceeded to inform her to the effect, "If you ever wish to obtain any information on teas, never call a minister just before he is preparing to preach a sermon the next day," she advises

"Another time I had to call for some news at a rather late hour. I kept asking central to ring the number but it seemed as though no one were at home Finally, when I was about to give up I heard the receiver at the other end of the line click and a rather gruff voice inquired if I had been ringing that number before. "If you're the one, please stop. You've awakened our baby about six times."

Pearle admitted that the men on a newspaper staff get quite a kick out of teasing the women reporters. One day they made her cover an assignment of a drowning which they knew would be almost impossible for her "Imagine me trying to cover a drowning!" Pearle moved uncomfortably in her chair and managed to blink her eyes several times before she continued, "But I fooled them. I happened to know the reporter who was covering it for another paper, and since the papers in St. Petersburg are not particular rivals—well, he helped me out."

When asked if she were glad that she returned to college Pearle replied, "I'm glad I made the break. I miss newspaper work, but you can only go so far, unless you really want to devote most of your life in working toward becoming a correspondent. If you just keep on covering the same things you get in a rut. You get ink on your fingers and you can't get it off."

EVERYBODY'S TALKING . . . ABOUT CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

ROSCOE TURNER—Famous Flyer · MRS. WM. LA VARRE—Explorer · FRANK BUCK—Animal Collector · COLLEGE GIRL—M. Osman · WM. T. TILDEN, 2nd—Tennis Star · STUDENT—John Cowdery

CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS mean so much to so many people that we invite you to try them too—confident that they'll win you.

TRY 10 CAMELS NOW!

READ OUR INVITATION TO YOU

Money-Back Invitation to try Camels

Smoke 10 fragrant Camels. If you don't find them the mildest, best-flavored cigarettes you ever smoked, return the package with the rest of the cigarettes in it to us at any time within a month from this date, and we will refund your full purchase price, plus postage.

(Signed) R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY Winston-Salem, North Carolina

Camels have given more pleasure to more people than any other cigarette. And so we now issue this new "try ten" invitation in order that others can find out for themselves the difference Camel's costlier tobaccos make in smoking pleasure.

Why offer can be made

We know smokers like Camels, once they try the costlier tobaccos in Camels. Literally millions of people have changed to Camels and found new enjoyment . . . new benefits. We want you to share their enthusiasm. Turn to Camels. Be one of the vast number who share in the enjoyment and appreciation of those finer, more expensive tobaccos.

© 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tob. Co.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

RUTH PERSONS .... Editor
ALTHEA SMITH .... Associate Editor
GERTRUDE KUHN .... Managing Editor
HAZEL BOWMAN .... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Features, Martha Baker; Sports, Elaine Klepper; Society, Margaret Lafferty; Exchanges Virginia Early; Literary Editor, Eleanor Williams; Copy Editor, Arline Lockhart; Outside News Editor, Grace Mary Webster; Art Editor, Caroline Adams.

REPORTERS: Caroline Adams, Minna Agress, Eloise Andrews, Ella Brooks, Jean Brown, Marguerite Brown, Marian Conn, Margie Creel, Sarah Beth Davis, Margaret Duncan, Sylvia Feiga, Evelyn Fisher, Mary J. Oallemore, Ethel Grassfield, Patricia Hamilton, Frances Hartley, Barbara Holmes, Billie Hotard, Eleanor Jenkins, Mary Lynn Massie, Dorothy Olmstead, Clotilde O'Rourke, Nan O'Shaughnessey, Mary F. Phillips, Jane Quinn, Hildred Sampson, Sarah Sealey, Pearle Shepard, Elizabeth H. Turner, Jewel Turner.

BUSINESS STAFF

MARY PATTERSON .... Business Manager
Assistant Advertising Managers, Janet Cook, Grace Mary Webster, and Clotilde O'Rourke
CEIL LEVY .... Circulation Manager
Assistant Business Manager, Lillia McGuire, Assistant Circulation Manager Caroline Adams

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

What Happens To the Other Half?

Last week when an itemized copy of the budgets of the student organizations appeared in the Flambeau, students were, for the first time, allowed the privilege of finding out what happens to that part of the student activity fee allotment which is given to these various organizations.

When we remember, however, that the money spent by the student organizations, namely, college government association, three publications, athletic association, and the four classes, accounts for only a part ($7.222 per capita) of the student activity fee, we wonder what happens to the rest of the $14 which each student annually turns over to the college coffers.

According to the report of the budget committee, the student activity fee is divided from the start into two distinct parts. One part is that which was placed under the administration of the budget committee this year. The other part, which is expended under the direction of the executive council, is used for artist series, special speakers, social funds, supplies for stage and student performances, and the recreation fund.

But this is all we know. A report has never been submitted to the students as to the "hows," "whys," or "wherefores" of the spending of this part of the fee. Only by chance rumor, which may or may not be reliable, does the student even glean an inkling as to what happens to her money.

Students, therefore, continue their questioning about the desirability of a system that does not consider it necessary to make information available to the student body as to the management and state of all its finances.

We hope the printing of the various organizations' budgets will set the precedent for a complete itemized report of the expenditures of those in charge of the other part of the student activity fee.

Let's Put Our Eggs in Fewer Baskets

Once [illegible] take up the cudgels in the Odd-Even [illegible] as the budget committee's report [illegible] further food for thought.

Pursuing our former argument for the abolishing of the traditional Odd and Even "demonstrations" at Thanksgiving time, this time the [illegible] becomes one of dollars and cents. In the report of the budget committee under [illegible] tures of the junior class, one [illegible] and twenty-eight dollars were listed [illegible] demonstration expenses. Looking under [illegible] of the senior class, Even demonstration expenses are conspicuous by their absence. Whether this is a case of oversight [illegible] is not the immediate bone of contention; however, critics of the budget committee's work as a [illegible] the demonstration bills upon perusing the remainder of the senior class report, which concludes with a sweeping "Miscellaneous—three hundred dollars."

Why the Even expenses were hurled in the miscellaneous category is a mystery at the moment, but on the strength of the published Odd expenses, the total amount of money spent on two evenings' entertainment during the recent homecoming week-end mounts into the hundreds of dollars.

Were the Odd-Even "spirit" as active in actuality as in theory, were the games, pep meetings, and time-honored rivalry between the two factions representative of general interest rather than that of one or two campus groups, or were the amount of time, effort, materials and money consumed proportionate to the interest displayed, there would be no argument.

Since the spending of the money that goes for demonstrations is in the hands of the student body, surely that body would rather see that money go, for instance, toward bringing to this campus an artist series whose every performer is of interest and satisfaction. (If we "put our eggs in one basket," maybe some day we'll hear Fritz Kreisler or other artists that the rest of the country is hearing, whose cost is at present prohibitive.)

It is easy to suggest ways to spend the money that is at present set aside for demonstration expenses. It is just as easy to get rid of the demonstrations, or to combine them and cut down those expenses appreciably. In sophomore and junior class meetings next spring, plans for the 1936-37 term will be laid. There lies the opportunity for the growing campus opposition to the Odd-Even setup to assert itself.

"Un-Americanism" Wears a Uniform

It is interesting to note the stand recently taken by the editor of one of the large Florida newspapers on the subject of military training. He condemns in no uncertain terms the proposed bill introduced by Senator Nye and Representative Kvale in each of their respective houses which would amend the National Defense Act so that no Reserve Officers' Training Corps unit shall be established or maintained at any school or college "until such institution shall have satisfied the Secretary of War that enrollment in such unit (except in the case of essentially military schools) is elective and not compulsory."

The military training given by the colleges, he says, is not military training to the extent of taking up much of the time of the student. "They get the healthful and excellent physical exercise that is prescribed for 'training' but nothing intensive, as the football teams must undertake. The drills, parades and essays into the 'arts of war' as conducted in educational institutions are generally calculated to interest the young men enlisted or recruited or assigned to such work, but not at all likely to make them anxious to become regular soldiers or take up the profession of arms—and sigh for war." But that's just where he's wrong.

The courses in military require at least three to six hours time a week. Do our colleges spend an equal amount of time in teaching peace and studying the causes of war? If compulsory military training is advocated because of its healthfulness, might not this problem of providing adequate physical training be met more directly and in a manner which would be more in keeping with the atmosphere which should surround our educational institutions? And how can we be sure that the drills, parades, and essays into the "arts of war" will not keep alive war propaganda and make the future citizens of our nation more war conscious?

Instead of dangling the military trappings before the youth of America, with all its additional social inducements, why can't we provide other ways for the men to do their strutting? (If strut they must.) In this we women have got to lead the way, for as long as we attach importance to and place prestige on a uniform, so long will a uniform be potent.

The passage of the Nye-Kvale bill would be the first important step in the struggle against militarism in our educational system. As Senator Nye has said, the amendment "will protect the interests of students who do not happen to be interested in training for an officership in the Reserve Corps, without adding hardship to those students who are interested in training."

Now is the time for the many citizens who are convinced that conscription of students for military training is "un-American" in spirit and a violation of the American tradition to let their sentiments be known. The issue as yet has not been settled.

Magazine Thumbings

TEACHERS' OATHS
By Carl Friedrich
Harper's, January

A Harvard professor named Friedrich says teachers oaths are not only unconstitutional but utterly opposed to the tradition of real education.

Seeking the reason for so many states requiring teachers to swear allegiance to the Constitution, the writer looks at history. Political oaths have always been used as a political device, he says, in a crumbling political order. As Hearst newspapers and the American Legion are behind this oath movement in the United States, the implication is clear.

The general public, including the groups actually supporting this movement, does not know the meaning of the American Constitution. We need an Abraham Lincoln, the savior of the Union and the Constitution, says Friedrich, to speak to us once more.

"This country," Lincoln said, "with its institutions belongs to the people that inhabit it. Whenever they shall grow weary of the existing government, they can exercise their constitutional right of amending it or their revolutionary right to dismember or overthrow it."

If a teacher cannot familiarize a student with Lincoln's idea of the people's constitutional right, because it contradicts an oath, then education will become a matter of indoctrination, Friedrich says, as it is in Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany today.

PROSECUTING THE COMMON MAN
By G. K. Chesterton
American Mercury, January

G. K. Chesterton, in his own capricious way, expresses sympathy for the Common Man, who has been emancipated, Chesterton says, only to find himself persecuted.

True, that educated men have always led the mob, says Chesterton, but more true that educated men have missed the mob. Recalling changes in the past century, he says where ambition was once a [illegible] avarice became an utterly [illegible] pardonable virtue.

About the time Common Man became attached to this idea, and acquired a small house and lot, Chesterton added, the intellectuals decided socialism was the thing and small property despicable.

These leaders adore Common Man in theory, but in practice they oppress him. He can no longer even enjoy the normal things of life—such as talking, singing, shouting, yelling, and even howling on due occasions, because by the time the intellectuals' form of such normalities gets to Common Man, it is banned by the same leaders as obscene, all of course, in the interest of Common Man, says Chesterton, but what really amounts to the persecution of Common Man.

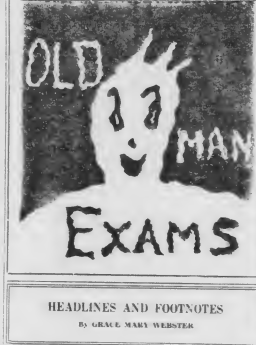
TRIAL BY JURY
By Richard A. Knight
Forum, January

The article boils down to this: Hauptmann's jury may have had sufficient circumstantial evidence to convict Hauptmann of kidnaping or extortion but not of murder in the first degree.

The jurists may have had a hunch like you and me that Hauptmann was the murderer, but until evidence proved it, the case should have waited. As it is, says the writer, his execution sets the legal precedent for judicial lynching.

JEWS IN TROUBLE
By Ludwig Lewisohn
Atlantic, January

To his Christian friends' remark "Your people are in trouble," this Jewish writer answers they have always been in trouble.



In Germany the Jews who do not have the means to leave are being starved out, while in Poland fear is spreading among them like a monster. In the United States, says Lewisohn, we hope the Jews will become so Americanized they will disappear. History shows that assimilation, however, is not the answer to the problem.

Rather does Lewisohn think the World Wide Zionist movement may hold the answer. Jews have flocked to Palestine, he says, and within their few years there, they have built a policy on economy of justice, they have enriched the land's poor soil with fertile crops, and they have attracted Arabs there by their own success. In the author's mind the House of Jacob is practically united once more.

College Dairy Improved

Plans are now under way for the beautification of the front of the college dairy. New plants and shrubs are being set out. Similar work is being done around the education building also.

Spirit of the Week . . . . By Adams

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

By GRACE MARY WEBSTER

THE political and agricultural world is still buzzing about what to do with the shattered AAA, the Supreme Court has become the big, bad wolf. How human it is that before this month the AAA had been the recipient of constant criticism and satire. Now it has become a thing so valuable it must be replaced immediately. Last Saturday Roosevelt presented a seven-point program based on soil conservation and a domestic allotment plan with cash payments to farmers. At the time the plan seemed to have the approval of all the major farm organizations, now the indications are that the National Grange will part company. The Grange presented a ten-point program stressing export subsidies and high agricultural tariffs; the latter especially is a thing which Secretary Wallace and Roosevelt have always opposed. The recently completed Canadian pact upholds an opposite policy. The administration has been consistently opposed to export subsidies also. Senator Norris and some of his colleagues have come out with the theory that the Supreme Court killed all chance of regulating agriculture. Norris suggested, "We could pass a law taking away the jurisdiction of lower courts and requiring the Supreme Court decisions to be unanimous."

Walter Lippman believes that the reason the AAA decision brought forward so little administrative comment was that the government is glad of a chance to start forward on a new foot. The new program, instead of paying farmers not to raise crops, will pay them to produce more crops which will preserve and renew the fertility of the land, Mr. Lippman says.

• • •

THE presidential sense of humor rose to the occasion on the day after the AAA decision when the regular press conference was held. As the reporters filed into the room Mr. Roosevelt remarked that there was no news except that Charley Michaelson (chief Democratic publicity man) needed a haircut. Mr. Michaelson with equal alertness answered, "Somebody in this administration has to practice economy."

• • •

ANOTHER naval conference met its doom this week when the Japanese delegation withdrew from the five-power conference because the United States and Great Britain refused her naval parity. Japan insists upon being recognized as an equal of the great sea powers of the world. Indications are that if the United States shows any interest there is a possibility of an American-Japanese agreement on the side. The British press saw as a result of Japan's withdrawal the abandonment of the movement for an Anglo-Japanese agreement as to mutual rights in China.

• • •

THE astounding amount of stuff found on front pages about Bruno Richard Hauptmann these days convinces us that even Greta Garbo could take lessons from said gentleman on how to conduct a publicity campaign.

• • •

FLORIDA people should be interested to know that the chief of army engineers asked congress this week for $57,000,000 to spend on the Florida-Gulf-Atlantic canal during the years of 1936 and 1937. The canal began the latter part of last year with an appropriation of $5,000,000.

• • •

SOMETHING new in "hops" will be the International Frog Olympics to be held in Sarasota as part of the Sara De Sota program next month. Wild Florida spring frogs will be the chief participants, although invitations have been sent to some California frogs. One Louisiana firm will send one its giant African bull frogs.

• • •

PHILADELPHIA, the state which so recently went Republican will be the scene of the Democratic National convention for the nomination of the Democratic presidential candidate next summer. The highest bidder at the price of some $250,000 won over San Francisco and Chicago.

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT

University Editorials

OPTIONAL R. O. T. C. AND PATRIOTISM

Recently introduced into Congress was a bill designed to eliminate compulsory military training in schools and colleges not primarily designated as military institutions. Its authors are Senator Nye of North Dakota and Representative Kvale of Minnesota. The bill is offered as an amendment to section 40 of the National Defense Act (which authorizes the establishment of R. O. T. C. units) by adding the provision that no unit shall be established at any school or college "until such institution shall have satisfied the Secretary of War that enrollment in such unit (except in the case of essentially military schools) is elective and not compulsory."

One-hundred and eighteen schools and colleges throughout the country have compulsory training. Seventy-three have optional training, and 37 are essentially military schools.

Most of the local R. O. T. C. cadets will agree that the University would have a much better unit here if the military course was made optional. Those who desire to make good soldiers out of themselves would have the opportunity to do so unhampered by the presence of those who do not desire to make soldiers of themselves during times of peace.

As Senator Nye points out, the bill would not affect the supply of student officers created for the army, because the last two years of training, necessary to get a commission, are voluntary at all institutions. And it is extremely doubtful if the basic training course given to students against their desires would prepare them to serve well in any war which the U. S. government might see fit to undertake.

Most people are somewhat confused as to origin of the compulsory training, sometimes being given to understand that land-grant colleges must compel their students to take military training or that it is an edict of the War Department. But in 1924, the Secretary of War wrote: "So far as the War Department is concerned, it is optional with the authorities of the school whether military training shall be an elective or a compulsory course in the curriculum." And the United States Attorney General said in 1930: "The (federal) status nowhere requires that the offered course in military tactics must be compulsory."

We believe that compulsory training is un-American. The writer realizes that he will be considered by some to be a pacifist. However, he is at present enrolled in the advanced military training course, and with a view to improving the unit along with guaranteeing freedom to those students who do not desire to be trained in militarism, he is supporting the Nye-Kvale amendment.

If the University of Alabama is to be regarded as a free and liberal institution, then this barrier to that goal should be removed. Patriotism can be just as prevalent without it.—Crimson White.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH

"Democracy is based upon the conviction that there is no common denominator between ideas and physical force. It holds that where there is freedom of thought and speech the saner and sounder opinion must in the long run prevail," Prof. Christian Gauss of Princeton told the university presidents in a recent report.

Increased student interest in political, social and economic problems as revealed in college publications is likely to express itself in extravagant forms. To stop this, more than one university administration has expelled students or stooped to authoritarian prohibition; more than one student body has flayed dissenting class members.

Revealing that many older persons look with concern upon the "wild thinking" evidenced by college students, Prof. Gauss expressed his desire that those older provide each student with enough freedom of speech so that he may find out whether his ideas are right or wrong.

In virtually the same words which Chancellor Flint used at commencement, he agrees that freedom of discussion rather than limitation is the best antidote for "wild thinking." Through discussion the individual can present his ideas. If they are attacked, he must defend them. To this end, he must gain more and more knowledge of his side of the case as well as the other so that he may know the comparative weaknesses and comparative advantages of both.

When he can no longer defend his ideas when the arguments arrayed against him prove him wrong, he is forced to acknowledge defeat.

Because the ultimate truth can be reached through discussion and the defects, fallacies, and advantages of new and old plans will come to light, freedom of speech rather than prohibition seems the logical way to establish order.

So long as limitation of speech and thought by faculty and students continues, as Professor Gauss says, "we are sinning against the spirit both of liberal education and of democracy."

—Syracuse Daily Orange.

ACADEMIC FREEDOM

With the approach of a presidential campaign and the increased radio and newspaper discussion of authorities and office aspirants on the economic systems and varieties of governments in the world, sentiment on governments and politics will become more acute among students and faculties of the colleges and universities of the United States.

Student demonstrations the world over have expressed the views of young Americans on War, Facism, Communism and etc., but more times than not these same demonstrations have been suppressed and ridiculed by the school authorities as well as by members of the business world. When the leaders are paid agitators, curtailment of all further activities is the logical conclusion. However, the open discussion and expression of views by demonstration or otherwise is the right and privilege of the American student.

"The American system of government has nothing to fear from full and open discussion of other systems. It does have occasion to fear, however, when such discussion is suppressed, because subversive doctrines thrive on suppression where they cannot exist in the light of the day. It is an encouraging sign that editorial freedom has survived to the extent that we now find it, in view of the forces at work to destroy it."

This was the duty of maintaining academic freedom charged to college newspapers by Governor George H. Earle of Pennsylvania at the annual fall convention of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic States, held recently at the University of Pittsburgh.

He spoke further in view of the limitations placed on professors and educators in our American universities and colleges. "We all know that institutions of learning can subdue or completely muffle any opinions of its instructors by holding over their heads the threat of dismissal, or on occasion by exercising their right to dismiss teachers who expressed unconventional thoughts. There can be no real education though, without full discussion of all questions, unhampered by restrictions and taboos."

Education of a pure and true value is that type of learning which allows a student to study

Continued on page five

Night-Watchmen Have Uniforms

Those who are gifted with a very observing nature, have, no doubt, noticed that our night-watchmen are now wearing uniforms! This idea was presented by Mr. J. G. Kellum, business manager of the college. Mr. Kellum stated that "Any peace officer should wear a uniform so that he may be recognized and respected as such," and he added, "uniforms insure safety and since there is a universal desire for progression, isn't this an adequate means toward promoting progress?"

The new uniforms were bought during the Christmas holidays for our two regular watchmen, Mr. J. E. McCollam and Mr. F. H. Green.

Collegiate Come-Backs

Looking ahead in true pre[illegible] fashion, we prophesy the most popular indoor sports within the environs of our dear old Alma Mater will be that commonly known as cramming. For the few to whom the word is unknown, we give the following information.

Cramming is a post-Christmas also post-Easter sport, the equipment for which is one bulging notebook, slightly the worse for wear, and one bemuddled student. The game can be played only the night before an examination about which the participant knows nothing. The time is evenly distributed between the translation of the handwriting and abbreviations in the notebook and hurried trips to the rooms of classmates for the purpose of filling in the spaces where the bemuddled student either went to sleep or cut class to go to Gainesville. The success of this procedure is measured by the professor after the exam.

A worried mother, inquiring what to do for her son who was straining his eyes ever-studying, was advised by the Rotunda to send him to college. With all the beautiful girls at some schools, we wonder if one sort of eye-strain isn't just as bad as another.

The prize for the best [illegible] of the new year goes to a professor on campus who noting the dexterity with which one of her students caught her parallel [illegible], remarked that the only difference between her and a baseball [illegible] was the fact that she chewed gum and the staid star, tobacco.

Maybe you've heard this before, but after that heavy holiday romance we can't resist offering the following advice.

Say it with flowers,
Say it with sweets,
Say it with kisses,
Say it with eats,
Say it with diamonds,
Say it with drink,
But whatever you do—
DON'T say it with ink!

—Auburn Plainsman

• • •

According to Stanford university phychologists, you can teach an old dog new tricks, for age has little to do with learning. One can learn almost as easily at 50 as at 20. If this is true, we wonder why we can't enjoy our youth and go to college afterwards, instead of going to school and graduating so worn out that we've lost all our pep. Oh, well, it's only an idea.

• • •

Baker university has announced that it hopes to build a stadium with the help of a penny chain letter. Wonder if this system could be used for the renovation of the north end of the Ad. building.

From various exchanges we've gleaned the following answers found on exam papers of college students:

Martin Luther was gored to death by a papal bull.

Edgar Allen Poe is the author of "Anthony Adverse."

Four men wrote Benjamin Franklin's autobiography.

Phi Beta Kappa is a sorority.

These answers remind us of the student at the University of Maryland who affixed this note to her paper: "Dear professor, If you see any of these answers to a bum magazine, I want my cut." If the above students did not do likewise we fear they've been cheated.

COED'S LAMENT

I think that I shall never see
Another man as nice as he
Oh, if his lips on mine were pressed.
And he would clasp me to his breast—
To feel his cheek against my cheek
And hear him whisper words so sweet—
Such men were made for movies, gee!
While only saps were made for me

—Panther Cat

The Social Week

SIGMA KAPPA MEMBERS AND PLEDGES HONOR PATRONS WITH INFORMAL TEA

Honoring their patrons the members and pledges of the Sigma Kappa sorority entertained Sunday afternoon with an informal tea in the sorority house on Park avenue.

Effective arrangements of seasonal flowers and foliage were used to decorate throughout the lower floor of the house.

Hot tea and cookies were served during the afternoon while the guests enjoyed a social hour.

Honor guests at the affair were Mrs. Adrienne Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Will Marshall, and Dr. and Mrs. Leland J. Lewis.

Hostesses at this time were Grace Wicks, Emily Johnson, Margaret K. Anderson, Anna Glen, Margie Glen, Babette Fleming, Janet Cook, Lois Forrester, Sara Mae Lewis, Jean Cates, Martha Hoss, Sarah Hoss, Mildred Hurst, Mary Delis Irvine, Elizabeth Jenks, Evelyn Kennard, Ruth Lind, Vivian Marshall, Kathleen Owens, Pattie Summa, Jessie Stimmel, Marjorie Weems, Martha Williams, Fenton Woodward.

Effinger Seale Marjorie Effinger, Elma Ruth Cannon, Mary Howard, Susan Khayat, Mary Ann McLean, Margaret McDowell, Jean McMullin, Mary Carol Posser, Carol Rammage, Elizabeth Ann Spencer, Mary Louise Thomas, Susanna Trustler, Nellye Woodham, and Jeanetta Robinson.

Mrs. Leslie to Address Alumnae of District 3 At Conference Meeting

Mrs. Laura S. Leslie, executive secretary of the Florida Alumnae association and publicity secretary of Florida State college, has been selected to speak at the conference of District Three of the American Alumnae counsel to be held in Columbia, South Carolina, February 14-15.

In an effort to show how more alumnae may be interested in the work of the associations and to demonstrate how long "dead wood" should be carried on alumnae mailing lists, Mrs. Leslie has been given the subject, "Methods of Approaching Inactives on Alumnae Lists."

The alumnae association of Randolph-Macon Woman's college is in charge of the program for the two-day meeting.

Theta Upsilon Honors Visiting Alumnae

Honoring two alumnae, Thelma Smith of Sanderson, and Ruth Wagner of Jacksonville, who visited here last week-end, the members and pledges of the Theta Upsilon sorority entertained with an open house Friday night and with an after-dinner coffee on Sunday night.

Decorations at both of these occasions consisted of bowls and vases of mid-winter flowers attractively arranged throughout the living room of the house.

Tea sandwiches, mints and nuts were served to the guests who were friends and rushees of the sorority.

Miss Anny Rutz Honor Guest at Andrews'

Miss Anny Rutz was the honor guest at a tea given by Dr. Rissell O. Andrews, director of personnel at her home on 882 West Call street, Wednesday afternoon from 4:30 to 6.

Members of the speech department, officers of student government, and others were invited.

Audrey Smith visited in Madison last week-end.

FINAL SALE
ALL FALL SHOES
Regardless of Former Price
$1.88
and $2.99 pair
QUALITY SHOE SHOPPE

THETAS HONOR FORMER IRIS MACHEN WITH MISCELLANEOUS BRIDGE-SHOWER

Honoring Mrs. John J. Tuerf, Jr., who before her marriage during the Christmas holidays was Iris Machen, the members and pledges of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority entertained Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock with a miscellaneous shower.

During the afternoon bridge games, Edna May Townsend received a prize for high score, Virginia Hamilton received second prize, and Dot Brown consolation prize.

Following the game a spaghetti supper was served. The honor guest then cut the wedding cake which centered a table overlaid with lace tablecloth and decorated with burning white tapers.

Informal dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening.

Hostesses were Antoinette Sullivan, Evelyn Ballard, Clarinelle O'Steen, Rosalyn Parker, Wylma Tarlton, Mary Walter McCormick, Mary Ennis, Margaret Reedy, Virginia Hamilton, Clarice Sanchez, Belva Wood, Mary Veach, Betty Middleton, Sarah Clark, Kitty Conway, Helen Lee, Patricia Hamilton, Marjorie Horton, Jean Harris, Dorothy Ashe, Margaret Schmidt, Patricia Barrington, Virginia Campbell, Virginia Clements, Lorraine English, Ruth Fisher, Martha Ragsdale, Christine Marsden, Anne Russell, Doris Purchase, Mary K. Quesenberry, Lucile Sanchez and Mary Catherine Thomas.

THETA UPSILON MEMBERS, PLEDGES CELEBRATE NATIONAL FOUNDER'S DAY

In celebration of their National Founder's Day, members and pledges of the Theta Upsilon sorority will be entertained tonight at the sorority house on West Jefferson street Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The house will be decorated for the services according to a rule set down by the nationals.

Miss Dorothy Hansen, the chapter sponsor will entertain with an informal tea to which faculty advisers and patrons have been invited. Tea, sandwiches, and nuts will be served to the guests at this time.

Participating in this affair will be: Anne Dempsey, Lucille Blandield, Mary Lanehart, Elizabeth Lesch, Barbara Green, Gertrude Tomkins, Catherine Newman, Margaret Neff, Doris Geiger, Lorraine Hendry, Jeanette Bowden, Mary Jeffries, Olivia Sorenson, Dorothy Stewart, and LaDna Hosford.

College Girl Has Been Much Effected By the Depression

Her "Hey-Dey" Spirit is Gone: Poise and Self-Reliance Mark Her; She Has Become A More Social-Minded Person

By NAN O'SHAUGHNESSY

Ever since 1929, the year when the world began to change its attitude toward rockbottom, confessions, investiture, and tear-pulling affairs have appeared in popular magazines on the subject of what the depression has done to the innocent housewife told her tale, the feminine side of the depression officially hit. Even the small-scale newspapers began to run it out in the line of "human interest."

F. S. C. W., and all the college world has also experienced the depression.

The "hey-day" spirit of the college girl is gone. Perhaps, after all, chose her college first because of the social pleasures afforded, considering entering second. The happy financial status of institutions made it unnecessary in most cases for girls to get anything practical out of college. Learning the languages, enough history and literature to understand allusions and quotations, sufficed.

With the new era comes a purposeful woman, forced to look ahead to a working career, or else being sent to college on the sacrifices of her parents, a girl with a determination to acquire something the world will pay her for when she is "on her own." Though self-support is her main objective in going to college, she does not study for this alone.

The plight of the world today has given her an interest in affairs, a desire to understand why the people who make the wheels go 'round have botched the job. She wishes to learn so she may adopt a constructively critical attitude instead of the passively apologetic ignorance of business which was generally accepted in the woman of the boom years. She goes in for general education with a specific line of study.

The college girl today is more completely poised and self-reliant than ever before. With her has come independence she has found a sympathy for the world and its problems which keeps her from being aggressive.

Students today are more interested in social education, more social-minded than formerly. Public welfare groups have sprung up, a new interest in Y. W. C. A.'s manifest and more students are majoring in social welfare work.

There is a certain movement toward personality development, an emphasizing of one's good points of character. As the leisure class, with woman realized the scarcity of positions open, she determined to make herself a person worth more as an employee by developing a pleasing manner, an easy and cultured conversation, in short—charm.

Student relations with one another have eliminated all dependence. The girls are much less afraid to stand alone. This is evidenced by a great number who no longer find it necessary to join sororities. During the depression a sorority membership has decreased so much that many sororities have been forced to close chapters on certain campuses. Sororities depend upon membership and when so many girl find they can not support unnecessary and do not desire them, it is impossible to keep the chapter house open.

Money, of course, is an important factor in the movement away from sororities. Girls have a new and keener sense of value of a sorority social events and fraternal sentiment do not balance the cost in their minds. Besides, they have no thought to the small added social prestige which lies in holding their heads and wire Dad to make better use the money. To conclude, incidentally, has given Dad a certain respect for his daughter where before there was only indulgent affection.

Students appear more interested in international relations, as witnessed by the many clubs and open forums given to the subject. The depressed financial state of the world has brought the literature to countries to their attention. They have become conscious of the narrowness of their own and they are making a definite attempt to know the world as a whole. The foreign student movement illustrates this.

Less elaborate social functions, fancy sororities, clubs, and other organizations for dinners, dances and entertainments less frequently than in the boom-college days. Instead they offer less and informal parties, camping trips and hikes. They let the days of the ten-cent tip can enjoy herself without elaborate plans for entertainment.

More students are going to state colleges than to expensive, privately-endowed institutions. Many students who planned elaborately about college will not go at all, others have entered state colleges and like them, but have their impressiveness alone, but for their democratic spirit.

College women, notorious spendthrifts, have changed to coolheaded accountants and could tell you, after a look at their beautiful budget, how much money the whole college year costs them, and how much they save each month from their allowance.

The college woman of today is certainly a streamlined woman—clear-headed, intelligent, yet feminine. Maybe they thought the same thing in 1930.)

Contemporary Students

Continued from page four points, all details all systems and reason to a selection of the most preferable. If the method, device or point is not in accordance with that being used, then an open minded study of the facts and advantages of the two supposedly methods; and the selection of the better for the common good of the whole will lead to the attaining of higher standards.

—El Grecho,
Santa Barbara State College.

ADAMS' STUDIO
"Photographs that Please"
121 E. College Ave. Phone 307

Art Work Will Be On Exhibit

Compositions of Students Are Shown Today

"Anarchy" and "Law and Order" are to be the subjects of the campers compositions which will make up the art exhibition to be held this Friday afternoon in room 307, Administration building, according to Miss Amy Perrin Briggs.

These compositions, grouped in pairs according to the student who painted them, illustrate two different methods by which a composition based upon a definite idea may be developed.

The two compositions done by Lois Forrester show how the subject may be worked out with more emphasis upon the line and form of the composition rather than upon the symbol or subject to be represented. The first picture is a choir procession the eye finding of law and order, while a scene in a mine with the rampant spirit of rage of discovered and alarmed men bespeak of anarchy.

Another set painted by Cecille Blandield, Mary Lanehart, Elizabeth Lesch, Barbara Green, Gertrude Tomkins, Catherine Newman, Margaret Neff, Doris Geiger, Lorraine Hendry, Jeanette Bowden, Mary Jeffries, Olivia Sorenson, Dorothy Stewart, and LaDna Hosford.

Organist Gives Concert Recital Tomorrow Night

Margaret Whitney Dow, organist of Trinity church, Boston, will give a college auditorium Saturday evening, January 18, at 8:15 o'clock. The public is invited to attend. There will be no charge for admission.

The program is as follows: "Dorian Toccata and Fugue," Bach; "A Rose Breaks Into Bloom," by Brahmsthe; Lento in B Minor," by Cesar Franck; "The Carnival," by Weaver; "Soul of the Lake," from Sea Sketches, by Candelabre; Garg-Eiger; and "Finale," from the Fifth Symphony, by Widor.

School to Hear Davis, Caldwell Speak Soon

The Sophomore class of the Demonstration school had charge of the chapel program last Monday and an interesting and informative talk on Major Bowes' amateur hour. Among the numbers were scats, goons, and the limitations of animals.

Guest speakers at the elementary school chapel next Wednesday will be Judge Fred Davis of the supreme court. Dr. Caldwell of the Presbyterian church will speak to the high school chapel on afternoon, according to Dr. R. B. Parsons, principal of the school.

ATTEND THE WHITE ELEPHANT SALE!
Cleaning Out House
Values of this Type
Ladies' Sweaters, ea. 25c
(Shop Worn)
DRESSES $1.00
Values to $5.00
Cotton Sport Coats $1.00
Heavy Plaid Basket Weaves—Values to $7.95.
Cotton Coats 50c
Heavy Basket Weaves
THE SURPRISE STORE

Delegates View Snow For First Time With Joy

Florida Students Learn To Make Ice Cream Of Sooty Flakes

Snow covered the ground. It blew into white drifts on either side of the road and sparkled in the sun while the trunks and bare branches of trees stood out like black skeletons against it. There was peace and there was quiet.

Along the road a yellow school bus rumbled. Suddenly a cry from the bus shattered the silence which had covered the whole country. Twenty-six occupants poured out into the snow. They kicked it up with their feet and reaching down felt of it curiously. They scooped up handfuls of it to make snowballs which they flung at each other with delight. Some was pushed. Suddenly a cry from the bus sang out in sacred sugar as a bus load of Florida college students, including seven Florida state students on route to the Fourth Quadrennial Convention of the Disciples of Christ, convened at Indianapolis saw snow for the first time in their lives as they entered Chattanooga Tennessee.

Only a few members of the delegation had ever seen snow before and the conversation for miles after the first cry of delight following the discovery of a genuine snow-covered landscape centered around the phenomenon.

When they reached Indiana polis they found the city under a heavy blanket of snow. Even as early as southern diamond ball pitchers turned into expert wielders of the snowball, pudgy snowmen with coal for eyes were left behind as monuments. Caustic remarks concerning the properties of this unfamiliar substance were heard on flew, and the entire party went tobogganing and shrieking down hillsides. Even as the group from Florida enjoyed their first winter sports.

One of their biggest thrills, said one of the party from Florida State, was the sight of mountains covered with snow. Two in the party had never before encountered or snow and the sight was almost overwhelming.

One of the most amusing of their adventures was the experiment which they concocted out of rather sooty snow and cream and ate!

Student Body Passes On Constitutional Changes

In a special convocation yesterday morning the student body passed unanimously the constitutional changes proposed by the college committee.

The measures passed created and defined the duties of the freshman advisory council clarified election arrangements, ordered that an extra-curricular committee replace the present point system committee, and defined the duties of the budget committee, the auditing, and the handbook committee.

These changes, originated in a senate meeting held in October, 1935, were ratified and approved by the advisory council of the college, and by the college council as a whole before they were submitted to the student body.

The new rulings will be incorporated in the handbook for 1936-37, at which time they will go into effect.

Americans Desire to Be Entertained Is Second to Wish for Participation

Cross Word Puzzles Swept Country; Superseded By Question Books, Odd Problems, And "Grandmother Likes"

Americans like to be entertained at social gatherings, but better yet they like to be a part of the diversion. Since pioneer days people in this country have gathered together for the sake of sociableness. The previous generation struggled with charades and conundrums for amusement and before that all kinds of "bees" were a source of congregation. Some kind of recreation that all which they covered the country. Twenty-six occupants poured out into the snow. They kicked it up with their feet and reaching down felt of it curiously. They scooped up handfuls of it to make snowballs which they flung at each other with delight. Some was pushed. Suddenly a cry from the bus sang out in sacred sugar as a bus load of Florida college students, including seven Florida state students on route to the Fourth Quadrennial Convention of the Disciples of Christ, convened at Indianapolis saw snow for the first time in their lives as they entered Chattanooga Tennessee.

Only a few members of the delegation had ever seen snow before and the conversation for miles after the first cry of delight following the discovery of a genuine snow-covered landscape centered around the phenomenon.

When they reached Indiana polis they found the city under a heavy blanket of snow. Even as early as southern diamond ball pitchers turned into expert wielders of the snowball, pudgy snowmen with coal for eyes were left behind as monuments. Caustic remarks concerning the properties of this unfamiliar substance were heard on flew, and the entire party went tobogganing and shrieking down hillsides. Even as the group from Florida enjoyed their first winter sports.

One of their biggest thrills, said one of the party from Florida State, was the sight of mountains covered with snow. Two in the party had never before encountered or snow and the sight was almost overwhelming.

One of the most amusing of their adventures was the experiment which they concocted out of rather sooty snow and cream and ate!

Student Body Passes On Constitutional Changes

In a special convocation yesterday morning the student body passed unanimously the constitutional changes proposed by the college committee.

The measures passed created and defined the duties of the freshman advisory council clarified election arrangements, ordered that an extra-curricular committee replace the present point system committee, and defined the duties of the budget committee, the auditing, and the handbook committee.

These changes, originated in a senate meeting held in October, 1935, were ratified and approved by the advisory council of the college, and by the college council as a whole before they were submitted to the student body.

The new rulings will be incorporated in the handbook for 1936-37, at which time they will go into effect.

W. W. PUTNAM
ANNOUNCES
the removal of his jewelry and watch shop to 209 S. Monroe St.
Opposite Wilson's

Jasper Deeter Discusses His Hedgerow Players With Girl

"Emperor Jones" is Pleased by Florida State's Acceptance of His Performance; Says Ann Harding Named Group

By NAN O'SHAUGHNESSY

After a surreptitious look into the back of the truck and then at the "Ad." building for Mr. Jasper Deeter, I approached an actor who soon escorted me into the presence.

He came toward me down the aisle of the auditorium, approaching with a smile and a "Hello, shall we sit here?"

We sat down. In front of us the players were transforming our familiar stage into the palace of the emperor Jones. They worked quickly and skillfully.

"They do all the work themselves," said Mr. Deeter, "Properties, tailoring, checking costumes, publicity. Every season each player has a new job. As soon as one becomes adept at a certain work he is changed. Notice the young man in the center. (I had been.) He was a journalism student at Dartmouth and stopped in his junior year to come with us. He did the publicity this year, and it was very good. Next year, he'll probably be tailoring. We try to alternate mental work and physical work. The ideal we work toward is, for course, a company in which the members are adept in every work connected with the theatre."

He went on to tell of the principle upon which his small company is based.

"We formed to get away from type-casting. Once an actor has been successful in a certain type of role, he is kept playing it until the audience is tired of it and he has completely lost his individuality. We started with three plays twelve years ago. The next year there were seven, now we have twenty regular plays and thirty extras.

"We live on a farm in Moylan-Rose Valley, Pennsylvania, near our small theatre, formerly a jute mill. The theatre seats one hundred sixty-eight.

In answer to my question concerning the way in which one gets into the troupe, Mr. Deeter said:

"By my recommendation, and, of course, the group has to accept the candidate. It is so much of a family proposition it would not do to take someone in whom the others found incapable of hard work or incompatible.

"Clothes, entertainment, food, cigarettes and liquor are provided. There is a provision of ten dollars a week, but a tacit agreement among the players does not allow anyone to draw his every week. This allowance varies with the financial condition of the theatre. Sometimes it has been twelve dollars and again has gotten as low as one dollar."

The college woman's worm's-eye-view of a dollar brought forth the exclamation: "Ark for Art's sake!"

Mr. Deeter laughed. "It might seem so, but the Hedgerow salary is higher than the average New York salary right now, excluding great successes, of course. There work is fitful and the runs short. The salary of one hundred fifty dollars a week must extend over four weeks of rehearsal without salary and a probable month run."

The work on the stage was progressing so I studied out, first making an appointment to see him after the performance. He said, "Rightio!" very Briton-like and called a loud good-bye.

After the performance there was a wait backstage. The players worked, taking down the props, singing snatches of popular songs, saying little to one another. One actor picked up the Emperor's pistol and began clicking it expertly. I went out front. A pleasant-faced women came up to me. "Autograph?"

"No (hastily and offendedly), the Press."

"In a minute."

He came out looking tired, drew me away from the stage and we sat down again.

"Did you like the audience?"

"Very much. A good audience."

"No laughing in the wrong place?"

"Well, that's always good in an audience of women. It's a kind of hysteria and shows they're more in the mood of the play than they would be if they had just kept intellectual interest."

"Do you ever change the cast of the Emperor?"

"Yes, in the north we have a real negro in the title role. In the south that is too inconvenient. The negro is a chauffeur, living with a family near the theatre."

"Have you done the Emperor long?"

"Twelve years—ever since we banded."

"What do you think of it as a play?"

"I would call it the most succinct picture of fear in the theatre since Macbeth."

"Is it true that Ann Harding named the theatre?"

"Yes. Once, early in our career, we were turned out of our theatre. Miss Harding said: 'Very well, we will go play in the hedgerow.'

"The next season we adopted the name. Before, the program had been headed simply, 'We, the Players' or some such.

"There are some other non-professional people of the stage and screen who were with you, are there not?"

"John Beal. Alexander Kirkland."

The stage was almost bare again. The curfew began to toll.

"What is the usual way for college girls interested in the stage to make a beginning?"

"Most of them try for parts in the summer stock companies in Cape Cod. The experience is valuable."

I thanked him, took a lingering sniff of grease paint, and bolted.

Obsession for Movie Requires Patience

Who says that college girls don't have ambitions?

Certainly anyone who witnessed the determined persistence with which Florida State girls stood outside a local theatre waiting to be admitted to the crowded house would have been forced to quite a different opinion.

Informed that no one may be admitted to the crowded house until the next show at 4:22 p. m., the girls from F. S. C. W. heroically settled under the lash of weariness standing rather than to be thrust out of their seats and suffer the consequent loss of their places in the rapidly lengthening line of movie-goers.

Just at the entrance stands a smiling usher, resplendent in bright blue uniform, who has evidently stationed himself there to prevent the eager throng from charging exuberantly forward despite all admonition. Outside, a perspiring young man patrols the ranks, voicing a passionate plea for the maintenance of orderly formation. City authorities, fearful that further lengthening of the line may result in traffic congestion, order a temporary suspension of ticket sales.

Meanwhile, the youthful movie enthusiasts who have occasioned all this furore accept the situation with commendable cheerfulness. They shift laughingly from one weary foot to the other, steal intermittent glances at wrist-watches, and exchange witticisms with the utmost good humor.

"Oh, dear," sighs one of the group who has suddenly recalled the unfinished studying left behind inside the college gates. "Isn't it terrible to waste all this valuable time? I wish I had brought my French."

"You know," confides another ruefully, "I think this is positively the most foolish thing I have ever done."

"Humph," shrugs a blase junior, "I'm used to this. I've had to stand in line plenty of times.

A few whose pedal extremities are protesting against the unwonted torture surreptitiously slip off their shoes and wiggle their stocking-covered toes in blissful freedom.

At length their roaming thoughts come to dwell upon that mundane article, food, which occupies so important a place in the college girl's thinking. There is a bustle to "save places" while companions dash across the street for something to allay their sudden hunger. The return of these emissaries, laden with bars of candy and chewing gum, brings a perceptible lightening of spirits.

Eventually the long period of waiting comes to an end, as all things must on this terrestrial sphere, and the group surges forward with one accord—a colorful mass of breathless, hilarious femininity.

Several hours later these same young ladies may be seen emerging from the theatre. They are now thoughtful and subdued, and not improbably a little dewy-eyed. Seeing others who shared with t'em the preliminary wait at the entrance, they smile dazzingly and heartily affirm, "Well, it was worth it."

Florida State Enters Telegraphic Swim Meet

Miss Betty Washburn, swimming instructor in the physical education department, announces that Florida State College for Women is entering the 1936 National Inter-Collegiate Telegraphic swim meet.

In the second and third weeks of February the freshman swim meet is to be held as a runner-up for the national meet, which will take place on the first and third weeks of March. The contestants are to be chosen from the student body and anyone interested is asked to report either to Miss Washburn or to Sarah Heilbron.

"Love's Magic Spell" Weaves Odious Triumph

Fate as Perfume Bottle Reeks Retribution On Trickster

"Love's Magic Spell" wove a magic spell of horror at a dining room table at noon last Tuesday when the contents of the above mentioned bottle of perfume was slyly dumped on five or six unsuspecting victims by a sophomore who was deriving much pleasure by playing the odious trick on some of her best friends.

Expressions of dawning comprehension on the faces of the girls as they realized that they had been tricked, were accompanied by chokings and sneezings as that awful aroma engulfed and stifled them.

And it was only then that they were conscious of a cool trickle of liquid down their backs. The unfaithful vessel had, under the pretext of a fond embrace, poured streams of the powerful fluid down every back at table 79.

While the tainted, polluted atmosphere held the girls paralyzed in its grip, the despised bottle, fortunately, rolled unnoticed to the floor and under the table.

But the bottle, lying dormant, was not unnoticed by one sharp eye, and a fertile brain motivated that victim to retrieve the vile smelling instrument.

Then in the company of one of her contemporaries, she stole stealthily into the trickster's room and after much contemplation and deliberation, concealed the bottle, and fled from the room.

Fate, coiled within the sheets, struck back at the traitor.

That night, tired by a wearying day, as she pulled back the covers from her bed, she was dealt a staggering blow as the empty away, the sheets got up and walked out still potent bottle again rearer its ugly head.

Virginia White, a sophomore, had this to say about the convention: "I realized how fine the young people of today are; they are not just out for a good time but are interested in doing something out of life. It inspirational to think that most of the people are interested in doing all they can for the universe. The speakers of the convention helped a great deal. At their lectures I met a large number of people and these contacts that I made with various delegates will always stay with me. Exchanging ideas and getting various opinions of other students gave me a broader outlook on life! One of the most striking things of the convention, however, was the great friendliness of the delegates."

"Talking, seeing and being with foreign students impressed me very much," stated Carol Ramage, a freshman. "The speakers, too, were very enjoyable and interesting, and one of the outstanding things of the convention to me was the international tea at which I had the opportunity of meeting many different delegates and conversing with them."

"The large number of students present at the convention and the outstanding speakers who addressed us greatly impressed me," Kathryn Todd, a sophomore, said. "I especially enjoyed hearing the Archbishop of York and Dr. Koo speak. The seminars that were subdivided into also helped me a great deal, and it was very interesting to note that most of the subjects of these seminars were built around the subject of foreign missions."

Students Attending Convention Have Varied Opinions Concerning Meeting

Foreign Student Contact Proves Interesting To Delegates

The seven students from this college who attended the Twelfth Quadrennial convention of the Student Volunteer Movement at Indianapolis have varied opinions of the convention. One of the things that greatly impressed them was the meeting and coming in contact with students of other countries.

"To me, seeing all of those foreign delegates and realizing they, too, think of the same questions as we do from Australia and intelligently discuss them, greatly surprised me," stated Lucy Cee Linn, senior delegate to the convention. "We Americans are sometimes inclined to think that foreigners don't have as much intelligence as we, but that idea is entirely wrong. Those foreign delegates discussed and gave their opinions on various subjects that were really surprising, and now I realize most of them are as highly educated as we are."

Martha Makemson, junior representative to the convention, quoted: "Coming in contact with students from other lands and getting their viewpoints was of most interest to me. The speakers at the convention were very good as well as inspirational because they made no effort to pass anything but were there merely to formulate and discuss ideas with the different delegates. My mind was greatly broadened from the standpoint of the various subjects discussed because I was able to hear both sides of the subjects.

To Consult Andrews For Psychology 317

Dr. Elizabeth G. Andrews requests that all students expecting to register for "Character Research" (Psychology 317) for the second semester, see her at the Personnel office before the new semester begins.

This course has a prerequisite Psychology 201 or 210.

As a whole, the convention was very exhilirating.

"It gave me an opportunity to meet students representing human life in various parts of the world," said Frances Lewis, a sophomore, who also attended the convention. "I also had the opportunity of sharing with these students addresses made by internationally known leaders on subjects which we meet and hear about every day of our lives. Personal interviews, plays, musical entertainment, international chorus, and an international tea afforded further information in regard to the ways of life in this world."

"To see so many students gathered together for one purpose" voiced Lillie McGuire, another sophomore, "was very inspirational to me. The idea that all the delegates were there to help solve the various problems of today to the best of their ability was a thought that greatly soured within me, and made me want to do my share. In a convention of this kind there is bound to be international ties and feelings made, and, since this convention was non-denominational, it brought the various churches closer together and somewhat overcame the prejudices that exist among the different religions."

Team Plays Basketball

The boys' basketball team of the Demonstration school, which has been playing in a number of games, played Greenville last night and tonight will play the Mount Pleasant team.

The girls' team is not taking part in competitive games at present, according to Dr. R. B. Parsons, principal.

had this to say about the convention: "I realized how fine the young people of today are; they are not just out for a good time but are interested in doing something out of life. It inspirational to think that most of the people are interested in doing all they can for the universe. The speakers of the convention helped a great deal. At their lectures I met a large number of people and these contacts that I made with various delegates will always stay with me. Exchanging ideas and getting various opinions of other students gave me a broader outlook on life! One of the most striking things of the convention, however, was the great friendliness of the delegates."

"Talking, seeing and being with foreign students impressed me very much," stated Carol Ramage, a freshman. "The speakers, too, were very enjoyable and interesting, and one of the outstanding things of the convention to me was the international tea at which I had the opportunity of meeting many different delegates and conversing with them."

"The large number of students present at the convention and the outstanding speakers who addressed us greatly impressed me," Kathryn Todd, a sophomore, said. "I especially enjoyed hearing the Archbishop of York and Dr. Koo speak. The seminars that were subdivided into also helped me a great deal, and it was very interesting to note that most of the subjects of these seminars were built around the subject of foreign missions."

Americans Desire to Be Entertained is Second to Wish for Participation

Continued from page five

these one-celled animals in 40 minutes, how long would it take to have the cup half-filled?

In a certain country there were two kinds of people, the huntsmen, who could tell only lies and the noblemen who were able to tell only the truth. There were three natives walking down the road. The one on the left said something to the one in the middle, identifying himself. The one in the middle turned to the one on the right and said, "He says he is a noble! The man at the right said he is not a Nobleman, he is a Huntsman." Now, how many Huntsmen and how many Noblemen were there in the party?

Then there's the "What's impossible about this one?": Jack: Dreaming in church that he was about to be examined on what he touched on the back of the neck by a fan held by his wife who is accompanying him to church. The man is so frightened in his sleep by this that he does of heart failure: without waking up. What's wrong with the story?

And of course there's the old favorite about the sentry, who while on duty, had a dream about the enemy advancing. The point of his captain he explains his vivid dream of warning and the army takes the necessary precautions.

In enemy does attack and the army was prepared, thus repulsing its foes. Instead of receiving a medal the sentry was court-martialed. Why?

Recently students on Florida State campus learned the game of 'Grandmother Likes." Those who didn't already know it learned it by a painful process and those who discover what Grandmother likes were sworn to secrecy. This is a game that may go on indefinitely.

Library Display Honors Birthday

Biographies and Pictures Feature Exhibit

A new exhibit, consisting of biographies and pictures of Robert E. Lee and of shells found on Sanibel Island, near Fort Myers, by several members of the faculty, is being displayed in the library this week.

The first exhibit is in honor of Lee's one-hundred and thirty-second birthday, January 19. Several of the pictures displayed portray him in his youth and at the time of his presidency as the Washington-Lee University. Other pictures show Stratford Hall, the ancestral home of the Lees and the birthplace of Lee; and a facsimile of a field order from Lee to General Jackson.

One of the biographies in the exhibit has created a stir in the literary world because it is a Pulitzer Prize winner. It is "R. E. Lee," by Douglas Southall Freeman, who is editor of a newspaper in Richmond, Virginia.

Among the other books on display are biographies of Lee by Thomas Nelson Page, Philip A. Bruce, J. E. Cooke and a collection of the general's letters to his young cousin, Martha Custis William, entitled "To Markie."

The second part of the exhibit is composed of a collection of shells made by Misses Mathews, Leonora Smith, and Stevenson. The shells were picked up on the shore of Sanibel Island, which is just off the coast of Fort Myers.

Few people know that this island has been famous for centuries for the beautifully colored shells found on its shores. Many years ago these shells, combined with mirrors, were used to decorate friezes, fountains and arches.

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

We Offer Felicitations To Approbationers; Prayers To Those Who Need Them

The Florida Flambeau

Congratulations To NSFA for Its Participation In Youth Movements

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOLUME XXIII. Tallahassee, Florida, January 31, 1936 NUMBER SIXTEEN

Debate Makes Campus Debut Through NSFA

Abolishment of Present Election System Is Question

JUDGES AWARD NEGATIVE WIN

Favorable Comparison With Other Colleges Downs Plea

The first public appearance of the NSFA debating team, which debated the question, "Resolved: that the election system of P. E. C. W. should be abolished," was made in the Agenda Council Chamber, Tuesday night, January 28.

The speakers were introduced by Mary Joanne McKay, chairsociate professor of art, will make up the exhibit to be held the following day afternoon in room 307, Administration building, according to Miss Amy Perry Byrd, assistant professor of art. Next week the exhibit will include work from the beginning and advanced painting classes also under the direction of Miss Williams.

Contour drawings done by Lilla Gibbs, Anna Conner, Mia Bonner Moore, Eugenia Trimble, Elise Richards, Ruth Fisher, and Margaret Vance will be judges making their decision in favor of the position that the present system of electorals at P. S. C. W. should not be abolished.

Faults of the present system The debate opened with a statement of the faults of the present system as found by the affirmative side, which were: the present system makes impossible democratic speeches, it does not provide for a well informed electorate, encourages "dirty" politics.

The negative side opened their case with the statement in favor of the present system: the system in use is the result of the work of the systems of the past and has fitted for the needs of this county in comparison of methods this our system is one of the best to be found, and it definitely, definitely, works, since we are the best girls on campus we are our respective offices.

The remedy for the situation, which was set forth by the affirmative side, was an entirely new system, submitted formed and the points of which were: students shall be notified of the coming election by campus announcements posted on the CGA bulletin board, articles in the Flambeau, and announcements in convocation. Informal speeches shall be made by nominal officials of campus stating the requirements of the offices and urging elected parties to see their candidate in nominations.

Freeswheeling suggested

Another point was a definite procedure of nomination of the candidate to the student body, to president, a CGA calling the girls to the stage in groups according to classes, introducing each one, and then asking the auditorium while discussing the carried out by the student body. A third important point in new plan, is that each candidate must make a speech explaining the nomination. After the nominees for the office have made their speeches, the floor is open for suggestions of the candidates by the student body.

Another failing of the present system, according to the affirmative side was that it does not provide for substituting available candidates in explanation of this point many girls must work their way through college and cannot give time to offices because of work requirements. It was suggested that CGA should two room and board scholarships to those students holding college offices. Another point brought out was that CGA should two room and board scholarships to those students holding college offices. Another point brought out was that CGA should not present the candidate with final burrows at the time of election. As an example stated candidate trips across the stage, the freeswheeling audience something to the effect that "—was assistant to the dean of women—" often committee of Sophomore hop."

F. S. C. Compared to Others

In proof of the fact that our system system surpasses that of other colleges, the negative side made comparisons. At Sweetbriar, nominations are made from the floor, 100 votes are nominated by secret ballot. At Radcliffe, voting dates are indefinite, and also when a candidate

Continued on page four

Andrews Announces Exam to Be Given

Students who expect to take the United States constitution examinations on Saturday, February 8, are asked to sign up in the personnel office during the coming week. The test will be given at 1:30 p. m. at Leon High school. All students planning to teach next year who are not exempt from this examination are urged to take it now.

Signed:
Elisabeth G. Andrews,
Director of Personnel.

Display Shows First Year Art

Still Life Studies And Charcoal Sketches Now on Exhibit

A group of still life studies from the first-year drawing class of Mrs. Beatrice McKay, assistant professor of art, will make up the exhibit to be held the following day afternoon in room 307, Administration building, according to Miss Amy Perry Byrd, assistant professor of art. Next week the exhibit will include work from the beginning and advanced painting classes also under the direction of Miss Williams.

Contour drawings done by Lilla Gibbs, Anna Conner, Mia Bonner Moore, Eugenia Trimble, Elise Richards, Ruth Fisher, and Margaret Vance will be judges making their decision in favor of the position that the present system of electorals at P. S. C. W. should not be abolished.

Charcoal studies of still life, drawn by Mary Elizabeth Harris, Jean Johnson, Elizabeth Carter, Anna Coomes and Jane Gantare to be included in this exhibit.

A group of still life studies from the first-year drawing class of Mrs. Beatrice McKay, assistant professor of art, will make up the exhibit to be held the following day afternoon in room 307, Administration building, according to Miss Amy Perry Byrd, assistant professor of art. Next week the exhibit will include work from the beginning and advanced painting classes also under the direction of Miss Williams.

Contour drawings done by Lilla Gibbs, Anna Conner, Mia Bonner Moore, Eugenia Trimble, Elise Richards, Ruth Fisher, and Margaret Vance will be judges making their decision in favor of the position that the present system of electorals at P. S. C. W. should not be abolished.

Charcoal studies of still life, drawn by Mary Elizabeth Harris, Jean Johnson, Elizabeth Carter, Anna Coomes and Jane Gantare to be included in this exhibit.

Dorman Talks To Commission Girls

"Group Responsibilities Should Be Stressed"

"We must learn to realize that the college is one group—faculty and students alike—working for the same end. Spirit alone makes the college," said Dean Glivia N. Dorman in a recent talk to members of the Freshman Commission. She outlined the present and future plans for better faculty-student relationships.

Especially emphasizing the possibilities of extension work, Dean Dorman spoke of a new program for selecting advisers that she hopes will be more efficient than the present method. By expressing her belief that conferences should be more definitely coordinated with the work of other organizations, she explained plans by which this might be accomplished.

Miss Dorman stressed the fact that the orientation work of next year Dean Dorman said that freshmen should not be more emphasis placed on the teaching of the freshman class, but on the individual privileges for group privileges. "Every student," she said, "must be taught a sense of responsibility above all else."

In speaking of the work that the faculty has done towards better relationships with the student body, she mentioned their work on the honor system and their work on the new method of voting, the improvement of student activities, and the simplification of the system of absences.

"We need mutual confidence," Dean Dorman said, "and we must be afraid of being too idealistic."

Lecture Series Offers Prizes for Questions Asked After Each Forum

All students who attend the lecture forums on the campus will be interested in knowing that a book of poetry is being offered as a prize to the student who asks the keenest question at these lectures. The first contest will start at the next forum and will continue through four lectures.

The next lecture will be on the subject, "The Ethiopian Crisis." Opportunity will be afforded students for asking questions. Following the forum hand in your question in writing, so that there may be no misunderstanding. The best questions will be selected from all four lectures by judges selected from the faculty with certainty representative to determine the winner.

New Semester Will Feature Campus Sports

Swimmers Hold Olympics In Miniature Here Next Month

RIFLE PRACTICE GOES ON AT CAMP

Life Savers Get Practice Underway as Exam Time Nears

With the opening of the second semester, campus sports have received a renewed impetus. The cardinal events to take place during the forthcoming semester are the rifle range practices, telegraphic-swimming meet, the life saving corps meet, the intra-mural spring basketball tilts, and the inter-college hockey games.

Rifle Range

The rifle range practice, which was initiated by Miss Elisabeth Autrey, has been going forward at Camp Flastacowo. Practice is open to any students wishing to take advantage of this opportunity.

Swimmers have a veritable small-scale Olympic tournament offered them in the many features of the telegraphic-swimming meet which is scheduled for February 6-21. Any student who wishes to enter the following records during February may enter the meet.

There is no limitation on the number of events in which a student may participate. The various divisions of the meet include a 50-yard free-style relay, a 75-yard medley relay a 100-yard crawl, a 100-yard breast stroke, a 100-yard back stroke, and a 150-yard scarf.

The life saving corps, composed of all senior life-savers, will hold its first meeting of the opening of water sports. Instruction with an important business session followed by instruction in life saving.

Hockey Team

At convocation last Tuesday, Rose Panowski, president of WAA, announced the opening of the intra-United States hockey meet, which is to be held here in two weeks, would start Tuesday afternoon. She urged all students who are interested to report for practice every afternoon at 4:30.

The visiting United States hockey team members representing the northwest and southwest will be here for a comparatively new sport on campus, but with a first meet of the kind to be held here.

In addition to these sports intra-curricular activities will be held, beginning Tuesday in the lobby of the auditorium. According to a recent announcement made by Maria Joffre who will be in charge of the tournament. The tournament will be held each Tuesday at 2:30 and Thursday at 4:30.

Anyone who has not fenced before but who would like to learn the art of fencing may sign up for both of these classes. Those who have had some fencing will be welcomed to the classes also.

Dr. Heinlein's Article Published by American Journal of Psychology

Dr. Christian Paul Heinlein, professor of educational psychology, is the author of a critical review of experimental examinations which appears in the January issue of the American Journal of Psychology.

The article is an evaluation of the treatise on "Beauty and Human Nature" by Albert R. Chandler, professor of philosophy at Cornell University, in which Dr. Chandler describes at length Dr. Heinlein's theory of the social mode which has gained wide acceptance both in this country and abroad.

Dr. Heinlein, who has devoted much time to the study of the emotional effects of various kinds of music and of the rhythmic response of children and adults, has had many articles published and has been quoted extensively by Dr. Beebe-Center of Harvard, Dr. Buford Johnson of Johns Hopkins, Dr. Carroll Pratt of Harvard, Dr. Paul F. Farnsworth of Stanford, Dr. Harold Burg of Vanderbilt, Dr. James L. Mursell of Lawrence College, Wisconsin, and Missouri, Dr. Louise Larson Iowa, Dr. Kate Gevser of Minnesota and others.

Eugene Ormandy Serves Only One Master Now — Conducting

Does Not Try to Predict Trend of Modern Music But is Sure That It is Moving Ahead Aided by Today's Composers

By EVELYN FISHER and MARGARET DUNCAN

"I've lost Mr. Ormandy. He's just like a rabbit," said the only woman manager of a major symphony orchestra as we were introduced to her.

"I can't keep up with him," she said as she calmly ushered us to one corner of the crowded hotel lobby. "But I'll have you know that he is not one of those temperamental geniuses you hear so much about. Studio fits are unusually more publicity."

Before Mrs. Scott had finished telling us of the intricacies involved in managing a genius, a man of medium height with a shock of pale hair approached our corner.

"Here's Gene now," Mrs. Scott said, and in a few minutes we found ourselves in the midst of one of the most outstanding conductors of symphonic music in this country.

When we talked about Ormandy's early years in music, Ormandy said, "No one can predict what is going to happen to you, we do know that it is moving—moving and striving toward something ahead."

Mr. Ormandy completely disconcerted us when he made comparisons with the so-called "jazz spirit." He believes that the future of modern music lies in the compositions now being created by the composers of our day.

"But," he said, "where these composers will end up and whether the people for whom they are written will accept them remains to be seen."

Contrary to many of his contemporary music leaders Mr. Ormandy believes that radio has done much to bring genuinely great music into the lives of ordinary people. He attributes the broadening of the best music into the homes largely to the radio broadcasts. "It is for the ordinary people becomes "hungry to see the real performances."

Mr. Ormandy expressed himself, however, as "a little afraid of television." He thinks that the kind of performance that is brought into the home by the eye and the ear might decrease the demand for genuine performances. He also believes that "the eye can hand it may serve, as did the phonograph, merely to make the real perfc mance that much more de-sirable to the listener."

In short Mr. Ormandy is convinced that the radio has done and can do much towards the growth of the ordinary person's taste for music.

When asked if he ever used any printed scores in conducting Mr. Ormandy replied that he did not. "I learn it once. Then it is all in my head," he said as he, unmandy, smiling, pointed to his head. He further explained that

Continued on page four

Reports Given On Convention

Graham, McKay Speak To Student Body On NSFA Conference

Margaret Graham and Mary Jeanne McKay, senior and junior delegates respectively to the seventh annual congress of the National Student Federation of America held in Kansas City, Missouri, during the holidays, reported to the student body at convocation Tuesday the resolutions presented and the accomplishments of the convention. They were introduced by Katherine Blood, president of the College Government association.

Margaret Graham, the first speaker on the program, cited some of the major aims and resolutions of the federation and the purpose of which was to achieve the spirit of cooperation among the students of the United States. Since the majority of student congresses recommended student betterment in high schools and preparatory schools, as well as in college life, the Federation went to work towards this goal. The Honor system was also highly commended.

The convention resolved in effect, that the student activity fee should be lowered, that students, with the faculty active in the capacity of advisors. Further resolutions were passed that could 'e gained by larger representation, in which the student body in the colleges, it was decided at the convention.

The Congress resolved to sponsor the organization of an association of college students to openly advocate freedom of the press. The publications committee endorsed the participation of students in the college courses of study. Further resolutions on academic freedom were passed, all of which tended the further assumption of responsibilities on the part of the individual student.

The Federation went on record as opposing the American Youth Act and also the present neutrality legislation before Congress. It recommended the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations under provisions satisfactory to those of Switzerland's membership. Margaret in briefly reviewing other activities of the convention showed the great importance of material covered at the convention.

Mary Jeanne McKay, stressing the national issues debated by the Congress, declared that it would be impossible to state in a few words the wonderful advantages and ideas gleaned from the convention. Expressing the belief that the youth of today is becoming more intelligent, she quoted the late Nicholas Murray Butler, "I am optimistic."

He said if we are to have a gov-

Continued on page four

Student Sees Life in Many Varied Forms

Says That College Girls Learn by Watching Others' Lives

BY SARAH SEALEY

They tell us that college life is not real life. They say that college students live almost apart from the normal world and that after graduation they must learn to live in the world all over again.

They forget, perhaps, that the best part of life is that in watching other people live. And, surely, college affords this.

The brief time of a ten-minute walk from room back to study o.c. on Tuesday night is long enough for one to see life in its bitterest form. Two women passed me as I saw it one night.

One was a woman, carrying a heavy suitcase. She had no money, she told me, and was looking for a place where she might take women. Her glance was dull, her dress dreary. She was dirty. I told the woman how to find the police station. She had her, too, was within the building several blocks were two or three hundred women gathered in the auditorium God. Some of them. I told her, were thinking about her. Their thoughts and ideals long enough after church to have pity on her. She walked on, hopeless.

I walked on. There were other characters. Some were happy people, who were there, most of them, because of their belief or lack of belief in God. I was in an infinitely powerful Spirit, but within the building were those somehow look down upon and hear the prayers of the less fortunate creations of His. In one church a man was talking about Him; people in one building had what they took Him. But between the two buildings I was gathered in the buildings for the same purpose; there was a separateness a thousand miles wide, a gap as far-reaching distance between them; the people in one building had white skins; the others were black. And the separateness very clear. In the congressions came out of the churches the black men would stand in groups, and the white men in groups. Separateness.

Farther down the street was a cluster of tombstones, tombstones graves, mounds headed by imposing, moss-covered monuments. Here graves with fresh mounds, shiny marble stones—yet all of them were equal in their small mess.

I looked up, then, at the brilliant stars against a blue-black dome. The little circle of my thoughts became as immense as that sky, and with it increased the overwhelming sense of incomprehension

The necessary lay behind me

Continued on page four

Diplomas Are Conferred On Fourteen Girls

S. Doyle Reports Number To Be Largest Ever Recorded Here

EXERCISES WILL NOT TAKE PLACE

Mid-Year Graduates Can Participate in May Commencement

Fourteen students completed requirements for diplomas at the close of the first semester according to S. S. Doyle, registrar. This is the largest number of mid-year graduates ever recorded here.

Six students were graduated from the School of Arts and Sciences, three with four-year diplomas and three with two-year diplomas from the School of Education and one from the School of Music.

No Exercises Held

Although no commencement exercises were held, the mid-year graduates will have the privilege of returning to the May commencement to receive their diplomas at that time.

The following mid-year graduates received the Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Arts and Sciences: Eleanor Marchman Moore, Tallahassee; Mary Jane Cosiucup, Orlando; Frances Passmore, Bradenton; Mary Elizabeth Harriett Phillips, Jacksonville, Kathryn Beeman Barrs, Jackson-ville; and Elizabeth Hamilton, Palm Beach, received the Bachelor of Science degree.

In the school of Education, Florida State College for Women, Nice, France and a new taking a general course at Agnes Scott.

Among the many studies shown during her lecture was a scene of girls tennis with a class day overhead. Upon seeing this she remarked, "I entained, I'm like Florida, isn't it? Yon and I are true Southerners."

During the forum held later, Mademoiselle Cappatti expressed how the girls in France attend dances. "We don't have dates in France like you do here in America." she stated. "We are not lucky like you girls. We go to a dance with our mothers and sit at a table with us. The boys in the line alone. If they want to dance with you, they come over to your table and ask your mother if they may have the pleasure of dancing with her daughter. After a while, they return to their table; we cannot walk around or go any place just by ourselves."

As to our etiquette and colleges we have no corrottion nor fraternities in the states. The girls live in what you call boarding houses but very little never live in the same house. That would be a very improper thing. The students of our colleges are known by numbers, and they very rarely know personally anyone beyond with, of their professors or heads of the school. At the end of the year, by e examinations which last for two days. Each student is given a card with subjects as physics or chemistry, and under each subject number that's entire course of a subject. After the written examinations are over, oral examinations include Barbara Hubbard, chairman, Marjorie Mathews, Kathryn Todd, Martha Lester, Margaret Stout, and Marion Bearman.

Assisting on the social affairs Gladys Oliver, chairmen of the follow-up committee, are Mary Margaret by Evelyn Collins Maurgis Lesser, Mary Wood, Wylla Mae Whitfield-burg, Jo Beth Foreman, Ann Norris, Peggy McMichael, Lucy Gee Hall, Helen Bradley, Sarah Sealey, and Margaret Stout.

Dr. Moore to Represent Governor at Conference Held in South Carolina

Dr. Coyle E. Moore, associate professor of education in Florida State College for Women, is acting as the personal representative of Governor Fred P. Cone at a conference in Columbia, S. C. this week.

This conference was called by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins to discuss ways in which the different states may take advantage of the social security act.

Dr. Moore was in Miami attending the regular meeting of the state board of education, of which he is vice chairman, when he received the governor's communication asking him to the Columbia meeting.

Ad Building Is To Be Repaired

Post Office, Book Store, And Studios Will Be Relocated

The north wing of the Administration building on the state, is to be vacated and ready to be torn down by Monday, according to J. O. Keller, business manager of the college.

Plans for moving the postoffice, bookstore, storerooms, and offices are already underway.

The music studio of Miss Gladys Koch and Miss Etta Robertson, located on the third floor, second and fourth floors, Administration building, and the studios will occupy rooms 118, 120, and 122. Partitions between the rooms will be torn down, making the large room for the bookstore and postoffice.

Post office boxes will be moved to the center of the building, occupying the space formerly occupied by the janitor's headquarters, and the new location of the boxes will be partitioned off. The storeroom on the north side beneath the auditorium is also to be partitioned off, one half of it is to serve as the office of Mr. Mendenhall, resident engineer. The other half as a workers' storeroom.

Other campus improvements include the beautification of the road behind Jennie Murphree hall, the widening of bridges behind Reynolds hall and along the walk leading to the gymnasium, and the installation of drinking fountains around the gymnasium. These improvements by the PWA is being done by government workers under the supervision of Mr. Mendenhall and Mr. Keller.

Freed Talks on Geneva

The monthly meeting, of the Classical club held Tuesday night in Broward club room featured a lecture on Greece by Miss Gladys Freed instructor in classics.

Miss Freed spoke to the club her trip through Greece and illustrated her talk with pictures from that country.

'Snow Use, It Was Merely a Sleet Storm

Southern Girls are Again Denied Thrill Of White Flakes

"Snow!"
"Snow!"
"Snow!"

Everyone rushed to the windows on the class room, and from this jumbled mass of eager faces floated surprised exclamations.

"Is it really snow?"

"Snow in Florida! In Tallahassee!"

Girls who have never seen snow looked greedily out the windows trying to take in all the wonders of this marvel at once, only to be awakened at such an ecstatic moment by some disgruntled northerner.

"Snow! Say, that is nothing but a poor edition of a sleet storm, nothing but a few particles of ice among the rain drops."

And the same girls went dejectedly back to their seats, feeling that their desire to see real snow, such a long awaited for event in their education, had again been denied.

French Visitor Lectures Here

Marcelle Cappatti Tells Of University Life In Her Country

Mademoiselle Marcelle Cappatti, French visitor from Aglaeon Provence, showed slides of her native country at an open forum held for S. C. W. students Thursday evening, January 30, in the Auditorium at 7:30 o'clock.

Mademoiselle Cappatti is a graduate of the university of Nice, France and is now taking a general course at Agnes Scott.

Among the many slides shown during her lecture was a scene of girls tennis with a class day overhead. Upon seeing this she remarked, "I entained, I'm like Florida, isn't it? Yon and I are true Southerners."

During the forum held later, Mademoiselle Cappatti expressed how the girls in France attend dances. "We don't have dates in France like you do here in America." she stated. "We are not lucky like you girls. We go to a dance with our mothers and sit at a table with us. The boys in the line alone. If they want to dance with you, they come over to your table and ask your mother if they may have the pleasure of dancing with her daughter. After a while, they return to their table; we cannot walk around or go any place just by ourselves."

As to our etiquette and colleges we have no corrottion nor fraternities in the states. The girls live in what you call boarding houses but very little never live in the same house. That would be a very improper thing. The students of our colleges are known by numbers, and they very rarely know personally anyone beyond with, of their professors or heads of the school. At the end of the year, by e examinations which last for two days. Each student is given a card with subjects as physics or chemistry, and under each subject number that's entire course of a subject. After the written examinations are over, oral examinations include Barbara Hubbard, chairman, Marjorie Mathews, Kathryn Todd, Martha Lester, Margaret Stout, and Marion Bearman.

Assisting on the social affairs Gladys Oliver, chairmen of the follow-up committee, are Mary Margaret by Evelyn Collins Maurgis Lesser, Mary Wood, Wylla Mae Whitfield-burg, Jo Beth Foreman, Ann Norris, Peggy McMichael, Lucy Gee Hall, Helen Bradley, Sarah Sealey, and Margaret Stout.

Poteat To Be Leader During Emphasis Week

Former Faculty Member Of Shanghai U. Will Be Guest Here

McKAY TO HEAD ALL COMMITTEES

Religious Program Takes Place Fourth Time Since 1932

A former member of the Shanghai university faculty and one of the most brilliant of Southern Baptist ministers, Dr. Edwin McNeil Poteat, Jr., of Raleigh, N. C., is to be at Florida State College for Women February 10-16 as the speaker for Religious Emphasis Week.

Baptist Pastor

Dr. Poteat is now pastor of the Pullen Memorial Baptist church in Raleigh. He is president of the Commission on Inter-racial Cooperation of the South and is the author of several books.

According to Miss Jeanne McKay, who has been chosen as general chairman of the week, student committees and faculty advisors are now working out the details of the program. Students representing all religious groups on campus have been asked to serve on the committees.

Fourth Time

Religious Emphasis Week was observed first in 1932 and since that time has been a regular part of the college calendar. It is nondenominational, being sponsored by a number of religious groups and is held annually in the spring. Tentativa plans for the week include lectures, less, forums, conferences and a final service in the college auditorium on Sunday morning. Miss Prudence Borthin chairman of the program committee, has working with her Elizabeth Mitchell, Doris McGinnie Sara Nance, Lucy Gee Linn, Clotilde O'Donnell, Virginia White, and Sara Rutledge.

The finance committee includes Martha Mahrmont, chairman, Frances Lewis. Mary Ola Reynolds, Nan Norris, Doris Hiott Sagotti, Helen Daniel, Louise Brown, Be-ty Wright, and Midelle Hall.

Marjorie Raulerson and Freyr Mathews, chairmen of the entertainment committee are being assisted by Mary Ruth Bass, Krentzman, Sara Bell Palmer, Betty Catlind, Lotta Gibbs, Betty Oliver, Jane Aggers, Mary Pell, Lillie McClure, Virginia Northrop, and Frances Thomas.

Committee Members

The members of the music committee include Josephine Bunon, chairman, Sara Hethcox, Marian Bennett, Dorothy Lewis, Catherine Cruppe Lois Bowen, Maxine Ward, and Marion Carson. The publicity committee has as members Gertrude Kuan, Katherine Bowden, Ruth Lewis, Louise, Lingo, Polly Pint, Adele Howard, Elizabeth Bush, Sarah Sealey, Jane Hubbard, Elsie Trott, Matilda Trott, and Floy Smith.

Edith Phelps has as members of the publications committee Louise Getian, Frances Morrow, Gladys Oliver, and Rose Panowski. The service crew, oral examinations includes Barbara Hubbard, chairman, Marjorie Mathews, Kathryn Todd, Martha Lester, Margaret Stout, and Marion Bearman.

Assisting on the social affairs Gladys Oliver, chairmen of the follow-up committee, are Mary Margaret by Evelyn Collins Maurgis Lesser, Mary Wood, Wylla Mae Whitfield-burg, Jo Beth Foreman, Ann Norris, Peggy McMichael, Lucy Gee Hall, Helen Bradley, Sarah Sealey, and Margaret Stout.

Dr. Moore to Represent Governor at Conference Held in South Carolina

Dr. Coyle E. Moore, associate professor of education in Florida State College for Women, is acting as the personal representative of Governor Fred P. Cone at a conference in Columbia, S. C. this week.

This conference was called by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins to discuss ways in which the different states may take advantage of the social security act.

Dr. Moore was in Miami attending the regular meeting of the state board of education, of which he is vice chairman, when he received the governor's communication asking him to the Columbia meeting.

Martin Speaks On Buying Food

Kitchen Specialist To Address Students Of Home Economics

Miss Mary Hoke Martin, home economic specialist connected with the testing kitchen of the Chicago office of Libby, McNeil, Libby company, will make two talks here on February 11 according to Miss Margaret Reckie Sandels, dean of the School of Home Economics.

Speaking at 2:30 on the subject, "Quantity Food Buying," Miss Martin will address the quantity cookery class

"Qualifications necessary for success in the business world" will be the subject of Miss Martin's talk to be given at 7:30 in the chemistry lecture room in the Science building at a meeting of the Home Economics club. Dean Sandels cordially invites all students who are interested to be present at the meeting.

Among the Home Economics members are Martha Williams, Serena otterbridge, Gladys Harvard, Mary Catherine Coody, Hazel Myrick, Clara Bell Tribble, Jean Gillen, Kathleen Owens, Ellen McLeod, Betty Anderson, Shirley Stevens, Katherine Jiturain, Alta Vann, Louise Fitzpatrick, Mary Burgoon, Mary Elizabeth Stevenson, Elise Barnett, Katherine Trobough, Mabry Sumner, Opal Walker, Elizabeth Gurdo, Sara Nance, Louise D. Johnson, Marjorie Beach, Ezora Rehsnider, Carlotta Cubilas, Clara Langford, Virginia Pinney, Sarah Tweed, Irene Day, Mary L. Herschel, Constance Windham, Jean Willis, Virginia Duke, Miriam Blaisdell, Edith Hobson, Katherine Fox, Gwendolyn Adair, Helen Wahlberg, Wesma Spinlock, Florence Wagner, Dot White, Margaret Walcott, Mary Jane Bush, Julian Harris, Betty Wadsworth, Anna Louise Polle, Margaret Delaney, Margaret Mizell.

Students in Physics and Geography Enjoy Educational Talkies Wednesday

University Chicago Man Shows Interesting Snaps to Class

Donald F. Bean, manager of the University of Chicago Press, caused considerable excitement here Wednesday, when he showed talking pictures to some of the classes in physics and geography. These pictures did not star such movie favorites as Joan Crawford and Clark Gable, but were educational pictures dealing with the physical universe.

Mr. Bean's purpose in showing these movies was to give an idea of how the professors at Chicago has adopted a plan of showing a twelve minute picture pertaining to the subject the class is discussing at the beginning of each class hour, following this by an open discussion on the picture just seen. He says that the purpose of this is to introduce the students to a vaster field of knowledge and arouse their curiosity, causing them to go deeper into the subject for further reading.

"I think that when a student actually sees things happening he remembers them for a longer length of time," Mr. Bean stated while he was walking back and forth quickly packing his movie pictures so that he could animate the three o'clock train. "Too difficult problems are made easier when one can see how they came to pass and why. I strongly believe that in the near future education will be made up of talking pictures which the students may use for a certain length of time and then discard. I certainly hope that such a thing happens

...nywar, for I am sure that students will learn a great deal more ...an they are learning at the present time."

Mr. Bean came here from Gainesville and is on his way to Louisiana, where he will visit the University of Louisiana.

Smiling, he remarked, "Professors in other schools are not always as glad to see me as the students. They seem to be under the impression that I have come to take their jobs away from them, but that is absurd. If all the schools in the country were to adopt the plan of showing talking pictures, there would still be a need for the professors and teachers, perhaps even more so than before. They would have to act as a guide for the students, holding open discussions with them, explaining in greater detail the things they have just seen on the screen, and giving them information as to where they can obtain the necessary reading material."

Because the University of Chicago is anxious for other schools to follow them in this line of education they are arranging Mr. Bean's tour through several schools.

Upon being asked what he thought of the South, Mr. Bean stopped his work and stated, "Well, you see, I married an Alabama woman, so, of course, I am very fond of the South. I have made several trips here before, and I'm always happy when I get the opportunity to make another one."

His opinion of the college was also asked, and he said: "I like small colleges very much, and think one gets more out of a smaller school than out of a larger one. Of course, to you 1,500 students is quite a large

Demonstration School Holds Annual Election For Council Positions

Campaign speeches were delivered at noon Wednesday for candidates running for office on the student council of the Demonstration school of which Miss Florence Tryon is sponsor.

Each candidate had a campaign manager who spoke for his candidate.

Candidates for the different offices were Ruth Terrell and Odis Kendrick, seniors, for president; Harriet Kent, Albert Yates, and Jack Richie for vice-president; Sue Love, Dorothy Parker, and Mary Armes for secretary; Elizabeth Rogers and William Baker for treasurer.

The boys erected a loud speaker for the meeting which was conducted like a political meeting. Althea Lloyd, chairman of elections, presided.

Voting took place yesterday during the periods. Regular printed ballots were provided and a registration list was checked before the voters were given their ballots.

Offices and Classrooms Juggled Around Campus

It's "moving day" at Florida State college as preparations are being completed to tear down the condemned north portion of the Education building. In this last few weeks the registrar's office, which occupied the space once used by Dr. Dodd's office has been moved to the History building and some of the people in the history building, including the sociology department, have been transferred to the top floor of the Education building. The business office will be moved into the History building and the book store and post office into the space underneath the college auditorium. Business Manager Kellum has announced. It is understood tearing down of the condemned part of the Ad building will begin Monday.

number, but to me it is very small in comparison with the 11,000 students we have at the University of Chicago."

Typing Course Offered

The new typing course offered by the Demonstration school is being taught by practice teachers under the direction of Mrs. W. A. Bass, according to Dr. R. B. Parsons, principal of the school. Next year a regular teacher will be obtained.

Majority of Colleges Represented on Campus By 142 Faculty Members

The majority of the leading universities and educational institutions in this country are represented on campus by the 142 faculty members.

A recent survey shows thirty-six of the faculty members hold Ph.D. degrees, and fifty-one hold master's degrees. In addition to this there are two M.D.'s on campus. Of those who have master's degrees, many have done work preparatory to getting higher degrees. About three-fourths of the faculty are women.

Chicago ranks first in the number of faculty members with Ph. D. degree, since there are five on campus. North Carolina is next with four. With three each, Iowa, Columbia, and Wisconsin tie for third place. The other universities represented on the campus by persons holding the doctor's degree are Clark, Northwestern, Harvard, Illinois, Minnesota, Ohio, Cornell, Johns Hopkins, Cincinnati, Virginia, and Indiana.

Book Store Moves Feb. 1

The college bookstore will be moved to another part of the Administration by February 1, according to Herbert D. Mendenhall, resident engineer. Soon afterwards, workmen will start tearing down parts of this building.

Other classrooms and offices located in the north end of the building were moved this week. Miss Etta Robertson, associate professor of voice, and Miss Gladys, instructor in voice, have moved their studios to the music department located back of the auditorium.

Traveling Choir Presented Here

Morning Side Singers Give Program

The Morningside choir of Morningside college, Sioux City, Iowa, presented a program of religious selections in the college auditorium yesterday morning.

This was the initial program of a group of four to be given at the outstanding colleges and universities of the state by the choir on its tour of the southeast.

Besides the numbers sung by the entire choir of approximately sixty mixed voices three soloists, all girls, were also presented.

After the program the choir was entertained with lunch in the college dining room with Dr. Mark Degraff in charge of the guests.

The boys and girls of the choir went on a sightseeing tour of Florida's capitol before leaving Tallahassee this afternoon. The choir is traveling in two large buses.

Debates Makes Campus Debut Through NSFA

Continued from page one

is obtained by the college office, who automatically receives a lower one. F. S. C. W. has a set date for debates, and candidates are picked for one office alone. At U. S. C. W. the candidates for office are purely residential. At Hollins, if there is more than one nominee, votes are counted until all but one are eliminated.

"Establish a unit in my country and study, and I like it here," she finished. "I am proud to belong to France, and you girls should be very proud to be citizens of America. You don't know how lucky you really are!"

"Establish a unit in my country but not as safe as yours. You girls here in America really enjoy life, and you should be very happy. We girls in France don't enjoy life half as much as you. Of course, we take long walks in the mountains, but we always go alone. It would be a terrible thing if a boy were to accompany a girl in my country just study, and I like it here. It's more recreation than just studying."

"There is one thing I am happy to say, and that is that the Y. W. C. A. is just beginning in France," she said. "I think that the association is very wonderful thing, and I only hope that it really will mean as much to France as it does to you people here in America."

"Of course, I am very proud of my country, and I love it," she

Charter Withdrawn Due To New Sorority Ruling

The National Council of the Sigma Kappa Sigma sorority announces the withdrawal of the charter of the Rho chapter on February 1, 1936, according to Miss Florence Tryon, faculty advisor. An agreement has been made between the National Panhellenic congress and the Association of Educational Sororities stating that this sorority will in the future confine its chapters to teachers' colleges only.

Rho chapter was installed at Florida State College in the year of 1919 and has been active on this campus. Several of its members have taken part in various college affairs.

Student Sees Life In Many Varied Forms

Continued from page one

now. On either side were brightly lighted houses. They were surrounded by houses where girls and young men were laughing and music was being played. My short walk was over.

That was all. There had been no hurrying crowds of people, none of the great emotional expiences of human life, no contact with the efficient and practical business world—only a very ordinary walk from town to school past a changing panorama of life.

REPORTS GIVEN ON CONVENTION

Continued from page one

ernment run by public opinion, we must have a public opinion, that is, an educated one.

Mary Jeanne stressed the obligations and duties of a citizen in democracy. Each individual has adequate opportunity for citizenship she said, and Florida State can meet its responsibilities of student government only when the students as a whole prove their worth.

In naming the advantages which this institution receives in return for membership in the Student Federation, Mary Jeanne said we are affiliated with an organization which is international in scope, and which sponsors international debating teams and information surveys.

Mary Jeanne concluded her talk with the statement that the N. S. F. A. Forum is the one adequate means of expressing student opinion and asked for greater support from the student body of this college.

FRENCH VISITOR LECTURES HERE

Continued from page one

where they go, as my country is not as safe as yours. You girls here in America really enjoy life, and you should be very happy. We girls in France don't enjoy life half as much as you. Of course, we take long walks in the mountains, but we always go alone. It would be a terrible thing if a boy were to accompany a girl in my country just study, and I like it here. It's more recreation than just studying."

"There is one thing I am happy to say, and that is that the Y. W. C. A. is just beginning in France," she said. "I think that the association is very wonderful thing, and I only hope that it really will mean as much to France as it does to you people here in America."

"Of course, I am very proud of my country, and I love it," she finished. "I am proud to belong to France, and you girls should be very proud to be citizens of America. You don't know how lucky you really are!"

Faculty Instrumental Trio Gives Concert In Gainesville Last Week

The faculty instrumental trio of Florida State college gave a concert Thursday night on the program of the Gainesville Philharmonic society at the Twentieth Century clubroom in Gainesville. The trio is composed of Mr. Augustus Murphy, violin, and Mary Esther Winslow, piano, and Mr. Owen Sellers, cello.

With the assistance of Margaret Whitney Dow, soprano, the trio gave a concert Friday evening in the Christian church in Tampa, under the auspices of the Friday Morning musicals.

On Saturday morning Dean Engram gave a talk on the subject of music at Florida State College for Women over station WFLA Tampa and WFLA Cleartone. The trio also played two numbers, Arensky's "Elegie" and Brahm's Hungarian Dance.

The faculty instrumental trio will give a recital this coming Friday at Starkeville, Miss. They will be for the benefit of the musical scholarship fund Senator Hugueni has established. The trio have been received in the office of the dean.

Eugene Ormandy Serves One Master—Conducting

Continued from page two

in the pause between music and sing at the score the conductor loses contact with his orchestra. Ormandy has a method that have his mind on everything at the time," said the conductor of the orchestra.

In speaking of the best orchestra in America career, Mr. Ormandy said that there were as many facilities in America for excellent musical education, but he was of the opinion that there is a lack in the atmosphere other countries and to walk in the cities where the great composers such as Wagner, Bach, and Beethoven lived and composed their greatest music" to have a complete musical education.

"A man can't serve two masters," stated Mr. Ormandy, who started out as a violin prodigy when we asked him if he employed his violin. "I gave it within to my concert master five years ago. All my time now devoted to conducting."

When we asked Mr. Ormandy if there was any place for women in symphonic orchestras he looked at us very thoughtfully for a few minutes and then replied that in a general rule he did not believe women belonged in the symphony with the single exception of the harp, unless the whole group minded as in some symphonic orchestras of Sweden and Norway. He does believe, however, that talent, not sex or color, should be the basis of the selection of performers for any musical organization.

"Of course," he remarked with a faint quirk about his mouth, he looked first at his watch, manager and then at his interviewers, "women's place is in the home."

THEY'VE FOUND A NEW THRILL . . . IN CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

CAMELS NEVER GET ON MY NERVES

CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS SURE HAVE THE FLAVOR

I LIKE CAMEL'S DELICATE MILDNESS

CAMELS DON'T GET MY WIND

WHAT OTHERS SAY ABOUT

CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS

IS TRUE FOR YOU TOO, YOU'LL FIND.

We invite you to try IO!

Money-Back Invitation to try Camels

What these people above are saying is typical of the praises being showered upon Camel's costlier tobaccos by over Camel smokers everywhere . . . smokers who saw our money-back offer to "try ten" . . . and took us at our word!

They tried ten . . . smoked twenty. And went on, from pack to pack, to explore a new delight . . . as they sensed the mildness . . . the coolness . . . the unrivaled flavor . . . of Camel's costlier, non-irritating tobaccos.

Attractive trial offer—We are confident that you will like Camels as others do. Accept our invitation—try Camels. Judge them critically. Compare them with others for mildness, for bouquet, for throat-ease, for good taste. Tuna fish—get a pack today.

Smoke 10 fragrant Camels. If you don't find them the mildest, best-flavored cigarettes you ever smoked, return the package with the rest of the cigarettes in it to us at any time within a month from this date, and we will refund your full purchase price, plus postage.

(Signed)

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY

Winston-Salem, North Carolina

READ OUR OFFER TO YOU

© 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tob. Co.

Costlier Tobaccos

© Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

M & N CAFE
SPECIAL AT ALL TIMES:
Steak Dinners 40c Oyster Dinners 40c
PHONE 1004 119 JEFFERSON ST.

ADAMS' STUDIO
"Photographs that Please"
121 E. College Ave. Phone 791

HORSE SHOE NEWS STAND
208 S. Monroe St.
Fountain Specials . . . Candy and Cigarettes
We also Carry the Best Complete Line of Magazines and Daily Papers in Town.

Bennett's
Soda Luncheonette Specials
Saturday and Sunday Luncheon
25c and 35c
Your Choice of One—
Roast Young Western Turkey and dressing with Cran
Western Tenderloin Steak, Country Style
Congealed Fruit Salad
Selection of Fresh Vegetables, Bran Muffins, Hot Biscuit
Chicken Salad sandwich 20c
Bar-B-Q Pork Sandwich Potato Chips 10c
Home Made Chili With Beans 10c
Cup of Hot Chocolate with Whipped Cream and Pea
Peanut Butter Crackers 10
Fresh Strawberry Short Cake 15c
Pineapple Fruit Parfait 12c
Hot Chocolate Marshmallow Fudge Sundae 15c

FREE!
A Soapless Oil Shampoo and Set!
50c
ARTISTIC BEAUTY SHOP
916 S. Adams - Phone 1001

FLORIDA STATE ALUMNAE NEWS

BY RACHEL PITCHFORD

Inside College Gates

With the gaiety of vacation well over and the hectic frenzy of exam week now in the past the campus of Florida has settled down to its normal self and anticipation of all the second semester events that will be featured in the next few months.

Of interest to alumnae will be the various trips taken by faculty members during the Christmas holidays. One large group headed by President Edward Conradi and Dean Nathaniel Salley attended the annual meeting of the Florida Education association held in Orlando.

Others attending the Orlando meet were Dr Lynn R. Ralya, Miss Rowena Longmire, Miss Katherine W. Montgomrey, Miss Mary Settle, Mr. Kenneth Williams, Miss Martha Chapman, Dr. David Briggs Miss Florence Tryon, Miss Margaret Sandels, Prof. H. F Becker Miss Luella Richey, and Dorothy Disher.

Dean Ella Scoble Opperman and Dr Marion Hay attended conventions in New York while Dr. Christian Paul Heinlein and Dr. Anna Forbes Liddell journeyed to Baltimore for the American Philosophical association convention.

Dr Paul F Finner and Miss Gladys Pawley represented Florida State at the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at St. Louis. Earl Lynn Vance, associate professor of journalism, attended the convention of the American Association of Journalism Teachers in Washington, D. C.

Dr. Coyle E Moore, associate professor of sociology at Florida State is acting as the personal representative of Governor David Sholtz at a conference called at Columbia, S. C. this week by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins to discuss ways in which the different states may take advantage of the social security act.

No longer can the two night watchmen of the college be classified as "plainclothes men." They have now been furnished with the regular dark blue uniforms of the official police staff.

The circulation at the library of Florida State College for Women in 1935 totaled 160,150, according to Miss Louise Richardson, college librarian and professor of library science. A total of 20,150 volumes were in the library in 1935.

An interesting artist series exhibit of coptic and Peruvian textiles was shown on this campus recently. The exhibit which was from the textile museum of the District of Columbia was circulated by the American Federation of Arts, an organization for the cultivation of the arts.

According to a recent survey of the faculty the majority of leading universities and educational institutions in this country are represented at Florida State College for Women by its 142 members. Thirty-nine of the faculty hold Ph. D. degrees, fifty-one hold master's degrees and there are two M. D.'s on the campus. Of those who have master's degrees, many have done additional work toward higher degrees. About three-fourths of the faculty are women.

Chicago leads in the number of faculty members at Florida State with Ph.D. degrees, having five on the campus. North Carolina is next with four; Iowa, Columbia, and Wisconsin tie for the next place with three each. Other universities represented on the campus by those who have doctor's degrees are Clark, Northwestern Harvard Illinois, Minnesota, Ohio, Cornell, Johns Hopkins Cincinnati, Virginia and Indiana.

Long icicles hung from the fountain Tuesday for the second time this year. Crowds of students gathered around to glimpse the rare sight. The other time the weatherman cut capers the student body was home for the Christmas so that this was the first icy spectacle for many of Florida State's freshmen.

The United States field hockey team will visit Florida State College for Women February 19-20, while on a tour of the south. The team is made up of the best women players selected from championship teams all over this country and the tour is being sponsored by the United States Field Hockey association. The visitors will coach the players here and play an exhibition game. Fourteen young women are in the party.

The Hedgerow players of New York were brought to the Florida State audience recently in Eugene O'Neil's modern classic, "Emperor Jones." Against spectacular scenic effects the players presented a vivid and an entertaining piece of artistry.

Florida State College for Women ranks third in enrollment among the women's colleges in the United States, according to college enrollment statistics for the current year just released by Dr. Raymond Walters president of the University of Cincinnati. The enrollment here of full time students taken on Nov 1 is 1 635 The two colleges that exceed Florida State's record are Hunter and Smith.

Dates Set on Calendar For Major Activties

The college calendar is packed with events from now until Commencement time, it appears. Many of the dates are yet to be decided, however Chief among them are the following:

February 2 sophomore "hop"; February 10-16 Religious Emphasis Week; February 12, address by Hubert C. Herring educator and writer, February 16-18, Florida Chain of Missions February 19, address by Harrison M. Lakin, United States consul; February 19-21, field hockey team exhibition; February 20, Dr. Conradi's birthday; February 21, Southeast Province Conference of Federation of Catholic Clubs here; February 21, Mercer Glee club; February 26, Vienna Choir Boys; February 27, Junior Minstrel.

March: March 1-7, "F S. C W. Week", March 4 address by Stella Marck Cushing, student of Slavic history and customs: March 11, address by Gerhart Seger, former member of the German Reichstag; March 18, adoress by R. H. Huff, federal parole executive; street carnival and skit night; A. A. U. W. party for seniors; modern dance recital: annual spring concert of college glee club; student elections for such posts as Y. W. C A., Athletic association, College Government association; College Judiciary; staffs of the Flambeau, Flastacowo and Distaff.

April: Junior-senior prom; senior play; freshman carnival; April 9-14 Easter holidays April 20, Frederick Jagel, tenor

May: May 2, annual May day exercises, sophomore-senior breakfast and University of Florida glee club, May 9, Emory glee club; May 23 annual speech department play; May 24, school of music annual concert; May 23-25, Commencement.

Latest Alumnae Find Positions

Graduates of January '36 Placed by WPA, NYA

On recommendation of the Placement Bureau Hazel Goza, 1935, of Clearwater, has been appointed assistant director of the National Youth Administration, Florida, District No 1, with headquarters at Miami. India Kuder, 1933, of Monticello, Florida, has been given a position in the Jacksonville offic of NYA. Frances Passmore, Jan., 1936, of Bradenton, Florida, has been selected to teach Latin in the Gainesville high school, Gainesville, Florida.

Beginning the first of February Mirabel Smith, Jan., 1936, has been placed as assistant teacher in the F. S. C W Nursery school which is a WPA project. Audrey Cayson, Jan., 1936, has secured a position at Blountstown, teaching the sixth grade. Kathryn Barrs, Helen Hammond, Mrs Eleanor Marchman Moore Dorothy Osincup, and Frances Phillips have been recomemnded for projects under NYA or social service under WPA and it is hoped that a number of them will be placed.

Montgomery Will Be On Leave This Semester To Continue Graduate Work

Miss Katherine Montgomery, known to most people as "Miss Katie," is on leave this semester during which time she will continue work towards her Doctor's degree at New York university "Miss Katie's" address at this time will be 135 West 39th St., New York City.

During "Miss Katie's" absence, Mary Settle, who was in charge of Homecoming and who is a prominent graduate of F. S. C. will be in charge of the physical education department. Grace Fox and Buddy Autrey, F S C grads who have been half time assistants in this department will have full-time positions during the second semester.

Alumna to Visit Here

Agnes Granberry Chalker of Lake City, permanent president of the class of 1912 for Florida State College, and prominent alumna, is expected to visit at the college this week-end. It was Agnes who made the screen which many have admired in the alumnae room in the Education building. Mary Chalker, her daughter, is now attending Florida State.

Alumnae Go To FEA Luncheon

Hundred Graduates Turn Out for Annual Orlando Meet

Florida State College alumnae turned out 100 strong for the Florida State College luncheon at the 50th annual meeting of the Florida Education association in Orlando during the holidays.

Dean Nathaniel Moss Salley of the school of education was the guest speaker on the program which was in charge of Miss Elizabeth Markey of Orlando.

Florida State alumnae attending the luncheon were: Rebecca Stevens, Julia Stradley, Mildred Olmstead, Margaret Pace, Mildred Gunson, Mary Lee, Mrs. Charles M. Fisher (Eva Dean), Mrs. Allan Mosby (Winnifred Strong), Mabel Sparkman, Margaret Kader, Mrs. W. C. Fielden (Carolyn Fripp), Mary Tiller, Cedora Futch, Estelle Gamble Mildred Wilfong, Magdalene Rodriguez. Dayne Patterson, Nellie Williams, Dempsie Brewster Elizabeth Hampton, Mildred Momm, Betty Keirn, Phyllis Smith, Thelma Tew, Mary Ann Gatch, Carolyn Hamilton, Nellie May Meek, Mrs. Ruth Teal Dicktenmueller, Wilma Watson, Elizabeth Norton, Mary Williams Roberts, Helen Learned, Elizabeth Fawsett, Lillian Crews, Velma Bonacker, Edith Griffin, Florence Hunt, Hazel Carlton, Wilma Wiggins, Aldine Griffin, Marjorie Bennett, Vera Barefoo., Lucile Dreischeif, Helen Smith, Nina Drew, Rose Tower Snare, Margaret Richards Gross, Hazel Gilmore, Vernon Pike, Mae McCall, Chloe Tomkins, Margaret Arnold, Lenore Altman, Frances Knapp Eastwood, Alice Stone, Evaline Rankin, Marjorie Carter, Mary Lee Davis, Ruth Davis, Rebecca Radenberg, Beatrice Sheppard, Isabel Perkins, Jewell Stone, Lois Daane, Emily Jackson, Mary Edwards, Edith Mazill, Hannah Schell, Mildred Swearingen, Mrs. Carrie B. Tyler, Sara Tyler, Mary Yasbrough, Hope Anderson Yerrell, Mrs. F. E. Shipp, Dorothy Woodward, Dorothy Gliver, Gertrude McClendon, Fannie Alexander, Emily Carleton, Annice Daris Elkins, Veva Keck Mrs. Olive Park, Anne E Whitehead, Lucette Bracken, Virginia Barber, Caroline Melber, Genia Chester, Janette Huntley, Lilla Lyle, Leola Backens, Katherine Palmer, Marjorie Stoner, Martha Bennett, Margaret Marshall, Mrs. P. G. Higgins, Harriet Robinson, Dorothy Nilson, Mrs. Cecil Beeson, and Louise Conradi.

Florida State faculty members attending the luncheon were: Dr. Edward Conradi, Miss Florence Tryon, Dean Nathaniel Moss Salley, Miss Rowena Longmire, Miss Sadie Young, Miss Margaret Sandels, Dr. David Barber, and Dr. Mark DeGraff.

Alumnae Tell Of New Activities

Graduates of Class of '29 Change Addresses

During the past few weeks quite a number of alumnae have notified the alumnae office of interesting activities or changes of addresses.

Mary Louise Snodgrass, class of '29, who now holds a position in the New York public library, was a visitor at the college this week. She was the guest of Miss Louise Richardson, college librarian, during her stay in Tallahassee. Mary Louise, who has held the same position in New York for four years, had been on a month's leave during which she visited her family in Kissimmee. She reports that her sister Dena Snodgrass, also of the class of '20, now is principal at Holopaw, Florida, school where Ina Phay, who attended F. S. C W. about that time, is a teacher.

Virginia Chowning, of New Smyrna, who also attended Florida State in those days, now is connected with the Florida exhibit at Radio City, according to Mary Louise Charlotte Stevens, of Miami, a graduate of Florida State college in the class of 35, has just assumed the position of secretary in the college residence halls. She succeeds Margaret Brinson, sister of Mrs. Sue Harris (the former Tyra Sue Brinson), who resigned recently.

Tyra Sue, a graduate in the class of '29, who has been living in Washington, D. C., moved back to Tallahassee during Christmas to make her home here. She is staying with her mother, Mrs. W F Murr. Tyra Sue is the mother of a two and a half year old son, Walter Frederick Harris, III. Her address is now 428 West College avenue Tallahassee

President Of Class of '25 Attempts to Locate Members

Plans for May Reunion Get Under Way as Lucille Sumner Appeals to Classmates Throughout Country to Complete List

Hail, you members of the class of 1925. Lucille Sumner, permanent president of this group, wants your correct address that she may reach you and tell you of plans for the 1925 class reunion at Florida State College in May. Lucille's address is 814 West Amelia avenue, Tampa.

If Lucille does not get enough response from her classmates then the reunion will be postponed until the 15th anniversary of this class. So let her know now.

Following is a list of members of the class of 1925. In the event these addresses are not correct please notify Lucille. Class of 1925 with Bachelor's degrees: Elizabeth Aiken, 720 N. Palofax, Pensacola: Mrs Levy Canova (Mona Alderman), Starke: Anne Jane Anderson, Tallahassee; Mrs. F. E. Dean (Lucy Williams Anson), 216 W. DeSoto street, Pensacola; Priscilla M Armstrong, address unknown; Mrs. Stephen Sterke (Annie Ellen Ball), 706 N. Calhoun street, Tallahassee; Elizabeth Walton Bass, Iowa School for the Deaf Council Bluffs, Iowa: Mrs. Oliver T. Rhodes (Vera Brendla), 406 N. Lincoln street, Winter Park station, Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Edgar Jenkins (Kathleen Brown), 1420 Haines avenue, Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. Rollin Ebinger (Lois Bryson), Clermont, Fla.: Mrs. R. L. Emery, Jr. (Nell Robey Buchanan), 7522 Jeanette street, New Orleans; Mrs. William B. Treloar (Mary Antoinette Budd), Daytona Beach: Ruth Hall Burns, 135 E. Third street, Jacksonville; Beatrice Candee, 122 East 25th street, New York City; Adelaide M. Capo, 93 Milford avenue, Newark, N. J.: Mrs. Robert Stuart (Mary Eliza Carroll), Monticello; Roberta M. Carter, Marianna; Mrs Elza M. Fowler, Jr. (Ruth Chaires), 1535 S. W. 19th street, Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. Frank Evans (Irene Chambers), Whitfield Estates, Sarasota; Mrs. F. G Jones, Jr. (Aleen Chapman), 202 S. 8th street, Wauchula: Elizabeth B. Coleman, 184 W. High street, Mt. Sterling, Kentucky.

Mrs. J. R. Strayer (Lois Esther Curry), 23 Prospect Apts., Princeton, N. J.; Mrs. George Prowl (Fern Joanna Curtis), Apt. 6, 417 N. 49th street, Omaha, Nebraska; Caroline Hallowes Dancy, address unknown; Mrs. R. G. McIntosh (Elizabeth Sara Davis), St. Petersburg. Norma A. Davis, 337 N. W. 33rd street Miami. Verna Emma Day, 923 E. La Rue, Pensacola; Joanna Dew Alachua; Mrs. Paul Lake (Mary Louise Dickenson), 3005 Aquilio Tampa; Bertha Lucile Dickson, address unknown; Julia Dilzer, care of Mrs. A. I. Pooser, New Smyrna; Meridith DuPuis, Jackson Memorial hospital, Miami; Mrs. H. W. Madison (Hazel Ellis), Bostrap, La.; Mrs. P. G. Knight, Jr. (Rhoda Parramore Fraleigh), 126 Chesapeake avenue, Davis Islands, Tampa; Mrs. J Grady Phelps (Dorothy Hall Frink), 2830 Jefferson street, Cocoanut Grove; Opal Futch, address unknown; Ruth Erdene Gage, 177 Arnold avenue, Edgewood, R. I.

Mrs. Charles Edwin Richards (Evelyn Claire Gates), address unknown; Mrs C. S. Radebough (Adelma Giles), 615 Woodland avenue, Orlando; Pamilla Gillette, 76 Bank street New York city; Mrs. J. N. Wilson (Augusta Glen), Chipley; Clare Marian Goertz, Jefferson Court Apt., Orlando; Eunice Frances Grady, County Home Demonstration Agent, Live Oak: Mrs. John Sylvester (Alma Grant), Quincy; Mrs. Phillip C. Davis (Nelle Prescott Gregory), Quincy, Mrs. Wilbur F. Foster (Carolyn Isabel Gwynn), 302 N. Calhoun street, Tallahassee.

Mrs. Joseph P Donnarin (Elizabeth Hammergren), Fort Sill, Okla.; Ruth Adeline Hand, 1301 Park avenue, Sanford; Ainslee Harris, address unknown; Florence Young Harvey, address unknown; Mrs. C K Brown (Evelyn Emma Hill), Davidson, N. C.; Mrs. Wallace James (Helen Louise Hill), Wauchula; Mrs. Frances Braithwaite (Esther Emerson Hodsdon), 122 N. W. 6th avenue, Miami; Mrs. A L. Hiller (Phyllis Holden), 85 Monroe street, Grand Rapids, Mich.: Mrs. James Leslie Gibson (Elizabeth Horner), 23915 Fordson drive, Dearborn, Mich.; Mrs. P. L. Ford (Virginia Howze), address unknown; Lalla C. Hoy, Yukon, Florida; Mrs. W. Earl Barnes (Helen Hyers), Box 412, Seminary Hill, Texas.

Mrs. Linton E. Allen (Helen Clemens Ives), Sanford: Mrs. Lewis Petteway (Henrietta Bird Johnson), 112 W Comanche avenue, Tampa; Myrtle Johnson, Cocoa; Mrs. William McKay (Gladys Jordan), 913 Sunnyside avenue, Charlotte, N. C; Winifred Kennard, 111 S. Edison avenue, Tampa; Maida Natalie Lamb, 531 N. Grandview avenue, Daytona Beach; Mrs. William Anderson (Mary Lane), Arlington, Ga.: Mrs. Dudley Putnam (Edith Langford), address unknown; Mrs. J. Newton McClung (Dorothy Rhoda Lee), Box 686, Clearwater.

Nellie E. Lewis, 902 N. Monroe street, Tallahassee; Mrs. Harold Streater (Nila Lee Logan), 715 E. Orange avenue, Lakeland; Mrs. Paul F. Colbert (Mabel Esther Lytle), Tavares; Mrs. F. E. Bayless (Clara Elizabeth McCaskill), 1414 E. Strong street, Pensacola; Mrs. Edith M Kennon (Edith McMakin), Home Rehabilitation Assistant, Cocoa; Cornelia McMurray, address unknown; Mrs. Lewis Seward (Myra Mann), Bartow; Mrs. J. McDonald Smith (Mary Lee Mathews), Shanghai, China; Mrs. R B. Gervan (Roberta Faye Mickler), 409 E. Buffalo street, Ithaca, N. Y.; Mrs. B M. Smith (Rozalie Millinor), address unknown; Hortense Mintz, 2907 Chapin avenue, Tampa; Lois Jarrett Moser, address unknown; Evelyn L. Mudge Western Maryland college, Westminster, Maryland; Mrs. C. H Summers (Lois Janet Overstreet) 2612 Coventry, Lakeland; Audrey Lillian Packham, Rollins college, Winter Park: Helen E. Pinaire Lake Hamilton, Dorothy Ina Price, Port Orange.

Mrs. W. G. Shepherd (Katherine Emilia Prime), Box 1014, Sarasota; Mrs W. C. Roberts (Lucile Reece), 39 Fifth avenue, New York City; Mrs. Austin Doyle (Jamie Reese), 701 N. Halifax, Pensacola; Mrs James D. Gramling (Bessie Richardson), 208 S. Macomb street, Tallahassee; Minnie Rosenblaum, care of City Superintendent of Schools, Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. Fred Key Knight (Herriet Haywood Rouse), Box 149, Crescent City; Mrs. U. F. Clements (Omie Scarborough), Box 122, Dalley, Texas; Mrs. John Alfred Bush (Ada Louise Simpson), address unknown; Minnia Lee Skipper, Lakeland; Thelma Lyda Smith, 17 Sunset Parkway, Grove park, Ashcville, Mrs. M. R. Kitchen (Mary Stallings) 31 Westover Drive, Montford Hills, Asheville, N C. Lucille Douglas Sumner, 814 W Amelia street, Tampa; Mrs. Edward C. Burton (Lucile Tervin), 177 Old Orchard Grove, Toronto, Canada; Mary Christina Tomkies, 307 S. Dell street, Gainesville, Fla: Myrtis Tureman, 118 W. 33rd street, Jacksonville; Mrs. David McDowell (Inez Turner), care of Professor David McDowell, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N. C.: Mrs. J. W. Williams (Gladys Vaughn) 201 Brighton street, Delmont, Mass; Mrs George P. Shoemaker (Margaret Vaughan), 35-51 94th street, Jaxon Heights, Long Island, N Y.; Mrs. Virgil Newton (Louisa Verri), care of Tampa Tribune, Tampa; Leola Vrooman, 209 Earl street, Daytona Beach; Mrs. Gordon W. Lynn (Mary Galey Walker), Daisytown Pa; Lyda Tippin Walton, 17 W. Cervantes, Pensacola: Mrs. Eugene C. Gaines, (Marjorie Maxine Ward), New Orleans, La.

Wilma Ruth Watson, 1236 W Masonic, Gainesville; Evelyn Weller, 1407 E. Jackson street, Pensacola; Clara E Wendel, Box 23, Gotha, Fla. Mrs. C. G. Ward (Anna Flagg Wilder), 1904 Dekle avenue, Tampa; Sara C. Willcoxon, 158 S Brevard street, Arcadia

Elsie Gillispie, address unknown; Mrs. William A Fisackerly, Jr, Box 242, Jacksonville Beach; Mrs. Charles Smith (Rebah Blanche Herrick) 1212 Georgia street, Key West; Annie Louise Lee, Dothan, Ala: Elizabeth Lind, 617 Florida avenue, Orlando; Mrs. C T. Tyler (Florence Elizabeth Lipscombe), address unknown; Mrs. Lealand Hiatt (Merle Love), care of Boys Industrial School, Marianna. Margaret Lynch, 235-19th avenue, S., St. Petersburg; Lina McGeachy, address unknown; Nan McKinnon, address unknown; Mrs. Ernest W Beach (Emma Lee Martin), 346 W McCormick street, Gainesville; Mrs. G. F. Brown (Catherine Mitchell) New Smyrna; Vela Parker Graceville, Annie Grace Paul Lakeland; Mrs. R J. Schneider (Dorothy Porter), 1700 N. Bayshore drive, Miami;

Continued on page five

Former Graduate Gets Appointment

Charlotte Jelks Chosen Welfare Secretary

Charlotte Jelks, a graduate of Florida State College, who later was assistant to the dean of students here for four years, has just been appointed secretary of the Duval county family welfare agency, it was learned recently.

Charlotte has received an extensive education She received her bachelor of arts degree at Florida State College; her bachelor of music degree at Bessie Tift college, Forsyth Ga.; her master of arts degree at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich., and had other graduate studies at Columbia university and the University of Georgia.

At the University of Michigan her field of concentration was student personnel administration, dealing with personality problems of students. She also took courses in the field of social service there, including her master's thesis, which was a study of transient families on relief.

She is a member of Delta Delta Delta social sorority and Pi Lambda Theta, honorary professional fraternity, receiving that key at the University of Michigan chapter.

The F. S. C. W. graduate was dean of women at the 1931 and 1932 summer sessions at the University of Florida

Since going to Jacksonville two years ago Charlotte has been engaged in social service work. She was with her transient department of the FERA and later the social welfare department. In both departments she was a case worker and in supervisory capacity.

Last August she was sent to Miami to take charge of the intake department of the Miami transient bureau to carry out the newly established policies of that department.

She also did special work in connection with the Leesburg veterans' camp and the Marion county FERA. In November she returned to Jacksonville to work at Camp Foster and with the state transient department. She has resigned that position to accept that with the family welfare agency

Stork Stories Reach College

Mrs A. J. Knecht, the former Marian Schull class of 1920, who lives at Palm Bay, is the mother of twins who arrived this month. Miss Rowena Longmire reported to the alumnae office this week.

Mrs. Gordon Taylor (the former Nina Creel), B.S. '31, who lives at Eau Gallie, became the mother of a son on Christmas day, according to word received here by Dr. Raymond Bellamy.

Another recent arrival is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. Otis S. King. (Mrs. King is the former Zerlyne Smith, L. I., class of '24). The child has been named Mary Elizabeth.

Word reached the alumnae office, too, of the arrival last October of the nine-pound son of Mrs W. A. Biggart (the former Audrey Garrett, A.B. '31). The youngster has been named Waddell Alexander, II

Mrs. R. M. Holman, the former Katherine L. MacKinnon, of Donaldsonville, Ga has a second son, M. Merritt Holmen, born in February, 1935

Alumnae Award To Be Started

Notable Achievement Will Receive Recognition At Commencement

Special recognition of Florida State College graduates who have attained "notable achievement" in their work or in community service will be made by the college alumnae asociation at May commencement. Then, for the first time, handsomely inscribed medallions will be presented to eminent alumnae.

The "alumnae award" will be given to a graduate distinguishing herself in the field of science, liberal arts, professional accomplishment, civic or social service, Mrs. E. L. (Cecil Jenkins) Beeson, alumnae president, has announced.

Nina McAdam of Miami is chairman of the alumnae committee to further plans for the award. Serving with her are Lucy Pope of West Palm Beach; Mrs. Thomas H. Wallis (Clara Johnson) of Ocala; Julia Smith, Green Cove Springs; Mrs L. W. Traxler (Felicia Williams), Gainesville, Maud B. McCall, Clearwater; and Mrs. Edgar Cecil Nilson (Dorothy Johnson) of Orlando.

Nominations for the award must be sent in by March 20 to any of the above committee. Complete histories or records of the post graduate attainments of the nominees should accompany the nominations. Nominations may be made by any alumna or by the executive council. In the next few weeks a larger committee chosen from chairmen of F. S. C. alumnae clubs, college officials and alumnae officers will be appointed to collect information to assist the committee in making selections.

"The award to Florida State College alumnae will be given only in recognition of significant attainment and will reflect on the recipient great credit and honor." Mrs Beeson said. "In bestowing the award, the Alumnae Association is following the lead of a number of large universities which make similar awards under varying circumstances."

Approximately 5,000 graduates are listed on the alumnae roll.

FSC Belles Hear Wedding Bells

Alumnae Office Receives Monthly Quota Of Marriage News

More than a dozen marriages of Florida State College alumnae have been reported since the last alumnae page in the Flambean. Among those received at the alumnae office are:

Cora Sembler, B.S. '34—now Mrs. G. G. Sadler, Sebastian, Fla.; Sheila White, B.S. '34—now Mrs. Benito Nichelsen, Baton Rouge, La: Carolyn West, A.B. '34—now Mrs. C. E. Pogue, care of McMullen and Pogue, Clearwater; Mary L. Wilkes, '32—now Mrs. H. D. Strong, New Preston, Conn.: Gertrude Gates, A.B. '34—now Mrs. H. W. Link, Orlando; Eunice L. Kramer, B.S. '34—now Mrs W. P. Austin, Jr., Reading, Pa.; Margaret Edwards, A.B. '35—now Mrs. Thatcher Hubbard, Main Street, Gainesville, Fla., Bessie Hinson, B.S. '34—now Mrs. H. E. Page, care of Miami Daily News, Miami, Fla.; Frances L. Hurlin, B.S. '35—now Mrs. C. T. Newton, Port Adams, R. I.; Genevieva Crawford, M.S. '14—now Mrs. E. L. Crawford, 41 Furman Avenue, Asheville, N. C.: Mary F. Whiteside, A.B. '32—now Mrs. W. R. Robbins, care of Doctor Credit association, Miami Fla; Evelyn Lyle, A.B. '31—now Mrs. Jack Quillian, 1109 Palermo Avenue, Coral Gables; Alice Fernandes, B.M. '34—now Mrs Walter Baker, Foley, Fla.; Ruth Price, A.B. '33—now Mrs Guy Howerton, Rountree Apartments, Fowler Street, Port Myers, Virginia Dyer, L.I. '34—now Mrs J. E. Brock, Jr., Stuart, Fla.; Vera W. Lundy, L.I. '35.

Help F. S. C. History By Sending in Songs

Do you remember what became of the college songs which students back in 1927 and other years penned in an annual song contest? If you do, please let the college publicity office know, for Mr. Kellum wants to collect all the words and music of college songs written to date and put them in an official F. S. C. W. college song book. A college song contest may be revived this spring.

Don't forget, send in any information you have of the whereabouts of words and music of those songs. You'll be helping keep F. S. C. W. history in this manner.

Associations To Meet Here

Institute Attracts Women From All Sections Of Florida

Graduates and former students of Florida State College for Women who now are Florida's clubwomen are expected to return to their alma mater the week of June 29 for the second annual institute to be sponsored here by the Florida Federation of Women's clubs. This year the Florida Congress of Parents and Teachers is joining with the federation in sponsoring the event.

The institue, which last year attracted approximately 125 women from all sections of Florida, and which was addressed by such speakers as Julius F. Stone, Jr., state FERA administrator, and Senator W. C. Hodges, will be open to all women's organizations, according to Mrs. J. G. Kellum, federation first vice president. Topics of state-wide interest will be taken up, she said. The state home demonstration council also will be represented at the institute.

Lorena E. Dinning Will Broadcast Over WRUF At Gainesville Sunday

Lorena Eaddy Dinning, B.M. '29, who took a leading part in musical programs during her stay at F. S. C. W., will broadcast over WRUF at Gainesville from 7 to 7:30 o'clock Sunday night, February 16. She is to give a recital in Gainesville February 17 for the Philharmonic society. Lorena, who sings soprano, and Mary Wyatt McCaughan, an F. S. C. W. graduate of '29 in piano, appeared in a broadcast over WRUF last Saturday.

Lorena is living in DeLand. Her address is 411 North Florida avenue. She and her husband, W. Layton Dinning, are reporters for the Daytona Beach News-Journal and between assignments she plays and sings on many of the club programs at DeLand. They have a little daughter, Mary Lorena, who is nearly three years old.

College Plans for FSCW Week

Faculty and Alumnae Will Carry on Program Over State

State-wide attention will be focused on Florida State College for Women during "F S. C. W. Week," March 1-7, when faculty members and alumnae will carry interesting facts about the college before civic and women's clubs all over Florida.

The alumnae will be depended upon mostly, if not wholly, this year to carry the message of F. S. C. before the clubs, attention being devoted particularly to the women's groups. The faculty for the most part will address alumnae groups, according to tentative plans drawn up by the college "F. S. C. W. Week" committee appointed last week by President Edward Conradi. Chairman of the committee is Miss Louise Richardson, college librarian.

To determine which clubs in the state are desirous of having Florida State College speakers that week, the committee is asking that each alumnae club contact the civic and women's clubs in their respective cities to obtain this information. Each alumnae club or alumnae group is asked also to notify the general committee if their members wish a faculty speaker for their meeting during "F. S. C. W. Week." In the event the civic or women's clubs find it impossible to have speakers during "F. S. C. W. Week" and yet wish to have speakers at a later date, the local alumnae club is asked to notify the general committee of this detail. Itineraries of the faculty speakers will be planned after reports from all alumnae clubs and groups are received by the committee.

Members of the faculty "F S. C. W. Week" committee, appointed by President Conradi, are: Miss Rowena Longmire, associate professor of English; Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, professor of history; Miss Flavia Gleason, state home demonstration agent; Miss Ruth Schornherst, instructor in botany; Miss Mary Settle, instructor in physical education; Miss Florence Tryon, instructor in education; Miss Anna May Tracy college dietitian; Dr. Herman Kurz, professor of botany, and Mrs. R. H. (Laura Strunk) Leslie, alumnae secretary.

Alumnae named by Miss Richardson to serve as the local chairmen of "F. S. C. W. Week" activities in towns not having alumnae clubs are: Arcadia, Mrs. David Scott; Bartow, Mrs. Virginia Holland Gallemore; Bradenton, Belle Groff; Brooksville, Dorothy McKethan; Cocoa, Vergie Shelton; Crescent City, Dora Byrons; Daytona Beach, Mrs. H C. Loveland; DeLand, Erma Campbell; Eustis, Mrs. J. G. Gamble; Fernandina, Louise Lasserra; Frostproof, Carolyn Hamilton, Ft. Myers, Bertha Stulpner; Graceville, Mrs. J P. Ashmore; Haines City, Mildred Coker; Havana, Mrs. Pearl Shaw Weatherby, Kissimmee, Eleanor Rosen; Lake City, Mrs Rosebud Greer McColskey; Leesburg, Lyndelle Canady; Live Oak, Eunice Grady, Marianna, Mrs. C. P. Finlayson; Ocala, Mrs. Clara Johnson Wallis; Orlando, Elizabeth Markey; Palmetto, Louise Goodbread; Perry Mrs. W. Chattie Stackhouse Hayes; Pompano, Marie Jelks; Palatka, Pansy Picken; Plant City Mrs S Dowdell; Sarasota, Mrs Andrew Miller; Sebring Louise Houck; St. Augustine, Martha Lee Segui; Stuart, Mrs Ralph Hartman; Tarpon Springs, Tobiah Lovitz; Vero Beach, Mrs. M. Mattmuller; Wauchula, Mrs. W. E Cochrane Additional alumnae will be appointed next week to serve in other cities.

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

RUTH PERSONS ..... Editor
ALTHEA SMITH ..... Associate Editor
GERTRUDE KUHN ..... Managing Editor
HAZEL BOWMAN ..... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Features, Martha Baker. Sports, Elaine Klepper, Society, Margaret Lafferty; Exchanges, Virginia Early; Literary Editor, Elinore Williams; Copy Editor, Arline Lockhart; Outside, Editor Grace Mary Webster; Art Editor Caroline Adams

REPORTERS: Caroline Adams, Minna Agress, Elise Andrew, Ella Brock, Mary Brown, Marguerite Brown, Marian Conn, Margie Creel, Sarah Beth Davis, Margaret Duncan, Sylvia Pons, Evelyn Picher, Mary J. Gallie, Helen Grandfield, Patricia Hamilton, Frances Hartley, Barbara Holmes, Billie Hotard, Eleanor Jenkins, Mary Lynn Maates, Dorothy Olmstead, Clotilde O'Rourke, Nan O'Shaughnessy, Mary F. Phillips, Josephine Hilfred Sampson, Sarah Sealey, Pearle Shephard, Elizabeth H. Turner, Jewel Turner.

BUSINESS STAFF

MARY PATTERSON ..... Business Manager
Assistant: Advertising Managers, Janet Cook, Grace Mary Webster and Clotilde O'Rourke
CARL LEVY ..... Circulation Manager
Assistant Business Manager Lillie McGuire, Assistant Circulation Manager, Carolyn Adams

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1919 at the post office at Tallahassee Florida, under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Let's Grow Some More

The student body is growing up—so they tell us.

With a few minutes reflection upon the many changes that have been evidenced in the past few years we might be inclined to believe this statement. Consider for a moment how the college girl of '35 has lived up to the responsibility placed upon her in the adding of social privileges and the eliminating of many petty and rigid rules. Consideration also changes made in the set-up itself. The college council, which is a combination of the student executive council and the executive council of the college, was added. This group discusses and acts on matters of interest to students and makes recommendations to student senate. Acting as a subcommittee under the college council is the budget committee, including as its members five students and four of the faculty, which has as one of its functions the proration of the student activity fee.

Students are waking up. They are manifesting a real interest in student government—their problems. Students are beginning to question—to ask what it is that oils the wheels to keep the machinery running. Students are beginning to think—to think about the strength and weaknesses of our present system of campus government. Students are no longer willing just to accept, without having a share in deciding what it is they are supposed to accept. They have proved themselves capable of managing small things, they are ever reaching out for more opportunities to prove themselves worthy to be called "mature."

And who or what is responsible for this growth?

Wise faculty members have realized that students learn by doing; that training for intelligent self-direction can best be achieved by allowing students a share in doing as they can take; that efficient service in a minor capacity should be the stepping stone to positions of greater trust and responsibility. So we see that throughout the years students have continually been trusted with greater and greater things. Does it seem illogical, then, to hazard the guess that in the future students will have a part in the carrying out of such duties as those of the Artist Series committee or the group who selects the forum lecturers?

Our brother institution at Gainesville has for many years had a lyceum council, consisting of students elected at large and two faculty members appointed by the president of the university, which carries on duties corresponding to the Artist Series committee at Florida State, but also providing for a lecture series.

Only this year at Florida State the student senate was asked to select the topics of the lecture forum addresses. This announcement is to look ahead to the day when we shall grow up some more—grow up to these, our potential tasks and responsibilities.

If Femina Perfecta Should Speak for Herself—

Should Florida State College students be asked to compile a list of New Year's resolutions for the benefit of the college as a whole, perhaps several suggestions of value might be forthcoming. Judging from the present trend of discussion, these suggestions would undoubtedly deal with everything from a plea that the various campus clocks be synchronized to a demand for bigger and better activity on the part of the budget committee.

Surely the ever-present critic of the artist series would speak up to suggest that students be allowed a vote in choosing the artists, and the swelling ranks of the enemy of such trail-blons as the Odd-Even system would voice another complaint. There are many of this faction who would combine Odd and Even expenditures at Thanksgiving, but Woodrow Wilson, Lord Byron, it is rumored, by the contingent of the student body who believe that the money in question would be more satisfactorily spent to bring good orchestras to the campus for the year's important dances. A dance without a good orchestra, they argue, is something of a reflection on the college's social reputation. If Florida State insists on "keeping up with the Joneses" in other fields, surely that of social life is not to be overlooked.

Other reformers come to the fore deploring the general uselessness of the majority of honorary organizations represented here. "This field is over-crowded here," or "the fees are unjust," or "the activity of the honorary does not justify its existence," many clamor.

But the college could make no New Year's change that would call forth such universal approbation as would a move to remedy the present unconducive lack of library facilities in the library's reserve room. Not only is the reserve room almost useless to all who want to study there on Saturday afternoon, because so many books are out—fifteen or so that day, but dozens of students miss meals, nightly, and at noon on Saturdays in order to scramble for the too-few copies of books put on reserve for a whole class to read "over the week-end." More books is the obvious need. But since this is impossible of immediate fulfillment, something could be done to inaure fairer conditions if books were given out for the week-end much later in the afternoon, instead of immediately after lunch, allowing the rest of the class a chance at each of the books someone has to miss lunch to get. What F. S. C. W. girl has not frequently been forced, at a week-day noon, to hold the ever-present "Lessons versus Lunch" debate with herself?

"Floating University" Aims to Vitalize College Work

Travel as a part of education might be a fitting text for the "Floating university voyage around the world," says Charles Thwing, president-emeritus of Western Reserve university and president of the pioneer "Floating university" of 1926, as plans are now being completed for the sixth annual voyage which will include visits to Iceland, Spitzbergen, The North Cape, Denmark, Sweden, Finland, Russia, Germany, Belgium, and France.

"This year it is significant that again the university will be under experienced management, since all educational activities will be directed by Dr. James E. Lough, dean of New York university for eighteen years.

In these turbulent days, when in most places there is continued confusion of aims and practices in education, the "Floating university" clearly defines its one paramount purpose to be the vitalizing of regular school and college work by actual and systematic contact with the outside living world—the world of the present and future built upon the world of the past.

The curriculum comprises only those subjects which can be well-adapted to cruise conditions and studied to advantage during the voyage. Courses in history, art, literature, economics, and foreign trade, comparative religion, government, international relations, and sociology are offered. With lectures given which aim to aid students in understanding and appreciating the significant features of the countries visited, study trips and land excursions are introduced not as distractions but as an integral part of the academic program.

Though we could never offer the opportunities of a "Floating university," it might be well for us to look to the laurels of our own set-up.

Magazine Thumbings

WHAT RELIGION MEANS TO ME—
By Nilla Cram Cook
Forum, February.

What religion means to the writer we see in an account of her life—a set of everlasting impressions revealing the influences of many religions on her emotions.

When she was a child it was Christ to whom her little Methodist neighbor introduced her and Allah and Buddha whom she heard about from stories told her by her free thinking parents and adult associates. Then in school she found in mathematics, and sciences a harmony and design that stimulated her spirit. As a Camp Fire Girl she found in forests and streams that same harmonious design, a religion large enough to embrace the entire continent she believed.

From the study of languages in Greece, she says Sanskrit, she went to India and Hinduism. Living the life of an ascetic, she thought once she saw God and she began cleaning up the slums and streets of Bangalore in a campaign against untouchability. As the flower of Brahmanism, the highest caste of Hinduism were attracted to her campaign, the campaign received sanction in Indian circles, especially Gandhi's.

Stunning grandstand and publicity she sought Gandhi and he told her the supreme test of her religious faiths would be living not as an apostle in India, but in America as a private individual. She now lives simply in New York and spends seven dollars a week for food and she believes like gandhi does she can secure the simple things of life at that price without taking more from society than she deserves. If no one would steal more than his share, she says there would be enough for all.

Religion means a rule of action to her, she says, and she may seem "impractical" to rock-bottom realists, but she does not put her youthful ecstatic beliefs in action. She should aspire any towards a better life.

FASCISM AT THE DOOR
By Percy Winner
Scribners, January

Fascism is the sacrifice of liberty and the individual for the nation, the state, whereas anti-fascism will be offered America and in a form of religious zeal.

For the present believers Americans have reached the stage where they are out for the week-end much later in the afternoon, instead of immediately after lunch, allowing the rest of the class a chance at each of the books someone has to miss lunch to get. What F. S. C. W. girl has not frequently been forced, at a week-day noon, to hold the ever-present "Lessons versus Lunch" debate with herself?

"Floating University" Aims to Vitalize College Work

Travel as a part of education might be a fitting text for the "Floating university voyage around the world," says Charles Thwing, president-emeritus of Western Reserve university and president of the pioneer "Floating university" of 1926, as plans are now being completed for the sixth annual voyage which will include visits to Iceland, Spitzbergen, The North Cape, Denmark, Sweden, Finland, Russia, Germany, Belgium, and France.

"This year it is significant that again the university will be under experienced management, since all educational activities will be directed by Dr. James E. Lough, dean of New York university for eighteen years.

In these turbulent days, when in most places there is continued confusion of aims and practices in education, the "Floating university" clearly defines its one paramount purpose to be the vitalizing of regular school and college work by actual and systematic contact with the outside living world—the world of the present and future built upon the world of the past.

The curriculum comprises only those subjects which can be well-adapted to cruise conditions and studied to advantage during the voyage. Courses in history, art, literature, economics, and foreign trade, comparative religion, government, international relations, and sociology are offered. With lectures given which aim to aid students in understanding and appreciating the significant features of the countries visited, study trips and land excursions are introduced not as distractions but as an integral part of the academic program.

Though we could never offer the opportunities of a "Floating university," it might be well for us to look to the laurels of our own set-up.

FASCISM AT THE DOOR
By Percy Winner
Scribners, January

Fascism is the sacrifice of liberty and the individual for the nation, the state, whereas anti-fascism will be offered America and in a form of religious zeal.

For the present believers Americans have reached the stage where they are out for the week-end much later in the afternoon, instead of immediately after lunch, allowing the rest of the class a chance at each of the books someone has to miss lunch to get. What F. S. C. W. girl has not frequently been forced, at a week-day noon, to hold the ever-present "Lessons versus Lunch" debate with herself?

"Floating University" Aims to Vitalize College Work

Travel as a part of education might be a fitting text for the "Floating university voyage around the world," says Charles Thwing, president-emeritus of Western Reserve university and president of the pioneer "Floating university" of 1926, as plans are now being completed for the sixth annual voyage which will include visits to Iceland, Spitzbergen, The North Cape, Denmark, Sweden, Finland, Russia, Germany, Belgium, and France.

"This year it is significant that again the university will be under experienced management, since all educational activities will be directed by Dr. James E. Lough, dean of New York university for eighteen years.

In these turbulent days, when in most places there is continued confusion of aims and practices in education, the "Floating university" clearly defines its one paramount purpose to be the vitalizing of regular school and college work by actual and systematic contact with the outside living world—the world of the present and future built upon the world of the past.

The curriculum comprises only those subjects which can be well-adapted to cruise conditions and studied to advantage during the voyage. Courses in history, art, literature, economics, and foreign trade, comparative religion, government, international relations, and sociology are offered. With lectures given which aim to aid students in understanding and appreciating the significant features of the countries visited, study trips and land excursions are introduced not as distractions but as an integral part of the academic program.

Though we could never offer the opportunities of a "Floating university," it might be well for us to look to the laurels of our own set-up.

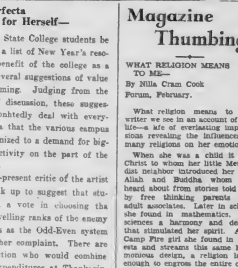
WHAT RELIGION MEANS TO ME—
By Nilla Cram Cook
Forum, February.

What religion means to the writer we see in an account of her life—a set of everlasting impressions revealing the influences of many religions on her emotions.

When she was a child it was Christ to whom her little Methodist neighbor introduced her and Allah and Buddha whom she heard about from stories told her by free thinking parents and adult associates. Then in school she found in mathematics, and sciences a harmony and design that stimulated her spirit. As a Camp Fire Girl she found in forests and streams that same harmonious design, a religion large enough to embrace the entire continent she believed.

From the study of languages in Greece, she says Sanskrit, she went to India and Hinduism. Living the life of an ascetic, she thought once she saw God and she began cleaning up the slums and streets of Bangalore in a campaign against untouchability. As the flower of Brahmanism, the highest caste of Hinduism were attracted to her campaign, the campaign received sanction in Indian circles, especially Gandhi's.

Stunning grandstand and publicity she sought Gandhi and he told her the supreme test of her religious faiths would be living not as an apostle in India, but in America as a private individual. She now lives simply in New York and spends seven dollars a week for food and she believes like gandhi does she can secure the simple things of life at that price without taking more from society than she deserves. If no one would steal more than his share, she says there would be enough for all.



Religion means a rule of action to her, she says, and she may seem "impractical" to rock-bottom realists, but she does not put her youthful ecstatic beliefs in action. She should aspire any towards a better life.

FASCISM AT THE DOOR
By Percy Winner
Scribners, January

Fascism is the sacrifice of liberty and the individual for the nation, the state, whereas anti-fascism will be offered America and in a form of religious zeal.

For the present believers Americans have reached the stage where they are out for the week-end much later in the afternoon, instead of immediately after lunch, allowing the rest of the class a chance at each of the books someone has to miss lunch to get. What F. S. C. W. girl has not frequently been forced, at a week-day noon, to hold the ever-present "Lessons versus Lunch" debate with herself?

Spirit of the Week . . . . . By Adams

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES
By GRACE MARY WEBSTER

AL SMITH'S Liberty League speech threw a bomb into presidential campaign politics and brought about renewed action everywhere. Every newspaper editor in the country had something to say about it and Washington was divided between approval and disapproval. Mr Smith said much interesting things, some of which follow:

"Now what are these dangers I see? The first is the enlargement of class against class."

"The next danger apparent to me is the vast building up of new bureaus and commissions drawing the resources of our people in a centralized and redistributing them, not by any process of law, but by the whim of a bureaucratic autocracy."

"The young brain trusters caught the Socialists in swimming and ran away with their clothes."

"Forget the rich. They can't hurt you. They are not going to be paid by that great big middle class that we refer to as the backbone and the rank and file. It will come to them in the form of living expenses."

Three days later in Washington, Senator Robinson, Smith's running-mate in the 1928 campaign, offered a rebuttal. Robinson's opinion that Smith was "turncoat, warring against his own people and against the men and women with whom he fought shoulder to shoulder in the past." Referring to indications that Smith has gone over to capitalism, Robinson said, "The brown derby has gone high hat."

His brief but belligerent before the mis-called Liberty League was barren and sterile, without a single constructive suggestion."

"I am sure Mr. Hoover is with you in spirit, for partisan factionalism and the clubby hands-up-

Pro and Con

OPINIONS expressed in this column are the opinions of individuals of the editorial policy of the paper. It is a column of personal comment and is open to all who wish to submit sincere and constructive criticism. All letters should be signed names. Pseudonyms are mailed in the postbasket.

LET'S WASH OUR OWN FACES FIRST

When investigative work was begun last fall by the college council student committee the following division of the $14.00 student activity fee, according to the budgets office, had been used the previous year:

Amt. per Student	Organization
.14280	Freshman class
.16065	Sophomore class
.24990	Junior class
.64625	Senior class
2.50	Annuals
.25	Special speakers
.87500	Athletic association
.75000	C. O. A.
.8000	Distaff
2.50	Flambeau
2.50	Flastacovo
.12500	Intramural sports
.12500	Social fund
2.775	Contingent fund

At that time, as has been previously stated, the committee was instructed by the executive council to deal only with those funds which directly cover expenditure for student activities. The remainder had in the past and would continue to be administered by the executive council.

After careful the problems laid before it the committee made applicable corrections concerning the state of student finances. In the first place, treasurers and business managers in every organization which in several cases were not even in existence were not complete gathered or kept records and did not correspond either in items or in totals with the treasurer's report in the business office. Financial systems were installed by the organizations as a whole were slow and reluctant in complying with requests that their books be put in order, that budgets be submitted and that financial status of the committee be aided with intelligent information.

Efficient new budgets were compiled, new provision made, and the report approved by the college council to whom the committee is responsible for its work and by the student council to whom one section had been referred. Several changes were also submitted for publication, such as a provision for handling what happens" but with the sincere hope that the student body wanted to know what happens. From the time of such publication, then, it is the intention of what was raised in convocation on Thursday, January 16 and the immediately following editorial, there had been little mention of the changes that they wanted to know. An editorial appeared a short time later and necessary an apology for having the working of the junior and senior prom plans to anyone misunderstanding as to Democratic expenditures. Such misgiving expenditures, including demonstration, were carefully discussed. Not only these extraordinary expenditures, including demonstration, were not necessary—miscellaneous—the budget items includes not demonstration but the regular expenditures from the seniors to the college. Such illogical reasoning for lack of curiosity has hindered the committee from making changes to understand the situation.

Furthermore, before the end of the first semester a complete system of accounts as they have been kept this year will be established. Treasurers and business managers will be required to submit all financial statements to the executive council. Checks will be issued only upon the presentation of bills approved by the budget committee.

Although it is true that we don't know what happens to the other half, with such a change in the deplorable state, are we wholly justified in demanding that the executive council of the college reveal to us, now yet. Let's wash our own faces first.

Signed: Evelyn Kennard.
Chairman of the college council budget committee.

Collegiate Come-Backs

POST-EXAM THOUGHT
There are tests that leave a tranquil,
There are tests that make us cold;
From the northern to the southern pole;
There are tests that cause a great disturbance,
here are tests that make a tender fuss,
But the ones that drive us to distraction
Are the ones that read "Discuss."

* * *

It seems that there is lating about campus this ever written that must be said minulate Lobergrin, prize ber. We are referring to "Dr Marie Corelli, and Noah It is our fervent desire that another of this ever-popular to Florida hunting licenses reasonable game at any time Summer. Lobergrin, please to protect American ization!

* * *

The Villanovan reports the to coeds at Iowa State Teachers were stricken ill after supplied by the home economics a home economics class, among who souls, print such a sissy ing word as "bowl" but can't a heart.

* * *

The cash value of a college education, according to the Columbia Daily College Herald, is at $72,700. Wonder if there's any chance of getting a check for this amount!

* * *

With the exam panic on the air, we print what we hope will be the last limerick of the week.

EXAM SONNET

Star stair star stairs
Stair star I see
I wish I may,
Go to sleep.

—Watch Tower.

* * *

We see by an article in the Indiana Daily that Indiana University has a Republican club that is Republican in name only. Even became a member of the club he must swear that he is a Democrat and that what we did on election day was in accordance with the wishes of the majority of his home district.

* * *

Look before you leap, while we say, Walter Bacli, professor of zoology at Boston University, in a recent address says the success of marriage depends upon the matching of personalities and affirms that no chance is left to marriage. Maybe a few more years of study in college. We agree with Professor Bacli that opposites are the same after some experience. Wonder if Professor Bacli has ever been married.

* * *

According to the psychological clinic of the University of Hawaii the average IQ of 35 year old men will cease if the chance of their election as governor is denied. Politics certainly restores our faith in human nature.

* * *

I said that I'd commit suicide if I didn't mind flees of it
But I abhor heads of water
So I'll just live on.

* * *

Next year at Whitman college a course is to be given in "The Use of Leisure." Wonder if they're going to let the students use it for cutting classes, or to spend all of their time working to find out how to use said time?

* * *

Offering Webster some competition, the Crimson Tide basketball team, in addition of the word, facetiously speaker, joins with been collar buttons and full of cheek, and, according to the female species, hair, bristled daily by a crowd to run to clothes, eyelash or full eyes the female species wear, whence the expression of your face." Each is supplied with lamps, shades, and brilliant boxes.

* * *

That the 2,875 coeds at the University of Wisconsin use scout badges as a means of identification is startling information indeed to the male of the gender. Statistics, however best not be made public. We don't see how anyone has a kick coming. Scout one ever saw a barn painted red, and he wouldn't want to but if he did.

* * *

I wish I were a kangaroo,
Despite his funny stunts,
I'd have a place to put the Junk
My girl brings to the dances —Hornet.

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT
University Editorials

TEACHER'S OATH

Massachusetts teachers' oath law has produced its first fruit—a battle between a crackpot and a lemon. The legislature of that state has accordingly instructed the students at Tufts from the university president down, all to be found in a zeology lecture. Let us join with the D. A. R. and Hearst, the police.

Because President Cousens of Tufts was afraid that the university's charter would otherwise be revoked, he was forced to accept the resignations of two professors, heads of departments and well-liked men among the faculty and student body. The professors, Dr. Earl M. Winslow and Dr. Alfred P. Lane, preferred resignation to signing the oath of allegiance which was demanded of them.

These two men did not have any radical feeling that estranged them from either the Federal Constitution or the fundamental law of the state, so one ever accused them of unpatriotic utterances. Dr. Winslow describes himself as "hopelessly conservative" in his economic and political views. Dr Lane has been wont to describe himself as a "confirmed haematite and cryolite—subjects of humility to corrupt the youth of Massachusetts.

If this incident happened in Italy, we would say: "See how the government throttles liberal education" and we would be shocked. But because the affair is the result of a law passed with flag-waving and with a blare of trumpets at the instigation of pseudo-patriots, too many will overlook what these professors saw and what they rebelled against. Some paltry patriotism, though backed by a million people, does not justify its "Americanism." Its interference with constitutional liberties and, being characteristic of the dictatorships which flag-wavers abhor. Harvard Crimson.

THE VICIOUS CIRCLE . . .

Many students are arriving to classes late because of necessity. Labor in the previous class dismissed promptly, causes the lack of instructor in the class to which they arrive tardily gets peeved and dismisses them early. Thus the next class also. Because the instructor dismisses them after the hour, the students are irked and decide to come to classes as late as possible.

The first action to break this circle was taken some weeks ago in a faculty meeting, when all instructors were asked not to dismiss their classes on the hour.

Students, therefore, may rest assured that they will be kept still in a class more than the required time after the hour, so they can forget their grievances and come to classes on time and everybody will be happy.

The problem remaining, is, however, what are you going to do with the long-winded instructor that has one memory "peg" to voice and the student who sleeps through most of the class period and who, ten minutes of the class remaining asks a stupid question of the instructor to prove that he is present and in so doing keeps the whole class after the hour? One might try dropping notebooks on the floor, or the like, if it weren't so impolite. Perhaps a brick would be more effective.—Michigan Daily.

The Social Week

Dorman Receives Formally In Honor of Day Students

Honoring the members of the Day Students Organization, Miss Olivia N. Dorman, dean of students, will entertain tonight at 8 o'clock in Reynolds parlors with a formal reception.

The parlors will be effectively decorated for this occasion with seasonal flowers and greenery which will be arranged in vases and bowls.

In the receiving line will be President Edward Conradi, Miss Louise Conradi, Marjorie Pain, Dr. Raymond Bellamy, Dean Dorman, and Geneva Lamb.

Introducing to the receiving line will be Katherine Blood, Margaret Graham, and Sarah Wells.

Floor hostesses will be members of the student executive council, publicity, and the president's council.

Pouring coffee during the reception will be Miss Raymond Bellamy, Mrs. Simeon R. Doyle, Miss Ruth Schonthaler, and Mrs. Dardelle L. Breen.

Coffee, ice-cream, cakes, and salted nuts will be served to the guests by members of the social committee of assistants.

Invited to attend this affair with the day students are members of the faculty committee on student affairs, members of the executive council, a number of faculty members whose names were submitted by the day students, Governor and Mrs. Dave Sholtz, and the governor's cabinet members and assistants.

Invited to attend this affair with the day students are members of the faculty committee on student affairs, members of the executive council, a number of faculty members whose names were submitted by the day students, Governor and Mrs. Dave Sholtz, and the governor's cabinet members and assistants.

Hostess at the dence hall and eff campus committees, members of the presidents council, Mortar Board, chairmen of Freshman Cabinet and Freshman Commission, and chairmen of all standing committees.

The honor guests, members of the day students organization include: Edith Abstein, Mrs. Mary B. Allfriend, Janice Anderson, Mrs. George K. Armes, Helen Anderson, Dorothy Atkinson, Edith Ayers, Mrs. Irene Ball, Dora Belland, Hattie Sarcs, Irene Barfield, Adah C. Bell, Bernice Blalock, Addie Bledso, Letitia Bond, Lillian Bradley, Sadie Bradford, Deenie Bruns, Mary Buck, Laurie Buckley, Alice Caldwell, Bonnie Cason, Bernadette Chesley, Vernon Clark, Margaret Cogswell, Davis Lee Cotten, Mrs. L. G. Davis, Mrs. N. D. Davis, Anne Deltrick, June Detrick, Mrs. Patricia Dodd, Mary Eagle, Marjorie Eifler, Dorothy Ellis, Martha Lee Ellis, Faith, Marjorie Fain, Cora Fay, Jessie Ferrell, Alice Fletcher, Sharon, Amanda Finch, Margaret Fishler, Irene Foster, Helenmary Fritsch, Jane Gage, Alice W. Gahan, Louise Gehan, Margaret Gehan, Margaret Gissendanner, Katherine Glenn, Alberta Glover, Ruth Gillespie, Margaret Green, Irene Gunn, Mary Hammond, Ruth Hanes, Winnifred Hanson, Marjorie Hartsfield, Orelle Hicks, Marion Hodges, Nell Hopkins, Edith Hurst, Mrs. Hutchinson, Marguerite Ivey, Bette Jackson, Mildred Jones, Margaret Jury, Lucy Kelly, Mrs. Annie Bernice Kennedy, Mrs. Addie Lamb, Geneva Lamb, Ines Lambreth, Frances Lee, Mildred Lee, Sarah Scott Lee, Erminne Lewis, Elizabeth Love, Mary Lou Love, Jessie McCollum, Mabel McGwen, Virginia McAdam, Kenneth McAdam, Margaret McWurter, Mavis McMillan, Mary Marshall, Freda Marriott, Margaret Marshall, Mary Mogridge, Reba Mendelson, Evelyn Messer, Ida Mixon, Ann Moon, Ed Moon, Sara Moor, Ruth Myers, Edna Myrick, Mary Myrick, Evenice Nicholson, Marjorie Osteen, Dorothea Palmer, Sara Bell Palmer, Daisy Parker, Edwina Parker, Mary Parker, Rosalind Parker, Gwendolyn Paterson, Gussie Perry.

Gertie Lou Peek, Dorothy Philips, Mary Pinkford, Pauline Poitevant, Dorothy Purse, Martha Ravia, Lenard Reaves, Ruth Renfroe, Helen Revell, Dorothy Jane Pickards, Ruth Riddle, Earl Rion, Mrs. Christine Scarborough, Louise Schwaderer, Betty Scott, Ines Seabrook, Jessie Bethel Lou Smith, Doris Strause, Marcia Scott, Mirabel Smith, Margaret Stancombe, Dorothea Stahman, Ida Mae Surpiing, Dorothy Standley, Florence Taff, Edna Taylor, Sara Thompson, Jane Thomas, Lenie Thornton, Florence Thrasher, Ada Tully, Mrs. Julia Walker, Mary Lou Watt, Sara D. Wells, Mary Lou Whitaker, Blanche White, Judith Wilensky, Ella Williams, Mary Willoughby, Lorinora Young, and Isabel Von.

Shores and Settle Will Sponsor Freshman Class

The freshman class held a short meeting Tuesday morning, January 28, for the purpose of electing faculty sponsors. Jean Gillis, class president, was in charge of the meeting. Dr Vernis Shores, associate professor of history, and Miss Mary B. Settle, instructor in physical education, were elected to sponsor the class.

Reaching for the Sun

Isn't it hard as you think, for the new spring dresses, suits and coats at The Vogue will help a good deal in attaining your hearts desires! Loop Year Styles alike, lightweight woolens, gabardines, and linens . . . colors are white, pastels, navy and gray. Prices as low as $2.93.

The Vogue

Unseasonable Weather

Causes Us to Continue Our

FALL SALE

All Fall Shoes

$1.99

AND

$2.99

Regardless of Former Cost!

QUALITY SHOE SHOPPE

East College

STATE THEATRE

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—JANUARY 31-FEBRUARY 1

BING CROSBY

in

"ANYTHING GOES"

SUNDAY AND MONDAY—FEBRUARY 2-3

Jeanette McDonald and Nelson Eddy

in

"ROSE MARIE"

TUESDAY—FEBRUARY 4

"MY MARRIAGE"

with

Claire Trevor

WEDNESDAY—FEBRUARY 5

Warner Oland

"CHARLIE CHAN'S SECRET"

THURSDAY—FEBRUARY 6

"SHOW THEM NO MERCY"

with

Rochelle Hudson and Bruce Cabot

Personal Mention

Mary Lou Torode spent last week-end in Lawry.

Margie Stump and Lois Long visited in Starke last week-end.

Ella Faye Price and Eloise Cork were the guests of Mrs. Bertha Price at Gainesville last week-end.

Betty Leach spent last week-end with her aunt, Mrs. Victoria Embry, in Quincy.

Mary Frank Price paid a short visit to her parents in Cottendale last Saturday.

Pearle Shepard has been at her home in St. Petersburg this week due to the illness of her mother.

Annie Jennings and Hazel Bowman visited Ida Engel in Ponce de Leon between semesters.

Mrs. J. K. Bruce of Jacksonville was a recent guest of the Alpha Chi Omega house last week.

Chairman Lufburrow and Josephine Shepard motored to Lake City last week-end.

Bernice Blackwell, Alpha Chi Omega alumna from Gainesville was a recent visitor to the affiliated with the local chapter.

Mamie Brinson visited her parents in Bainbridge last week-end.

Eleanor Hutchinson visited in Lake City last week-end.

Peggy Milton was a visitor in Jacksonville last week-end.

Nellie Lamar will visit her sister, Mrs. Arthur Watson, at Fort Valley, Ga., this week-end.

Carl Brinson will spend the week-end in Pensacola.

Grace Mary Hunter is spending the week-end with her parents in Lakeland.

Miss Hall has gone to Fort White to spend the week-end with her parents.

Frances Orr, Mary Jo Clayton, and Frances Thomas are visiting in Waycross, Ga., this week-end.

Betty Mack and Helen Ballenger have gone to Lakeland to spend the week-end.

Helen Hatfield is a visitor in Tampa this week-end.

Jo Taylor, of Orlando, is visiting at the Kappa Delta house this week.

Florence Duval was pledged to the Kappa Delta sorority last night.

Betty Middleton attended the dance in Pensacola last week-end.

Annie Laurie and Clarice Sanches were visitors in Albany, Ga., last week.

Virginia and Patty Hamilton were visitors in Lakeland last week.

Visiting in Jacksonville last week-end were Wylma Turbush, Irene Barfield, and Lorraine English.

Horace D. Haight, and professor James E. Chace, of the college business administration of the University of Florida visited here with Herbert D. Mendenhall this week. Mr. Haight is a past national officer of the Chi Phi fraternity of which Mr. Mendenhall is a member. He is a graduate of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Tom W. Ivey, a former member of the New York stock exchange.

Marriage of Lewinsky To Fischbein Takes Place Thursday

Of interest to many students on campus is the wedding of Goldie Love Lewinsky to E. Herman Fishbein which took place in St. Augustine last Thursday.

The ceremony was performed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lewinsky with the Rabbi Levin officiating.

Mr. Fishbein is a graduate of the University of Florida where he was a member of the Tau Epsilon Phi, social fraternity, and Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

Davis Fischbein, father of the groom, and Frank Lewinsky, father of the bride were present at the ceremony. The couple will make their permanent home in Newark, N. J., at the end of the school year.

SORORITY CELEBRATES FOUNDER'S DAY WITH FORMAL BANQUET MONDAY NIGHT

Celebrating national Founder's Day the members of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority entertained at a banquet in the Dutch Kitchen at 6:30 o'clock Monday night.

The banquet table was arranged in a T formation with lighted white tapers placed down the center. Extending down the length of the table was an arrangement of green leaves with kumquats resting on them. Place cards were miniature corner stones done in black and gold.

During the evening the pledges entertained with a short program including a skit, and Antoinette Sullivan, the president, gave an informal talk.

Special guests at this time were Dr. Jennie Tilt, Miss Mildred Finnegan, Miss Edith West, and Miss Edna Mae McIntosh.

Members and pledges of the sorority were Antoinette Sullivan, Evelyn Ballard, Clarinelle O'Steen, Rosalyn Bellamy, Jessie Ter Bush, Mary Waller McCormick, Mary Ernest, Margaret Reedy, Virginia Hamilton, Clarice Sanches, Banks Wood, Mary Veach, Betty Middleton, Sarah Clark, Kitty Craven, Helen Donn, Patricia Hamilton, Marjorie Horton, Jean Harris, Margaret Schmidt, Patricia Barrington, Virginia Campbell, Virginia Clements, Lorraine English, Ruth Fisher, Martha Hague, Christine Marcum, Annie Laurie Pope, Doris Purchase, Mary K. Quesenbery, Annis Laurie Sanborn, Mary Catherine Thomas, Mary Bruce Patterson, Betty Spencer, and Edythe Stanley.

VALENTINE THEME TO FEATURE DANCE SPONSORED BY SIGMA KAPPA SORORITY

The members and pledges of the Sigma Kappa sorority will entertain with a formal dance tomorrow night at their house on Park Avenue. In keeping with the season, the valentine theme will be carried out in both decorations and refreshments.

The interior of the house will be colorfully decorated with red and white streamers and strings of red hearts will be scattered about. Throughout the evening candy hearts will be served and the festivities will come to a climax with the serving of heart-shaped sandwiches and coffee.

Hostesses at the affair will be Margaret Kay Anderson, Sara Miss Davis, Sarah Elizabeth Ann Glenn, Margie Glenn, Martha Hones, Sara Hones, Emily Johnson, Evelyn Leonard, Lenna Slimmer, Grace Wilk, Fenton Woodward, Ferda Wringer, Marjorie Eger, Elma Guth, Connie Howard, Sascon Knight, Pauline Lowry, Helen Mahaffey, Frances McDowell, Jean McMullin, Mary Carol Ponder, Mary Elizabeth Ann Spencer, Mary Louise Thomas, Elizabeth Tindel, Nellye Woodson, and Jeanette Robinson.

Janet Cook, Mildred Hurst, Mary D. Irvine, Elizabeth Jicka, Ruth Lind, Vivian Marshall, Kathleen Owens, Marjorie Weeks, Martha Williams, Lou Chilson, Mary Hammond Martin Wright, Lois Ferguson, and Jane Dagg.

Among those invited are Dr. W.

COLLEGE CALENDAR

February 2 to February 8

Sunday

11:00 a. m. Episcopal services.

7:45 p. m. Vespers.

Monday

5:30 p. m. Orchestra rehearsal—auditorium.

7:15 p. m. Music club rehearsal.

9:00 p. m. Sorority meetings.

Tuesday

5:30 p. m. Orchestra rehearsal.

7:15 p. m. Glee club rehearsal.

Thursday

11:30 a. m. Convocation—Mrs. V. V. Moore, president of State Association of Women's Clubs.

Saturday

8:00 p. m. SOPHOMORE HOP—gymnasium.

A Perfect Permanent and A Charming Coiffure!

Start with a shampoo. Our carefully selected preparations will turn your hair out soft and lovely. Then add a personal coiffure. Our permanent waves are given in accordance with the best modern methods.

POWDER PUFF BEAUTY SHOP

108 S. Adams Phone 656

THEY MUST GO!

ONE RACK OF DRESSES

All sizes and colors—Formerly sold for $9.90.

ONLY-- $3.00

THE LADIES' SHOP

"Where Styles are Shown First for Less"

NEXT TO STATE THEATRE

Alpha Gams Entertain Mrs. Carlyle Scott At Informal Tea

The members and pledges of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority entertained Wednesday afternoon with an informal tea in honor of Mrs. Carlyle Scott, manager of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, and a member of the chapter from the University of Minnesota.

The lower floor of the house was attractively decorated with arrangements of red and white japonicas.

During the social hour mints, salted nuts, and cookies were served by the hostesses.

Invited to meet Mrs. Scott at this time were Dr and Mrs. C. P. Heinlein, Dr. Anna Perkes Lidell, Miss Sara D. Meador and others.

Members and pledges of the chapter who acted as hostesses are Betsy Anderson, Frances Bishop, Amber Turner, Victoria Curtis, Doris Isted Catherine McGarry, Nellie Lamar, Janie Calahorne, Nadia Grainger, Marcia Scott, Wenda Wilkes, Dorothy Bryan, Mary Nell Pinckard, Nan O'Shaughnessy, Helen Godwin, Phyllis Gunn, Mary Ward Peterson, Rosalie McDonald, Louise Hill.

Mary Helen Barnhart, Margaret Boteler, Ruth Bethart, Gladys Bond, Martha Pailes, Julia Harrison, Mary Ann Hart, Julia Hodgson, Virginia Jepson, Nola Kersey, Helen Lane, Mary Melton, Middie Moore, Margaret Oliver, Kathryn Patterson, Isabelle Satterfield, Clara Scott, Barbara Swanstrom, and Nancy Williams.

Former Dietitian Is On Visit to Kalluns

Mrs. Grover C. Williamson (Florence Conwar), of the class of 1917, who was dietitian at Florida State College for two years, arrived in Tallahassee Wednesday for a visit of several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Kellum, her brother-in-law and sister. Mrs. Williamson has resided for years from her home in East Orange, New Jersey, by her little daughter, Mary Helen.

Mr. William T. Larmore (Mabel St. Clair Clark), 2638 E. Main street, Chattanooga; Mrs. Eaton Seabrook, Jane Grey Stevens, Genevieve Boomers, Barbara Taylor, Sarah Tillman Mary Linsdell, Virginia Phillips

Miss Anderson, Mary Jane Sellers, Dee Carroll, Patricia Cubbins, Martha Edwards, Nellie Pain, Lois Hiller, Helen Hallaway, Jane Jackson, Martha Kennedy, Frances LaMotta, Janet Lockwood, Barbara Moore, Helen Clem Merriday, Lutrelle Patterson, Norma Robinson, Lucille Reed, Jane Tharin, Bedford Thrower, and Nell Robey Webb.

KAPPA DELTA FRIENDS AND RUSHEES ARE ENTERTAINED AT INFORMAL TEA

Friends and rushees of the Kappa Delta sorority were entertained Wednesday afternoon from 4:30 to 6 o'clock with an informal tea in the sorority house on Copeland street.

Vases and bowls of seasonal flowers were placed throughout the lower floor of the house to carry out the informal motif.

Hot tea and cinnamon toast were served to the guests during the tea hour.

Hostesses at this time were Carolina Oliver Adeline Tillman, Julia Lamar, Douglas Dabney, Cecil Hicks, Helen Miller, Edith Perkins, Elizabeth Ayala, Jo Binion, Mary Jo Clayton, Mary Catherine Gibson, Emelia Mae Lockwood, Betty Mack, Mary Mercantile, Del McLeod, Anne Sams, Helen Turnbull, Grace Whitaker, Peggy Mc-Cullough, Mary Whitaker, Jeanne Noggle, Virginia Rogers, Catherine Betty Anderson, Frances Bishop, Amber Turner, Victoria Curtis, Doris Isted Catherine McGarry, Nellie Lamar, Janie Calahorne, Nadia Grainger, Marcia Scott, Wenda Wilkes, Dorothy Bryan, Mary Nell Pinckard, Nan O'Shaughnessy, Helen Godwin, Phyllis Gunn, Mary Ward Peterson, Rosalie McDonald, Louise Hill.

Mary Helen Barnhart, Margaret Boteler, Ruth Bethart, Gladys Bond, Martha Pailes, Julia Harrison, Mary Ann Hart, Julia Hodgson, Virginia Jepson, Nola Kersey, Helen Lane, Mary Melton, Middie Moore, Margaret Oliver, Kathryn Patterson, Isabelle Satterfield, Clara Scott, Barbara Swanstrom, and Nancy Williams.

President of Class of '25 Attempts Locate Members

Continued from page 3

Mrs. King (Mildred Louise Powell), Inverness

Original members of the class of 1925 who received B. S. degrees in 1923 are Mrs. Charles Wendick (Nell Adams), Miami; Mrs. Jack Valero (Clare Wardner Alleni), 810 E. Gildews avenue, Tampa; Helen Lloyd Arnold, 1921 Pearle street, Jacksonville; Catherine Adelaide Barnard, Rose Park school, St. Petersburg; Mrs. J. Lyman Morris (Jennie Lou Belyeu), 816 Sycamore Drive, Decatur, Ga.; Mary Boyman, address unknown; Virginia Boynton Bellflower; Maude Ellen Bytti, Tallahassee; Ida Carmek, address unknown.

Mrs. William T. Larmore (Mabel St. Clair Clark), 2638 E. Main street, Chattanooga; Mrs. Eaton Burr (Myrtle Collins), 623 Beard street, Tallahassee; Mrs. John Bennett, Jr. (Lilian Stanley Cornwell), Clearwater; Mrs. Ira S. Phillips (Louise Cox), Lakeland; Mrs. S. F. Chatman (Mary Helen Cox), E. Fort King street, Ocala; Thelma Crews, N. Wilmerton, N. C.; Mollie Wills Crews, Cherry, Orlando; Mrs. Francis R. Bridges (Callie Mae Eldridge), address unknown. Jacksonville; Louise Ferguson, 431 Myernia street, West Palm Beach; Mrs. Howard Moore (Clarice Jeanette Frost), 1003 Port Hamilton avenue, Clearwater; Tassie Galloway, Galloway; Susie Alice Gay, address, 1104 Peironda street, Key West.

Mrs. Jesse Hamilton (Lucy Hindshaw), address unknown; Mrs. Aubrey C Hosten (Alice Leonora Hendrix), 1014 Santen Ct., Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. Clyde Williams (Sarah Catherine Hunsinger), 1439 Seventh avenue, Bradenton; Kate McEwen Smith, Chipley; Mary Sue Keenan, 16 E. 74th street, Miami; Mrs. M. R. Kitchen (Mary Imogene Stallings), 21 Westover drive, Montford Hills, Asheville, N. C.; Margaret Strange Mizell; Mrs. J. E. Wilson (Ruth Evelyn Turner), DeSoto City, Fla.; Annie Sandell Watson Gretna; Mrs. S. L. Jenkins (Dorothy Weiss), address unknown; Dorothy Blanchpeth Wilson, Bartow; Mrs. John L. Pahl (Mary Katherine Wilson), Lenox, Marguerite Woodell, address unknown.

Exclusive with

VOGUE SHOE PARLOR

Tallahassee

At The Vogue

Beta Pi Theta Will Honor Cappatti At Dinner, Coffee

Beta Pi Theta will be hostess to Miss Cappatti at a supper at dinner tonight in the dining room.

Miss Cappatti is an exchange student of Nice, France and attends Agnes Scott college.

After dinner the French honorary will serve coffee in Broward hall, honoring the French student.

Members of the honorary are Miss Finnegan, faculty advisor, A. B. Hall, Miss Dorothy Breen, Dr. Margie Burks, Dr. Marion Hay, Miss Lucy Lester, Miss Elinor Lewis, Miss Margaret Campbell, Mr. Manuel Lopez, and Dr. A. R. Serpas.

The student members include Mauvis Lamar, president, Alice T. Perry, Leona Simmel, Ruth Jock, Ruth Dickson, Betty Boggs, Ruth Hiberd, Wylma Tar Bush, Mary Carson, Lillian Turlington, Jo Binion, Pearle Overbuhy, Dorothy Green, Barbara Crosland, and Anna Glen.

Church Council Will Hold Meet

Baptists, Presbyterians Visited by Jones And Lockyer

The student groups of the Presbyterian, Baptist and Episcopal churches are in the midst of a round of religious activities.

The Presbyterian senior and junior council composed of about thirty members, will hold its monthly meeting tonight at the church annex in order to make plans for the coming months. There will be a discussion on home missions. Mrs. Arthur Williams, secretary of home missions in the local auxiliary, will be the speaker. Also on Sunday at the league meeting, Marjorie Pain and Virginia Taylor will tell of their mountain mission work near Berger, Georgia, where they were sent for a month last July by the Presbyterian league.

Dr. Lockyer of Liverpool, England, spoke at the Presbyterian church auditorium on different phases of the Bible. He has traversed all over Florida and has spoken at the Presbyterian churches in Jacksonville and other cities.

Two of the six Presbyterian groups which meet every Sunday evening, had programs this week. Lela Gibbs' group which has been studying "Preparing to Build a Christian Home," entertained at a tea given for their advisers. The honor guests were Mrs. H. D. Mendenhall, Mrs. V. G. Phillips, Mrs. David Buggs, and Miss Glen Terrell.

Cameron Thompson's group met with Esther Hodek in Cameron's absence. Their subject was "Personal Religious Living."

The Baptist Young Women's association will hold a meeting tonight at 7:30 at the Baptist student room.

Last Monday Mr. John Hall Jones, Baptist student secretary at Gainesville, talked with the local Baptists about the phases of Baptist Student union work throughout the state.

Episcopal students will attend their regular after-dinner coffee tonight at 7:30. Betty Ostlund, Sally Hazlitt, and Betty White will act as hostesses.

The Episcopal students were entertained at various tea during examination week. Betty Ostlund and Sue Penner, Sally Hazlitt and Mary Wing acted as general hostesses.

130 Students Changing Residence Results In Week's Major Problem

The housing situation has been one of the major problems of the college week due to the many withdrawals from school and changes within and without the dormitories. Approximately 130 students applied for permission to change their place of residence. Sixty-eight have moved into the dormitories from off-campus houses. Thirty-one have applied for permission to move from the dormitories to the various sorority houses, fifty-six have made changes within the dormitories, and nine have moved from one off-campus house to another.

Most students applying for rooms were granted their requests. However there are still about fifty-five students living in off-campus houses. Some of these students are from out of the state and are not eligible to live in the dormitories. The remaining girls are new students and will be placed later.

Be the Belle of the Hop in an Evening Gown
from the DIANA
SHOP
New Dresses
Arriving Daily!
Plan a New Street
Ensemble, too—
DRESSES
HATS
SWEATERS
HOSE
and LINGERIE

Penmanship Classes Will Begin Tuesday

An announcement from Dean N. M. Bailey states that penmanship classes for the second semester will begin on Tuesday, February 4. The classes will meet on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday at the Demonstration school. There will be two sections, one at 4:30 and one at 5:30.

Seven Honored By Science Council

American Men of Science Recognize Ability

Six Florida State college professors have been awarded full membership in American Men of Science, the official biographical directory of outstanding men of science in this country, and the wife of one. Dr. C. P. Heinlein, has also been recognized.

Those fellows now having full membership are Dr. Jennie Tilt, Dr. Leland Lewis, Dr. Paul Pinner, Dr. Herman Kurz, Dr. Christian Paul Heinlein, Dr. Alben Stewart, and Dr. Julia Hir Heinlein.

The constitution of the American Association fo the Advancement of Science provides for two types of membership. Persons willing to cooperate in the work of the association may be elected to membership by the scientific council. Members who are professionally engaged in scientific work and who have advanced science by research of recognized scientific value may by action of the scientific council be appointed fellows.

Program Features Poetry

Miss Elizabeth Thompson, instructor in speech, will read selections from religious poetry as part of the weekly Y. W. C. A. vespers program to be given at 7:15 in the Augusta Conradi theater Sunday night, according to Mary Jeanne McKay, chairman of vespers.

Everyone is invited to attend.

Kappa Delta Pi Honors Birthday

Eleventh Anniversary Of Founding Celebrated

A celebration in honor of the eleventh anniversary of the founding of Alpha Delta chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, national education honorary, was held Tuesday night at the home of Dean N. M. Bailey, head of the school of education.

The program which was in charge of Miss Martha Chapman, demonstration school teacher, included the cutting of a large birthday cake and a sketch of the history of the chapter by Miss Leonora Smith, instructor in education.

Another feature of the program was a group of eleven talks given by members of the fraternity each describing a particular trait evident in the growth of the chapter since its organization. Those who gave the talks were Hazel Sampley Murse Reddick, Mr. Robert Moon, Mr Kenneth Williams, Mrs. Owen Skipper, Mrs P. F. Pinner, Miss Hollie Carmine, Miss Lillian Tree, Miss Margaret McCarty, Miss Margaret Flippo, and Miss Helen Smith.

At its next meeting the chapter will honor the freshmen who are outstanding in education courses.

Open Politics Will Be Discussed at Meeting Next Tuesday Evening

Due to the numerous requests of college students for a discussion on politics, the NSFA will sponsor an open forum on "Why Not Have Open Politics?" next Tuesday evening, at 7:15 o'clock.

According to Mary Jeanne McKay, students have been putting the names of topics which they want discussed in the mail box beneath the NSFA bulletin board, and the topic for next Tuesday night was among the most important of these. She urges the students to continue to use this box as freely as they have in the past.

Distaff This Quarter Contains Articles On Present Day Problems

The second issue of the Distaff, a quarterly college magazine, was distributed Wednesday, Jan. 29, to the student body.

"Liberty at the Stake," written by Gertrude Kuhn, is an article of current interest which discusses the five issue of popular autonomy or dictatorship. Clotilde O'Rourke gives her views on "The College Woman and Marriage," which shows that college women enter the marriage field as much as do any of the other women who remain at home, or who attend finishing schools and are presented to society. Althea Smith's "Fiesta-Fanta-Pulacca" discusses the trends of modern poetry. The youth. Hazel Bowman's "The Cherry Tree" shows that America's progress is impeded by outmoded traditions.

The stories appearing were Nellie Lamar's "Havana Bound," Catherine Levey's "This Way," and Ermine Lawrence's "The Adventures of Anabelle."

The poetry was contributed by Mavis McMillan. Nan O'Shaughnessy, and Elisabeth Beckwell.

The art work was done by Martha Makemson and Grace Whitaker.

The five dollar prize awarded to the student contributing the best prose article will probably be announced in convocation Thursday, according to Sarah Krentzman, editor.

All town students can get their Distaff copy by calling at the college post office window.

Neutrality Legislation Topic of Forum Speech

The International Relations committee of the local branch of A. A. U. W. will sponsor an Open Forum meeting Friday, January 31, at 8 o'clock in the Augusta Conradi theater. Judge Fred Davis will discuss "Neutrality Legislation."

Miss Maxine Irish, chairman of the committee in charge, has extended an invitation to all members of A. A. U. W., faculty and students of the college, and townspeople to attend.

Need For Change of Attitude Discussed In Student Survey

Acquisition of Knowledge and Enrichment of Mind Are Secondary Considerations to Grades Which Are Present Campus Aim

BY ELOISE ANDREWS

In few phases of our academic life is the need for complete change and readjustment so manifest as in the student attitude toward grades.

Wherever we may be, in the dormitory, in the classroom, or on the campus walks, we can hardly escape the incessant flood of such remarks as "I can't wait to find out what I made on that test," or "I'm worried sick about my math grade."

These and other remarks of a similar nature, heard so frequently that they have become like lines from an old, old story, are indicative of a far greater absorption in grades than should rightfully pertain to them.

This profound grade-consciousness has become tantamount to obsession or mania. With the insidious tenacity of a deadly malady it has fastened itself upon the members of the student body, so that whether talking, eating, or dreaming they seldom stray far from the charmed circle of credit hours and quality points.

Such a condition is by no means wholesome or desirable. In the first place, the devotion of so much attention to grades is obviously a waste of time. Energy expended in worry and conjecture about grades is clearly unproductive of tangible results. If the effort dissipated in this manner were directed instead to thoughtful study, great economy of time and energy and appreciable improvement in the learning process would doubtless ensue.

It is a lamentable indictment of our present educational methods that in the mad rush for grades students have in many cases become blind to the true purpose of college training. Too often in selecting a teacher for a certain subject their basis of judgment is not his competency as an instructor but his reputation as a "hard grader" or as "easy grader." By some strange mental twist they have come to regard the making of grades as the end and aim of campus life, in comparison with which the acquisition of knowledge and the strengthening and enrichment of the mind are purely secondary considerations.

From our college training it is presumed that we will learn to evaluate, to see things in their proper proportions, to think clearly, and to form accurate judgments. Yet in placing undue stress upon grades we are guilty of a flagrant violation of these principles. In cultivating avidity for grades at the expense of the spirit of learning, we are clinging to the trivial and discarding the significant. We have become confused in our sense of values: we have wandered from the path of knowledge and are making fawning obeisance before false gods.

The all-important question has become, not "How much did you learn?" but, "How many A's did you make?" The specter of collegiate endeavor is no longer to learn for the joy of learning, but to learn so that one may flaunt before the eyes of envious friends a brief column of coveted symbols on a small white grade-slip.

Is this a sample of our straight thinking and accurate judgment? Is the pursuit of learning for its own sake no longer worthwhile? Is the college student to be stunted so puerile as a penchant for A's or a fear of "flunking?"

The fallacy of such views is readily apparent. To the extent that we have permitted grades to dominate our scholastic activities we have failed to realize the true purpose of higher education. We have by our heedlessness, by our apathy, by our blind adherence to mob sentiment permitted grades to develop into noxious weeds which are inexorably choking out the flower of knowledge.

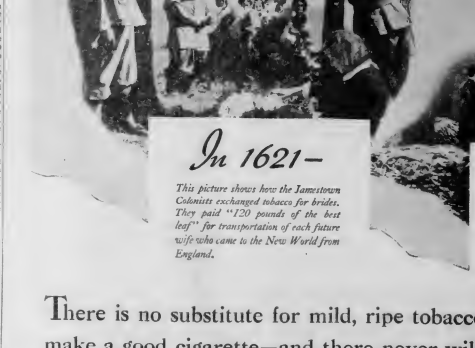
Now, it may well be asked, are we to correct this situation? Clearly it is not enough merely to attempt to change the attitude of students by pointing out the relative unimportance of grades in the scheme of learning. We must attack the problem at its source—the grading system itself. We must begin at the foundation and institute fundamental changes in this system. When it has been so altered, student attitude will automatically adjust itself to the new concept.

Various methods of attaining this consummation have been propounded. Among the most recent and most feasible of these is the method whereby the abecedarian plan now obtaining would be discarded for a system in which students would merely be classed as "satisfactory" or "unsatisfactory." Such a system would, its proponents believe, eliminate the working for grades while banning students disposed to exert no effort and permitting those actuated by a genuine desire to learn ample scope for progress.

Under such a system we would no longer hear the lament: "I wish I could attend that lecture tonight, but I can't. I hate to miss so excellent a speaker, but I have oodles of work to do for tomorrow, so I guess I'll have to stay home and study." In the new regime the lecture would be considered of more importance than the "oodles of work" and would be attended. Lessons we have always with us: opportunities to hear the inspired words of national and international celebrities occur less frequently.

As a consequence of this system the student could devote more attention to the cultural and social values to be derived from college and less to the laborious memorization of dry facts to gratify the whims of a professor and elicit from him a commendatory A. The result: a poised, wholesome, well-rounded individual, instead of a pedant or an animated encyclopedia.

Since the evils of our present grading system have become so deplorable, the "satisfactory and unsatisfactory" plan or a similar innovation in grading methods is at least worthy of a trial. It could hardly involve us in greater intellectual slothfulness than those in which we are now floundering. If it were successful, on the other hand, we could effectually rout the bugaboo of grades and joyfully acclaim the happy day when the pursuit of knowledge for its own sake would once more come into its own.



Dr. Finner Will Speak At Psychology Seminar

Dr. Paul Pinner will speak on the St. Louis meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at the meeting of the Psychology Seminar to be held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Heinlein Tuesday evening at 8 p. m.

Following Dr. Pinner's talk Laura Mathis will report on "The Development of an Infant—A Case Study."

All members of the advanced classes in psychology and those students who have had an elementary course in psychology are invited to attend.

FOR A VALENTINE—
Give a Photograph!
PIKE STUDIO

In 1621—
This picture shows how the Jamestown Colonists exchanged tobacco for brides. They paid "120 pounds of the best leaf" for transportation of each future wife who came to the New World from England.
In 1936—
And here is a picture of the modern auction warehouse of today where the same type of leaf tobacco is sold on the open market to the highest bidder.
There is no substitute for mild, ripe tobacco to make a good cigarette—and there never will be
. . . and that is the kind we buy for Chesterfield Cigarettes.
In the tobacco buying season Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. buyers will be found at 75 markets where the Bright type of tobacco is sold, and 46 markets where Burley and other types of tobacco are sold.
All these tobacco men are trained in the tobacco business, and are schooled in the Liggett & Myers tradition that only mild, ripe tobacco is good enough for Chesterfield Cigarettes.
LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

Outstanding
.. for mildness
.. for better taste
© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Help International Club
Bring Foreign Student Here Next Year

The Florida Flambeau

Attend Lectures by Dynamic
Dr. Edwin Poteat
In Religious Emphasis Week

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, February 7, 1936

VOLUME XXIII. NUMBER SEVENTEEN

Resolution Is Made at NSFA Meet Tuesday

Election System Proposed At Debate Will Go To Student Senate

GROUP DEFINES "OPEN POLITICS"

Plan Would Encourage Campaigning to Fill Student Offices

At the NSFA forum meeting held Tuesday night on the subject "Open Politics," a resolution was passed that the election system proposed by Margaret Graham and Polly Everett at the open debate, with the addition provision that following the candidates' campaign speeches there would be open discussion and speeches from the floor, be presented to the student senate, and if passed incorporated in the present election system.

Outstanding features of the new system are that students shall be notified of the coming elections by announcements posted on the C. G. A. bulletin board, articles in the Flambeau, and announcements in assemblies; that informal speeches shall be made from the platform stating the requirements of the various offices; that candidates shall then be presented to the student body in convocation, the president of C. G. A. calling them to the stage in groups according to classes and alphabetical order; that discussion by the student body shall be carried on after the candidates have left the auditorium; and, that each candidate on the final ballot shall make a speech accepting the nomination, and after which the floor is open for questioning of the candidates by the student body.

McKay Leads Forum

The open forum was lead by Mary Jeanne McKay, chairman of the committee, who read a few parliamentary laws. This discussion of "Open Politics" in Miss Jeanne is to be in the form of helpful suggestions. Such a discussion has been planned for a large number of students.

"Open Politics" was defined to be outset as an election system where open campaigning is allowed. Although there is at present no rule saying that P. S. C. W. cannot have "Open Politics" there isn't socially accepted. We would have such campaigning, it was stated, without changing the constitution if such a resolution were passed by the senate.

Students Express Views

It was the general opinion of several of the students that many of the voters do not know the candidates and are not well-informed on the matters at hand and that it would be advantageous to have the candidates speak to the entire student body.

In reply to the question "What would constitute a campaign speech?", Margaret Graham said: "A campaign speech would be made up of a candidate's platform, points toward rules and regulations. The manner in which to speak is left to the discretion of the candidate."

Different, but most creditable, is the obsession of a certain statistical intelligence which arises when she is compelled to do some required reading she has not been desire to read or poetry. Then there's the well-meaning senior who said that "magnificent obsession" is to graduate.

Students Feel Urge to Favor Inane Desires

College Girls Suppress Unorthodox Actions With Sighs

BY PEARLE SHEPARD

Like the male boy at the theater recently who replied to a furniture urge by aiming his little sling shot at the beautiful balloon of a bubble dancer, students on college campus feel definitely unorthodox things. But unlike the little boy, led on by a bet, they dare not fulfill these longings.

Fred Astair in a popular picture did something that most mortals, including college students crave to do—he went into a tap routine in an establishment on the walls of which was "allowed" in bold, black letters. In a library, a lecture room, a society club, the radicals among us would like to scream, so they say, at the top of their voices. In some cases, the classroom, has been known to vample the pencil sandwich to utter a few cries.

Then there's the person, a quite respectable sophomore, who has an insane desire to pinch somebody and her just to see what the reaction would be. That's reminiscent of the little red school house days when the class perpetrated the briefs of two girls together or dipped their curls in inkwells.

While the choir sits at attention, listening to the words of the minister, one choir member, a student no less, wonders what she has the urge to walk on her hands across the balistrade in front of the choir and down to the platform below, just to see what the effect would be.

Another church-goer admitted that often she has the urge to stand up during the sermon and argue with the minister—to present her particular views on the issue involved to an admission by one who said she had almost corrected her pastor when he had misstated the historical properties that make up water.

Some of these desires are quite ridiculous, but, nevertheless, not absurdity. For instance, there's a person who has almost had an insane desire to stand in front of the trombone player in an orchestra and play a few bars on the clarinets that she has never summoned enough courage to do. She would happen if one threw an egg in an electric fan? To do this and see the consequences would require a second of extreme daring.

In almost everyone there comes at times a desire to destroy to some physical damage. Some admit that their queer quirk is a tendency to sit up in a room with a load of dishes. Another tells of unconfirmed but strong urges to slap someone for some minor offense. Another gets hilarious when she sees the sun shining through the crowd at the pool-side. She has the urge to take off her notebook, her book or maybe her hat, leap into the water, run hysterically through the throng, hitting right and left.

Consolidation Program For Organizations

Overlapping Membership Amendment Favored By FSCW Senate

WANTS SEPARATE GROUP MEETINGS

IAWS Questionnaire Gives Rise to Resolutions By Local Body

In answer to a questionnaire proposing consolidation of the three national organizations which govern students' government the senate of the College Government association stated definitely that it did not favor the setting up of an entirely new federation but proposed that if consolidation was found necessary the duties of these offices should be placed under the National Federation of Women.

The senate also proposed that overlapping in membership be eliminated, that overlapping organizations and any other regional organizations should be amended.

Proposes Consolidation

The organization proposing consolidation is the National Student Association of Women Students which was formed by merging groups exists between its organization and the Intercollegiate Association of Student Governments.

In the questionnaire received by the local College Government association the advantages and disadvantages of consolidation were set forth in definite terms with the request that suggestions from other organizations might wish to make.

Based on advantages resulting from consolidation were the following: "Central office records and continuity of service for conventions and information concerning student government trends, avoidance of overlapping functions by the three national organizations which have similar objectives", and "the maximum of interchanged views with delegates from all parts of the country."

Consolidation Disapproved

Listed as disadvantages were: "distance from the national convention (e.g. Los Angeles, 1937), domination of student governments by the larger association groups by the larger mid-west and western groups, lack of adequate national financing, location of headquarters, and duplication of offices, basis of membership, constitution and by-laws", and "time and location of meetings."

The questionnaire and answers as made by the committee in government results as follows:

Favors Only

Senate favors only consolidation of the three national organizations into one national organization. The State Board of

Continued on Page Two

Sholtz Appoints Code Committee

To Deal With Educational Problems of State

The Board of Control of Florida State College for Women will hold its regular meeting this week-end in its office in the Administration building, according to an announcement made this week by President Edwin Mims Poteat.

Dr. Conradi also announced the appointment by Governor Sholtz of a five-man committee to deal with educational problems existing in schools and colleges throughout the state.

The membership of the new committee includes, in addition to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, one representative from each of the following organizations: the State Association of County School Board members, County Superintendents of Public Instruction, and the University of Florida. Florida State College for Women, Florida State Association, the American Legion and the American Legion auxiliary, the Florida Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Florida Federation of Women's clubs, the Florida Education association, and the State Auditing department.

At their initial meeting last Monday the members of the committee elected Superintendent W. S. Cawthon, president and Mr. Byran Lewis, state auditor, secretary.

PROPOSED CHANGES IN ELECTION SYSTEM

EDITOR'S NOTE: A new procedure for elections, which was read at the recent NSFA debate and discussed at the forum meeting and is to be brought up at the next student senate meeting, follows in complete form.

Section 5. Procedure.

A. Tuesday, last Tuesday in February. A formal announcement of the coming elections shall be posted on the College Government association bulletin board, shall be submitted to the Flambeau for publication in the issue of the week, and shall be made in convocation. Informal speeches shall be made at this convocation by the president of C. G. A., chairman of judiciary, freshman advisor, president of Y. W. C. A., president of Athletic association, editors of Flambeau, Flastacowo, and Distaff, stating duties and qualifications of each office to be elected. Another convocation shall be held at which the fact that interested parties should see that the required number of nominations (25) is received by the candidate whom they think is best fitted for the office. These speeches must be approved beforehand by the nominating committee.

B. Tuesday, first Tuesday in March. Nominations shall be made in convocation by secret ballot of the entire student body. Conning of the nominees for president of C. G. A., chairman of judiciary, the vice-presidents of the association, the secretary, the treasurer, and the freshman advisor shall take pace the same day.

C. Wednesday. A list of all nominees receiving more than 25 votes for any of the above-listed offices shall be presented to the dean of students, the director of personnel, the registrar, and the librarian.

D. Wednesday afternoon. Notice of nomination shall be sent to each candidate for her consideration. After a threehour period the candidate shall notify the nominating committee that she either accepts or rejects the nomination. The nominee's decision shall be final. An official

(Continued on page two)

Fifty-Six New Students Enter

Total Enrollment Shows Large Increase Over Former Years

Fifty-six new students are enrolled for the second semester at Florida State College for Women. Two students, Alice Cannen, Tallahassee, and Jewel Sparkman, Tampa, were enrolled during the first semester but withdrew, have re-entered for second semester, which makes the total enrollment to date 1734, an increase of 104 over that of last year.

New students entering are Mary Elizabeth Wilson, from Goodwin; Mary Elizabeth Hendricks, Inlet; Mrs. Everett Parish Munroe, Orlando; Mary Lou Hall Townsend, Bell; Shirley Turner, Greenwood; Ruth Ann Hall, Sarasota; Jeanette Wickham, Key Gellie; Beulah Hill Watkins, Huntington; Frances Elizabeth Jackson, Miss.; Virginia Davis Thompson, Miss.; Mrs. Elizabeth Parker Autrey, Kissimmee; Mrs. Alice E. Palmer, Tallahassee; Marjorie M. Meade, Miami; Clara Louise Redlinger, Julia M. E. Hunter, and Margaret Elizabeth Thompson, Jacksonville.

Mary Ann Rodgers, Jacksonville; Rosa Morris Edwards, Lloyd; Scott Turnbull, Monticello; Margaret Agnes Mahaffey, Miami; Emma Lee McCullough, Punta Gorda; Bernice Elizabeth Blanchard, Edith Hays Effinger, Shamrock; Martha Elizabeth Hayes, Miami; Margaret Alice Rogers, Brooksville; Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Mansfield, Miami; Marcelle Marie Kent, Ft. Myers; Louise Hendricks Perry; Bette Jane Graham, Tampa.

Norma Marie Anderson, Opa Locka; Julia Mae Hendricks, Rita Irene Feid, and Mary Lucille Gaskelion, Miami Beach; Eva Aimee Mahon, and Ann Cecil Fisher Morris, Miami; Mrs. Irene Hendricks Mayo, Miami; Mrs. Jessie Farrell, Rea Jones, Virginia Elizabeth Hendricks, Louise S. Richey, Winifred Louise Atlup, Mary Evans Voss, Winnie Lee Bryan, and Ruth Woodsen Beeson, Tallahassee.

Alberta Beulah Evans, Orlando; Doris Shirley Vanderlin, Palm City; Edith R. Middlebrook, Miami; Marion Louise Rosenbaum, Green Cove Springs; oris Devra Willoughby, Miami; Clarice Fay Adams, Trenton; Mary Margaret Arnold, Orlando; and Mrs. Orrey L. Collins, Mrs. C. Crowell, and Sherry A. Bell, social students.

FHS Seniors Give Press

The senior class of the Demonstration school last week decided to give as their gift to the school the initial payment on a printing press and continue the monthly payments for the remainder of the semester, according to Mr. Byron Lewis, faculty sponsor of the class. The press will cost $240. It was donated by the class of 1936.

Boy Vendors Haunt Dining Room Arcade

Expert Salesmen Ask Mob Of Hungry Girls To Buy Wares

(Saturday Evening Post) Ladies Home Journal*—

Dinner call, eager boys stand. ons on either side of the dining-room arcade, crying to the hungry, animated throng a patter which busily makes its way to and from the entrance to the dining-room.

In hot or cold, damp or dry weather, you find these two small lads shouting forth their wares. Their method, like their equipment, they search each girl's face as she goes by and with a quick cloning and pleading voice inquires "Ladies Home Journal? Saturday Evening Post?"

Some girls stop. For a moment they carefully scan, too, and two small lads bend forward to serve the prospective buyer. Then, almost hushed whispers they give an explanation of the merits of this month's issue, while the college girl to whom they are giving the private sales talk turns forward and in a low-pitched voice inquires if her mate—"can't be a set?" Almost immediately a scowl comes over the two young-faces and with a curt "No, thanks—Ladies—Lad—ies," is resumed.

Soon another girl takes the rod. The three gather around in a cup and the discussion of How's Your Mother-in-Law? "Have you time in no time." "Need some help in the kitchen?" "Can you cook my bicycle if you wants, and stay how you are?" "Can't bear to do some setin?." "Ladies Home Journal? Saturday Evening Post?"

A girl who has a far away look in her eye stops to scan hastily the cover of the magazine. Seeing something which arouses her interest she carefully produces the necessary money and hands it to one of the boys who hurries over to his companion who also has previously opening the sale.

Another purchase. She knows exactly what she wants. "Much to the boys' dismay!) I want a Saturday Evening Post with what's the name of that continued story?" "The boys hand her magazine for inspection and finds a hasty survey she finds the article. "Can you change five dollars, sonny?"—"Well, no, lady, but we can get some change." With these words the boy scampers off, while the girl impatiently taps her foot and begins to scan her article. Soon the change arrives and calls forth into the collegiate crowd:

"Saturday Evening Post! Ladies Home Journal!"—

Miss Mamie Convalesces

Miss Mamie Andrews, home director of Reynolds hall, who has been ill, is improving in health. She will resume her work in Reynolds hall on the first day of February.

Guest Speaker

Dr. Edwin McNeill Poteat, pastor of the Pullen Memorial Baptist church in Raleigh, N. C., will lead the fourth annual Religious Emphasis Week to be held on this campus next week.

Council Plans Four Meetings

Missionary Assemblies To Be Held Here This Month

Following up the activities of Religious Emphasis Week, the college Religious Workers' council has arranged for four of the meetings of the Florida Chain of the Missionary Assemblies to be held at Florida State college. The Assembly is being brought to Tallahassee by the churches of the state for the period of February 15—18.

The first meeting at the college will be held on Saturday afternoon, February 15, at 4 o'clock in the auditorium. The speakers on the program will be Gonnio Bass Camargo, Mexican journalist and lecturer, and Mrs. Indut Pal, a Korean, graduate of Wesleyan college and University of Wisconsin and former teacher in Ewha college, Seoul.

Appearing on the same program will be Mr. Jesse Phillips-Robertson, former football player from the Pacific Northwest and musician comedy duo, who will play psalms accompanying himself on the musical instruments used in the time of Moses.

The other meetings to which Florida students have been especially invited are to be held on the following Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Nuer Hall, Tuesday morning in convocation, and Wednesday afternoon at five in Nuer Hall.

Other speakers booked to appear in the Florida chain are Miss Anna P. Wills, former missionary to Japan; Dr. Ben Bess, secretary of all protestant missions in the Congo; Mrs. Eugene Kilgore Rogers, who has lived in Africa; Dr. J. Hundley Wiley, professor of sociology, Shanghai university; and Rev. Frank C. Laubach, Christian educator in the Philippines.

Former Visitor Here is Honored

Dr. Cousins Invested With Bracelet and Robe

Dr. James H. Cousins, a visitor to this campus in 1931 as a lecturer, was invested with the order of Madanapalle College, Madras Presidency, India, received wide publicity in the Indian Associated Press of India for his investiture with the robe and bracelet and decoration of vevra srinkhala, or bracelet of heroism, and ceremonies which took place in the Maharaja of Travancore.

The decoration is the sequel to the organization by Dr. Cousins of the State Gallery of Indian Paintings, recently opened by His Highness, and as far as can be ascertained, it is the first time the coveted recognition of eminent service to the state has been conferred on a man of his nationality.

The bracelet, formerly conferred on the queen bee, is worn on the intention in the gift of the Maharaja. The robe is usually given to scholars. The two together confer a noble high cultural achievement.

Fain Announces Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Day students' organization Thursday, Feb. 13, at 11:30 in room 202. Ad building, according to an announcement by Marjorie Fain, president.

The Old South Given Release

Historical Book Written By FSCW Professor Is Now in Print

The Old South, a history of the South from the days of the American Revolution to the War between the States, written by professor Robert Spencer Cotterill of the History department of Florida State College for Women has recently been released by its publishers, Arthur Clark and Co.

The book is a product of ten years work on the part of the author. She began it before coming to Florida eight years ago from Kentucky. During this time, Mr. Cotterill has spent a great deal of time in research work both here and at other educational centers. Some of the research work was done at the University of Chicago, some at the University of Wisconsin, and a great deal of it was completed at the National Archives in Washington, D. C.

The Old South is at present the only book of its kind in the field of southern history. It was first intended entirely for class work in southern history but has since been revised so that it will interest not only the student but the layman as well. Two new editions of the book are being made. The first, a library edition, will be limited. It is being used at the University of Florida and the University of the South on this campus, and will probably be adopted by various other colleges offering this course. It is generally conceived that the publisher's printing of a library edition is evidence that Professor Robert Cotterill's work as appealing to an audience of literary receivers.

The theme of The Old South is that of Southern nationalism and sectionalism. It portrays the growth of the South from the colonial days of 1776 to the period of the war between the states. The historical ground covered by the history. However, is less in the period between the American Revolution and the War between the States—the period heretofore handled in the beginning and end serving as mere introductory and concluding chapters. Mr. Cotterill has tried throughout his work to bring out the events of most known in the history of the Old South, that had a pronounced effect on all later developments in its later development.

This is his first venture of entrance into the field of history of education, as he has already published a history of the state, The History of Pioneer Kentucky.

Mr. Cotterill has also been the author of numerous articles on Southern history which have appeared in leading magazines of the country. It was the writing of these articles that first gave him the incentive to write a complete text of Southern history since there was such a dearth in the field devoted entirely to that subject.

During various summer sessions Mr. Cotterill has been a member of southern history at George Washington university, Washington, D. C. at the University of Pennsylvania, and at the University of Cincinnati.

Campus Gets New Flood Lights; Seventy Lights, 500 Pine Trees Added

Among the many recent improvements taking place on campus is the rearrangement of the flood lights on the north side of Broward and Gilchrist. The lights have been placed so that they give more adequate illumination to the smoking area in back of Gilchrist.

Also, cables are being laid for new lights which are to be put in and which are to be placed at intervals on the cement walkway in front of Gilchrist, past the Gym, to West Call street. These lights will also be installed by the board walk leading from the shops to the gym, on the street which runs in back of the gym, and on the drive which leads from Jennie Murphree to the Demonstration school.

Five hundred pine trees have been planted recently on campus to replace those cut and along the new Quincy road.

Religious Emphasis Is Theme of Week

Dr. Poteat Leads Program Of Student Services On Campus Here

INFORMAL HOURS ARE ON PROGRAM

Church Groups of Campus Plan Fourth Annual Devotional

Religious Emphasis Week will begin Tuesday morning with an address in convocation by Dr. Edwin McNeil Poteat, Jr., pastor of the Pullen Memorial Baptist church at Raleigh, N. C.

Mary Jeanne McKay, general chairman of the week, is to direct activities in cooperation with the Religious Workers' council of which the annual Religious Emphasis Week was first observed here in 1933. The movement is inter-denominational and is being sponsored by all campus religious groups and city churches, with the work headed up in eight student committees.

Parent Missionary

Dr. Poteat was missionary in China for twelve years and is a former member of the Shanghai university faculty. North Carolina he is active on the state board of charities and public welfare and social service conference. He is serving as president of the Southern Baptist Educational Cooperation of the South and is author of a number of books.

Dr. Poteat who is considered by many as one of the most dynamic figures in the Southern Baptist convention and as particularly fascinating in his work with college students has chosen as the theme for all meetings of the week "The Adequacy of Jesus in the Modern World."

Series Starts Program

The program committee headed by Jeanne Morton has arranged the schedule of meetings for the week. Mary Jeanne McKay is to be leader at the meeting in convocation. On Tuesday night at 7:30 in the auditorium will be the college auditorium, with Janice Borton acting as chairman.

The first meeting on Wednesday will be an informal discussion in Byran hall with Frances Lewis, Marjorie Rawlinson, and Margaret Stout serving as hostesses. Bouldin will be present at the meeting. Mary Etta Thistlethwaite is to preside at the service at 4:30 in the Augusta Conrad Bailey room. Dr. Poteat is to read a address at 7:30 in the auditorium Lucy Cox Linn will act as chairman.

Another informal discussion will be held Thursday morning at 10:30 in Jennie Murphree hall.

Continued on Page Two

Library Exhibits Show Two Phases

Religious Emphasis Week, Valentines Seen

Two phases of campus life are shown in the library exhibits now displaying in cabinets are Religious Emphasis Week and Valentine's Day. In the foyer of the library there are also conspicuous Valentines of hearts and cupids and lace.

The central display depicts seven scenes from the life of Christ, showing Him at His work, healing, preaching and healing the sick. A calendar for February with significant days and events marked holds the focal point of the group of religious scenes.

The second exhibit is an elaborate display of rare valentines of the year 1800 and of a slightly expresses valentine sentiment:

"O Love hath every bliss in store
Tis friendship, and its somewhat colder sister
Each other's worth to feel and not to love."

Two articles—"Collecting Collectors" and "To All Those Who Have Sent Lace Valentines"—both by Mary Van Kleeck and published in "Country Life," reveal information on America's foremost valentine collector Tis a Mr. Smith of Cleveland, Ohio, goes the distinction of having this country's largest collection—four thousand in all. The articles discusses the few rare valentines in existence the author herself having claim to two valuable ones.

Drive Launched To Swell Fund

Will Try to Provide For Foreign Student

A drive to complete the Kenton Pridett Fund of the International Relations club will be held February 13 and 14.

Several members of the faculty, the senior class of 1935, and various organizations have pledged, and some have already contributed to the fund.

There will be tables near the postoffice on Tuesday from 1:30 to 5:30, and Wednesday from 7:30 to 9:30. Representatives of the students will be gladly received at the tables to receive contributions.

In charge of the foreign student committee of the International Relations club is Edna Williams and assisting her are Clarissa Wright and Rebecca Keith.

The organization hopes to be able to secure a foreign student from the International Exchange Fellowships administered by the Institute of International Education, so that next year there will be a student on campus from each of the case in most colleges by

AAUW Will Hold Meeting At Liddell Home Monday

The February meeting of the A. A. U. W. will be held Monday evening, February 10, at 8 o'clock, at the home of Dr. Amos Porter Liddell. All members are urged particularly and to attend as election of officers will take place.

A social hour will follow the business meeting.

The junior work in sculpture and painting, by Miss Amy Briggs, scheduled for this meeting will be postponed until a later date when an art exhibit will be available at the college.

Hockey, Soccer Canceled

Hockey and soccer have been taken out of the sports for this year because the weather has not permitted adequate practice, and the faculty and student council governing sports seasons. However, they will be put back in next year.

Conradi To Be On Committee

School Code Group Asked By Sholtz to Study Florida System

Dr. Edward G. Conradi, president of Florida State college, was appointed as a member of the Florida School Code committee by Governor David Sholtz recently and was in attendance at the organization meeting which convened in the Governor's office February third.

Governor Sholtz, in opening the meeting, stated the purposes for which the committee had been appointed and expressed his hope that the committee would recommend to the next session of the legislature such changes in the present laws as would insure the placing of the school system upon a sound basis. He also emphasized the facst that the welfare of today's children in relation to their duty as tomorrow's citizens should be the prime consideration of the committee. In closing his remarks Governor Sholtz pledged the full support of the present state administration.

Mr. Bryan Willis, state auditor and secretary to the committee, explained in detail that the proposed study and analysis of the Florida school system would entail a compliation of all school laws and their annotatioo with all court decisions. From this compilation members of the committee will be able to study and make recommendations for changes. After two discussion meetings the final school code is to be adopted by the committee, drawn up in the form of laws, and presented to the legislature for consideration at its next session.

Mr. Willis stated that this code plus a full statistical report on school operation costs in Florida would be put into printed form. It is hoped that the code will be ready for the approval of the entire committee at the end of ninety days.

Officers of the School Code committee elected at the organization meeting are: chairman, Mr. W. S. Cawthon, State superintendent of public instruction, and secretary, Mr. Willis.

Others on the committee in addition to Dr. Conradi, Mr. Willis, and Mr. Cawthon: Dr. J. J. Tigert president of the University of Florida; F. N. K. Bailey, president of the Florida Education associatioo; Mrs. T. V. Moore, president of the Florida Federation of Women's clubs; Mrs. C. F Parvin president of the Florida Congress of Parents and Teachers, Mrs. F E. Weiser, president of the American Legion Auxiliary; Arthur R. Boring, department commander of the American Legion; J. A. Youngblood, president of the County Superintendents of Public Instruction association; W. H. Combs, president of the Florida State Association of County School Board Members; W. H. Rogers, president of the State Bar association; Wendell C. Heaton, representing the State Federation of Labor; and Mrs. Elsie Delaney, representing the "rank and file of teachers".

Art Exhibition Sponsored Here

Materials Collected Over Ten Year Period

The Industrial Arts department will sponsor an exhibit of handicrafts of Cleveland artists, released by the American Federation of Arts, in room 112 of the Education building from February 10 to 24.

The exhibition, made up of the work of great artists who were represented in the 17th annual exhibition of work by Cleveland artists and craftsmen, will include 48 pieces of pottery, sculpture, enamels, textiles and ceramics. The ceramic section of the show has grown extensively during the past ten years, Cleveland since then having become one of the most productive centers of ceramic art in the United States. Pieces in cross section selected to show the varieties of craftsmanship, the beauty of glaze, and the fine form of the work will be included in this group.

Other objects to be displayed include the enamel crafts, showing the application of modern design to simple shapes; a few pieces of textiles illustrating batik and block printing, and metal objects, including copper and enamel plates, brass and nickel cigarette boxes, a chromium candy jar, and a pair of Egyptian vases.

The exhibit will be open from nine to five every day except Sunday.

Hockey Practice Daily

Hockey is to be concentrated on as extra-curricular sport through the visit of the United States hockey team on February 20.

Practices will be held at 4:30 daily, except on Friday at 3:30, and Saturday at 9:30. Discussions will be held when the field is too wet for practice. The members of the faculty will be there daily to assist. Rose Panowski, president of the athletic association, urges all who are interested to attend.

PROPOSED CHANGES IN ELECTION SYSTEM

(Continued from page one)

list of caodidates on the primary ballot shall be posted on the bulletin boards in the dormitories and in the Ad building not later than nine P. M.

E. Thursday. All candidates on the official primary ballot shall be presented in convocation by the following procedure. The president of CGA shall preside and shall call the candidates to the stage in groups according to classes. She shall introduce each girl separately and shall state the officea for which she is a candidate. These girls shall then be permitted to leave the auditorium while nomination speeches and a discussion of candidates take place. Time devoted to this shall be limited by the decision of the nominating committee and the discretion of the chairman. As the next group of candidates is being brought to the platform, the senior candidates shall be recalled, etc.

Voting on the primary ballot shall take place from 1:30 until 6:30 and from 7:15 until 8:30.

F. Sunday. The two nominees for each office receiving the highest number of votes in the primary ballot shall be placed on the final ballot together with candidates for publication offices. The nominating committee shall have the final power to act in the case of a splitting of votes. The candidates whose names are to appear on the final ballot for College Government executive council and publications offices shall be notified of their nomination and the speech which they may give on Tuesday. They should accept or reject by 9 P. M.

G. Monday. The final ballot shall be posted by at least 8 30 A M

H Tuesday. The candidates for president of CGA, chairman of judiciary, the two vice-presidents, the secretary, the treasurer and the freshman asvisor and the nominees for college publications offices shall be presented in convocation. Each candidate shall make a speech accepting the nomination. This speech shall not be more than three minutes in length. After the candidates for one office have made their speeches, the floor shall be open for questioning of tha candidates by the student body and by each other on points relative to the election aod for further discussion of the candidates from the floor.

I. Wednesday. A list of the remainder of the College Government association nominees, the Athletic association nominees, and the Y. W. C. A. nominees shall be posted. These candidates shall be notified beforehand as in "F" above.

J. Thursday. Nominees for president of the Athletic association and president and vice-president of Y. W. C. A shall be presented as the candidates were on Tuesday. Other nominees shall be introduced from the stage

K. All elections shall be by closed ballot.

Clanking of Metal and Whirring Of Wheels Show Daily Activity

Printing Press is Being Used This Year To Fill Demands

A switch is thrown. A whirring of wheels begins, and the clank of metal is heard. Once again the machinery of the small printing press at Florida State College for women is in motion.

Daily this machinery turns out an average of 5000 copies per hour of programs, menus, announcements, and various other printing jobs which are needed to fill the demands of the many activities taking place on the Florida State campus.

Since the first part of September this machinery has been in constant operation. "We have stayed busy ever since we have had the new machinery", says Mr. Maurice Watson, who is in charge of the operation of this small press. Mr. Watson is assisted by three helpers, students of Florida State College for Women.

A variety of types of printing can be done on the machinery. Type can be reproduced and pictures can be done in half-tones.

In reproducing pictures the original is sent to Jacksonvilla where it undergoes a developing process. It is then returned for further development before going on the press. This development takes place when the picture is put on a sensitive zinc plate. The plate is then placed on a vacuum frame where it remains under a strong double arc light for seven minutes.

After removing the plate from the frame, developing ink is put on it. The ink is then washed off under running water, which removes all except that on the image.

The plate is now ready to be placed on the reproducing machine, which is called a "multilith." In brief, the principle of this machine is this: the ink on the image on the plate, and the ink used on the machine have a grease base. A jar of substance (water-like in appearance) keeps the plate wet. Therefore, grease attracts grease and repels water, thus producing the image where the two inks contact. The "multilith" prints an average of 5000 copies per hour. Exact duplicates of any other printing can be reproduced on this machine by the photographic process. The "multilith" can do printing in any color.

Another machine in Florida State's small printing establishment is the "multograph." Printing only can be done on this machina, and the type is set by hand as it is for the larger presses.

There is also other equipment for cutting, binding, clipping, etc.

This small printing press now does all the college printing with the exception of the Plastacowo, Flambeau, Distaff, and the college catalogue. This is the first year that this job has been undertaken by the college.

A minimum charge is made for printing. The small press does no nutside work, according to Mr. Watson, for the college demands alone keep its busy wheels "clanking" every day.

Resolution is Made At NSFA Meet Thursday

Continued from Page One

vested in the student body, the student-faculty relationships, or the powers of the senata."

"A girl who does not have good ideas before election," she added, "will not be likely to have any after election. The candidate owes it to the student body to tell what she believes and what she hopes to do should sha get the office."

It was suggested that campaign speeches might lead to party politics, but, according to Mary Jeanne, there are not enough issues on campus to have any definite parties. It should merely bring about a broader knowledge of campus activities and college government.

The object of keeping campaign speeches until the last, said Mary Jeanne, is to give each individual voter a chance to make up her own mind instead of encouraging group voting.

Another purpose of providing speeches, someone staled, is to inform tha student body that discussing elections is very much in order and to encourage student opinions.

Opperman Home From Vacation

Attends Two Conventions And Many Musicals During Her Trip

Dean Ella Scobia Opperman of the school of music at Florida State College for Women returned recently after a month's absence during which she attended two conventions in Philadelphia and many music recitals in New York City.

During Christmas Dean Opperman visited her sister, Mrs. F. M. Andrews, wife of a professor at the University of Indiana, Bloomington.

The dean attended the convention of the National Music Teachers association of whichc she has been reappointed assistant secretary, andn the convention of the National Association of Schools of Music of which she is a member of the ethics committee

In New York Dean Opperman heard Madame Guiomar Novaes, who appeared on tha first artist series here this fall. Bartlett and Robertson, who also appeared here last year, and Maier and Patterson, pianists.

The Kobish string quartet which played everything from memory, even the ultra modern Schonberg compositions, proved interesting to Miss Opperman, especially the left-handed playing of the first violinist.

Amnng other things Dean Opperman heard ware the Philadelphia orchestra; the Boston Symphony; the New York Philharmonic orchestra; Heifetz, violinist; Schnabel, in An Evening of Beethoven Sonatas; Bagley Morning Musicale in the Waldorf-Astoria ballroom; a concert in the ballroom of the Hotel Plaza; Caroline Beebe's concert with the New York Chamber society; a Sunday night concert of Metropolitan opera stars; and opera; tha play, "Pride and Prejudice"; and a comic ballet, "Trudi Schoop."

Miss Opperman visited the Julliard School and the Institute of Musical Art; New York University; the Diller school; Guilmant Organ school; and Union Theological Seminary. In Cincinnati she heard the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra with Winifred Christy playing the new double kayboard piano.

Among the friendships she renewed on her stay in New York was that of Carol Perrenot Longone, one of her former pupils, who was the first person to receive a degree in music at Florida State College, back in 1912. Kathryn Reece Haun, a former Tallahassee girl and Florida State college graduate in voice, whose home is in New York City, now is on tour with a leading role in Gilbert and Sullivan operas, Dean Opperman announced.

Religious Emphasis Is Theme of Week

Continued from Page One

Sue Whitaker will preside at the 7:30 meeting in the auditorium.

Open Forum Friday

On Friday afternoon at 4:30 Dr. Poteat will lead an open forum in the Augusta Conradi theatre with Virginia White in charge. Anne Norris is to preside at the Friday night meeting in the auditorium.

Dr. Poteat will not speak on Saturday unless special groups, such as sorority groups, want him

The final meeting of the week will be a church service Sunday morning at 11:00 in the auditorium with Mary Jeanne McKay presiding.

According to Jo Binion chairman of the music committee there will be special music at all the evening meetings and at the Sunday service. Among those who will appear on the programs are Mrs. Cecile Strong, soprano soloist, Betty Parker, violinist; Miss Mary Reeder, harp soloist; girls' quartet from the Baptist church; Miss Margaret Whitney Dow, organist; the faculty trio composed of Miss Augusta Murphy, Miss Mary Esther Winslow, and Mr. Owen F. Sellers; and the college glee club ensemble, directed by Miss Etta Robertson.

Marjorie Raulerson aod Peggy McMichael, co-chairmen of the entertainment committee, are planning to entertain Dr. Poteat between his engagements. Their plans include a coffee, meals in the dinning room arranged with special groups, a trip to Wakulla Springs, and other forms of recreation.

Other committees which are helping is Religious Emphasis Week plans include the finance committee, Martha Makemson chairman; tha publicity committee, Gertrude Kuhn, chairman; decorations committee, Edith Phelps, chairman, hall and ushers committee, Barbara Hubbard, chairman; follow-up committee, Marjorie Noggle and Gladys Oliver, co-chairmen.

Marcelle Cappatti Was Visitor At Florida State Last Week

French Student Compares Women's Privileges In Two States

BY SARAH SEALEY

Dark hair, dark eyes, dainty figure, and a delightful accent—a perfect description of the typical American idea of a typical French girl' and a perfect description of Marcelle Cappatti, of Nice, France and Agnes Scott College, who was a visitor on Florida State College campus this week-end.

'America is a great experience for a European," saya Marcelle, after five months in this country as an exchange student at Agnes Scott. She would lika to stay in America and become a teacher of French, she said, but will probably go back to France and teach English.

Besides speaking English and French fluently, Marcelle speaks Italian and understands German and Spanish. English, she said, is required of all French students, as well as Italian or German.

"I love countries with sunshine and beaches", she declared, describing her native Southern France and her enthusiasm for the sports of that region—swimming, tennis, and tap dancing.

Explaining what Europeans think of America, Marcelle remarked that one of the most striking things about the United States is its unity—seen in chain stores, the same kinds of buses in different states, and the same sorts of stores in every town. In France, she observed, states are very individual.

"America is a country of youth. Here young people have the right to form their own opinions and have a great deal of freedom. In France youth has less freedom and there is more family prejudice", she stated.

Another American characteristic which impressed the French student is optimism. American people "are brought up to get the greatest pleasure out of life."

In France, Marcelle pointed out, girls do not have "dates." Girls do not begin to go with young men until they are at least twenty, and then only if they have serious intentions of marrying. To attend a moving picture show with a young man unchaperoned is considered very bad taste.

"French girls go to dances with their mothers." They sit at small tables and wait quietly for invitations to dance. After a dance a young lady's escort takes her back to her chaperone.

Marcelle described the French schools as being very different from the American ones. Children are enrolled in tha "lycee," the government school, at the age of five or six. A student graduates at about nineteen by passing a difficult examination—the baccalaureat.

After the lycee comes specialized training in a university. Nearly all French girls, according to Marcelle, hope to go to a university and to enter a profession such as law, medicine, or teaching.

The college as we know it in America does not exist in France, said Marcelle, except for two special schools, recently organized, which are very expensive and accomplish little. French universities have neither organized athletics nor fraternities.

"Courses in American schools are much more practical than those in France," the French girl admitted. She described her course in philosophy, which she took during her last year at the lycee, including surveys of the principles of logic, metaphysics, sociology, and general psychology.

"You may spend six months on child psychology in America while in France we discuss it for only ten minutes."

France and America—Marcelle loves thum both, and elements of both have combined to make her what she is to-day.

Consoildation Program For Organizations

Continued from Page One

mendment of nver lapping in membership of these three regional organizations and any other regional organization that might be set up.

"If so, do you favor the acceptance of the present headquarters office of the I. A. W. S., which is the only permanent headquarters office now in existence?" No.

"Do you favor loose affiliation with three regional conventions, separate officers, official exchange of delegates and combining with the mutual maintenance of one central office?" We favor loose affiliation with regional organizations provided the central office is under NSFA rather than an entira naw organization set-up.

Question: "Do you favor separate sectional group meetings at convention for women's collegea and for co-educational colleges?" Yes.

Announcing the Opening of Our New

Ready-to-Wear Department!

According to the calendar Spring is still around the corner, but in our new shop it has burst forth in all its glory! Prints and bright colors are blooming; light tweeds and feather weight woolens are the latest fashion notes. It's Spring today . . . come in and see for yourself in our new ready-to-wear department on the

Second Floor

WILSON AND COMPANY

—SINCE 1837—

Turner's

YOUR STORE

Showing the Newest In Spring Footwear

Smart! New! Beautiful!

SEMINOLE SANDALS

Created in Hollywood. . . . Newest Combinations—AAAA to B—3 to 9 . . . Low, medium and high heels. . . . An exclusive showing, featuring styles worn by the stars. You will marvel at their fitting quality and smartness—

SPECIALLY PRICED

$5.85

THE SWEET SHOP

701 W. Jefferson Phone 1001

Opposite Gilchrist We Deliver

Week-End Specials

CLUB BREAKFAST

One Egg—One Slice Bacon—Grits—Toast Tea or Coffee

25c

Small Chocolate Milk with Ice Cream 5c

Peanut Butter and Jelly Sandwich 10c

STATE THEATRE

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—FEBRUARY 7-8

Leslie Howard in "THE PETRIFIED FOREST"

SUNDAY AND MONDAY—FEBRUARY 9-10

Harold Lloyd in "THE MILKY WAY"

TUESDAY—FEBRUARY 11

Ann Shirley in "CHATTERBOX"

ALSO—BANK NIGHT!

WEDNESDAY—FEBRUARY 12

"WOMAN TRAP" With Gertrude Michael

ALSO—SCREENO

THURSDAY—FEBRUARY 13

Victor McLaglen in "PROFESSIONAL SOLDIER"

It takes 25 operations to finish one Ford valve

EACH Ford valve requires twenty-five separate operations from the time work starts on a rough valve until it is ready for use. That is a surprising number of operations for such a simple looking part, but typical of Ford care in manufacturing.

The stems of the rough valves first receive two preliminary grinding operations. Then they go through a furnace where the heads are brought to a red heat. Next, automatic fingers place them in a huge machine where a ram strikes the red-hot heads. This operation refines the grain structure in the head, straightens it, and forms the valve seat.

Valves then pass through other grinding, machining and polishing operations. Each stem is ground five times for greater accuracy and smoothness. Inspection gages keep a constant check.

In spite of this care, each Ford valve is subjected to rigid final inspection. Amplifying gages check the stem for roundness within two ten-thousandths of an inch. Similar gages check diameter.

Other inspection equipment indicates the slightest "run out" of seat and checks stem end for squareness. Then the valves go into a constant temperature room where they are inspected for length.

The Ford V-8 runs like a fine car because it is built like a fine car. No car at any price is made to finer precision limits.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY

Ford

nternational Club Will Meet

panese Question Topic Of Discussion Being Held Monday

The International Relations will hold a meeting Monday, at 7:30 in room 307 History building, according to Clarissa Smith, president of the organization. The discussion at this will be centered on the Japanese question.

Presiding an open discussion which will be led by Daisy Parker some talks will be given by members of the club. Hazel Bowman will give a talk on "Japan's Encroachments on Russian Territory," and Mary Bennett will speak on Japanese Encroachments on Chinese Territory."

Miss Parker will give a discussion on the background of the Japanese question.

Dr. C. P. Loomhlin, professor of experimental psychology, will talk after the club on "The Mirth of Nations, February 24.

Members of International Relations club are urged to attend all meetings, and visitors are invited.

The members of International Relations club are: Carol Adams, Mary Bennett, Hazel Bowman, Ruth B Davis Florence Devine, Ruth Fulcher, Mary Kathryn Green, Mercedes Garriga, Marjorie Harris, Rebecca Kelly, Virginia Knight, Gertrude Kunn, Hallie Lewinsky, Laura Mathis, Ivy McGowin, Anna Marie Mitchell, Jane Moyer, Gladys Irene Davis Parker, Rosalyn Peter, Ruth Persons, Helen Morland Pulia Vandervip, Grace Mary Webster Mary Katherine Sams Smythe, Doris Isted, Jacquelin Smith, Marilyn Lassiter, Nan Strawbridge, Margaret Claire Sweeny Clarkie O'Rourke, Theresa Zeina Williams, Blantan Warren, and Virginia Crump.

Hallie Ruth Currin Is New Baptist Secretary

The new Baptist student secretary, Miss Hallie Ruth Currin, arrived last Friday to assume his duties here.

Miss Currin is filling the place of the former Miss Katherine Davis who resigned several weeks ago to be married to Garland Parks Taylor of Jackson, Miss.

Miss Currin is a native of North Carolina, received an A. B. degree from the University of North Carolina in Greensboro. She has been teaching high school English here.

She will make her home with Mrs Jonah Walker at 542 Wellington Avenue.

Information Available

Dr. Elizabeth Andrews has announced that students looking forward to nursing as a profession or those in psychology and sociology who are interested in Public Health service may receive information concerning opportunities for preparation for this work by calling at the Personnel office.

The Little Store
101 West Jefferson

$1.00 COMPLEXION BRUSH for only 10¢ —AND 3 BANDS FROM PALMOLIVE SOAP
3 for 15c
ASK US FOR DETAILS
We Also Carry Candy, Fruits and Groceries
Phone 1290 We Deliver

FOR A VALENTINE—
Give a Photograph!
PIKE STUDIO

Student Thinks Freshman Commission Should Be Binding Force on Campus

This Group Embraces Doers and Seekers; Has Not Fully Emphasized Its Connection With College Government

It is hard for a student who has had no actual participation in the official work of the C. O. A. to state any better what commission should do and stand for than has been officially stated. "The formation of freshman commission is primarily to cooperate with the College Government Association in creating among the students an appreciation of the benefits of college government and a voluntary desire to support the system."

I think the first thing that should be in any student's mind in considering just what Freshman Commission is about is that it should be a binding force between the officials of C. O. A. and the student body. It is the duty of the organization to entertain the feeling as far as possible that the officials are out to get as much glory as possible and get as many people as possible in trouble. The officials have been elected by popular vote, and for the past several years elections they are complimented and feted with glory-to-do and then they immediately wonder student-enemies number 1-10 or 1-100 that is their popular members.

Now it is true that commission can't start in on the seniors something like that, but the people you elected these girls and they are only doing what you asked them to do when you voted for them so you're just gotta like 'em. No, like English law, at rock bottom and the freshman class—the first two or three days after school opens—don't know what they are going to get if they don't behave, but you begin with friendliness and downright friendliness and downright friendliness. Then commission should take on the job of showing the freshmen that they themselves are not being run in mind, more important, that they are expected to carry on every custom and every member is just about top-when it comes to character, loyalty, and friendship—that the members of that organization are doing their best to show them they are human—and make them believe that. Such friendships that members should sit down very hard on use fact that they are part of C. O. A.—they should make everyone know they are and after everyone knows it show them what a grand bunch C. O. A. girls are anyway.

It might be a good idea for commission to give a series of, say, three parties during the year—over to home where it is easy to go, attend personal invitations, not notices in the post office aether, and then get together—Have one perhaps a pajama party, there are heaps of talented commission girls—have entertainment now and then; have lollypops or such for refreshments and perhaps punch, nothing that would cost more than a very little, mix with the freshmen and talk to them—know them and let them know you, as in, as you mind, wouldn't be a total failure, but a pajama party with dancing and lollypops and entertainment might do the trick. After you have gotten to know the freshmen you will begin to find there are many girls who have fertile minds and real ideas who aren't class officers or on committees, perhaps because they are shy or perhaps because they thought they never could get anywhere anyway. After you have gotten this far you begin to have one grounds for working on further officials of C. O. A. and the freshmen have better grounds for thinking that after all perhaps those C. O. A. girls have got a little life in them and some interest besides whether you are named up or not.

Of course it is understood that commission is supposed to come up early at the beginning of the year and "help the freshmen get adjusted" but I wonder if they have hit the mark there. Has every commission girl been assigned to, say, twenty-five freshmen whom she is responsible for? Has she gone to see at least two a week ever since school started for just a chat and a little help? Has she seen that if one of her girls would like to meet a C. O. A. girl that she has met her? I have heard lots of times at the first of school a freshman say, "But that girl over there with the blond hair" She sees with the president; I've seen the president a couple of times."—and then down the table, "Did you hear that? She says she has seen the president of C. O. A."—quite perfectly sincerely! You won't believe it is possible but I heard that very conversation at least a week and a half after the opening of school this year! Have all the freshmen had a chance to meet Kitty if they want to and see that she is really human and won't bite? I think that a commission girl should feel a personal responsibility for the freshmen she has in charge, and that she should really, deep down, should feel in her heart a real failure when one of her freshmen leaves school, for homesickness or Perhaps commission has another method of letting at the freshman problem and in all we feel that it is big thinking that so far it hasn't been a 100 percent success and something else might be worth a try.

I don't know whether it is a practical move, but I think that the organization should be a running one and when the new commission lights its torches from the old they should also be given a record of the policies and practices, to use and improve upon as they see fit.

The girls who are chosen for commission are chosen for their all-round character and capability and these qualities should be paramount in their behavior. And furthermore they should make a real effort, as I see it, to find the other girls in their class and in other classes who have not yet been "found" and make it their duty to recommend them to the organization of which they would be a help. There may be a student on campus who writes grand stories. Should it be outside the pale of the commission girl to find that girl and tell the editor of the Diletl about her? The girl herself may be too timid to push herself but commission girls are the "pushers" of all that is good and fine on campus. There are things to find and they are the seekers. There are things to do and they are the doers. Checking chapel cuts and being and loving the the flag and serving sophomores never headed are fine things to do and must be done, at the same time the pushing and the seeking should have its place.

First Month Sees Reserves Rushed

Hayden Tells of Routine Run on Volumes

Miss Clara Hayden, assistant librarian, thinks that the reserve room has its greatest rush of the year during the first month of school.

Then things quiet down a bit until a week or two before examination time. Miss Hayden commented upon the fact that the girls usually don't wait until exam week to get the books, as by that time they are too busy studying in that well-known process of "cramming."

Because the reserve room is especially busy at certain times and because that is usually quiet. There are two assistants there at all times, and each week experiences the usual run on parallel books. Often the room has an unofficial method of letting at the freshman problem and in all we feel that it is big thinking that so far it hasn't been a 100 percent success and something else might be worth a try.

I don't know whether it is a practical move, but I think that the organization should be a running one and when the new commission lights its torches from the old they should also be given a record of the policies and practices, to use and improve upon as they see fit.

The girls who are chosen for commission are chosen for their all-round character and capability and these qualities should be paramount in their behavior. And furthermore they should make a real effort, as I see it, to find the other girls in their class and in other classes who have not yet been "found" and make it their duty to recommend them to the organization of which they would be a help. There may be a student on campus who writes grand stories. Should it be outside the pale of the commission girl to find that girl and tell the editor of the Diletl about her? The girl herself may be too timid to push herself but commission girls are the "pushers" of all that is good and fine on campus. There are things to find and they are the seekers. There are things to do and they are the doers. Checking chapel cuts and being and loving the the flag and serving sophomores never headed are fine things to do and must be done, at the same time the pushing and the seeking should have its place.

Sign-Mania Reveals All

Methods Employed and Places Visited by Student Acquiring New Signs Should Provide Material for Story

"Time for Pabst"; "Please Pay When Served", "4 Miles to Tampa"; "Sweet Shop"; "We Have It" "We Live for Love"; "Winter Haven Dist'ries".

These and various other signs seen throughout the dormitories are evidence of the college girls' mania for collecting, regardless of method employed. The trials and perils some girls go through to acquire a new sign would provide excellent material for an adventure story. A mere hint while dining out with the boy friend and a covered dish is added to some college girl's room. A mere mention of seeking unusual information, and a sign telling the distance to some city is hastily transferred from the window to a car and hence to the dormitory wall.

Diverse means are employed to secure signs, but the college student apparently always has one more device up her sleeve. Of course, the type of sign in view is responsible for the method used. One would hardly be so bold in acquiring an advertisement on merchandise in a store as in taking possession of a sign nailed to some pine tree or fence post. However, the more difficult the situation, the more value attached to the sign.

"Colder Weather Ahead" is the first thing one sees on a certain door in Reynolds. But that is only one of several on the same door. Just below appears "I Live for Love", and, "We Have Just completing the group. One might wonder just what motive inspired such a collection.

Many of the signs bespeak quite plainly their original locales, such as "Have You Forgotten Any Personal Property?" and "Quiet is Requested for the Benefit of Those Who Have Retired". It might not be difficult to guess where these have come from, but one would not think of questioning the integrity of a college girl.

The occupants of another room in Reynolds could tell a little more careful. Some on just might ask about the "Early Morning Maid Service", which they so boldly advertise on the door. "Early morning maid service is not to be sneered at in a college dormitory.

A philosopher could not but admire the cheerful acknowledgment spread across a freshman's door—"We'll Never Be Rich", even though a possible reason appears beneath it — "Ladies' Home". Admitting a truth is better than avoiding it, certainly.

"The Hang Out" is probably the most appropriate name for a college girl's room, with "Stop House" running a close second. Both are eloquent to the unexpressed purpose of the rooms themselves.

"Dew Drop Inn" is a cooling reminder of country roads in Virginia, but serves the purpose well as a cordial invitation to passers-by. "Leon Attic", which might undeniably any door in Greenwich Village, clearly classifies the students behind it.

Besides such signs one sees innumerable stickers from other colleges, with Georgia Tech, and the University of Florida leading all others. Silhouettes appear on the doors, ranging from Mae West to football players, with Even and bold sign, color, and rapidly diminishing pads of note paper for callers who come while no one is home carrying the doors.

Strangest of all, however, and notwithstanding all these, one finds even a few Study signs.

Procedure for Signing Up for Week-end Visit In Gainesville Changed

A new procedure for signing up for week-ends in Gainesville has been announced by Dr. Olivia V. Dorman, dean of students.

According to this plan, each student will be required to file with her social director the address of the place at which she is to stay while in Gainesville. She must also file permission from her parent or guardian to stay at this specific address or permission to stay wherever she chooses. These permissions must be filed by the student before leaving, but no time limit will be imposed. No invitation from the hostess will be required as formerly was the case.

Dauer and Sashoff To Be at Club Meet

Mr. Manning E. Dauer, professor of political science, and sponsor of the International Relations club at Gainesville, and Stephen P. Sashoff, also of the university faculty and who recently spoke before the International Relations club here, will be present at a meeting of the club to be held in Broward Club room at 7:30 Saturday night.

The meeting is open to members of the club.

Lamar's Story Awarded January Distaff Prize

Nellie Lamar's story, "Round Trip to Havana", was awarded the fire dollar prize for the best prose composition in the January issue of the Distaff. Lucille Mae O'Rourke, author of the essay on "The College Woman and Marriage", and Gertrude Kuhn, who wrote "Liberty at the Stake" tied for honorable mention.

The judges were Dr. Harold P. Richards, chairman Dr. Jessie Rae Abbey, and Dr. William H. Rogers.

Meeting of AAAS Topic Of Psychology Seminar Led by Department Head

The main topic of discussion of the psychology seminar which met Tuesday evening at the home of Dr. P. F. Pinner, was the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, being held in St. Louis.

Dr. Pinner gave a talk concerning this meeting which he illustrated by relating a number of brief summaries of addresses given on psychology. He mentioned particularly the work of Edward Thorndike, retiring president of the association, and brought out the significance of the memorial address given by Professor Miles of Yale University for Mr. Peterson, of Peabody College, leading psychologists of the nation. He added that Dr. Cattell, head of the first department of psychology established in America at the University of Pennsylvania in 1888 was present at the meeting in St. Louis.

Laura Mathis concluded the program by giving a case history of the development of an infant.

109 E. College Ave. PHONE 800 Tallahassee, Florida

SODA SPECIALS
Saturday and Sunday Luncheon
25c and 35c
CHOICE OF:
Roast Young Western Turkey and Celery Dressing with Cranberry Sauce
Western Breaded Veal Cutlet with Tomato Sauce
Vegetable Salad—Stuffed Baked Apples with Buttered Peas
& Grated Carrots Whole Wheat or Muffins, Relish and Dessert
Steaming Hot BAR-B-Q Pig Sandwich, Crisp Potato Chips, Cup of Our Special Coffee 15c
Hot Bowl Soup, Hot Hot Beef Sandwich, Hot Mexican Chili, Hot Dog, Coffee Potato Chips, Coffee Hot Chocolate
15c 15c 20c
Hot Butterscotch Fudge Nut Sundae 15c
Banana Brûlée Crisp Sundae 10c
Marshmallow, Chocolate Cream Sundae 10c

A LIGHT SMOKE offers something to each smoker!

PLEASANTVILLE

LUCKIES a light smoke
OF RICH-RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO—IT'S TOASTED
LUCKIES ARE LESS ACID
LUCKY STRIKE "IT'S TOASTED" CIGARETTES
LUCKY STRIKE
Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.
"RESULTS VERIFIED BY INDEPENDENT CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS"

Excess of Acidity of Other Popular Brands Over Lucky Strike Cigarettes
1 2 3 4 5
BALANCE
LUCKY STRIKE
BRAND B
BRAND C
BRAND D

All kinds of people choose Luckies, each for reasons of his own. But everyone agrees that Luckies are A Light Smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco. It is a rather surprising fact that the leaves of the same tobacco plant may very far more than the leaves from plants of quite different types. Chemical analysis shows that the top leaves contain excess alkalies which tend to give a harsh, alkaline taste. The bottom leaves tend to acidity in the smoke. It is only the center leaves which approach in Nature the most palatable, acid-alkaline balance. In Lucky Strike Cigarettes, the center leaves are used.

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

RUTH PERSONS ..... Editor
ALTHEA SMITH ..... Associate Editor
GERTRUDE KUHN ..... Managing Editor
HAZEL BOWMAN ..... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Features, Martha Baker; Sports, Elaine Klepper; Society, Margaret Lafferty; Exchanges, Virginia Early; Literary Editor, Eleanor Williams; Copy Editor, Arline Lockhart; Associate News Editor Grace Mary Webster; Art Editor, Caroline Adams.

REPORTERS:Caroline Adams, Minna Agress, Elsie Andrews, Ella Brooks, Jean Brown Marguerite Brown, Marian Coon, Margie Creel, Sarah Beth Davis, Margaret Dinsman Sylvia Fogg, Evelyn Fisher, Mary J. Gallemore, Ethel Grassfield, Florida Hemming, Frances Hartley, Barbara Holmes, Billie Hotard, Eleanor Jenkins, Mary Lynn Mastin Dorothy Olmstead, Clotilde O'Rourke, Nan O'Shaughnessey, Mary P. Pittman, Sarah Quinn, Hilford Sampson, Sarah Sealey, Pearle Shepard, Elizabeth H. Turner, Jewel Turner.

BUSINESS STAFF

MARY PATTERSON ..... Business Manager
Assistant Advertising Managers, Janet Cook; Grace Mary Webster, and Clotilde O'Rourke
CEIL LEVY ..... Circulation Manager
Assistant Business Manager Lillie McGuire; Assistant Circulation Manager Caroline Adams.

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1913, at the post office at Tallahassee Fla. under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Let's Bring Issues To Light

The interest shown in the NSFA debate and forum on "open politics" during the past two weeks signifies a re-emphasis of students' faith in democratic ideals.

Not only has an examination of our so-called "closed" system of elections revealed a growing centralization in the offices on campus but also a gross indifference and ignorance on the part of the general electorate.

Less than half the student body voted in the general elections of the last two years and only three or four girls out of some six-teen hundred students received the necessary twenty-five votes to run for a major office. As these few students were candidates for almost every major office on campus and as a student can run for only one major office, the situation was embarrassing.

A group of students, expressing their dissatisfaction with the present system at an NSFA forum Tuesday night, resolved that our present elections procedure be modified to permit and encourage wider participation, for nomination of candidates and the intelligent selection of those candidates by the general electorate. Roughly they term this "open politics." The modified procedure will take the form of informal discussions of the nominees on the primary ballot and short speeches by a candidate before the final ballot.

In such a procedure we see the very embodiment of the democratic ideal. Instead of becoming an oratorical contest, it is hoped that elections, under the proposed system, will bring to light a number of issues that have heretofore been left in darkness under the "special privilege" system.

For instance, if a student is candidate for editor of the Flambeau, she may state her policy on such issues as these: will the system of limiting the positions that a personal staff to friends of the editor be continued, or will a more truly democratic system be introduced whereby any student may "try-out" for a staff position? Or, perhaps will the prospective editor set up certain requirements, the satisfaction of which would qualify one for a staff position? Also to those underclassmen who would like to plan to run for business manager of one of the publications, how should they qualify for candidacy?

When the voting student has the opportunity of deciding which of the candidates is in the more willing to take actually certain minor issues as these, it is hardly rash to prophecy that the number of voting students will increase from less than one-half the student body to three-fourths or even, eventually, nine-tenths of the entire student body.

As it is impossible to know all the students in a college of some sixteen hundred, the only students in the past who have been challenged to vote are those who have direct affiliations with groups or individuals supporting a certain candidate. The intelligence of those who have refused to let someone tell them how to vote in the past or have thought they did not know candidates well enough to choose rationally between them—their intelligence will under the proposed system face a challenge!

From a candidate's policies as stated in her speech and from the issues she meets in answer to questions asked her at an open student body assembly, the voting student may evaluate and make a reasonable choice of officers.

It is needless to add that more and more students will become better and better qualified for candidacy to office when a clarified policy on vital issues becomes a requisite to running for office. Ambitious students will find themselves digging up issues that have not long lain buried under the rotten musk of tradition. With such an awakening, democratic shrouds of the past may approach forms "workable" today with democratic ideals.

—Eleanor Williams.

Why Not Run a Temperature?

Again we take up the question of the Nye-Kvale bill which is designed to make military training optional in civil schools and colleges.

At the present time there are 228 R. O. T. C. units in existence. Of this number, 70 are voluntary, 37 are at primarily military schools, and the remaining 118 are at schools and colleges where military training is compulsory. The proposed amendment to the National Defense Act would apply to those in the latter category.

Those opposing the passage of the bill contend that it would weaken the national defense. The Army and Navy Register says, "The R. O. T. C. is on the spot. It is at the parting of the ways. If this Nye-Kvale measure is passed the R. O. T. C. will be as dead as a dodo in a few years . . . That has been the experience at schools where it has been made elective." This objection to the bill is not justified, however, when we consider such cases as those of Boston university and C. C. N. Y., where military training was made voluntary in 1926 with the result that such units are still flourishing.

It is needless to state that the war department is strongly against the amendment. On the other hand, many outstanding people including leading educators are heartily in favor of the measure. Nicholas Murray Butler, Dewey of Columbia university, "Military training in schools cannot be defended on the grounds of physical training. From the military standpoint, it is entirely negligible. Its real purpose is to create a favorable mind which is favorable to militarism and war."

President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin once declared, "Maybe some day it will be seen that the advocates of optional military training are the unconscious traitors; they may be simply educational realists."

Opponents of compulsory military training gained a new recruit only a few days ago when Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt gave her viewpoint at a meeting of the National Council of the American Youth Congress in Washington. I believe," she said, "that military training in schools should never be obligatory. It should be optional for those students who desire it but should be entirely optional."

But even so, what has this to do with us at Florida State? Since we are on institution for women, we have no R. O. T. C. unit (either optional or compulsory). Our student recently asked, "Why should I not all hot and bothered over compulsory military training? I'm sure it won't affect me one way or the other." Which probably expresses the attitude of many students on this campus.

However, let us not dismiss the matter so lightly. At our brother institution at Gainesville two years of military training are required. Moreover, we are American citizens as well as students of Florida State College for Women. So why shouldn't we find in a small training service perhaps even the injustice of a practice which is a flagrant violation of our American principles and traditions?

The great organ grinder has ground out his contents once again. We wonder how many more quarters it will last or will it, like the poet, be always with us?

Magazine Thumbings

BY ELEANOR WILLIAMS

BLIND LEVS

By Carl Joachim Friedrich

Atlantic Monthly, February

On a Frenchman's protest that American universities have no esprit. Friedrich analyzes some hundred American colleges and universities and decides the Frenchman's complaint is well-grounded. The French Esprit, by the way, he explains, comprises all a Frenchman likes in his intellectual life, "wit and faith, candor and subtlety, imagination and originality."

Excepting the natural scientists in American universities who are full of esprit, the writer finds the only Americans who have ever revealed intense esprit, as Velsten Dewey, Brand, Commons, and Oliver Wendell Holmes. Their ways been considered in some measure independent of American university. Instead of training encouraged in their intellectual pursuits, they have had to forge a lone hand.

He believes American universities should encourage as honest an examination of the structures of society, of man's morals, of his ideas, and of his social obligations as they do his material welfare in physics, chemistry, and other sciences. In the high degree of departmentalization found in our universities lies the crux of the matter.

"Roving professorships", where by a professor may leave the room to investigate in fields connected with his and then show relationships between this and his subject, is one suggestion he makes to help break down departmental exclusiveness and the inter-school chauvinism" which crops up time and again to the incalculable detriment of learning and teaching alike.

INSIDE SENATE INVESTIGATION

By Senator Hugo L. Black

Harpers, February.

Senator Black from Alabama describes the investigation of lobbies employed by workers on a senate investigation. Because of the wide scope of the work it is to uncover details for investigations that have saved the people vast sums of money. In several specific instances, these lobbies would have been wrested from them by vested interests.

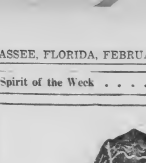
In a government of and for the people these government investigations are the people's most powerful weapon, he says. It is opposing those groups that seek or have special privileges.

Special privileges thrive in secrecy and darkness, says Senator Black, publicity is the enemy of fraud, and are destroyed by the rays of public publicity.

A CLARIFYING PUREION POLICY

By Samuel Flagg Bemis

The Yale Review, Winter



The United States pursued in its adolescence an imperialistic policy and made a number of annexations, the writer says but he believes we are now mature enough to realize the necessity of trying to work out for ourselves agricultural and industrial "self sufficiency" economy while waiting and watching for a new order of world.

Ways we can further clarify our foreign policy: ease our relations with Japan by: 1- declaring that the United States from any acts of diplomacy or aggression in Asia, and abandonment of the Open-Door policy. 2- alter the immigration laws which discriminate not openly be discriminated against Japanese and other Asiatic Orientals by historic quota. 3- permit the Philippines to go since we are getting out of the Philippines for good in ten years, and 4- withdraw from Geneva and the League of Nations may adopt with regard to sanctions and neutrality.

As to our policy with European nations, the writer believes we should adopt the same course they do. We should decree sanctions against any European nation unless it is against our interests to do so; in the cases, for instance, of the Germans attacking Mexico. Great Britain warring with Germany, we have no moral knowledge of power coming a Mexican.

With our peculiarity bills and our various of the years few years, we are assuming the governmental policy of our Fathers, says the writer, "Continuing the series of articles on the question of the right to die, the editors of Forum give us an article by Zona Gale, novelist and playwright, who is definitely against euthanasia legislation.

When science learns how to heal the sick bodies and minds which we would now allow to be killed either by the mercy of the victim themselves or others, we will look back on this proposal as akin to the revenge of tribal custom on their husbands' funeral system

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

By GRACE MARY WEBSTER

HAVING passed the bonus bill over the presidential veto Congress now looks to Roosevelt for a plan out of paying the soldiers' Indications are that a tax bill will be forced on the White House within the next week or so. Many while the inflation bloc has insisted a warning that they will open their fight to pay the bonus if greenbacks so and the new program comes out. No smart congressman wants to pass a new tax during an election year, but might we suggest that it would have been well to re-survey this before voting in to the American people the bonus bill issue. The forces of organized labor have taken then stand with Roosevelt in opposing inflation William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, stated that inflation would severely affect the economic and social welfare of the "masses of the people". He continued, 'If prices are to be driven higher through currency inflation the very limited buying power of the masses will be further curtailed . . . . As a matter of sound public policy as well as justice, no increase in wages should precede an increase in commodity prices."

Meanwhile the recent discovery of gold from this country to Europe is doing much to strengthen the American dollar was weakened by the threat of inflation. Within forty eight hours this week a total of $12.000.000 in gold has been shipped. the last two shipments being to France and Holland.

And in line with these financial problems and activities Roosevelt has week asked a billion dollars for off potential government loans in ties of the economic improvement reported in the country.

DID YOU KNOW that . . . . .

Maxim Litinoff after a little private talk with King Edward VIII recently summed up the new king to friends as "just a mediocre country Englishman who reads no more than one newspaper a day"?

IN EUROPE, after four whole months of war in the Mediterranean area, the situation is tense. In the war zone the situation grows more and more bloody, with neither belligerent able to win a winning yet. Every news story heralded Addis Ababa's reports Abyssinian victory, and every report from Rome tells of an Italian victory. The League of Nations crippled by English and French opposition, has failed to come to the rescue. Meanwhile from the picture until recently this week when invitations were issued to several nations for a committee meeting concerning the Italo-Ethiopian embargo. Among the nations known to have been invited are Argentina, Peru, Bolivia, Venezuela and Poland. Poland refused to send a delegate, the invitations

Continued on Page Six

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT

University Editorials

FARMERS HIT R. O. T. C.

An interesting article by the Caspar publications and editorial-ized by Ray Baker in Today is significant in its indication of the farmers attitude toward war.

The poll published showed a 100 to 1 sentiment against the United States participating in any European war. Taking the profits out of war and a popular vote as a decision to go to war also received overwhelming support.

In one of the most interesting results of the polist least to us is the farmers attitude toward conscription of manpower.

This attitude on the part of traditionally the most conservative group in the country should be indeed encouraging. Perhaps in the future even it has been possible to mobilize this latent anti-war sentiment and crystallize it into a definite policy-shaping force.—The Daily Cardinal.

ADULT EDUCATION NEXT?

Formal education may not be the answer to the need of adult education in the United States was one of the highlights of the N. E. A. Congress in Kansas City during the holidays, believes that the education one receives during the course of high school and college should be supplemented by that given to the layman who wishes to keep adults informed about the problems of the day.

Commissioner Studebaker declared that the United States is the only country in the world largely because adults are deprived of opportunities to keep informed. "Democracy," he asserted, "is a race between education and the forces of ignorance. And although it is popularly conceded that this is the most important office on the campus, the fact that there were 1573 students enrolled in the college at this time makes these voting tabulations even more significant.

When the college's enrollment came to the high peak of 1792 students at the end of 1933-34 there were 660 students who did not vote for the chief officer in the College government. In the term 1930-31 there were also 660 those to vote numbering 623, and in 1931-32, 748 students.

The low point in number of non-voters in the past five years is recorded in 1933-34, when there were 546 students who did not vote. Thus for five years there have been more than 500 students each year who saw no need for participating in the college elections.

The indifference to this campus are reflected by a minority vote because the majority neglected to take part in the election, yet the majority have to live under the minority rule.

It is evident that there must be some kind of a change effected in a case where such a small minority controls the acts of the major events of the campus an event that points to the way in which we will have to live after the next year.

This mass indifference must have its foothold to some main. We are using a number of students their exercises the small amount of indifference I found myself reading their papers that could be accounted for under two main heads.

Prim rily, a great number of students do not vote because they feel that there is no issue before the electorate that will pull the vote to the polls. They are apathetic and that their vote will make no difference one way or the other.

Secondly, a number of not vote voiced by a number of people is that the candidates are unknown to them. "I don't vote because I do not know the girls, but they have no way of doing that, I suppose" is another.

Both these two reasons them stand the absolute facts that are a number of girls who list do not vote because they are not interest in the matter whatsoever.

It is a democratic system, or is it solely the attitude of the students which causes this apathetic condition?

Could the generally uninterested electorate be aroused to intervene by putting the issues before them in a clear manner?

Are the organized politics that are working under cover giving much to much power? Such thing would it brought out from under cover and placed in the open?

Could the generally uninterested electorate be aroused to intervene by putting the issues before them in a clear manner?

Are the organized politics that are working under cover giving much to much power? Such thing would it brought out from under cover and placed in the open?

Could this system be changed? It seems to me that we should stop kidding ourselves that we have democracy when we have elections such as a pure and simple girl's college should have. We need get down to a thorough sifting over of the election system—and if it is found to be not to be ruled by minority officials.

Signed, Caroline Adams.

To The Student Body:

"Is Spring Here As Revoir" and "Bon Voyage" in my very best French is the translation of the French exclusive student whose Dr. Y. W borrowed from Annes Scott. Dr. Woodrow left us in a rather wistful farewell on my part for with her departure there also fell the exodus from this campus of a very vital interest.

Many of us probably did not have the opportunity to hear Dr. Woodrow speak, as she would say for if you had, you were convinced you would be asking for more. Fortunately, we shall we have to borrow a foreign student to hear more lectures, but we can't we have one at F. S. C. We have Dr. Woodrow back. Student body is very anxious to go to classes, to the movies, "built" over Forum, Scribners, and the like all afternoon.

It is easy, enjoyable in fact, to contact other nations through their living experiences—their opinions, their perspectives of every age. This is one gift which a

Pro and Con

Opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily expression of the editorial policy of the paper. It is a column of personal comment and is open to all who wish to submit views and constructive criticism. Letters should be typed, double spaced and mailed to the postoffice.

LET'S STOP KIDDING

By the Editor

In the post-election tabulation on votes last year it was found that 76 students did not cast a vote in the polls which elected the president of the College Government. In the term 1930-31 there were also 660 those to vote numbering 623, and in 1931-32, 748 students.

The low point in number of non-voters in the past five years is recorded in 1933-34, when there were 546 students who did not vote. Thus for five years there have been more than 500 students each year who saw no need for participating in the college elections.

The indifference to this campus are reflected by a minority vote because the majority neglected to take part in the election, yet the majority have to live under the minority rule.

It is evident that there must be some kind of a change effected in a case where such a small minority controls the acts of the major events of the campus an event that points to the way in which we will have to live after the next year.

This mass indifference must have its foothold to some main. We are using a number of students their exercises the small amount of indifference I found myself reading their papers that could be accounted for under two main heads.

Prim rily, a great number of students do not vote because they feel that there is no issue before the electorate that will pull the vote to the polls. They are apathetic and that their vote will make no difference one way or the other.

Secondly, a number of not vote voiced by a number of people is that the candidates are unknown to them. "I don't vote because I do not know the girls, but they have no way of doing that, I suppose" is another.

Both these two reasons them stand the absolute facts that are a number of girls who list do not vote because they are not interest in the matter whatsoever.

It is a democratic system, or is it solely the attitude of the students which causes this apathetic condition?

Could this generally uninterested electorate be aroused to intervene by putting the issues before them in a clear manner?

Are the organized politics that are working under cover giving much to much power? Such thing would it brought out from under cover and placed in the open?

Could this system be changed? It seems to me that we should stop kidding ourselves that we have democracy when we have elections such as a pure and simple girl's college should have. We need get down to a thorough sifting over of the election system—and if it is found to be not to be ruled by minority officials.

Signed, Caroline Adams.

To The Student Body:

"Is Spring Here As Revoir" and "Bon Voyage" in my very best French is the translation of the French exclusive student whose Dr. Y. W borrowed from Annes Scott. Dr. Woodrow left us in a rather wistful farewell on my part for with her departure there also fell the exodus from this campus of a very vital interest.

Many of us probably did not have the opportunity to hear Dr. Woodrow speak, as she would say for if you had, you were convinced you would be asking for more. Fortunately, we shall we have to borrow a foreign student to hear more lectures, but we can't we have one at F. S. C. We have Dr. Woodrow back. Student body is very anxious to go to classes, to the movies, "built" over Forum, Scribners, and the like all afternoon.

It is easy, enjoyable in fact, to contact other nations through their living experiences—their opinions, their perspectives of every age. This is one gift which a

Collegiate Come-Backs

Since this is the week-end of sophmore hop, we're certain an formal enough for the occasion to rehash some annual advice for the sake of our still hurt egos.

Don't drape yourself around your dancing partner. He may not go in for romantics.

Even if your boy-friend has big feet, there's always room enough on the dance floor for your own.

Don't go to sleep on your partner's shoulder. Your roommate may have died; you may die after all.

If your date didn't send you corsuds, don't hang out your nose. There were plenty of scents at the prom last year going for sweet peas.

* * *

The Colonnade points out that its better to have loved a man than never to have loved at all. To which we add: To be loved by a man and not to have wed and then be sorry.

* * *

The last available number of non-voters in the past five years is recorded in 1933-34, when there were 546 students who did not vote. Thus for five years there have been more than 500 students each year who saw no need for participating in the college elections.

The indifference to this campus are reflected by a minority vote because the majority neglected to take part in the election, yet the majority have to live under the minority rule.

It is evident that there must be some kind of a change effected in a case where such a small minority controls the acts of the major events of the campus an event that points to the way in which we will have to live after the next year.

This mass indifference must have its foothold to some main. We are using a number of students their exercises the small amount of indifference I found myself reading their papers that could be accounted for under two main heads.

Prim rily, a great number of students do not vote because they feel that there is no issue before the electorate that will pull the vote to the polls. They are apathetic and that their vote will make no difference one way or the other.

Secondly, a number of not vote voiced by a number of people is that the candidates are unknown to them. "I don't vote because I do not know the girls, but they have no way of doing that, I suppose" is another.

Both these two reasons them stand the absolute facts that are a number of girls who list do not vote because they are not interest in the matter whatsoever.

It is a democratic system, or is it solely the attitude of the students which causes this apathetic condition?

Could this generally uninterested electorate be aroused to intervene by putting the issues before them in a clear manner?

Are the organized politics that are working under cover giving much to much power? Such thing would it brought out from under cover and placed in the open?

Could this system be changed? It seems to me that we should stop kidding ourselves that we have democracy when we have elections such as a pure and simple girl's college should have. We need get down to a thorough sifting over of the election system—and if it is found to be not to be ruled by minority officials.

Signed, Caroline Adams.

To The Student Body:

"Is Spring Here As Revoir" and "Bon Voyage" in my very best French is the translation of the French exclusive student whose Dr. Y. W borrowed from Annes Scott. Dr. Woodrow left us in a rather wistful farewell on my part for with her departure there also fell the exodus from this campus of a very vital interest.

Many of us probably did not have the opportunity to hear Dr. Woodrow speak, as she would say for if you had, you were convinced you would be asking for more. Fortunately, we shall we have to borrow a foreign student to hear more lectures, but we can't we have one at F. S. C. We have Dr. Woodrow back. Student body is very anxious to go to classes, to the movies, "built" over Forum, Scribners, and the like all afternoon.

It is easy, enjoyable in fact, to contact other nations through their living experiences—their opinions, their perspectives of every age. This is one gift which a

POME FOR THE WEEK

Now heavy hang the acorns on the spreding tree
And fast the bitter salt spume its flow:
The swelling sorbet hugs welling eye
As Mendelsohn squeezes out a cry.

Alof! the wilted Xercises wail by waves
To dam the stream that ere check deeper lave
The leaden pleas, the sins all pleched, and pale;
And paler yet the brow drops breath its veil
Of damped misery. The sublime tide
On swifter comes, the burning fevers glide
With evil breath as pounding stake's knell,
O, Dante, Milton! You twain this hell.

—Junior Collegian

The Watchman very aptly observes: It's a great life if you don't weekend; it's hell on Monday if you do.

---

foreign student would bring Florida State.

We would learn first hand of the problem of other lands and Continued on page Six

The Social Week

Sophomores To Dance Amid Winter Wonderland Scene

Winter Wonderland" has been chosen for the theme of the annual sophomore Hop, which will be held tomorrow night in the girls' gymnasium. The entire gymnasium will be transformed into a winter scene, with snowmen, snow balls, glittering trees, and a snow fort, effectively arranged throughout the dance floor.

The University of Florida Clubmen will play for this affair, which will last from 8:30 to 11:30 o'clock.

Unique Programs

The programs for the Hop carry out the winter motif, being printed in blue and silver on a white background, with the overlapping top lapped at the bottom to represent icicles. The eight program dances also have been appropriately named "Ice Breaker," "Ski Hop," "Snow Whirl," "Ice Skating," "Blizzard," "Jack Frost," "Icicle Glide," and "Winter's Stroll". These will be interspersed with break dances.

Features of the evening will include a solo by Shirley Pemberton and a dance by Caroline Oliver and Frances Gates, and other interesting numbers.

Throughout the evening punch will be served in the lobby.

Committees in charge of arrangements for this affair are general chairman, Phil Asher; tickets, Mary Katherine Scott; program dances, Viola Brown; punch, Molly Holden; and decorations, Janet Cook.

There will be tea-dancing in Oglethorpe parlor and sorority house tomorrow afternoon.

Attending Hop

Sophomores and their dates who will attend the Hop are: Virginia Whitacre, Lee Roy Salsbury; Susie Pafford, Allen Weatherby; Caroline Griffin, Joe Hiles; Kathryn Harris, David Lander; Lila Parsons, Harry Tomlinson; Edith Huddleston, Harold Tramble; Meda Fuhrer, Aubrey Hendrix; Phillis Guen, Bob Mickler; Mayrie Hall, Robert Thomas; Dora Chen, Irving Tarr; Jean Johnston, Eli Vivio; Brooks Burton Brown, Dot Watson; Bob Tyler, Althea Mebane, Johnny Wise; Elizabeth Hammer, Fred Burghard; Phoebe Messer, Jack Brunson; Jewell Turner, Dick Clark; Billie Hoard, Frank Lee; Lou Adkins, John Bass; Venelia Herron, M. D. Josephine Trantham, Troy Russell; Chairman Lufburrow Meiner, Barbara Holmes, Tarver; Annette Marcus, Fishenbaum; Dorothy Douglas Hopkins; Emma Sweeney, Fred Parker; Letitia Lovett, Eloise Knox, George Allen; Martha Wyatt, Mac Griffin; Jackie by, Patsy Johnston, Don Lancaster; Mary Emily Sadler, Keith Grimsley; Sally Ratliff, Victor Nettles; Marie Cason, Billy Classic; Mary Louise McCreery, Emerson Bishop; Dorothy Hill, Jimmy Van Pelt; Dot Hoffman, Kenneth White; Dorothy Johnson, Boyd Anderson; Mildred Booth, Harry Johnson; Janet Cook, Paul Ross; Mary Frances Hales, Arnold Hatcher; Cora Andrews, Bill Reece; Mavis Clark, Bert Fletcher; Erma Rusk, Charles Root; Hazel Anderson, Buddy Lewis; Jere Crook, Buddy Wilson; Chasmere Coleman, Sam Drahi; Isabelle Sands, Jere Stanbaugh; Polly Evelth, Paul Brandon; Margaret Melvin, Del Shaw; Jane Rice, Woodrow Wilkins; Ann Bayley, Howard Marvin; Ines Seabrook, Harry Gomsles; Sara Tillman, Francis Kearney.

Stags Include

Girls who will attend the Hop as stags are Lurline Goodman, Molly Holden, Aileia Crowell, Adelaide Slaughter, Elizabeth Pierce, Fair Milleer, Alberta Glover, Jean Lyles, Edith Ramsaur, Kathleen Pratt, Lois Forrester, Elsie Barrett, Genie Whiteside, Marsha King, Ann Jeter, Margaret McCall, Leona Thornton, Florence Mayfield, Idella Saunsetin, Edna Feinberg, Deenie Bruns, Ruth Agnes McClain, Betty Bow, Esther Griffing, Dorothy Williams, Shirley Pemberton.

Edith Adkison, Mary K. Mickler, Marion Rogers, Louise Rogers, Gladys Keen, Lucille Weeks, Margaret Schmidill, Dorothy Osburn, Mary Lopez, Mariam Herrold, Anna Croomes, Edith Dixon, Latrelle Thames, Sara Martin, Esther Goodwin, Grace Groff, Mildred Hurman, Pauline Jacobson, Bebe Stockwell, Anabelle Baker, Reba Miller, Dorothy Bellamy, Marjorie Rasiterson, Eileen Robinson, Louise Lingo, Geraldine Miles, Florence Trunbin, Minna Agren, Mamie Braverman, Frances Thill, Betty Oetlund, Hazel Myers, Kathleen Hughes, Charlotte Engstron, Evelyn Glaster, Dot Atkinson, Marcia Smith, Kazimir Mumby, Florence Kerr, Elisabeth Jinks, Dorothy Olmstead, Jean Duncan, Emmaline Rankin, Maxine Purser, Ray Rochester, Marianna Arcuri, Felicia West, Elizabeth Turner, Betty Finch, Mary Sweat, Katherine Ely, Jane Gee.

VOGUE SHOE PARLOR

PRESENTS

New 1936 Edition

CALLOPING BUCKAROOS

In Nine Colors Of Genuine Backs

Gray . . White and Brown . . Rust . . Biege . . Navy . . White (square toes and heels) . . . Brown . . . Saddle Tan . . Black

$8.75

UNLINED TO MAKE THEM LIGHT AND AIRY.

Unlike other shoes of this type, "Buckaroos" is the original one-piece pattern. It eliminates all strain because it has no seams.

SIZES: 3½ TO 9—AAAA TO B

EXCLUSIVE WITH

VOGUE SHOE PARLOR

Tallahassee

Personal Mention

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Cheney and Miss Linna Cheney visited Cora Cheney at the Alpha Chi Omega house this week.

Miss Marion McKay, Alpha Chi Omega chaperon, has returned from Tampa where she spent last week.

Agnes Goss is entertaining her mother, Mrs. E. Goss of Tampa, at the Alpha Omicron Pi house this week.

Jessie Mead and Lulu Walker will attend the Methodist conference in Gainesville this week-end.

Mabry Summers is spending the week-end in Tampa.

Betty Anne Graham is attending the Methodist conference in Gainesville this week-end.

Attending the annual Delta Zeta Founder Day which will be celebrated in Daytona Beach today, tomorrow and Saturday are Mary Ellen Tilden, Jane Tilden, and Yulee Way.

Betty Middleton and Evelyn Ballard are going to Panama this week-end to attend the Cadet Ball.

Barbara Bandy will visit in her home in Miami this week-end.

Alpha Xi Pledges To Hold Informal Open House Tomorrow

The pledges of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority will entertain pledges of the other sororities on the campus with an informal open-house tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock in the Alpha Xi Delta house on Copeland street. The front rooms of the house will be opened ensuite and decorated with low bowls and vases of spring flowers which will be arranged with greenery.

During the afternoon hot tea and coffee with a variety of sandwiches, nuts and mints will be passed by the guests.

Hostesses at this time will be: Trudy Kuhn, Victoria Crisp, Fay Corey, Virginia Carey, and Mildred Booth.

String Quartet Plays For Men's Bible Class

A string quartet composed of four members of the Augusta Concert theatre orchestra will play at the Rite theatre Sunday morning for the Men's Bible class of Tallahassee.

The quartet will be composed of Mr. Owen Sellers, cello; Miss Martha Reddick, first violin; Miss Betty Barker, second violin; and Miss Annabelle Larson, viola.

DEAN DORMAN TO HONOR DR. EDWIN McNEILL POTEAT AT COFFEE MONDAY

Honoring Dr Edwin McNeill Poteat, leader of Religious Emphasis week, Miss Olivia N. Dorman, dean of women, will entertain with a coffee in Gilchrist parlors following dinner Monday night.

The parlors will be decorated with beautifully arranged vases of cut flowers for this occasion.

Members of the social committee, of which Mary Etta Thatcher is chairman, will assist in serving coffee, sandwiches, and mints during the evening.

Invited to meet Dr. Poteat at this time are members of the religious workers council, Dr. E. G. Conradi, the college administrative officers, and other members of the faculty.

Students who have been invited are members of the Religious Emphasis week committee including, Peggy McMichael, Mary Jeanne McKay, Janice Borton, Elizabeth Kirby-Smith, Mary Ellen Kenzie, Sara Nance, Lucy Gee Linn, Clodille O'Rourke, Virginia White, Sara Nutledge, Martha Mackenzon, Frances Lewis, Mary Ola Reynolds, Anne Norris, Dora Helen Baggett, Helen Daniel, Louise Brown, Wright, Micajadelle Moore.

Marjorie Saulerson, Peggy McMichael, Sue Whitaker, Sara Kreitzman, Sara Ball Palmer, Betty Oetlund, Lelia Gibbs, Barnies Oliver, Janet Cook, Nancy Felt, Lillie McGuire, Virginia Nordhcutt, Frances Thomas.

Josephine Sinion, Sara Hethcox, Mamie Carlton, Dorothy Leach, Helen Cate, Kathleen Gruppe, Lois Bowden, Maxine Ward, Martha Carson, Gertrude Kuhn, Marguerite Brown Louise Lingo, Pollie Fair, Gladys Oliver, Evelyn Collins, Mauvis Lussier Mary Wing, Mary Wylie Kleppinger, Jo Beth Pierman, Sarah Sealey, and Margaret Stout.

Delta Zetas Honored With After-Dinner Coffee Saturday

Mrs. J. M. Coarsey and Mrs. T. B. Prevatt entertained Saturday night with an after-dinner coffee in the Delta Zeta house on West College street for the members and pledges of that sorority.

Cut flowers were arranged effectively to decorate the rooms on the lower floor of the house.

During the evening coffee, cookies, and salted nuts were served to the guests.

Honored at this affair were: Kathleen Harris, Margaret Pinkston, Mary Williams, professor of art, Madeleine Ireland, Jean Jackson, Edith Atkinson.

Modern Prints Displayed

There will be an Artist Series exhibition of thirty-five modern prints, according to Mrs. Beatrice Beyer Williams, professor of art, on February 13-20 in room 307, Administration building every day from 8:30 to 5:00 o'clock, except Sunday.

This exhibition sent out by the College Art association will include etchings, lithographs, and block prints.

Kendrick Elected Head Of New Senior Council

Odis G. Kendrick, a member of the senior class of the Demonstration school, was elected president of the Senior Council of the high school following a week's heated campaign.

Other officers elected were, Harriet E. Kent vice president; Ava Culbreath secretary; and Elizabeth Rogers treasurer.

Voting was done by printed ballots given each student as his name was checked on the registration list.

During the week several political meetings were held with Allen Lloyd, chairman of the elections, presiding. Campaign speeches were delivered by the candidates running for office at these meetings.

Spanish Honorary Holds Monthly Business Meet

Sigma Delta Pi Spanish honorary, held its monthly meeting last Thursday, January 30, at the home of Miss Dorothy Purse.

After attending the speech given by Mademoiselle Marcel Capali in the Augusta Conrad theatre.

Winifred Hansen and Anne Groover were in charge of the program. Others present were Mrs. D. R. Hiven, sponsor, Miss Margaret V. Campbell, Murse Reddick, Martha Wollston, Wylma TerMuuh, and Virginia Cromartie.

Examiner to Come Soon

The Red Cross Examiner for life saving will be here the first week in March to give examinations and training. The pool is open every Tuesday night at eight o'clock for practice for the event. Six hours of rigorous practice must be had before an applicant can apply for the exam.

Practice Points Given

The season for tennis and swimming is now open. You can get points for practice by signing on cards for that purpose at the distribution window in the gym for swimming and at the equipment house for tennis.

Home Economics Meeting Announced By Secretary Oliver to Speak at Vesper

The Home Economics club will have its monthly meeting tonight, night, 7:30 in the Science building, according to Shirley Stephens, secretary.

Miss Mary Hale Martin, home economics specialist with Libby & Libby, brought some interesting facts before the economics club students last Tuesday when she spoke on "Quantity Food Buying and Qualifications Necessary for Success in the Business World," to further discussed during the club meeting.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA HONORS HOUSE MOTHER WITH AFTER DINNER COFFEE

The members and pledges of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority entertained with an after-dinner coffee Wednesday night honoring Miss Elizabeth Tumbelake, the sorority house mother, who is leaving this week to accept a position in Quincy.

The coffee table was overlaid with a lace cloth upon which were placed burning white tapers, Cream cheese sandwiches, coffee, and mints were served during the evening.

Invited guests included Dr. Jessie Tu, Miss Edna Mae McIntosh, Miss Mildred Finnegan, Mrs. Blanche Moore, and Miss Mary Schornherst.

Hostesses at the time were, Antoinette Sullivan Hayes Ballard, Clairnelle O'Steen Rosslyn Parker, Wynn Penland, Mary Walker McCormick Mary Emnes, Margaret Reedy, Virginia Hamilton, Clarice Sanchez Banks Wood, Mary Veach, Betty Middleton, Sarah Clark, Kitty Cheney, Helen Dorn, Patricia Hamilton, Marjorie Horton, Jean Harris, Margaret Schmidt, Theresa Barrington, Virginia Campbell, Virginia Clements, Lorraine Smith, Ruth Fisher, Martha Hague, Christine Meridan, Annie Laurie Pope, Doris Purchase Mary K. Quisenberry Annie Laurie Sanchez, Mary Catherine Thomas, Mary Bruce Patterson, Betty Spencer, and Edythe Stanley.

Professor H. S. Herring Of Johns Hopkins to Talk On Christian Science

A free lecture on Christian Science will be presented at the First Church of Christ Scientist by Professor Hermann S. Herring of the Christian Science Board of Lecturers of Boston. The lecture will take place tonight at 8:15 o'clock.

Professor Hering is a former member of the Johns Hopkins university faculty, but since 1897 he has been actively connected with Christian Science work both as a reader and a lecturer.

He served five years as reader in the Baltimore church and then was first reader in the Mother Church in Boston during 1902-1905. Afterwards he served as reader in the Concord, N. H., church but also engaged in lecturing. He has addressed audiences in America, Canada, and many foreign countries since he began this type of work in 1904.

NEW SPRING DRESSES AND HATS ARRIVING DAILY!

THE LADIES' SHOP

"Where Styles are Shown a First for Less"

NEXT TO STATE THEATRE

© 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tob. Co.

CAMEL'S "TRY 10" OFFER CONVINCES NEW THOUSANDS OF COLLEGE SMOKERS!

Read Our Invitation to You

Smoke 10 fragrant Camels. If you don't find them the mildest, best-flavored cigarettes you ever smoked, return the package with the rest of the cigarettes in it to us at any time within a month from this date, and we will refund your full purchase price, plus postage.

(Signed) R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY
WINSTON-SALEM, NORTH CAROLINA

Knowing the finer, more expensive tobaccos used in Camels, we make this offer . . . confident that you'll find your ideal cigarette in Camels. . . . For experience shows that people quickly sense the difference in Camel's COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

I'M SO GLAD I TRIED CAMELS

Camels must please you, or they cost you Nothing!

Davis Speaker At Open Forum

American Neutrality Law Discussed by Judge At AAUW Meet

As guest speaker before the open forum sponsored by the International Relations Committee of the local branch of the A. A. U. W. the Honorable Judge Fred Davis of the Florida Supreme court discussed American neutrality laws.

In his discussion Judge Davis stated that the United States by virtue of its material wealth is better prepared for war than any other important nation, since the industrial forces of a nation are as important in carrying on warfare as fighters.

The speaker discussed the two bills concerning neutrality power: the Pittman-McReynolds bill, which leaves the administration of general principles of neutrality to the president of the United States and the opposing bill, the Clarke-Nye bill, which is anti-administration and takes the power of keeping the country at peace out of the executive branch of the government.

No nation is considered offended by an attack on another nation, he explained, unless it is tied to the nation being attacked by treaty or tangible ties. Every nation against whom a state of war is not recognized must assume, unless otherwise declared, a state of neutrality. This modern doctrine of neutrality differs from the one accepted in earlier times which has as its principle that all wars were allied wars by comity.

Judge Davis in pointing out that a state of neutrality meant more than merely refraining from sending an army into battle, gave some of he obligations incurred by a neutral nation:

The government must not do anything which is of aid to either fighter. The neutral nation must so construct its internal laws that there will be no conducting of military enterprises within its boundaries. The neutral country must restrain activities of its citizens which might tend to involve the government as an ally to either of the combatants.

The nation not at war must not allow its territory to be transgressed by either of the combatants, using arms, if necessary, to restrain them.

At the conclusion of Judge Davis' talk an open discussion was held. Miss Irish, chairman of the International Relations committee, presided.

Andrews Announces Test

The psychological test required of all second semester students will be given Saturday, Feb. 8, 9:30 a. m. at room 203 Administration building, according to Dr. Elizabeth G. Andrews, director of personnel. Students are asked to come promptly and bring two pencils.

Headlines and Footnotes

Continued From Page Four

an indication of what is thought to be the general attitude toward such an embargo.

THE BODY of Father Damien, the brave little Belgian priest who gave his life to the leper colony at Molokai, is being taken back to his native country now. Father Damien has been dead for fifty years. In response to King Leopold's personal request of President Roosevelt a squadron of U. S. Army planes flew to Molokai and disinterred the body.

POSTMASTER-GENERAL Farley, speaking at Miami Wednesday night, did his bit toward helping along what he prophesied would be the "dirtiest political campaign yet." Speaking of the Liberty League he labelled it "the center and soul of the predatory powers". He declared that the Liberty League, if given its way, would 'perpetuate the sorry business of the Medicis and the Morgans in reducing 95 per cent of the people to the status of serfs." And so the 'mud-slinging has begun in earnest. Incidentally, it is interesting to note that the Liberty League spent more money on propaganda than either the Democratic or Republican parties last year—anti-Roosevelt propaganda, of course.

Croquignole Side Permanent Waves
Shampoo and Wave Set Included
$1.50
BENNETT'S BEAUTY SALON
PHONE 900

Religious Emphasis Week Schedule To Open With Convocation Address

Schedule for Religious Emphasis Week

Tuesday

11:30—Convocation, address
7:30—Address, auditorium

Wednesday

10:30 a. m.—Informal discussion, Bryan Hall
4:30—Open Forum, Little Theatre
7:30—Address, auditorium

Thursday

10:30—Informal discussion, Jennie Murphree
7:30—Address, auditorium

Friday

4:30—Open Forum, Little Theatre
7:30—Address, auditorium

Saturday

No scheduled meetings

Sunday

11:00—Church service, auditorium

Faculty Trio Presents Recital in Thomasville

The faculty industrial trio, consisting of Miss Augusta Murphy, violinist, Miss Mary Esther Winslow, pianist and Owen F. Sellers, cellist, presented a solo and trio recital before the Music Study Club of Thomasville on Friday.

The club room was filled to its capacity. Following the recital, Mrs. R. C. Balfour, Jr. honored the trio and Dean Ella Scobie Opperman with a reception and tea at her home in Thomasville.

Pro and Con

Continued from page four

would hear first hand what other nations think of us, for strangers are notoriously candid in their expression.

We might become a little more appreciative of the things we take for granted, modern buildings, sanitary conveniences, etc.

There are, I know, a few of you who have scorned the American College's lack of tradition, age and glory. Through the eyes of an exchange student you might learn 'glory does not make you comfortable."

Apparently there are many girls who would welcome the coming of an Exchange student to this campus, for every other girl whom I heard talk with Marcelle voiced the wish that she might come here to school. Furthermore, although Y. W. C. A. was alone responsible for bringing our guest here, a very representative number of organizations demonstrated their interest by entertaining her.

It may be just the last wish of a doddering old senior, but I do hope that this time next year Florida State may have a foreign student of her own to lend out for some week-end, instead of having to borrow one.

Signed: Ruth Mock

Arrogant Moon Enhances Charm of Still Campus

The low hung moon hidden behind passing clouds peered through the fickle smoky shutters and indifferently reflected a vague light as if reluctant to exert any more energy in her nightly work.

Below on the hill, the slim pines, the dark moss-covered buildings were preparing for a good night's rest. Nowhere through the wide expanse of the dimly lit campus or in the murky caverns of darkness were there any sounds of humanity. All was quiet.

Over on the highway, there was a muffled roar and the sound of humming tires rapidly disappearing in the distance. A deep-throated whistle sounded on the order of the campus—a whistle accented with dainty trills, growing fainter and fainter.

Suddenly there was heard the slow heavy tread of footsteps coming closer and louder. The dim shape of the nightwatchman was faintly outlined in the sharp flare of his flashlight standing under the arch of a doorway, a jingling of keys and his footsteps were soon echoes in the hollow spaces between the buildings.

Listening intently there could be heard from beneath the protecting blades of grass, the shrill staccato interpretations of Taps as played by a band of crickets.

Overhead, the moon, as a final haughty gesture flared forth in all her beauty as a grand finale for her night's performance. The hill was in silver outline for an instance—then darkness.

The buildings dissolved into black shadows; the trees sighed a soft goodnight; Florida State college slept.

Writer Concludes That Students See Culture as Something to Be Borne

Trend is to Noisier and More Hectic Diversions Of Present-Day Life; Feeling Shown In Attitudes Toward Artist Series

BY EVELYN FISHER

We hear a great deal about culture in these our college days. It reaches us through a dozen different sources—the professor's desk, the chapel stage, the lecturer's platform. And the fact becomes ever clearer that the majority of students on this campus are coming to regard the word and all it stands for as one of those things that must be borne rather than enjoyed.

The other day I walked into a roomful of average college girls. There were no especially brilliant students in the room nor were there any of the frivilous "college-is-a-place - to - frolic" type. They were merely ordinary college girls enjoying themselves in the ways that college girls do when they are momentarily free from study. Four were playing bridge. One was reading a movie magazine, while the others were playing the current college brainstorm called "Enigma" which requires as much concentration upon the trivial solution of a shrewdly phrased statement as some problems of calculus. All of the girls appeared to be enjoying themselves. I have enjoyed every one of the things that they were doing. Yet they could hardly be said to be showing that development of cultural habits that we hear so much about in college.

In all fairness to the group, however, we must remember that they had probably spent the entire day in pursuit of this same elusive culture in their classrooms. They needed the contrast offered by the more trivial pastimes in which they were engaged. But the fact remains that when the average student leaves she does not choose the soothing peace of culture offered to her by the teachings of the college, but the noisier and more hectic diversions of the day.

This same lack of feeling for the so-called deeper and finer things of life prevails in the average attitude toward the Artist Series. About twenty-five per cent of the student body go to the concert and other programs presented because they really enjoy them and would rather be there than anywhere else. Of the remaining seventy-five per cent there is one group who does everyone, including herself, into thinking that they enjoy the concerts for the sheer pleasure that they get from them.

I overheard one girl who sat in front of me at one of the recent concerts telling her neighbor before the concert began that how much she enjoyed the Artist Series. She went into some detail to explain how much fun such things should be a part of everyone's life that cannot speak for her. I was quite impressed. To my great annoyance, however, I found that during the concert she frequently leaned over to whisper in her neighbor's ear. spent a good deal of her time in twisting around in her seat, and asked someone else quite frequently what time it was. When the concert was over I heard this same girl voice an ecstatic "Wasn't it wonderful?" to some of her acquaintances passing by her in the crowded aisle.

Looking back I can't decide if that girl really had fooled herself into believing that she was culturally minded. In the sincerity of the present generation could she really think that her appreciation of culture was to be admired?

I am also at a loss to know if this superficial idea of culture is not a by-product of the way it is forced upon the students during these college days. Isn't this vaunished idea of culture as something that you spread on thick so the world can't see through to the barrenness of ideas underneath a result of the ideas that are being pushed down our throats?

Of the others that attend the concerts, there are those who go because everyone else goes. They enjoy seeing the latest evening gowns on the ushers. Then some of the performers are awfully "cute." As far as the culture that this group absorbs from the Artist Series and other cultural opportunities offered by the college, their score would be nil.

Another group who attends are the conscientious few who really do not like the concerts or programs at all, are bored with them but who feel that somehow, and for some unexplainable reason, it is they duty to themselves and to the college to soak up as much as possible of this thing they name culture. One girl of this type said to someone sat at the last concert, "I really don't enjoy these a bit, but I feel that it is my duty to get as much out of all the phases of college as possible." If ever there was a statement that showed the decline of a genuine feeling for cultural things it was incorporated in those self-hypocritical, half-pathetic words.

The group who doesn't attend the Artist Series at all and who openly rejects all the orthodox ideas of culture presents a far more encouraging aspect to me than the type who accepts the whole concept of it including its artistical and superficial surfaces. I know many students who openly declare that they do not enjoy the classics of literature and art, nor do they receive any thrill

Display Features Rudyard Kipling

Portrait, Few Books Of Late Author Shown

Library exhibit this week at concern current news, the recent death of Rudyard Kipling and the affairs of the world today.

The first display consists of a portrait of Kipling and a number of his best works. Among the collection the Jungle Book and the Second Jungle Book are probably the most popular. These books brought $300,000 royalties from the United States alone.

Other well known books on display are Puck of Pook's Hill, Plain Tales from the Hills, Kenneth Grahame's Fairies, The Light that Failed, and Kim.

The other exhibit contains both of books of travel and of book concerning the affairs of all the nations. It bears the title. New Trails, Books on Italy, Germany and Russia have had the greatest interest for F. S. C. W. students up to this time.

From listening to the intricacies of technically perfect music. Their frailtness shocks me, even smock me a little, but I was struck by the question that one of them asked the other day, "Why must we always have the culture of the dead forced upon us? Why can't we make our own culture?"

This is, I suppose, the eternal cry of youth. But there is a ring of truth in it. There is perhaps too much stress laid on the musty volumes of the past and too little attention paid to the vital moving things that make up contemporary culture. Perhaps if the student were educated so that she might see the classics and the glories of the past in the light of her own day she might better appreciate the culture of both.

ADAMS' STUDIO
"Photographs that Please"
121 E. College Ave. Phone 297

Here's one cigarette that writes its own advertising..

It's like this—

You see I'm reading a Chesterfield advertisement and I'm smoking a Chesterfield cigarette, and all of you are smoking Chesterfields.

Now listen—Chesterfields are mild (not strong, not harsh). That's true isn't it?

Then you read "and yet they satisfy, please your taste, give you what you want in a cigarette." That says it, doesn't it?

Wait a minute—

It says now that Chesterfields have plenty of aroma and flavor. One of you go out of the room and come back. That will tell you how pleasing the aroma is.

Chesterfield writes its own advertising

© 1936, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

Help Celebrate Birthday Of Dr. Conradi
At "Sing" Thursday Night

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, February 14, 1936

Hear Dr. Potest Last Time Sunday Morning
In the College Auditorium

VOLUME XXIII NUMBER EIGHTEEN

Lakin Speaks On Ethiopian Trouble Here

Former Consul to Arabia To Base Discussion On Experience

KNOWS SELASSIE AND MUSSOLINI

Lecturer's Governmental Background Enhances Value of Views

The Honorable Harrison M. Lakin of the United States Diplomatic Service and former Consul to Aden, Arabia, addressed the student body on Friday nineteenth, on the topic "The Ethiopian Crisis."

U. S. Foreign Service

Mr Lakin, as a member of the American Foreign Service, has spent his entire life studying, traveling and writing on international affairs, governments, and politics, in the Far East, India, Persia, Arabia, Europe and many parts of Africa and South America. In many of these countries he has been stationed with official, and his experience enables Mr. Lakin to comment upon the diplomatic activities of foreign governments, their policies, their economic and commercial status, as well as the nature and psychology of the various peoples among whom he has lived and whose languages he speaks.

Knows Selassie

His personal acquaintance in Rome extended from Mussolini to Haile Selassie I. Mr. Lakin was the consul in Italy and is personally acquainted with Mussolini and fully familiar with the fascist movement. In addition to his many years in diplomatic posts in a foreign countries, Mr. Lakin has also had a number of years of duty in the Department of State, Washington, D. C.

An open forum will be held immediately following Mr. Lakin's address.

Follow-up Plan Is Considered

YW President Sums Up Activities of Year

As a follow-up of Religious Emphasis week a plan is being considered to get outstanding ministers from the state to come to the college for the purpose of addressing the student body, according to Lucy Lee Linn, president of the Y. W. C. A., who summed up the activities of this organization for the current year in a recent interview.

One of the first affairs of the year was the freshman reception given the second week of the school term. Following this, receptions were took place at which the greatest number of students ever to belong to Y. W. C. A. on this campus became members of the organization.

Membership parties have been held monthly where subjects such as World Fellowship and World Peace were discussed. Also in connection with this topic, the World Fellowship committee brought to the campus Madamoiselle Marcelle Capouet, a French student from Agnes Scott college. She spoke on the university life of her country, presenting a vivid contrast between the university life of France and that of our country. Mademoiselle Capouet was also a guest speaker at the international banquet held here.

Also under the direction of the Y. W. C. A. is the programmed project of which Gladys Oliver is chairman. A large number of college students have helped to carry out the plan, which has created a permanent project for the city and new projects for the spring are now under way for the playground.

Vesper services, under the leadership of Mary Jeanne McKay, have been held every Sunday evening.

A drive for old clothing took place before the Christmas holidays. Many old clothes were collected from the college students and given to needy people in the surrounding vicinity, a plan which was also introduced to the campus last year.

Freshman Cabinet has had as its purpose leadership training. In order to train leaders to carry on the work of Y. W. C. A. instead of having business meet-

Continued On Page Two

Forum Speaker

Mr. Harrison M. Lakin, former member of the U. S. foreign service, will speak here Wednesday night on the Ethiopian crisis.

Senior Class to Decide Question Of Gift Custom

Presents Made to College Are Expected From First in 1910

With the time approaching for the senior class to decide on the distribution of class funds, the seniors will once more consider the custom of presenting a class gift to the college.

This custom has been observed since 1910 when the graduating class of that year originated it by presenting Donatello's "Dancing Boy" to the college. This basic relief statuary was placed in the corridor of Carnegie administration building and later transferred to the library.

The class of 1915 planted the vines covering the administration building, since then every graduating class has planted vines or a tree on campus.

The artistic iron gates at the main entrance to the college were the gift of the class of 1918. Two yea. "ter the senior class added the arch above the gates.

The classes of 1918 and 1919 presented the Cone college with the fountain located in front of the Administration building, around which a wall was recently made of red, purple, and white stones.

The class gift of 1918 was a sum of $350 to be used as a loan fund for deserving students, needing aid to complete their college course. This fund was placed under the supervision of the Alumnae Association.

In 1920, the graduating class contributed $650 toward a student activities building. This $650 was added to $1,000 given by former classes making a total of $1,650. This fund was temporarily to be used as a loan fund. This fund of 1924 amassed $565.36 to the loan fund.

In 1925 the class of '25ers began a fund for the bronze doors which were placed in the main entrance to the Administration building. They contributed $500.

The conference, which will open with a reception for the delegates and visitors, will have as delegates for business meetings Saturday, February 22, Dr. Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde discussion at these meetings will be "The Moral Standard of the Youth of Today".

Saturday night a banquet will be held at the Dutch Kitchen for the delegates with Father J. F. McKeven as the main speaker and Mrs. Thomas K. Grady, of Miami, state president of the National Federation of Catholic Women, as toastmistress. A dance at the college gymnasium will follow the banquet.

The conference will close with a communion breakfast at the Floridan hotel Sunday morning at this time Mrs. Grady will speak on "What the Newman club should mean on a non-sectarian campus."

The Southeast Federation of College Catholic clubs is composed of Catholic clubs in Georgia, Florida, and Cuba. The federation is headed by Maurix Lussier, of this college, who is province president.

Poteat Speaks This Week On Religion's Need

Explains Cause of Change In World Conditions Shaking Belief

SUNDAY SERVICE CLOSES SESSION

Creative Love is Essence Of All Spiritual And Religious Faith

Religious Emphasis week opened Tuesday morning with a convocation with the introduction of the speaker of the week, Dr. Edwin McNeill Poteat of Raleigh, North Carolina, by Mary Jeanne McKay.

As Dr. Poteat, pastor of the Fullen Memorial Baptist church in Raleigh, began to give his address of the morning, it became evident to those present that the advance information describing Dr Poteat as a powerful preacher had not been overpresented him. His keen sense of humor and subtle insight regard the attention of the students and guests who marvelled at the world of knowledge which he seemed to have at his fingertips.

Gives Reason

In his talk Dr. Poteat gave the three events which he has selected as the reasons for the chaotic conditions of the world today. The first reason which he enumerated was the publication of Charles Darwin's book in 1859."—Origin of the Species" which caused an uproar in England and which has formed the casis of many arguments since that time.

Dr. Poteat then said that a second in the chain of revolutionary works was brought about by the spread of the theories of Karl Marx who published the "Communistic Manifesto" in 1858.

The third reason emphasized by the morning's speaker was the secession of Queen Victoria of England, after the passing of a reign which plunged the British Empire into war and which led to the upheaval of old traditions and customs.

First Evening Address

The theme of the entire week was stated by the "Advocate of Christ in the Modern World."

Religious Emphasis week programs and informal meetings as well as the evening addresses will be centered around this theme along this line. Dr. Poteat spoke Tuesday evening at the address on "Why Should We be Good?"

Dr. Poteat for his reasons given by Dr. Poteat why we are to be good, has selected quotations of some people who decide to be good because it pays.

Others, who have the attitude of a stoic, are food for the sake of their own strong moral code of ethics. Dr. Poteat stated the question as to whether the stoical

Continued On Page Two

Federation Will Have Meet Here

Florida State Newman Club to Be Hostess

The members of the Florida State Newman club will act as hostesses to the Southeast Province Conference of the Federation of College Catholic clubs here February 22nd.

The conference, which will open with a reception for the delegates and visitors, will have as delegates for business meetings Saturday, February 22, Dr. Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde discussion at these meetings will be "The Moral Standard of the Youth of Today".

Saturday night a banquet will be held at the Dutch Kitchen for the delegates with Father J. F. McKeven as the main speaker and Mrs. Thomas K. Grady, of Miami, state president of the National Federation of Catholic Women, as toastmistress. A dance at the college gymnasium will follow the banquet.

The conference will close with a communion breakfast at the Floridan hotel Sunday morning at this time Mrs. Grady will speak on "What the Newman club should mean on a non-sectarian campus."

The Southeast Federation of College Catholic clubs is composed of Catholic clubs in Georgia, Florida, and Cuba. The federation is headed by Maurix Lussier, of this college, who is province president.

Students Send SOS Call to Baedeker for Reorientation

Campus is Topsy-Turvy; All Lost; But Found Elsewhere

BY BILLIE HOTARD

The banging of hammers, the scraping of planes, the prying off of boards, the pungent odor of paint, voices rising one above the other like the ramps of a labeler, dust-filled air, confusion and bustling—it is general morning say in the North wing of the Administration building.

The dull monotony of class-room life is no more! The professor arrives at the dramatic climax at a lecture. "Permanent is the biochemical decomposition of cells." Bang! Bang! Burp! "Her, Joe, heave her over a little more in the right corner." The professor clears his throat and makes a second valiant attempt, "Permeation in—" A glee club of engineers greets the resounding halls, with a medley of alloa and gerrance, and the in-between clicks-click of a metronome by a hammer. The teacher surrenders. The pupils silently bless the outside maneuvers.

Twenty stair-despairing students climb to the third floor of the History building to be confronted with a card saying that the next class hour's assignment will be found in 411 Education building. They mutter a few con-

Continued On Page Two

Glee Club To Appear Friday

Mercer Boys Will Present Variety Program In FSC Auditorium

"Concert and Comedy" will hold the spotlight Friday night, February 14, at 8:15 p. m. when Mercer University's 1936 Glee club presents its variety program in the college auditorium.

The directors of the Glee club have secured the latest numbers from both the classical and popular fields for the program, under the direction of W. F. Walker, will present a mock meeting and a "jam session" in addition will feature such currently popular numbers as "Stars", "Moon Over Miami", and "Cling to Me". The orchestra under Walker's baton holds the spotlight with novelty arrangements of "Nola" and "Tiger Rag".

Charlie Thompson, Glee club pianist and arranger-composer, will lead the novelty group with his rendition of George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue", together with several of his own popular arrangements. Thompson has been a favorite with Mercer Glee club audiences for the past three years.

Bob Crandall will sing "Water Boy" as a baritone solo. James Hudson and James Bellenger, first tenors, John Herndon and Leslie Carter, second tenors; Billy Knox and Guyton McLendon, baritones; and Bob Crandall and Bill Cutts, bass, comprise an octet that will present "Cielo e Mar" and "Sailor Ride." "Strumming", and "Brown October Ale."

Will Johnson will appear on the program with something new in "Talk Like Me", a novelty number, James Holley, first tenor; Wallace Bellenger, second tenor; Hardman, baritone; and Bill Cutts, bass, will feature novelty arrangements of "The Gentleman Obviously Doesn't Believe", "Hollywood Is Alive", "Swanee Serenading Chair", and others. The quartet is directed and accompanied specially arranged by Charlie Thompson.

The Mercer Glee club, under the direction of Dr. Burt P. Richardson, is composed of fifty members on its thirty-first annual tour.

The Senior class of Florida State College for Women is sponsoring the Mercer Glee club. The Village Vamps are in charge of the sale of tickets and publicity, while the Cotillion club is in charge of the dance to be given in honor of the Glee club following the performance.

The Student Organization will take charge of housing arrangements for the Glee club boys.

AAUP Chapters Have Meeting

University, Florida State Groups Convene Here For Conference

At a joint meeting of the University of Florida and the Florida State College chapters of the American Association of University Professors held here last week-end, plans were made looking to the cooperation of the two chapters in the matter of mutual concern to the faculties of the two institutions.

The series of meetings over the week-end grew out of a movement beginning some weeks ago to coordinate the activities of the two chapters. A plan which the assembly's greatest undertaking was the adoption of a code of ethics governing the relations between faculty members and administrative officers.

The committees appointed at that time include those on tenure, retirement and pensions, the academic freedom and ethics, faculty health service, and academic freedom. Personnel all of these committees were held Saturday afternoon and evening at the Floridan hotel, preceding the general chapter meeting at a dinner at the Floridan.

At the dinner meeting, after a brief report by the Florida delegate to the national convention of the A. A. U. P. in St. Louis concerning the formation of the University of Pittsburgh on the Tallahassee campus, the committee chairmen explained the problems confronting their committees and how these are being dealt with.

Nearly all of the speakers at the dinner meeting emphasized the importance of coordinated effort, and expressed the hope that the sort of conferences here would be the beginning of a regular policy of joint meetings and of closer contacts between the two faculties.

McCown to Head Baptist School

Oliver Never President Of B. Y. P. Union

Officers of the Baptist Sunday School and the Baptist Young People's Union were elected recently.

The new officers of Sunday school are Jane McCown, president; Janice Borieo, vice-president; Virginia Ann Hamrick, young people's leader; Ruth McAnulty, social chairman; Louise Bryan, secretary; Madelyn Weeks, pianist; Lois Bowen, chorister; Mary Lou O'Haver, publicity chairman.

Officers elected to the social captain of Gilchrist hall, and her lieutenants are Mary Boaz, Sarah Davis, Charlotte Diamond, Mavis Clark, Roberta Diamond, Virginia Ann Hamrick, captain of Broward hall; her lieutenants are Marguerite Holder and Lucile Hamrick. Leon Conner Brides is captain of Bryan hall; her lieutenants are Elizabeth Hudson sacting as her lieutenants. Verdelle Brewer is captain of Reid hall, and her lieutenants are Olivia Bradley, Nellie Jones Bailey, Elizabeth Bailey, Sadie Anderson is captain of Jennie Murphree hall with Sybil Chandler, Mavis Usher, Ella Faye Pitts and Geraldine Williams as lieutenants.

The acting hostesses of the Sunday night suppers are Mary Edwards, Mavis Clark, Jean Jackson and Agnes Mercer.

Officers of B. Y. P. U. are: Bernice Oliver, president; Alma Bell Kennedy, vice-president; Mary Wright, corresponding secretary; Elizabeth Torrey, treasurer; Lucille Croaland, Bible readers' leader; Henrietta Lisk, secretary. The group captains are Jean Stiner, Jennie Murphree hall; Nellie Collins Kennedy, Mary Hudson, Bryan hall; Esther Goodwin, Broward hall; and Valerie Stubbs, Gilchrist hall.

Classical Club to Meet

The classical club will meet in Broward lounge Tuesday night at 7:30, Jillian Turlington president announced yesterday.

Discussion at this meeting will center around Greek mythology and astronomy.

Mitchell Wins Highest Place On Honor List

285 Students Are Named On Approbation For Last Semester

INCREASE OVER QUARTER IS 71

Senior Class Takes Lead With Eighty-Six Earning Rank

Two hundred and eight-five students made approbation this semester, an increase of seventy-one over the first quarter.

The senior class again leads with eighty-six students making a "B" average or better, while the freshman class places second with sixty-three and the sophomores rank third with sixty-one, with a close following by the junior class with fifty-nine, according to the list issued this week from the office of S. R. Doyle, registrar.

Mitchell Leads

Anna Marie Mitchell, a junior in the school of Arts and Science, with 16 hours of "A" and 2 hours of "B", leads College students in hours of "A" this semester. Mary Lou Bradford, junior in the school of Arts and Science, comes second in the sequence with 17 hours of "A". For third place, Julia Rebecca Ashton and Mary Elizabeth May, two freshmen in the school of Arts and Science tie with 16 hours of "A".

Six students who made 15 of 18-17-6 of "A" are Dorthea Marsh, sophomore, Nurse Medicine; Mary Ellen Bowden, senior, Melba Hutchison, senior, Mary Elizabeth Osborne, freshman, and Petrea E. Cabezas, freshman.

Complete List

The complete approbation list including eighty-six seniors and thirty mid-semester graduates is as follows: Bernice Marie Allen, Betty Lee Amber, Beverly Mae Anderson, Kathryn Eloise Andrews, Julia Rebecca Ashton, Caroline Aldine, Katherine Bacon, Dora Helen Bagnell, Frances Evelyn Baker, Evelyn Baldwin, Dorothy Edith Barclay, Elizabeth I. Barry, Elizabeth Harriett Beach, Mary Catherine Becker, Dorothy E Bellamy, Mary Elise Bennett, Josephine M. Binion, Elisabeth A. Blalock, Katherine Marie Blood, Frances Louise Boaz, Mary Lou Bradford, Janice O. Borieo, Hazel Lois Bowden, Addie Mae Bowden, Mary Elisabeth Brooks, Ella Virginia Brooks, Mary Catherine Brown, B. Brown, Mary Louise Bryan, Ella Burleson, Marie Betsy, Busselle, Ruth A. Cawthon.

Margaret V. Campbell, Charlotte Carlisle, Ruth Carlton, Janice J. Carson, Virginia G. Car,; Betty V. Chaleen, Mavis Castleberry, Mary Agnes, Lottie Ila Clark, Rotrtta Lee Clifford, Mary Glenn Cooney, Genevieve Cowart Mann, Evelyn Collins, Frances Nell Colvin, Janet Welch Cook, Pay Lou Cox, Mary Elizabeth Crawford.

Margaret V. Campbell, Charlotte Carlisle, Ruth Carlton, Janice J. B. Carson, Virginia G. Car,; Betty V. Chaleen, Mavis Castleberry, Mary Agnes, Lottie Ila Clark, Rotrtta Lee Clifford, Mary Glenn Cooney, Genevieve Cowart Mann, Evelyn Collins, Frances Nell Colvin, Janet Welch Cook, Pay Lou Cox, Mary Elizabeth Crawford.

Dr. Edward G. Conradi, president of the college, will celebrate his sixty-seventh birthday with the traditional ceremony of the classes Thursday night.

His Anniversary

Hockey Teams Play Thursday

Association's Best Will Demonstrate Sport To Localities

Sixteen Years Ago

The practice of demanding was begun sixteen years ago by a group of students who went to Dr. Conradi's home and, under own initiative and song to him. That same morning the faculty members and matrons had placed a gift of flowers on his desk. The students adopted the custom and thereafter brought flowers to him from their own gardens. Six years later the custom of having each of the classes demanding present him with a gift—the senior class with a cake, the junior class with a book, the sophomores with

Continued On Page Two

State FSCW Week To Be March 1-7

Faculty and Alumnae To Unite in Campaign

Faculty members and alumnae will unite in a state wide F. S. C. W. week March 1-7 to better acquaint the people of Florida with their State College for Women.

Alumnae clubs throughout the state have been asked to contact the local newspapers and their respective clubs and plan programs at which members of alumnae will be asked to speak. Itineraries of the faculty speakers will be planned so that every local alumnae club have been recorded.

Members of the F. S. C. W. Week committee appointed by President Conradi are: Mrs. Rowena Longmire, associate professor of English; Katherine T. Abbey, professor of History; Miss Flavia Gleason, state home demonstration agent; Miss Ruth Schonhertz, instructor in botany; Miss Mary Tracy, assistant in physical education; Miss Florence Tyron, instructor in Education; Miss Mary Tracy, coffees dietitian; Dr. Herman Kurt, professor of botany; and Mrs. R. H. Leslie, alumnae secretary.

Cities in which alumnae or faculty members will speak before civic and women's clubs as planned by the committee are: Quincy, Cross City, Gainesville, Clearwater, Sarasota, St. Petersburg, Tampa, Pensacola, Miami, Ocoa, Pompano, Key West, Kissimmee, Bartow, Lake Wales, Monticello, Live Oak, Lake City, Jacksonville, Havana, Greenville, Plant City, Palmetto, and DeLand.

Sailey, Parsons, Fletcher Go to Marianna Meeting

Dean Nathanial Moss Sailey of the School of Education with Dr. Riley Boyd Parsons, superintendent of the Leon county schools, and Miss Kathleen Fletcher, librarian at the Demonstration school, will attend the meeting of the Mid-West Florida District Teachers' association which is being held in Marianna today.

Dean Sailey will talk on "Who Are Persons Respon"ible for the Study Habits of Children in High School?" Miss Fletcher will speak on "High School Libraries."

A meeting of the executive committee will be composed of teachers from Jackson county and contiguous counties.

Moore is on Committee

Miss Virginia P. Moore of the State Home Demonstration staff of the Agricultural Extension service was recently invited by Mr. Harold Colee, president, state chamber of commerce, to serve as a member of the agricultural committe for 1936, under the chairmanship of Mrs. W. S. Jennings.

Mission Chain Visits Campus

Conradi Will Introduce Speakers Sunday At First Meeting

The opening meeting of the Tallahasee session of the Florida Chain of Missionary Assemblies will be held in the Florida State College auditorium Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The mission chain is being brought to Tallahassee by the city church of Murray, Kentucky. It will have as its speakers a number of outstanding Christian leaders from America and the leading countries of the world.

At the first meeting presided over by President Edward Conradi all the assembly speakers will be presented. The Sunday afternoon program will also include addresses on "Mercy in the Homeland." Newspaper Man and Christian Leader" and on "Youth Faces this Future" by Mrs. Induk Pak, Korean young people's worker.

Music at the first meeting will be in charge of Mr. Jesse Phillips-Robertson, who will sing psalms in the costume of a shepherd of Palestine, accompanyist himself on the musical instruments used in David's time.

Three meetings are to be held Monday morning in C. Augusta Smith chapel at 8:30 Mr. Chamargo will discuss "Social Conditions in Modern Mexico." Miss Anna White, magazine editor and former missionary to Egypt, will speak at 10:30 on the "Awakening of Modern Egypt. The Reverend C. Lehachi, Christian educator and author, who invented an alphabet for the Moros, will speak at 11:30 on the topic, "Filipino People."

Two student conferences are to be held in Sage hall. On Monday at 5 o'clock Mrs. Pak and the Rev. J. Hudson Wiley, professor of sociology at Shanghai, and on Thursday at the same hour, Dr. White and Mrs. Eugene Kollenberger, author of "Conq Crosses," will be present to meet any students who are interested.

The Rev. Emory Ross will be the speaker at convocation Tuesday, his subject to be, "Ethiopia a Challenge to the World." Mr. Ross has had twenty years experience traversing the mysterious continent.

Mrs. U. S. Dwall is city chairman of the chain of missions here in Tallahassee. Other committee heads are Miss Julia Stewart, young people, Miss Rachel Wyle, Religious Workers council.

Dr. Alice Reynes Lidell, faculty adviser and representative of Y. W. C. A. and Dr. Kathryn Abbey, representative of the student body.

Dr. Kathryn Abbey.

Beeson Goes to Meeting

Mrs. E. L. Beeson, of Groveland, president of the Florida Alumnae association, will represent Florida State College at a meeting of the southeastern district of the American Alumnae council, according to an announcement made this week by Dr. Edward Conradi, president.

Other states to be represented at this meeting which will take place at Winthrop College in Rock Hill, South Carolina, February 14-15, are Georgia, Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia.

Mission Speaker

Mrs. Induk Pak, Korean Christian, will speak next Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Missions program at the college.

Mitchell Wins Highest Place on Honor List

Continued from Page One

Davis, Mrs. Lulu G. Davis, Margaret E. Delaney, Ruth Elizabeth Dickson, Bessie Hazel Dorsey, Frances May Douglas, Mary C. Drennan.

Others Named

Herriet E. Duke, Mary Frances Eaton, Charles Walker Dunn, Virginia Early, Dorothy L. Edenfield, Elyde Mae Edwards, Mildred B. Emmelhainz, Mary M. Ensign, Sarah Myrtin Everest, Florence Evers, Reed Jerrold J. Evarr, Cora Fay, Helen Ruth Feinberg, Bettye Fellows, Evelyn Fisher, Frances Forth, Martha Harriet Foster, Heleinmary Fritsch, Ellen Murphy Frye, Maxine B. Fuqua, Phylis Gewin, Rita L. Gillespie, Ivan Douglas Gillies, Elyse Gunsenhauser, Evelyn Caroline Glazier, Anna Love Glen, Mary Lucile Gould, Harriet Wiley, professor of sociology at Shanghai, and on Thursday at the same hour, Dr. White and Mrs. Eugene Kollenberger, author of "Conq Crosses," will be present to meet any students who are interested.

The Rev. Emory Ross will be the speaker at convocation Tuesday, his subject to be, "Ethiopia a Challenge to the World." Mr. Ross has had twenty years experience traversing the mysterious continent.

Mrs. U. S. Dwall is city chairman of the chain of missions here in Tallahassee. Other committee heads are Miss Julia Stewart, young people, Miss Rachel Wyle, Religious Workers council.

Dr. Alice Reynes Lidell, faculty adviser and representative of Y. W. C. A. and Dr. Kathryn Abbey, representative of the student body.

Dr. Kathryn Abbey.

Beeson Goes to Meeting

Mrs. E. L. Beeson, of Groveland, president of the Florida Alumnae association, will represent Florida State College at a meeting of the southeastern district of the American Alumnae council, according to an announcement made this week by Dr. Edward Conradi, president.

Other states to be represented at this meeting which will take place at Winthrop College in Rock Hill, South Carolina, February 14-15, are Georgia, Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia.

Effects of College Are Seen in What Students Do While They Are at Home

Impulse to Sing Before Meals and Sign For Dates Noticed

"I've got to be in by 1ight flash," a F. S. C. student will say from force of habit to her date without realizing that she is back home again.

It really is both tragic and funny when it comes to telling about the things a student does or starts to do while she is home. The college grows on one and it is sometimes rather difficult to refrain from doing the things one has to do while in school.

One student tells of the strange feeling she has upon sitting down to the dinner table. At first she couldn't imagine why the members of her family don't sing before eating as is customary at college. Then, when she does, all meals and her sister starts the bread herself without waiting for the head of the table, she nudges her, telling her she is being impolite. Of course, her sister gives her a queer look and asks her if she has gone crazy or something.

Another girl who lives in the vicinity of a college has started a new church at home where the bell doesn't seem to ring for an hour. She says that on many mornings she has jumped out of bed upon hearing the bell and started to dress thinking she was still at school and that it was time for chasing bell.

Somehow, the worst thing of all to hear one girl tell it, is getting up and leaving a show when you haven't seen it from the start. The clock says 10:15, and you've got to be in by 10:30. It wouldn't be so bad if you hadn't lost your tickes stub, but to get outside, realize where you are, and then also realize you can't go back into the show because you've lost your stub—well, it's pretty annoying that's all.

Students Send SOS Call Baedeker

Continued from Page One

fined-to-the-mind words, and the mild punishment of having to trek to the new room of torments, going by way of the lower floor of the Administration building. That is, going half of the way by the lower floor of the Ad building. What has happened to the other end of the hall? Are they the bewildered students, subject to hallucinations, or was it the hand waved at them by the ghost-fairy? Anyway, the other end has had to be built.

Instead, there are the post office boxes that were once tucked away in the stairs. Another look assures the pupils that those boxes really do loom. Is there also the bewildered students, subject to hallucinations, or was it the hand waved at them by the ghost-fairy? Anyway, the other end has had to be built.

Instead, there are the post office boxes that were once tucked away in the stairs. Another look assures the pupils that those boxes really do loom. Is there also the stairs? Approaching the boxes they see that the hall has been built half the east end leap free, leaping at right angles to the hall's north and south and instead of east and west. Maybe it's a game?

Maybe the only possible outcome for Florida State has finally happened—the fact that they have gone crazy? By the time the new arranged post-office Girls want their mail. And there is have a situation. Or better said, don't you like to be in college in a push-pull, survival-of-the-fittest, free-for-all.

—but then, it all comes from this college life!

Another unusual happening is told by a student who was asked to go out to dinner with a friend —a mate friend, to be exact. He replied that he would be glad to dine with him, and she politely replied that she couldn't go unless some upperclassman went along too. Her friend thought she had lost her mind or that she was born thirty years too late. Such is this life of routine!

Still another girl wanted to go out on a date, but she told her date that she couldn't possibly leave the house until she had found her date card on which to sign her name. Upon telling her mother about it, the latter decided that perhaps it wouldn't be such a bad idea after all to have the girl sign up on a date card before out on a date. Date cards always tell the truth, you know!

A freshman tells of a tale of woe to tell. She was asked by a boy to go to a show on a week night. She told him that she couldn't go because she wasn't allowed to have dates on week nights.

Another girl who lives in the vicinity of a college has started a new church at home where the bell doesn't seem to ring for an hour. She says that on many mornings she has jumped out of bed upon hearing the bell and started to dress thinking she was still at school and that it was time for chasing bell.

Somehow, the worst thing of all to hear one girl tell it, is getting up and leaving a show when you haven't seen it from the start. The clock says 10:15, and you've got to be in by 10:30. It wouldn't be so bad if you hadn't lost your tickes stub, but to get outside, realize where you are, and then also realize you can't go back into the show because you've lost your stub—well, it's pretty annoying that's all.

Getting Mail Proves Great Joy to Coeds

Receiving Box is Supreme Bliss to Starving College Girl

By MARY MASSIE

One of the most popular gathering places on the campus is the college post office in the "Ad" building around 2:30 in the morning and 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Every morning, especially between classes there is the usual mad scramble of students to get to the "P. O." first.

A hy-stander might be very much amused, for mingled with the cries of "Stop shoving; you're on my foot," and "Oh, whata I unmerciful crush," and "get off to my bon," are those mournful remarks, "Shucks! After all that pushing and struggling to reach my box, I didn't even so much as get a postcard, much less a letter from Pat."

Miss Sally Nicholson, postmistress, has been here for six years, took me behind scenes where I unmerciful noticed a huge pile of packages. Ah, what a part these packages play in college life for the student. Every package is contained one of mother's best pound cakes, a box of candy, in fact the makings for many a "spread" or "feed." What a wonderful feeling to get a "call for mail" notice in your box, to be brough back to earth as Miss Nicholson explained that they received 1,000 pieces of mail twenty-five to thirty insured packages and forty-seven to thirty-five to forty ordinary packages.

I also learned that on Fridays and Saturdays the mail is the heaviest. Many newspapers arrive Friday, and more of the second class matter is distributed on the tike, such as pink blotters, samples of shoe polish, and beauty booklets, come in on the Monday afternoon delivery. Of course, actual letters are the most welcomed mail.

Five hundred and fifty student boxes and one hundred and twenty faculty boxes are provided to keep four girls busy twice a day and they have no time to loaf.

In between classes there is usually a long line at the window where students buy stamps, and where the last coveted pennies are spent for more stamps. This brings to mind the well-known saying, "Heck, I'd never be so broke if only I didn't have to be forever spending my last penny for stamps to mail no write letter, no get letter", would appear that behind five compartments in the Gilchrist mail boxes which have been most cleverly located by the side of the stairs. The girls in the middle unit of king heroic attempts to get their letters, and on the left side are trying to get down the stairs, and those on the inside have decided that an over-the-top rush will be the most satisfactory way of getting out. The fifth unit? About half of the group finally get their mail, and the rest, caring whether Caesar discovered America or was defeated at Waterloo, run over to their rooms, or the gym after Sophomore Hop and gleefully tear open the box in the infirmary or complete collapse on a nearby pile of boards and rails.

Later in the day those lucky few that have money either to buy or take out of the bank go upstairs in the "Ad" building for finishical purposes, and—the bank isn't there! Well, where the dickens is it? Banks just don't take up and run off especially when a radically-minded college girls last fifty cents in it. Somebody has cut out the secret. The bank is hiding in the History building. There is a general rush in that direction, and sure enough, there stands the bank, decorated with blackboards! And now that the money has been drawn out, where on earth did they put the book store? Seriously, it's enough to disturb the equilibrium of even a straight A student!

Commerce to Be Added This Year

New Course Offered At Practice School

A course in commercial training is to be offered at the F. S. C. W. Demonstration school, according to an announcement made this week by President Edward Conradi.

Though few plans hai not yet been formulated with regard to the prospective business course, arrangements have been made for the purchase of desks, typewriters, and other necessary equipment.

The college is also planning to purchase a motion-picture machine for use in the Demonstration school, in keeping with the theory of visual instruction which is rapidly gaining favor among educators throughout the country, according to Dr. Conradi.

At the University of Chicago the facilities for the manufacture of educational film, while both the Bureau of Research and Education and the Rockefeller Foundation maintain departments for its distribution.

It is felt that in providing the means for wide visual instruction the college will contribute much of real educational value to the courses at the Demonstration school.

Poteat Speaks This Week on Religion's Need

Continued from Page One

attitude of goodness creates happiness. He points out the fallable fact that many stories end with their own lives by committing suicide.

The third reason, and perhaps the most important of all, is that "We should be good because God is good". All creeds are based on God in his infinite goodness. Many people lead better lives because of their faith in someone. In the words of Dr. Poteat they are "satisfied with goodness."

"Why Is God Good?"

Dr. Poteat continued his thread of thought in his lecture Wednesday evening when he spoke on "Why Is God Good: Because of Love." Dr. Poteat endeavored to bring back to the word "love" its proper dignity and appreciation.

Love, he said, is more than the silly sentiments expressed by modern love singers and crooners. He described three types of love, the first of which was the love one has for his family. The end and aim of family love is protection.

Romantic love and creative love are the other types of love. Romantic love has as its end, the possession "of the object of its affection."

Creative Love

The love of God is the perfection of the object of all love. That is the aim of creative love. Dr. Poteat illustrated the love of God for the world by giving a ings each week, the cabinet has had a routine of a business meeting one week, a meeting of the various committees the following week, and a social meeting the next week. Under the direction of Anne Norris, cabinet advisor, freshman cabinet has had faculty members address it on various occasions.

Follow-up Plan Is Considered

Continued from Page One

The executive cabinet of this organization has been divided into rotating committees, which gives each member a chance to work on all committees.

brief resume of the life of Christ on this earth beginning with the text of the Scripture. "The Word was made flesh". He showed how Christ carried on even to the end of his life for the perfecting of the object of his appearance.

A special feature of each of the evening programs has been several musical selections arranged for by Miss Binion, chairman of the music committee.

In his address last night Dr. Poteat gave a brief summary of his first two talks, saying that in his first he showed the love made order out of chaos, light out of darkness, life out of matter, spirit out of mind and the eternal life out of spirit."

He challenged his listeners to look about them and note those who are living in the dynamic influence of great creative love. Then going into the main theme of his address Dr. Poteat pointed out that just as there is no law for genius there is no one law that applies to Christ alone and not to his creatures in their highest development of life—the art of building character.

Dr. Poteat went furthe: into this statement to point out that there are two types of people in the world: those who live in terms of creative values for others—the Christ-like—and those who live in terms of creative values for themselves—the selfish. He explained that "selfishness is one of the major problems of the day and politicians, economists, historians, and psychologists are dealing with its fact."

In discussing possible methods in which one can get along with absolute people in the world and still be Christians the speaker of the evening recommended an earnest endeavor on the part of the annoyed persons to be really "good." He said, "the truly rich mos. of us is we have an inverted sense of values."

In concluding his talk Dr. Poteat drew an illustration from the story of the sisters who carried out the orders of their king and fought a successful war, returning to this story he said, "Why

Birthday Will Be Celebrated Thursday

Continued from Page One

with candy, and the freshman class with flowers was initiated and it has been continued ever since.

Born in Ohio

Dr. Conradi was born in Newbreman, Ohio, on February 9, 1880. He received his B. A. and M. A. degrees at Indiana university, and his Ph. D. at Columbia university in 1904. He was married to Augusta D. E. Orelind of New Bremen, on August 1898. His two daughters, Elizabeth Lillian, and Louise Marguerite, are graduates of Florida State College.

After serving as superintendent of schools in Carlinville, Illinois, and as principal of the Normal and Industrial school of St. Petersburg, Dr. Conradi was appointed president of the Florida State College for Women in 1908. In 1915 he added to putting this college on the list of the Southern Association of Colleges. He is a member of the Y. M. C. A., the American Geography Society, and the Society for the Scientific Study of Education.

can't we save the world at the order of King Jesus?"

STATE THEATRE

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—FEBRUARY 14-15
"IF YOU COULD ONLY COOK"
with
Herbert Marshall, Leo Carillo and Jean Arthur (Transfers to Ritz Sunday and Monday, Feb. 16-17—Stale Prices)

SUNDAY AND MONDAY—FEBRUARY 16-17
Eddie Cantor and Parkyakkarkus
in
"STRIKE ME PINK"
WITH ETHEL MERMAN
(Transfers to Ritz Tues. and Wednesday, Feb. 18-19—Stale Prices)

TUESDAY—FEBRUARY 18
"PADDY O'DAY"
With Jane Withers
AND ADDED ATTRACTION

WEDNESDAY—FEBRUARY 19
"LAST OF THE PAGANS"
with
Mala and Lotus (the Two Eskimo Stars)

ADDED SPECIAL ATTRACTION
THURSDAY—FEBRUARY 20
UNCLE EZRA'S BARN DANCE FROLICS
—On the Stage—
With 25 Radio Stars
PRICES: Mat. 35c—Night after 6 P. M. 40c—(2 Shows)
—On the Screen—
"THE WIDOW OF MONTE CARLO" WITH DOLORES DEL RIO

Coming Friday and Saturday, Feb. 21-22!
GINGER ROGERS AND FRED ASTAIRE
in
"FOLLOW THE FLEET"
Transfers to Ritz Theatre Sunday and Monday, Feb. 23-24

At Our Soda Luncheonette Dept.
Saturday and Sunday Luncheon
25c AND 35c
Roast Young Western Turkey and Dressing with Cranberry Sauce
Western Tenderloin Steak, Country Style
Congealed Fruit Salad
Selection Fresh Vegetables, Hot Bran Muffins, Drinks, For Dessert:. Lemon or Coconaut Meringue Pie
Ham Salad Sandwich, Potato Chips and Giant Ice Cream Sods—Special Today 15c
Chicken Salad Sandwich, Potato Chips, Cup of Hot Chocolate with Whipped Cream 20c
Fresh Strawberry Sundae 10c
Hot Chocolate or Caramel Fudge Sundae, Nut Brittle 15c
Marshmallow Nut Sundae 12c
Large Limeade and Coney Red Hot, Potato Salad ... 10c
Bennett's Special, Home Made Apple Pie, a la Mode 10c

ANNOUNCING THE OPENING OF OUR NEW SHOE DEPARTMENT!
In order that our customers may assemble a comfortable outfit without the necessity of leaving our store we have opened a shoe department on the first floor. . . . Here you will find sport and dress shoes in all the best colors. You may match hat, shoes, and dress at one sitting.
P. W. Wilson Co.
Since 1837

The Little Store
701 West Jefferson
Phone 1259 We Deliver
$.00 COMPLEXION BRUSH for only 10¢ —AND 3 BANDS FROM PALMOLIVE SOAP
PALMOLIVE
3 for 15c
ASK US FOR DETAILS

Choose a Spring Ensemble Now
We are Showing the Latest Styles in Spring Dresses and Hats.
Our Beauty Salon Is Featuring John From New York.
Personality Hair Cuts 50c
Permanents ..... $7.50 and Wave Sets
Mae's Shop

ADAMS' STUDIO
"Photographs that Please"
121 E. College Ave. Phone 297

C. Heinlein To Talk At Meet

SC International Club to Have Joint Session With University

Dr. P. Heinlein professor of ...ical psychology will ...ess on the topic "The Minds of ...ganda" at an open meeting of ...e International Relations Club ...n February 24, according to an ...nouncement by Clarissa Knight, ...esident of that club, at a meet...g held last Monday evening.

Among other coming speakers ...e Dr. Manning J. Dauer, pro...ssor of political science and ...ecretary of the International Re...ations Club at the University of ...lorida, who will discuss the A...erican foreign policy.

A joint meeting of the Inter...ational Relations club of the Uni...ersity of Florida and Florida ...ollege for Women is to be held ...n the Tallahassee campus April ...e tentative date being set for ...pril 7.

Miss Parker leader of the dis...ussion on Japan at the last meet...g, spoke on the "Causes of Japan's political, social and econo...ic background." She gave a ...ief development from 1867 when ...apan was "virtually caught still ...n the throes of feudalism through ...ar wars she emerged as a ...owerful modern nation with the ...ost modern and commercialized ...pan of today. Japan's rapid ...evelopment of Japan from the ...ays of feudalism to industrial ...nd the military scheme of gov...rnment.

Mrs. Bennett discussed Japan's ...rangements on Chinese ter...itory. She has latter part of the ...ineteenth century when other ...owers were dividing China in...o spheres of influence. Japan's ...ontinuing aggressive pol...cy in gaining area of control ...f China. She pointed out the ...resent Japan's desire is to have ...he power of the East so she will ...ot be troubled by her increasing ...opulation and resultant need for ...aw materials and food supplies.

Mr. Bowman gave a talk on ...he economic interests of Rus...ian Territory, showing how Rus...ia is trying to gain and hold ...ower toward the west and Bul...aria toward the south in ...rder to destroy there in a long ...istance war conflict. Other ...oints were too interested in ...apan development to allow her ...o get strong territory, and in ...ddition succeeded in ousting ...ussia on Manchuria. Point...d out that Russia and China ...re much in common, she show...d that the Chinese are eager to ...aintain friendly relations with ...ussia as a potential supporter in ...ase of a war against Japan

Plans for Minstrel Get Under Way During Week

A radio program will ...e the plot for the an...ual minstrel, which will ...e held February 29. A cast ...as been according to Betty Peck ...ho is in charge of the entertain...ent.

Tryouts have been held several ...imes during the past week, but ...ost of characters will not be ...ecided until next week.

The chairmen of various com...ittees are dancer, Caroline ...outmans, Polly Flint; ...ongs, Flora Lewis; programs ...nd tickets, Mary Ann Hall; ...usiness manager Marie ...ole; publicity, Martha Makem ...nd ...

JUST LIKE PULLING RABBITS OUT OF A HAT!

...e sway we'll ...e ...ighing you into ...e suit or dress ...e like! ...ping ...t Spring ...Epprop ...difi...

We have them all! ...ioen Cong...ths and a variety of ...ght fabrics in ...awing Spring ...ades. Enjoy ...ur. They look ...ure you'll be ...pressed at the ...

The Vogue

Student Wants To Be Taught In the College

Surprising Results Might Accrue from Change In Procedure

By MINNA AGREES

Don't humor us—tell us! Don't ...efer us—tell us!

Are we entirely to blame that we have college surrounded by an impersonal, stupid complacency?

We enter college with an abun...dance of ignorance and an exceedingly doubtful desire to dis...cover whether our ideas will re...spond favorably to the raddled ...am in which we hear the college is steeped.

We find, however not radical...sm but conservatism. We beam...ingly find slow, no attacks an...masse at our ready-made philoso...phies. We are restricted by the masses. We become even more certain that we lack the ...ualities necessary for a stumble ...nawares into the presence of ...omething new and vital. Our ...hinking procedures to show us ...hat we are right. Everything ...ut, but, humbler is so fast that the ...onclusions arrived at penetrate ...ot into the perfectly smug ...inority of the whole group.

After going through all the ac...ademic requirements for a de...ree and finding ourselves ...ill in a college graduate's ...ondition, we have not ...ossibly reached the adult state. We now are easier to lead, the ...ues which we have been fed ...ave been assured for four years ...hat they are the most desirable ...ne fuller ...ompete lives. We leave colleges ...realized ever ...more securely in the same stupid ...omplacency with which we en...ered, unaware of our limitations ...which are so numerous and for...ign to reality. Blissfully ignorant ...of our shallowness, of the superfi...ciality of our get beliefs. Is it ...sadness that prompts our instruc...tors to refrain from trying to ...pierce our ignorance.

Perhaps if the 'he and I' dumb animals theory were discarded ...and a few thrusts made at our inflated egos a few of us might ...eventually recover from the shock. We might even go so far as to ...attempt to think and act as adults ...who have been trained to observe ...the conditions in which they live ...and have the intelligence to desire ...to improve them.

The result of changing the type of procedure now in effect in our ...colleges might have some ...amusing results. Certainly it could ...not make us any more ...advanced ...intellectually living than we are at ...present.

Parker to Be Chairman Of Handbook Committee; Taylor to Fill Vacancy

At a recent social meeting Dulcy Parker was elected chairman of the handbook committee which was created this year. Other members of this committee will be the president of Co-ed Government association, chairman of judiciary, the freshman adviser, co-editors and two active members appointed by the chairman and the president of the association.

According to the provisions made when this committee was added it shall study the handbooks of other colleges with view to improving the effectiveness of our own handbook, and it shall keep the handbook up to date and shall help edit the book at the coming year.

Also at this meeting Nettie Taylor was elected to be house chairman of Jennie Murchbree to fill the place left vacant when Audrey Farmer resigned.

Moore to Attend Meet

Dr. Coyle E. Moore of the se...condary department at Florida State College for Women plans to attend the meeting of district two of the board of social welfare in Quincy today.

THE SWEET SHOP
Opposite Gilchrist
Wm. Dollver
van W. Jefferson
Phone 1091
—WEEK END SPECIALS—
Barbeque Sandwich with Large Choc. Milk 20c
Large Lemonade 5c

Students Prophesy Various Changes In Florida State College of Future

All Agree Enrollment Will Continue to Grow; Do Not Coincide in Ideas of Prospective Co-education Scheme

By ELOISE ANDREWS

What is my idea of the future F. S. C. W.? Now let me see——

Assuming that air of sarcastic clairvoyance appropriate to one who seeks to peer into the mysteries veil of the future, the puzzled interrogated proceeds to describe the possible changes in store for her beloved Alma Mater.

"I foresee a much different F. S. C. W.—bigger and better in every way" said a bright-eyed junior with an airy wave of the hand that was manifestly as she glanced on her bed. "I think that the enrollment will continue to increase considerably in the number of out-of-state students. I believe that the college authorities will come to see the uselessness of the rules restricting who now being enforced, and will discard them as excess baggage. Although I do not wish to be unpatriotic, I believe that F. S. C. W. will eventually become co-educational. The contingency which it realized will shake the very foundations of the air of complacent artificiality and prepare it for a life of reality. I can't wait to see the change."

With a sigh of commiseration for the unfortunate who must live right in having been born thirty years too soon", the interviewer turned to the next victim.

"Well, I'll tell you what I believe—this time upon a demure little sophomore. "I think that the college will ever become co-educational in fact as well as theoretically. "I do, however, believe that it will continue to grow. It is already the leading girls' woman's college in the nation; but that's only the beginning."

"As the enrollment increases", continued the sophomore, "the present state institutions and buildings will become inadequate. Dormitories and other buildings will be erected, and Gilchrist will supplant Bryan Hall as the social center. An extension to the dining-hall will be built. As growth in enrollment continues in all phases of campus life, the fame of our college will spread and F. S. C. W. will become the Mecca for girls of college age from all sections of the country."

Another student, when sounded on the matter of the future of F. C. W. said smilingly, "Yes, the college will grow tremendously and experience great improvements in all lines of development. But I think that in preference to enlarging the dining-hall, cafeterias will be established on campus at which students may serve themselves. No, the benefit of age of my successors who, like me, might have a predilection for rich food, I would require all culinary establishments to offer cocoanut pie for dessert at least once a week."

A weary-footed freshman, when asked to contribute her views to the symposium, smiled wanly and said, "I think that if F. S. C. W. ever becomes really progressive it will do something about these horrid stairs. You know that poem that goes 'Boots, boots, boots'? Well, that's the way I feel about having to climb so many stairs. It seems as though I accomplish nothing all day long but going upstairs and downstairs, upstairs and downstairs. If the college would put initial elevators in all buildings for the use of students, what a boon it would be. How much energy would be conserved and how much monotony eliminated."

Another interviewee took issue with those students of psychology who hold that a great measure of bodily comfort is a deterrent to efficient study. "As conditions are now" she lamented, "I find it very difficult to study effectively because I cannot get comfortable. My bones begin to ache terribly after sitting continuously in a hard straight-backed chair, so I flop on my bed, which is my only alternative unless I resort in desperation to the floor or the table. I stretch myself out flat, with my elbow planted on the bed and my head propped on my hand. This position, though temporarily satisfactory, is very injurious to the eyes and, if long retained it becomes extremely uncomfortable. I think that the college should purchase a supply of comfortable armchairs and rent them to the students. Thus step would, I feel sure, produce a remarkable improvement in study habits."

Almost without exception, the students questioned confidently looked forward to the future F. S. C. W. as a rapidly growing and increasingly liberalistic institution. A senior succinctly embodied the general sentiment in these words:

"Certainly the college will continue to grow. Quite as certain is the fact that this growth will be accompanied by manifold changes for change is a natural and inevitable concomitant of growth. The college, like any other social or economic institution, must adapt itself to variations in public opinions and ideals if it is to be permanently successful. A wide variety of experiments in curriculum will probably be attempted; new survey courses will be offered, and students will be given greater freedom of choice in the matter of electives. Many of our present regulations which have not already become passe will become so in the future and will be discarded in keeping with the liberalistic spirit of the times. Modification to the core—that will be the keynote of the future F. S. C. W."

Episcopal League Will Gather on This Campus

The executive committee of the Episcopal Deconess Young People's Service League will hold its annual meeting this week-end at Sage Hall. Features of the gathering will be business meetings and informal discussions of projects.

Some out-of-town guests who will be present are the Reverend John Turner and the Right Reverend Frank A. Juhan, D. D., of Jacksonville and Mrs. Gladstone Rogers of Marianna. Miss Mary Stevens of Lake City, William Cushin and Stanmore Cawthon of the University of Florida, and Fred Angerhoier will also attend.

Jackson and Teague Of North Carolina U. Visit Florida State Campus

Dr. W. C. Jackson, dean of administration of the Woman's college of the University of North Carolina, Greensboro, and C. E. Teague, assistant comptroller of that college, conferred here last Friday with officials at Florida State College for Women.

The two men are making a comparative study of women's colleges of the south with interest centering on alumnae and publicity work. They were amazed they said to see the amount of publicity which Florida State College is receiving both in Florida and outside the state particularly since they found the publicity staff smaller than they expected and the facilities somewhat limited. They have also visited Georgia State College for Women, at Milledgeville, and Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C.

The visitors were guests of the college at luncheon at a special table where Dr. Edward Conrad and J. O. Kellum, president and business manager respectively, of Florida State College, sat.

To Confer With Salley

Mrs. C. F. Parvin, of Manatee president of the Florida Congress of Parents and Teachers, conferred here recently with Dr. Natalie Moss Raley, dean of the school of education at Florida State College for Women, and Mrs. J. G. Kellum, first vice president of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, regarding the institute to be held at the college the week of June 29.

The Florida Congress of Parents and Teachers is joining with the Florida Federation of Women's clubs this year in sponsoring the institute inaugurated last year by the club women. Prominent speakers will be brought here at that time to discuss topics of state-wide interest.

Hobbyists on Campus Have Varied Interests; Fall in Three Types

Students Collect China, Stamps, Vases, Toy Dogs, Cards

Something in which one takes an extravagant interest" is the way the dictionary defines "hobby."

To have an extravagant interest in almost anything is to have a decidedly pleasant view of life. Such a view is taken by students of Florida State College for many and varied are the hobbies pursued on the campus.

There are three types of hobbyists; those who have as their purpose the acquiring of knowledge, those who acquire things and those who create things.

In the first group are students who spend their spare time reading for the library, especially the browsing room, is the favorite haunt for these girls. Other knowledge - hunting hobbyists include those who spend vacations traveling for this purpose still others haunt museums and other educational exhibits. One junior has for a hobby the tracing of historical backgrounds of buildings, ronds, and homes.

The second group includes the greatest number of hobbyists, for collections are many on the campus, and vary from leaf-collecting to collecting of playing-cards by Freshmen students spend spare time collecting and trading cards. A senior is quite proud of her collection of china and pottery, which includes a large blue vase sent to her from Germany by a friend, and a miniature set of glass plates from Bavaria.

A sophomore's collection of various types of vases is enhanced by additions obtained at A Century of Progress in Chicago in 1934. These included a vase from the miniature Czechoslovakian village, and a quaint one from "Old Vienna."

Many students collect toy dogs of all sorts, some carrying out the theme of their hobby in the form of . . . moths on handkerchiefs and ornaments. Several girls collect unusual dolls.

Another favorite collection-hobby sends many girls autograph hunting.

A senior has a unique collection, begun in childhood, of miniature furniture while her roommate has an extensive and interesting library of poetry books which she has collected. The majority of students have scrap books in which are kept snap shots and souvenirs such as theater, concert, and dance programs, and newspaper clippings of events.

The third group of hobbyists, those who create things, is also well represented on this campus. Probably the most currently popular hobby in this group is that of knitting. Proudly the finished product of their many moments, a new sweater or suit, is displayed by those who knit.

One sophomore has a hobby of constructing model ships, a replica of one for a girl 'to follow. Her display includes a model of the ship "Old Ironsides" and one of the "Hispaniola."

Sarah's worked by a junior in odd moments, add charm to her room.

Several students have as their hobby the fascinating art of photography, some of whom even develops and prints her own pictures.

Participate in Meeting

Dean Ella Scoble Opperman, of the school of music with Miss Etta Robertson and Miss Auruta Murphy, also of the school of music at Florida State College, attended the meeting of the Florida State Music Teachers association last week in Deland. Dean Opperman spoke on the convention and a quartet from the association which she attended in Philadelphia during the Christmas holidays. Miss Robertson assisted at the voice forum.

Open Forums Are Feature of Week

Poteat Talks Informally To Students Here

Informal discussions and open forums featuring Dr. E. M. Poteat have been an important phase of religious emphasis week now being conducted on this campus.

The first informal discussion, which was held Wednesday morning in Bryan parlor, featured such student questions as "Are not all acts essentially selfish in and somewhere such as desire of one sort or another" "What does a personal God have to be" "What is the real meaning of religion"

Quite serving as hostesses at this meeting were Frances Lewis, Margaret Rauleson, and Margaret Sloan.

Gladys Oliver presided at the open forum held in the Augusta Conrad theater Wednesday afternoon. At this time Dr. Poteat answered questions of a more specific nature ren problems relating to the various church creeds and conflicts therein.

Another informal discussion or forum was held yesterday morning in Jennie Murphree parlor with Dr. Poteat presiding. Lucy Cee Linn and members of the Y W. C. A. cabinet acted as hostesses. The discussion this morning took place in Gilchrist parlor, while the open forum for the afternoon will be held at 4:30 in the Augusta Conrad theater.

This evening Dr. Poteat will continue his series of talks going still further into his theme of "building an adequate life in a modern world in terms of Jesus Christ."

There will be no services of any kind Saturday. The last meeting of the week will be a church service held Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock in the college auditorium Mary Jeanne McKay in charge of arrangements has asked that every student notice the time and make it a point to be present.

The Florida Flambeau

Member Associated Collegiate Press

EDITORIAL STAFF

RUTH PERSONS ..... Editor
ALTHEA SMITH ..... Associate Editor
GERTRUDE KUHN ..... Managing Editor
HAZEL BOWMAN ..... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Features, Martha Baker; Sports, Elaine Kepner; Society, Margaret Lafferty; Exchanges, Virginia Early; Literary Editor, Eleanor Williams; Copy Editor, Arline Lockhart; Outside News Editor, Grace Mary Webster; Art Editor Caroline Adams.

REPORTERS-Caroline Adams, Minna Agress, Elsie Andres, Ella Brooks, Jean Brown, Marguerite Brown, Marian Conn, Margie Creel, Sarah Beth Davis, Margaret Duncan, Sylvia Felga Evelyn Fisher, Mary J. Gallemmit, Ethel Grandield, Patricia Hamilton Francis, Hartley, Barbara Holmes, Milo Hotard, Eleanor Jenkins, Mary Lynn Mussie, Dorothy Osmstead, Clotilde O'Rourke, Nan O'Shaughnessee, Mary F Phillips, Jane Quinn, Hilford Sampson, Sarah Sealey, Pearle Shepard, Elizabeth H Turner, Jewel Turner.

BUSINESS STAFF

MARY PATTERSON ..... Business Manager
Assistant Advertising Managers, Janet Cook, Grace Mary Webster and Clotilde O'Rourke
CEIL LEVY ..... Circulation Manager
Assistant Business Manager Lillie McGuire, Assistant Circulation Mgr Mabel Caroline Adams

Entered as second class mail matter January 20, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

On This Occasion We Wish—

On the evening occasion we wish for Dr. Conrad a "Happy Birthday", and many more of them. The annual custom of serenading and giving gifts can only be an outward sign of the true feeling that we have underneath for the president of our college, who is noted for his untiring services and devotion. For twenty-six years he has given freely of his time, talents, and most important of all, himself.

At all times he has shown himself interested in the students. Many is the student who has been delighted when he passed her on campus and stopped for friendly chat. So deep is our feeling in fact, that we are at a loss for words in which to express ourselves when we contemplate the celebration next Thursday of our president's sixty-seventh birthday.

What Price College Rules?

Intense liberalization of social privileges is shown by the new procedure for signing out for weekends at Guinness College.

The old system requiring permission to be signed with the social directors two days in advance of a contemplated trip and a week's leave obtained from the hostess to be presented personally to most students proved unnecessary. When the matter was investigated it was found that this ruling had its origin in a request from the authorities at Carnegie Tech after consideration by experts who had decided there was no further need of it as far as they were concerned.

Now each student must file only the address of the place she is to stay and permission is granted. Any parent or guardian at this specific address or permission to stay wherever she chooses.

While this change directly affects only a probable two or three hundred of the students it has significance in the way it affects everyone. For such elimination of petty requirements marks the taking of an additional step toward a government which recognizes the maturity of college students. This in the light of this and other recent changes, we can contemplate with some degree of assurance a college in which more and more responsibility is placed upon the individual student and less and less strictness laid upon the keeping of insignificant rules made in years gone by the justification of which was long ago forgotten or unsold.

In such a society it seems probable that students would no longer be required to form off their lights at a certain fixed time or to secure their own rooms except in case of emergency" from bed right flash at 10:30 p.m. until 5 o'clock the following morning. The individual student would be credited with enough sense to regulate her own sleeping habits. Possibly in time even 7:45 to 10 o'clock and 10:30 to 7 a. m. the following morning would be designated as "quiet hours," during which time students would be free to be in any room they chose and do whatever they chose as long as reasonable quiet was maintained for the benefit of those students who wished to study or sleep. Good citizenship and consideration would be stressed rather than wholesale obedience to set rules.

It also seems likely that students would no longer be required to sign up to walk to town after 6:30, to sit on campus with a date, to go horseback riding, or to go hiking. An opportunity would be given the students to sign up if they desired so that officials would have an idea where they were if they were wanted at any time. But many people question the value of requiring students to sign up for this reason. For instance, if a student were signed up for "town" she would probably be just as hard to find as if she were sitting in some friend's room in another dormitory. However, if the signing up were made optional it would, then, be a privilege—not a burden.

These along with other much - needed changes will tend to change the whole attitude of the student toward rules —an attitude which at present leaves much to be desired. As it is now, signing up is practically a joke in many circles on campus, although a few still adhere to the principle that as long as it's a rule they're going to obey it.

The light flash and "stay-in-your-room" regulations are hard to enforce. Other regulations are required to be signed up as difficult. Under these conditions, then, it is rather to much to hope that students will have much respect for government. There is an old saying that a chain is only as strong as its weakest link. Much of our college life is what a government is only as strong as its weakest law.

Students May Enter Contest

Eddie Cantor's essay contest on the subject "How Can America Stay Out of War" offers the opportunity for some enterprising person to get a four year scholarship and complete maintenance at any American college or university.

The letters, which are to be addressed to Eddie Cantor, Station WABC, New York City, must be in not later than February 22.

Judges of this contest are four noted educators, namely, President Robert M. Hutchins, University of Chicago; President Henry Noble MacCracken, Vassar college; President Ray Lyman Wilbur, Leland Stanford University and, President Frederick Bertand Robinson, College of the City of New York.

Such a contest as this set us inviting perhaps to the seniors in Florida State might stimulate some freshmen to get out her pen and paper and scratch off 500 words or more.

Does the World Owe Us a Living?

The world owes us a living. Or, at least, many of us who become college graduates, seem to think so. When that living is not forthcoming, we argue defiantly and bitterly, that after all, the four best years of our lives should not be unvaluated products. Why don't we sell them to the business world?

European countries with credit has a duty to society, because it is society that has given college students advantages it does not give to others. American students insist that the world owes them a living because they are educated. They realize that it is society who has given them that education.

The American attitude is illogical to say the least, and not apt to be conducive to base adjustments to present conditions. How much freedom we might reason from an already over-burdened society if we would adopt a "debtor," not a "creditor" attitude toward living.

At the eleventh annual NSFA Congress a resolution was passed to the effect that The National Student Mirror, monthly magazine of the organization, be abolished within four months unless 1000 additional subscribers are enrolled. In order to fill the quota, each member college should send in at least five.

Here, then, is an opportunity for students to show an active interest in the program of the National Students' Federation of America.

Magazine Thumbings

PROGRESS TOWARD COLLECTIVISM

By Albert Jay Nock
American Mercury

Mr. Nock's views are progressing toward collectivism because we have always believed in a government of positive intervention rather than negative intervention.

Positive intervention differs from negative intervention in that government intervenes with affairs to encourage more and more conflict with each other. Nock sees the government's only ultimatum is to act collectively in the interests of all, regardless of how much this procedure may hurt several individual groups.

PROGRESS AND CATASTROPHE

By Stanley Casson
Harpers, February.

We glibly assume we are always moving forward, says the writer, but on the contrary history reveals periods of retrogression have followed progress's two greatest contributions to civilization.

Three periods occurred: first, when the barbarians swept from the North to destroy Mycenae, Greece, the Hittite Empire, and the Mediterranean world; and when the Roman empire declined. In the latter case civilization did not crash. It simply flickered out.

In the world today the writer sees symptoms of a decline that are strangely analagous to those accompanying the fall of the Roman empire. Precision of speech and architecture and music have completely vanished, he says, in all countries except Britain. Automatic, rather than creative, simple European countries. He implores us to avoid hasty conclusions and a world war and save what we can while there is time."

WE MILITARIZE

By Oswald Garrison Villard
Nation, February.

The former editor of the Nation presents a lot of figures disproving President Roosevelt's remark in one of his speeches, that he was partly resisting the arms race because we had reached a level unjustifiable in due regard for safety.

Our combined army, navy, and air forces, not to mention our numerous reserve units, are the greatest known in our peacetime history, says Villard. Furthermore, the costs are skyrocketing these forces — estimated at a million dollars — for the fiscal year history '2 the growth: destruction of private wealth to academic purposes and the conception of state responsibility for higher education, transferring education thus to secular hands; '3- The immense extension of scientific knowledge especially in branches of science '4- the cultivation of social studies which has suggested a new outlet for idealistic action outside the church; and '5- the introduction into student personnel of Catholic and Jewish faiths, which has broken the Protestant monopoly.

* * *

DID you know that—the $50 soldier bonus bonds which will be issued will bear no interest; Andrew Jackson's portrait

* * *

AT THE London Naval conference—something has been done! This week it signed the announcement that Great Britain, the United States, France and Italy have completed a short treaty by which they agree not to build any more cruisers over 8,000 tons in size or 1 mount; guns heavier than 8-1 inches in caliber for the next five or years. It also provides for agreements upon submarines, which are not to exceed 2,000 tons displacement, except for all other types of vessels except battleships. A new limit slightly smaller than the old, was set for aircraft carriers and submarines also.

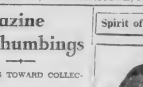
Japan and Germany will be invited to join although Nazi leaders have made it clear that they will not sign any treaty in which they have had no hand in negotiation.

* * *

WITH a fast-growing military organization to back Nazi-ism, Germany has declared officially

Continued on page six

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT
University Editorials



FEAR THE IGNORANT

Frightened at the alleged radical teaching of teachers and professors in schools and colleges the religious groups have brought pressure to bear upon legislators until laws have been passed in many states barring such professors in state institutions from the right of allegiance to the constitution and to agree not to teach communism, also so called "un-American doctrines.

This stinging out of teachers and classifying them as "radicals" and has a rather startling implication. Do these people mean to imply that teachers have a responsibility to mould citizens upon the thinking of children, that they are to be agents, preachers, friends, and the servants of public authorities who may have some influence upon the minds of his students; it seems out of place to say that the teacher is not responsible for the beliefs of his pupils. No other profession has been attacked in this manner It is, it is rather unfair to say, the intelligence of present day youth. There be few professors because of this threat that they will accept his beliefs or opinions. Let him forget that he is a member of many Most college students' ideas reflect either their own indifferent reasoning, or misguided and ideas unconsciously absorbed from parents and associates.

The whole scheme of oaths binding teachers to do and say this or that is based upon a false assumption. Well-informed people are less likely to rage at some fanatastic idea than are people who do not know the facts. If teachers are forbidden to teach as distinguished from advocate such and

Spirit of the Week . . . . . By Adams

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

By GRACE MARY WEBSTER

* * *

DID you know that—the $50 soldier bonus bonds which will be issued will bear no interest; Andrew Jackson's portrait

* * *

AT THE London Naval conference—something has been done! This week it signed the announcement that Great Britain, the United States, France and Italy have completed a short treaty by which they agree not to build any more cruisers over 8,000 tons in size or 1 mount; guns heavier than 8-1 inches in caliber for the next five or years. It also provides for agreements upon submarines, which are not to exceed 2,000 tons displacement, except for all other types of vessels except battleships. A new limit slightly smaller than the old, was set for aircraft carriers and submarines also.

Japan and Germany will be invited to join although Nazi leaders have made it clear that they will not sign any treaty in which they have had no hand in negotiation.

* * *

WITH a fast-growing military organization to back Nazi-ism, Germany has declared officially

Continued on page six

Pro and Con

Opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily expressions of the editorial policy of the paper. They are merely those of the columnist and in each is all welcomed to submit letters and constructive criticisms. Letters should be signed marked "Signature" and mailed in the mail-box.

GRADES OR A CULTURAL BACKGROUND?

I have attended John Hopkins University, the University of Florida and Rollins College and no where have I found grades stressed so much as at Florida State College. Education is a growth in independence of thinking, and how can this growth be measured by grades until she reaches college. The H. Q and scholarship fraternities of our state are kept in strictest confidence by the students. The parents are not told the results, the students fearing whether their child is in the right place for the best division of the class. If their daughter does not happen to be in the division of her class in a small school, they should not expect her to be an A or B student in a larger college.

When the freshmen enters Florida State College, she does not have this homogeneous grouping, but finds herself in the midst with students who have had an A, B, C, of the genius ability on down in students with an E, F, G, ability enabled them to complete high school. Under these circumstances the slower pupils are deprived an inferiority complex.

There has been a significant increase in the scores on intelligence tests in freshmen entering the colleges in the last six years. If there has been any gain in scholarship, it is not reflected in the reason for this is that educational standards have been lowered.

Some students who are given A's and B's do not put out more real effort and have more interest in independent thinking than some who have made the grade of a C. Most instructors have patterns for the distribution of grades and follow this pattern in the grading of the intellectual level of the class. These patterns are not made by percentages, some are results of mental attitudes. Professors become educated to teaching by the methods of intelligence. When the level changes, he is not aware of it. Very little effort is made in applying the A grade. Before graduation she is willing to make an average grade with little output of energy.

If the students of this college were matched with students and had, it would do away with the inferiority complex and dissatisfaction that now exists. Competent teachers vary greatly in their estimates of a student's work. Some are known as "easy graders" others as "strict marking". Students' grades are based largely on the subjective attitude of each instructor.

The student is so intent on doing the things that bring her the most sight of the more important values and forgets all else. If she spends a fair amount of time in study and makes an average grade she may spend her extra time in improving her cultural background. A small percentage of the students at this college do not fall in the subjective concerns and receive their A's and B's without much effort. If these were not as important as class standing, surely the college would not plan for a year in study but would be the best artists and speakers appear at Florida State College.

We may not have time to reread Virgil's Aeneid, but we could read it with more enthusiasm as we heard Dr. Hester's lectures on it, or as the stories of Virgil and Homer. Very few of us in this college can have the advantage of a liberal education, because of this fact, they should attend each musical concert as no one is truly educated who has not an appreciation for the best in literature, drama, music, and choral music.

The college girls are away from the religious influence of their homes, it is easy to let the material side of life crowd out their spiritual growth. It does not require much money to give college student could attend at least the church service on Sunday. The best artists and lectures have some well founded religious principles. Many students may all time are those who have had definite religious worship and who have placed their dependence in the hand of the Almighty Father.

In a recent address by Dr. J. H. McCain, president of Agnes Scott College I heard him make these remarks. "When students have graduated from Agnes Scott College, we tell them they may sit down on the front steps of the college and forget every fact learned during their college days, but still have the essentials of a good education that makes a conception of our students as well

Collegiate Come-Back

Some of the Spectator hop remarked afterwards was a question of so. Whether the pointers from wrestlers wrestlers got profit dancers. Anyway, a time of year that it does so that the soph hop would be named, like the mid-years a at the Colorado School of the "Flunk and Feed."

* * *

Denver University, according the Auburn Plainsman, has one of the beauty standard The for of the year book has ed the traditional beauty says he, "Cowed by such attractive." Honesty may pay times, but we'd certainly like that candid man when the attractive" coeds finish cam his scalp.

* * *

You push the accelerator
The car goes round and round
Ooh ah, ooh, ah
And it gides you here
—Minnesota Daily

* * *

From the Spotlight, we some more of those collegiate wers found on freshman paragraphs:

Lilliput was a follower of

I went forth like a knight
The Round Table in search of Holy Quail.

A deist is one who believes God and does what he pleases.

* * *

We see by the Bobwhite that doctor at the University of has been invited to King Alfonso of Spain on ing out sleeping sickness Dr. Dunha. But the that man could do for pus!

* * *

Professor Watson Kirkof Wheatley, under one of gues, says that Basque is the ent language in the world will probably be a surprise lasknee freshman composition that Basque is unwritable unwritable position

* * *

The Campus Chat of girls' school as an ing yearning. Need we ther"

* * *

From an exchange—"I only six or seven years a million are strange to Ask! More people than called to the office.

* * *

Punch quoth a sophomore says. "Women are inspiration a glass. Before gree, we'd have to know in the glass.

* * *

He kissed Helen Hell stood over
He left Helen,
Helen sued

—Hold 'em Jail

* * *

The latest blurb strike Paris is the Movie. The Junior Cosmopolitan that the Paramount fee of 25 cents which ing a free snack. Dorothy Lee, ushers pass plates and Preach for the as we had that opportunity her the dimple from plenty of its diners.

* * *

An astronomy professor counts the Blue Stocking a astronomical made the observation ance of the stars, but fect upon the tide as the United Press remarked the dance floor.

* * *

The Junior Collegian that the college man is the "Joe College" who prefers to work, and too poor to We might add that sometimes he is also too pay court.

* * *

If your grades are so you will find a job easily. Ad in the Chicago Daily N. T. analists. This grad probably explains the scarcity of the idle rich.

* * *

THE COLLEGE CO
Under a spreading college
A blacksmith, the college
The coed a naughty flirt
Looking to beat the
And the muscles in face
Do shape a dreadful

* * *

Her hair is kinked and celled" set
With color like the
Her brow is set with west
From worship of a Pan.
She frises the campus
ing eye.
She's dying for a man.
—Yellow Jacket

* * *

as our faculty, because teach each other almost as faculty teaches them, do not accept students lower third or more of

Continued on page six

The Social Week

Two Sororities Entertain In Honor Of New Initiates

Honoring their newly initiated members two sororities will entertain tomorrow night with initiation banquets.

The Alpha Gamma Delta sorority will entertain following the initiation of fourteen members with a banquet in the private dining room at the Dutch Kitchen at 6 o'clock.

The color scheme of red, buff, and green will be carried out in the floral decorations, consisting of red roses, the menus which will be in the form of green leaves, and the mints which will be in the shape of rosebuds.

The new initiates will be presented with boxes of stationery engraved with the sorority crest as a memento of this occasion.

Honor guests at this time will be Dorothy Williams, Clara Stewart, Marguerite Pet, Shirley Stevens, Virginia Whiting, Emily Whiting, Barbara Swanstrom, Mary Mellon, Bess Kerner, Mary Ann Hart, Mirdelle Moore, Julia Hodgens, Julia Harrison, and Madge Collier.

Members of the sorority who will attend are Betsy Anderson, Frances Bishop, Amber Turner, Victoria Curtis, Doris Isted, Catherine McCarthy, Nellie Lamar, Janie Gallemore, Nadia Grainger, Marcia Scott, Wesa Wilkins, Dorothy Bryan, Mary Nell Pinchard, Van O'Shaughnessy, Helen Goodwin, Mary Ward Peterson, Rosalie McDonald, and Louise Hill.

Alpha Chi Omega

The members of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority will entertain the new members with a banquet at the Floridan hotel.

Scarlet and olive are the sorority colors and will be used in decorating for this affair. Menu and programs will also carry out this color scheme.

During the evening a program of short talks and appropriate toasts will be given.

The honor guests will be presented with corsages as souvenirs of the occasion.

The new initiates are Betty Hatch, Ruth Riddle, Dorothy Crews, Kathryn Kyle, Anita Leonard, and Frances Williams.

Members of the sorority who will attend this affair are Yvette Brent, Juanita Buchanan, Betty Brooks, Beverly Brown, Elizabeth Carter, Helen Cate, Cora Chesire, Roberta Diamond, Mary Catherine Drennan, Eleanor Flint, Patricia Foster, Lurline Goodman, Margaret Graham, Rosemary Hamly, Millie Holden, Mary Kay Harriette Lawrence, Dorothy Leach.

Ann Linger, Sarah Mikell, Margaret Murray, Lillian Nohrite, Mildred Seekins, Sarah Sealey, Marie Sherlock, Valera Stubbs, Betty Wash, and Martha Wellington.

Mission Chain Will Be Tendered Banquet Monday at Ruge

Honoring the members of the Florida Chain of Missionary Assemblies there will be a Young People's banquet in Ruge hall Monday night at 6:30 o'clock which college students representing the various churches on campus will be hostesses.

A Valentine motif will be carried out in the decoration of lighted red candles and roses which will be effectively arranged about the banquet table.

At this time Mrs. Eugene Kellenberger will speak and Dr. Jesse Phillips-Robertson will sing.

The general committee in charge of arrangements includes Miss Julia Gehan, Episcopalian student secretary; Miss Mary Lee Davis, Methodist student secretary; and Miss Ruth Curtin, Baptist student secretary.

Those in charge of the various churches are: Miriam Terrell, Presbyterian; Miss Mary Schorb, Methodist; Elsie Davis, Baptist; and Miss Annie Sensabaugh, Jewish.

Dr. Julia Heinlein Will Head AAUW During Year

At the monthly business meeting of the Tallahassee branch of the American Association of University Women held at the home of Dr. Anna Liddell recently the following officers for this year were elected:

President, Dr. Julia Heinlein; vice-president, Mrs. Coyle Moore; second vice-president, Dr. Anna Liddell; recording secretary, Miss Sarah Herndon; corresponding secretary, Dr. Annie Pepper; treasurer, Mrs. Dorothy Breen; directors, Dr. Ruth Conner and Miss Julia Gehan.

Following the business meeting a social hour took place.

Pro and Con

Continued from page four

This college stands for aristocracy of mind and character and we offer manifold stimuli for intellectual growth.

The college is preparing the youth of today to be the citizens of tomorrow. The college graduate goes back to her community, or to some other community, to make a better member of society. Whether she will make a better teacher, a better business woman, a better wife and mother will depend not alone on knowledge she has obtained from books, but on the amount of culture she has assimilated and which dominates her trend of thought and mode of action.

Signed:
—Genevieve C. Kenly.

SPRING SHOES!

Dress Shoes and Oxfords

in WHITE BROWN AND WHITE and NAVY BLUE

PASTEL SANDELS

Priced at $2.95 and up

THE FRENCH SHOP

New Spring and Summer Shoes!

Sandals Hi and Low Heels. All Colors.

New Shades of HOSE

69c, 79c, $1.00

BAGS

$1.00

$1.95

Ask About the KEDETTES for Sport!

$1.25

QUALITY SHOE SHOP

SOCIAL COMMITTEE PLANS SERIES OF COFFEES FOR FRESHMEN AND FACULTY

In order to create a closer friendship and a truer understanding between the members of the faculty and the freshman class, the social committee is sponsoring a series of informal "get-togethers" in the form of after-dinner coffees, with Jo Binnon and Miriam Frye in charge of the arrangements.

The actual preparations for these coffees, of which there will be six in all, are made by freshmen committees appointed by the social committee.

The faculty members who are invited each time are chosen by the freshmen who are to be the honor guests.

These teas are held alternately in Jennie Murphree and Reynolds parlors. The second in this series will be held some night next week in Reynolds.

Coffee in Jennie Murphree

A coffee was given for the girls living on the 100 and alphabet floors of Jennie Murphree last Thursday night in the parlors of that dormitory.

Cut spring flowers were attractively arranged in vases throughout the parlor to emphasize the informalness of the occasion.

During the evening coffee, cakes, and mints were served to

Pledges of Theta U. To Be Hostesses At Coffee

The pledges of the Theta Upsilon sorority are entertaining pledges of the other sororities on campus with an after-dinner coffee tonight at 8 o'clock in the sorority house on West Jefferson street.

In keeping with the holiday spirit decorations will consist of red crepe paper streamers with valentines strung on them. Red flowers will be used throughout the house.

Refreshments will also emphasize the valentine theme.

Hostesses at this time will be Dorothy Stewart, Lorraine Gyles, Polly Hunt, Jean Hodges, Doris Geiger, Olivia Sorenson, Eunice Moe, Nancy Rogers, Annie Leigh Rollins, Marie Wesley, and Bernice Allen.

Personal Mention

Miss Jessica Jane Mackey was recently elected secretary protem of the Tallahassee branch of the American Guild of Organist.

Miss Ruth Garcia will visit friends and relatives in Daytona Beach this week-end.

Mrs. Clara Hayden is entertaining members of Beta Phi Alpha with a buffet supper at her home on Pensacola Avenue Sunday night.

Miss Mary Lopes will spend the week-end in Daytona Beach.

Mr and Mrs. J. T. Mackey will visit their daughter Jessica Jane this week-end.

Helen Stewart left Thursday to spend the week-end with her parents in Mt. Dora.

Leona Stimmel is spending the week-end in Mt. Pleasant.

Fenton Woodward has gone to Quincy for the week-end.

Anna Glen Margaret Glen, and Catherine Owens are visitors in Chipley this week-end.

Grace Brewer and Lois Hughes were pledged to the Theta Upsilon sorority this week.

Mary Frances Pemberton has gone to Clermont to spend the week-end with her parents.

Floy Lenert is visiting relatives in Jacksonville this week-end.

Esther Hay is a visitor in Inverness this week-end.

Mary Frank Price is spending the week-end with her parents in Cottondale.

Betty Skinner and Irene Peck were pledged to the Delta Delta Delta sorority last night.

The activities and pledges of the Delta Zeta sorority plans to go to camp this week-end.

Miss Betsy Anderson spent last week-end in Tampa.

Visitors at the Alpha Gamma Delta house this week-end are Mrs. Truman Hoyt, Miss Margraet McGraw, and Miss Sara Maxwell, all of Jacksonville, and Miss Ameretta Bullard, Dorothy Oliver, and Betty Blue of Lake Wales.

Among the prominent people visiting the campus this week was Mr. Kirby Page of New York city, who came here to see Dr. Edwin McNeil Poteat.

Mr. Page besides being assistant editor of the Christian Century magazine is the author of many books and the former editor of The World Tomorrow, weekly publication. He has also been identified with the international peace movement for many years.

Seniors to Sign In Arcade for Dates

Caroline Oliver, senior class president, asks that all seniors desiring dates with Seminole dixie boys for dinner Friday night in the college dining room sign a notice on the dining room arcade bulletin board which will be posted in the near future.

All seniors and dates are invited to the dance to be given in the gymnasium following the performance.

Zeta Tau Alphas Will Be Entertained At Party Tonight

Honoring members and pledges of the sorority and their dates Mary Frank Price and Dorothy Borden will entertain tonight at the Zeta Tau Alpha house on College avenue with a Valentine kid party.

During the evening games and skits will be enjoyed and informal dancing will follow.

Refreshments appropriate for this season will be served.

The members and pledges who have been invited to attend are Mary Elizabeth Simpson, Evelyn Stump, Clara Langlo, Frances Lingle, Virginia Shultz, Esther Hay, Mary Frances Pemberton, Elizabeth Greene, Floy Lenert, Betty Pelford, Katie Britt, Elsie Cork, Betty Leach, Mary Lou Torode, Betty Wadsworth, Ella Fay Price, Marjorie Stump, and Lois Long.

Noises Break Tranquility At Florida State

Discussions, Lectures And Laboratories Suffer From Changes

"I wandered lonely as a cloud
That floats on high o'er vales and hills,
When all at once—" Bang!

Thus for the past ten days class discussions, lectures, and even laboratories have been rudely interrupted by the banging, clattering, and hammering in the work of moving various offices from the Administration building.

A psychology professor carefully explaining the difference between schizomosic and paranoidschizoidmosis, makes intent observations of the reactions and responses of students to the stimuli of the repeated pounding on the ceiling of the room below. A sleepy sophomore starts at the vibration, several students involuntarily blink, while a fearful senior, suspicious of the professor's observations, squirms nervously in her chair.

In the chemistry laboratory, a meek but ambitious freshman is experimenting. With one eye on the manual and the other on the apparatus, she cautiously pours three and one half drops of acid onto the metal, just as the sound of crashing glass in a nearby room reaches her ears. The amateur chemist sinks to her chair in relief when she realizes it is not her experiment which crashed.

Thirty juniors are taking notes in a sociology class. "Such speculation enables each person to enjoy"—bang!—"more and better goods and services than he himself could produce." Buss, 1A new bell is being tried.) "Further—it eliminates"—More pounding—"duplication of effort, and increases"—(A second trial of the bell)—"professional and mental efficiency within a narrow field."

Another ring. This time, to the joy of the exasperated professor as well as the students, it is the end of the class period. The students "pass out" into the hall, only to find the air laden with the smell of fresh paint.

Beta Phi Alphas Will Have Party Tonight

Friends and members of Beta Phi Alpha will be entertained with a Valentine party tonight at the chapter house. Appropriate games have been planned, and the house will be decorated in keeping with the Valentine season Cocoa, sandwiches, and heart hearts will be served for refreshments

Hostesses will be Ruth Garcia, Jessica Jane Mackey, Genevieve Curley, Jane Meyer, Lu Mooty, Jean Willis, Lenore Thorn, Ellen McLeod, Carl Bridgman, Virginia Dike, and Margie Creel.

Home Economists Attend Conference in Mississippi

Miss Flavia Gleason, state home demonstration agent, and three other members of the home demonstration office at Florida State College for Women returned Monday morning from Jackson, Miss., where they attended two meetings. Other members of the party were: Miss Anna Mae Sikes, extension nutritionist; Miss Ruby McDavid, northwest Florida district agent; and Miss Mary E. Creen, east Florida district agent.

They went to the Southern Agricultural Workers conference February 8-7, where Miss Gleason was elected chairman of the home economics extension section, and to the Agricultural Extension Workers Conference February 3-4.

RELIGIOUS GROUPS ENTERTAIN POTEAT WITH SEVERAL FUNCTIONS THIS WEEK

Among the many social events given this week in honor of Dr Edwin McNeill Poteat, of Raleigh North Carolina, leader of Religious Emphasis week, was a tea given by the Baptist students and a waffle supper by the Episcopal Student Vestry.

The waffle supper was given in Ruge hall Tuesday night with Elizabeth Kirby-Smith as general chairman of the arrangements, assisted by Miss Julia Gehan, student Episcopal secretary.

Following the supper Dr Poteat rendered several selections, including "Roses Are Mavis" and "I Love You Truly" for the guests.

Members of the student Vestry present at the supper included: Mary Wing, Mary Bennett, Mildred Seekins, Betty Bow, Betty Harrison, Frances Lewis, Catherine Kay, Frances Hill, Peter Foster, Polly Flint, Mary Hamilton McClinnan, Louise Gehan, Louise Lingo, Betty Cetlund, Katherine Baker, Sallie Randolf, Helen Cate, Betty White, Elizabeth Kirby-Smith, and Elsie Davis.

Baptist Students

The Baptist students entertained for Dr. Poteat with an informal tea yesterday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock in the home of Mrs. J. W Sealey.

The house was informally decorated for the occasion with seasonal flowers attractively arranged in vases.

During the afternoon hot tea, coffee, sandwiches, and mints were served to the guests as they visited with the honor guests, Dr. Poteat.

Murphy and Winslow To Play at Joint Recital

Miss Augusta Murphy, violinist, and Miss Mary Esther Winslow, pianist, will give a recital devoted to sonatas for the violin and piano on Tuesday evening at 8:15 o'clock in the Augusta Conradi theater.

Everyone is invited to attend the program which is as follows:

Sonata in A major Mozart
Allegro molto
Theme and variations

Sonata, F major, Opus 24 Beethoven

Allegro
Adagio
Scherzo
Rondo

Sonata, G major, Opus 78 Brahms

Vivace ma non troppo
Adagio
Allegro molto moderato

© 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tob. Co.

CAMEL'S MONEY-BACK OFFER STILL OPEN TO COLLEGE SMOKERS!

Read Our Invitation to You

Smoke 10 fragrant Camels. If you don't find them the mildest, tastiest cigarettes you ever smoked, return the package with the rest of the cigarettes in it to us at any time within a month from this date, and we will refund your full purchase price, plus postage.

(Signed) R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY
WINSTON-SALEM, NORTH CAROLINA

...We who make Camels and know Camel's quality are confident you'll like them! Camels are made from COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

Camels must please you, or they cost you Nothing!

COLLEGE CALENDAR

February 16-February 22

Saturday

8:00 p.m. Alpha Gamma Delta banquet—Dutch Kitchen.
8 p.m. Alpha Chi Omega banquet—Floridan Hotel.

Sunday

11:00 a.m. Morning service—Religious Emphasis Week—Dr. Poteat—auditorium.
4:00 p.m. Chain of Missionary Assemblies — speakers, Gonzalo R. Camago, Mexico, Miss Inclusk Park, Alaska—auditorium. Concert—Jessie Phillips Robertson.
5:30 p.m. Orchestra rehearsal.
7:15 p.m. Glee club rehearsal.
8:00 p.m. Sorority meetings.

Tuesday

11:30 a.m. Convocation — Florida Chain of Missionary Assemblies—speaker, Dr. Emory Rose, Ethiopia.
5:30 p.m. Orchestra rehearsal.
7:30 p.m. Methodist club—Bernard lounge.
8:15 p.m. Faculty recital—Miss Murphy and Miss Winslow —Augusta Conradi theater.

Wednesday

7:15 p.m. Glee club rehearsal.
8:15 p.m. Lecture—Harrison M. Lakin, "The Ethiopian Crisis"—Augusta Conradi theater.

Thursday

11:30 a.m. Florida State Field Hockey team.
5:30 p.m. Orchestra rehearsal.
7:30 p.m. Dr. Conradi's Burkay Party.

Friday

10:00 a.m. Newman club business meeting, Augusta Conradi Little Theatre.
8:15 p.m. Glee Club—auditorium.
9:?? p.m. Senior dance honoring Mercer Cluster.

Saturday

2:00 p.m. Methodist club Business meeting, Augusta Conradi Little Theatre.
8:00 p.m. Newman club banquet, Dutch Kitchen.
8:00 p.m. Methodist club dance, college gymnasium.

Students Hear "Mary Martin"

Business Opportunities Discussed By Home Economist

"Industry is heaven's gift to the college student, but the college student is not heaven's gift to industry," Miss Mary Hale Martin, home economist for Libby, McNeil and Libby, told students in the Home Economics department at Florida State College for Women, Tuesday night.

For a college graduate who is seeking her first position, her advice is to leave mother and the relatives at home, and be independent, never appear in an office wearing a black dress and silver fox fur, and omit spike heels and glaring red finger nail polish.

"This is very definitely an age of specialists. Decide what you can do and go after it," she further stated. "There are many different interesting positions which are open to a girl with an 'A' who are open to a girl with an A, let, creative mind. She can do institutional work, and there is now an opening in writing and in radio for girls with a journalistic background. She can enter the advertising of such companies as Lubers, Swift & Co., or Armour. Commercial art also is a great aid to a Home Economist student, both in planning colorful artistic menus and sketching labels for the cans of canned goods.

"There's no substitute for experience, Miss Martin told the students, warning them not to expect to set the world on fire the minute they graduate. She spent her first year after graduation washing dishes and peeling potatoes, she said, but got a chance of a better job when one of the girls in her department got married.

"For this sort of work one must have a tranquil mind," she added. "For the home economist never knows when she might have to serve a chicken supper for 150 on short notice or pose with movie stars. She must always be smiling and pleasant, and no matter how she feels, never grumble."

Miss Martin is in charge of the testing kitchen for Libby & Libby, she writes advertising copy and visits the different branches for the company traveling from the east to the west coast and from Canada to the gulf. Recipes given out by her company are tested on guests gathered at random at a kitchen and dining room for this purpose in Chicago.

Miss Mary Hale Martin" is a name given to every woman who holds this position by Libby, McNeil and Libby.

She was complimented last night with a reception at the college home management house by students in the Home Economics department and yesterday afternoon with a tea given by the student dietitians at the dietitians' cot-

We Have Decided To Stay In Tallahassee!

Business is Going On As Usual.

New Spring Merchandise Arriving Daily!

New Spring
DRESSES
$5.95 to $16.50

New Spring
FOOTWEAR
$2.50 to $5.00

New Spring
BLOUSES
$1.00 to $1.95

Come in, we will be glad to see you!

GELBERG'S
"Style Plus Economy"

Methodists Holds State-wide Meet

Gainesville is Host At Student Conference

Headed by Miss Winnie Lee Davis, Methodist student secretary, and Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, head of the history department at Florida State College for Women, approximately forty Methodist students at Florida State College attended the fourth annual Methodist statewide student conference held in Gainesville last week-end.

Distinguished speakers on the program included Dr. H. D. Bollinger, of Chicago, head of the student work of the Methodist church, and Dr. James W. Workman of Fayetteville, Arkansas, well known Methodist figure in the Methodist church. Dr. Abbey led an interested group in discussing the topic "Building a Christian Philosophy of Life."

Other features of the program schedule were open forums and election of officers. Hudson Burrough of the University of Florida was elected state president of the conference. Dora Heen Baggott of Florida State College was chosen vice-president. Other officers are Bessie Faye Myers of Stetson University, secretary, and Grace Hall of Southern College, treasurer.

Among the Florida State college students on the trip were, Edna Earl Hamilton, Jacksonville; Baldwin, St. Petersburg; Anna Marie Mitchell, Port Lauderdale; Elizabeth Hamilton, Jacksonville; Elizabeth Flake, Martha Flake, Florida Christian College; Frances Adams, Gainesville; Essie Hogan, Hawthorne, Nancy Stewart, Lakeland; Thomas Bell, Miami; Marie Herold, Miccoukee; Lula Acker, Virginia Hamilton, Miss Baldwin, St. Petersburg; Anna Marie Mitchell, Port Lauderdale; Elizabeth Flake, Martha Flake, Florida Christian College; Frances Adams, Gainesville; Essie Hogan, Hawthorne, Nancy Stewart, Lakeland; Thomas Bell, Miami; Marie Herold, Miccoukee; Lula Acker, Virginia Hamilton, Christina Turner, Miami.

Among the students, Ocala; Betty Ann Graham, Tampa; Carl Brisman, Leah Andrews, Pensacola; Marion Perrell, Lacoochee, Margaret Delaney, Homestead; Florence Jones, Mary Claire Kimball, Tallahassee; Rae Reddick, Cedar Keys; Dorothy Dobbs, Jay; Mae Green, Sarasota; Annie Jane McFee, Chipley; Edna Shuler, De-Funiak Springs; Opal Langley-Taft; Madeline Duncan, Summerfield; Opal Walker, Baker; Jane Powell, Wimauma; Audrey Parmer and Mildred Smith of Jacksonville.

Religion Exhibit's Theme

"Developing a Persons Philosophy" is the theme of the book display in the foyer of the library this week.

Carrying out this theme, and in keeping with Religious Emphasis week, the display includes H. J. Russell's One Thing I Know, J. Arthur Wharton's Famous Men of the Old Testament, and Morton Bryan Thomson's Science and Religion.

Headlines and Footnotes

Continued from page four

declared that she still owes her former colonies (now mandates by the terms of the Versailles treaty) The Versailles treaty be hanged, she says! Propoganda to encourage this view is being disseminated throughout Germany. And notice was sent to the British government that the return of these colonies was one of the first conditions for Germany's return to the League of Nations.

* * *

AN INTERESTING bit of talk which took place during the Senate munitions inquiry—Senator Bones remarked that all we got out of the World war was a burden of debt. And Mr. Morgan answered. "But we saved our souls and saved civilization." (!!). Later in the inquiry Mr. Morgan remarked:

"If you destroy the leisure class you destroy civilization. Civilizations have died before but they always come back." Asked later how he would define the leisure class Mr. Morgan included all who "can afford to hire r maid."

Immediately the press seized upon this as an odd definition and went around getting definitions of the leisure class from everybody. Even Mrs. Roosevelt made the front page with her definition, which was,

"The leisure class is one in which individuals have sufficient economic security and sufficient leisure to find opportunity for a variety of satisfactions in life." (That lets us out.)

* * *

CALIFORNIA recently passed an interesting law. It was a law which closes the Arizona border of California to all vagrants. All hitchhikers are to be removed from automobiles and all railriders from trains. Arizona is not so enthusiastic about the law, for it dumps all these undesirable transients into her state.

Last winter Florida reported a total of 160,000 "hoboes and undesirables" who entered Florida.

tage. She was the guest of Miss Anna May Tracy, college dietitian, during her stay here

Students' Weekend Schedule Places Show At Top Of List

Library, Sorority House, And Bed for Weary Next in Line

"Where shall we go?"

The inevitable question of Friday afternoon is pondered over by every student, who sighs with relief at the thought of no more classes until Monday.

"To the show," says the girl with thirty cents burning a hole in her pocket.

"To the library," says the girl who's been waiting a month for the continued story which left the hero stranded on a desert island.

"To the house," says the girl with an eye for any male who arrives in town.

"To bed," says the weary-eyed girl who's been studying in the closet all week.

These are the first choices of those not engrossed in studies. The show usually comes first as the most frequented place of the week-end.

Some girls, those whose checks have arrived from home recently, go Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, and even take in the wild west and serial which automatically becomes a habit until the hero and heroine clinch in the final chapter.

For those who really enjoy reading, the library is always an attraction. To sit and browse through one's favorite magazines and books is keen delight. The atmosphere of quiet and calm is especially soothing to tired brains wishing to understand without deep concentration. The browsing room is a joy for those who like to curl up in a comfortable chair while reading.

The sorority houses always afford some sort of amusement and entertainment even if it is nothing more than idle chatter with a group of girls. At the house one can always scare up a fourth for bridge. Of course, one sometimes must use persuasion or even bribery, but those who are addicted to bridge will stop at nothing. So the game continues until last light flash.

Dancing is a sport for those who still care to exercise their limbs after a week of step-climbing, and the living room of the house usually boasts at least two or three dancing couples. And then, there is always the hope of having a date which keeps some girls glued to a chair eagerly watching the door.

One's own little bed is always a favorite on Friday afternoon and Saturday and Sunday mornings. To lie in bed about half-awake and to think when the rising bell rings, "Ah, no classes today." is a satisfaction known only to those that drag out of bed at 7:25 when they'd like to sleep until ten. Napping in the afternoon in the nest best thing to sleeping late, and some girls manage to indulge in both.

During the week the smoking-room is a favorite place to meet one's friends. After each meal one can always find enough friends to get up a discussion or an argument on the events of the day. The smoking-room is also helpful when a girl wants to put off that studying she knows she must do. And as a means of relaxing for ten minutes it is indispensable to some girls.

Along about 10 o'clock on week nights the girls who feel they can't subsist 'til morning without additional nourishment swarm to the Spuck and Span, the Sweet Shop, and the Three Torches. For all but half an hour the girls 'carry there munching on hamburgers and keeping time to the music. They think they need a little frivolity before the last hour of concentrated effort.

Many girls have favorite haunts where they entirely individual and which they don't wish to share with a crowd. Some enjoy long walks alone or with one or two select companions. Sometimes they repeat the same trip, but more often they prefer to explore new places. Some girls make a habit of eating out every Friday or Saturday night and always go where they can get the juciest steak.

Then there are the girls who enjoy going to camp as often as possible, and even in the dead of winter look forward to an icy haunt.

Day Students to Hold Open Forum on Chapel Attendance Decision

Members of the Day Students' organization at regular Thursday morning meeting, decided to offer their services in locating lodgings for members of the Mercer Glee club which will appear in a concert here soon.

It was also decided to have one more open forum, the date of which is to be announced later, for the purpose of deciding for or against compulsory convocation for day students. There will be student discussion at this meeting, with girls from the organization giving talks.

Dorothy Purse was elected the day student representative to Y. W. C. A. after the resignation of Jean Gillis, former representative.

Daisy Parker, publicity chairman, urged all members of the organization to watch the bulletin board on the lower floor of the Administration building for announcements relative to day student activities.

Cotterill Talks To Kiwanis Club

Comparison of Political Parties is Given

Professor R. S. Cotterill, in an address before the Kiwanis club of Tallahassee Tuesday centered his talk round a comparison between the Democratic and the Republican parties.

Speaking on "Political Parties", Professor Cotterill said, "There is very little difference between the two parties and either could very easily run on the other's platform." "That" he continued, "is one reason why I probably always will remain a Democrat."

The reason the parties are similar, he said, is that they are naturally out to get votes and will take up any new issue likely to be a little more attractive to the voters.

The best thing about the democratic party is that it doesn't stand for anything and anyone can belong to it and still have a clear conscience," he added.

In all English-speaking countries, the professor said, there are but two major parties. In other countries there are numerous parties, and they continuously cause internal strife. The reason there are not more than two major parties in America is that the two big groups continuously swallow up the minor parties.

The great advantage of a two-party government is that it brings about harmony in the government. "This harmony is not always perfect," he said, "but one of the two major parties always has a majority in congress with which plunge in the lake.

And there are always the girls who like variety, never state a preference, and are willing to accompany another to her favorite

Former Student to Fill Newly-created Position According to F. Gleason

Miss Clarine Belcher of Largo, former student and a graduate of Florida State College, has been appointed to the newly created position of specialist in clothing and textiles in the state Home Demonstration department Miss Flavia Gleason, state Home Demonstration agent, has announced.

Miss Belcher, who was graduated from here in 1924, has served in several capacities in her chosen field. After graduation she taught in Arcadia, Florida, but upon receiving her master's degree here in 1926 she became an instructor in the Home Economics department of the Louisiana Polytechnic institute at Ruston, La. More recently she has served as one of the Hillsborough county Home Demonstration agents coming to Tallahassee from Plant City.

Miss Belcher's work in the department here will include assisting farm women and girls in the selection, renovation, and proper care of clothing and household textiles.

AAUW Sponsors Benefit

The Tallahassee branch of the American Association of University Women will sponsor a benefit bridge tea Saturday at 3:30 at the Women's club building.

Reservations are to be made with Mrs. Coyle Moore.

to run the government. Therefore there are never several small factions to be bothered with."

"All in all," he concluded his address, "parties will change often but government goes on forever, and that is what we want."

Professor Cotterill was introduced to the Kiwanians by J. A. Sherer of the standing program committee.

Among the guests at the regular luncheon was E. McNeil Po-

Andrews Leaves Monday For St. Louis to Attend Association Convention

Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, Director of Personnel, will leave Tallahassee, Monday, February 17, to attend a meeting of the American College of Personnel Association in St. Louis.

Dr. Andrews, who is also a member of the nominating committee of that association will lead the discussion of papers on personnel counciling.

The American College of Personnel Association consists of 42 divisions of National Vocational Guidance and National Association of Deans of Women. The meeting is to be called prior to the meeting of the superintendents.

Papers to be used by Dr Andrews for her discussion are Use of Adjustment, Invention in Counseling, The New Student Talks Back, College Is a Guidance Experience, Guidance Factors In College Out-of-Class, Importance Of Religious Factors in Student Councelling.

Dean Titus Tells Group Of Nursing Field Today

Dean Shirley Titus, of the School of Nursing at Vanderbilt university, was a visitor on the campus yesterday. She had dinner in the college dining room last night with Dr Edward Conklin, Dean Margaret Sanders, Dr. Sarah White, and student nurses here.

After dinner Dean Titus spoke to the prospective nurses on "Nursing, An Old Name For A New Profession." She brought out the point that a greater opportunity for women chemists exists in the nursing field today than at any time in history.

leaf of Raleigh, N. C. who is leading religious emphasis week at Florida State.

Mercer Glee Club Will Present "Concert and Comedy" Tonight in the Auditorium

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Artist Series Will Bring Vienna Choir Boys To the Campus Next Week

VOLUME XXIII. Tallahassee, Florida, February 21, 1936 NUMBER NINETEEN

Vienna Choir Boys to Give Concert Here

Group is Outgrowth Of Five Hundred Year Old Tradition

MUSICAL CAREER, EDUCATION GIVEN

Singers Live in Imperial German Castle Of Wilhelminenberg

The Vienna Choir Boys will arrive in Tallahassee to present their program here at the college auditorium Friday afternoon, February 28. They will come straight from a two months' tour of the Southland, including Texas and San Francisco.

The Vienna Choir Boys carry on a tradition which has lasted hundred years ago. Every Sunday morning they sing the Mass in the chapel of the historic Wilhelminenberg Castle, where they have lived ever since they made up a part of the household of the Hapsburgs.

Traditional Choir

It was Emperor Maximilian I who is said ordered that a boys' choir be formed to sing the Mass in his chapel. The choir at Wilhelminenberg is used as a school and the Bishop of Vienna became its choirmaster. No longer supported by the state, it is still in existence today, and is known as the "Wiener Saengerknaben" throughout Europe, and as the Vienna Choir Boys in America.

The institution of the Vienna Choir Boys has always been kept only a musical career for its members, but an education as well. As the educational system progressed, corresponding changes were made in the curriculum of the boy singers.

During the 18th century they were taken into the care of the orphanages. After the abolition of monasties, they began to appear in the chorus of operas, and finally were organized in the Lower Austrian Conservatory at the expense of the Imperial Court.

The boys are given their education in return for their services in the Court chapel. When their voices change, they are kept on for three years and provided with future employment.

Five hundred years ago when the members of the "Vienna Choir Boys were accustomed to visit the house of a Feudal lord, they traveled along the Austrian highways in donkey carts. Today they do over America and Europe in a motorbus. They are accompanied by Josef Schmidt, Rudolph Proctor, Gruber, and Nurse Mitchell, who watches over their food and clothing.

The boys play basketball, and

Continued on page two

Library Display Honors Birthday

Washington Anniversary Is Commemorated

In commemoration of the two hundred and fourth birthday anniversary of George Washington, the library is displaying this week portraits and books of Washington and pictures of colonial houses which exist today.

In the central display are pictures of "Martha Washington Before and There", including the William Penn House," "Where the Hamilton House", and the "John Alden House"; and articles of dress and other colonial houses by Marie G. Kimball, Edith Kingsley, Mary Elizabeth Beale, and Mary Bird Kopp.

The second exhibit shows four portraits of George Washington, with the titles, "First in war, First in peace, and First in the hearts of his countrymen". There is a miniature flag, attached to a Federal type of the Betsy Ross house. Picture of the flag. Other pictures are the "Gardens of Mt. Vernon planned by President Washington," and of Wakefield, birthplace of Washington.

Books on display include "George Washington — Jean Antoine Houdon — Sculptor", which is a history of the sculpture; "Honor to George Washington"; "Finding Out About George Washington"; which was published under the direction of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission; and books on Washington, by Paul R. Reynolds, Wade Mitchell, Woodrow Wilson, Henry Byrd Turner, and Paul Hunter Ford.

Two Type of College Girls Are Found To Be Ever-Present Here

Earlies and Lates Always With Us According To Campusite

There are two types of girls that always seem to be underfoot on campus. They might be called the Early and Late girl. The Early is the girl who is always there. She is the starer-up twenty minutes before time for classes to begin; the Late is the one who dashes breathlessly in five minutes after the bell rings. One morning last week five minutes before the break—fast bell to see if I could beat the first Early. But she was already there, calmly awaiting the bell.

"Do you come early to save places for breakfast?" I asked.

"Oh, no," she answered comfortably. "I have a reserved place that like to be here in plenty of time."

"Oh," I murmured, glancing at my watch, which showed four minutes till the bell.

"I have a paper due a month from today, and I want to get back and write it," she explained.

I popped meekly into another seat when the Earlies who came sauntering down were all made. Without exception, their hair was neatly combed, their shoes brushed, and their clothes put on straight. Their faces were the same expression of those who can not be hurried. The Early usually gets up at ten minutes of seven in the morning, and then proceeds to get dressed before breakfast with no haste.

She arrives at all concerts and lectures fifteen minutes before the hour and waits. A monument to patience, for three-quarters of an hour after the performance begins she is invariably the first in line at the reserve book room. She answers all letters the same day she receives them. She is the kind of girl who buys her Christmas presents at Thanksgiving and begins to address her envelopes at Christmas.

Just two minutes before the final gong sounds in the dining-

Continued on page two

Public Schools Undergo Study

Briggs is Asked to Name Defects, To Serve On Committee

Dr. David H. Briggs, professor in the School of Education of the Florida State College for Women has recently accepted an invitation to serve on a committee of Florida Education association to be appointed to investigate the entire program of studies. This authorized committee will have as its function the formulating of and encouraging of curriculum adjustments in the various fields of public schools, including the high schools.

The association intends that the committee consist of one representative each of the seven Florida Education association districts, one from the State Department of Public Instruction, one from the State Teachers college, and the Florida State College for Women, two representatives from the private institutions of higher learning in the state, and one representative of vocational education in elementary education.

Dr. Briggs was asked to suggest what he thought were the five outstanding defects in the schools with respect to the program of studies in the public schools of Florida, his opinion on what he thought a committee such as this would do to help to correct each of these defects, assuming that the committee is fortunate enough to secure money to be expended or contracted as the circumstances demanded, and the kind of arrangement enough to be able to undertake a piece of activity covering a period of several years.

Acceptance of membership indicated that he was willing to make curriculum adjustment a matter of his regular duties, and assume the duties of the position which he has been named, and that he will put forth every effort possible to attend meetings of the committee. The committee will be called in connection with the annual meeting of the Florida Education association and the annual spring conference whose is usually held in Gainesville.

This year Dr. D. S. Campbell, Dr. Briggs, and Dr. Ruth Kelly, Field Studies at George Peabody College for Teachers, will be professor in charge of the

Continued on page two

M. Lakin Talks About Ethiopia

Lecturer Says Crisis Is The Changing of Old Into the Modern

"The Ethiopian crisis is the changing of the old Ethiopia into the modern nation that has always caused trouble," was said by the Honorable Harrison M. Lakin of the United States diplomatic service and consular service in his lecture on "The Ethiopian Crisis" Wednesday night.

Mr. Lakin gave a brief background for the Ethiopian situation saying, "The present Italian-Ethiopian war began in 1868, for then the first stone was laid for the present crisis. That was also the beginning of Ethiopia's modern history." In 1868 English troops entered Abyssinia to liberate a few of the four consuls she had sent to Ethiopia and who had never returned. The troops attacked the fortress of Magdala and there began their research onto the history because through the event English economic interests were developed. Negotiations have been going on ever since and the interests growing through treaties.

"Every French, English, German, and Italian boy who goes to Africa has been made with the misunderstanding that the native tribes can move anywhere in their own land. The real problem in Ethiopia are of the greatest importance, the difference between civilization and barbarism; there is no hostility for the English or French, but the native tribes fight each other just as tribes do. Just such a superficial act, a native tribe in Ethiopia fighting at a watering-place with a native tribe in another territory caused the present war."

Ethiopia is unequipped to speak fully in a modern way of modern affairs according to Mr. Lakin. However, she can say that she is back the country is by the use of modern education. The empire is made up of highlands and deserts. The mountains are so high and steep and the deserts so hot and dry that the Italians are unable to cross either successfully. There is no place where an Italian bomb might cripple the life of the country, the report stated. The only moves Italy has made have been concentrated in the area around Aduwa and moving an army into the desert to the south-east of Ethiopia. "There have really been no military victories and no battles yet," Ethiopia is said to fight well, and as long as she doesn't win, Ethiopia has not lost."

Italy has wanted colonies in Africa ever since the unification of nation, and her pretext at colonization was to relieve her desire for expansion at the expense of other nations, according to Mr. Lakin. Ethiopia's wealth is unquestioned and is not worthy of Mussolini's attention, Mr. Lakin said. He said, "It will not be of any value as a world market for at least fifty years, for Ethiopia is too far removed from world markets and Italy does not have the means to develop it. I think the proper understanding of Mussolini as an aggressor would be to give him sanctions, but sanctions will not only 20 out of every 1000 women in Europe have an opportunity to be educated; that means another 72 out of every 100 children never reach maturity," Mr. Lakin said. Moving to our ideals they have very little chance of becoming citizens. The other hours of the morning, the Rev. Emory Ross spoke on Ethiopia, and Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, Dr. D. discussed problems and implications of the Ethiopian crisis.

At an informal gathering in Broward club room Monday afternoon Mrs. Pak, who is a graduate of Wesleyan College, and Rev. S. Sunday Wang, professor of Shanghai University in China, discussed the religious, social, and political characteristics, and brought about today by the young people in the Orient.

Mrs. Pak contracted academic education in Korea today and fifteen years ago, when she came to were the schools, and the mothers taught their daughters cooking, sewing, and etiquette. Since the advent of Christianity, schools have been established, but entrance is difficult and the term is long. During the two months vacation the girls return to their villages to learn the Korean style of cooking and write. They also help in the rural churchwork. Mrs. Pak says, "Christianity has made

Continued on page two

Skipper to Represent Local Kappa Delta Pi's

Kappa Delta Pi education honorary, met Tuesday night and chose Mrs. Dora Skipper, critic teacher and instructor in education, as a delegate to the biennial convention of Kappa Delta Pi to be held at Louis next week.

Mrs. Skipper who is president of the local chapter, is leaving today for the meeting.

GOVERNOR ISSUES OFFICIAL "F. S. C. W. WEEK" PROCLAMATION

Governor David Sholtz this week issued a proclamation officially recognizing the second annual " F. S. C. W. Week" of Florida State College for Women March 1-7, inclusive, according to word received by "all the civic and service clubs and all other public spirited organizations in the state interested in promoting and supporting the cause of higher learning" to cooperate with the special week is to acquaint people of Florida more fully with the Florida State College, a 30-year-old institution with an enrollment of approximately 1,700 students from 66 other states, Cuba and the Canal Zone. The week will be observed in approximately 75 Florida cities where special programs will be carried out by faculty and alumnae speakers.

The governor's proclamation follows:

"WHEREAS, the Florida State College for Women will observe its second annual Florida State College for Women Week March 1-7, with the cooperation of the Alumnae Association, college faculty, student body and interested Florida citizens, and

"WHEREAS these observances have benefitted the College and our people by bringing them closer together in a proper understanding and appreciation of the Florida State College for Women, and

"WHEREAS, a large number of Florida's young women are now attending and will attend the Florida State College for Women, and

"WHEREAS, the Florida State College for Women should have the support of all of the citizens of the State, "NOW, THEREFORE, I, David Sholtz, Governor of Florida, do hereby declare the week of March 1-7 as Florida State College for Women Week and ask that it be observed by all the civic and service clubs, and all other public spirited organizations in the state interested in promoting and supporting institutions of higher learning; and in aiding the college in acquainting Floridians with the Florida State College for Women."

Students Hear Mission Chain

Speakers Bring Valuable Information About Distant Lands

Beginning Sunday afternoon and extending through Tuesday, the second session of the Florida Chain of Missionary Assemblies brought to the campus many speakers from all corners of the globe, who presented to their audiences the social, political, and economic of their respective missions.

The chain of assemblies was inaugurated Sunday afternoon, in the college auditorium, with the presentation of the missionaries representing Congo, the Philippines, China, Mexico, Egypt, and Italian Ethiopia by Miss B. Louise Woodford. Miss Jesse Phillips Robertson, dressed in a native costume, contributed to the program with songs of primitive Africa, accompanied in Biblical style, and interpersed was added by the use of silent instruments. After Prof. G. Bess Camargo had given a verbal picture of Mexico, "Why Missionaries making". Mrs. Indiuk Pak addressed the assembly on "Youth Faces the Future."

Monday morning the session was continued with a discussion by individual speakers in the Augusta Conradi theatre. Dr. Ross talks classes in history, economics, and political science were invited to attend and hear the speakers. Dr. Ross said, "It will not be of any value as a world market for at least fifty years, for Ethiopia is too far removed from world markets and Italy does not have the means to develop it. I think the proper understanding of Mussolini as an aggressor would be to give him sanctions, but sanctions will not only 20 out of every 1000 women in Europe have an opportunity to be educated; that means another 72 out of every 100 children never reach maturity," Mr. Lakin said. Moving to our ideals they have very little chance of becoming citizens. The other hours of the morning, the Rev. Emory Ross spoke on Ethiopia, and Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, Dr. D., discussed problems and implications of the Ethiopian crisis.

At an informal gathering in Broward club room Monday afternoon Mrs. Pak, who is a graduate of Wesleyan College, and Rev. S. Sunday Wang, professor of Shanghai University in China, discussed the religious, social, and political characteristics, and brought about today by the young people in the Orient.

Mrs. Pak contracted academic education in Korea today and fifteen years ago, when she came to were the schools, and the mothers taught their daughters cooking, sewing, and etiquette. Since the advent of Christianity, schools have been established, but entrance is difficult and the term is long. During the two months vacation the girls return to their villages to learn the Korean style of cooking and write. They also help in the rural churchwork. Mrs. Pak says, "Christianity has made

Continued on page two

Upstairs And Downstairs Is Artists' Life

Half Period Spent Twixt Art Room, Bookstore For Utensils

By CAROLINE ADAMS

The last bell rings for class, and a student leaves the studio from the top floor of the Administration building and last minute thoughts of the materials she was supposed to have brought with her to class.

She clears the second floor only to be thwarted heading down the last flight toward the ground floor. A frantic sprint down the corridor starts the procedure of running the mail-seekers, she at last through the door to the bookstore.

Breathless she says she wants . . . . What kind of paper was that anyhow? The lady in the bookstore names a list of papers that other girls have just rushed in to buy. The girl remembers, after hearing the name on the list. The name thought of is the one she wants.

She stands restive holding her pennies in her hand, hoping that the lady will give out not excepted the amount she has brought with her. She counts over her face, for once she has the correct change. Maybe she'll would mean a breathless trip up the stairs to see if some other girl has left some money on the stairs and enters the class room just as the instructor completes the last lecture of the materials needed for the day. She has not even yet begun to work.

Then she remembers that she is supposed to have a drawing board. This is the time she was charcoal, but today is anything would. It is a pencil.

She tip-toes guiltily up to the teacher to ask if she may go downstairs to get the drawing. Art room, stairs, another grab, and she is off to the second floor where she starts looking for a seat.

Ah! Here is one. Oh! pardon me, I didn't know you were sitting here last time."

"Anyone going up to sit here?"

No answer, she sits.

Seated now, she thinks that as they had to move the bookstore, and the art rooms too, it looks like they would have moved them next door to each other. Just think of all the steps it would save the art majors. But then — who thinks of poor sprinting art majors?

Vespers Plans Complete

Regular vesper services will be held in the Augusta Conradi theater Sunday night at 7:15. Dora Skipper will lead the party and the group will sing some of the songs that Dr. Edwin McNeill Poteat published when he was here last week.

Juniors Will Present FSCW "RadioRevue"

"Micro-Mania" to Replace Annual Minstrels As Stars Perform

BETTY PECK WILL HEAD COMMITTEES

Broadcast Skits Featuring FSCW Artists to Have Modern Background

Blues singers, clever dancers, original comedians, and a host other Florida State talent, will go before the "mike" Saturday, February 29, for the annual Junior Minstrels will be presented in the form of a radio revenue under the intriguing title of "Micro-Mania."

The revue which will consist of a number of "broadcasts" will feature the famed entertaining stars of the campus as well as many discovered talents. The various broadcasts will include dancing numbers, original skits, tiles, songs and dances as well as other forms of entertainment that are being devised by the directors.

Cast Chosen

Participants in the entertainment have been chosen as follows: Mary Jane Michel, Allee Wahl, Jo Binion, Charlotte Paisang, Sara Townsend, Betty Jane Hamilton, Juanette Browne, Nell St. John, Mary Jeanne McKay, Martha Ann Hamilton, Helen Michael Gourie, Anita Wilder, Lillian Parrish, Dorothy Caldwell, Mickey Conn, Edna Yacobian, Frances Porth, Julia Shirley Pasteur, Dorothy Shackelford, Freddie Frank, Viola Brooks, Betty Kasbeer, Nelwyn Brown, Mary Carson, Virginia Peyton, Eva Fernandez, Mary Alexander Evans, Nancy Adamson, Janet Lockwood, Lee Hill, Becky Ashton, Robert Diamond, Sara Tillman, Anne Bayley, Elizabeth Ayals, Genie Gillan, Mary Rogers, and Lois Hughes.

Betty Peck, as general chairman of the entertainment, is heading a list of committees which include: Publicity, Marie Hutchinson, Jean Gillies, Evelyn Anderson, Betty Wynn, Jane Mauk, and Beth Dawn publicity, Martha Makemson, chairman, Evelyn Hall, Hazel Bowman, Margaret Gunagle, Elodee Moeller; stage management, Mattie Ward, chairman, Betty Skinner, Margaret Maxwell, Jane and Barbara Hubbard; ushers and programs, Ruth Sadler and Irene Bell; Mary Ann Hall, in charge of the costuming of the characters, Caroline Oliver will direct the dances and Frances Strickland

Continued on page two

Students Make Plans for Week

Campus Will Participate In Many Activities

During the week of March 1-7, while faculty members and alumnae are carrying out plans to acquaint the people of Florida with their State College for Women, students are to participate in activities that will acquaint them with their part in F. S. C. W. week.

Katherine Blood has announced that the plans for carrying activities during the week are being worked out by the Presidents' council.

The schedule for the week will begin on Monday, March 1, with a Vesper service to be held in Chidole music by the college Glee Club and a talk by Katherine Blood. A convocation on Tuesday morning, Dean Olivia N. Dersheimer will be the speaker and a physical education program will be given.

The program for Thursday will include talks by students, singing of college songs, and a faculty dinner in the college dining hall. At annual Fulgurations night on Friday the prize will be presented to the winner of the college song and cheer contest announced now.

F. S. C. W. week will close on Saturday, March 7, with a carnival and a street dance under the direction of Mary Etta Thatcher. Exhibits and displays by Marybelle Moore showing the achievements, home economics, art, botany, puppetry and stage craft, Y. W. C. A. club, and the college library.

"Call for Phillip Morris" Echoes Thru Dining Hall

Midget Owner of Famous Radio Voice Visits College Campus

By MARY MASSIE

There have been many occasions when one has unexpectedly stared at in the dining room at Florida State College, but never before has any one man been so surrounded, so openly observed, and aroused so much attention as was Johnny Marsh, Jr., Peggy VanDyke's pet and idol from Thursday. But Johnny, as might be guessed from his father's uniform, with the name Phillip Morris written on his red jacket pocket, is none other than the possessor of that voice so often heard over the radio echoing "Call for Phillip Morris."

During the course of the meal while everybody was still buzzing about this personage, the chimes sounded and Marjorie Graham announced that Johnny, the Phillip Morris boy, was our guest. He was boosted on top of the table by the clock from where he gave us his "Call for Phillip Morris" several times in his long drawn out, characteristic way familiar to radio fans. Margaret then took him down stairs, (and what a pair they did make walking together) where he repeated his performance again for the benefit of those in the lower dining room.

Johnny remarked that he thought the campus of Florida State College for Women was very beautiful, but that the girls were very, very beautiful, and asked the writer to please not forget the very's."

Less than four feet tall, this little midget has been with the Phillip Morris company for two years and is now making a tour of Florida. He spent Thursday in Tallahassee on his way to the Mardi Gras in New Orleans.

Catholic Club Members Meet

FSCW Organization Host To Representatives Of Southern Province

The conference of the southeast province of college Catholic clubs will convene tonight in Broward lounge with registration, according to Mary Wallace Kirby, general chairman of the meeting.

The program for the week-end has been arranged to include business meetings and several social occasions.

The first business meeting will be held in the Augusta Conradi theater tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. At this time reports of the member clubs and the various committee appointments made. Maria Lasater, of the college, the province chairman, will preside over the business session.

The Rev. J. J. McGowan of Perry will be the speaker at the afternoon session which will start at 2 o'clock. His topic will be "Mary Standards of The Youth of Today." This will be followed by a general discussion by the delegates of the meeting. At the afternoon business meeting officers for the coming year will be elected.

Tomorrow night there will be a banquet in the Dutch Kitchen followed by a dance at the gymnasium. The Rev. Edward Barth of Atlanta, chaplain of the province, will be the main address at the banquet. At this time Mrs. Thomas E. Grady of Miami will be the toastmistress.

The conference will officially close with a communion breakfast at the Florida hotel Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. At this time Mrs. Grady, who is the president of the National Council of Catholic Women, will be the main speak on "What the Newman Club Should Mean On a Non-sectarian Campus." The next selected province chairman will be the toastmaster at this meeting.

Committees who have made the arrangements for the conference are: Grace Mary Webster, general chairman; Clotilde O'Rourke, chairman of registration; Margaret Claire Lafferty, publicity director; Angela Grilay, chairman of the banquet and dance, assisted by Marybelle Moore, Frances Strigo, Mary Esther Wills, Ethel Rungan, Dot Rudnan and Agnes Goss; Catherine Hughes, in charge of the

Continued on page two

Mercer Gives Musical Here This Evening

Collegians Will Present "Concert and Comedy" In Auditorium

RICHARDSON WILL DIRECT PROGRAM

Campus Organizations Making Arrangements For Glee Club

The members of the Mercer University Glee club and the members of the senior class of Florida State College for Women will in turn entertain each other this evening at varied functions.

The Mercer Collegians will be the guests of the senior class tonight at a dinner in the college dining room. Immediately following the dinner, students of Florida State will be entertained by the Mercer collegians in their two-hour program, "Concert and Comedy," consisting of classical and fantastical selections and novelty numbers.

Richardson Directs

Dr. Burt P. Richardson, director of the glee club says the program has been selected from both the classic and popular music.

The choral numbers will include the twenty-six voice choral group's version of the famous "Shortnin' Bread," and "Tosti's Serenade." Mozart's "Alleluia" featured by the novelty quartet from York which is his home. Thompson, glee club president and accompanist, will play one of the octet, including, "Strumming", "Brown October Ale", and "Over A Man a Horse Rode By."

Peppino Tuzzo Inclided

Orchestral selections will include a mock wedding set to music, under the direction of W. P. Walker, and in addition many popular tunes such as "Alone", "Moonlight Mirage", "Dancing in Moonlight", "Hola", and "Tiger Rag."

Charlie Thompson will lead the novelty group with his interpretation of Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue", and others of his own popular arrangements. Bob Crandall in sing "Wavin' Boy" as a baritone solo. Will Thompson is again to perform with something new in "Chalk Talks".

After the performance the Mercer boys will be guests of the senior class will be the guests of the senior class at a dance sponsored by the Collinn club in the college gymnasium.

The senior class of Florida State College for Women is sponsoring the Mercer Glee club while the Vitage Vamps are in charge of the arrangements and of publicity.

The Glee Clubs' Students' Organization will take charge of housing arrangements for the Glee club boys.

Hockey Tactics Shown by Team

Localites Play Against U. S. Demonstrators

The arrival of the southern touring team of the United States Field Hockey association brings to the college for Women the fourteen foremost hockey players of the country.

The team tours for the purpose of bettering the game of hockey through demonstrations and instruction. The members coach and give exhibitions at each visiting fourteen colleges. This is the seventh college that they have visited, and they will go to seven more on the way back to Philadelphia.

The team is in Tallahassee this morning Thursday at 10:30 o'clock and will be met by the national tournament. The player who qualify to compete in this tournament will be given two day sectional tournaments. At this meet are chosen the All-American first, second and third teams and players are selected from them to tour the United States.

Notable players on the team include one All-American, Betty Tseig; Mrs Gertrude Hooper, the president of the U. S. Field Hockey association, Miss Sue Cross, captain of the Philadelphia Cricket association reserve, coach and manager.

Yesterday at eleven-thirty, a

Continued on page two

Church Groups Plan Services

Lenten Watch Services To Be Observed at Ruge Hal lin Future

Denominational organizations on campus are taking part in varied activities.

The Baptist students will give a George and Martha Washington party for their church former members this afternoon at the Community hall. Beth Clarke will take the role of George Washington, and Annie Norris will be Martha. Eleanor Murril is social director of the Baptist student union, and Roberta Rogers is in charge of the refreshmen.

The Jewish students will hold a special meeting this afternoon at 1:30 to plan a program for Purim, which is March 8.

Sunday will be a day of prayer for schools and colleges in the Southern Presbyterian church. This is the one hundred and thirteenth year that this Sunday of prayer has been observed. Every day night there will be a special service with music and a program on this subject.

The Sunday morning worship service will be led by Miss Elizabeth Lynn who will speak on "God Works Through Laws."

Coffee At Ruge Hall

There will be an afternoon coffee tonight at 7:15 at Ruge hall. Hostesses will be Betty Cotlund and Sallie Ratliff.

Sunday morning the Episcopal Bible class will be continued with Dr. Anna Pitcher Liddell as instructor and on Monday night at 7:15 a meeting of the all girl choir will be held. Special music for Easter and Holy week will be practiced.

The young people's service ins eue will give a pantake supper Tuesday night at Ruge hall.

On Ash Wednesday there will be a celebration of Holy communion at Ruge hall at 7:15 a. m. Special emphasis will be placed on regular morning watch service during Lent and on every Sunday afternoon at 5:15 in Ruge hall an open forum will be led by various members of the clergy, faculty and laymen. Any suggested subjects will be gladly accepted.

Bishop Sam R. Hay will speak at the Methodist church at the eleven o'clock hour Sunday morning. He is the bishop for the Florida Methodist conference, but this is the first time he has spoken in Tallahassee.

Tom Humphreys, president of the League, will lead services Sunday night.

Personnel of Mercer Glee Club

The twenty-six members of the chorus of the visiting club will present a two-hour program tonight entitled "Concert and Comedy" under the direction of Dr. Burt F. Richardson.

30-Year Record Shows Advances

College Strides Forward Figures Indicate

From a student body of about fifty students in 1906 to one of 1,738 in 1936 is the thirty-year record of the Florida State College for Women, figures just released by Registrar S. R. Doyle show. With the registration period for the second semester just ended, during which time 58 new students enrolled, the total enrollment for the 1935-36 term shows an increase of 110 over last year.

Sixty-six of Florida's sixty-seven counties are represented in the student complement as well as Cuba and thirteen states other than Florida.

Consistent advance in enrollment at Florida State College for Women has been made at the same time the college has made rapid strides in scholastic advancements. A stricter requirements have been placed upon registration and a superior degree of work must be shown in order to obtain a student here.

Admission to the college is extended to students of advanced standing from other standard colleges upon presentation of a satisfactory transcript of their credits, and to students taking college work for the first time upon presentation of a certificate of graduation from approved Florida high schools, accredited academies and preparatory schools of the state, and from any secondary school of other states which is accredited by its state university or a regional or national accrediting agency. Candidates not admitted by certificate are required to pass written examinations upon entrance subjects.

The enrollment by ten-year periods at Florida State College is as follows: 1906-06, about fifty in the college proper, about 154 in the normal school; 1915-16, 437; 1925-26, 1,397. 1935-36, 1,738.

Intellectuality Is Forced Many Students May Decide

"Have We Self-Conscious Interests?" is Answered By Sophomore Who Evidently Believes Higher Thought Strained

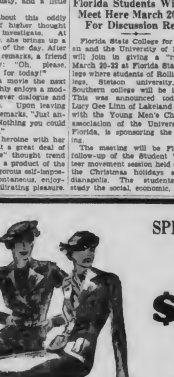
By NAN O'SHAUGHNESSY

Is the intellectual taste of the college girl good taste in reading and thoughtful conversation are not found on this campus, (as frequently may be imagined) a forced intellectuality? Do we practice it by means of class assignments, of continued prodding by our better selves and our teachers? Do read Faith Baldwin or Kathleen Norris when we have a minute for "enjoyment"? Do we dismiss problems of the day after having exhausted opinion talk of the moment-terminated? In short, are we "self-conscious intellectuals"?

When the high school graduate of a representative high school of a thousand students reaches college she is completely at a loss. Socially, she has a great amount of adjustment, but not nearly as great as the intellectual one.

She has come from a school where study is a side line to the social life. A second to places to football, to lengthy conversations about clothes, make-up, and dates, second to everything social and something to be eluded if possible. If she is a member of the "popular" bunch, she is rushed, so school nights she will be dated for riding or a movie or home to someone's house to dance. On week-ends, if her parents power holds, she will go to dances on Friday and Saturday nights and a movie or the beach Sunday. Let us imagine her Monday does not accept all dates, manages to do her home assignments and makes excellent grades.

In her home Father and Mother have the usual interests. Father his work, and usually men friends. Mother, bridge, and a card club.



Mother has the inevitable bridge club", her home to manage, sometimes a woman's club to attend. In their free moments, Father and Mother enjoy the radio, drive, see a movie, or read a "book of the month". Daughter sees parents at meals and otherwise very little.

Meals are times for discussion . Didn't day at the office, Mother's luncheon, may Know why the car tonight and how was Sister's day at school? Topics of the day (with the exception of depression talk) are rarely discussed. The young lady is never asked to read an article and discuss it with them for the enjoyment. The issues of the day are subscribed to, Cosmopolitan, Good Housekeeping, a financial journal for Dad, the Popular Mechanics for Brother. She reads a short story now and then or a new book, but otherwise confines herself to her school books.

The girl comes from this atmosphere to college, that august assemblage of erudites, and is confronted with people who make allusions to the classics, who know good music, who read thoughtful magazines, who read "deep stuff" for pleasure. She hears talk of the stupidity of studying for grades and wonders (alhereupy) for what else one would study.

She is at a loss and after the first inferior feeling of complete dumbness has passed, she is ready to do something about it. She makes a plan to read one good book a month in addition to her work, to dig deeper into school work (a new frightening list of subjects) and to learn to stand in the position of one who knows, shaking off awe of other's opinions, and discriminate to suit herself.

She settles herself in her room. Probably having known her roommate already she is free to enjoy the novelty of new surroundings, making friends during Freshman Week. She buys her books and supplies and on Monday morning goes to class with zest, drinking in the words of the professor, which generally consist of a sketch of the course, and leaves with an easier mind. Not so difficult, as yet.

At mail time, she gets a number of rush cards and writes acceptance to three. At the end of two days, she is still dating three, she has not had time to prepare for classes and has begun to dread going. She is so undecided about the three sororities that she is ready to throw it all up and go home.

She finally decides, however, pledges the sorority of her choice, and is free for intellectual pursuits.

Now she picks up her plan where she left it, prepares conscientiously for classes. She is interested in classes and soon has heads up her brain and is going smoothly.

In her good book-a-month she has found new ideas and wishing to discuss them, she goes to one of her friends who has read the same book. The simple discussion of the book leads always to other things and her friend is now with great dramatic effort giving her theory about life, love, and the purpose of man.

Our friend goes home feeling cheated about the book and more than a little musty, and a little amused.

She thinks about this oddly strained type of higher thought and decides to investigate. At the dinner table, she brings up a current problem of the day. After a few desultory remarks, a friend begs laughingly, "Oh, please, classes are over for today!"

She goes to a movie the next day and thoroughly enjoys a modern play with clever dialogue and funny situations. Upon leaving her companion remarks, "Just another picture. Nothing you could discuss about it."

We leak. our heroine with her new opinion, that a great deal of the "higher type" thought trend is a bit strained, a product of the atmosphere, a rigorous self-imposed task, not spontaneous, enjoyable, nor an exhilirating pleasure.

STUDENTS HEAR MISSION CHAIN

Continued from page one

us active and given us a strange uplifting power."

Dr. Wiley gave bits of his personal contact with Chinese students. Chinese youth is interested in things—not family life, internal politics, and communism. The young people are beginning to insist upon the right to establish separate homes and to chose their life partners. It is a significant fact that Chinese students are more politically conscious than we. The very pulse of student life is throbbing with communism. Dr. Wiley believes that when we begin to live our religion, communism will cease to have such a grasp on young Chinese.

"When you think of Africa, of what do you think?" questioned Dr. Rose in opening his talk Tuesday morning in convocation.

It is a infant continent emerging upon the world scene with the most severe clash of cultures of any part of the world. The three fronts of culture are the clashes between animism and Mohammedanism and western individualism, between African labor and Western industrialism, and between Animism and Christianity. So far spread is African socialism that the individual counts for little in Africa.

Western industrialism owes a vast debt to Africa, whence comes the cobalt used in case hardening tion, the world's largest supply of manganese, and rare woods used. Animism remains the greatest obstacle to progress in Africa. It is safe to say that no native Christianity because of the himbrance to Christianity outside the dark continent. The coming of the missionaries has helped with the problem of the evil heart of Africa a church is being built.

Ruge hall was the scene of a second student conference Saturday afternoon. At this time Mrs. Pak and Mrs. E. R. Kallenberger were the speakers. Kallenberger Mrs. Pak discussed social customs in Korea and the status of the Korean women.

Personal experiences as a missionary to Africa was Mrs. Kallenberger's topic. Her ambition to be a missionary began when she was a young child in Alabama, and continued throughout her college career. She graduated from Agnes Scott and sailed from a missionary training school in New York. From there she was sent to the belgian Congo Africa. "God is interested in all your problems, however small," said Mrs. Kallenberger. "Pray as if everything depended upon God and work as if everything depended on you."

Florida Students Will Meet Here March 20-22 For Discussion Retreat

Florida State College for Women and the University of Florida will join in giving a "retreat" March 20-22 at Florida State college where students of Rollins college, Stetson university, and Southern Methodist college will. This was announced today by Lucy Cee Linn of Lakeland which, with the Young Men's Christian association of the University of Florida, is sponsoring the meeting.

The meeting will be Florida's follow-up of the Student Volunteer movement session held during the Christmas holidays at Indianapolis. The students will study the social, economic, political and religious situation in foreign countries, with emphasis placed on missionary work. The idea behind it will be the first of its kind in Florida.

Miss Mary Vincent of Pensacola, president of the Y. M. C. A. at the University of Florida, conferred here with Lucy Cee last week-end concerning plans for the retreat. Lucy Cee was one of seven Florida State college students attending the recent convention of the Student Volunteer movement, an international organization of students interested in furthering world-wide missions.

Vienna Choir Boys To Give Concert Here

Continued from page one

sonnet. When there is time between engagements, the bus stops beside some field or college campus and the boys troop out to engage in a game of prisoners base or association football.

Although the boys recently appeared in a Hollywood film under the direction of Norman Taurog, they do not favor American movies. The language barrier is too much for them, and they whoop for joy at the sight of a German film. They naturally appreciate concerts, symphony performances, and chamber music, but they cannot make out the American comic sections, try as they will. They much prefer a humorous section with pictures of aviators.

The members of the Saengerknaben choir today—as always in the ancient imperial castle of Wiener-Neustadt. Here they work and study, eat, play, and sleep. They pay nothing, but they spend most of their time in music. It is the dream of thousands of Austrian boys to be invited to join the Saengerknaben.

Few have the chance. Only forty of them are housed in the castle, after rigid competitive examinations. Twenty-four of these make up the company that will perform here.

Hadyn, Schubert, Mozart, and other illustrious composers receive musical training within the Saengerknaben Institution. Every year they are invited to sing with the Vienna Opera and with the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra.

Classical Repertoire

The boys will perform operettas in costume, including even the feminine roles. They will present a repertoire that includes arias by choruses of Hayden, Schubert and Mozart, selections from operatic works of Humperdinck, Hadyn, and Mozart, as well as national choruses and Christmas songs.

It was not until quite recently that the organization conceded to an increasing demand that they appear in public concerts. Their tours were enlarged to include nearly every country in Europe. It is their custom, when departing on a tour, to present to Vienna, to sing a farewell chorus in the railway station.

During July and August of each year the entire body of boy singers migrates to a mountain resort in the Tyrol with their spiritual guide and director, where a magnificent alpine home has been erected for them. Here they enjoy sports and prepare for the rigors of winter.

Tickets for the fourth year the boys have toured America.

CATHOLIC CLUB MEMBERS MEET

Continued from page one

man of the reception, assisted by Margaret Oliver and Dorothy Williams; Nan O'Shaughnessy, chairman of dates; and Ruth Toland, chairman of the communion breakfast.

Delegates from the University of Florida, Georgia Tech, the University of Georgia and the University of Miami will attend this conference which is an annual affair.

Two Types of College Girls Are Found Here

Continued From Page One

hall, however, the scene suddenly changes. A door of one of the dormitories will burst open and an indeterminate object come hurtling out, with a great clatter of feet and a swirl of clothes that look as if they might have been thrown at the wearer. As she flies past, one catches a glimpse of tousled hair, sleepy eyes, bare legs, and perhaps pajamas ruled heavily up underneath her coat. This wild person is the Late Late.

The Late falls out of bed when the breakfast bell rings, scrambles into clothes and comes charging through the halls, uncertain, every morning, whether she will make it or not.

The Late lives a frantic last-minute life. She is always late. Slip in a breathless manner and says, "Dr. Elip, I'm so sorry—it just couldn't be helped—I know this was due a week ago last Monday, but I've been so busy! I just slay busy all the time, you've no idea!"

The Late stumbles in over others' feet ten minutes after the program has started, always bids up every excursion with desperate promises that she'll be ready in just one minute.

And yet, when I questioned a Late about her many kinds of living, sh. said, "I know it's hard on the heart and the blood-pressure, but I simply wouldn't know what to do if I didn't have to rush and stumble. I'd never get anything done!"

Perhaps it could all be summed up by saying that the Early is ten minutes ahead of life and the Late is ten minutes behind it. The Early waits patiently for life to catch up with her; the Late rushes frantically, but somehow never catches up with life. Who can say which is the happier?

Students May Ask Questions

"Organized Bull Session" To Be In Charge Of Faculty Member

By SARAH SEALEY

"Bull sessions," says the Florida Alligator, "are being encouraged at Arizona State college by an informal organization formed for that purpose."

"I thought," says a well known journalist in his autobiography, "that at college I would be learning in an atmosphere of thought, discussion, and some scholarly working, reading, and study." But the answers to questions which would be threshed out in deep and conversation."

(At approximately this point the reader's languid eye prompts to wander on to some more important article—telling perhaps who was initiated into what, who has gone to what convention. For those who read on, we continue.)

It is possible that there has been at Florida State College for Women, students who have questions that no one attempts to answer. They may have a disappointed in their expectations that college would solve some of their problems.

For those students something about to be done. They may they wish, drop into the post office a statement of some question they want discussed and within a week or so attend a sort of "organized bull session" held informally in one of the dormitories with a properly qualified faculty member in charge and discussion leading.

Questions may be of any kind as long as they concern the life or thoughts of college students. Suggestions for a discussion may be addressed simply "Dormitory Forum" and mailed before Wednesday.

Public Schools Undergo Study

Continued from page one

sent at the meeting of the committee in John D. Carroll's office Saturday.

Get in touch with curriculum developments in all parts of the nation and can make valuable suggestions to the work of this group, Dr. Briggs says.

The Little Store
701 West Jefferson
Phone 1390 Via Deliver

$1.00 COMPLEXION BRUSH for only 10¢ —AND 3 BANDS FROM PALMOLIVE SOAP 3 for 15c
PALMOLIVE
ASK US FOR DETAILS

STATE THEATRE
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—FEBRUARY 21-22
Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire
in
"FOLLOW THE FLEET"
SUNDAY AND MONDAY—FEBRUARY 23-24
Mae West in "Klondike Annie"
TUESDAY—FEBRUARY 25
Walter Connolly in "Soak the Rich"
WEDNESDAY—FEBRUARY 26
"TOUGH GUY"
with
Jackie Cooper and Rin Tin Tin, Jr.
NOVELTY NIGHT!
THURSDAY—FEBRUARY 27
"VOICE OF BUGLE ANNE"
with
Lionel Barrymore and Maureen O'Sullivan
COMING—Thursday, March 5
SALLY RAND IN PERSON!

SPECIAL PURCHASE!
Women's and Misses $3 and $4
WHITE KID Shoes
$1.98
Brown and White Oxford
Solid White Oxfords.
White Ties and Buckles.
Sandals, Grey, Green, White and Patent Leather.

SPECIAL PURCHASE!
New Tailored
SPECIAL PRICE!
$2.95
"A Regular $5.00 Value"
Only 150 of these smartly tailored linen suits in this group. Our portion of a large special purchase made by our New York buying office. Single and double breasted styles, plain and Acton backs — Skirts are extra long.
Sizes 12 to 20 Only!
LINDEN'S FASHION SHOPPE
MEZZANINE FLOOR

Shantung and Linene
Suits
$1.98
Visit Our Store—You Will Save Money!
LIPPMAN'S HUB STORE
104 E. Jefferson St.

Victrola Room Is Open to All Piano Students

Others May Hear Records By First Obtaining Special Permit

The Victrola room located in the west end of the Administration building on the first floor will be open every Saturday morning from 11 ½ o'clock to those students who are enrolled in the piano normal department.

During this period music students may hear records of those pieces which they are studying. They may also listen to the records of symphonies, lyrics, or songs which they hear over the radio.

When programs of radio concerts are know in advance, records of the pieces to be presented will be played at this time.

Those students not enrolled in the piano normal department may also have the privilege of listening to these records on Saturday morning, by first securing permission from Miss Reeder, director of the piano normal department, who is in charge.

In addition to this hour, there are regular periods during which the records are played as requested by students. These periods are from 7:30 to 8:30 on Tuesday evening, and from 5 to 6 on Friday afternoon.

Parker on Approbation

Mary Emily Parker, freshman, made approbation for last semester. Her name was unintentionally left off of the list which was published in last week's Flambeau.

The shoppers go 'round and 'round
Ho - ho - ho - and come back here to purchase this PETE'S PAP frock of beige crepe with blue peach stroud. ney down the sleeves.

GELBERG'S
"Style Plus Economy"

Saturday and Sunday Luncheon
25c AND 35c
Choice Roast Western Young Turkey and Celery Dressing with Cranberry Sauce
Western Prime Rib Roast Ad-Jus
Iceberg Lettuce and Tomato Salad, Russian Dressing.
Buttered Peas, Steam Turnips, Creamed Potatoes.
Whole Wheat Muffins, Hot Rolls, Drinks.
Home Made Meringue Pie or Sherbet for Dessert.
Our New Style Sugar Baked Ham, Lettuce and Tomato Sandwich, Potato Salad, Coffee 15c
Ham Salad Sandwich, Potato Chips, Chocolate Milk with Ice Cream 15c
CHOCOLATE NUT SUNDAE 10c
CREAM SODA 10c
HOT CHOC. FUDGE SUNDAE 10c
MARSHMALLOW SUN. 15c
VANILLA WHIPPED CREAM NUT SUNDAE 10c
HOT DOG, SLAW, SAUCE AND LARGE LEMONADE 5c

Oatmeal and Apricots Bring Woeful Mutterings from Feverish Sufferers

Even Honor Students are Seen Mixing With The Probation Club Sending Up Prayers For a Meagre "Normal"

Fourteen numbered white beds stand in two long rows on the upper porch of the infirmary. The time is seven o'clock in the morning, and a white-clad nurse moves hurriedly from bed to bed putting slim white-and-silver glass-rods under the tongues of fourteen sleepy girls. The fourteen girls lie very still and wait impatiently while the nurse puts her practiced index-finger on their wrists and counts silently for twenty seconds. Then, as the pencil-thin nurse takes the telling thermometers from fourteen mouths and writes down the exact degree on the lined record, fourteen girls voice pathetically the age-old question of the infirmary: "Is it normal?"

But nurses, akin to the Sphinx are all, fear all know all, and seldom say anything. A nonchalantal "Um," or "Uh-uh," answers each girl and automatically brings forth expressions of pain or joy. Twenty-four hours of "normal" is the requirement for release from the infirmary, and only those forced to undergo the fateful twenty-four hours know how timeless time can be!

"Could I get out today?" is the blanching question of the girl in bed number forty-eight who receives "Um" in answer to her first question.

"Um—perhaps this morning or after lunch," evades the nurse.

"Lucky so-and-so!" comes from the last bed, number thirty-nine. "And I have to stay all day! Valentine's day at that!"

"Well so do the rest of us! But I've been in here so long I'm growing attached to it. I feel as if I were born in here. For two weeks I've looked at the same four walls and given up hope of ever getting out!" says the girl in bed number thirty-seven.

"Gurls, here comes food!" The occupant of bed number forty-nine reserves her fray first and tells everyone what is on it. "Cereal and apricots! I could do justice to some ham and eggs, and this's what I get!"

In a short time the trays are emptied of every edible scrap, and the girls take up the typical infirmary diversions: sleeping, reading and talking. The becoming topic of conversation is always how long each has been in the infirmary, how much fever each had yesterday and today, the work being missed, and the chances of getting out someday. There is just nothing else to do but lie and wait for orange-juice at ten o'clock, Dr. Moor at ten-thirty, and temperature-taking again at eleven.

"That being Valentine's day, let's make up a poem for the nurses and Dr. Moor," suggests the inhabitant of bed number forty-five. "I truly intended sending one if I got out, but here I sit!"

We might as well do something to keep from going outa," says the girl in bed number thirty-five. "But here comes the mail. Good! Maybe we can get some ideas if any of us get Valentines."

A nurse, over-loaded with bundles and dismiss, enters and distributes them among the beds. This is an endless task, for the letters and packages arrive all day from a plentiful source. A lengthy silence follows each delivery of mail from downstairs, broken only by pert remarks from the letter-readers.

"Here's a swell first line—Hail my beau! I give to you"—bell can't think of anything else," comes from the number forty-five.

"Now don't strain yourself! That was good, but relax and concentrate on normal temperature. We'll compose another line," advises the girl of bed number thirty-four, looking thoughtful.

"Oh, but genius is burning! Let's see, 'half my heart I give to you—the other half has got the flu!' How's that?" completes the would-be poet in bed number forty-five.

"Wonderful! But genius better stop burning for here comes the nurse with the thermometers again. Gee, I hope it's normal! I want to get out of here this afternoon!" says the occupant of bed number forty-nine.

Again the nurse passes from bed to bed with her thermometers. Four times every day the nurse passes the rounds—seven times, and the girls count the answers the nurses give, for six "Um's" mean release. The time between takings drags endlessly through the same routine. Lunch soon follows the second temperature-taking and is duly appreciated and commented upon.

"If it's potatoes again, I'll pop! Think of all the lovely food the kids are getting in the dining room because we have the flu, and here we sit and eat soup and spuds! That's what I call the irony of life! I think I'll ask Miss Tracy some day if potatoes are good for flu!" complains the girl in bed number forty-four.

"Potatoes all right. They're mashed this time," informs the girl in bed number forty-nine who always gets served first. "You couldn't possibly fry them next time, could you?" she appeals to one of the maids.

"As long as it's potatoes, who cares? Fried, baked, mashed, or broiled they're still potatoes!" the girl in bed number thirty-two points out philosophically.

"Well, variety is the spice of life, you know! No, that doesn't apply so well, does it? We couldn't have spinach sometime could we? Now don't you all groan! They haven't given us a vegetable yet, and I'll bet they're not going to! Oh, for some good food!" the girl in bed number forty-four complains again.

"And Mother sent me a dollar this morning to buy a bus steak dinner for Valentine's day. Speaking of the irony of life, I think that would do for an all-time record. Oh, well, she didn't know," comes from bed number thirty-five.

Again everything edible is eaten, in spite of the blanch on potatoes. Then the typical infirmary diversions are again taken up. Like the uniic of the new somewhat unpopular song, life in the infirmary goes around and around. Right after getting orange-juice at three o'clock all the girls lie down and try to sleep for an hour before temperatures are taken again at four o'clock. Of course, everyone knows that one's fever is always highest in the afternoon, and also that one's fever is always lowest after sleeping. But it isn't at all difficult to wake up at four o'clock and hopefully ask the nurse the worn-out question, "Is it normal?" and then lean way out of bed with both ears flapping for her "Um" or "Uh-uh."

After this "taking," two boxes of candy received in the morning mail from downstairs are passed from bed to bed and hopes for departure in the morning are aired. Any of the girls who are allowed to go in the afternoon are laden with notes for roommates in every corner of the campus, and takes her leave amid comments both cheerful and sarcastic. The inconsistency of the infirmary staff is really quite distressing to the girls who remain.

"You're getting to go after being here just four days, and I came in here two whole days before you did. I think they're both super-mean people to keep me here forty-four.

"If you don't stop working up a fever you never will get out," returns the envied girl.

"Well, can I give you anything?"

"No, but you better run while you can. They might change their minds. And don't forget to get your exc-use, either. Did you all know that we get excused from gym for a whole week? Isn't that wonderful?" asks the girl in bed number thirty-four.

"Better than that," adds the occupant of bed number thirty-two. "Nothing hurts me more than to have to walk out to that gym three days a week. Say, can I see that new magazine you got this morning?"

Books fill the time between four o'clock and dinner. The next meal is considered over as the previous ones, and, thankful that it isn't spinach, the girls eat everything and wish for more.

"Bet I've lost six pounds in this one week. Starving must be good for fin as well as potatoes!" says the food-and-flu girl in bed number forty-four.

"Don't work up a temperature," advises the girl in bed number thirty-four. "It's just an hour and a half till they take temperatures again. Gee, I hope it's normal!"

After dinner everyone reads quietly and retires promptly at eight o'clock. The nurse finally comes and with her the harrowing words of having taken temperatures taken. Four times in one day is as many as the patients and nurses can stand. They both concentrate as much—one on trying to have a normal temperature, and the other on remaining indifferent and keeping her temper—that by the time it is over both are running a high fever and feeling much worse! What longing, what hope, what fear, is given voice in that age-old question of the infirmary: "Is it normal?"

Classical Club Reads Horoscopes, Discusses Plans for Gulf Outing

"Astronomy and Astrology" was the subject discussed at the meeting of the Classical club Tuesday night in Broward club room.

The program included talks on "The Historical Background of Astronomy" by Holly Waker, "The Planets" by Ruth Lowman, and "The Signs of the Zodiac" by Hersemary Pritch.

Following Hersemary's talk, the members of the club were divided into groups according to the sign of the zodiac under which they were born, and the horoscope of each group was read.

During the business period, which was presided over by Lillian Turlington, plans for a proposed boat trip on the Gulf was discussed.

Summer School to Last From June 8 to July 31

Florida State College for Women will begin its twenty-third annual summer school June 8, S. R. Doyle, registrar, announced. The eight-week session will end July 31.

Complete information concerning summer school is now being prepared in a summer school bulletin which will be ready for distribution the latter part of March. Enrollment in the 1935 summer school here totaled 873 students including men and women. The summer sessions are co-educational.

Flowers Expresses Thanks to Students

On behalf of the Administration please allow me to say—thank you—to the students who gave up their rooms in Reynolds hall in order that the infirmary might use them during the recent emergency and to the students who were kind enough to share their rooms and sorority houses with this group who moved from Reynolds. And I wish to extend our appreciation to Miss Hilliard Long and the ladies of the Home Management House for their cooperation.

All of you were inconvenienced, I know, but your cheerful response made our tasks less difficult and I ask you to accept this as a message of our gratitude to you.

MAUDE FLOWERS,
Director of residence halls

Gilchrist Girls Goggle at Giddy Gymnastic Gents

Dining Room Bell is Oiled As Suspicions Needs Supervise Job

When students in Gilchrist saw two men doing gymnastics on the roof of the kitchen they wondered if the ex of Ende and Ending had returned or if there really was something amiss with wrens like the burning of biscuits for tomorrow's breakfast. Soon they heard the lunch bell ring they knew something was wrong. Gone was the quaint and constant creak that had characterized the bell for so long a time.

Although some addicts to the machine age heave a sigh of relief at the "erring" of the bell, a sentimental few complain that there will soon be no local sentimental few who complain that there will soon be no local color, not to speak of local sound, around the place at all if the harsh super-norms persist in turning everything into smooth running machines. They insist that the squeak of the bell, like the old oaken bucket in days of yore, gave a certain indefinable charm to the college's call to meals. One of the inhabitants of Gilchrist who lives almost on top of the bell said that she felt as though she'd lost an old friend when the bell clanged loudly without the customary wheeze that it used to emit between each stroke!

The oiling of the bell has even upset the habits of some in the freshman dorms. In days gone by although the ringing of the bell could never be counted on to wake the slumbering hordes yet the rusty cross-between-a-knife-blade-scraping-on-steel and a-porcupine-picking-his-teeth noise that followed the ringing prodded many a poor soul out into the cold to get her breakfast. Now that the good old noise has been eliminated they sleep on in heavenly peace and hunger.

Distaff Deadline Set

The deadline for all contributions to the Distaff has been set for March 1, according to Sara Krentzman, editor, who asked that all material be brought either to her room, 233 Gilchrist, or to the Distaff box located on the lower floor of the Administration building.

Bridge Widows Admit Lure Of Sinister Game

Not Even Flit Can Break Spell While Maims Intelligentia

Have you, too, had your face stepped on?

Have you gone deftly down to the smoking room and found a table set up surrounded by dudes with "Either play the right way or don't play at all" looks? Or doubt you've been to Bridge has the campus by the throat and nothing, flit included, can be done about it.

The situation is like this. Three girls will be sitting quietly—no monkeying around, see?—just sitting. One will say "How about a hand of bridge?" Famous last words. The others assent silently and sit arranged in their chairs waiting for the unholy fourth. A girl enters. No words are passed. The girl takes in the situation at a glance and shows by putting her left thumb in her mouth and waving her foot slowly three times that she belongs. The game begins with dispatch.

If you are quiet, you may sit in the room while the game is going on. If you have a cold or make a sucking noise when you breathe, stay outside; you will not be tolerated.

There was one case (R. L. P.) where a smoker had some chewing gum—a little old—it creaked with each push and pull. She found herself thrown roughly somewhere, a victim of a gang-plaian gang.

Life is not what it would seem for the bridge widows. Frankly, they are not happy. In an interview one stated that the stuff "had" her. She was unwillingly an addict to the trump and jack. "Break away?" she said with a sob in her voice "I can't. When I see a deck of cards I break into a run, a bridge table sets my hands a-quivering, and the spots before by eyes are all clubs and spades." A tragic case—and she is no young!

Drop a tear for these, your sisters, but watch out—two hands will do it.

NSFA to Sponsor Forum

An open forum related to campus activities will be sponsored Tuesday evening by the local branch of the National Student Federation of America, Mary Jeanne McKay, chairman, has announced. The meeting will be held in 303 Administration building.

On An Occasion....

your portrait expresses more personal thoughtfulness than any gift you can make. You owe yourself and your friends a photograph in the modern mode.

PIKE STUDIO
PHONE 787
107 West College Avenue

Each Puff Less Acid

Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company

A LIGHT SMOKE
OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

Luckies are less acid. One of the chief contributions of the Research Department in the development of A LIGHT SMOKE is the private Lucky Strike process, "IT'S TOASTED".

This preheating process at higher temperatures consists of four main stages, which involve carefully controlled temperature gradations. Quantities of undesirable constituents are removed. In effect, then, the method of preheating at higher temperatures constitutes a completion or fulfillment of the curing and aging processes.

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

ACIDITY MEASURED BY STANDARD CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS

Luckies—"IT'S TOASTED"

Your throat protection—against irritation—against cough

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

RUTH PERSONS _____ Editor
ALTHEA SMITH _____ Associate Editor
BERTHOLDE KUHN _____ Managing Editor
HAZEL BOWMAN _____ News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Features, Martha Baker; Sports, Elaine Kleinpeter; Society, Margaret Lafferty, Exchanges, Virginia Early, Literary Editor, Eleanor Williams; Copy Editor, Arline Lockhart; Associate News Editor Grace Mary Webster; Art Editor Caroline Adams.

REPORTERS: Caroline Adams, Minna Agress, Elaine Andrews, Ella Brooks, Jean Brown, Marjorette Brown, Marian Conn, Margie Creel, Sarah Beth Davis, Margaret Duncan, Sylvia Pegg, Evelyn Fisher, Mary J. Gallemore, Ethel Grassfield, Patricia Hamilton, Frances Hartley, Barbara Holmes, Belle Hotard, Eleanor Jenkins, Mary Lynn Massie, Dorothy Olmstead, Clodine O'Rourke, Nan O'Shaughnessy, Mary F. Phillips, Jane Quinn, Hildred Harrison, Sarah Sealey, Pearle Shepard, Elizabeth H. Turner, Jewel Turner.

BUSINESS STAFF

MARET PATTERSON _____ Business Manager
Assistant Advertising Managers, Janet Cook, Grace Mary Webster and Clotilde O'Rourke
CIEL LEVY _____ Circulation Manager
Assistans Business Manager Lilla McGuire, Assistant Circulation Manager Caroline Adams

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1915 at the post office at Tallahassee Fla. under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

When Joe College Goes to the Polls—

"Now is the time for all good men . . . ." But especially it's time for the many students of the 500 colleges of our nation who will be eligible to suffrage rights this year to take cognizance of their power to vote and to use it discriminately.

The American people will choose their president this year. Many men and women now in college will be exercising their suffrage rights for the first time as they cast their votes. Their number will be small, and any direct influence which they can wield is insignificant. The chief importance of a student vote, however, lies not in for whom it is cast, but with what intelligence it is used.

Various devices such as the absentee voting systems of many states are in existence to aid the student, among others away from home, in casting his vote. Students who live outside the state of Florida may vote if they are eligible to vote, should familiarize themselves with registration and voting requirements of their own states.

Democracy has often been criticized for giving the ballot to the illiterate. Democracy's chief hope lies in its active support by the educated. Thus the under-graduate should view it as a matter of necessity to make proper and active use of the constitutional powers granted him.

Let's Contribute Quarters To the Search for Culture Fund

That favorite campus easement to the effect that if the legislature really wants to cut down expenses it might try getting rid of quarter exams at Florida State is a fitting preface to further discussion of the current pending-versus pass-merit-fail controversy. Puns often contain more truth than one expects of them.

Why not destroy the paradoxical set-up that is in grade system and conduct our own experiments in a field where many institutions of higher learning have already broken ground? Looking around at other colleges, several examples can be found of systems operating successfully in the campus that classifies students on the basis of failure, satisfactory work, and honors, with inconvenient quarterly or monthly tests giving way to comprehensive examinations.

Such a system inaugurated here would undoubtedly relieve the instructor at Florida State of the embarrassment of relegating a fair student to a C group, or worse still of having to push a D student out of the group for the sake of "the curve," or because the test is so all-important. Many students who are rewarded for three hours of burning the midnight oil with an A on a test and consequently on the course are far inferior to those whose daily grades reflect a constant brand of work and who may not have had the extra hours to use for "cramming" just before the all-important exam.

A deplorable situation! And we've been talking about it a lot lately. It is the more deplorable because it can so easily be remedied, and is not. It's high time for an enunciation proclamation to free the real student from the hands of testing.

Simplified grading for instructors, and above all, fairness to the student are natural consequences of the plan for abolishing the A-B-C system. This replacement would remove the reward motivation and consequently the whole idea of working for grades. We talk a lot about "earned culture"—surely nothing is more hermetically sealed and entand-dried than our grading system.

The idea is not something new under the sun. It's been done before. What are we waiting for? Surely it's high time we got rid of our alphabet administration, and begin to find the true road to that culture we are supposedly seeking.

The Path of True Education Never Did Run Smooth

In the Michigan Daily we find an editorial captioned "Here Is Your Chance," which points out a great opportunity for some philanthropic young college man or woman to help those students who enrolled in the University of Michigan to gain an education.

His job, according to the writer, would be to divide the University of Michigan professors into two classes: those who lead their students in vigorous discussion, who picture their subject in its true light, making it interesting to the student whose mentality is not dumb; and those who require memorization for memorization's sake, who want facts and more facts, giving the highest grade to he student who has burned the candle the lowest.

Such a canvas might be very useful. Then a student who came to the university for true education could take courses from professors in the first category. For the others he could buy a few textbooks, master the course in his spare time, and be excused like to attend classes. "He would learn to reason, clear and rationally, the writer said "Logical thought would be his goal—not perfect memorization, which at best results in a dull, drab personality . . . He might learn facts, but he would learn them easily because he would want them to employ in a problem which interested him."

Yes, here is a chance for someone to do a piece of constructive work for this university. But we are surprised that such a condition exists there. The editorial must have misrepresented the facts. Surely there are no professors who require memorization for memorization's sake, who want facts and more facts, giving the highest grade to the student who has burned the candle the lowest. But on second thought, perhaps there are some of this variety—at the University of Michigan! Of course we could only speak for our own campus.

Florida State Looks Ahead

It is interesting to note that the student Union building at Gainesville, which was begun about two years ago is expected to be completed within the next few months.

Brought about because of the great need on the campus for such a building, the structure was made possible through the support of the Federal government and the cooperation of state officials, and students of the university. It will provide room for the various student activities including the Alligator, Seminole, student governament, and the alumni association's office of the college. The newly-appointed director of this building will spend some time in travel and study to institutions with well established Union buildings before he takes over his duties on the University campus next summer.

The advantages of such a building under the direction of capable hands would be hard to estimate. We at Florida State look forward to the day when we shall have a similar building.

We notice that the per cent of first year students at Gainesville who left at the end of the past semester has deereased from 14.3 last year to 5.28 this year. In the calculation no distinction was made between the number who withdrew and those who "just didn't come back." Frankly, we'd like to know more about the matter. Are students smarter? Are the courses easier? Or is there some other reason for the decrease of freshman mortality?

Since students are given ten minutes between classes to get from one building to another we rather wonder why so many tardies. While we are wondering, we also wonder how the girls can be expected to get to any class on time since the bells in each campus building seem to have a different schedule.

Magazine Thumbings

By ELEANOR WILLIAMS

WHAT PRICE HANDSHAKES?
By Frank H. Simonds
Harpers, February.

No matter what the League of Nations may try to do to prevent war, it will violate its purpose, the writer thinks, and destroy its respect in the eyes of the world, if the League adopts sanctions. Both Hitler and Mussolini say that the same as waging war, it will simply take from sanctions an instrument of one group of countries employed against another.

If the League would establish peace by impartially applying sanctions then it would have to accomplish the ruin not of one great people but of no less than three—Italy, Russia and Germany. With only a minority of the great people of the world belonging to the League a the present time the writer thinks the League can only resort to violence to prevent violence, which in itself makes the League ridiculous.

DOES SOCIALISM WORK?
By George Soule
New Republic, February 12.

The second in this series of articles paints Soviet Russia's attempt to develop agriculture as industrially.

Russian farmers, for instance, are as far ahead of ours as our technology is ahead of theirs. And almost every worker has had the opportunity of attending the theater or the three times a year.

Furthermore, the sale of books is amazing, says the writer. The publication of any work by a well-known writer will start at 50,000 copies while even a scientific book will sell at least 10,000 copies.

This intellectual interest has come about with the increase of leisure time and the simplification of economic security. Vacations range from two to three months depending on the strain of the job, and, a seven-hour working day is the rule with two or three shifts when the tasks are unpleasant.

Every worker is guaranteed free medical attention and insurance. Education is free and every graduate of school ann college has the destination of his job.

As to liberty, the writer finds the workers have certain restrictions with communities to represent them in local politics. The workers seem spontaneously to back up the writer and they told him they were asked to criticize and make suggestions in the methods employed in the national economic planning.

A YANKEE LOOKS AT DIXIE
By Katharine Fullerton Gerould
American Mercury, February.

Katharine Gerould, looking at the South through the eyes of a nature, finds it indeed depressing.

The white citizen of Georgia stems from faction in a pathetic yet a curiously unappealing figure. He is perfectly willing to let a terrible set of conditions be has to deal with—the Negro and the cotton tenant, the Negro and the climate—be as unappealing because literature reveals that he is almost willful inapatitude for dealing with those conditions. Nobody does she find in the characters of post-war literature a curious indifference to facing of facts but also she believes that Hemingway, the best writer, is at work in Dixie.

She hopes we of the South may today be somewhere between the Hemingway attitude and pre-war literature and the sickening sentimentals of contemporary literature revealed by the works of Stribling and others.

I SENT MY FATHER TO AN OLD MAN'S HOME
Anonymous
Forum, February

Although the writer and her husband are looked on as unnatural archfiends by their neighbors and friends, the same friends are now beginning to realize the sense of this father who was sent to an old people's home.

The father monopolized the conversation of anyone who dropped in to see him, many married couple so that friends started saying away. Furthermore he spoiled the children old-fashioned stories that contradicted the belief's the modern mother had taught them, and he complained about the couple's extravagance in spending income. If anyone asked him to do something he could not do and he was being taken advantage of.

Finally he was so endangering the happiness of the household of her husband by getting on his son-in-law's nerves that the son-in-law started avoiding coming home.

At this point the writer was exhausted. She had her father moved to an old men's home where she pays his room and board and where he can continue to talk to his heart's desire. Everyone is happier, she says.

Spirit of the Week . . . . . By Adams

EXCERPTS FROM THE EDITORS
CHOSEN FROM UNIVERSITY NEWSPAPERS

THE UNIVERSITY

In this day when the world is calling for people who can and will think, when the world is crying for renewed emphasis upon intellectual and cultural attainment the university continues to stifle these forces by education continuing to adhere to antiquated and obsolete tenets. . . This university needs to be freed from the shackles which have throttled its academic advancement. It must liberate itself from the crippling influences of educators and administrators who persist in using and acting according to principles of a social long since relegated to the past. The university must release itself from the curse of over-stabilization and institution in its place a broad, fundamental and comprehensive presentation of education.

We must not be content to wait upon the experiments of others. We must seek our own salvation for the educational ills which confront us.—The Daily Nebraskan.

PURPOSE OF UNIVERSITY

It is not the purpose of the university to secure a definite life for the individual. Rather it should be the purpose of a university to provide opportunity for a better understanding of the world in which he is later to dwell. This can only be had through observing that which confront us.—The Daily Nebraskan.

TRUTH VS. PROPAGANDA

In a world of chance, strife, chaos and confusion, the college student or faculty member faces a stern and almost forbidding task in attempting to thresh the real truth from the unsorted grain of conflicting ideas.

Our government is conducive to the spread of propaganda. Ever about us is the taint of civilized man's corruption of the principles given from Palestine long ago. Our whole system is based on it.

Not so many days ago we overheard a professor remark in the opening day of a course: "Don't be afraid of evolution being taught in this class. Several students dropped the course last semester because they were afraid arguments would be given for the doctrine of evolution would result from the class discussion."

We will not dwell on the question of the teaching of evolution. This is not Tennessee, nor an argument for or against the taboo of evolution. It is 1936 and a year and time when the faces of mankind are turned from the dust of the earth, living the life that there name Pythenchropos Erectus, slightly. With hope in their hearts for a better day and a brighter future ahead, the human race seeks the truth.

Is it not a blight to an intelligent people that both students and professors in a college must be faced with propaganda. "We would like to teach this, or we would like to study this, but we are afraid!"—Oklahomen.

* * *

MILITARY TRAINING

Education and military training mix no better than cocktails and dynamite. These respective points of view are antithetical.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

By GRACE MARY WEBSTER

WE note with interest that the Supreme Court of Florida has agreed to ship 100 worms to a student at Thomas Alva Edison's alma mater, Pennsylvania. Perhaps that statement needs clarifying. It seems that said student is conducting a scientific experiment with earthworms when all sources of cold spells came along; the Pennsylvania earthworms burrowed deep into the ground and found the ground free solidly above them. Florida Students found the ground dry for material. He wired Governor Sholtz for help and got with Dr. J. J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida, and hence the shipment of the specially wrapped Florida earthworms.

* * *

A $500,000,000 soil conservation and domestic allotment plan of crop control bill was passed by the House last week after eleven days of debate. The bill authorizes expenditure of the half a billion dollars in Federal subsidies to farmers. The basis for subsidies will be their acreage of crop land, soil-improving and erosion-preventing changes in farming practices and a percentage of normal production existing domestic channels. It provides also for a permanent system of state-planning after the year, although any state which is desirous of doing so may begin operations by. If any state fails to adopt a permanent plan the government will discontinue aid help after January 1, 1938.

* * *

A LITROUGH most of us wish that Howard Bruno Haughmann would retire gracefully from the front page of the newspapers it is a matter of interest that B. S Lebowitz, the New York criminal lawyer who explored the case so exhaustively with the avowed intention of getting the whole truth, has withdrawn from the case, declaring that he will go further part in any of the case."

* * *

THE day after the house passed a record peace-time army bill with a large majority Mr. Roosevelt issued invitations to twenty Central and South American governments for an inter-American conference to sat at "permanent peace on this western hemisphere." The conference will probably be held at Buenos Aires, Argentina. Meanwhile a new Naval expenditure bill, the 21st in history for size also, is being prepared for Congress. Someone lacks a sense of humor.

* * *

THE appointment of Alfred E. Smith as chief Tammany delegate to the Democratic National convention would seem to make things interesting next June. Tammany seemingly has the way for Al Smith's promised "walk".

* * *

IN MIDST of all the publicity about the 15th anniversary of Lenin's death, Joseph Stalin, VIII, reviews of his past life, and the publication of the five royal damsels who constitute his matrimonial possibilities we are reminded that Stalin is a Georgian once said. When Edward was still a small boy King George is reputed to have said that the young prince would be the last English king to have any real opinion, in view of the new king's lack of interest in foreign and governmental affairs in the past. Yet the traditional love of English people for their kings is a thing which must not be forgotten.

* * *

WISCONSIN, ever the progressive state, now has a legal baby NRA. The industries whose business is purely intrastate, cleaners, dyers, barbers, etc., are the only ones who abide by codes. The codes are all under the eye of the State Administrator who derives his power from the government.

Professor Airs Opinion About Codes, Taboos

Teacher Admits That He And Colleagues Are Often Inhibited

"Codes, conventions, and taboos keep professors, as well as the college students, from doing just as they please," explained a psychology professor in one of his lecture classes recently when questioning with the noise accompanying the investigation of the Administration building across the street.

"I personally admit that I've often had the desire, the urge, to go roller skating and bicycling around campus, but neither I nor any of my colleagues would dare because codes have been set inhibiting us from fulfilling this drive."

He said further that there is always a conflict between urge and code, but the urge is restrained and held back because the code says it is wrong, because it is wrong, because these pent-up emotions may be a cause of nervous breakdowns.

If there is a large enough group, however, that every-one feels the codes set up. "For instance," he added, "until recently college girls were not allowed to dance with men on this campus. What changed this rule? Simply enough, a student either by slow tactful methods or by a sudden frontal attack aroused the interest of this question until something was done about it. Now we all tell that many more codes will be abolished from this campus."

* * *

The one demands an "unthinking obedience," a personal subservience, a "thinking obedience," other asks a complete freedom of conduct, a believe in individual potentialities, and even questions the authority of all hypotheses and laws yet laid down. — The Antiochan.

* * *

CASH OR CULTURE?

American education, says Dr. Leonard, director of the 41-year-Pennsylvania study, "is administered in inflexible packages of specific ideas segregated for the time in courses, elected courses, elected semesterwise and cut off by examinations and credits—in other words, by time units."

While his viewpoint may seem harsh to the graduate accustomed in terms of happiness as well as financial gain, it must appeal to that horde of young people, millions and to those others, equally numerous who have an inferiority complex because they are not as well with life although "success" is measured in terms of the American educational system has not failed, but it has placed extensive emphasis on the attainment of material gain to the neglect of finding cultural virtues, including the development of a social consciousness, that go to make life really worth living.—The Barometer, Oregon State College.

* * *

MILITARY TRAINING

Education and military training mix no better than cocktails and dynamite. These respective points of view are antithetical.

Collegiate Come-Back

Tomorrow is the birthday of father of our country. We're always wondering about George and the cherry tree episode. Could it be that it was so unusual for him to tell the truth that he had to ballyhoo it plenty when he did?

* * *

The Junior College—talk of the town—is the institution, who, unable to be awakening with alarm clock, censored a "Rob Goldberg" arrangement. The ringing of the alarm from a powerful light in the room, and the radio, and beating the cold water faucet and radiator. Too, isn't it being a bit presumptuous to assume that these boys would prefer dining room fare to any other? After all, we do go home from dinner occasionally.

* * *

Good Duke University, according to the Chronicle, has a certain freshman who had just bought a new text book being a bit overtrying to get to class before a new book came out." Having nothing. Like the morning after, wait until semester exams before you buy your books.

* * *

It was after the dance. . . and the night was very calm. He didn't try to keep her arms.

* * *

For fear she'd think him bold. For sure his mind was cold. He asked her once or twice And with chattering teeth She said, "I'll be glad to, I'm sure."

—Auburn Flutterings.

* * *

From the Toreador we learn that the freshman at the University of Houston is being punished for stealing a chemise from the clothes line of a girl living at the A. O. Pi house, was given a rather severe sentence when he pleaded that it was his first misdemeanor. Continue to hang your clothes in the window. Or, on! Watch our friends grow up before they read this.

* * *

The Crimson-White observes that the human eye responds to flashes of light lasting only from 1-100,000th to 1-1,000th of a second, according to Dr. J. W. Beam professor of physics at the University of Virginia. We'll warrant that if these flashes of light were accompanied by a fist in the nose eye, and if the eyes were attractive the responses would be even quicker.

* * *

Said the mighty mountain to the river far below:
"I'll halt your every chanic
And I'll hide you far from view;
I'll cause an avalanche and I'll stop your many flow."
But the sassy river answered:
"I'll be dammed if you do."

* * *

Columbia university, according to the Tech Orbris, has a regular wake-up-call system. For a small fee paid in advance, he makes the rounds, waking up sleepers in time for class. The height of the university's social season is also the time for his busiest days. It is the people he wakes up after 3 o'clock in the morning, however, this "wake-upper" should ask all means, have his life insured.

* * *

The Montana Kaimin reports that 84 per cent of the graduate of the 1935 graduating class had found employment. We didn't know jobs were so easy to obtain. Perhaps someone else would better come back and be graduate years after.

* * *

Now I sit me down to study
I pray the Lord I don't get nutty!
And when I have learned the junk,
I pray the Lord that I don't flunk.
—North East Missourian.

* * *

Lehigh's dean, Mr. Mac. Mc-Cumber states that the purpose of education, with little allowance made for the individual, is contributing to civilized delinquency. If he is right, imagine what Dillinger could have done had he had a college education.

* * *

Playful little room-mate,
She is so full of fun;
Whenever she begins to cheer
You had better start to run.

—Kaimin.

The Social Week

Newman Club Delegates Will Be Entertained Extensively

Beginning with a reception, which will be held in Broward house tonight, the Newman club will entertain the delegates to the Southeast Province convention with several social functions this week-end.

The reception will begin at 8 o'clock, with Catherine McGarry in charge. The lounge will be decorated with vases and low bowls of seasonal flowers for the occasion.

During the evening punch and cookies will be served while the delegates are introduced to the members of the local club.

Banquet and Dance

Tomorrow night at 6 o'clock there will be a formal banquet in the private dining-room of the Dutch Kitchen.

The decorations at this time will be in red and yellow, the club colors. Menus will be made in the form of Newman club seals on a red background with yellow lettering. Place cards will also carry out the color scheme. A large illuminated seal will be placed behind the speaker's table.

The program for the evening will include toasts to the old and new officers and a talk by Father William Zisbarth of Miami. Miss Thomas E. Grady, of Miami, will be the toastmistress at this time.

Following the banquet there will be a dance at the gymnasium at 9:15 o'clock.

At one end of the dance floor an American flag will be hung with red white, and blue streamers extending to the center of the gym and at the other a large Newman club seal with red and yellow streamers.

The gymnasium will be divided into four units decorated with the colors of the four colleges which will be represented. From each unit streamers, the color of the college represented, will extend to meet at the center. The lights will be covered with red and yellow crepe paper.

Shrubbery will be used around the dance floor. Curtis Davidson's orchestra will furnish the music for this affair. During a brief intermission Viola Brooks will entertain with several tap dances and Alice Wahl will sing.

Communion Breakfast

The conference will officially close with a Communion breakfast at the Floridian hotel on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

The club colors will again be used to decorate with red and yellow and flowers being attractively arranged.

At this time Mrs. Thomas E. Grady will speak. The new Province chairman will act as toastmaster.

Members of the local Newman club who will attend these events are Mary Helen Barnhart, Betty Bleckinck, Mary Honor Colemao, Anne Coomes, Kitty Cranley, Ann Dickson, Ella Arcasarna, Coletta Cutillas, Laura Doub, Catherine Fox, Aida Garcia, Mercedes Garcia, Rita Gillelyen, Isabel Gisenando, Agnes Goss Mayhem Goss, Angela Grilley, Dorothy Hoffman, Ruth Deakin, Marie Joffre, Margaret Claire Laffrey, Anne Lange, Josephina Lamara, Adelaide Lounds, Elizabeth Lounds, Maurita Lussier, Louella Lynch, Zula Marchetta, Catherine McGarty, Rosemary McGlinchy, Mary McDonough, Dorothy oliver, Marion Lee Mercy, Frances Poole, Jessette Nordman, Margaret Oliver, Mary Elizabeth Grisman, Cicilia O'Rourke, Nan O'Shaughnessy, Jane Quinn, Adelaide Richter, Ethel Runyan, Betty Snyder, Mary Sullivan, Vivian Testa, Virginia Toffaletti, Ruth Vreland, Marie Warner, Grace Mary Webster, Mary Esther Wills, Dorothy Williams, Marjorie Cox, and Clara Mae Sheppard.

QUALITY SHOE SHOPPE

Gives You Color for Spring

ONCE AGAIN IN LEAD IN STYLE!

Shoes Priced from ..... $2.95 to $6.50

Sandals from $1.25

COLORS:

Grey, Blue, White, Brown & White, Greens, Yellow & Green

Luggage Tan, Red and White, Red and Blue, Pink and Blue, Green and White, Blue and White

Come in and ask to see the Picollino, Ginger and Seabreeze Sandals.

QUALITY SHOE SHOPPE

COLLEGE CALENDAR

February 23 to February 29

Sunday

11:00 p.m.—Church services
7:15 p.m.—Vespers

Monday

5:30 p.m.—Orchestra rehearsal
7:15 p.m.—Glee club rehearsal
7:20 p.m.—International relations—speaker, Dr. Smith—"The Desires of Nations"

Tuesday

11:30 a.m.—Convocation — Morgan Bowl — speaker — Dr. Abbey, Mrs. H. Richards
5:30 p.m.—Orchestra rehearsal
7:30 p.m.—N S F A. forum

Wednesday

4:20 p.m.—Student recital

Thursday

11:30 a.m.—Elections—auditorium
5:30 p.m.—Orchestra rehearsal
8 p.m.—Symphony, Dr. Smith—"The Desires of Nations"—Broward lounge
8:15 p.m.—Artist series—Vienna Choir boys

Saturday

8:15 p.m.—Junior Minstrel

Alpha Xi Delta Has Banquet Honoring New Initiates

Honoring newly initiated members, Mildred Enoch, Gertrude Kuhn, and Virginia Cary, the actives of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority entertained with a formal dinner at the Dutch Treats tea room last Saturday night.

The sorority colors of double blue and gold were used to decorate the attractively laid table with a bowl of Killarney roses as a centerpiece which was lighted by candlelight.

During the evening a short program of appropriate toasts was given and sorority songs were sung.

The honor guests were presented with miniature pins as souvenirs of the occasion.

Other guests at the banquet were, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mendenhall, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Vance and Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Wilson, patrons of the chapter; Miss Dorothy Wilson, faculty advisor; and Miss Jessie Smith house mother.

Actives present were Misses Carlotta Cubillas, Charlotte Kinnie, Jimmie Pfaff, Mary McDonough, Elizabeth Roberts, Frank Widman, Monica Wiley, Marion Weeks, Ethel Evans, Lulu Walker, Eva Mae Lovelace, Wilnona Ireland, Jessie Mae Jean Crager, Rachel Griffith, Caroline Gavin, and Mrs. Gervex Morris.

Rachel Griffith will spend the week-end with her parents in New Smyrna.

Dean Nathan M. Salley left Wednesday to attend the convention of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association in St. Louis.

Alpha Omicron Pi Is Hostess to Pledges At Valentine Party

The members of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority entertained the pledges with a novelty Valentine party last Friday night.

Spring flowers and other appropriate decorations were used throughout the rooms of the house.

A skit in the form of an old-fashioned melodrama written by Laurita Pearson was presented by the active members and those taking part were, "Innocence," Mary DeQuenther; "Innocence's Pa," Alice Porter; "Villain," Virginia Weldon; "Hero," Mary Carson. The orchestra was composed of Nina Hughes, Mildred Williams, and Alice Sloan.

The rest of the program was in charge of Doris Goddard who gave two tap dances. Laurita Pearson entertained with several amusing readings. The active members then gave imitations of the pledges and the girls who guessed who they were imitating received prizes.

Following the program Betty Sary and Dot Pinaren served a jello salad, cream cheese sandwiches cut in the shape of hearts, hot coffee, and peanut brittle.

Hostesses at this time were, Edith Ayers, Betty Sary, Doris Goddard, Nina Hughes, Mary DeQuenther, Agnes Goss, Madeline McCall, Virginia Weldon, Alice Porter, Laurita Pearson, Dorothy Pinaren, Alice Sloan, Mary Carson, and Sarah Graham.

Pledges are Hazel Hoe, Pearle Hobbs, Helen Young, Lucille Finley, Marybeth Goss, Carolyn Daniel, and Margaret DeQuenther.

Library Will Close Saturday Afternoon

Miss Louise Richardson, college librarian, has announced that the library will be closed Saturday afternoon, February 23, in commemoration of Washington's birthday.

Personal Mention

Attending the Alpha Chi Omega convention at the University of Alabama is Jane Bowden this week-end and will be Pat Foster, Margaret Hall, Catherine Gamble, and Yvette Breaux, Polly Flint, Juanita Buchanan, Bertha Veith, Betty Brooks, Mary Katherine Drennan, Beverly Brown, Helen Cates.

Annabelle Linger will attend spring dances at Duke university this week-end.

Guests at the Alpha Pi sorority house this week are Miss Frances Milton of Jacksonville and Miss Elizabeth Allen of Tallahassee.

Mrs. Franklin Jefferson from Albany was a guest at the Alpha Delta Pi house last week-end.

Doris Listed is visiting in Bustis this week-end.

Amber Turner will spend this week-end in Tampa where she will be maid-of-honor at a wedding.

Helen Godwin will be the guest of Phyllis Gewin at her home in Mobile this week-end.

Doris Goddard will have as her guests Virginia Weldon and Dorothy Gresham at her home in Palatka this week-end.

Sara Graham will visit friends and relatives in Lakeland this week-end.

Visiting at the Alpha Xi Delta house are Mr. and Mrs. Alden Sumner and daughter Marjorie of Castleburg, Ky. Mrs. Collier is the sister of Miss Jessie Smith, sorority chaperon.

Jane Moyer will visit in Ft. White this week-end.

Margie Creel and Genevieve Crowley will accompany Rolfe Garris to Daytona Beach this week-end.

Among those attending Mardi Gras in New Orleans this week-end are Wylma TurBush, Helen Kieron, and Merle Cason.

Esther Daffin of Marianna will visit at the Chi Omega house this week-end.

Joan Ross was a visitor in Panama last week.

KAPPA DELTA HOUSE WILL BE SCENE OF FORMAL DANCE TOMORROW NIGHT

The member and pledges of the Kappa Delta sorority will entertain tomorrow night with a formal dance in the sorority house on Copeland street from 8 to 11 o'clock.

White roses and dogwood will be used to decorate the lower rooms of the house which will be opened at this time. At one end of the house a bar will be set up over which punch will be served throughout the evening.

Invited guests for this affair include: Robert Cullum, Sonny Collidge, Henry Dozier, Billy Chase, Burwell Howard, John Ansley, Jimmy Watson, Curry Stevenson, John Burnette, Maynard Smith, J. J. Parrish, Herbert Bolton, Roedon Bopkin, Donald Blackburn, Rootie Cooper, Arthur Webb, Jack Parks, Al Galvery, Todd Harrell, Harvel Parr, J. Bert Hart, Randolph Thrower, George Sanders, Clayton Edmunson, Joe Phillips, John Knight, Alan Babcock, Dick Gardner, Paul Cochran, Boyd Harris, Billy Morris, Ralph Mellon.

Maynard Ramsey, Tweed McMullin, Francis Kearney, Speedy Chance, Bill Fuller, Paul Vaughn, Red McClain, Billy Mask, Rush Tyler, Charlie Andrews, Billy Van Brunt, Jesse Ferrell, John Hickman, Jack Harris, Howard Marvin, Jack McIntyre, Garnet Bone, Wells Joplin, James Porter, J. C. Dickinson, Bill Lee, Douglas Hopkins, John Frazick, Woodrow Wilkins, Bill Blount, M. M. Gregory, Donald Robinson, Buddy Lewis, Dick Beard, Archie Bill, Julian Peyton.

Dick Barrett, Charlie Littlejohn, Harry Ferries, Paul Brock, Roy Williams, Paul Perry, Wesley McRae, Paul Henderson, Lieutenant Tom Connolley, Tom Bunch, Ben Grant, Jimmy Swann, John Allen, Bill Wightman, Ben Bridges, Herman Gunter, Billy Oates, Conrad Hardee, Speed Kinnett, Monroe Baisden, John Allen, Roscoe Skimper, Fred Harris, Joseph Kenyon, Jack Ellis, Bob Stark, Crandall Hogan, S. G. Franklin, DeWitt Tudor, Monroe Lewis, Frazer Harris, John McCarney, Billy Mason, Preston Sherrell, Ernest McCuddy, Wimpy Bassett, Tippy Turnbull, Billy Norwood, Charlie Bailey, Hugh Embry, Walter Burgess, Willis Pugsley, Julian Lane, and Sinester Caldwell.

THETA UPSILON HOLDS FORMAL DANCE HONORING NEW INITIATES SATURDAY

The yearly initiation of the Theta Upsilon sorority will be held this Friday night at Annie Leigh Rollins, Olivia Sorenson, Jean Rodgers, Jane Wyles, and Ann Campbell.

The new initiates will be honored by a formal dance Saturday night, in which a George Washington motif will predominate. This formal dancing will be preceded by informal dancing at an o'clock Saturday morning and open house Saturday afternoon during which time bridge and canopply will be played. A buffet supper will be served at the house

To end the week-end a collegiate supper will be served Sunday night.

Ex-collegia guests for the week-end include Marie Frase, Hiran Evans, Catherine Tkach, Thelma Smith, Mary McMillan, Katherine Tucker, Nina Scruggs, and Marion Buchanan.

Other guests include Hilda Hudson, Sara Frances Carroll, Ruth Winer, Bocks Evans, Beth Deane, Lucie Lydon Orr, and Mrs. Sam Walters, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hall, Miss Mary Bettle, Miss McKinnon, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Sorenson, and Mr. and Mrs. Geiger.

Hostesses for the affair are Anne Donnell, Lucile Edenfield, Barbara Greene, Mary Loveland, Tessy Tumbles, Margaret Neil, Harriette Jeffries, Mildred Swink, Mary Louise Romshel, Elizabeth Lewis, Lois Hughes, Jean Rodges, Annie Leigh Rollins, Olivia Sorenson, and Lona Gates.

The pledges include Bernice Allen, Marie Wesley, Dorothy Stuart, Eunice Moe, Nancy Rogers, Eleven Sigma Kappa Pledges Initiated This Afternoon

Eleven students will be initiated by the Sigma Kappa sorority this afternoon at the sorority house on Park avenue.

Following the completion of the initiation ceremony a banquet honoring the new initiates will take place at the Floridian hotel. The decorations, placecards, and menus will emphasize a white color scheme.

Those being initiated are Elizabeth Spencer, Mary Hammond, Bascom Knight, Mona McClain, Margaret McDowell, Carol Ramsey, Ruth Sheffield, Ruth Cobb, Nellie Woodam, Suzanna Trussler, and Ann Campbell.

Among the actives who will attend the banquet are, Frances Wiles, Emily Johnson, Margaret K. Anderson, Anna Glen, Margie Glen, Babette Fleming, Janet Cook, Lois Forrester, Sara Mae Davis, Jane Geiger, Mary Ann Bush, Rosa Simmons, Mildred Hurst, Mary Della Irvine, Elizabeth Jones, Evelyn Kennon, Ruth Lisle, Vivian Marshall, Kathleen Owens, Pattie Sammis, Leona Stewart, Marjorie Weems, Martha Williams, Fenton Woodward, Sarah Hillhouse, and Marjorie Esther.

Valerie Hunt, Doris Geiger, and Grace Brewer.

Patron groups who have been invited are Rob Fodrell, Jimmy Gray, William Cooper, Byrne Jennings, Walter Bostwick, Thacker Rose, Jr., Bill Wood, Sync. Bill Stafford, Jimmy Grey, Franklin Worth, J. R. Rush, Charlie Hughes, Lieutenant Gordon Chester, Louis Powell, Ed R. Neff, Jr., Harold Leuning, Dave Anderson, James Davis, Will Noble, Jud Dovell, Charles Harris, Richard N. J. Myers, Ben Hand, Claude Lee, Wayne Ripley, Austin Wynn, Johnny Lipfizer, Eric Boe, Clifton Brock, Ricks Jackway, Johnny Croll, Henry Floyd, Glenn Dickey, Joe Pepper, Alton Dean, Jerry McDaniel, Dr. McCuddy, George Williams, Billy Wesley, Arthur Wesley, and Wilbur McCormick, Mary Rhoads, Margaret Ready, Virginia Hamilton, Clarice Sanders, Banks Wood, Mary Veasch, Betty Middleton, Mary Lou Hamilton, Mary Lou Parris, Wanita Hamilton, Marjorie Norton, Mary Elizabeth Margaret Schmidt, and Patricia Barrington.

PHI MUS TO ENTERTAIN WITH FORMAL GEORGE WASHINGTON DANCE SATURDAY

The members and pledges of the Phi Mu sorority are entertaining with a formal George Washington dance in the sorority house on West Jefferson street tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Bright colored balloons, and red, white, and blue streamers will be used in the decorations to carry out the George Washington motif.

Favors will be Uncle Sam hats, balloons, and other novelties appropriate for the occasion. Punch and cakes will be served throughout the evening.

The guest list for this affair includes Jimmie Wishnie, Notah Bloom, Gwen Gramling, F. G. Syrd, Guy Andrews, Godfrey Smith, Bill Reed, Clarence Parramore, John DeMilly, Red Smith, Rufus Yeomans, Roy Shufford, Fred Pearson, Ben Minhior, Lorenzo Cogswell, Charlie Alford, Sid Mill, Robert Hooper, and Wm. Rada McCollum, Walter Draughon, Ben Hill, John Clark, Bob Lowry, "Moon" Mullens, Hank Parrish, Charlie Rees, Edgar Skipper, Charlie Mason, Jack McIntyre, Maurice Faulds, Marion Husk, Bill Goss, Charlie Chapman, Frank Jones, Frank Inman, Bruce Barfield, Ted McGrath, Ernest Edwards, George Allen, F. B. Watson, Flagg Chittenden, Windy Sullivan, Brian McCarty, Graham Rose, Eddie Boardman, Wright Pearson, Jack Cannon, Hoot Gibson, Lefty McMullen, James Bunnell, Kimball Bobbitt, Grey Ramsour, Henry Jones, Tommy Munn, Chaney Griffin, Stan Pool, Ray Hunter, Cadet Frank McGann, Walter Mayes, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lawrence, Miss Alice Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Stubbs, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rooney, and Miss Reba Mae Devinney.

KAPPA ALPHA THETAS WILL INITIATE SEVEN; BANQUET WILL FOLLOW RITES

Initiation will be held for seven girls by the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority tomorrow afternoon following which there will be a banquet at the Floridian hotel at 6 o'clock.

The dinner will be served by candle-light, white tapers being used. Pear blossoms will decorate the banquet table. Place cards will be in the form of black and gold Theta lilies.

The program for the evening will include an informal talk by Antoinette Sullivan, sorority president, and short impromptu talks by members of the faculty.

The new initiates will be presented with Theta receptionist pins and plaques as memories of the occasion.

The honor guests will be Ruth Rooks, Mary Patterson, Dorothy Barr, Mary Frances Campbell, Virginia Clemmons, Mary Queseberry, and Betty Sparks.

Hostesses will be Antoinette Sullivan, Evelyn Ballard, Clarnelle O'Steen, Rosalyn Parker, Wylma TurBush, Mary Wise McCormick, Mary Rhoads, Margaret Schmidt, Mary Elizabeth Margaret Schmidt, and Patricia Barrington.

Classics Honorary Taps Three Wednesday Night

Three students, Kathleen Robinson, Holly Walker, and Pearle Overhulse, were tapped Wednesday night in the dining room by Eta Sigma Phi, classics honorary.

The new members are to be pledged next Wednesday, Initiation will take place on the following Friday at the home of Dr. Olivia Durman and Miss Edith West.

Members of Eta Sigma Phi are Mary Rita Thistlethwaite, Lillian Turlington, Helen Kirk, Josellen Lumpkin, Julia Vanderipe, Mary Kathryn Gibson, Valerie Stubbs, and Mary Marshall.

For Digestion's Sake—smoke Camels

Natural digestive action notably increased by smoking Camels

"COLLEGE LIFE is a strain on the physique, with its endless demands on mind and body. Often, as a result, digestion suffers. Smoking Camels eases the strain of the busy whirl—promotes good digestion.

People in every walk of life get "keyed up"...live too hurriedly. The effects on digestion are known to all! In this connection, it is an interesting fact that smoking a Camel during or between meals tends to stimulate and promote digestion. Enjoy Camel's mildness . . . the feeling of well-being fostered by Camel's matchless blend of costlier tobaccos.

Smoke Camels for digestion's sake.

Copyright, 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tob. Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

IN BRITISH GUIANA—the LaVerres feed a steer. "Camels make any meal a great meal," says William LaVerre. Mrs. LaVerre adds: "Camels help my digestion, in the jungle or dining at home."

GEORGE LOTT, tennis champion, knows how over-exertion affects digestion. He says: "I smoke a lot. Camels have a beneficial effect on digestion. They help me to enjoy what I eat and get more good out of it."

GUESTS AT KUGLER'S, grand old Philadelphia hostelry, for many generations, are shown above, as they enjoy choice foods. William, of Kugler's, who presides over the famous dining room, is speaking to one of the diners. William says of Camels: "Camels and good food go together. Our patrons naturally prefer quality tobaccos, judging by the popularity that Camels enjoy here. So we try to keep 'em all stocked with Camels."

TUNE IN! CAMEL CARAVAN WITH WALTER O'KEEFE DEANE JANIS • TED HUSING GLEN GRAY AND THE CASA LOMA ORCHESTRA Tuesday and Thursday—9 p.m. E.S.T., 8 p.m. C.S.T., 7:00 p.m. M.S.T., 6:00 p.m. P.S.T.—over WABC • Columbia Network

CAMEL

COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

Contented Cows Are Actualities At FSCW Dairy

Old Buildings Replaced By New; Six People Are Employed

"Contented cows" really exist say visitors to the new college dairy which is located one-half mile west of the Lake Bradford road, just two miles south of Tallahassee. The new dairy, built with an eye for the most modern in equipment, replaces the old buildings located behind the gymnasium and from which the live stock was removed only last August. Mr. A. V. Davis, manager, said that the dairy was completed except for the main office. Including Mr. Davis, there are six persons employed to do the work.

Altogether, eighty-four cows are milked each day, and the milking barn holds thirty cows at one time. Milking goes on at the rate of 30 cows in thirty-five minutes, and is done twice a day, at four-thirty in the morning, and at three-thirty in the afternoon. Electric equipment is used for the most part, but a very small part is done by hand.

All the milk, which amounts to about 170 gallons a day or about 1190 gallons a week, is brought to the college dining room twice a day in trucks.

The temperature of the milk is lowered by the milk being passed over a system of brine pipes whose temperature is 16 degrees centigrade. The milk is not pasteurized but is delivered to students "in the raw".

The food for the cows, which contains ground soap corn, white bran, velvet beans, and cotton seed meal, is bought in bulk and is ground and prepared at the dairy. About four and one half tons of feed are used a week.

Among other modern ideas incorporated in the college's model dairy are showers. On their way to be milked the cows come through these showers and are then dried in the barn. And besides showers the cow passes some other modern conveniences such as drinking fountains. Why shouldn't they be contented cows?

Prize Offered For Best Song

A college song contest will be held this year as customary in connection with F. S. C. W. week.

The purpose of the contest is to stimulate school spirit in song and the song considered best is added to a group of songs generally sung at student gatherings.

This year the winning song will be featured on Skit Night during F. S. C. W. week, when the winner will be presented and awarded the prize.

All entries must be given to Mickey Conn by February 28, and both words and music must be original. Any student may submit a song.

Little Theater Players To Broadcast Program Over WTAL in March

Members of the Little Theater orchestra will broadcast from station WTAL on March 2, during the dinner hour. Radio will be at nine o'clock Saturday morning.

Mr. Owen B. Sellers who is the director of the orchestra, stated that loud speakers will probably be set up in the dining room so that the students may hear the program.

The personnel of the orchestra includes Martha Reddick, Betty Lou Bryan, Mary Ann Hart, Miller, Martha Lee Wilkerson, Jean Gregg, Betsy Anderson, Marjorie Tullis, Hazel Bowman, Louise Johnson, Virginia Long, Veola Evans, and Helen Hollingsworth.

Members and Pledges Of Zeta Tau Alpha Plan Breakfast

The members and pledges of the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority are being entertained with a breakfast at the Floridan hotel tomorrow morning at 9:30

A George Washington motif will be carried out in the decorations and place cards.

The menu includes orange juice, ham and eggs, grits, toast, jelly, and coffee.

Attending this breakfast will be Harold E. Gooding, Atkins Embry, Lotus Dyal, Hal Jones, Wade Hull, Jack Sessard, Lewis Wadsworth, W. C. McCall, Don Nashas, Frank Hay, Richard Thede, Victor Embry, Raymond Barnes, Floyd Baker, Francis Williams.

Dorothy Borden, Frances Lingle, Elizabeth Simpson, Betty Leach, Eloise Cork, Marjorie Stump, Fay Levert, Margaret Arnold, Mary Lou Torade, Evelyn Stump, Frances Pemberton, Clara Lankford, Mary Frank Price, Esther Hay, Ella Pare, Lois Long, Virginia Shultz, Betty Fellows, Betty Wadsworth, Elaine Britt, Elizabeth Green, and Mrs. Gibson.

Phi Mu Pledges Fete Members at Supper Valentine's Eve

The pledges of the Phi Mu sorority entertained the actives with a Valentine supper last Friday night in the sorority house on West Jefferson street.

The Valentine motif was carried out in the table covers and napkins which were decorated with red hearts. Red candy hearts were also used.

The menu included salmon salad, sandwiches, olives, potato chips, coffee, and mints. The committee in charge of the arrangements for the supper included Lillian Simmons, Lillian Liken, Elizabeth Fenn, and Elizabeth Malone.

Hostesses were Caroline Barrett, Nancy Bryan, Joe Cunningham, Sophie Draughton, Pearl Gay, Peggy Gerald, May Ingle, Mary Jane Johnston, Ethel Jones, Jean Smith, Helen Stewart, Margaret Wilson, and Marian Purviance.

Delta Zetas to Give George Washington Dance Tomorrow

A George Washington theme will be carried out in the decorations and entertainment at the Delta Zeta dance which will be held tomorrow night at the sorority house on West College avenue at 8 o'clock.

The decorations will consist of streamers of red, white, and blue crepe paper with gaily colored balloons suspended from the ceiling. The girls will use small red hatchets to tag their dancing partners.

The punch taste will be arranged in the shape of a drum covered with red, white, and blue, paper, with red carnations gracefully placed around the top. Punch will be served throughout the evening.

Hostesses at this time will be, Kathleen Harris, Margaret Pinkerson, Mary Glen Coarsey, Adelaide Ireland, Jean Jackson, Edith Atkinson, Emily Bush, Martha Moore, Jeanette Nordman, Dorothea Brahman, and Margaret Stoutamire.

Invited guests include friends and dates of the sorority members.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA SORORITY WILL HONOR VISITORS AT BUFFET SUPPER

Honoring several visitors from Ocala the members and pledges of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority will entertain Saturday night at six o'clock with a buffet supper at the sorority house.

A red, buff and green motif will be emphasized.

After the guests have arrived a supper consisting of a meat course, salad course, celery and olives, sandwiches, ice cream and cake, will be served.

The honorees are Miss Margery Lanier, Miss Marion Thomas, Miss Rose Condon, Miss Kitty Smith, and Miss Doris Byrd of Ocala. Guests from Tallahassee will be Miss Esther Atrun, Miss Jessie Ferrell, Miss Kitty Benson, Miss Jean McCord, Miss Mary Myers Alfred, Miss Katherine Perkins, Miss Bess Rickards, Miss Lavine Voss, Miss Clifton Van Brunt, and Miss Harriet Kent.

Members and pledges of the chapter who will act as hostesses, Betsey Anderson, Frances Bishop, Amner Turner, Victoria Curtis, Doris Isted, Catherine McCarry, Nellie Lamar, Janie Gallemore, Nadia Grainger, Mercia Scott, Westa Wilkins, Dorothy Bryan, Mary Nell Pinckard, Nan O'Shaughnessy, Helen Godwin, Pyrilis Guin, Mary Ward Peterson, Rosalie McDonald, Louise Hill.

Mary Helen Barnhart, Margaret Boteler, Flo Bottari, Caroline Bond, Martha Poitis, Julia Harrison, Mary Ann Hart, Julia Hodgson, Virginia Jepson, Elsie Kersey, Helen Lane, Mary Melton, Middie Moore, Margaret Oliver, Kathryn Patterson, Isabelle Satterfield, Clara Stewart, Barbara Swanstrom, and Nancy Williams.

ADAMS' STUDIO
"Photographs that Please"
121 E. College Ave. Phone 397

Mercer Glee Club Orchestra

The program to be presented tonight by the Mercer Collegians will also feature orchestral selections and novelty numbers by the orchestra.

College Soph is Seen as Friendless And Unloved Being in Campus Whirl

Is Considered Negligible Factor in Academic Equation Group

By ELOISE ANDREWS

There is no being so universally unloved and friendless as a college sophomore.

Consider, for example, the plight of a sophomore on our own campus. Here is neither the prissy tine artlessness of the freshman nor the sophisticated aplomb of the junior or senior. She and her classmates constitute an amorphous mass to which one can with difficulty ascribe a definite character or distinctive role in the college scheme. She is, in brief, very generally looked upon as a negligible factor in the academic equation.

How great a contrast to the forlorn and neglected sophomore is the blithe newcomer in our midst—the little freshman! She is the baby of the college family, and consequently the recipient of all the teasing, petting, and spoiling to which the "baby" is traditionally entitled. With the rapt attention with which we would follow the wavering steps of a child just learning to walk, we witness the freshman's first stumbling genuflections before the goddess of learning.

We decree that she must be "oriented" and accordingly send her forth into giddy rounds of parties, lectures, teas, class meetings, and sorority rushes which leave her with a feeling of dizzy exaltation. We foster the development of a vociferous esprit de corps among those of her rank by segregating them in dormitories of their very own, with here and there a sprinkling of "advisers" and "house chairmen" to show them the way they should go.

As for sisters should, we rejoice in her happiness, share her little enthusiasms, and seek to wheedle her from her occasional moods of despondency by imparting a few sage morsels of counsel from our wide and varied experience. We may laugh at her blunders and tease her a bit unsentily at times, but we at least give her the full measure of attention which her ingenuous spirit craves, we do not, as with the sophomore, virtually ignore her existence.

Or turn, if you please, to the eminent senior. She is of of the elect. About her there has settled an indisputable aura of dignity, the guerdon of four years spent in diligent pursuit of knowledge. Wherever she goes about the campus, she finds herself the cynosure of admiring eyes. Through difficulties and discouragements she has struggled upward to become the apotheosis of our dearest college ideals. She is the faithful guardian of the Three Torches; she is femina perfecta.

Realising that hers is a glorious achievement and that soon she will be leaving us, to carve out a career or to build a home, we endeavor at every opportunity to manifest our admiration and affection for her. Senior! Even the very sound of the word brings a thrill of vicarious pleasure to those less fortunate ones among us who have not yet attained that enviable status.

The junior, also, is in a position to command respect. She shines as it were, in the reflected glory of the senior whom she is soon to supplant. Stimulated by the principle of obedience obliged by the sense of increasing responsibility which proximity to the dignity of cap and gown imposes she rises to the occasion with calm self-assurance and becomes an increasingly important figure in campus affairs. The name of junior is at all times one to conjure with.

How insignificant, by contrast, seems the quiet, unobtrusive sophomore! The almost maternal watchfulness exercised in her behalf during her freshman days has been withdrawn, yet she is far from grown up. Through difficulties and the junior and senior seem still a deprecatory wave of her hand

Heinlein to Talk At International Club

Dr. C. P. Heinlein, professor of experimental psychology will speak on the topic, "The Minds or Nations" at an open meeting of the International Relations club at 7:30 on Monday night, February 24 in 203 Administration building, according to Clarissa Knight, president of the club.

Mortar Board to Make Annual Plaque and Cup Award in Convocation

Mortar Board, women's honorary which recognizes campus leadership, will sponsor convocation Tuesday morning. Muree Reddick, president, has announced. At this time Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey and Mrs. H. F. Richards will be guest speakers.

During the convocation services the annual Mortar Board awards for scholastic leadership in the junior and freshman classes will be made. The junior and the freshman having the highest record will receive a cup and a plaque, respectively. The twenty freshmen making the highest records for the first semester will have their names placed on the Mortar Board honor roll which are kept in the offices of the freshman dormitories.

At a recent meeting of Mortar Board the official resignation of Dorothy Leach, president, was accepted and Muree Reddick, vice-president, succeeded her as head of the organization. Dorothy was forced to withdraw from college because of illness. Minna Dunn was elected vice-president to fill the place formerly occupied by Muree.

Confucius is Topic At Phi Alpha Theta Meet

The monthly social and discussion meeting of Phi Alpha Theta, history honorary, was held last night at the home of Miss Florence Tryon on Park Court.

The subject for discussion at the meeting was Confucius. Anna Marie Mitchell talked on the life and teachings of Confucius while Rebecca Keith discussed modern aspects of Confucianism.

Members of the faculty present were, Dr. Annie Pepper, faculty advisor, Dr. Venilla Shores, Dr. Kathryn Abbey, and the hostess.

Student members present were, Goldie Lewinsky, Rebecca Keith, Anna Marie Mitchell, Rosalind Parker, and Daisy Parker.

and a feeling of humiliation as she sees the adultery light fade from the eyes of her listener. "You see—that is— I'm only a sophomore."

It is perhaps a desire to find solace for the indifference and neglect so generally accorded her that has driven the sophomore to resort to her books and to scorn

One distinguishing characteristic—a reputation for studiousness. She is the quiet, unassuming person whom you see book in hand, trudging doggedly along the path of wisdom. She has discovered and resigned herself to the melancholy truth:

"Freshmen, juniors, and seniors have pals and admirers galore. But there's no one is all the world who cares about a sophomore."

During the reign of Edward II of England a law barred "the outrageous and excessive multitude of dishes of persons of inferior rank beyond what their station requires." Different meats and vegetables were cooked and served at the same plate to outwit the law, and stew was born.

Tune in Saturday Nite
On Station WFSC
"Micro-Mania" Program

The Florida Flambeau

Celebrate Statewide,
Local Third
Annual FSCW Week

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, February 28, 1936

VOLUME XXIII NUMBER TWENTY

lood Informs Student Body Of Elections

minations to Be Made March 12; Primaries To Be March 17

EADS TELL OF QUALIFICATIONS

fficers Must Be Subject To CGA; Must Have "C" Average

tty Hood, president of the ory Government association, nounced in convocation Thursday, February 27, the ures of all the nominations elections for the officers of College Government asso- ion, the Woman's Athletic ciation, the Young Women's Christian association, the ges and business managers the Flambeau, Distaff, and paracowo, and the Freshman ssor.

On Thursday, March 12, minations will be made in convocation by the student ty. Tuesday, March 17, the ary election for the presi- ent of College Government as- ciation, chairman of Judiciary, e vice-presidents, secretary, treasurer of the organiza- n will be held. The election these officers and the editors business managers of the three publications will take e on Thursday, March 19, the individual Tuesday. March the election of the officers the Athletic association, Y. C. A., and the other offi- rs of College Government as- ciation will be held.

Qualifications Stated

Qualifications, duties, and re- irements of the offices were gi- en by the outgoing officers during the meeting. Kitty Blood gave regulations governing the ting of all offices which in- ude the student must be a ular member of her class- as an average of "C" in the preding semester, have a health ard of "A," be subject to ge regulations, and must re- ve all failures and conditions t necessary for graduation. e president of the College Gov- ment association must be one from the incoming senior ss. Kitty Blood gave the qualifications for holding the of- ce which she contains: in- ligence, good health, ability maintain scholarship, an terest in her position, strong ersonality, fairness in dealings h others, and a distinctive ersonal law. The duties of president are to preside over eetings of the association.

Continued on page two

WCA Playground Moves Location

ooley Memorial School Gives More Space

The playground which is under direction of the Y. W. C. A. the Recreation club of this n has been moved from Lafay- ette park to the grounds of the Mary Ann Cooley school. The change in the new location was made by the school.

There are several advantages the new location of the play- ound which is four times larger han the space of four and five years. The grounds at the ooley memorial school are larger nd there is additional playground quipment available there.

A large number of children ill be taken care of at the new layground location. Between and seventy-five children re present at the opening of he new playground last Tuesday, January 28. During the entire ime there was an average of 60 children present, and an av- rage of 150 is expected this year.

An Indian project is being ointed for this spring when the hildren will be instructed in ribe tents, baskets, clay models, nd other similar Indian articles. Baseball, basebell, and volley all have been played by the chil- ren during the entire season. here are also slides, swings, acro- ss bars, and story telling hours or the younger children.

A change in the schedule for the ittle girls to go to the play- round has been made. Previous- y the girls went out on Monday,

Continued on Page Six

Candidates for Publication Positions Announced

Acting upon the assumption that with the work or heads of the three campus publications, the nominating committee has requested that the present editors and business managers of the Flambeau, Flastacowo, and Distaff, to- gether with other members of the staff, prepare a list of girls who will be eligible to run for the office of editor and business manager of their respective publications.

The committee asks that any person who has in mind a particular girl whom she thinks would be capable of filling any of these positions submit name of said girl to the Flambeau. If she satisfies the necessary requirements of a candidate for the position for which she is suggested her name will be printed in the next issue of the paper. Names submitted have been checked and ap- proved by the registrar, infirmary and personnel office for eligi- bility for office.

By such a process the student body may be made familiar with the possible qualified candidates before the time comes for making nominations in convocation.

Names submitted for the Flastacowo are as follows: editor, Frances Porth, Marjorie Tillis, and Grace Whitaker; business man- ager, Mary Miller.

The nominating committee for editor of the Flambeau are Martha Baker, Hani Bowman, Virginia Early, Margaret Claire Lafferty, Clotilde O'Rourke, and Eleanor Williams. For business manager those sug- gested are Caroline Adams, Lillie McDuire, and Clotilde O'Rourke.

C. P. Heinlein Talks To Club

"Minds of Nations" Was Topic of Discussion Monday Night

Dr. Christian P. Heinlein at a meeting on Monday evening, ad- dressed the International Rela- tions club on the subject "Minds of Nations."

After a brief discussion Dr. Heinlein defined mind as a gen- eral concept that stands for the sum-total of all psychic processes manifests itself in introspec- tion. "Mind is the collective name of another individual. "Mind," he said, "is the sum total of connect- ing processes in the brain or cer- tain types of adaptation or ad- justment."

In justifying the concept of mind, the speaker noted that the existence of a collective mind is justified on the ground that it explains the similarity certain directly observable aspects of man's social behavior. "In view of the fact that there necessarily are unfathomes of the mind concept," he suggested, "we may very well use the concept in groups of persons if the extension of the concepts will render it pos- sible the various kinds of group activities and modes of social in- teraction."

Before defining the word nation he showed that it is difficult to define, due to the fact that hu- man societies of present and past are so complex and conceivable variety of composition and struc- ture. His central point is that the unity of race, unity of language and unity of religion may be forces which make a nation.

Dr. Heinlein stressed common traditions existing for a long time and regarded as an important factor in moulding the character of a peo- ple, a nation," he said, "is some- thing more than a physical system, it is above all a mor- al and spiritual achievement. A nation is dependent upon the or- ganised system of psychic or men- tal factors which express in the life of a group and con- sciousness of the individual man.

A nation is a group bound by some degree of political indepen- dence and by a definite degree of consciousness that, through the integration of individual, social and economic forces and phases of it's individual mind."

Nationalism is important in the development of the individual mind and the opinion that "the mind of man develops through the acts of the mind of a nation and the mind of a nation through the accumulated life of a race" is manifold individual experiences. The mind of a nation occupies a position somewhere between the mind of the simple crowd and that of the highest degree of organ- ization.

Because nations, when they be- come incapable of emotional de- liberation and purposeful action, may assume the mental characteristics and behavior of huge crowds, they are very much the character of crowd behavior.

Then turning attention to the highest organized group he said, "public opinion fashioned by the highly organized group is the most rational." It is more than law- it is the dynamic source of law—it makes law.

"While in some respects the na- tion resembles both the crowd and the highly organized group, in general it is not of a high level of mind, it comparatively high level of homogeneity.

"The national personality is

Continued on Page Three

Life is Dull Sighs Student

College Girl Craves And Gets Relief From The Monotony

"Life is dull," complains a cer- tain student to another on the way to breakfast one morning last. She sighs, audibly bemoaning the fact that nothing ever happens to her. Every day is just like the day before. Nothing changes. Life is monotonous.

She stops short. A yellow call- slip is hung from the hook. "Call Ed and Jo, Mary Ann, Kate." That is all.

Here is something. Chief Justice in Harry's nick-name. Won- dering why he should be in town, Mary Ann, Kate, Jo, Ed, and Harry breathlessly gives the number.

"Line is busy," central answers.

Impatiently the student re- places the receiver and waits, tap- ping her foot nervously. It is not like Chief to telephone from Tallahassee instead of coming on out to the college.

She lifts the receiver and again gives the number. The line is still busy. This time she walks up and down before the telephone, mem- bers of the long speech at the other end of the line. Surely he is through now.

Desperately she calls 424 again and is relieved to hear a distant bell ring. Immediately a voice booms from the receiver, "Chi Psi fraternity." She almost drops the receiver and finds difficulty in recovering her voice. What has happened now?

Gulping, she asks timidly if Chief Justice has called for her. No one, she is told. Then, it must be worse than she thought. Chief would not be in bed. With effort she asks if Harry Watson is there. The answer comes. At last, in desperation, she says, "Please, operator there who calls himself Chief?"

"You are speaking to the Chief of Police, miss."

She is on the point of asking again, when a giggle behind her makes her aware of someone else. Realizing that the call has been a hoax, she turns to the de- ceiver, starts to scold the laughing group of students behind the door, and then bursts out laugh- ing.

Classics Honorary To Initiate New Members

Initiation for the three stu- dents tapped last fall by Eta Sigma Phi, national classical hon- orary, will take place tonight at the home of Dean Olivia Durham and Miss Edith West, faculty members in the classics de- partment.

Kathleen Robinson, Pearle Cr- ews, and Holly Walker, the three new members, were pledged Wednesday night.

Following the initiation cere- mony, an illustrated lecture on Greek painting will be given by Helenmary Pitzach. The meet- ing will close with an informal so- cial hour.

Sara Rutledge Will Speak

Sara Rutledge is to be the main speaker at the vesper service which is to be held this Sunday afternoon, March first, in the Au- gusta Conrad little theater at 4:30 o'clock. A program of hymns has also been planned and every- one is invited to attend.

Station WFSC To Go On Air Saturday 8:15

Annual Junior Minstrels Will Bring "Mike" Campus Test

MARY MICHEL TO DO ANNOUNCING

Radio Revue to Provide Variety in All Six Featured Skits

Station WFSC will go on the air Saturday night at 8:15 as an all star cast of campus talent presents "Micro-Mania," a radio revue, as the annual Junior Minstrels.

Including skits, dancing, solo and trio singing, comedy, and all-round entertainment, the re- vue will consist of six radio pro- grams with a theme of a broad- cast, with Mary June Michel as announcer for the whole pro- gram.

"The Variety Hour," first on the program, will feature tap dancing by Jo Binion, blues sing- ing by Alice Wahl, a modern dance by Mary Frances and Mc- Mary June Michel, and Edith Manford, Jane Bivetne, Gilbert Dey, Junie McCahill, Nell St. John, and Elizabeth Grilley as announcers.

A dramatic one act play given by Mary Stanley, Ruth Gaither, pose the second program on the radio revue. Those assisting in Rs production will be: Janice yton, Marjorie Tillis, Betty Brown, and Ruth Taylor.

Under the intriguing title of "Moon Fever Hour" the third pro- gram of the broadcast will be a semi-classical one. Modeling it- self after existing programs of the "Jamboree air," Betty Boggs will read poetry, and Mary Michel will be at the organ. Frances Hales will play a harp solo and the familiar trio of Mary Jeanne Mc- Kay, Marjorie Tillis, and Jo Bin- son will sing. Caroline Gilmore and Gaurlie Estes Yacobian, Dot Watson, Mary Ann Johnston, Emilie

Continued on page two

Faculty Three To Be Honored

Heinlein, Vance, Mooney Are in "Young Men"

Christian Paul Heinlein, pro- fessor of government, Harold Vance, professor of journalism, and Roy Mooney, professor of sociology, will be included in this year's publication of America's Young Men. Only three men from among the young men of the na- tion, according to the recent announcements. Mr Henry Becker, professor of geography, was se- lected by the publication last year.

America's Young Men is a new annual of current biography, the first number having appeared in 1934, edited by Harold Brown and its publication directed by Albert Arendell.

Only outstanding men under forty-five years of age are se- lected each year for the pub- lishers, names are chosen through the cooperation of officials of na- tional fraternities, alumni secre- taries of colleges and universities, governmental officials, and promi- nent citizens, including leaders of civic life, commerce and industry, science, art, education, agricul- ture, and the professions.

The biographies give informa- tion in the customary who's who fashion. Following the name of the biographee are noted his busi- ness or profession, residence, family and educational items. Several pages are devoted to men's church, political business and so- cial affiliations; hobby, favorite recreation or sport, writings, if any; home, and business address.

The opening pages give a sta- tistical summary of age distribu- tion, a list of alternates, and a geographical index. The book presents a permanent and au- thentic record of a group of prom- inent young men's achieve-

Continued on page two

Stella M. Cushing

Mrs. Cushing, lecturer on Rus- sia, will speak in the college audi- torium Wednesday night. Accom- panied by Julia Sprague, pianist, she will sing Slavic folk-songs on the violin and sing them in the original.

Candidates To Make Speeches

Committee Makes Several Changes in Present Election System

At a meeting of the nominating committee held recently several changes were made in the elec- tions policy which had been previ- ously adopted. A change was also made in the election dates, which now are as follows: nominations, Thursday, March 12; primary vot- ing, Tuesday, March 17; final vot- ing for executive counsel and pub- lications, Thursday, March 19; and final voting on all other of- fices, Tuesday, March 24.

Due to the fact that there would be many speeches in convocation on the day of final voting by editors and members of executive council, the committee decided that only the final candidates for the offices of president of C. O. A., chairman of judiciary, freshman adviser, and editors of the three campus publications should give speeches in convocation. However, it was also decided that all nomi- nees for these offices and other members of the executive council should write speeches or state- ments which will be published in the Flambeau.

Students receiving the neces- sary twenty-five votes for an of- fice will be notified of their nomi- nation by Thursday night, March 12. Their speeches will have to be handed in by Friday afternoon. The postponement of the time for nominations was made so that everyone might receive the ideas of the candidates through the Flambeau.

The committee felt that it would be fairer to have everyone nominated give their points than to allow only the final candidates this opportunity.

Members of the nominating committee are as follows: Kath- erine Blood, Margaret Graham, Margaret R. Anderson, and Betty Akin, representatives of College Government association; Rose Ev- nowski and Dorothy Lancaster, Athletic association; Ida Pres- cons and Althea Smith, Flam- beau; Edith Webb and Mary Frances Flastacowo; Kathleen Krentzman and Goldie Lewinsky, Distaff.

All members of the nominating committee are seniors.

Art Department Holds Display of Class Work

Paintings done by both begin- ning and advanced course students under the direction of Miss Beatrice Beyer Williams, profes- sor of art, and a group of soap sculpture done by the art appre- ciation class of Miss Amy Perry Briggs, associate professor of art, will be on exhibit in room 307, Administration building this Fri- day afternoon.

Pencil landscapes in oils by Mary McCranie Martha Make- peace, and Ruth Sanders are also among these paintings.

Watercolors by Betty Evans Lee Forester, Rosetta Whildon, Ortrude Parks, Ruth Sadler, Sara Hall Palmer, and Martha Makemon will complete the exhibit of beginning students.

The group of animals in soap sculpture include a number of bears, a mouse, several poodles, an elephant and other varieties of animals.

Russia Will Be Topic Of Next Lecture Forum

Czechoslovakian Visitor To Speak at College Next Wednesday

FOLK MUSIC AND DANCING GIVEN

Stella Cushing Draws All Material from Her Own Experience

Stella Marek Cushing, Czecho- slovakian lecturer and violin- ist, will lecture on "Russia, Old and New," here in the college auditorium, on March 4.

Although Mrs. Cushing was born in New York City and edu- cated in England, she has inherited all the dramatic and musical talent that character- izes the Czechoslovakian people. Her lectures are illustrated by native songs and folk-dances and her own violin music. Her accompanist is Julia Sprague.

Fortune Has Chosen

Stella Marek Cushing in vivid and dramatic portrayals, is inter- preting the plays and their cul- ture in America, believing that she was chosen by fate as a mes- sage of understanding and friendship between the two lands. Her program, based on material drawn from an unusual back- ground of experience in Slavic life and culture, is a revelation in appreciation of the temperament and genius of the Czech and Slavic birthright; from her Czech parents, who emigrated to Europe and America in violin technique.

Mrs. Cushing with her rich voice which is peculiarly suited to the Slavic music and her magnetic personality acquaints her audi- ence first with the historical back- ground of the present conditions of the country, and then, through music, legend, and folk dance, in- terprets the character and philos- ophy of the people.

Dramatic Personal Experiences

In Russia a new social order holds Western ideas and customs on to greater heights of national development. Mrs. Cushing pre- sents her dramatic experiences and personal impressions while traveling through this vast realm, dances, plays her violin, and sings the folk songs that she herself has met beautiful in the world.

The eyes of the world are focused on the Slavonic Nations, especially the present Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugosla- via, and Bulgaria are in the fore- front in the political and economic movements of the day. The Slavs have also contributed their rich cultural achievements through centuries past. Their classic lit- erature, their ancient folk- ends, and beautiful folk songs and dances. Mrs. Cushing presents the character, virility, and spiritual force of these remarkable peoples.

Astronomy Club Studies Heavens

Origin Stories of Earth, Comets, Meteors Told

A program featuring the earth, its origin, and the various astrono- logical theories of its origin, and demonstrations concerning com- ets related to it was presented to the Astronomy club Wednesday night. This program was the first of a series to be given by representatives of the Astronomy club which the club has divided for detailed study.

Ann Lassiter, leader of group two, told a number of mythologi- cal tales about the creation of the earth. One of the most entertain- ing of these was one explaining how the ancient Assyrian supreme being, "the world maker," over- threw a ferocious female monster called Manset, and cut them in half to make heaven and earth. According to the legend heaven and earth form a hollow sphere, heaven being formed from the upper part of Manset's body, earth from the lower part.

Mauvis pointed out in her talk that the ancient Babylonians pic- tured the entire Universe to be composed of four elements, fire, water, earth, wind, and earth. She also stressed the underlying

Continued on Page Six

College To Observe FSCW On Saturday

Local Problems Come To Front

Students Tell What Value Outside Activities Assume Here

A new type of procedure for the discussion of student activities, demonstrations, and honorary so- cieties was introduced at the NSFA meeting on Tuesday night, January 25, in the form of a panel forum.

This type of forum, as explain- ed by Mary Jeanne McKay, con- sists in having a pro and con side for the three questions up for dis- cussion, and one speaker on each side of the issue thus making six speakers. There was a time limit for each speaker, and following both talks, the floor was open for discussion among the groups, after which the audience had a chance to either discuss or ques- tion the issue.

The first question up for discus- sion was that of student activi- ties. "Is the campus over-or- ganized?" Betty Mahon speaking for the negative side, opened her speech by asking the question: "Why are we here, the campus is over-organized? Is it the girl? Is it the faculty? Is it those who are campus leaders? The fault must be in that girl has to divide her time between so many organizations or she lacks initiative. Mrs. Conradi, in her convocation talk, the Classical club, and Dr. Heinlein mentioned the examples of driving clubs that are accomplishing their aims and whose members are happy. It is definitely stated that the campus is not over-organized.

"The heart of the matter lies in the fact that the majority of girls believe that college activities mean College Government asso- ciation, and if the girls are not in this they believe they have no part in campus organization. We must do away with this attitude and have an organized campus in- stead of an over-organized one," Betty concluded.

Frances Matheson, speaker on the affirmative side, stated that the campus organizations do not necessarily include social events, public functions and athletics. She said that these things that we want to do for fun and enjoyment are organized by the girls and they lose their value." According to her we must have a well-balanced people and we must encourage participation in unlimited activi- ties without emphasizing any rich cultural achievements through centuries past. Their classic lit- erature, their ancient folk- ends, and beautiful folk songs and dances. Mrs. Cushing presents the character, virility, and spiritual force of these remarkable peoples.

Following these two talks, the speakers representing each group and then the floor was open for discussion from the audience. It was brought out in the discussion that it was not quite clear in the minds of the listeners, that the girls actu- ally agreed that the campus is not over-organized.

Marjorie Hodges, affirmative speaker on the question of whether or not FSCW should be represented should be kept as two separate organizations, opened her talk with the statement that if we con- solidate the two, we will do away with the entire purpose of the Demonstration, for it offers some- thing for the girls who cannot play basketball or who cannot play tennis games for a few weeks. On the practical side the finances for the Demonstrations do not press us, and in regard to the social problem the program is well divided there will be no great rush for one, but rather a more artistic abilities. Why should we do away with one organization for developing our artistic talent and creative ability?

Ruth Persons, speaker of the negative side, stated that the time has arrived when scholarship is more important than Marjorie gave credit for. Scholarship and faith in college would have a better pro- duction by a concentration of time and effort and by pooling our artistic assets for one great performance. At present our auditorium was not hold all of the people who want to attend the Demonstrations, whereas, if com- bined, two performances could be given. The consolidation would provide for a better production.

Continued on Page Six

Festivities to Open With Radio Broadcast At Station WTAL

DEPARTMENTS TO HOLD EXHIBITION

Street Dance Will Close Gala Celebration On Saturday Night

While the state is celebrating the second annual "F. S. C. W. week" the students of Flor- ida State will observa this week in a series of programs on the college campus.

In towns all over Florida alumnae members have ar- ranged for talks before civic and women's clubs on the "F. S. C. W. week" theme, "Some Returns on Your Investment in Florida State College for Women," Fac- ulty members of the college, stu- dents and alumnae are to be the speakers.

Radio Program Monday

A radio program Monday eve- ning at 7 o'clock over WTAL will begin the week's observance which will close Saturday with a gala street carnival in front of the gym.

Katherine Blood is chairman of the "F. S. C. W. week" committee which also includes Rose Pearson, Eloise Reddick, Mary Jeanne McKay, Mary Etta Thatcherwaite, Lucy Cee Linn, Marjorie Fain, Mary Green, Mary Miller, Marion Conn and Mary Frances Flastacowo of the presidents' council.

The radio program Monday evening will include a talk by Katherine Blood and a musical selection by the glee club ar- ranged for by Josephine Binion. "Campus on Gold" and "With Spirits So Bright" will be the col- lege songs sung. The college din- ner will be equipped with music for a reception of the program.

Miss Olivia Durham, dean of stu- dents, will speak at the convoca- tion program Tuesday on the theme of the week. "Some Returns on Your Investment at Florida State College for Women" from the viewpoint of the students.

Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock the public will be given an

Continued on page five

Dorman Reports On Association

FSCC Receives Favorable Comments of Deans

Florida State college is con- stantly gaining in reputation, Dean Olivia Dorman of this col- lege found on her recent trip to Atlanta, Ga., where she attended the convention of the National Association of Deans of Women.

Dean Sarah Blanstein, of Northern college of Business Uni- versity, who is chairman also of the American Council of Guidance and Personnel Associations spoke highly of the girls Florida State college sends to Columbia for graduate work. Dean Dorman said that she also found very much favor in reading and arranging student life on the campus here. Miss Dorman reported that all staff this year Edith McCollum, an F. S. C. graduate and Carol Cobb who is in charge of one of the residence halls.

From Dean Wooten, dean of students at the Texas State Wom- an's college at Denton, Dorman heard favorable comments con- cerning the Florida student gov- ernment handbook and freshman bulletin. The Texas dean requested copies of both.

A number of people at the con- ventions commented on the mag- nificent manner in which the convention of the Southern Intercollegiate Asso- ciation of Women Students was handled here last year and made favorable mention of the beauty of the campus.

Dean compared to many other colleges, Florida state has decid- edly liberal and advanced prin- ciples for the students, Dean Dor- man found.

Dean Dorman also met s' Sr. Louis an F. S. C. graduate, Cle- entine Newman, of the class of '32, who is assistant to the r at Stephens college at Colum bia. Clementine is also v the residence hall in a dorr ry capacity. Clementine i acting dean of Syracuse sity where Clementine graduate work.

Dean Dorman spoke very hi of her,

Choir Boys Sing Varied Program

Viennese Group Renders Unusual Selections

The Vienna choir boys, an ancient organization of boy singers whose average age is twelve years, appeared in a program of small operas, national, church and folk songs in the Artist Series presented in the church auditorium last evening, Thursday, February 27, at 8:15 p. m.

Famed throughout the musical society of Europe for their gutless presence and their bell-like, boyish voices, they presented a repertoire that included arias and Choruses of Wagner, Schubert and Monart, selections from operatic works of Humperdinck, Handel and Mozart, as well as national courtsies and Christmas songs.

The home of the Saengerknaben is Vienna where they live in the Wilhelmsberg Castle within whose chambers once lived the Hapsburg dynasty. In airy, lightly noded rooms overlooking the distant hills of the Wiener Wald (Vienna Woods of the famed Strauss waltz), the Saengerknaben pursue their musical studies the year around, eating and sleeping there, with academic tutors to provide them with secular education, and with a rich tradition of musical achievement that goes back 500 years.

In 1498, Emperor Maximilian founded the Saengerknaben when he decreed that the Vienna Court orchestra should have a chorus of singing boys. It was formed under state protection and has continued ever since although with the

Quality Shoe Shoppe

presents

Footwear for Spring
Sprightly and Gay

This Model
$3.95

We warn you!...if you're susceptible to Spring fashion fever beware the contagion of our new Spring shoes!...They are giddy...gay...exhilarating ...to wear them is to step at once into a new and younger model.

Quality Shoe Shoppe

Blood Informs Student Body of Elections

Continued from page one

attend to other duties usually pertaining to the office.

The president then mentioned the duties of other college government officers. The first vice-president, to be elected from the incoming junior class, shall assume the duties of the president in the absence or at the request of the president. The second vice-president, also from the junior class, shall assist the first vice-president, and sponsor the Freshman commission.

The secretary, elected from the additional functior of performing costumed operas.

The following is the program which the Vienna choir boys present in the college auditorium this evening:

I
Replete Sunt (for eight parts) by J Gallus (1550-91).
Omnes de Saba Venient, by J M Asula (1545-1611).
The Virgin's Slumber Song, by Mark Reser.
God of Nature, by Franz Schubert.

Intermission

II
A Song from Old Vienna:
Der Hausliche Krieg, by Franz Schuber—(Specially arranged for The Vienna Choir Boys—the entire ensemble in costume).

Intermission

III
German Dance, by F Schubert.
Little Landman, Folk Song.
Maidle ruck, ruck, ruck, arranged by V Combos.
Tales from the Vienna Woods by J. Strauss.

incoming sophomore class, shall keep the minutes of student body and executive meetings, and attend to all correspondence. The treasurer, from the incoming senior class, shall keep all financial reports, make an an al report in convocation, and be a member of the nominating committee. These four officers also shall be members of the Executive and College Councils and the Senate.

Judiciary Requirements

In addition to the qualifications which govern the holding of all offices, Margaret Graham, chairman of Judiciary, considers executive ability, fairness in dealings, general intelligence, common sense, courage, and confidence of the student body valuable for the incoming chairman, to be elected from the senior class. Her duties will be presided over all meetings and to represent the students in the Executive and College Councils and the Senate. The representatives to Judiciary, two to be chosen from the junior class, two from the sophomore class, and three from the senior class, should have common sense, and fairness.

Miriam Dunn, the present Freshman Advisor, said the major qualifications for the office, aside from those required by law, are average intelligence and the ability to plan and carry out an effective orientation program. The Freshman Advisor is elected from the incoming senior class, and will be a member of the Executive and College Councils and the Senate.

Y. W. C. A. Presidency

Lucy Gee Linn, president of the Young Woman's Christian association, thinks the qualifications for that office are: executive ability, an interest in the work and leadership. The duties of the president will be to look after the general welfare of the organization, unify the activities, and preside at all meetings. The president shall be elected from the incoming senior class: and the vice-president, secretary, and treasurer of the organization from the junior class. The vice-president, who will work with the freshmen, should be invested and have an all-round personality. The secretary will take care of all correspondence, and must keep an accurate account of all meetings. The treasurer must be honest and accurate, for she will have charge of all finance drives, be responsible for the funds, and be chairman of the finance committee. All these officers will be members of the Executive Cabinet of Y. W. C. A.

The president of the Woman's Athletic association, to be elected from the senior class, has the duty of presiding over the board which governs athletics on the campus. Rose Panowski, president, says the qualifications for the office are: active experience and interest in athletics, ability to cooperate, and a sportsmanlike attitude. The president is a member of the Senate, president's council, and the social committee. The vice-president and secretary, to be chosen from the junior class, must have the spirit of cooperation. The treasurer, to be elected from the sophomore class, must be accurate and honest.

Ruth Persons, the present editor of the Flambeau, gave the qualifications for that office. The editor, to be elected from the senior class, must have had satisfactory journalistic experience, one or two years on the Flambeau, with the experience of managing editor, news editor, or the like. She will be a representative to College Government association and a member of the nominating and election committee. The business manager, to be elected from the junior or senior class, should have a knowledge of newspapers and printing, be able to keep books, and have a great deal of time for working.

The present editor of the Flastacowo, Edith Webb, said that the editor must have executive ability, poise, tact, must be dependable and cooperative, have the ability to meet people, have self-assurance, and business ability. The editor, to be elected from the senior class, must have had one year's experience on the staff of the Flastacowo to be eligible for the office. She will also be a member of the Senate and the nominating and elections committee. The qualifications for the Mse Lockwood, shirley Pemberton, and the trios of Lois Hughes, Genie Glass, and Nancy Rogers, Anne Laurie Sanches, Dos Barr, and Pat Campbell, as soca soloists, Frances Forth will be featured as piano soloist.

Station WFSC to Go On Air Saturday, 8:15

Dances will be suited to the different characters of the ladies described and will include dramatic, modernistic, collegiate, and comic interpretations. Dances in this program will be: Janet Lockwood, Viola Brooks, Mary Carson, Betty Cashen, Dot Blackleford, Freddie Frink, Roberta Diamond, Dot Watson, Lilla Parramore, Eva Stewart, Matilda Peyton, Mae Hernandez, Nancy Adamson, Pat Hill, Becky Ashburn, Nelwyn and Sara Tillman.

Some of Florida State's most [illegible] will be used to capture the cast in this part of the production. Janet Chapin, Ruth Mock, Beauford Thrower, Mary Etta Thistlethwaite, Betty Cone Barbara Moore, Margaret De Cuniber, Tess Christel, Dot Hill, Dot McLean, Danner Baker, Alice Dean Mabry, Kitty Craney, Mary [illegible] Manning, Charles Sanchez, Edith Stanley, [illegible] Searcy Wilkinson will assist.

The stage setting will carry out the progressive and modern radio business manager of the Flastacowo are: executive ability, bookkeeping ability, and knowledge of advertising.

Sara Krentzman, editor of the Distaff, declared the qualifications for that office are: executive ability, experience on the magazine, a critical appreciation of literature, a knowledge of magazine make-up, ability to express herself in writing, and ability to criticize fairly and tactfully. She must be elected from the senior class, and will be a member of the Senate and the nominating and elections committee. The business manager of the Distaff must have a business sense, accounting ability, and the ability to work with people.

The P. S. C. W. handbook gives in Article X of the constitution information concerning nominations and elections, and the qualifications of candidates.

FACULTY THREE TO BE HONORED

Continued from page one

ments in a wide variety of occupations.

Twelve of the outstanding young men in 1935 were James V. Allred, governor of Texas and youngest governor in the United States; Dr. Carl D. Anderson, discoverer of the positron; Fred Astaire, motion picture star; Hugh Bralille, president of the United Press Associations; Thomas C. Wolfe, author of O! Time and the River; Donald C. Preitle, author of An Almanac for Moderns; Lawson Little, golm champion; Bishop Raymond A. Kearney, youngest Roman Catholic bishop in the world; Capt. Edwin C. Musick, chief pilot of the China Clipper; Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., executive chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel Corporation; James McC. Landis, chairman of the federal securities theme with black and white modernistic decorations, while the costumes will be modernistic creations by Polly Flint.

Ushers serving for the affair will be: Peggy McMichael, Mary Miller, Frances Morrow, Jean Clark, Mary Elizabeth Simpson, Elizabeth Malone, and Alma Butler.

Tickets are priced at twenty-five cents and may be obtained at the bookstore.

College to Observe FSCW on Saturday

Continued from page one

opportunity to observe students in folk, modern and tap dancing at work in a program arranged by Miss Nellie Bond Dickinson, instructor in physical education and directed by Rose Panowski. The class atmosphere will be preserved, the students to perform some of their creative work. The class in advanced modern dancing will complete the program.

Wednesday evening there will be a forum lecture by Stella Marek Cushing, student of Slavic history and customs.

Students to Speak

An alumna, a senior and a and exchange commission; Wylie Post, 1930-33, in memoriam.

Other distinguished young men who were selected for the who's who are Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago; Richard Halliburton, author; Fred H. Davis, chief justice, Florida Supreme court; David Sholtz, governor of Florida; Phillip and Robert LaFollette; Col. Charles A. Lindbergh; Henry Luce, president and editor of Time; Mark Van Doren, author; David Sarnoff, president of R. C. A.; Rush Holt, youngest United States Senator, from West Virginia.

AS FRESH AS SPRING!

That's the Hairdress You'll Want to Wear Now!

And that's the kind of hairdressing that Powder Puff excels in! We are presenting a selection of fresh, new waves and coiffures especially styled to bring out your loveliest features. Remember we use only new and fresh supplies. Why not phone now and enjoy one of our smart new waves!

FOR APPOINTMENT PHONE 656

POWDER PUFF BEAUTY SHOP
108 South Adams

Turner's "YOUR STORE"

Showing New! Smart Genuine Palm Beach Suits

THEY'RE COOL... WRINKLE RESISTING... DUST SHEDDING... EASY TO LAUNDER... OR CLEAN...

WHITES— $16.50
TANS—GREENS—BLUES—
PINKS—

Sizes: 15 to 20.

The Little Store
701 West Jefferson
Phone 1290 We Deliver

$1.00 COMPLEXION BRUSH for only 10¢ —AND 3 BANDS FROM PALMOLIVE SOAP 3 for 15¢

ASK US FOR DETAILS

SODA SPECIALS
Saturday and Sunday Luncheon
25c AND 35c
CHOICE OF...
ROAST WESTERN MILK FED TURKEY and Dressing with Cranberry Sauce
SMOTHERED FRIED SPRING CHICKEN
COUNTRY STYLE
Asparagus Salad, Steamed Rice, Garden Peas, Mashed Potatoes, Turnip Salad, Whole Wheat Muffins, Lemon Cheese Meringue Pie for dessert.

Order Potato Salad, Heinz Gerkins, Sal-tines, Large Limeade to Drink 20c
Ham Salad Sandwich, Potato Chips, Small 15c
Chocolate Milk with Ice Cream 15c
Chicken Salad Sandwich, Giant Double Dip Ice Cream Soda 20c
Fresh Pineapple Fruit Nut Banana Split 15c
Chocolate Nut Sundae 10c
Special Club Breakfast Every Morning 20c

© 1935, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

For Digestion's Sake—smoke Camels

Smoking Camels Found to Ease the Strain and Promote Well-Being

Life gets more complex. The pace grows faster. Where do we see the effects? Frequently on digestion, so often overtaxed by the busy world! It is significant that smoking Camels has been established as a definite aid in promoting good digestion. You'll find it worth while to turn to Camels yourself. They have a mildness that never grows tiresome. Make the pleasant experience of smoking Camels part of your daily life, and see how much more zest you have for smoking and how your digestion is measurably improved. Camels set you right

IRON MAN. Murray Murdock (in center), of the N.Y. Rangers, has played over 400 straight hockey games. "I often have to eat and run," Murray says. "Camels help me to digest my food."

JUNGLE BOUND! "I smoke Camels for digestion's sake," says Frank Buck, famous wild animal collector. "Camels for flavor!" he says. "They are rich and mellow, yet delicately mild."

And now we come to one of modern life's most gracious privileges—dining at Kaen's English Chop House—New York's famous gathering place of those who enjoy good living. "We've noticed that patrons who appreciate fine foods also appreciate fine tobaccos," says William, of Kaen's. "Camels are a favorite here. We've noticed that our patrons who smoke Camels during and after meals seem to find more pleasure in dining."

TUNE IN! CAMEL CARAVAN with WALTER O'KEEFE DEANE JANIS, TED HUSING GLEN GRAY and the CASA LOMA ORCHESTRA
Tuesdays and Thursdays—9 p.m. E.S.T., 8 p.m. C.S.T., 7 p.m. M.S.T., 6 p.m. P.S.T.—over WABC-Columbia Network

COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

Beauty Shop Notes

Exhibits of the various departments have been planned. The majority of which will be open today. Announcements of the faculty of these displays will be announced later by the chairmen in charge. These include: Beginning, Industrial arts; Craftsmanship, art; Polly Prediction, home economics; Wardrobe, home economics; Wardrobe, Ireland, botany; Frances Linn puppetry and marionettes; Mary Murrill, 4-H clubs, and Hilda Viertel, library.

Scene Saturday Night

Colored lights, booths and dancing will carry out the idea. The program song will be featured at the celebration. In charge of this are Eva Powier, general chairman; Mary Etta Thistlethwaite, Marie Conn, Rose Panowski and Josephine Gillies.

FLORIDA STATE ALUMNAE NEWS

BY RACHEL PITCHFORD

Inside College Gates

An alumna would hardly recognise the "ad" building as she passed "inside college gates." The right side of the building, as one enters the front gates, is in the process of being torn down in order that it may be completely rebuilt. This side of the building was condemned last year and since the fall school session opened plans have been made for its renovation, but work was only begun recently. The business offices and those of the registrar have been moved into the history building. The postoffice and the bookstore have been transferred into the other side of the building and classrooms and studios have been relocated. Possibly the only regret that one has in seeing the remodeling of the building is the necessary destruction of the vines which have luxuriantly covered the walls.

Candidates in college elections hereafter will be allowed three-minute speeches when accepting nominations, and the floor will then be open for questioning of the candidates by the student body. These are among the changes made in the college election system, following suggestions made by Margaret Graham, Tampa, chairman of judiciary, and Polly Eveleth, Winter Haven, in a recent debate.

Dr. James H. Cousins, a visitor to the campus in 1931 as a lecturer and poet and now principal of Madanapalle college Madras Presidency, India, received wide publicity from the Associated Press of India for his investiture on November 2, with the ancient decoration of veera sprinkhala or bracelet of heroism and ceremonial robe, by his Highness the Maharaja of Travancore. The decoration was given because of the organization by Dr. Cousins of the State Gallery of Indian Paintings recently opened by His Highness and as far as can be ascertained it is the first time this coveted recognition of eminent service to the state has been conferred upon an occidental.

The bracelet, formerly conferred on warriors, is the highest distinction in the gift of the Maharaja. The robe is usually given to scholars. The two together symbolise high cultural achievement.

"The Old South," a history of the South from the days of the American Revolution to the War between the States, written by Professor Robert Spencer Cotterill of the history department of the college, has recently been released by its publishers, Arthur Clark and Co. The book is a product of 10 years' work on the part of the author who began it before coming to Florida eight years ago from Kentucky.

Two hundred and eighty-five students made approbation this semester, an increase of seventy-one over the first quarter. Anna Marie Mitchell, Ft. Lauderdale, junior in the school of Arts and Sciences, with 16 hours of "A" led the students in hours of "A" this semester. Daisy Parker, Tallahassee, another junior in the school of Arts and Sciences, ranked second this semester with 17 hours of "A." For third place, Becky Ashton of New Smyrna and Mary Frances May, two freshmen in the school of Arts and Sciences, tied with 16 hours of "A."

Daisy Parker has been elected chairman of the handbook committee which was created this year. According to the provision made when this committee was added, it will study the handbooks of other colleges with a view to improving the effectiveness of the local handbook, in addition to keeping Florida State's handbook up to date and will help edit the book for the coming year.

Mercer University Glee club gladdened the hearts of Florida State's young women with song in a concert presented last week. Members of the club were guests of the senior class at dinner, the young men in tuxedos and the young women in formal evening wear. Later, after the concert, the Glee club and its orchestra were feted with a dance in the gymnasium.

Dr. David H. Briggs, associate professor of education at the college, has recently accepted an invitation issued by the directors of the Florida Education association to be one of the committeemen on a program of studies. This authorized committee will have as its function the stimulating of and encouraging of curriculum adjustments in all grades of the public schools, including the high schools.

This week-end will complete the time all [illegible] sororities on campus [illegible] initiation rites. Each of [illegible] preceding week-end has seen the addition of pins proudly displayed on the bosoms of girls who have been wearing pledge insignias during the first semester. Banquets, dances and breakfasts have been among the special entertainment given in celebration of initiations.

The Honorable Harrison M. Lakin of the United States diplomatic service and consular service, was the forum speaker at the college last week. Mr. Lakin who has studied, traveled and written on international affairs, government and politics in the Far East, India, [illegible], Arabia, Europe and many parts of Africa and South America gave a vivid picture of 'The Ethiopian Crisis.'

The International Relations club hopes to be able to secure a foreign student from the International Exchange Fellowships administered by the Institute of International Education. In order to have a foreign student on campus a drive to complete the Foreign Student fund was held early in the month. Several members of the faculty, the senior class of 1935, and various organizations have pledged.

From a student body of about 50 students in 1906 to one of 1,736 in 1936 is the 30-year record of Florida State college for Women, figures just released by Registrar S R Doyle show. Enrollment for the 1935-36 term shows an increase of 110 over last year. Sixty-six of Florida's sixty-seven counties are represented in the student enrollment as well as Cuba and thirteen states other than Florida.

The enrollment by 10-year periods at the college is as follows: 1905-06, about 50 in the college proper, about 154 in the normal school; 1915-16, 437; 1925-26, 1,397, 1935-36 1736.

Former Secretary Now Doing Government Work

Ruth Scandrett, Y. W. C. A. secretary at Florida State College from 1923-26 and daughter of Mrs Carrie Scandrett, social director of Gilchrist hall, whom many former F S C. students will remember, now is located in Washington, D. C. with the bureau of standards of the department of labor of the United States government. Her work deals mostly with wages, and is of an executive type. Prior to this she was with the department's children's bureau for two years during which she traveled all over the country. She returned after Christmas from a four months' survey in the West where she studied wages in the sugar beet industry.

After leaving F. S. C. W. Ruth went to Wisconsin for graduate work and later obtained a position with the department of labor of New York state. Her address now is 1016 16th Street, Apartment 82, Washington, D. C.

Woodward Works On Journalism

Now Teaches Subject At Henry Grady School

News comes of the achievements of still another alumnae journalist of Florida State college. In the Georgia Alumni Record for February appears an article written by Miss Margaret Woodward, an instructor in the Henry W. GradySchool of Journalism at the universtiy.

Margaret received her A B in journalism [illegible] Florida State [illegible] and was then [illegible] assistantship [illegible] She was [illegible] in journalism [illegible] year. The Grady [illegible] journalism is one of the largest schools of its kind in the south.

Margaret's article is entitled "Grady School Has Interesting Photographic Collection." She describes the collection of photographs mats and charts being displayed by the school "in the spirit of the new journalistic trend toward letting pictures tell the story

In another article contained in the alumni record Margaret is given recognition for having contributed frequent articles to the editorial page of the Atlanta Journal and to that paper's Sunday magazine section. One of the m[illegible] printed was "History in [illegible]" a discussion [illegible] Henry W Grady School [illegible]

FSC Graduates Give Recitals

Former Music Students Play and Sing Over Station WRUF

Praises have been heaped upon two of F. S. C. W.'s school of music graduates as the result of a musical program which they gave in Gainesville recently. The graduates are Lorena Eddy Dinning and Mary Hiatt McCaughan, both of the class of '29.

Lorena gave a song recital at the meeting of the Gainesville Philharmonic Society February 17 and sang over radio station WRUF the night before with Mary as accompanist both times. Mary also played two piano solos on the WRUF program.

The Gainesville Sun called Lorena's recital February 17 "of high merit, beautifully planned and beautifully executed" and says she "scored a signal success by her artistic singing." Garland Powell, director of WRUF, calls Lorena "a very fine artist who has great possibilities" and says she will be heard just as often as she agrees to broadcast from WRUF." He also says "it is a great pleasure to broadcast programs brought to us by the Florida State College for Women." Of Mary, who used to be WRUF's musical director before she married Powell's assistant, Russell McCaughan, Director Powell says: "I hated to lose Mary but at the same time our great loss was Russell's great gain and we always welcome her back to the studios whenever she will come." Lorena, who lives at DeLand, finds time between her newspaper job with the Daytona Beach News-Journal, her husband and three-year old baby, Mary Lorena, to sing and play before different groups.

Here is more of what the Gainesville Sun had to say about the Philharmonic Society recital:

"Mrs. Dinning, an artist graduate of the school of music at Florida State College for Women, possesses a lyric voice of wide range and crystal-like purity, which she uses with effortless ease and poise. A group of songs in Italian opened the program, Puccini's "Vissi d'arte" aria from "Tosca," with its soaring melodic line; "La Colombia" (Tuscan folksong), of lyrically passionate character and the rippling "Foletta" by Marchesi."

"The singer was equally successful in her French and English groups, clarity of diction being a notable feature, Paladine's 'Psyche' with its pleading accents was well contrasted with Fourdrain's brisk 'Norwegian Song,' and the simplicity of Dalcroze's 'Coeur de ma mie' quite captivated the large audience.

"An especially fine interpretation was given Saint-Saens' 'The Bell' in which the deep tones of the piano gave atmospheric support to the voice; similarly in 'The Nile' by Leroux a brooding orientalism was set forth. The exacting demands of Debussy's 'Mandoline' were accurately met by the singer, and the piano part was unusually well played by Mary Hiatt McCaughan, who served as a most efficient and capable accompanist throughout the evening.

"The closing group listed 'When I Was Seventeen,' arranged from the Swedish by A. Walter Kramer; Novello's delightful 'The Little Damozel,' the tender cadences of 'Little Blue Pigeon' (Needham); and the brilliant 'Midsummer' by Worth. After ovational applause the singer returned to present Manning's charming song, 'The Lamplighter'."

C. P. HEINLEIN TALKS TO CLUB

Continued from page one

conceived as the integration of collective mental processes together with an adequate and efficient mode of purposive and goal-seeking behavior collectively expressed.

"The stability of a national personality is relative to its formal continuity, a continuity that has as its source a dominant consciousness of a clearly defined, generally accepted purpose."

Speaking of the cooperation between nations today he cited the promulgation of group individualism as a sound political philosophy and showed how such a philosophy is bound to encourage narrow international attitudes, much misunderstanding and in many instances unwarranted hatreds.

"Each prominent nation," he observed, "seems to insist upon the sanctity of its collective mind."

He brought to mind however, that the few persons who decide the fate of national mentality, the diplomats and other representatives are instructed by their representative government but their representative government cannot do all their thinking for them.

How can we, he asked, "expect nations to remain sane when the intellectual constituents of the nation remain aloof and the great mass of mentally indolent and mentally deficient pins its blind faith in emotionally unstable, deluded leaders? May the time come when every potential leader of a nation will be required to pass a psychiatric examination."

Discussing the doctrine "War is inevitable because man possess a war instinct," Dr Heinlein repudiated such a statement in that it has no foundation in psychological fact.

"Just recently a keen expose of the causes of war and a sincere, serious attempt to insure the peace of this nation in the future resulted in an emotional explosion within the corridors of our own government," he said, bringing the discussion of war to our own land at the present time. "Whither are we bound when emotionally unstrung senators jump to their feet and yell "no" to the proposal of sound neutrality legislation? As long as we have our representatives dilly-dallying with the security of civilization itself, we can hope for little in the future."

"The future of this nation rests in a large measure with the students of this nation," he concluded stressing the fact that the interests in national and international affairs are timely.

"With the firm conviction that national security cannot be found in national isolation nor in the chaos of war, we can actively participate in government and become a factor in the national mind by wisely selecting representatives who are emotionally stable and intellectually capable. International friendship and confidence will be restored when capable representatives point the way to a better national character and a normal national mind."

F. S. C. W. Week Program

Monday—Radio program, 7 p. m., over station WTAL.

Tuesday—Convocation, 11:30 a. m., talk by Dean Dorman.
Danee Program, 4:30 p. m., gymnasium.

Wednesday—Forum lecturer, Stella Marek Cushing.

Thursday—Convocation program, 11:30 a. m., talks and college singing.
Faculty-student dinner, 6:30 p. m., college dining room.

Friday—Skit night, in college auditorium. Prize to be awarded for best college song.

Saturday—Carnival in street in front of gymnasium. Daneing and other features.

Edna Hoffman Writes Article For Scribners

Continues Journalistic Endeavors on City Newspaper Desk

Another of Florida State's journalistic alumnae has begun a literary career, an occupation that began within these college walls. Edna Hoffman of St. Petersburg, a graduate of the class of 1934 and who received her masters' degree from Florida State in 1935, in a letter to Earl L. Vance, associate professor of English and journalism, has told of her new profession, that of a newspaper reporter.

Since December Edna has been working on the St. Petersburg Times doing general reporting and school news. Her immediate predecessor was Carolyn West, also a graduate of the college in 1934, who gave up newspaper work to be married in December.

For her journalistic training acquired at Florida State Edna has words of praise. She says, "Regardless of what most editors say about the futility and impracticability of school trained journalists—I think your courses helped me a lot. Writing material for the Flambeau isn't much different from handing stories over the city desk—except you get worked a lot harder. Friday I did some 30-odd stories between 8:30 a. m. and midnight, including two interviews and a feature story. Anyway, the Flambeau has a good businesslike and professional method of procedure."

Edna's talents are, however, not literary alone, but also artistic. It was she who began the "Spirit of the Week," which since its beginning in 1933 has been a regular feature of the Flambeau. During three of the years she was in college she made the linoleum blocks which appear on the editorial page of the paper.

She was a reporter her first year at Florida State, coming here after two years at the St. Petersburg junior college. During her senior year she was a feature writer and while obtaining her masters' degree she continued writing and also did the art feature.

Many Distaff prizes were won by Edna during her school career, but the most distinctive honor conferred on her was that given by Harpers' magazine last year for the best essay submitted to it by students in colleges all over the country.

Now she writes that Scribners has accepted a short article which will be published in its May edition.

Students Honor FSCW President

Four Classes Present Gifts to Conradi

Following a custom begun sixteen years ago the birthday of Dr. Edward C. Conradi, president of the college, was celebrated by the students of the college the evening of February 20 with singing. Students gathered in front of the house of the president who celebrated his sixty-seventh birthday to serenade and following this, according to custom, the seniors and presidents of the classes were invited in to share the birthday cake.

The president of the senior class presented Dr. Conradi with the birthday cake; the president of the junior class a book; the president of the sophomore class candy and the president of the freshman class with flowers.

Dr. Conradi was born in New Breman, Ohio, on February 20, 1869. He received his B.A. and M.A. degrees at Indiana university and Ph. D at Clark university in 1904. He was married to Augusta D. E. Grothaus, of New Breman, on August 24, 1898. His two daughters, Elizabeth Lillian and Louise May Ruth, are graduates of Florida State college.

After serving as superintendent of schools in Carlisle, Indiana, and as principal of the Normal and Industrial school of St. Petersburg, Dr. Conradi was appointed president of the Florida State College for Women in 1909. In 1916 he aided in putting this college on the list of the Southern Association of Colleges. He is a member of the N.E.A., the American Geography Society and The Society for the Scientific Study of Education.

Mrs. J. W. De Brum Dies

Mrs. John William De Brum, Jr., the former Leola Anderson, of the class of '30 at Florida State college, died the latter part of January at Taylorville, Ill., Sallie Williams, F. S. C. graduate and industrial arts instructor, informed the alumnae office recently. Leola leaves a baby only a few weeks old

Marriages of Alumnae Are Reported Recently

Wedding bells have kept their chimes going among Florida State colleges graduates and former students. Recent weddings reported at the alumnae office include:

Helen Louise Day, A.B. '34, now Mrs. Stanley Ball Cooper, Silver Bluff apartments, Cocoanut Grove, Fla.; Helen Cameron Hartness, B.S., '35, now Mrs. Joseph Eugene Lyles, Venetian apartments, Tampa; Margaret Jane Radell, now Mrs William Powell Lear, 410 West 24th street, New York; Miss Mary Virginia Murphy, now Mrs. Robert L. Tolle, 5622 Delmar boulevard, St. Louis, Mo.; Ruth Alberta Brinson, now Mrs. Wesley W. Mizell, Live Oak. Ida Stripling Fennell, now Mrs. Lyman B Allbritten, Titusville; Lily McDonald, now Mrs. Robert E. Whiter Jr., Temple Terrace, Tampa.

Addresses Are Sought

Who knows the addresses of Eleanor Nicholson and Janie Gregory? Mrs. S. M. Powell, the former Maude Adams of the class of '23, who lives at Brewster, Fla., wants to know. Please send any information on to her.

"FSCW" Week Program Listed

College Faculty to Speak Throughout Florida During Week

The schedule for "F. S. C. W. week," which begins Monday and lasts through Saturday, with the faculty speakers and alumnae chairmen, follows:

Bradenton: Alumnae luncheon, March 7, Dr. William G. Dodd, dean of the college of arts and sciences, speaker, with Mrs. D. B. Sutton, alumnae chairman.

Chipley: Woman's club, March 6, Miss Rowena Longmire, associate professor of English, speaker, with Mrs. Olin Shivers, alumnae chairman.

Clearwater: Alumnae dinner March 3, and Kiwanis luncheon, March 6, Dr. Raymond Bellamy, head of the sociology department, speaker, Miss Maud B. McCall, alumnae chairman.

Cross City: Civic and Woman's club, and alumnae dinner March 6, Dr. William Hudson Rogers, professor of English, speaker, with Mrs. T. Capers Jones, Jr., alumnae chairman.

Fort Lauderdale: Alumnae dinner, March 3, Dean Nathaniel Moss Salley, of the school of education, speaker, with Miss Anna Jane Anderson, alumnae chairman.

Fort Pierce: Alumnae luncheon, March 7, Dr. Edward Conradi, president of Florida State college, speaker, with Mrs. Alto Adams, alumnae chairman.

Gainesville: Lions club luncheon, March 3, Dr Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, director of personnel, speaker; Rotary luncheon, F. S. C. W. tea, and junior chamber of commerce meeting, March 3, radio address, WRUF, 2:05 to 2:15 p. m., Miss Kemper Moore, dramatic director, speaker, with Mrs. J. R. Benton, alumnae chairman.

Graceville: Woman's club, March 4, Miss Rowena Longmire, associate professor of English, speaker, with Mrs. J. P. Ashmore, alumnae chairman.

Havana: Woman's club, March 2, Dean Margaret Rector Sandels, of the school of home economics, speaker; Alumnae buffet supper, March 6, Dr. Ezda Deviney, assistant professor of zoology, and Miss Maude Flowers, director of residence halls, speakers, with Mrs. Dee Weatherby, alumnae chairman.

Jacksonville: Woman's club luncheon, March 4, high school, March 6, Lions club March 6 and alumnae luncheon, March 7, Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, head of the history department, speaker; high school and Civitan club, March 6, alumnae luncheon, March 7, Miss Mary Settle, acting head of the physical education department, speaker with Mrs. Truman Hoyt, alumnae chairman.

Jasper: Parent-Teacher association, March 5, Dr. Marion J. Hay, associate professor of education, speaker, with Mrs. Epstein Tuten, alumnae chairman.

Key West: high school, Rotary club, Woman's club, alumnae dinner, Dr. Edward Conradi, college president, speaker, with Mrs. Nell Knowles, alumnae chairman.

Kissimmee: Kiwanis club, and combined meeting of Alumnae group, B. and P. W. club, and senior high school girls, Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, director of personnel, speaker; with Miss Eleanor Rosen, alumnae chairman;

Lake City: Woman's club luncheon, March 6, Miss Florence Tryon, critic teacher, speaker, joint Kiwanis-Rotary luncheon, March 6, S. R. Doyle, registrar, speaker; with Mrs. John McColskey, alumnae chairman.

Lake Wales: Woman's club, alumnae group, Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, director of personnel, speaker, with Miss Ma[illegible] Alice Lynch, alumnae chairman.

Live Oak: Woman's club luncheon, March 6, Miss Sadie Young, assistant professor of economics, speaker, alumnae dinner, March 6, Miss Florence Tryon, critic teacher, speaker, Kiwanis luncheon, March 6, Dr. Harold F. Richards, professor of physics, speaker; with Miss Eunice Grady, alumnae chairman.

Marianna: Parent-Teacher association, Alumnae club, Woman's club, March 6, Dr. Coyle Moore, associate professor of sociology, speaker, with Mrs. C. P. Finlayson, alumnae chairman.

Miami: Lions club luncheon, alumnae dinner, March 5, and Kiwanis club luncheon, March 6, Dr. Edward Conradi, college president, speaker, with Mrs. Charles M. Fisher, alumnae chairman.

Monticello: Kiwanis luncheon, March 4, Dr. Herman Kurtz, professor of botany, speaker; with alumnae meeting, March 7, Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, head of the history department, and Miss Mary Settle, acting head of the physical education department, speakers; with Miss Katherine Johnson, alumnae chairman.

Ocala: Alumnae luncheon, March 7, Dr. William Hudson Rogers, professor of English, speaker, with Mrs. T. H. Wallis, alumnae chairman.

Pahokee: Rotary club, high school, and Alumnae club, March 6, Dean Nathaniel Moss Salley, of the school of education, speaker, with Miss Margaret York, alumnae chairman.

Palatka: Rotary club, March 3, Dr. Mark DeGraff, professor of education, speaker, with Miss Pansy Pickren, alumnae chairman.

Panama City: Kiwanis club luncheon, Alumnae dinner, March 4, Dr. Venila Lovina Shores, associate professor of history, speaker, with Mrs. Ralph J. Bennett, alumnae chairman.

Pensacola: Alumnae dinner, high school, March 6, Miss Rowena Longmire, associate professor of English, speaker, with Mrs. W. E. Gunn, alumnae chairman.

Pompano: Rotary club luncheon, March 6, Dean Nathaniel Moss Salley, of the school of education, speaker, with Miss Marie Jelks, alumnae chairman.

Quincy: Rotary club, March 3, Dean Margaret Rector Sandels, of the school of home economics, speaker; Exchange club, March 4 Miss Maude Flowers, director of residence halls, speaker; Alumnae luncheon, March 7, Dr. Olivia Dorman, dean of students, speaker; with Miss Dorothy Feinberg, alumnae chairman.

Sanford: Alumnae luncheon, March 7, Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews director of personnel, speaker, with Mrs. R. O. Williams, alumnae chairman.

St. Augustine: Rotary club March 3, Dr. Mark DeGraff, professor of education, speaker, with Miss Elsie Maguire, alumnae chairman.

St. Petersburg: Rotary club Alumnae dinner, March 6 Dr. William G. Dodd, dean of the college of arts and sciences, speaker with Miss Carleen Vinal, alumnae chairman.

Tallahassee: Junior chamber of commerce, March 2 Miss Anna May Tracy, dietitian; Kiwanis club, March 3, Dr. W. G. Dodd dean of the college of arts [illegible] sciences; Rotary club, [illegible] Dr. Jennie Tilt, [illegible] physiological chemistry and nutrition; Lions club, [illegible] Tel. Exchange [illegible] Miss Tracy [illegible] lor, alumnae chairman.

Tampa: [illegible] March [illegible]

Continued on page [illegible]

Over Thirty Faculty Members To Speak on College History

Alumnae Award Rules Are Being Mailed Out

Copies of the regulations under which the alumnae award will be made for the first time in F. S. C. history at the May commencement are being mailed out this week to 8,000 alumnae. Read them over carefully and see if you have a deserving alumna to nominate for the honor!

AAUW to Award Graduate Loan

$500 Scholarship Open To Application

The Tallahassee Branch of the American Association of University Women will make available this year a loan scholarship for graduate study, the loan not to exceed $500, Miss Luella Richey, secretary of the scholarship committee, has announced.

There are several conditions specified by the association under which the loan is to be made. An award will be made when an applicant appears to have sufficient merit to deserve the loan. The association has made it known that it is not obligatory to make an award each year, regardless of the merits of the applicants.

Other specifications follow: "Awards shall be made to students continuing their work in a graduate school of recognized standing. The amount of the award shall depend on the expenses to be incurred in the school selected

"The institution at which the student will pursue her advanced studies shall be a factor in the decision of the award; and whenever needed, the committee shall act in an advisory capacity.

"The applicant shall give evidence of being definitely aiming to complete work for a degree or to complete some other equivalent unit of achievement at an institution of recognized standing.

"The applicant must have spent the last two years of her undergraduate course in residence at Florida State College for Women.

"Individuals who have applied for but have not been granted the loan previously may apply for this loan. An applicant must be reasonably assured of being physically and financially able to finish the work she has undertaken before an award is given her."

Those interested in the loan have been asked to write immediately to Miss Richey at Florida State College for an application blank (inclosing a stamped addressed envelope). Such requests should be received by the committee not later than March 18, 1936. Applicants must return these blanks with the information requested by April 18.

Dr. Conradi is Scheduled For Eleven Speeches Before Week Ends

The second annual "F. S. C. W. Week" of Florida State College for Women will be launched next week throughout the state as President Edward Conradi and more than 30 faculty members join with the alumnae in presenting to citizens of Florida the contributions which the college during its 30 years existence, has made to the state.

From Monday, March 2, through Saturday March 7, thirty-three members of the college faculty will address a total of eighty civic and women's clubs and school groups in cities ranging from Pensacola, in the extreme northwest part of Florida, to Key West at the southernmost tip, a distance of more than 800 miles. Some fifty alumnae leaders will appear before approximately seventy five additional clubs and organizations during the week. The alumnae will gather also in twenty-four cities for luncheons or dinners.

Theme of "F. S. C. W. Week" this year is "Some Returns on the State's Investment at Florida State College for Women."

Beside Jacksonville, Tampa, Miami, Pensacola and the more populous centers cities where faculty members will speak include: Bradenton, Chipley, Clearwater, Cross City, Fort Lauderdale, Fort Pierce, Gainesville, Graceville, Havana, Jasper, Key West, Kissimmee, Lake City, Lake Wales, Live Oak, Marianna, Monticello, Ocala, Pahokee Palatka, Palmetto, Panama City Pompano, Quincy, St. Augustine St Petersburg, Tallahassee and West Palm Beach.

President Conradi, who spoke at Pensacola last year, will begin a series of eleven speaking engagements this year on March 3 in Key West where he is scheduled to talk that morning to the high school, that noon to the Rotary club, at 4 p. m. that afternoon to the Woman's club, at [illegible] p. m. to an alumnae dinner [illegible] and later that night at a reception to which the public is invited. [illegible] college head will go to Miami March 5 to speak to the Lions [illegible] and at an alumnae dinner and will remain over March 6 to address the Kiwanis club. Dr. Conradi will address an alumnae luncheon group at Fort Pierce March 7, and, on his return journey to Tallahassee, will stop in Bartow March 9 to [illegible] the Woman's club that afternoon and the American Legion and auxiliary that night.

Florida State college faculty speakers during "F. S. C. W. Week" will include: Dr. Nathaniel Moss Salley, dean of the school of education; Dr. William G. Dodd, dean of the college of arts and sciences; Dr Margaret Rector Sandels, dean of the school of home economics, Dr. Olivia Dorman dean of students; Dr Raymond Bellamy head of the sociology department; Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, head of the history department; Dr Herman Kurz, head of the botany department; Dr. Coyle E. Moore, associate professor of sociology; Dr. William Hudson Rogers, professor of English; Dr. Harold F Richards, head of the physics department; Dr. Ezda Deviney, assistant professor of zoology; Dr Mark DeGraff, professor of education, Dr. Venila Lovina Shores, associate professor of history; Miss Rowena Longmire, associate professor of English; Dr. Jennie Tilt, professor of physiological chemistry and nutrition; Dr. Marion J. Hay associate professor of education; Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, director of personnel; Miss Sadie Young, assistant professor of economics; Miss Florence Tryon, critic teacher; S R. Doyle, registrar; Miss Mary Settle, acting head of the physical education department; Miss Maude Flowers, director of residence halls; Miss Anna May Tracy, college dietitian.

The Florida Flambeau

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1913, at the post office at Tallahassee Fla. under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

EDITORIAL STAFF

RUTH PERSONS ..... Editor
ALTHEA SMITH ..... Associate Editor
ARTHUR KUHN ..... Managing Editor
HAZEL BOWMAN ..... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Features, Martha Baker, Sports, Elaine Klepper; Society, Margaret Lafferty; Exchanges, Virginia Early. Literary Editor, Eleanor Williams; Copy Editor, Arline Lockhart; Outside News Editor Grace Mary Webster; Art Editor, Caroline Adams.

REPORTERS: Caroline Adams, Minna Agress, Eloise Andrews, Ella Brooks, Jean Brown, Marguerite Brown, Marian Conn, Margie Creal, Sarah Beth Davis, Margaret Dismuke, Sylvia Feiga Evelyn Faber, Mary J. Gallemore, Ethel Grandford, Patricia Hamilton, Frances Hartley, Barbara Holmes, Billie Howard, Eleanor Jenkins, Mary Lynn Mason, Dorothy Olmstead, Clotilde O'Rourke, Nan O'Shaughnessey, Mary F Phillips, Jane Quinn, Mildred Sampson, Sarah Sealey, Pearle Shepard, Elizabeth H Turner, Jewel Turner.

BUSINESS STAFF

MARY PATTERSON ..... Business Manager
Assistant Advertising Managers, Janet Cook, Grace Mary Webster and Clotilde O'Rourke
CRIL LEVY ..... Circulation Manager
Assistant Business Manager Lillie McGregor. Assistant Circulation Manager Caroline Adams

Do the Greeks Have a Word for This?

Have fraternities "outlived their useful ness?" It's a catch phrase, and during the past two years has become a favorite on American college campuses. Like all catch phrases, it is insidious, and accomplishes through its conduciveness to being rolled on the tongue what reams of logical argument cannot perform.

A warning to learn the changing needs and the changing evils of the social fraternity system and to act before its college authorities do is the "good" blown to all colleges by the "ill wind" that two years ago swept the Greek-letter organizations off the campus at whatever college. There in an attempt to correct "rushing" evils, the campus lost sight entirely of the contributions of the fraternities. Chapters everywhere are waking up too a real need for what they have witnessed their attempts, individually and as groups to defend themselves.

Student editors have contributed to the defense campaign, altruistic projects have been started and extended, scholastic activity and scholarship, political reform, and reorganized attempts to provide the "Greeks" with a practical, working idealism have come into greater prominence. Interfraternity relationships and fraternity-nonfraternity relationships have also come into their own as campus after campus has become infected with the catch phrase contagion.

Here at Florida State College the college Panhellenic organization has for the first time shown definite signs of its intentions to do something about the situation. This year a definite step toward improving Greek-non-Greek relationships was taken as the eighteen fraternity groups on campus banded together to give a series of "friendship teas."

Not only does this first demonstration be cause significant because of its intent to bringing about a closer unification of sororities here, but this unification becomes secondary in importance, as Panhellenic seeks take up the cudgels of reform and begin in good faith to break down the traditions of clannishness which are far too often just accusations.

The Panhellenic organization here, continuing its program whereby it hopes to foster closer relations between the separate groups, has substituted for its annual banquet attended only by a few, a progressive "Greek-letter hop," to be given on March 14. All sorority members are invited to attend, and all chapters are to have a part in its planning.

Our Panhellenic is beginning its answer to the general questioning of the fraternity's usefulness in the proper place—at home.

If now remains for the individual chapters of the seventeen national sororities represented at FSCW to contribute individually as well as collectively to the campaign. They are off to an excellent start. Real fraternity achievements are possible; not only the contribution of occasional celebrities to the world, but the just-as-valuable contribution of real people to a world sorely in need of them.

For example: with the economic depression has come a great deal of scrutinizing of family budgets—accountable for the decreased number of students attending colleges today. Objections to elaborateness begin where it seems most unnecessary, and fraternity dues which go for unnecessarily glittering social functions are among the first to be condemned. Fraternity life can surely be made simple and economical, for the old idea of "keeping up with the Kappas" is impractical.

And further: the more difficult it is to attain a college education the more appreciated a degree becomes. Studying is a serious and important matter, and a fraternity can serve its members in providing the proper atmosphere for good scholarship as well as good times.

Finally: a sense of responsibility toward the rest of the world on the part of an organized group can go far toward making the barriers between the frat and the non-frat worlds vanish. With greater social responsibility goes a realization of the need for political reform—a reform whose need is in many cases directly attributed to the fraternity's abuse of college political systems.

On our own campus the first step toward such a reform is at hand, at a time when sorority "rushing" can be made or break a campus election. A non-partisan support of the best rather than a grasp policy of pushing the "sister" into office is so easy of attainment.

The measure supporting second-semester rushing considered and rejected annually by a non-unified groun of seventeen grasping units could easily be pushed by a Panhellenic whose program of abolishing evils of the present system is sincere.

Fraternities are threatened everywhere. The time to act is now, before the question is raised on its own campus. Although no one fraternity can reform a campus, a cooperative Panhellenic can emerge from the body which is at present unified in name only, to meet our every immediate, and unquestionably serious problems.

Why Be Stingy With Honoraries?

The NSFA forum held this week brought to the fore a subject which has long been discussed in smaller circles and groups on this as well as other campuses. We refer to the matter of honoraries—and departmental honoraries in particular.

Most of us at some time in our college career question the value of honorary organizations and ask ourselves if they are really worth the outrageous sums which are required for initiation. But that's as far as we ever go. We usually take a bid if it is offered rather that is be accepted thing to do. People who don't are labeled queer with a capital "Q".

Also if a student is tapped in her sophomore or junior year and it happens to be her first honorary, she soon is so thrilled about the sudden "honor" that has been conferred upon her that a rational weighing of the honorary is out of the question. Then, too, many people consider a skilled employer to have a string of honoraries after their name. But often students will be tapped for a certain honorary and later find they are not particularly interested in the special subject which that honorary "honors." However, they have been let in on the secrets of the organization, have pledged fidelity, faith and loyalty, and are expected to take an active part in the work of the organization, if it happens to be trying to carry out a program.

Moreover, many people are beginning to question the fairness of system where by we have an honorary for a few select subjects and none for the others. If we're going to have an honorary for Spanish, French, journalism, and history, they ask, why don't we also have one for sociology, typing, shorthand, physics, and industrial arts, to say nothing of the other neglected subjects too numerous to mention? But there would be too many then, other people reply.

The obvious solution seems to consist in a plan whereby clubs and local honoraries would be substituted for the various departmental honoraries now in existence, and one national honorary established for each school so that every student would he eligible for at least one national, together with as many clubs or locals as she would be interested in and qualified to join.

Under this system the organizations might really be made into something worthwhile for those who attend, since only people interested in the particular subject would belong. At the same time, students would not be called upon to pay exhorbitant initiation dues, a large part of which is usually sent to national, while sufficient recognition would still be provided for worthy students.

Magazine Thumbings

BY ELEANOR WILLIAMS

HAS THE NEW DEAL HELPED THE FARMER?

A Debate

Forum Magazine

The farmers still want the AAA says Chester C Davis, administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment Act. Recently in the Supreme Court, who gives five reasons why.

First, the program increased the purchasing power of the farmers; second, it was congress the right to subsidize exports when necessary; third, it gave the farmer an opportunity to shift a few crops from the growing of surplus crops to the re-building of his soil; fourth it enabled committeemen elected by the farmers to handle the local end of the agricultural planning program and make gradual changes to suit their situation; finally, it enabled farmers to turn funds to the world on the same basis as that enjoyed by other industries, that is, says Mr. Davis, to furnish all the goods for which society is willing to pay it. Not for the right to bankrupt themselves supplying goods which society will not pay.

United States Senator Dickinson, in the same issue, the negative side of the debate, believes "crop control brings serfdom."

He favors those phases of the AAA which aide the farmer as much assistance as possible from the government as industries enjoy. However, he definitely assimes the idea of the government limiting production or paying the farmers not to plant surplus crops.

We do not solve agricultural problems by robbing the independent farmer of his enterprise and initiative by putting him under a code something Dickinson says. Nor do we solve them by resorting to a set of inelastic controls which leave out of account the ruling factors of providence and the weather.

The only way for this program to be successful, he concludes, is to put enough money in the hands of products unlike complete control. Farmers would then become similar to the serfs of feudal times, a non-thinking, non-initiating group.

DOES SOCIALISM WORK?

By George Soule

The New Republic, February 19.

In concluding his series of articles on the Soviet Union the writer finds that the final estimate of Socialism as now at work in Russia.

As to economic planning. Soule finds the absence of a capitalistic demand and supply that in the U.S.S.R. union has resulted in a shortage in many things that we take for granted as common necessities—soap and toilet paper, for instance. Likewise, the final estimate in this sort of thing, there would probably be a shortage of automobiles, tractors, social insurance, less leisure, and less education. The Soviet Union, says Mr. Soule says, is taking the future into account.

Before the Soviet Union can sell all goods always on hand, it has to be sure used to buy machinery and plants and provide for an army as a weapon of defense. This is further increase the efficiency of labor. Therefore, instead of consumptie, its economic set-up is at present calculated to the special of stimulating enterprise, ability and production ry differential rewards. Despite considerable increases, the Soviet Union hopes Communism can be reached—also by material equality wherby everybody has all the material things he wants—only those things but each according to his individual capacity.

To the question why the more successful in the Soviet Union do not get all the goods they wish the less successful, just as in capitalism. Soule says that the answer is the fact that their money does not give them any power over the system. They have no voice in production—factories, mines, and so on.

All the more successful can do with their money is to buy their own "cultural standards," travel, or put their money in government bonds or savings banks.

On account of their economic system, says the writer, the Soviets would profit from war. Thus none of them want war as they consider it an interruption of their effort to produce a better life.

MINORITY RULE IN AMERICA

By Charles A. Beard

American Mercury, February

Our constitutional fathers never believed in majority rule, declares Jan Beard, and they mistrusted a majority rule in this country.

Therefore, in forming the government of the United States of America, they were forced to effect a compromise as seen in the organization of a senate and a house of representatives.

The result, says Beard, is a system in which a minority group can gain control simply by getting a few more votes than its opponents. Until the majority clearly realizes that a group should be compelled to get a majority of the votes cast in its favor before assuming control, the country will continue to be ruled by minorities.

Spirit of the Week . . . . . By Adams

EXCERPTS FROM THE EDITORS

CHOSEN FROM UNIVERSITY NEWSPAPERS

EDUCATION

Education has largely ignored the economic and sociological aspects of modern society while at the same time encouraging scientific activity to the point where it verges on the detriment of man. In order to build for a sane, well balanced society the modern university will inevitably have to bend the creative genius of its youth to building an economic structure that will utilize modern technology for the benefit instead of the detriment of the whole of society. This will mean something more than amending the gradiate cuts to accumulate as much of the earthly goods as he can to be short space of his lifetime.

As long as the modern university turns out creative giants in the fields of science and chooses to ignore the development of a well ordered economic and social order, there will be no end to the maladjustment in human affairs. —Daily Northwestern.

CONVOCATION

Climaxing a long drawn out student struggle compulsory assemblies were abolished and voluntary meetings substituted at the close of last semester. This move was made hoping to raise assembly standards and create greater enthusiasm and interest on the campus. It is also in line with forward moving progress in great universities and colleges in the country.—Junior Collegian.

RULES

Upperclassmen are required to put out their nights by 12:00 p. m. Freshmen are required to get out their lights by 11:00 p. m. One hour has been added to the time of the morning and final lights burning; why have such a rule? A classical example of inconsistency is the rule forbidding the taking of baths after 11 p. m.

The above examples are just a few of the many; at the same time they are notable. They represent a situation which does exist and which sincerely asks for remedy. The past decade has witnessed the passing of a huge number of rules and regulations with regard to college life; students and faculty alike have come more and more to feel that the student should be given more responsibility in taking care of himself—for after all college may be a training ground for life. The Kernel does not advocate the abolishment of all rules regarding life of the students at the university; it does feel, however, that worthwhile revisions of worth while rules could be made and more liberal attitudes taken on a number of questions.—Kentucky Kernel

The worst of all propaganda is that which arises enough truth with its falsehoods to attract the support of honest but short-sighted men.—Toronto.

"HELL-WEEK"

Reverse is a cruel term. Reverence acted into actuality is more horrid. Civilization abhors the thought of it. In courts of law since ancient times there has been wisdom in the maxim that such a disagrarity practice as reverse. In social relationships those are sentenced who follow the contemptible dictums. Yet under

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

By GRACE MARY WEBSTER

NOTE: Jane Quinn has acted as guest columnist this week.

MILITARISTS made an attempt to seize control of the Japanese government through a coup d'etat Wednesday. The uprising began before 5 a. m. and apparently was completed before sunset.

The conspirators went to seven homes of their prospective victims called them out into the snow and killed them.

Martial law was proclaimed in the name of Emperor Hirohito. Premier Keiichi Okada, Admiral Viscount Makoto Saito, former premier and at his death lord keeper of the privy seal, and General Jotaro Watanabe, inspector general of military education.

The Japanese war office announced the insurgent officers before ordered the revolution had attempted to destroy national policy.

Yesterday British news agencies asserted that Tokyo was a battlefield city with the rebels apparently still unsurrendered after an attempted coup in which several government leaders and four score others were killed.

At present, an atmosphere of tense uncertainty overshadows the chancelleries of Europe. British officials fear that the coup might result in a Japanese war with Russia and a renewed drive against China.

• • •

LAST week Europe buzzed with rumors about new alliances and counter-alliances.

In Paris, a France-Russian pact of mutual assistance was up for ratification by the French Chamber of Deputies. The pact is similar to the Anglo-French pact of Locarno. The Japanese conference between the French officials because of the threat a successful revolt holds against Russia.

Very recently Austrian and Italian envoys met in Florence to reaffirm Austrian and Italian friendship. Based upon this meeting, rumors spread through Europe that Germany, Austria and Italy were forming a counter-alignment against Moscow and Paris. Although these rumors were denied, European diplomats are carefully watching developments in central Europe.

• • •

RENEWAL of the scourge which terrorized the "dual boot" region of the west in 1934 is threatened in six states as heavy winds sweep the grain fields from Amarillo, Texas north to Sidney, Nebraska.

• • •

THERE seems to be a world-wide epidemic of elections this year. We are storming up for the November election. France will

Pro and Con

Opinions expressed in this column are those of personality representatives or the editorial office of the paper. It is a column of personal opinion. Letters to the editor will be welcomed however and communications will be signed marked "Flambeau" and mailed in the postoffice.

KEEP THE HOME FIRES BURNING

With the final acceptance of NSFA's modified elections procedure (with slight alterations) as a policy for this year, our local NSFA unit has produced concrete evidence that, even in its yet embryonic stages, it can wield a positive influence on campus.

By attacking campus problems, as the group did in the panel discussions this week, NSFA can attract student attention to it more quickly than by any method. Welcome to a decision on such momentous problems as World Peace and Pan-Americanism.

This is not a plea that our NSFA should neglect these pressing but simply a suggestion that NSFA continue its present policy of seeking to make itself felt at the vital organ of student expression on campus.

Until NSFA has become recognized as such by the majority of thinking students on this campus, it might leave problems of national and international scope to some such organization as the International Relations Club.

As more and more students participate in NSFA discussions, and more and more evidence appears that NSFA is determined to offer constructive criticism on campus problems, it might then feel not too presumming in taking a stand on world problems.

Before hoping for future achievement, students will have to see their first feeble steps in college resulting in practical changes for the better.

Signed: Eleanor Williams.

REQUIEM

(for A. Roommate)

Yes, I killed her . . . what else could I do?
I loved her, adored her . . . yes,
The quite true:
But love is just clinging
For one, I have found.
Who imitates parrots
The music goes 'round.

—Egret

• • •

A student at Carnegie Tech points out that Einstein has stumped on a calculus problem. In desperation he broadcast an appeal for help and the answer is set. The solution came winging back from a professor at Oxford University of Texas. Oh! Oh Who wold love to have one of those guys for a final exam. Wonder if we could get Mae West.

• • •

From the Athenaeum we learn that a professor at Amarillo college, Texas, has included in his course in journalism a study of the sports of hecking, including his method of constructing wire traps, and pole boxing. The rest of course, are imaginitions created by the literary efforts of renovation of the Ad building. Guess poor but ambitious, eh what?

• • •

The Drexel Triangle notes that German colleges and universities have lost between 30 and 40 per cent of their students since 1933. Some people get all of the breaks.

• • •

A recent regulation has been passed by the Fuller Brush company that all salesmen must grow mustaches in order to be issued a license. Here is not a method. according to the New Deams Scholastic. Wonder if anybody thought of having a beard grown a share in Rinzing Brothers and interested in selling that stuff.

• • •

I've kept that schoolgirl complexion,
I've tried a mile for it.
I've smoke:
I've asked the man who owns one,
And he tells me it keeps him young.
I know a child that can put it,
To guard the danger-line I say,
I know when it's time to retire.
But falfied by one thing am I
I have not found the answer
Though my life time long I've tried
I wish you'd tell me whether
Or not I'm out of five.

—Auburn Plainsman

• • •

The Clarkson Integrator tells the police surgeon in Pridgeport who said that anyone who can't be is able to say, "Susie ate the soup." Like them, the use of "Ain't" is correct.

• • •

After our very elementary remand in convocation these days we like to listen to anyone who can tell us, like the rest of the common herd, only know what we like. Which is not to say that we're psychic, you know, although it seems we're expected to. What our ego is still inflated because we have the gumbo facility of minding our own business. So many people don't. Take the case of the student who is self-addressed envelope to the editor of his college paper, and needed of stamps at present.

—Florida Alligator

Mary had a little doc
Its tail was like a rope
They say she had it stuffed
That way.
So the fleas could loop-the-loop.

—Plainsman

• • •

Definition of nothing: an idea with amnesia.—Agnostic.

Collegiate Come-Backs

Right now we are in the midst of campus politics. Some of the candidates, anticipating defeat will sak up to print the excuses when handing their ads. Variant, in the name of courtesy, appreciated defeated opponents they are not. We don't get the point seems they are at the way around.

• • •

The modern girl, as defined by the Grizzly, is one who can make the wolf at the door and come out with a fur coat. A lot of them can emerge with a bowl of soup and a bone for Fido, too.

• • •

According to the Rice-Thresh, the Universities of Wisconsin and Brown are two of the only American colleges which maintain a handicraft workshops for their students. If these workshops are places where you learn to hold hand axes, we're sorry to say our boy-friend up there ruined his way. All educated people went in college.

• • •

REQUIEM

(for A Roommate)

Yes, I killed her . . . what else could I do?
I loved her, adored her . . . yes,
The quite true:
But love is just clinging
For one, I have found.
Who imitates parrots
The music goes 'round.

—Egret

• • •

A student at Carnegie Tech points out that Einstein has stumped on a calculus problem. In desperation he broadcast an appeal for help and the answer is set. The solution came winging back from a professor at Oxford University of Texas. Oh! Oh Who wold love to have one of those guys for a final exam. Wonder if we could get Mae West.

• • •

From the Athenaeum we learn that a professor at Amarillo college, Texas, has included in his course in journalism a study of the sports of hecking, including his method of constructing wire traps, and pole boxing. The rest of course, are imaginitions created by the literary efforts of renovation of the Ad building. Guess poor but ambitious, eh what?

• • •

The Drexel Triangle notes that German colleges and universities have lost between 30 and 40 per cent of their students since 1933. Some people get all of the breaks.

• • •

A recent regulation has been passed by the Fuller Brush company that all salesmen must grow mustaches in order to be issued a license. Here is not a method. according to the New Deams Scholastic. Wonder if anybody thought of having a beard grown a share in Rinzing Brothers and interested in selling that stuff.

• • •

I've kept that schoolgirl complexion,
I've tried a mile for it.
I've smoke:
I've asked the man who owns one,
And he tells me it keeps him young.
I know a child that can put it,
To guard the danger-line I say,
I know when it's time to retire.
But falfied by one thing am I
I have not found the answer
Though my life time long I've tried
I wish you'd tell me whether
Or not I'm out of five.

—Auburn Plainsman

• • •

The Clarkson Integrator tells the police surgeon in Pridgeport who said that anyone who can't be is able to say, "Susie ate the soup." Like them, the use of "Ain't" is correct.

• • •

After our very elementary remand in convocation these days we like to listen to anyone who can tell us, like the rest of the common herd, only know what we like. Which is not to say that we're psychic, you know, although it seems we're expected to. What our ego is still inflated because we have the gumbo facility of minding our own business. So many people don't. Take the case of the student who is self-addressed envelope to the editor of his college paper, and needed of stamps at present.

—Florida Alligator

Mary had a little doc
Its tail was like a rope
They say she had it stuffed
That way.
So the fleas could loop-the-loop.

—Plainsman

• • •

Definition of nothing: an idea with amnesia.—Agnostic.

The Social Week

Faculty Will Be Honored With FSCW Week Dinner

Members of the faculty will be honor guests at the third faculty-student dinner to be given Thursday night at 6:30 in the college dining room.

Tables will be decorated with bowls of flowers while many of the hostesses will use unique place cards and original table adornments and favors.

A delicious menu has been planned for this affair which is one of the events on the calendar of F. S. C. W. week.

Faculty Guests

Members of the faculty and administration who have been asked by the students to attend this dinner are Miss Olivia N. Dorman, Miss Maude Flowers, Dr. E. G. Cornell, Miss Louise Conrad, Miss Anna Mae Tracy, Miss Kay Warren, Miss Margaret Gilliard, Miss Ruth Schonhaerl, Mr. H. Luther Smith, Miss Emily P. Williams, Miss Maud Schwahnroth, Miss Connie Belcher, Dr. Jennie Till, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Bellamy, Miss Mary Helen McKean, Miss Sally Nicholson, Miss Jewell Graham, Dr. and Mrs. Coyle E. Moore, Dr. and Mrs. Robert S. Cantrell, Miss Leonora Smith, Miss Edith Burlingame, Mrs. Dorothy Breth.

Dr. and Mrs A. P. Pinner, Miss Adrienne Taylor Dr. and Mrs. Leland J. Lewis, Dr. Wm. H. Rogers, Miss Etta Lane Matthews, Dr. Anna Perkes Liddell, Miss Ellen Smith A. Griffing, Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, Dr. Sarah P. White, Miss Sarah D. Maador Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Becker, Mrs. Beatrice Williams, Miss Edna Mae McIntosh, Dr. and Mrs. Henry Hayes.

Seniors Must List Invitation Orders

All seniors must place their orders for commencement invitations with the college bookstore by March 7, according to Caroline Oliver, president of the class.

Miss Louise Richardson, Mrs. R. B. Gilliland, Miss Mary Bettie, Miss Amy Ferris Briggs, Dr. Vernula L. Shows, Miss Eula Devinney, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth William, Miss Betty Washburn, Dr. and Mrs. O. L. Diffenbaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Vance, Dr. Dorothy Bisbee, Miss Genevieve Dorsmire, Dr. and Mrs Hugh L. Wasson, Dr. Margie Burks.

Miss Elizabeth Autrey, Miss Marion Irish, Mrs. Patrick Allen, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Hinton, Mr. William Joubert, Dr. Viola Gray L. Ralls, Miss Ann E. W. Miller, Dr. Annie M. Popper, Miss Mildred Feingold, Miss Elizabeth Thompson, Mis. Gladys Pawley, Miss Elizabeth Lynn, Miss Grace Fox, Dr. and Mrs. Mark DeGraff, Miss Mildred Henry, Miss Mary Thrush, Miss Amy Briggs, Rev. and Mrs. Alfriend, Mr. and Mrs. W. Fletcher Orr and Mrs. Lona L. Ralls, Miss reunetta Mills, Miss Edith W. West, Miss Lillian Dyke, Miss Cleary Cleary, Miss Sally Williams, Miss Nellie Bond Dickinson, Miss Sadie Young, Dr. Beulah Briley, Miss Mildred Long and Miss Margaret Campbell.

Student Guests

Students who will entertain members of the faculty at this dinner are Marjorie Raulerson, Frances Douglas, Lorraine Gyles, Margaret Bolton, Sara Krentzman, Lucy Gee Linn, Virginia Kelly, Kathryn Pratt, Florence Wegner, Rachel Rothstein, Dot McCullough, Edith Adams, Mary Ellen Sharp, Evelyn Oaster, Betsy Anderson, Katherine Autrey, Mary Louise Horwhat, Lillian Simmons, Marjorie Harris, Nellie Land, Dorothy White, Marjorie Tills, Genevieve C. Kenley, Dorothy Lancaster, Elizabeth Lonnie, Evelyn Hammond.

Rita Snyder, Ruth Dickson, Grace Whitaker Hazel Manuel, Anita Walder Laura Mathis, Maxine Ward, Sarah Graham, Cecelia Crosland, Louise Wheeler, Katherine Blood, Helen Wahlberg, Anne Sams, Betty Bichan, Constance Brown, Nancy Rogero, Betty Nette Mills, Marian Harrold.

Kathleen Gruppe, Astrid Peterson, Neen Meinneken, Marie Banner, Belinda Rosenberg, Betty Harrison, Katherine Bacon, Betty Pharr, Janice Brill, Florence Jones, Vernelle Brower, Virginia Toffaletti, Eleaner L. Flint, Josephine Pemberton, Mayme Strange, Virginia Cromartie, Edith Dixon, Jessline Lee, Ann Hopkin, Mazine Ward, Lillian Toffaletti, Lillian Turlington, Frances Love, Madeline McCall, Marjorie Meuller, Lucille Gould, Marguerite Aibon, and Eugenia Cantino.

SPRING is here! OXFORDS Dress Shoes

BROWN AND WHITE
BLUE AND WHITE
ALL WHITE
GREY

ALL STYLES:
Ghillies
Pumpe
New Wide Strap
Pumpe

FRENCH SHOP

SPRING IN THE AIR!

Yes, without a doubt, Spring IS in the air, so why not get off to a flying start on your warm weather wardrobe with these magnificently cool, attractive frocks, silk and other lightweight fabric frocks that are exclusive with The Vogue.

AND THE PRICES ARE MOST MODEST!

The Vogue
feminine wearables
TALLAHASSEE FLORIDA

COLLEGE CALENDAR

March 1st to March 7th

Tuesday

11:30 a. m. Church services.
7:45 p. m. Vespers.

Monday

5:30 p. m. Orchestra rehearsal.
7:15 p. m. Glee club rehearsal.
9:00 p. m. Sorority meetings.

Tuesday

11:30 a. m. Convocation—F. S. C. W. week—Dr. Olivia N. Dorman, speaker.
5:30 p. m. Orchestra rehearsal.
7:15 p. m. Glee club rehearsal.

Wednesday

4:30 p. m. Student music recital —auditorium.
8:15 p. m. Auditorium — lecture Stella Mack Cushing, "Books Old and New."

Thursday

11:30 a. m. Convocation — F. S. C. W. week.
5:30 p. m. Orchestra rehearsal.

Friday

6:00 p. m. Sky Sight—Plastacover—auditorium.

Saturday

8:00 p. m. Street carnival—dancing.

Personal Mention

Nadia Orainger will spend this week-end in Jacksonville.

Mary Key will spend this week-end in Green Cove Springs.

Visiting at the Alpha Delta Pi house this week-end are Mrs. Franklin Jefferson of Albany, Ga., Susan McNeill of Jacksonville, Martha Blackwell of Live Oak and Frances Grey Thomas of Quincy.

Elizabeth Rolins of Sanford, Donna Deale of Tampa, and Kathryn Barre of Jacksonville were guests at the Delta Delta Delta house last week-end.

Mrs. John Tigert, Jr., is visiting in her home in Gainesville this week-end.

Mary Waller McCormick will be a visitor in Miami this week-end.

Visiting in Jacksonville this week-end will be Henrietta Thames, Edith Merrill Ramsaur, Elizabeth Turnbull, Edith Hutchison, and Ann Ashton.

Guests at the Zeta Tau Alpha house this week will be Miss Rae Theele of Leesburg and Miss Mary Newton Green of Port Orange.

Alpha Gam Actives To Enjoy Supper Given By Their Pledges

Pledges of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority will entertain the chapter members with an informal buffet supper tomorrow night at the sorority house on Park street.

Seasonal flowers will be used throughout the house to decorate.

Following the supper informal dancing will be enjoyed.

The girls who will attend this affair include Betsy Anderson, Frances Bishop, Amber Turner, Victoria Curtis, Doris Isted, Catherine McGarry, Nellie Lamar, Janie Collemore, Nadia Grainger, Mercia Scott, Westa Wilkins, Dorothy Bryan, Mary Nell Pinckard, Nan O'Shaughnessy, Helen Godwin, Phyllis Curwin, Mary Ward Peterson, Rosalie McDonald, Louise Hill, Mary Helen Barnhart, Margaret Bostelr.

Flo Botsart, Carolyn Bond, Martha Failes, Julia Harrison, Mary Ann Hart, Julia Hodgson, Virginia Jepson, Elsie Kersey, Helen Lane, Mizelle Moore, Margaret Oliver, Kathryn Patterson, Isabella Satterfield, Clara Stewart, Barbara Swannstrom, and Nancy Williams.

Alpha Chi Omega Will Entertain Friends At Informal Tea

The members and pledges of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority will entertain members of the faculty and friends with an informal tea at the chapter house on Park street Sunday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Bowls and vases of cut spring flowers will be used in the rooms of the house to carry out the informal motif.

Cookies, tea, and mints will be served to the guests during the social hours.

Hostesses at this time will be Yvette Breaux, Juanita Buchanan, Betty Brooks, Beverly Brown, Elizabeth Carter, Helen Cate, Cora Cheney, Roberta Diamond, Mary Catherine Eisenman, Eleanor Flint, Patricia Foster, Lurline Goodman, Margaret Graham, Rosemary Hamly, Mollie Holden, Mary Key, Kyrastie Lavranos, Anne Linger, Sarah Mikell, Margaret Murray, Lillian Schulte, Mildred Seabina, Sarah Seeley, Marie Spurlock, Valerie Stubbs, Bertha Veith, Martha Wollinton, Helma Buffkin, Dorothy Colburn, Dorothy Crews, Betty Hatch, Anita Leonard, Marcia Kenny, Ruth Riddle, Virginia Toffaletti, Jane Upson, and Mary Wallis, and Frances Williams.

FOURTH OF FRESHMAN TEA SERIES IS GIVEN FOR REYNOLDS HALL STUDENTS

The fourth in a series of freshman teas sponsored by the social committee was given yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in Reynolds parlor with Josephine Bilton in charge.

Students living on the alphabet and 200 floors of Reynolds were the honor guests at this time.

Cut spring flowers were used to decorate the parlors for this occasion. A committee of freshmen chosen by the social committee assisted in serving tea, cakes and mints during the tea hour.

Members of the faculty who were invited to be present with the freshmen at this time are Dr. E. G Cornell, Miss Louise Conrad, Miss Olivia N. Dorman, Miss Kay Warren, Miss Maude Flowers, Miss Margaret Gaillard, Miss Mary Helen McKean, Dr. and Mrs. Hudson Rogers, Miss Lucy Lester, Mrs. Lou Miller, Dr. and Mrs. Guy L. Diffenbaugh, Mrs. M. B. Alfriend, Miss Elizabeth Autrey, Miss Mary Settle, Miss Elizabeth Washburn, Dr. Marion Hay, Miss Marguerite Taylor, Miss Nita Fyburn, Dr. and Mrs. Harold F. Richards, Miss Gladys Pawley, Dr and Mrs L. S. Barger, Miss Olga Garnon, Dr. Vernila L. Shows, Dr. Margie Burks, Dr. and Mrs. Herman Kurz, Mr. William Joubert, Miss Mary Louella Richey, Dr. Anna M. Popper, Miss Eada Mae Washburn, Dr. Ann Eliz. Weaver, and Miss Lillian Ferguson.

BEST FIRST YEAR SPANISH STUDENTS ARE ENTERTAINED BY SIGMA DELTA PI

Sigma Delta Pi national Spanish honorary, was hostess at a tea given February 27 in the Broward lounge from 4 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

The tea was given for all Freshmen or first year students of Spanish with a grade of A or B.

In the receiving line were, Mrs. Dorothy Bisbee, honor sponsor, Ruth Dickson, president; Murac Reddick, vice president; Anna Mae Grover, treasurer; Wylma Turlington, secretary, and Winifred Hansen, historian Members present were, Dorothy Cone, Sara Krentzman, Minna Dunn, Ruth Feinberg, Martha Wollston, Virginia Cromartie, Annabelle Linger, and Laura Mathis.

Faculty members of Sigma Delta Pi who were present were, Dr. Margie Burks, Dr. Arthur R. Seymour, Dr. Mastin J. Bay, Miss Myrtle Elizabeth Dolbee, Miss Mildred Finnegan, Mrs. Patrick Allan, Mr. Manuel L. Lopez, and Miss Margaret Campbell.

Specially invited guests were, Dean Olivia N. Dorman, Miss Lucy Lester, Miss Margaret S. Runyon and Miss Lollie L. Wimberley.

Guests from the Spanish classes included Frances Brunson, Mary Campbell, Vir ginia Gladden, Edith Mercer, Sadie Anderson, Victoria Bickow, Rose Evans, Anne Ladd, Nancy Kinsey, Anne Laurie Sanches, Dorothy Borders, Emily Jane Brown, Christine Griffin, Virginia Northcutt, Leona Grimsel, Louise Whitting, Mrs. Mary Washington, Edna Yacobian.

Louise Doyle, Fay Corey, Jane Oaks, Mrs. John J. Tigert, Rebecca Ashton, Lucille Ball, Eleanor Brown, Isabelle Clark, Mary Delfin, Jessie Dillard, Pauline Ford, Mary MacMinn, Melba Parks, Helena Ruth Powell, Rachael Rothstein, Israel Sahda, Dorothy Scott, Alma Warren, Nellys Woodham, Emily Burts, Betty Cashen, Frances Howell Dorothy Molnor, Polly Ann White.

Judith Bell, Edith Dickson, Frances Douglas, Charlotte Epstein, Mary Enstein, Patricia Foster, Ines Frink Alma Lester, Jean Tilden, Mary Wallis, Lelia Davis, Mrs. C. W. Ounn, Joan Manchester, Devoon Morrel, Dorothea Marsh, Hazel Noe, Elizabeth Ollund, Mary Pinkard, Elizabeth A Reed, Hazel Sams, Rose Apod Elisabeth Lounds. Marion Purviance Nancy Rogero, Marzuet Sparkman, and Mary Stevenson.

Zeta Tau Alpha Will Honor New Members

Four new members of the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority will be honored at a breakfast Saturday morning at nine-thirty at the Three Torches tea room.

Honor guests are Rose Cork, Elaine Britt, Betty Leach, and Betty Wadsworth.

Alpha Delta Pi Will Honor New Members With Breakfast

Honoring their new initiates the members of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority will entertain with a breakfast in the Dutch Kitchen at 9:30 tomorrow morning.

Cut spring flowers in the sorority colors with appropriate place cards and menus will be used to decorate the breakfast table.

A program of toasts and informal talks will be given and each of the new initiates will receive an appropriate favor as a memento of the occasion.

The honor guests at this time will be Leone Thornton, Abbie Herron, Betty Scott, Leona Howe, Geraldine Knapp, Helena Ruth Powell, Emily Blackwell Mary Emily Parker Mary Elizabeth Dunbar, Phoebe Messer, Jean Faulkin, Gibson Dey, Tommie Grace Faircloth, Marcia Thomas, and Dorothy Lewis.

Actives and alumnae who will attend this breakfast are Anne Groover, Barbara Holmes, Charmion Luffburrow, Anne Peter, Audrey Smith, Eleanor Hutchinson, Martha King, Elizabeth Whidden, Minnie Brunson, Dorothy Risk, Betty Sweet Smith, Peggy Milton, Josephine Trantham, Eileen Fleming, Mary Brandon, Sara Ball Palmer, Sara Moor, Isabel Ann Mrs. Franklin Jefferson of Albany, Georgia, Suzan McNeil of Jacksonville, Mrs. Jaime Hill and Martha Blackwell of Live Oak, and Frances Grey Thomas of Quincy.

Kappa Deltas Honor Seventeen Initiates At Gay Banquet

The seventeen new initiates of the Kappa Delta sorority will be the guests of honor at a banquet to be given at the Floridan hotel Sunday night at 8 o'clock.

The sorority colors, green and white, will be used to decorate with bowls of white roses and carnations placed attractively along the banquet tabl. Place cards and favors will also carry out this color scheme.

During the dinner Jo King, the sorority president, will give a toast to the new initiates which will be responded to by one of the honor guests. A short program of impromptu talks will also be given.

The newly initiated members will be given special and appropriate favors as momentos of the occasion. The exact nature of the favors is being kept secret until the banquet.

THREE SORORITIES HOLD INITIATIONS, ENTERTAIN HONORING NEW MEMBERS

Among the sororities on campus who entertained for newly initiated members last week-end were Pi Beta Phi, Chi Omega, and Delta Delta Delta.

Pi Beta Phi

The Pi Beta Phi sorority initiated last Friday afternoon and was followed by a buffet supper at the sorority house on Park avenue.

Cut spring flowers, featuring pansies, the sorority flower, were used to decorate the house for this occasion.

Honor guests at this time were Emily Jane Brown, Jane Gillis, Leanor Hickson, Sarah Lewis, Mary Charles Mathis, Dorothy Pickards, and Anna Tilden.

Johnston, Caroline Logan, Roberta Carter Gammon, Margaret Vance, Mary Virginia Dell, Rose Richards, and Mary Louise Chitty.

Delta Delta Delta

Initiation of Delta Delta Delta pledges last Saturday afternoon was followed by a buffet supper at the sorority house on Park avenue.

Cut spring flowers, featuring pansies, the sorority flower, were used to decorate the house for this occasion.

Honor guests at this time were Emily Jane Brown, Jane Gillis, Leanor Hickson, Sarah Lewis, Mary Charles Mathis, Dorothy Pickards, and Anna Tilden.

Be first to appear in a new Fashion Flair bolero by PETER PAN—you'll make fashion headlines wherever you go.

GELBERG'S
"It's the Fun Economy"

LUCKIES—A LIGHT SMOKE

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO—"IT'S TOASTED"

Luckies are less acid

Luckies are less acid

Excess of Acidity of Other Popular Brands Over Lucky Strike Cigarettes

Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%

*RESULTS VERIFIED BY INDEPENDENT CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS . . .

Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes.

They include preliminary analyses of the tobaccos selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product.

All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

Luckies—"IT'S TOASTED"

Your throat protection—against irritation—against cough

Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company

Mortar Board Gives Award

Rebecca Ashton and Daisy Parker Are Honored For Scholarship

Mortar Board, national honorary for senior college women, recognized in convocation Tuesday morning as twenty-one students whose scholastic averages are outstanding.

Rebecca Ashton was awarded the plaque which is presented annually to the freshman making the highest average during the first semester of the year. Her average was 3, with sixteen and a half hours of "A."

The plaque which Mortar Board awards the junior who made the highest average during both semesters of her sophomore year was presented to Daisy Parker, whose average was 2.9. Daisy was also the winner of the Mortar Board plaque during her freshman year.

The twenty freshmen making the highest averages last semester were recognized by having their names inscribed on the two honor boards which are to be placed in the freshman dormitories. The names appearing on the list include Betty Ambler, Rebecca Ashton, Katherine Bacon, Felma Cabaniss, Marie Castanelis, Nell Colvin, Virginia Craig, Frances Douglas, Harriet Duke, Marry M. Enzign, Kathleen Grumpe, Betty Hatch, Jamie Jones, Dawn Latham, Mary Elizabeth Orleman, Belle Parker, Marion Purviance, Frederica Roberts, Sarah Sealey, and Jean Zacharias.

Before the presentation of the scholarship awards, which was made by Mirae Reddick, president of Mortar Board, a program to acquaint the student body with Mortar Board's purposes and functions was given.

Mrs. Harold F. Richards, Mortar Board alumna and editor of The National Mortar Board Quarterly, spoke to the students explaining what the organization is.

"Mortar Board," said Mrs. Richards, "is the only national honorary for senior college women, which recognizes scholarship, leadership, and service." She explained the high requirements which Mortar Board places both on the colleges in which it maintains chapters and in the individual girls who are chosen as members.

In speaking of some of the achievements of Mortar Board alumnae, Mrs. Richards stated that forty of the 3000 former members are now editors of magazines, and that last year one-third of the members were chosen for Phi Beta Kappa.

Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, Mortar Board alumna, spoke on the subject "In Defense of Scholarship."

"Scholarship," said Dr. Abbey, "is an attitude of mind and an aspect of life which puts first during the four years in college that process which is devoted to the stir ulation of mind and spirit, the awakening of intellectual curiosity, an understanding of our heritage of civilization and an appreciation of the personality of human beings."

Dr. Abbey showed the necessity of scholarship to the expression of the other two qualities which Mortar Board emphasizes —leadership and service.

Audiometer Tests Will Be Repeated

Some fifty girls taking audiometer tests before Christmas who were found to have deficiency in hearing will have opportunity to take test over at 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, and 11:30 Saturday morning in 412 Education building

Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews
Director of Personnel

Skit Night is Friday

Plans for the festivities of F. S. C. W. Week include the annual Flastocovo Skit Night which will be held Friday night March 5. At this time four organizations will compete for the $5 prize given to the best skit.

The student winning the college song contest will receive her prize during the evening. Admission charge will be ten cents.

Former Student Honored

An honor has come recently to another Florida State College graduate and former Tallahassee girl with the appointment of Ireta Bradford Van Doren to the editorial board of "The American Scholar," the official magazine of national Phi Beta Kappa.

Kurz Presides Over Academy

Scientists of Florida Organize to Promote Research

The Florida Academy of Sciences, an organization "to promote scientific research" was granted a charter at Gainesville last Tuesday by Judge H. L. Sebring of the state judicial circuit.

The purposes of the organization, according to the charter, are to "stimulate interest in the sciences, to furnish the diffusion of scientific knowledge, to unify the scientific interests of the state, to promote scientific research, and to issue an annual scientific publication."

Membership will be extended to all persons interested in the purposes of the academy. The organization meeting of the academy are proposing that all who are elected to membership during the first year be designated as the charter members.

More than 50 scientists from all sections of the state signed the petition for the charter.

Dr. Herbert Kurz, professor of botany and director of the botanical laboratory at Florida State College was elected president of the academy at an organization meeting held at the University of Florida three weeks ago.

Dr. Kurz, who is from the degree of Doctor of Philosophy was conferred at the University of Chicago, was elected a member of Sigma Xi when attending the university. He is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, a fellow in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, a member of the Botanical Society of America, and a member of the Ecological Society of America. He has published a number of scientific articles, among the most recent of which is one entitled Liverworts of North and Central Florida.

Other officers of the academy are: Dr. R. C. Williamson, professor of physics, University of Florida, vice-president; Dr. J. H. Kuster, assistant professor of mathematics and astronomy, University of Florida, secretary; and Dr. J. P. W. Pearson, professor of zoology, University of Miami, treasurer.

Members of the faculty of Florida State College who signed the charter as incorporators are: Dr. Enna M. Devitney, assistant professor of zoology; Dr. Margaret Rector Sanders, dean of the school of Home Economics and promotor of nutrition; Dr. Ruth Conner, associate professor of home economics; Dr. Viola Graham, associate professor of physiology; Dr. Anna May Tracy, dietitian and associate professor of institution economics; Dr. Leland Lewis, professor of chemistry; Dr. Hugh Lee Watson, associate professor of psychology; Dr. Christian Paul Heinlein, professor of experimental psychology and Dr. Jennie Till, professor of physiological chemistry and nutrition.

Delegates Go to Council

Florida State College's Alumnae association was represented by its president and executive secretary, Cecil Beeson and Laura Strunk Leslie, respectively, at the annual meeting of district three of the American Alumni Council in Rock Hill, S. C. February 14-15

Sigma Kappa Sorority Honors Initiates

Honoring eleven new initiates the active members of the Sigma Kappa sorority entertained with a banquet at the Floridan Hotel Saturday night. The decorations, placecards, and menus carried out a white color scheme. During the evening the sorority songs were sung and appropriate toasts were given and the honor guests were presented with boxes of stationary bearing the sorority seal.

The new initiates are Mary Hammond, Lucile Ham, Elizabeth Ann Spencer, Mona McLeod, Nellie Woodham, Margaret McDowell, Dawn Latham, Susanne Trusler, Carol Rainsage, and Elma Guth.

ASTRONOMY CLUB STUDIES HEAVENS

Continued from page one

similarity found in all the myths, namely the existence of a supreme being and a struggle between the forces of good and evil. She recommended The Book of Earths by Rena Knolton, as an interesting and authentic source for those who would like to know more of these ancient legends.

Betty Beach of group three discussed the satellites of our solar system, stressing our moon, the one satellite of the earth. There are twenty-six satellites, or moons, in our solar system. The planets Jupiter and Saturn, who have nine moons each, be far the largest number.

The relationship of stars, planets, and satellites was explained by Betty Satellites revolve around planets, and planets in turn revolve around stars. Our sun is a star, our earth a planet, and our moon, a satellite.

The difference between meteors and meteorites and interesting facts about both were explained by Mary Enzign of group four. "Meteors are shooting stars," she said, "which we often see as they flash across the sky. Approximately 20,000 of these meteors hurl through our atmosphere every year. If one of them happens to fall upon the earth it is called a meteorite."

Mary told of famous meteorites which have hit the earth in the past few years. One, which fell in Siberia, was accompanied by such a tremendous heat and earthquake that its effects were felt four hundred miles away from the area upon which it fell. The meteorite formed a crater three miles in diameter. Its heat demolished the forest within a radius of ten miles. "The trees were laid out like nine-pins," Mary explained.

Men ploughing in a field fifty miles from the meteorite were knocked unconscious, and were badly scorched. A whole herd of reindeer was completely destroyed.

A meteorite which fell in the southwest part of the United States dug a crater four miles in diameter. Recent mining near the meteorite has uncovered vast amounts of platinum.

Mary told of how ancient peoples worshipped meteorites. Even today, she related, the Mohammedans worship a large sacred stone in Mecca which is in reality a meteorite.

Virginia Northcutt of group five defined and gave many interesting facts about comets. "Comets," she explained, "are great nebulous masses which travel in elongated orbits coming near our earth at various intervals, some every fifty years, some every two or three thousand years."

The comet's train, or tail, is a luminous mass of vapor sometimes as light as air. Through it we can see other stars. Our generation may hope to see Harry comet which visited our atmosphere in 1910.

Ancient people worshipped comets, white prophets used them to foretell the future.

YWCA Playground Moves Its Location

Continued from page one

Wednesday, and Friday, but the new arrangement is on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday from 3:30 to 5:30 o'clock. The Exchange club furnishes taxi service for all girls going there and any girl interested in helping with the project is asked to see Gladys Oliver, chairman of the playground committee, at 231 Gilchrist hall.

According to Gladys, the playground project has been quite successful, and many children have been cared for. Since the spring is coming on, she expects to see many more children out.

Myrtle Lowery is also on the playground committee and has charge of the direction of the playground activities. Other girls on the committee are Annita Jones and Carol Parabee.

ADAMS' STUDIO

"Photographs that Please"

121 E. College Ave. Phone 287

STATE THEATRE

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—FEBRUARY 28-29
Clark Gable, Jean Harlow, Myrna Loy
in
"WIFE VERSUS SECRETARY"

SUNDAY AND MONDAY—MARCH 1-2—
Charlie Chaplin in "Modern Times"

TUESDAY—MARCH 3
PAUL MUNI
in
"STORY OF LOUIS PASTEUR"

WEDNESDAY—MARCH 4
RICHARD ARLEN
in
"THREE LIVE GHOSTS"

THURSDAY—MARCH 5
Ruth Chatterton in 'Lady of Secrets'

—ON THE STAGE—
SALLY RAND IN PERSON

"FSCW" WEEK PROGRAM LISTED

Continued From Page Three

head of the sociology department, speaker, with Miss Margaret Boyle, alumnae chairman.

West Palm Beach: Kiwanis club luncheon, high school, Alumnae dinner, March 4; Dean Nathaniel Moss Salley, of the school of education, speaker, with Miss Ruth Tucker, alumnae chairman.

THE SWEET SHOP
701 West Jefferson — Opposite Cellerbrat
Phone 1091 — We Deliver

Week-End Specials:

Bar-B-Q with Lemeade 20c

Home Made Apple Pie, a la Mode 10c

Feet First for Every Spring Festivity

Sams spring shoes by Rice-O'Neill are gay and frivolous... to give your feet enchantment! Others for more serious moments are so smart they balia their comfort and durability. All are perfectly made of the finest materials money can buy! Make your spring selections soon!

$8.75

White buck with brown calf trim. Square toes and heels.

VOGUE SHOE PARLOR
TALLAHASSEE
"WE HAVE YOUR SIZE"

Three Torches
SPECIALS
Ham Salad Sandwiches With Potato Salad 10c
Ginger Ale and Ice Cream 5c
Pecan Pie with Whip Cream 10c
Chocolate Pie 5c
PHONE 537 — WE DELIVER

© 1936, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

Be Sure to Hear Florida Versus Dayton
In Debate Tuesday Morning

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Let's Make This a Record Year in Number Of Votes Cast in Elections

VOLUME XXIII. Tallahassee, Florida, March 6, 1936 NUMBER TWENTY-ONE

Debate Teams To Meet Here Next Tuesday

Gainesville and Dayton Universities Will Be Represented

KWANIANS ALSO TO HEAR TALKS

Convocation to Be Scene Of Varsity Argument About Congress

The affirmative debating team of the University of Dayton, Dayton, O., and the varsity debating team of the University of Florida will appear before Florida State college in convocation Tuesday.

These teams, which are both on southern tours, will debate on the subject, Resolved, "That Congress should have the power to override, by a two-thirds majority vote, decisions of the Supreme Court declaring laws passed by Congress unconstitutional."

Who's Who on the Team

George Smathers and Stanmore Cawthon, the University of Florida, will uphold the negative, while Daniel Dayton, and Marion Ray, both of Dayton, will support the affirmative.

The Florida varsity of which Bill Bonire is debate manager, will pass appointments at several conferences this season, including trips through Florida, the South Atlantic, the New York City, the western tour extending to Colorado, Nebraska and the southwestern trip to include Oklahoma City.

Other teams to be met by the Dayton team on this tour are the University of Kentucky, University of Tennessee, Emory and the University of South Carolina.

Daniel J. Hobbs, of the Dayton team, is a sophomore in the School of Arts and his ambition is to be a lawyer." while his hobby is "reading and swimming."

He is on the University news staff, a member of the Exponent staff, member of Pershing Rifles and Municipal Activities Report staff and on the honor roll for his college.

Marion S. Hay, is a junior in pre-medicine. He is president of the Debate club, vice president of the junior class, member of school pep committee and Municipal activities and last took the eastern debating trip in 1935.

Cawthon Represents U. of F.

Stanmore Cawthon of Tallahassee, is a senior in the journalism school at the University of Florida. In his second year he made the varsity debate team. He is also on the Varsity track team, a member of Phi Sigma and Sigma Delta Chi.

George Smathers of Miami is a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences.

He is captain of the Florida team, a member of the executive council, is serving his second year on the debate team, and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Bill Boring, Lakeland, a senior in the ch school, has served as ate's manager for two years He is business manager of "F" book, member of Phi Sigma Alpha fraternity, and of Beta Tl eta Pi.

In addition to the debate in the large auditorium, two members of the Florida team, William Bullington, and John McCarty, Pt. Pierce, will engage in a rebuttal debate for the Kiwanis club in Tallahassee that noon.

Weekly Student Recital To Offer Piano, Voice and Violin Selections

At the regular Wednesday afternoon recitals for students of the school of music in the college auditorium the following program is presented:

Piano:
In Autumn, by Mac-Dowell—Mary Etheridge.
Valse—Air Varie, by Dancla—Elinor Daniells; Northern Lights, by Jacobowski—Mildred Hunter.
Voice: O, Lord Be Merciful, By Bortniansky—Miss Moon.
Violin: Legenda, by Wieniawski—Betty Parker.
Piano: Concerto, B Flat Minor—Andante non troppo a molto moderato, by Tchaikowsky—Several part on second piano!—Verna Long

Members of these students recital will be presented next Wednesday afternoon in the college auditorium at the regular time.

Student Suggests Credit Be Given For Course in "Worry"

Collegians Seem to Be Particularly Fond Of This Sport

The college student is apparently fond of worrying just for the sake of worrying.

At Florida State as at other colleges, the student spends hours worrying She worries over things in general and she worries about things in particular. Perhaps there should be a course offered in the Psychology or Psychology of Worry, so that the student might receive credit for time spent in this pastime. The result of the average college student is easily convinced or at least open to new ideas. Within a single day he goes through a complete series of beliefs, from one extreme to the other, until she knows not what she believes.

She worries about getting term papers in on time If an English theme is due on Monday evening, she vows about it vaguely at first, and then fearfully, for thirty-two days, eight hours, and fifteen minutes. During the first ten days she spends her time playing bridge, to keep her mind off her theme. Later she decides that this is insufficient distraction, so she starts in earnest. Then with only fifteen minutes, she goes to at many shows as her allowance will permit.

Then, in a feverish state of excitement, she sits down to the pleasant worry and growing tension; she goes into complete solitude, munching on a ham and egg sandwich, she searches her notebook for ideas, and finally she finds them among her history notes. She remembers, surprised, that she has to write a theme being Sunday.

So she makes herself as comfortable as possible, all the while feeling that she has been treated unfairly by the theme correspondence: Flo Sottari and Kathryn Arthur—Tallahassee.

Jane Tharin is chairman of the entertainment committee and is composing her ars Sara Nance, Norma Robinson, Lutrelle Patterson, Bernice Green, Dot Webb and Mildred Purviance.

In charge of the music is Sara Heinzen who will have as her assistants Eleanor Daniells, Kathryn Griggs and Julia Adams.

This is the first time that service of this sort has been held in the college auditorium. Sunday is a playground in the Y. W. C. A.'s other outstanding project this year.

3 Dormitories Will Be Used

Summer School Plans Are Announced for 1936 Short Session

Announcement of general information concerning room reservation for the 1936 summer session at Florida State College for Women was made this week by Miss Mattie Pearce, director of residence halls and Miss Jessie McDonald, secretary to the president.

Three dormitories, Bryan, Reynolds, and Jennie Murphree will be occupied during the session.

Graduate and mature students will be housed in Bryan, the former on the second floor and the latter on the first and third floors. General privileges will be accorded students living in this hall.

Undergraduate students will be accommodated in Reynolds and Jennie Murphree Other students desiring to live in these halls or any of these halls may do so, provided that they conform with all college regulations.

For the benefit of those students who wish to secure rooms during summer school, it was announced that reservations now are available in Reynolds and Jennie Murphree at the rate of $12.50 per as a double room, that is, $6.00 for the session. Students who wish to occupy a larger room alone must pay $12.00 for the session.

Students who wish to reserve space in the residence halls for the summer session may request, and pay a $3.00 reservation fee as a guarantee that the space will be occupied. This fee will be reserved has been occupied by the student at the beginning of summer school, the account will be credited with the amount of the fee. A student who, after making this deposit, finds that she will be unable to attend summer school may secure the refund of her money by cancelling her reservation before May 15. After this date no deposit will be refunded

Students now living in Reynolds Continued on Page Two

YWCA To Hold Church Service

Sunday in Each Month To Be Set Aside For Campus Worship

As its second large project of the year and as a follow-up for religious emphasis week, the Young Women's Christian association of Florida State college will sponsor its first monthly church service in the auditorium March 15.

For the next three months one Sunday out of each will be reserved for church services in the large auditorium. It is the purpose of the Y. W. C. A. in cooperation with its religious workers council and student board, to encourage a unified religious atmosphere in the college.

Out-of-town ministers, representative and interesting pastors who are capable of talking to young people, will be invited to speak at these services. The Rev. Albert L. Shelton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Winter Haven, will speak at the first service on March 15.

Immediately after the church will sit on the stage and will lead the congregation in the hymns. The services have been set for 11:30 o'clock in order that those students who usually attend church may have a chance to be present.

Marjorie Nogle is general chairman of the church service which also includes Sue Walker, Jane Tharin, Sara Nance and Jane Hubbard, and Arlene Lockhart; Winifred Hewitt and Charlotte Miller, correspondence: Flo Sottari and Kathryn Arthur, ushers.

Records Show College Group Grade Ratings

Senatorial Scholarship Holders Again Lead Entire Campus

ALPHA XI DELTA HEADS SORORITIES

School Average Is 1.372 With 2.322 Listed As Top Score

The scholastic average of girls having senatorial scholarships, that of 2.322, was the highest among the group averages at Florida State college for the first semester, it was revealed in a report issued this week by Dr. Elizabeth G. Andrews, director of personnel.

The college average was 1.372, the non-sorority average 1.293 and the sorority average 1.298.

Closely following the senatorial scholarship average was the county scholarship girls' average, 1.157. Those with the average of the leaders, 1.909 and found in Group 1, were:

Alpha Xi Delta Leads

The sorority averages have been arranged in the following order: Alpha Xi Deltas, with an average of 1.718 head the active and pledged group, and their average of 2.162 is highest in the pledge group. Alpha Omicron Pi leads the groups classified under "Girls in Sorority Houses and Members."

Alpha Omicron Pi girls who live at the house have the highest average in this group, that of 1.777. An average of 1.716 for active members placed them at the top of Group 2.

Other Group Averages

Graduate students at the college have an average of 2.125. Other groups, in addition to the first three, and their averages are: Dining Room scholarship, 1.792; Alpha Xi Delta, 1.718, juniors, 1.604; sorority actives, 1.542; sorority houses, 1.505; Gilchrist, 1.458; Alpha Phi Omega, 1.451; School of Music, 1.451; Sigma Kappa, 1.438; Bryan, 1.401; Alpha Omicron Pi, 1.519; Kappa Delta, 1.516; College of Arts and Sciences, 1.479; Normal, North administration, 1.458; Delta Delta Delta, 1.427; sophomores, 1.415; Bryan, 1.401; sorority average, 1.398; Phi Mu, 1.393; Chi Beta Phi, 1.393; Phi Mu, 1.393; Zeta Tau Alpha, 1.380; Gamma Phi Beta, 1.378; School of Home Economics, 1.367; living at home, 1.182; Reynolds, 1.182; Sigma Sigma Sigma, 1.181; Kappa Kappa Gamma, 1.114;

Continued on Page Two

Cast is Chosen For Senior Play

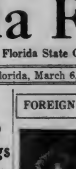
Oscar Wilde Production Will Be Presented Next Month

The Importance of Being Earnest, by Oscar Wilde, has been chosen as the senior play for 1936. It will be presented on Thursday and Friday nights, April 2 and 3, the week-end of the Junior-Senior prom.

The male characters will be played by Tallahassee men, who have not yet been selected, according to Sara Krentzman, general chairman.

Tryouts for the parts were held last night at the Little Theatre and the cast announced that Marjorie Harris as Lady Bracknell; Betty Boggs as Gwendolen Fairfax; Eleanor Jenkins as Cecily Cardew; Evelyn Kennard as Miss Prism; Ethlyn Collins, as Merriman, and Jane Hubbard, Footman.

Those who will understudy are Patricia Giffen, Minna Dunn, Betty Beech, Janet Griffiths, and Madelyn Duncan.



Miss Krueger Moore is directing this play, which is being sponsored by Mortar Board.

The try-out committee consisted of Miss Kemper Moore, Sara Krentzman, Marjorie Harris, and Mock. Lillian Turlington, and Nurse Reddick.

Frances Lewis to Speak

Frances Lewis will speak at the Vespers service Sunday night at 7:15 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. parlor radi Irlie thester, Mary Jeanne McKay, chairman, has announced.

FOREIGN SPEAKER

Mr. Gerhart Seger, special democratic member of the Prussian Reichstag, member of the committee on Foreign Relations, and secretary general of the German Peace Society, who will lecture in the auditorium Wednesday night, as a part of the forum series.

FSCW Week To Close With Gay Carnival

Skit Nite, Street Dance, Freshman Fete Will End Celebration

F. S. C. W. week which has been celebrated throughout the state and in the colleges this week by a round of varied activities will be climaxed this week-end by the Annual Flastacowo "Skit Nite" tonight and a gala carnival and street dance tomorrow night.

While a group of faculty toured the state and many alumnae organizations throughout the state celebrated the week with special entertainments and speeches, the celebration within the college gates included a week program featuring the college Glee club and speakers from the College Government association, two special convocation programs on the importance of the week and speakers from faculty, alumnae.

Continued on Page Two

Exhibit To Be Displayed Here

Departments to Take Part In Week's Program On This Campus

A number of departmental exhibits planned in honor of F. S. C. W. week have been open all week while others will open today.

Departments holding exhibits include home economics, industrial arts, art, botany, speech, and music.

The theme of F. S. C. W. week is carried out in the exhibit in the library. In the central display are a Catalogue of Visionary Work of the Summer River, Session 1888-89, a program of the forty-first Florida Chautauqua assembly of the State Seminary, June, 1894, Year Book of Florida State College and of Tallahassee in the early days, and an early diploma, presented to William Parish Chaires by the then that Albert Alexander Murphree was president of the school.

Also to the left are views of Florida State College for Women including pictures of the building and campus as they are today.

On a table are copies of The Argo, 1900-01, The Flastacowo, 1910, and several appropriate books including "A Declaration of Girl" by Maurice Thompson, "Tallahassee of Yesterday, by Sallie E. Blake, and "The Black Lagoon," by Edith E. Taylor.

Souvenirs of Florida State College for Women are found in a case to the right. Pictures from the first lamp used by the first class, to the Blue Goblet, the first infirmary, souvenir plates and spoons, and early photographs of early classes, such as the Platonic Debating Society, 1910.

Another photographic exhibit includes pictures of the old Administration building, East hall, West hall, and the Literary Society hall.

In another case are cups mod-

Continued on Page Two

Seger To Tell Of Terrorism Under Hitler

Ex-Member of Reichstag, Peace Leader, Will Talk Wednesday

WAS EMPRISONED BY NAZI REGIME

Is Author of "A Nation Terrorized," World Story of Reich

Mr. Gerhart Seger, Special Democratic member of the German Reichstag, member of its committee on Foreign Relations, and Secretary General of the German Peace Society, will lecture to the student body here, Wednesday, March 11, on the topic, "A Nation Terrorized."

On March 12, 1933, Seger was arrested by the Nazis without any charge under the so-called "Protective Custody," spent three months in jail and six months in the fire' Nazi Concentration Camp, Oranienburg, near Berlin. On December 6, 1933, he escaped from the Concentration Camp at Sachs and Slovakia.

Publishes Book

Following his escape, Mr. Seger wrote his book, Oranienburg, which has been translated into 30 European languages and has a European distribution of 350,000 copies. The American edition was published by Reilly and Lee, Chicago, under the title, A Nation Terrorized.

Mr. Seger arrived in the United States in October, 1934, and has been touring the eastern part of the United States lasting seven months. His tour of the country was by remarkable publicity, due to the fact that his adventurous escape from the Nazi Concentration Camp, in Germany, and his flight with his wife and his child were made known by newspapers of the world.

Knows Europe

Mr. Seger's personal acquaintance with Hitler and the present Nazis who are in power in Germany at the present time and his knowledge of the Social Democratic underground movement in Germany make him one of the best informed speakers on the German question. Having served as a journalist, much time at Geneva, and having traveled and lectured extensively in all of the European countries, Mr. Seger is thus considered an authority on the League of Nations and the foreign relations in Europe. He has a fluent command of English and is a very able speaker and lecturer.

Dietitians Will Meet March 21

Tracy Outlines Program, Names Participants

Preliminary announcement of the program for the annual meeting of the Florida State Dietetic association held here at Florida State College for Women has been made by Miss Anna May Tracy, president, and chairman of dietitian here.

Speakers are so far includes: "A Nutrition Story from Porto Rico" by Miss Mary E. Keown, dietitian in the Rockefeller commission, who has just returned from Porto Rico; Miss Ruth Rice of Miami, who was to establish a home demonstration service; "When Tea Time Comes" by Miss Herbert D. Mendenhall, resident manager of the Florida Southern; "Curriculum Changes at F. S. C. W." by Dr. Jessie Tilt, professor of chemistry and dietitian at Florida State college; "Planning Nutritious Units for the Rats" Phil F. Kennard, architect for the Florida State college; "Recent and Modern Trends in the Treatment of Tuberculosis," by Dr. L. S. Davis, of Gainesville.

The college library will have a special exhibit of books and periodicals, and Dr. Edward Kennard. The group will be entertained by Miss Lucile Lewis, dietitian at Tallahassee at a supper that night at the college camp. Meetings will be held in the Augusta Conrad theater. All this was announced following a recent visit of Miss Mary Lois Gill, convention program chairman, to Tallahassee. Miss Gill is assistant dietitian at the Duval county hospital.

7:15 o'clock meeting of the Florida State Dietetic association include:

Continued on Page Two

Nominations Will Be Made Next Tuesday

New Procedure to Be Used In Conducting Annual Campus Elections

STATEMENTS WILL BE IN FLAMBEAU

Candidates Suggested For Flastacowo, Distaff And Flambeau

Nomination of officers by the student body will take place Thursday morning in convocation, according to the nominating committee. Names for all officers of the Student Government association, the Woman's Athletic association, the Young Women's Christian association, the editors and business managers of the Flambeau, Distaff, and Flastacowo will be suggested at that time.

As provided for by the new procedure for elections which has been worked out by the nominating committee, students who receive the necessary twenty-five nominations will be notified on Thursday night. The candidates will then submit statements of their plans and policies for the college Flambeau administration in cooperation with the university Institute of International Affairs.

Statements To Be Published

The candidates' statements will be published in a special edition of the Flambeau, to appear on Saturday instead of Friday.

Rules for nominations are made public the names of candidates who have received more than 25 votes will be referred to the Dean of Students for approval and will be checked and approved by the registrar, infirmary, and personal office for eligibility.

Election Will Be Held

The following regulations govern the holding of all offices: first, the student body has a bona fida member of her class: second, the student must make a scholastic average of C the semester preceding; third, the student must be subject to college rules; fourth, the student must have received all conditions and failures in subjects necessary for graduation; and fifth, the student-at-chief of the Flambeau must have had satisfactory journalistic experience.

In an effort to make the student body familiar with the possible qualified candidates for the three campus publications suggestions have been made so as to girls eligible for these offices.

Names Submitted

Names submitted for the Flastacowo are as follows: editor, Frances Parish, Marion Hendricks, Marjorie Tillis, and Grace Whitaker; business manager, Mary Miller.

Names submitted for editor of the Flambeau are Mary Isabelle Hazel Bowman, Virginia Esty, Margaret Cone Lafferty, Cheslie O'Rourke, and Eleanor Williams. For business manager those suggested are Ruth Hendricks, Lilla McGuire, and Cleslie O'Rourke.

Names submitted for editor of the Distaff are Clotilde O'Rourke and Mary Lou Butler, and Maidee Gilenn.

Primary voting will be held on Tuesday, March 17. On Thursday, March 19, the final ballots for the offices of president o. C. O. A., chairman of judiciary, freshman editor, and business and all three publications are to speak in convocation. Election will be held on the same day.

Final voting for all other officers will be held on Tuesday, arch 24

Spanish Honorary Taps Six for High Average, Enthusiastic Interest

Sigma Delta Pi, national Spanish honorary, tapped Lila Marchetts of Tampa, Bernice Oliver of Marianna, Daisy Parker of Florida, Dorothy Mae Dodson of Jacksonville, Miss Elizabeth Hutt, of Miami, and Dr. Edward Kennard, and Betty Brooks of the Panama Canal Zone Monday, March 2.

Those who were tapped will be required to present a Spanish play for members within the next two weeks Requirements for initiation, which will be held April 3, are an average of A or B a status of junior or senior and an enthusiastic interest in the study of the Spanish language

Officers of the Sigma Della Pi are, Ruth Dickson, president Mu-

Continued on Page Two

U. Of Florida Offers Cruise

Will Conduct Tours For Students of Latin American Trade

Dr. John J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida, has announced a thirty-seven-day summer cruise through the islands of the West Indies and along the northern coast of South America, beginning July 4, planned for students interested in Latin American trade. This cruise is being offered by the college of business administration in cooperation with the university Institute of International Affairs.

Students will comprise the only passengers on the specially-equipped vessel, a 5000-ton vessel, equipped to carry both freight and passengers. Dr. W. T. Hicks, assistant professor of economics and marketing, has been selected as director of the cruise.

Designed to provide students an opportunity of traveling through the Carribbean area while studying the economic conditions and trade practices of this region, two courses will be offered. They are "Trade Horizons of Caribbean America" and "International Trade." to be taught by Professor Hicks.

During those days the vessel is on the water, classroom work will be conducted just as on the campus of the University of Florida. While the ship is in port, conducted trips will be made, trading operations observed, and shipping representatives and trade commissioners will be personally address the student group.

Hop Sponsored By Sororities

Panhellenic Dance Will Be Feature of Next Saturday Night

As an innovation on Florida State campus, the Panhellenic association will entertain with a hop Saturday night in the college gymnasium.

This dance will supplant the barbecue which has been given for a number of years and will mark the first time the Panhellenic association has entertained on such an elaborate scale. Bidding on each sorority member of the seventeen sororities on the campus have been issued the privilege of attending the annual Panhellenic hop. Also invited are all active members of the sororities and their escor's have been issued bids.

Nearly 300 sorority women received their hop invitations Wednesday. They will be sent to the young men whom they invite.

The hop is to begin at 8:30 o'clock and to continue until 11:30 will be the program style. Intermission will come after the fifth dance.

Chimes to Play

The Florida Chimes will play for the dancing. The decorations which are to be kept secret until that night will carry out some motive in keeping with the Greek letter organizations represented is being planned and during the evening refreshments will be served.

Dr Olivia N Dorman, dean of women, and Dr. Edward Kennard: president, have been invited special guest. Chaperones for the evening will be Miss Hazel Stevenson, Miss Lucy Lester, Miss Edith West and Miss Sadie Young

A group of professors and their wives have been invited, the men to compose the floor committee. They are Dr and Mrs Bruce Lee Waskom, Dr. and Mrs Raymond Bellamy, Dr and Mrs Harold P. Littlejohn, Dr. and Mrs Neal Dosraff. Dr. and Mrs. Guy L. Dif-

Continued on Page Two

New Equipment To Be Installed

Talking Moving Picture Machine is Ordered

The Demonstration School of Florida State College for Women soon will employ the talking motion picture to bring interesting facts to its students.

Purchase of a new talking moving picture machine to supplement instruction there was authorized recently by the administration. The machine will be a school model using 16 millimeter film and will be the first one on this campus. Films relative to travel, industry, history and other subjects will be brought here, the only cost of the film being in transportation. Kenneth Williams, instructor in education and critic teacher in natural sciences at the Demonstration school, will run the machine.

Also authorized recently was the purchase of 10 new noiseless typewriters for the school's use by established typing department in which more than 60 students are enrolled.

The Demonstration school has a new printing outfit, too, according to Dr. R. B. Parsons, school superintendent, who was instrumental in procuring this extra equipment. Now it is possible to teach embossing there, he said. Oval S. Harrison, instructor in industrial education, will conduct printing classes in the industrial course. For practice the students will print the posters for athletic events and entertainments.

The course costing only a nominal sum is made possible through the student activities fund.

DIETITIANS WILL MEET MARCH 21

Continued from Page One

Miss Anna May Tracy, Tallahassee, president; Miss Florence L. Bey, Miami, vice president; Miss Helen Spiller, Jacksonville, secretary; Dr. Margaret Rector Kable, dean of the School of Home Economics at Florida State college; Miss Edna Mae McIntosh, Miss Margaret Briggs, Florida State college; Dr. Jinnie Tift, school of home economics, Florida State college; Miss Helen Davis, Miss Ruth Carpenter, assistant dietitians, Florida State college; Miss Veda E. Fisher, Miss Meredith DuPuis, Miami; Miss Inez Acree, St. Petersburg; Sister Anna Clarens, Miss Mary Lois Gill, Jacksonville; Mrs. Edith M. Kennon, Cocoa.

Miss Mary Ellen Smith, dietitian at Duval county hospital, Jacksonville, is an associate member and Miss Flavia Gleason, Tallahassee, state home demonstration agent, is an honorary member.

3 DORMITORIES WILL BE USED

Continued from Page One

or Jennie Murphree who wish to retain their present rooms for the summer session may do so by making room reservation by April 1, 1936.

Students who wish to reserve space in the dormitories for summer school are asked to pay the reservation fee at the college business office at the time they register, now located in 306 History building. After making this payment they will receive cards which are to be taken for definite room assignment to Miss Jessie McNeill, in Room 202 Administration building.

Student Suggests Credit For Course in "Worry"

Continued from Page One

so ends a period of worry for another week.

Students worry about exams. For approximately two weeks preceding "exam week," all student conversation centers around the approaching exams. "My zoology test is Tuesday and I haven't even looked at it!" "I don't believe I'll study that part. He probably won't ask anything about that anyway." Such remarks fill the tense atmosphere. Exam week rather scares the students, and puts pressure in the form of the "headers of tomorrow."

"Bootlegs" and teas are held to divert the student's mind from exams for a few minutes. This is especially helpful to the many students who "cram" for their exams. The week-end following exams is one of celebration for the passing of the much-looked-for exam. Students, unconventionally enough, take two or three books out of the library to read. Others go to shows, to dinner, or to camp; while still others go home.

Students worry about clothes, not so much for classes, however, as for dates. "I haven't a thing to wear" is the cry heard in the owner of an extensive wardrobe.

Students worry about and predict the bill of fare on the way to Stamps next Friday. If right in their predictions, they say, "Didn't I tell you so?" If wrong, silence generally ensues. "We'll probably have ice cream tonight, because it's Friday and we have the familiar remarks, though it is really an irregularity in menus of summer. Or, "We'll have bacon for breakfast this morning. We had eggs yesterday."

Students worry about shows. "If I don't see that show, I'll die!" proclaims one quite healthy-looking student.

Students worry about going home for the week-end, and some people worry in advance figuring the number of cuts which they can be left. Others figure this afterwards.

One of the greatest sources of worry to the student is the date of arrival of the next check. Stamps are borrowed to write home for money, or if it is more urgent, telegrams are sent home—collect. Some students periodically vow they will not spend the next check all on the first day, but this avowal is generally like the dawn; it is broken.

Students usually worry twice daily for from one to two hours before the mail is "all out." Then they worry about something in the letter if they did get one. They also worry from Saturday morning until Monday morning, because unless they get a "special" they get no letters during that time. In addition, they worry about whether or not they should have sent that telegram in just that tone of voice.

Other concerns of vital interest to students are what happened in the latest chapter of the newspaper serial, and the latest vogue in bangs.

Of course there are always students who worry themselves about such incidental things as the current neutrality policy of the United States, the need of workers in psychological or social work, or the coming presidential election. However, these students are in the minority. The majority seem to follow this theory in regard to these problems: "Don't take life seriously? You'll never get out of it alive anyway."

With so much else to be worried about, the average student can't possibly find time to worry about these other things.

So we find ourselves with the philosophy so well expressed by Don Marquis: "There are only two things constant and stable in us: the wish to see the grosser injustices of human existence wiped out at once, and the conviction that it will be thousands of years before the human race will have developed sufficiently mentally and spiritually to wipe them out."

Critic Teacher Attends Meeting

Kappa Delta Pi Convenes For Silver Jubilee

Mr. Kenneth B. Williams, critic teacher and instructor in education, represented the Florida Beta College chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary, at the national convention held February 24-26 in St. Louis, Missouri.

The meeting, according to Mr. Williams, was the Silver Jubilee convocation of the organization. The story of the founding of Kappa Delta Pi at the University of Illinois in 1911 and its development since that time was told during the convention.

Among the outstanding educators who appeared on the program were Dr. Truman Lee Kelley of the graduate school of education at Harvard and a charter member of Kappa Delta Pi, and Dr. William C. Bagley of Columbia university.

The convention voted to invite five educators to become members of the honorary chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, a chapter created for the recognition of national leaders. Among those from whom membership was given were Walter Damrosch, noted musician, and Boyd Henry Bode, professor of education at Ohio State University.

The next convention will meet in Detroit in 1937, the meeting returning to Detroit for the meeting celebrated the University of Kentucky's training school to observe the progress which has been made there in the use of visual education.

FSCW Week to Close With Gay Carnival

Continued from Page One

and students, a faculty dinner Thursday night, and an interesting Friday program.

Tonight's entertainment, the annual Flatterers' "Hit Nite," beginning at 8:15 will consist of four skits which will be judged by Miss Sara Hunter Baker. In the program the Pi Beta Phi's will present a skit called "Too Many Endowments" which will star Elsie Frink, Betty Boggs, Betty Wynn Stamps, and borrowed to write home for money, or if it is more urgent, telegrams are sent home—collect. Some students periodically vow they will not spend the next check all on the first day, but this avowal is generally like the dawn; it is broken.

Students usually worry twice daily for from one to two hours before the mail is "all out." Then they worry about something in the letter if they did get one. They also worry from Saturday morning until Monday morning, because unless they get a "special" they get no letters during that time. In addition, they worry about whether or not they should have sent that telegram in just that tone of voice.

Other concerns of vital interest to students are what happened in the latest chapter of the newspaper serial, and the latest vogue in bangs.

Of course there are always students who worry themselves about such incidental things as the current neutrality policy of the United States, the need of workers in psychological or social work, or the coming presidential election. However, these students are in the minority. The majority seem to follow this theory in regard to these problems: "Don't take life seriously? You'll never get out of it alive anyway."

With so much else to be worried about, the average student can't possibly find time to worry about these other things.

So we find ourselves with the philosophy so well expressed by Don Marquis: "There are only two things constant and stable in us: the wish to see the grosser injustices of human existence wiped out at once, and the conviction that it will be thousands of years before the human race will have developed sufficiently mentally and spiritually to wipe them out."

EXHIBIT TO BE DISPLAYED HERE

Continued from Page One

sis, letters, emblems, and other honors awarded by organizations of Florida State colleges.

Other books on display this week concern education for women in general, and include: Problems in the Education of College Women, by Dosk B. Campbell; English Girlhood at School, by Dorothy Gardiner; and Letters to a College Girl, by Ellen Hayes.

The industrial arts exhibit which has been open the greater part of the week, and which will be open Saturday morning is located on the bottom floor of the Education building in room 112, with other work also located in the hall cabinets nearby.

On display in the wall cabinets are water colors painted during the foreign influence in spring clothes, color contrasts, and spring colors make up the display in two of the cabinets. Two maps show the distributions of P. S. C. W. home economics graduates as to the positions they now fill throughout the United States and Florida. Another poster illustrates the possible professions that a home economics graduate may hope to fill, and another cabinet shows the popular colors for evening wear.

The newly decorated studios of the speech department on the fourth floor of the History building will be open on Saturday for all those interested in looking at their new headquarters.

The exhibit in the zoology department, in room 303 of the History building, includes a display of egret feathers, Florida fossils, South Florida bivalves and univalves, preserved fish and shrimp, corals, and sponges. This exhibit has been open during the week, but will also be open Saturday morning.

The rooms of the botany department on the third floor of the History building will be open Saturday for those who are interested in seeing a display of succulents or Florida wild flowers painted by Olivia Embree.

Student work in art will be on display in room 306 administration building, while an exhibition of Chinese textiles will be on exhibit in room 307.

Chairmen in charge of these exhibits are: Grace Whitaker, art; Polly Eveleth, achievement module; Martha Williams, home economics; Winona Ireland, botany; and Hazel Viertel, library.

Newman Members Elect Officers

Two Florida State Students Are Chosen at Meet

Two Florida State college students were elected to offices in the southeast province conference of the Federation of College Catholic clubs which met on this campus several weeks ago.

Clotilde O'Rourke was chosen as corresponding secretary, and Mauvis Lauzier was elected publicity director.

Other officers include Charles Bauta, Georgia Tech, president; Twilloughs Beaudry, Georgia Tech, vice-president; Clyde Allen, University of Florida, recording secretary; E. V. McMahon, Georgia Tech, treasurer.

The next convention is to be

Records Show College Group Grade Ratings

Continued from Page One

Delta Phi Epsilon, 1.101; off-campus honors, 1.064; Beta Phi Alpha, 1.056, and Delta Zeta, 1.035.

Sorority Ratings

The active and pledged group of the sorority averages is as follows: Alpha Xi Delta, 1.716; Alpha Chi Omega, 1.551; Sigma Kappa, 1.538; Alpha Omicron Pi, 1.519; Kappa Delta, 1.510; Delta Delta Delta, 1.427; group average, 1.384; Theta Upsilon, 1.395; Pi Beta Phi, 1.393; Phi Mu, 1.393; Zeta Tau Alpha, 1.390; Alpha Gamma Delta, 1.380; Chi Omega, 1.354; Kappa Alpha Theta, 1.286; Alpha Delta Pi, 1.249; Sigma Sigma Sigma, 1.125; Delta Phi Epsilon, 1.101; Tau Phi Alpha, 1.056; Delta Zeta, 1.035.

The averages of sorority girls living at the houses are: Alpha Omicron Pi, 1.777; Alpha Xi Delta, 1.756; Theta Upsilon, 1.707; Kappa Delta, 1.679; Delta Delta Delta, 1.674; Pi Beta Phi, 1.664; Sigma Kappa, 1.630; Alpha Gamma Delta, 1.618; Phi Mu, 1.580; group average, 1.560; Chi Omega, 1.555; Delta Phi Epsilon, 1.537; Alpha Chi Omega, 1.514; Alpha Delta Pi, 1.512; Kappa Alpha Theta, 1.505; Zeta Tau Alpha, 1.288; Beta Phi Alpha, 1.278; Sigma Sigma Sigma, 1.210, and Delta Zeta, 1.099.

Active member averages follow: Alpha Omicron Pi, 1.759; Alpha Chi Omega, 1.647; Theta Upsilon, 1.646; Alpha Xi Delta, 1.605; Kappa Delta, 1.641; Phi Mu, 1.637; Sigma Kappa, 1.616; Kappa Alpha Theta, 1.588; Alpha Gamma Delta, 1.542; group average, 1.502; Delta Delta Delta, 1.576; Delta Phi Epsilon, 1.537; Pi Beta Phi, 1.241; Alpha Chi Omega, 1.233; Chi Omega, 1.227; Alpha Gamma Delta, 1.214; Zeta Tau Alpha, 1.196; Alpha Delta Pi, 1.127; Delta Delta Delta, 1.117; Alpha Omicron Pi, 1.100; Delta Zeta, .965; Kappa Delta, .881; Delta Phi Epsilon, .795; Beta Phi Alpha, .606, and Sigma Sigma Sigma, .360.

HOP SPONSORED BY SORORITIES

Continued from Page One

fehbaum and Dr. and Mrs. Coyle E. Moore.

The student committee chairmen include Margaret K. Anderson, who designed the theme for the decorations to be carried out by Kathleen Harris; Pat Foster, president of Panhellenic, in charge of programs; Ann Donnell, invitations; Mary McGunagle, secretary of the association; finances; Ann Cutright, refreshments, and Caroline Oliver and Josephine King, entertainment.

Spanish Honorary Taps Six for High Average

Continued from Page One

ra Reddick vice-president; Wylma TerBush secretary; Anna Grover, treasurer; Winifred Hanenkrat, historian, and Dorothy Purse, Sara Kreutzman, Minna Dunn, Ruth Feinberg, Martha Wollaston, Virginia Cromartie, Annabelle Lee, and Laura Mathis.

Faculty members of Sigma Delta Pi are Dorothy Reeves Breen, sponsor, Dr. Marsie Burks, Miss Myrtle Elizabeth Dobbs, Mrs. Patrick Allan, Sr., Marion J. Hay, Miss Mildred Finnegan, Mr. Manuel L. Lopez, Dr. Arthur P. Seymour, and Miss Margaret V. Campbell.

Dean Bailey considered a reliable discussion on procedures and techniques in college instruction particularly significant since it gave emphasis to contemporary education and experiments with the general college.

Other sessions which he attended included discussions on federal support of public education, the teaching of controversial subjects in the classroom, forces in the educational program, the reconstruction of college teaching.

Salley Reports On Convention

Says Importance of Rural Schools Stressed

Dean Nathaniel M. Bailey has returned from St. Louis, Missouri, where he attended a convention of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education association and a meeting of the National Society of College Teachers of America. Dean Bailey is a member of both organizations.

"The importance of rural education was stressed throughout the meeting," said Dean Bailey, a conference on the problems of training teachers for rural schools, professors of rural education from Michigan State Normal college and from New York State Teachers college led discussions on the differentiation in curricula for the training of rural and urban teachers and on significant attitudes which should be developed in rural teachers."

At a dinner given by the American Educational Research association which Dean Bailey attended, the principal speaker was Dr. Homer P. Rainey who will be on Florida State college campus for a week during the [illegible] summer school session. Dr. Rainey is director of the American Youth Commission of the American Council on Education.

Dean Bailey considered a reliable discussion on procedures and techniques in college instruction particularly significant since it gave emphasis to contemporary education and experiments with the general college.

Other sessions which he attended included discussions on federal support of public education, the teaching of controversial subjects in the classroom, forces in the educational program, the reconstruction of college teaching.

ADAMS' STUDIO
"Photographs that Please"
121 E. College Ave. Phone 397
Copyright, 1935, R. J. Reynolds Tob. Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.
FOR DIGESTION'S SAKE — smoke Camels
Smoking Camel Cigarettes Aids in Assuring Natural Digestive Action
"Hurry—hurry—hurry" seems to be the order of the day. People get caught in the lockstep of modern life. Tension finds its victim all too often—digestion. Smoking Camels improves digestion...words off the consequences of hurried, nervous living. Camels gently stimulate digestive action. They promote the feeling of well-being and good cheer so necessary to the proper assimilation of food.
And, in a word, Camels set you right! And, in smoking Camels for digestion's sake, you may enter a whole new world of smoking pleasure.
THERE'S AN OLD COLLEGE SAYING that it's a great joke if you don't remember. It demands on time and strength are endless. Digestive upsets are a frequent result! So smoke Camels for the take of good digestion.
MAIL GOES THROUGH! It's often a struggle for F. B. Fowler on Star Route No. 1392, Maine. "It's out-and-run with me," he says, "but I always try to call with Camels. Camels are good for digestion—help along the natural processes—and certainly have a great flavor!"
HARD HITTER. Jane Sherburne coaches champion, plays a smashing game that carries her on the limits of exhaustion—often makes digestion a real problem. "Smoking Camels," she says, "makes food mean better—helps me to digest my meal. And Camels taste grand!"
TUNE IN! Camel Caravan with Walter O'Keefe, Deane Janis, Ted Healey, Glen Gray and the Casa Loma Orchestra. Tuesday and Thursday—9 p.m. E.S.T., 8 p.m. C.S.T., 7:15 p.m. M. S. T., 6:30 p.m. P. S. T.—over WABC-Columbia Network.
THE FAMOUS GOLD COAST DINING ROOM (above) at the Drake Hotel in Chicago. Here the fragrant, delicious smoke of Camels rises while Erik, famous maitre d'hôtel, watches alertly over all so no slip goes unnoticed. "So many of our guests smoke Camels," Erik says, "for they are gentle to digestion and the delicate bouquet adds to the pleasure of the meal. Camels are tremendously popular—a leading favorite here."
COSTLIER TOBACCOS! Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.
CAMEL
NEWS FLASH!
GELBERG'S
Are Moving Saturday Night to Our New College Avenue Location.
MONDAY MORNING
We invite your inspection of our New Store.
BE SURE YOU COME TO SEE US!
Gelberg's
"Style Plus Economy"
College Ave.
DOLLAR DAY SALE
Cotton DRESSES
Values to $1.00,
—TWO FOR—
$1
LIPPMAN'S HUB STORE
104 E. Jefferson

Freshman Girl Will Be Queen

Florida State Students Vie for Crown At University Hop

Twenty freshmen of Florida State college will compete for the honor of being queen of the freshman hop at the University of Florida March 28. This event will bring to a close the annual Freshman-Sophomore week - end March 27-28.

Under the direction of Jean Hollis, president of the freshman class, committees and different floors of the dormitories have chosen the candidates. Photographs of these girls will be sent to Gainesville where one will be selected for the queen and the five runner-up will serve as her attendants. These pictures will be posted on the bulletin board on the university campus and the freshman hop committee will poll their votes.

The week-end includes other activities among which are the sophomore dance Friday night, a swimming meet that afternoon, a tennis football game sponsored by the Florida Blue Key Fraternity at the stadium.

The girls who have been selected to attend the Gainesville affair are Claire Wells, representing Funeral floor in Reynolds; Winifred Hill, mineral floor in Jennie Murphree; Evelyn Anderson, 200 floor in Reynolds; Edith Stanley, Kappa Alpha Theta sorority; Dorothea Ruff, 100 floor in Jennie Murphree; Frances Williams, Alpha Chi Omega; Marjorie Deatherage, 300 floor in Reynolds; Virginia Dell, Chi Omega; Frances Ladford, Kappa Delta; Geraldine Rosenberg, Delta Phi Epsilon; Betty Gause, Delta Delta Delta; Katherine Patterson, Alpha Gamma Delta; Jean Hodges, Theta Upsilon; Myrtle Wilson, 300 floor in Jennie Murphree; Mary Elizabeth Daugherty, Alpha Delta Pi; Margaret Wilson, Phi Mu; Danner Mahon, Pi Beta Phi; Jane Eharin, 200 floor in Jennie Murphree; Nellye Woodham, Sigma Kappa, and Margaret Boustanie, Delta Zeta.

Daisy Parker Appointed Chairman of Committee

A committee has just been organized to revive the P. S. C. W. handbook for next year. This committee has sent notices to all organizations to revive their respective handbooks by the end of 10.

Meanwhile a study of the handbooks of other schools will be started in view of improving the make-up and content of our present handbook.

Members of the committee include: Daisy Parker, chairman, Bill Carling, Mary Jane Hall, Margaret Graham, Katherine Hood and Minnie Dunn, as ex-officio members.

Manager and Member of U. of F. Debating Team

BILL BOSING

STANWICK CARTHON

Bill Bering, Lakeland, debate manager, and Stanwick Carthon, Tallahassee debater, who will appear in the auditorium Tuesday morning to complete in a debate against two students from the University of Dayton, Dayton, Ohio.

Chamber of Commerce is Lucrative Source of Term Paper Information

Secretary is Ceaseless Sponge for College Students' Tears

Mrs. Thomas P. Turner, secretary of the Tallahassee chamber of commerce, finds her shoulder a frequent resting place for the weary, discouraged heads of theme-wailing college students. She is also the people-to-go-to from the history of Florida to the amount of rainfall per year. The student, upon first venturing into that her 1000 word paper is due the next day but to add an incentive to Mrs. Turner's diligence.

One teacher asked her Economics class to investigate the citrus industry of Florida, and due to the financial backing of a student concerning a coed pamphlet on this subject at the chamber of commerce, a concentrated raid followed.

Just recently Miss Turner was practically mobbed by a group of pirates that turned out to be sorority pledges who came running into her office all out of breath, wearing white bandages over their left eyes, tied around their heads. These girls were in search of a map of Utah, and when told that there wasn't one available, they were frantic. The problem, however, was solved by getting the state of Utah from a large United States map. They also had to have a theater ticket of a certain date. Previously these girls had gone to both the state and the chamber in search of their quest, only to be told that tickets once dropped in the theater box at the entrance, could not be taken out, and the janitor each morning swept away the other half of the stub that might have been dropped in the theater lobby. Therefore, everyone in the chamber of commerce dug in his purse or pocket in search of a theater stub of that date. Ah, the Boo Scout excuse. Mr. W. M. Barnard did his good turn that day by producing the much-desired stub.

Having helped that much he then gave a few cherished ideas on the Florida State College for who, he said, the town people could identify on the spot because of her casual, carefree manner.

Illustrating that manner, he told of an incident that he and another man witnessed while walking up town. It seems three girls were coming down the sidewalk, the one in the middle being led by the other two. Suddenly and ten cent stores where traffic is the heaviest. When they came closer, the men noticed that the middle girl was apparently blind as her eyes were closed and she was hesitating and staggering in her walk. The two girls were very sympathetic and would encourage the blind girl that she was doing splendidly. Many people on the street were remarking what a shame and pity that an attractive little blond like that had to be blind! About an hour later, however, the same three girls were seen wide open this time, using before the Exchange club luncheon. One of these two men are members, and upon recognizing her immediately, they made her confess that her performance before was just another college prank.

The merchants are also able to identify immediately the college girl. One said that if a young girl came in dressed with bad hose, gloves on, tiny placed her as a recently married woman or a traveler, but if she wore a skirt and sweater with socks and flat head shoes that are practical for "taking the hills" to town and back, merchants automatically stamp her as a college girl.

The college girls comprise a large portion of the buyers, according to the merchants who realizing and appreciating this, cater to them.

A prominent merchant says, "The college with its jovial student body, varied faculty, and administrative officers, add very obviously to the economic, aesthetic and genera. atmosphere of our city, as to form what might be a nucleus and central point. Both at the close of school and during the Christmas holidays, a general slump actually permeates the economic picture. Tallahassee's recognize the all-important value of the institute of Florida State College for Women to the extent that they are willing to cooperate in every possible way

Students Give Dance Recital

Tap, Folk and Modern Classes Take Part In Exhibition

The dance—tap, folk, and modern—was demonstrated at the spring recital of the dance classes at Florida State college under the direction of Miss Nellie-Bond Dickinson Tuesday afternoon in the gymnasium.

The characteristic social dances of various countries, among them Denmark, Russia, and Mexico were illustrated by the folk dancing classes. Three types of tap dancing were demonstrated by the tap dancing groups. Round, buck and soft shoe dances were included in the work this class has studied.

Modern Dancing Phase

Less familiar than the conventional forms of dance was the modern dancing phase of the exhibition. Events in the natural dancing field form increases the range of movements and subjects interpreted by the natural dancer. The modern dance exaggerates and distorts familiar movements and gestures to emphasize their base characteristics and interpret more vividly the moods of the dancer.

The demonstration consisted of studies illustrating the fundamental movements used to interpret the dancers' feelings and those studies originated by the classes in which these fundamentals were applied.

The classes originate their own problems. Given the music they interpret it into movement. The fundamental movements illustrated were the walk distorted from its conventional form, walking with changes in phrasing of the music indicated by changes in movement and swinging the body to giv the idea of a flowing movement to the study in which this action is used.

Beginning Class

Using these basic movements the beginning classes illustrated them in original studies. Interpretations of a negro spiritual, a waltz, and a Mexican dance by the advanced class of the modern dance presented two original studies as the final demonstration.

The winter recital presented last December by these same groups showed the initial work of the beginning classes. The studies presented at this spring exhibition.

Modern Dance Members

Members of the modern dance classes are: Caroline Allen, Peke Bentinger, Minna Agress, Jean Bitzer, Caroline Blount, Mary Boatright, Beverly Brown, Jeanne Buchanan, Doris Butler, Mary Campbell, Dorothy Caldell, Marian Conn, Fay Covey, Beth Dean, Dallas Dickinson, Lucy Lou DeCunthier, Margaret Delaney, Florence Divine, Mildred Emmalet, Charlotte Engstrom, Ruth Fisher, Virginia Godwin, Josephine Gordon, Virginia Hall, Jeanne Hamilton, Marie Harrison, Esther Hay, Dorothy Hill, Valerie Hunt, Jean Jenkins, Ann Jones, Adele Kerse.

Marian Lesey, Florence Lewis, Bunny Lewery, Bertis Mackery, Dauparan Mack, Kimberly Malhemy, Caroline McCall, Cathrine McCary, Anna Jane McRae, Mary Mickel, Margaret Miller, Moore, Dorothy Nye, Dorothy Olmsted, Betty Ouzinkie, Jack Owens, Rose Panowski, Shirley Pemberton, Linnetis Perry, Mary Ward Peterson, Jane Pitts, Ruth Prather, Marjorie Rauler-son, Isabelle Rawls, Kimberly Schmidt, Rachel Seay, Mildred Seeltraz, Jane Orr Shands, Marjorie Stump, Edythe Taylor, Frances Thill, Mary Ellen Thrape, Jean Trawick, Caroline Tuttle, Marion Weeks, Marjorie Weems, Barbara Wells, Rosetta Whitten, Gennie Whiteside, Mae Whitten, Louise Whitting, Nancy Williamson, and Ruth Wood.

Advanced Group

The advanced modern group includes: Juanita Buchanan, Victoria Crisp, Katherine Ely, Eleanor Riggers, Sara Martin and Cecil Redfern.

Members of the tap dancing classes are: Caroline Adams, Edith Bowden, Mildred Booth, Ella Brooks, Marguerite Brown, Margaret Bulter, Elizabeth Carter, Isabel Clark, Margery Coles, Mary Jane Cone, Jane Cone, Mary Creel, Emily Davis, Irene Day, Dorothy Detrick, Edith Dickson, Jeanne Doyle, Adelaide Durden, Esther Griffing, Edna Feinberg, Mary Lou Fleming, Marjorie Fuller, Mae Fowler, Jane Gage, Virginia Godwin, Lurline Goodman, Lorine Hall, Mary Marie Harris, Annette Harris, Barbara Hendry, Emma Lou Holland, Adelaide Hopkins, Jessica Jane Mackey, Doris McCullough, Betty Anne McKinnes, Faye Millseor, Rose Panowski, Janet Pierce, Margaret Pierson, Lelia Smith, Mary Rachel Ruff, Valerie Stubbs Marianna Swann, Jane Tomlinson, Mir Wagner, Clyra Gaines Waiden, Muriel Waison, and Lucille Williams.

Folk Dancers

The folk dancing groups include: Maria Anderson, Elizabeth Bow, Lola Bowen, Alice Dyal, Margaret Faulkner, Josephine Evelett, Elosie Frink, Christine Griffin, Grace Groff, Kathleen Grupper, Kathleen Harris, Audrey Hastings, Lou Hester, Ouida Hogan, Essie Rogan, Mary Hudson, Margery Jones, Florence Kerr, Ruth Knight, Margaret Knowles, Anita Leonard, Mary Lopez, Ruth McClain, Lulis McGuire, Helen Memmken, Sara Nance, Geneava Nelson, Mary Newbold, Anne Norris, Dorothy Osburn, Rosemary Payne, Astrid Peterson, Edith Merrill Ramsaur, Doris Rish, Bessie Shuffer, Virginia Shults, Mildred Smith, Margaret Stoot, Marie Taylor, Virginia White, Dorothy Williams, Jean Willis, and Barbara Womack.

SPRING IS HERE!

Visit the Surprise Store! Newest creations in Sandals, Millinery, Dry Goods and Ready-to-Wear.....

THE SURPRISE STORE
Phone 299 Cor. Jefferson and Adams

Juniors' Show Reveals Radio, Movie Talent

Drama, Chorus Number Win Most Response From Audience

The 1936 edition of Junior Minstrels, student performance sponsored by the Junior class, burst upon the public Saturday night in the auditorium. The performance is ranked on the same level as a form of a broadcast with Mary Jane Hall as the master-of-ceremonies.

The program bared hidden talent in the form of dancing ability, harmonious trios a la Pickens Sisters, and smooth-voiced solos.

Judging from the audience responses, the most popular numbers were the Drama—a one-act Gallsworthy play, enacted by Mary Jeanne McKay and "Sweet Hornpipe" by the Rhythm Symphonic. The hayrnow accompanied by dancing in the native manner.

Sophisticated Lady, a silhouette number in black and white, interpreted by Mary Carla Goforth, dressed a la Crawford and Dietrich, swaying in the West manner to the tune Ole Man Sun, night watchman's theme song, was done in pajamas and elicited not yawns but enthusiasm.

The Girl Friend is evidently a Broadway success as the rendition of Shirley Pemberton who sang "Manhattan" was received by many shorts, played taps with spirit.

Effective stage settings were futuristic.

Toward the close of the program the audience, combining in the crooked finger from backhand to forehead, saw Mary Jane Hall and Jack Owens, the latter a Jolson of Florida State college, sing "Sonny Boy" and "Mammy" in the manner before her curtailing debut.

The campus grapevine stamped the production with its approval. "Good entertainment" was the verdict.

Plans Near Completion For Junior-Senior Prom

General arrangements for the annual Junior-Senior prom were made at a meeting of the two classes last Monday night.

The date set for the prom is April 24. The "Florida Collegians" orchestra have been scheduled to furnish the music for the occasion.

At this meeting committees for the prom were named and the following chairmen were appointed: Eva Powler, general chairman; Mary Jane Hall, decorations; Ann Potter, refreshments; Mary Elizabeth McKay, miscellaneous; Peggy McMichael, programs, tickets, and invitations.

Other chairmen have not been completed yet, and the theme which will be carried out in decorations and invitations has not been decided.

The prom is under the direction of the Cotillion club.

Members of the cotillion club are: Caroline Adams, Edith Bowden, Mildred Booth, Ella Brooks, Marguerite Brown, Margaret Butler, Elizabeth Carter, Isabel Clark, Margery Coles, Mary Jane Cone, Jane Cone, Mary Creel, Emily Davis, Irene Day, Dorothy Detrick, Edith Dickson, Jeanne Doyle, Adelaide Durden, Esther Griffing, Edna Feinberg, Mary Lou Fleming, Marjorie Fuller, Mae Fowler, Jane Gage, Virginia Godwin, Lurline Goodman, Lorine Hall, Mary Marie Harris, Annette Harris, Barbara Hendry, Emma Lou Holland, Adelaide Hopkins, Jessica Jane Mackey, Doris McCullough, Betty Anne McKinnes, Faye Millseor, Rose Panowski, Janet Pierce, Margaret Pierson, Lelia Smith, Mary Rachel Ruff, Valerie Stubbs Marianna Swann, Jane Tomlinson, Mir Wagner, Clyra Gaines Waiden, Muriel Waison, and Lucille Williams.

Folk Dancers

The folk dancing groups include: Maria Anderson, Elizabeth Bow, Lola Bowen, Alice Dyal, Margaret Faulkner, Josephine Evelett, Elosie Frink, Christine Griffin, Grace Groff, Kathleen Grupper, Kathleen Harris, Audrey Hastings, Lou Hester, Ouida Hogan, Essie Rogan, Mary Hudson, Margery Jones, Florence Kerr, Ruth Knight, Margaret Knowles, Anita Leonard, Mary Lopez, Ruth McClain, Lulis McGuire, Helen Memmken, Sara Nance, Geneava Nelson, Mary Newbold, Anne Norris, Dorothy Osburn, Rosemary Payne, Astrid Peterson, Edith Merrill Ramsaur, Doris Rish, Bessie Shuffer, Virginia Shults, Mildred Smith, Margaret Stoot, Marie Taylor, Virginia White, Dorothy Williams, Jean Willis, and Barbara Womack.

Human Drama Enacted At College Gymnasium To Old Familiar Tune

Girls With Anxious Expressions Dart Back And Forth; Men Get Taste of What Girls Go Through With at Boy-Break Dances

From the college gymnasium there comes the sound of an orchestra. Mixing forth with the strains of that familiar old favorite, "The Music Goes Round and Round."

A girl with an anxious expression on her face is darting back and forth looking for that man divine man with the brown, wavy hair, and the gorgeous blue eyes. Finally she spies him through the crowd of dancers and evening dresses and rushes up to him all out of breath exclaiming with her best smile, "I've been looking all over for you. Where've you been hiding?" At this moment, another girl taps her lightly on the shoulder saying, "May I break in please?" The girl who broke is given a very dirty glance as the former walks off with her fellow in the air, thinking, "the dirty second-no. I'd love to wring her neck."

Over in one corner there is a group of lonely girls who look idle. This is a group of sorority girls, who are planning to give a dance. "But-no-the-boys will rush. They consider the facts that by getting a dance, not a good looking automobile, and plenty of money. Maybe a few of them will be the lucky one in this man's life.

He will never know what is going on in those pretty heads. One of the group, a small blond-haired girl with great big blue eyes, is the first to break the ice. After carefully patting a piece of lint from her nose, and arranging an unruly lock of hair, she lights a cigarette and breaks on the handsome man. Her sorority sisters give her about a minute with him and then another one of them breaks. They repeat this up, especially when they are given competition, until the gentleman says that he will certainly come by the house the next day before going back to Gainesville. With a sigh of relief, they move on to the next handsome one.

There a the usual girls with dates who positively must not be allowed to get stuck. They spend their time rushing around from one girl to the other saying, "Come meet my date, he is the best." I promise you that you won't get stuck with him, unless he's going to the dance rush." Some girls are thrilled to death to meet another's date and will look rather funny and even order if 'ie really is getting a rush or if it is just a gag to get her to dance with him.

The poor boys dance until perspiration is streaming down their faces, which is a sign of nervousness as well as fatigue. They are getting a taste of what girls go through with at a boy-break dance. Also girls who have dates that are not particularly suits, realize the responsibility of caring for a date at a dance.

An amusing or perhaps pitiful spectacle on the dance floor is the girl who is not in the least attractive, has never danced much before, but is absolutely confident that she is one of the cutest and best dancers on the floor. She looks the best looking man on the floor and finally attains an introduction to the service of the boy's girl friend, who never introduces anybody to him but those very good friends of hers who she thinks are "nice." After the first few steps the bright young fellow decides to try a few trick steps, at which the girl stumbles and nearly hits the floor, but is caught by the quick-thinking gentlemen, which would have been very embarrassing for her. The boy saves her the embarrassment by admitting that it is all his fault and he is very sorry. However, he is hoping and praying that the girl will hurry and break.

So the dance goes on, and finally everyone goes home exclaiming what a grand time it was.

Episcopal Girls Lead Intramural Basketball Games in Opening Tilt

The Episcopal basketball team holds high scores so far in the intramural games played Friday. The Episcopal team conquered the Kappa Alpha Theta team with a score of 35-6.

Second highest score is held by the Alpha Chi Omegas with 20 from the Chi Omega team by two points. The score stands 21-11.

Alpha Chi Omegas ranks third in the list, having beaten freshman commission with a score of 16-11.

The Tri-Delta team beat the Presbyterians with a score of 10-8.

The Reynolds dormitory team won its game with Phi Mu team.

Jennie Murphree freshmen scored 2-0 against the Spiropia team, since the latter defaulted the game.

Secondary elimination games will be played next week, afternoon, March 6. The line-up for the Episcopal team is: Forwards Episcopals against the Tri-Deltas; Jennie Murphree and Reynolds vs. Alpha Chi Omegas; and the Kappas and Deltas against the Alpha Omicron Pi team.

Jennie Murphree and Reynolds teams have already played their secondary games with a score of 10-8 in favor of Jennie Murphree.

The two sets of winners in honorary's games will play each other Tuesday, March 10.

Final games will be played in the gymnasium Friday night, March 13.

Nothing is ever perfect

For 1936 we offer what we think is the finest car in Ford history. But no car is ever considered perfect and finished as far as Ford engineers are concerned. Once a year we introduce new models—since that is the custom — but constantly we make improvements in our car, for that is our lifelong habit. We don't wait for Show time to make a better car.

Proof of this Is the present Ford V-8. In basic design it is almost the same as when introduced four years ago. But in performance and economy there is no comparison between the 1932 and 1936 cars.

Ford engineers do not work with yearly models in mind. The Ford Motor Company does not wait for introductory dates to incorporate improvements. As soon as exhaustive tests prove that a new material is better, into production it goes. When new machining processes or new inspection methods are proved superior, in they go also.

The purchasers get the advantage of all improvements as soon as we are certain that they are improvements.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY

Students Hold FSCW Program

Speakers Pay Tribute To School In Addresses During Chapel

The singing of Carmet and Gold opened the special P. S. C. W. week convocation program Thursday morning. In keeping with the activities of the week a program of three talks on topics relating to P. S. C. W. were presented.

The first speaker, Marjorie Harris, spoke on "This College As a Florida State Investment." In her discussion she brought out that attending this college enables the students to experience four years of academic development. College opens an array of fields of work. The first two years of college are spent in testing the field and the last two in specializing in a chosen subject and in hard study. Campus life is a character builder giving the student the chance to find herself socially to develop initiative and to build up physical strength.

Miss Katherine Warren, a graduate of the class of 1933 and now secretary to the dean of women, spoke on "Individual Returns On Our State's Investment." Miss Warren opened with a discussion of the campus conveniences dedicated to help the students.

"Since the state is maintaining the school for our benefit," she said, "the students should take advantage of the opportunities offered. The more advancements in the past now afford the young women of the state an opportunity to serve her own community after benefiting by three years of college training.

A few of the most important advantages of a college education pointed out by Miss Warren are intelligence, zeal living, and lasting friendships.

"Our college offers us the privilege of knowing men and women who are leaders in their field, our faculty. We should be inspired by them to become leaders in our own chosen fields."

The third speaker, Miriam Marold spoke on "How Florida State Strives To Live Up To Ideals" and campus show up well when contrasted with that of other states and of all the colleges in the United States we have the secondary ideals well expressed," she said.

Miss Marold pointed out the numerous honor societies and the high scholastic standards we received in the organization of a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa on the campus longer than any other large and well-edu-ted faculty and excellent curriculum as contributing stones to the production of graduates entering their fields as leaders.

She stressed the lack of class distinction and the lack of extravagance in dress as added proof of the progress Florida State is making.

The Florida Flambeau

Member 1936 Associated Collegiate Press

EDITORIAL STAFF

RUTH PERSONS ..... Editor
ALTHEA SMITH ..... Associate Editor
VERTRUDE KUHN ..... Managing Editor
HAZEL BOWMAN ..... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Features, Martha Baxter; Sports, Elaine Klepper; Society, Margaret Lafferty; Exchange, Virginia Early; Literary Editor, Eleanor Williams; Copy Editor, Arline Lockhart; Columnists: News Editor, Grace Mary Webster; Art Editor, Pauline Adams.

REPORTERS: Caroline Adams, Minna Agress, Eloise Andrews, Ella Brooks, Jean Brown, Marguerite Bryan, Marian Conn, Margie Creel, Sarah Beth Davis, Margaret Duncan, Sylvia Feiga, Evelyn Fisher, Mary J. Guilemore, Ethel Grassfield, Patricia Hamilton, Frances Hartley, Barbara Holmes, Billie Hotard, Eleanor Jenkins, Mary Lynn Massie, Dorothy Olmsted, Clodine O'Rourke, Nan O'Shaughnessey, Mary F. Phillips, Jane Quinn, Mildred Sampson, Sarah Sealey, Pearle Shepard, Elizabeth S. Turner, Ariel Turner.

BUSINESS STAFF

MARY PATTERSON ..... Business Manager
Raymond Advertising Manager, Janet Cook, Grace Mary Webster, and Clodine O'Rourke
CIRCL LEVY ..... Circulation Manager
Assistant Business Manager, Lillie McGuire, Assistant Circulation Manager, Caroline Adams

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1910, at the post office at Tallahassee, Florida, under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

To Vote Or Not to Vote

Next week each student of Florida State College will have the privilege of voicing her opinion as to who should fill the various campus offices for the coming year. Interest in elections on this campus has usually been limited to candidates and their particular friends or sorority sisters. Many students seem to think that voting is not a part of their college activity. But this is a false conclusion. The future student government officers, heads of publications, and the like will have a large part in determining policies of vital concern to the entire student body. Plus it is important that each voter make a special effort to elect those girls whose ideas and opinions seem to her the most significant and worthwhile.

This year marks a notable change in the elections policy which has heretofore been followed—a change which we hope will bring about an entirely different attitude on the part of candidates and voters. But the success of this system or any other system will be determined in the end by the individual voters. The first step in this procedure was taken in a recent convocation when the formal announcement of elections was made and speeches by outgoing officers given.

Nominations will take place next Thursday. Those students who receive the necessary twenty-five votes for an office will be placed on the primary ballot, which is to be voted on that same day. Final voting for executive council and publications officers will take place on the following Thursday.

Let's make this a record year in the number of votes cast and the interest shown. Only in this way will the election be representative of the collective opinion of the college.

BE SURE TO CAST YOUR VOTE NEXT WEEK.

What Are We Educating For?

Doubtless all of us wonder sometimes. And wondering we seek to discover what people elsewhere are educating for. In countries where a dictatorship exists the answer to this question is easy. They know what they're doing in their schools. Or rather the leaders know what they're indoctrinating. So only course that is left to the masses is to follow meekly.

But in the schools of America, especially the colleges and universities, confusion seems to prevail everywhere. Nobody seems to know where they're going, although they're on the way.

In countries where democracy is most stable, however, and the possibility of dictatorship is most remote—countries like Sweden and Denmark the educational base is both broad and vital, according to Dr. John W. Studebaker, U. S. Commissioner of Education, in an address at a recent meeting of the National Education association. "This education is not merely vocational or cultural," he said. "It is concerned with the pursuit of happiness through democratic processes."

In a critical analysis of our own educational activities, the commissioner stated, we must first ask ourselves the question. "Is the educational system which we attempt to guide building citizens for democracy?" While insisting civic education for the vast majorities of adults.

"The place to stop the growth of attitudes which prepare people for satisfactory eggs in the great machine of dictatorship," said Dr. Studebaker, "is in the classroom of the public schools."

What Dr. Studebaker has said is significant for more reasons than one. In the first place he is to an important position in the education system of the nation. He has seen to jibe with what other progressive educators are saying.

Our task lies in getting enough people to accept as ideas so that we can do something about the situation. It is indeed time that we were waking up to the fact that we have been teaching blind obedience and blind loyalty in our schools instead of trying to develop a critical and questioning attitude. Moreover, we must realize that unless we relate the teaching and this does not mean teaching Johnny to do his sums to the satisfaction in which we are living, we won't have citizens who will be able to govern intelligent, self-directed lives, which in turn will have a reciprocal influence for the betterment of society.

So, again we raise the question. "What are we educating for?" in the hope that the citizens of America will some day become fully aware of the truly pressing need for a vital educational system. Then will America realize the greatest returns from its investment.

Patriotism Is Not All Parading

The launching of a cooperative plan between the national government and the nation's colleges and universities is the newest educational movement afoot.

By this plan educational opportunities in Civilian Conservation camps all over the country will be furthered, it is hoped. Student councils of the universities of America are asked to aid the new program by sponsoring debate leagues and organized discussion forums, and sending speakers to the camps.

Direct contribution in education in the CCC camps is indeed something new and original from top of the contributions already made by the corps by the colleges of the nation who through their R. O. T. C. units have already contributed many of the officers and teaching personnel who are at the head of the organization units. This is the first time that a direct movement has begun an attempt to place student and faculty aid in direct contact with the activities of the CCC.

In response to the appeal, NSFA has helped to provide this aid in New York, New Jersey, and Delaware, and the program is reported to be gaining momentum throughout the south. A Louisiana student editor writes in support of the program, citing Louisiana's debate league, 4-H clubs, Mental Hygiene society, and farmer's clubs as previous movements in line with the policy newly outlined by the government.

Student councils everywhere are being asked by the National Student Federation of America to furnish undergraduate debaters, speakers and leaders regularly to organize and stimulate CCC forum and debate activities, suggesting that the NYA take a hand, in order that undergraduates contributing to this service may be considered for their work.

What the colleges are going to do about it remains largely to be seen. Here, indeed is an opportunity, especially for opponents of militarism in education, to demonstrate what can be accomplished by "peaceful" patriotism.

Spirit of the Week — By Adams

EXCERPTS FROM THE EDITORS
CHOSEN FROM UNIVERSITY NEWSPAPERS

ELECTIONS

But college students, as "broad" in their thinking as they are "fair" in their dealings, with themselves and others, are "enablement" in their views of important affairs are the ones who sit calmly by, allow a political machine to do their thinking, form their opinions, make their decisions—and cast their ballots. Without a qualm they give up their rights of free thinking, and elections are won and lost before a candidate is nominated or a Vote is cast.—Purple and White.

POLITICS

There is no better place than our own campus for attempts to whiten the black eye that politics now has.

Taking to the principles that have been set down by our elders, political factions on the campus have taken to the age-old practice of mud-slinging. The common device is due to the fact that the side that does the mud-slinging last it is weaker, and by defaming the other party's character it attempts to bring it down to the same level upon which it resides.—Crimson-White.

FREEDOM

Clearly establishing the freedom of the press, the United States Supreme Court went to the roots of the American Constitution to return an unanimous decision invalidating the late Huey P. Long's Louisiana newspaper gross receipts tax. "A free press stands as one of the great interpreters between the government and the people," the ruling said. "To allow it to be fettered is to fetter ourselves." Truthfully, the representation can be had without a free press. Enlightenment comes from the gatherers of the news and its interpreters, and mumbling them is mumbling a nation—a la Hitler.—Red and Black.

DEFERRED RUSHING

The two proposed methods which offer themselves, namely the six weeks' system and the whole semester plan, have therefore been explained in the Kentucky Kernel, and one of the other has been approved by almost all Greeks. The former satisfies even the most conservative so that there can be no doubt that deferred rushing of some kind is wanted.

Not only will the fraternities profit individually by the plan, but the Greek system as a whole will be strengthened at the university. The fraternities will be individually be relieved of the worries and inconveniences of the present short system and at the same time posetige will be added to the fraternity system as a whole by enabling it to eliminate the mistakes which occur in the choosing of new men under the present plan. Let's cooperate, fellow Greeks, and adopt deferred rushing.—Kentucky Kernel.

HIGHER EDUCATION

In Kansas, 1918 there are 44 more institutions of higher education in the country than there were in 1900. The total number of graduates in 1935 was 1662 while there are now 2,706 graduates.—Campus Comments.

WORLD WAR INCOMES

From Facts and Figures we offer the following statistics:

"During the four years of the World War the gross income of the DuPont company was reported at a billion dollars.

"The capital employed in their business increased from $83,000,000 to $308,000,000.

"The net profit during these years was $237,000,000—more than three times the capital employed in the business in 1914".

The dividends paid to stockholders amounted to $140,000,000 —a dividend of more than 458 per cent on the par value of the stock."—Cincinnati Bearcat.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES
By GRACE MARY WEBSTER

Editors note Elizabeth Turner acted as guest columnist this week.

THERE is not much doubt as to the situation in Japan since fairly reliable sources report from Tokyo the information that the government dominated by the army with the acquiescence of the country.

Present indications are that regardless of the fate of the ill-fated premier, the army would control the government and that the restraining counsel of the elder statesmen would be missing as would the moderating influence of civilians.

Reports also indicate that the siege of the insurgents in Tokyo had become relatively insignificant, being a side play not incomprehensible to Occidental minds.

HISTORY repeated itself once more last week when Italian forces occupied Mount Alaji, in Ethiopia.

Nearly forty years ago, an Italian army held Mount Alaji, but was overwhelmed unexpectedly, being the greater part of its force. However, such is not expected this time for the Italian arms is composed of three hundred thousand Italians soldiers; and the Ethiopians made no attempt to forestall the surprise attack.

GERMANY opened to the public on Wednesday, January 29 the first long distance television-telephone service in the world. The line, between Berlin and Leipzig, was inaugurated by the German postal authority in connection with the opening of the Leipzig spring fair.

AS a result of a drive on miniature zoos in the dormitories of Columbia university several rules and alligators will be shipped back to their native haunts of Florida. Also seven white mice will be exterminated or given away.

The drive was started in an attempt to end the rapid multiplication of the animals which were becoming pests in the dormitories. The creatures were totally unperturbed about their exile. They'll probably be glad to get back to the Florida climate.

THE communist party organ, Pravda, appealed last week to factories and collective farms to train at least one airplane or glider pilot or parachute jumper each as a contribution to Soviet military aviation. The newspaper said that Germany planned to have [illegible] aviator for every 1,000 [illegible] and one of the other has been [illegible] Conformed on Page [illegible]

Magazine Thumbings

NOTE Sarah Sealey has acted as guest columnist this week.

THE OLD PEOPLE'S CRUSADE
By Richard L. Neuberger and Kelley Loe
Harper's, March, 1936

Of all the proposed economic and political cure-alls that have become popular during the last few years—Technocracy, Huey Long's "Share the Wealth" plan, Father Coughlin's "League for Social Justice"—the most phenomenal in its growth and its grip on people is Dr. Francis Everett Townsend's Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd.

A widely accepted estimate of twenty-five million people backs the pension movement, according to Dr. Townsend; and the movement is so fortunate that it controls ten million votes.

The Townsend group is certain to elect at least one hundred members of Congress next fall, say the authors. It controls the balance of power in certain eleven states west of the Mississippi and is rapidly gaining in the East and South.

The plan as it is being pushed by millions of adherents is to give a religious zeal provides that every citizen sixty years of age or over shall receive two hundred dollars a month, to be spent within thirty days. The money necessary is to come from a two per cent tax on all business activities. The cost of this plan would require at least forty billion dollars annually, as estimated by Dr. Townsend, as opposed a sum which makes up forty per cent of the nation's entire income. Some makes no impression on the rapidly increasing army of lower middle class adherents, fascinated by the prospect of — old age of leisure.

"EXICO GOES AMERICAN
By V. F. Calverton
New Masses, February, 1936

The Indian culture, the communal structure, and the easygoing temperament which have held for centuries, been characteristic of Mexico's civilization are about to succumb to the high-pressure, go-getter capitalistic psychology of the United States.

Mexico's culture has resulted from the peculiar mixture of the ravages of frequent revolutions. Its civilization has not been affected by the Spanish and the United States. But the country cannot withstand the influence of a horde of American tourists which has increased from 10,226 in 1928 to 100,000 in 1935.

Mexican leaders are attempting to prevent the complete exploitation by calling the government socialistic. The latter states, however, that there is really no socialist revolution going on in Mexico, but merely a series of capitalistic economies and socialistic demands with the purpose to prevent the impending Americanization process.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH HOLLYWOOD
By George W. Alger
Atlantic Monthly, March, 1936

The fact that John Dillinger, the Waleys Involved in the Weyerhaeuser kidnapping and numerous of other highly publicized criminals have come from the time of their crimes testifies to the ineffectiveness and actual danger of the movies to us.

One of the reasons for the failure of the movies, the author, is lack of cooperation between states. The states have power to censor and supervision by going to a state which does not consider violation of parole a crime.

The principle of parole is sound, a prisoner behaving himself and satisfactory and who has been sufficiently punished for his crime should be allowed to re-establish himself as a normal citizen with the intelligent supervision and assistance of a parole officer. The principle is fine, but ridiculously ineffective parole laws and number of states. Florida among the worst. Florida among the worst. Florida has a parole system in the hands of an untrained and uninterested governor, allowing the use of the parolees only through correspondence with them.

New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey, and Rhode Island are the only states which are really dealing scientifically and rather [illegible] inhabitants and that the Soviet does not intervene in Spanish affairs. It was also reported that Russia is preparing to send "Trojan horse" submarines from Europe to her naval base on the Pacific Ocean.

According to sources from London, the government at Moscow is much alarmed concerning the situation in the Pacific, and it was declared that the Soviet was determined to prevent encroachments by Japan in the Russian sphere of territorial influence.

THERE has been much controversy on the part of many American and British universities the question of acceptance of invitations to attend the 1936 [illegible] Conformed on Page [illegible]

High Standing Recognized By Honor Groups

Journalism Honorary Is First to Be Recognized At This College

Fifteen years ago the first national honorary society was installed on the campus. Today there are twelve national and two local organizations recognizing achievement in various fields.

Gamma chapter of Alpha Chi Alpha, national journalistic sorority, was the first to be organized here. Founded at the University of Tennessee in 1908, the honorary recognizes two years of successful service on college publications in admitting students to membership.

Pi chapter of Omicron Nu, home economics honorary was the first to be installed in a southern institution. Florida State's chapter of this society each year recognizes high scholarship in awarding to the sophomore who had maintained the highest average during her freshman year among girls majoring in home economics a silver loving cup which she holds for one year until it is passed on to her successor. Omicron Nu standards of attendance are based on scholastic achievement, and membership is limited to seniors and graduate students who may or can be admitted only after they have fulfilled a specified number of academic hours majoring in the requirements. The local chapter of Omicron Nu maintains in addition to its loving cup award, a loan scholarship of $50.

Chi Delta Phi honorary literary fraternity was installed on this campus in 1924 by Charlotte Porter, its founder. The society which has thirty-one active chapters throughout the United States has for its purpose, the stimulation of literary interests among college students. A student is judged eligible for membership on the basis of her literary merits and interests.

Alpha Delta chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary was installed on our campus in 1925, succeeding the local educational honorary, Pi Delta.

Phi Alpha Theta, the first fraternity for honors in general scholarship was organized by a group of students at the University called Sigma Delta Pi, in 1918. The Phi Alpha Theta chapter here was installed in 1925.

Phi Alpha Theta, installed here in 1925, the year after its founding at the University of Arkansas, recognizes high scholarship in history and relative subject matter.

Sigma Delta Pi, Spanish honorary, succeeded Phi Beta Sigma a local Spanish honorary here last year. The fraternity recognizes achievement in Spanish.

In 1931, the local senior honorary was established. Its purpose is to recognize leadership, scholarship and service. Orchesis, natural dancing honorary was installed in this campus in 1927. It exists for the purpose of furthering the interest of the dance.

In 1935 the Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was installed successfully with the president.

A PENNY A WORD
Anonymous
American Mercury, March 1936

The author graduated from college ten years ago with literary aspirations. He had written for his career and in the hope of gaining facility of expression, familiarity with the publishers' business and an understanding of public taste, he began as a contributor to the pulp-paper magazines—detective, Western, adventure, mystery, and so forth.

For one or two cents a word, he says, young authors provide excitement for the entertainment of the underpaid masses of our population, thinking thus to make a beginning in the literary world. In reality they are only making a contribution to the lifelong business of wasting time and money into different situations with classic types as characters handing the plot together with a fire and a glamor that makes the rubbish desirable to hordes of readers who are too unimaginative to do their own dreaming.

Writing for the pulp magazines, the author testifies, is a stepping-stone to oblivion.

Collegiate Come-Backs

It looks as though due to the rush toward Gainesville by Betty Ball that those of us who are left behind will have to resign ourselves to the idea of spending most of the week-end in bed, except for the loss of so many candidates for the occasion.

* * *

Well! Junior Musicales has come and gone but from all the warbling on campus of "Beau ing Les Yourself Go," we'd say the melody lingers on.

* * *

For the benefit of those would be popular freshmen we offer the following data guaranteed to bring results according to the University of Saskatchewan report—

Never get intoxicated in the presence of a co-ed.

Avoid signs of jealousy.

Make no mention of other girls in conversation.

Learn to walk.

Steer clear of sentimental subjects—they have an aroma of marriage.

Do not dye your hair or paint your fingernails bright red.

Learn to cook and don't be afraid to let men know you are handy with egg beaters and muffin pans

* * *

And now it comes to the time where they say love is no crime and that the heart that is not scratched, an experience from which you never learn better, as it's undefinable because you can never tell, but as you can be it—Oh! well, it's all in experience you've had—we suppose.

* * *

From Yale comes the report that a professor there has invented an underwater helmet so that he can watch his students in the surface of the water at close face? Naughty naughty; professor, you should be ashamed to have our privacy any more!

* * *

Then there was the professor who dreamt that he was lecturing to his class and when he awoke found he was—oh! yeah! We wonder!—Stoic.

* * *

And here is the college prof who learned after a very long week-end—

I wish I were a little rock,
Asleeping on a hill.
Not wishin' nor to-do-ing,
But just keep sleepin' still.

I wouldn't eat. I wouldn't rain.
I wouldn't even wash.
I just sleep a thousand years
And rest myself, by gosh.

—Arnstaff.

* * *

According to the Daily Iowan a chemistry professor at Iowa recently won a bet that he could drink a glass of ink made from the garnment in acid, neutralized the ink, filtered off the precipitate and spread it on a piece of paper. We wonder where the lucrative bet came in.

* * *

A U. of C. professor in his minor students to give the Monroe Doctrine in as brief a form as possible in a class in Spanish for the benefit of those foreigners. We always do say there's nothing like putting the answer across.

* * *

Local instructors, please note! A Boston psychology professor has compiled the reasons he gives notes in class. "Substituting the words for the brain gives very perceptible results," he says. And Queeva we'd better go to Boston.

* * *

'Can this be love?
The young man cried
I'm all on fire
He shrieked—and died.

It was not love.
He died because
He was on fire.
He really was.

—Pi Beta Phi Scroll Paragraph.

* * *

A bottle of rare old Burgundy to Jewel Turner for turning in the most little bit than a week.

* * *

Installed here Phi Beta Kappa is the oldest and most influential academic honorary society in the United States, recognizing in the arts, letters and universities all over the country. Membership is the highest recognition over a period of three years, this college was the only institution installed to receive this honor among the four recommended.

The two local organizations on this campus are Entertwo. Even honorary, and Sigmatics the Odd honorary. Sigmatics which recognizes leadership, scholarship, service of Odds, was organized at Entertwo, whose purpose is keeping high Rent spirits was established in 1930.

Club Will Meet Monday

"American Neutrality" is the topic for discussion at the next meeting of the International Relations club which will be held Monday night at 7:30 in the Library building.

Laura Martin is in charge of the program.

The Social Week

Uniforms, Sabres, Attract Students To Military Ball

The Military Ball in Gainesville this week-end for which the music will be played by Tommy Dorsey and his orchestra will be attended by many students from Florida State College campus.

Program for Week-end

The program for the week-end is an extensive one, beginning with the sponsors' parade this afternoon at 5 o'clock on the drill field at which time the ROTC units will pass in review.

There will be an orchestra concert tonight prior to the ball which will begin at 9:30 o'clock. The dance will be given in the university gymnasium.

Tomorrow's program includes tea dancing in the afternoon, a sabres dinner, and a dance at night.

Sponsors for Ball

Students of this college who will be sponsors at this ball are Betty Manning, Betty Parker, Helma Powell, Mary Ward Peterson, Annette Harris, Dorothy Watson, Minna Dunn, Lucy Cee Linn, Wilma Coleman, Eleanor Pufford, Freddie Frink, and Ruth Myrick.

Students Attending

Among the girls on this campus who will attend this affair are Laurita Pearson, Janie Gallemore, Jo Douglas, Lucrelle Patterson, Polly Keleth, Nell Robie Webb, Lillian Taylor, Leila Gibbs, Cora Cheney, Nita Buchanan, Mary Hudson, Tess Chrisial, Jo Kinz, Edith Perkins, Caroline Oliver, Catherine Fuller, Frances LaMotet, Irene Edwards, Margaret Beedy.

Wylma TerBush, Evelyn Ballard, Mary Waller McCormick, Lillian Burford, Mary Bruce Patterson, Muriel Watson, Mary Erlena Annie Laurie Sanchez, Claire Williams, Ruth Fisher, Nancy Wilkinson, Lucy Williams, Charlotte Pelsang, Betty Gause, Billie Hoiard.

Other Guests

Frances Moore, Patricia Givens, Martha Goddard, Dorothy Watson, Hilda Spradlin, Frances Lewis, Betty Manning, Virginia Peyton, Wilma Corman, Betty Harrison, Mickey Mickler, Sally Wells, Peggy VanDyke, Lucy Jane Housler, Mary Frances Whitnard, Barbara Hendry, Mabry Sumner, Fay Milner, Lavina Spaulding, Lois Long, Freddie Frink, Jean Quartz, Danner Baker, Dorothy Rawls.

Betty Ann McKinney Phil Asher, Peggy Jackson, Margie Stewart, Rose Evans, Augusta Yust, Edith Phelps, Lois Adkins, Jean Twelvel, Mary Elizabeth Ramsey, Ted Goodman Anne Ladd, Susanna Trusler, Kathleen Owens, Nellie Woodham, Martha Williams, Peggy Mitton, Mary Emily Parker, Sara Moor, Tommie Grace Faircloth, Carolyn Bliss I. Margaret McCall, Charmian Lufbourrow, Sarah Ball Palmer, Ethel Young, Mary Elizabeth Daugherty, Dodo Trantham.

Retiring President Of Kat Entertains Actives at Party

Antoinette Sullivan, president of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority entertained for the active members with a party following the sorority meeting Monday night.

The centerpiece of the dining room table was a large bowl of colorful fruit. Crackers, cheese, cookies, sandwich spreads and coffee were served.

Guests at this time were Iris Machen Tigert, Mary Lee Hawkins, Lillian Burford, Ortelle Parks, Muriel Watson, Claire Williams, Irene Edwards, Kitty Cravey, Blythe Stanley, Ruth Robertson, Mary Patterson, Dorothy Barr, Mary Frances Campbell, Virginia Cammons, Mary Quisenberry, Betty Spicer, Evelyn Ballard, Charnelle O'Steen, Rosalyn Parker, Wylma TerBush, Mary Waller McCormick, Mary Emma, Margaret Reedy, Virginia Hamilton, Mary Veach, Betty Middleton, Sarah Clark, Helen Donn, Patricia Hamilton, Marjorie Horton, Jean Terris, Margaret Schmidt, and Patricia Barrington.

Personal Mention

Charnelle O'Steen, Antoinette Sullivan, and Mary Veach will visit in Jacksonville this week-end.

Helen Donn, Clarice Sanchez, and Betty Middleton, will go to Pensacola this week-end.

Annie Laurie Sanchez will be a visitor in Macon, Ga., this week.

Ruth Sadler and Mary Miller will be the guests of Betty Peck in her home in Jacksonville this week-end.

Sarah Anthony will visit in her home in Jacksonville this week.

Miss Flossie Henry of Live Oak and Miss Bessie Peck of Atlanta were guests at the Alpha Delta Pi house last week-end.

Elsie Kirby will visit in La Grange, Georgia, this week-end.

Former FSCW Girl Wins Honorable Mention In Mercury Essay Contest

An announcement appearing in the March, 1936 issue of American Mercury states that Edith Patterson, a Florida State College graduate of 1935, received honorable mention for her work in the recent essay contest sponsored by the magazine.

The essays were to be written on the present state of the union, and the prize offered was $500. The contest was limited to undergraduate students in American colleges.

The winner in the competition was E. Prakcia Carr, of the University of Maryland. Eighteen honorable mentions were listed.

Colleges represented by the students who received honorable mention include Bates, Michigan, Wichita, Missouri School of Mines, Harvard, Colorado, Louisiana, Upsala, Pittsburgh, Iowa State, Florida State, Syracuse, Idaho, Bethel, Houston-San Jacinto, Flat, and Indiana.

NORTH CAPE EUROPE
OLYMPIC GAMES RUSSIA
"Floating University" (co-ed) FREE TRIP
SUMMER VOYAGE ♦ JULY 1st, 1936
60 DAYS, FIRST CLASS, FROM $725
Of each 25 passengers booked before April 11th—one passage will be free, will be REFUNDED immediately. Book early—only one will be free! Write for illustrated booklet. Send name of this paper.
UNIVERSITY TRAVEL ASSOCIATION
30 ROCKEFELLER PLAZA, New York City
Direct Enquiries at New York Office

IN THE SPRING
a young girl's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of cloth.
For those who are inspired to sew by the approach of Spring, we have provided materials of all kinds—silks with soft, dainty prints for the ingenue; blocked linens and rayon crepes with their favorite sport depicted, for the athletic; unusual designs and strong color contrasts for the dramatic.
P.W. Wilson Company
—Since 1837—

Phi Mu Welcomes Ten New Members With Formal Banquet

The Phi Mu sorority initiated ten girls Saturday afternoon following which there was a banquet at the Dutch Kitchen.

The banquet table was decorated in a rose and white color scheme, with rose and white Enchantress carnations being effectively arranged along the table and in a low bowl used as a centerpiece. Tall rose and white tapers were burning throughout the dinner. Place cards and menus further carried out the color plan.

The honor guests were presented with appropriate favors at this time. They are Caroline Barrett, Lettita Bond, Elizabeth Fenn, Lillian Lukens, Elizabeth Malone, Mary Ellen McGinn, Lillian Simmons, Margaret Wilson, Marian Wood, and May Ingel.

Active members of the sorority who were present at the banquet are Mary Frances Whitnard, Janet Griffiths, Marion Mason, Pat Mitteer, Lucy Houser, Roberta Clifford, Barbara Hendry, Mary Perry Bullock, Elizabeth Perrer, and Mary Sumner.

Also present at this time were the following alumnae: Virginia Amann, Elizabeth Ramsaur, Gladys Ahern, Sara Ellerson, Mrs. Kitty Williams Lawrence, Jayne Hopkins Dixon, Capitola Prevatt Hopkins III, Gertrude Broward, Mrs. B. K. Marshall and Miss Alice Henderson.

Members and Pledges Of Xi Delta To Serve Picnic

The actives and pledges of Alpha Xi Delta will entertain rushees and friends with a picnic supper served on Saturday evening just before the opening of the carnival and street dance which are included in the festivities marking F. S. C. W. week.

Guests will be served in the side yard of the sorority house, with a menu appropriate to the occasion.

Alpha Xi Deltas who are hostesses at this time will include Miss Jessie Smith, chaperone, Mary McGunagle, Althea Smith, Carlotta Cubitas, Jimmie Pleas, Rachel Griffin, Lula Walker, Marian Weeks, Wilmona Ireland, Betty Evans, Geneva Morris, Jean Craig, Jessie Mead, Charlotte Kinsie, Clotilde O'Neil, Monica Wiley, Carolyn Garvin, Mary Elizabeth Lovelace, Frances Hamilton, Virginia Cary, Gertrude Kuhn, Mildred Booth, Fay Corey, Dot Hoffman, Mary Pollard, Victoria Crisp, and Micky Bronson.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA WILL ENTERTAIN GRAND PRESIDENT DURING NEXT WEEK

Mrs. George B Banta, Jr., of Menasha, Wisconsin, grand president of Kappa Alpha Theta will be a visitor at the local chapter house from Tuesday noon until Thursday of next week, during which time she will be extensively entertained.

There will be an informal coffee at the sorority house after dinner Tuesday night at which time only pledges and actives will be present. This will give Mrs. Banta a chance to meet the local chapter. Tours around the campus and Tallahassee have been planned for her entertainment.

The sorority will entertain with a formal reception at 7:30 o'clock on Wednesday night. The receiving line at this time will consist of Mrs. Banta, Dr. Jenete Tilt, Miss Edith West, Miss Mildred Finnegan, Miss Estes Mae McIntosh, Mrs. Mary Turnville, Mary Banta, and Lillian Burford.

Faculty members who will be guests at this time are Mr. and Mrs Earl I. Vance, Dr. David Bright, Miss Enda Mae Devitney, Miss Mary Schoenhertz, Miss Edith Schornhertz, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Kellum, Miss Harriet Stryer, Dean Margaret Sandels and Miss Katherine Warren.

Hostesses on this occasion will be Antoinette Sullivan, Evelyn Ballard, Charnelle O'Steen, Rosalyn Parker, Wylma TerBush, Mary Waller McCormick, Mary Banta, Margaret Reedy, Virginia Hamilton, Clarice Sanchez, Banks Wood, Mary Veach, Betty Middleton, Sarah Clark, Helen Donn, Patricia Hamilton, Marjorie Horton, Jean Terris, Margaret Schmidt, Patricia Barrington.

Ruth Robertson, Mary Patterson, Dorothy Barr, Mary Frances Campbell, Virginia Cammons, Mary Quisenberry, Betty Spicer, Iris Machen Tigert, Mary Lee Hawkins, Lillian Burford, Ortelle Parks, Muriel s Watson, Claire Williams, Irene Edwards, Kitty Cravey, and Edith Stanley.

Banquet is Given By A. O. Pi's in Honor Of New Initiates

The Alpha Omicron Pi sorority honored its new initiates, Hazel Noe, Frances Hobbs, Sybil Cheshire, Jane Sutton, and Helen Young, at a banquet held in the Dutch Kitchen Saturday night.

The initiates and chaperones were presented Jacquominot roses as a memento of the occasion and initiates also being given the sorority recognition pin.

A feature of the program was the presentation of the A. O. Pi placque to Frances Hobbs for the best improvement in grades. Hazel Noe was the recipient of an onyx and gold pledge ring which is given each year to the best all-around pledge.

Mildred Williams and Pearle Shepard sang a duet, "The Message of the Rose," and Mrs. Hughes gave a toast to the new members.

The banquet table was decorated with roses and japonicas, the four red tapers at the end of each corner representing the four founders.

Alpha Xi Delta Has Annual Elections

At an installation service held on Monday evening in the chapter house, Mary Lovelace became president of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority for the year 1936-37.

Other new officers who began their duties at this time were, Winona Ireland, vice-president; Frank Wildman, treasurer. Mildred Booth, recording secretary; Clotilde O'Rourke, corresponding secretary; and Marian Weeks, marshal.

COLLEGE CALENDAR
March 8 to March 14

Sunday

11:00 p. m. Church services.
7:45 p. m. Vespers.

Monday

5:30 p. m. Orchestra rehearsal.
7:15 p. m. Phi Mu sorority meeting.

Tuesday

11:30 p. m. Convocation — debate — U. of Fla. vs. U. of Daytona.
5:00 p. m. Orchestra rehearsal.

Wednesday

4:30 p. m. Student recital—auditorium.
7:15 p. m. Lecture — Gerhart Seyer, "A Nation Terrorized"—Little Theater.
7:30 p. m. Kappa Alpha Theta reception.

Thursday

11:00 a. m. Elections — convocation.
5:30 p. m. Orchestra rehearsal—auditorium.

Saturday

6:00 p. m. Panhellenic dance.

Students Give Radio Program

Glee Club and Orchestra Perform Over WTAL For FSCW Week

Two radio broadcasts in celebration of state-wide F. S. C. W. week were presented over station WTAL by college students this week through the courtesy of Mr. Richard Kingston, station director.

On Monday night the college Glee club under the direction of Miss Etta Robertson, associate professor of voice, and student government officials presented a twenty-minute program. This program consisted of the glee club's interpretation of "Stars and Gold" and "The Spirit-Flower" by Campbell-Tipton.

Talks in explanation of F. S. C. W. week were presented by Katherine Blood, president of the College Government association and by Margaret Graham, chairman of judiciary.

"To every student at Florida State College for Women this week offers the privilege of cleaner knowledge of the opportunities which are at the expense of our state," said Katharine in the introduction to "F. S. C. W. week." "For faculty members the challenge is to present their best—best of student responses, with consequent raising of academic standards . . .

"In alumnae meetings over Florida, graduates are united to foster the interest of the college and to encourage the high school seniors to attend institutions of higher learning. . . . To trustees, administrators, and patrons this observance pays tribute to the results of intricate planning and management. . . . In the parents of F. S. C. W. students this week stirs a particular feeling of pride. It is a symbol of their efforts to fulfill a final part of their daughters' formal training.

"F. S. C. W. week depicts great advancement during many lines as contrasted with the standards of even a very few years ago," Katherine pointed out. "It demonstrates as well increasing need for complete equipment, a suitable housing space, and lighter teaching loads for instructors, in order that young women here may have every educational advantage."

Margaret Graham gave a brief summary of "F. S. C. W. week." She spoke on addresses President Conradi and thirty-three members of the college faculty are to make to eighty civic and women's clubs and school groups in all over Florida. They will join the alumnae in presenting the claims of Florida the contributions which the college has made to the state.

The program came to a close with the Glee club singing Dean Sperry Lieth."

Tuesday night the Little Theater orchestra under the direction of Owen P. Sellers, also of the college music faculty, presented a twenty-minute program of music.

Selections played included: True American, March by Mackie; Dark Eyes, by Nell Morel. Glee club members who took part in the Monday night program are: Jo Binion, Mickey Conn Sara Bathoon, Edna Moon, Marie Spurlock, Mary Hales, Betie Johnson, La Una Hosford, Eleanor Varnum, Elsie Renfroe, Marian Herbert, Margaret Courter, Marion Kirkland, Betty Wilson, Nellie Bahrt, Lois Bowen, Marion Carson, Annabelle Larsen, Charnelle O'Steen, Virginia Pinsey, Maxine Ward, Arline Lenhart, Eleanor Daniels, Alma Bevill, Anita Leonard.

Helen Jones, Jessie McCollum, Marables Cullingham, Helen Cline, Chauncey Coleman, Ruth Porter, Eula Lee Vance, Janie Farrell, Margaret Peacock, Dorothy Dame, Julia Beckham, Ruth Knight, Rosalia McDonald, Bryan Stump, Marjorie Stump, Margueite Brame, Jane Hubbard.

Continued on Page Six

STATE THEATRE
—FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—
Marlene Dietrich and Gary Cooper
in
"DESIRE"
—SUNDAY AND MONDAY—
"PRISONER OF SHARK ISLAND"
with WARNER BAXTER
—TUESDAY—
"TINGTIME QUEST"
with DICKIE MOORE
—WEDNESDAY—
GEORGE O'BRIEN
in
"HERE COMES TROUBLE"
—THURSDAY—
ROCHELLE HUDSON
in
"THE MUSIC GOES 'ROUND"

Copyright 1936 The American Tobacco Company
Each puff less acid
A LIGHT SMOKE
OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO
All kinds of people choose Luckies, each for reasons of his own. But everyone agrees that Luckies are A Light Smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco. It is a rather surprising fact that the leaves of the same tobacco plant may vary far more than the leaves from plants of quite different types. Chemical analysis shows that the top leaves contain excess alkalies which tend to give a harsh, alkaline taste. The bottom leaves tend to acidity in the smoke. It is only the center leaves which approach in nature the most palatable, acid-alkaline balance. In Lucky Strike Cigarettes, the center leaves are used.
Luckies are less acid
Recent chemical tests show that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.
Excess of Acidity of Other Popular Brands Over Lucky Strike Cigarettes
BRAND A LUCKY STRIKE
BRAND B
BRAND C
RESULTS VERIFIED BY INDEPENDENT CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS
Luckies—"IT'S TOASTED"
Your throat protection—against irritation—against cough

Mrs. Cushing Tells of Old, New Russia

Illustrates Lecture With Costumes, Music And Folk Dances

An unusual interpretation of the character and philosophy of the Russian people was presented here Wednesday night by Mrs. Stella Marek Cushing a Czechoslavakian in her lecture on "Russia, Old and New."

Mrs. Cushing with her combination of a Slavic heritage and an American and European education was particularly well fitted to describe Russia, both from the sympathetic standpoint of a Slav and from the critically evaluating attitude of a Westerner.

The lecturer appeared on the stage dressed in the luxurious costume of an aristocratic lady of the Tsarist regime. She pictured the magnificence of life among the upper classes and contrasted it with the poverty and oppression which characterized the millions of peasant serfs. Two of Tschaikowsky's compositions, played by Mrs. Cushing on the violin, contributed to her description of life in old Russia. She demonstrated also several Russian folk dances.

In describing new Russia, Mrs. Cush a replaced her exquisitely decorated headdress with a simple red beret and took off her finely embroidered silk coat to display a Russian blouse and a plain skirt. This, she explained, is the difference in dress between old and new Russia.

Mrs. Cushing's presentation of new Russia consisted of a series of sketches of various phases of Soviet life, each based on some personal experience and possessing a highly dramatic quality.

In these sketches, she described the home life of a typical family, experiences during a street car ride, her impressions of the Russian theater and screen, and this contrasting attitude of the old people and the youth toward the hardships to which Russia is subjecting in order to build a new society.

Mrs. Cushing added greatly to her interpretation of Russia by singing Russian folk songs in the original tongue and by demonstrating the nature of the Slavonic dance.

In an open forum held after the lecture a student and faculty committee selected as the best question asked, a question by Mary Ann Hills: "To what extent has education lifted the people and how does it reach out to the masses?"

This question will be considered along with questions from all other lectures during the year, and a prize will be awarded to the student asking the best question.

The committee to select the best question Wednesday included Miss Marian Irish, Miss Sadie Young, Ruth Persons, Goldie Lewinsky, and Eleanor Williams.

Andrews Goes To Conference

Director of Personnel Attends 4th National Conference

Dr. Elisabeth Gordon Andrews, director of personnel, has returned from St. Louis where she attended a meeting of the American College of Personnel association and has given an account of her experiences.

Dr. Andrews attended many sessions while there, but was especially interested in a program presented by Dr. Rainey, president of Bucknell university and director of the Youth Commission project in America.

The program for the care and education of American youth which is working under Rockefeller Foundation is to be five years in length. It concerns 30,000,000 young people from the ages of twelve to twenty-five. Of these there are five and one half million from the ages of sixteen to twenty-four unemployed. Dr. Rainey dwelt on the question—Are we educating too many?

The program is to attempt to enlarge the services of the high schools so that a person can be thoroughly educated there and those who wish to continue in professional life may attend college.

The objectives of the program are health, social and economic security, education according to needs and further ability, recreation, social participation, selection of society to development of youth; development and understanding directed to World Peace, and a study of characteristics of youth.

The youth commission is composed of Dr. Rainey, chairman; Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war; Lotus D. Coffman, president of University of Minnesota; Dorothy Canfield Fisher; Willard E. Gibbon; Henry I. Harriman, banker; Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of Chicago university; Father Guinn C. H. Raul; Will Russell, dean Teachers college, Columbia university; Edgar B Stem, New Orleans; John W. Studebaker, U. S. commission of education; Marion Van Water; Mr. Wahl, labor representative; Owen D. Young, president of the General Electric company.

Headlines and Footnotes

Continued from Page Four

anniversary of the founding of Heidelberg university

On Monday Heidelberg officials withdrew invitations which had been extended to Oxford, Cambridge, and Birmingham universities, in an effort to save its face, after the two leading British universities declined and it became evident that the other British institutions would follow suit.

Harvard, Cornell, Vassar and several other important American colleges have accepted and will send delegates; Yale has not yet acted, while Columbia students definitely opposed acceptance

* * *

URE in the home of Dr George Schuyler Colfax at Pompton Lake, N J., destroyed a bed used by George Washington during the Revolutionary war. A number of valuable relics were saved from the fire, but many priceless antiques were destroyed.

Dr. Colfax is the great grandson of General William Schuyler Colfax, who served with Washington.

* * *

FEARS were aroused for about forty American missionaries in Shansi Province, China, Wednesday as Chinese communists swept into the province. The missionaries were believed to be in the path of the invasion No word has been received from American and Canadian missionaries stationed at Penchow, since last Saturday. This is near the district through which the reds are believed to be sweeping

* * *

PROPAGANDA, Minister Goebbels at the opening of the Leipsig Spring fair stated that Germany's need for raw materials is great, especially since the post war secure of Germany's old sources.

Adolph Hitler, in his inaugural message, stated that Germany's purchasing power is so used up that there is need to sell abroad. Thus, Germany heard its leaders admit that the nation must expand both its exports and its imports.

* * *

IN SPEAKING of the Leipsig fair it is interesting to know that this is the world's oldest fair this being the 1,975th session. This fair is the oldest going concern in the world and has been one of the most important influences in creating and giving direction to international trade throughout the history of modern Europe.

* * *

IN ORDER to do away with differences long existing between the United States and Panama, to further carry out President Roosevelt's good will policy, and to safeguard war time use of the Panama Canal from all interference, the United States signed a series of conventions with Panama. Through them, the United States renounces its right of intervention in Panama, its guarantee of Panamanian independence, its right to acquire land in Panama by imminent domain, and makes other vital concessions, while retaining its right to defense activities. Thus as an ally, rather than as a colonial vassal, Panama is expected to be a much more dependable nation in cooperating with the United States in protecting its short cut to the Pacific ocean.

Chinese Textiles Form Artist Series Exhibit

There will be an artist series exhibition of Chinese textiles from the collection of Helen Burton in room 307 Administration building from Friday, March 5 through Wednesday, March 10, according to Miss Amy Ferris Briggs, assistant professor of art. Miss Briggs will give a talk on this exhibit Monday at 5:30 and Tuesday at 4:30

Juvenile Books Are Forum Topic

Smith, Mathews, Finner Lead Discussion

The child is an individual, not an adult in miniature" is the new conclusion that is influencing the trend of modern juvenile literature. This statement was made at the A A U W forum on "Children's Poetry and Books for Young People" last week. Discussions were led by Miss Leonora Smith, Miss Etta L. Mathews, and Mrs. P. F. Finner.

"Poetry should be a part of children's experiences," stated Miss Smith in reviewing several books of poems for younger children. Poems by A A Milne, Rachel Field, Vachel Lindsay, Dorothy Aldis and other writers of children's works were read to illustrate the possibilities for fitting poetry to children's experiences. Miss Smith said the child has an instinctive delight in rhythm which these poems satisfy.

Miss Mathews in showing the new trends of juvenile literature stated that the first requirement of good juvenile books is that they give the child mental stimulus which will aid its intellectual growth.

Large publishing houses have recognized the need for juvenile departments and the output of books for younger readers has increased one hundred per cent in the last ten years. The books of these last few years are omitting the dogmatic, sermonial tone which were characteristics of earlier children's books.

To develop reading, thinking young people they should be surrounded by good books. They should be kept in touch with the new books, and books should be discussed thoughtfully with them. Mrs. F. F. Finner described briefly three books which would appeal to the innate sense for adventure in the child and aid his developing a taste for the type of literature which will add to his development. The books reviewed were "The Vanishing Wilderness" by Lamont and Wells, "African Shadows by Udo Mochs, and "Three and the Moon," by Jacque Dores.

This forum was one of a series of monthly discussions being sponsored by the local branch of A. A. U. W. and was under the chairmanship of Miss Enda Mae Deviney.

Mary Lou Moore Signs With Stations WKBW And WGR to Broadcast

Mary Lou Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moore of Clearwater left last week for Buffalo, N. Y., where she will broadcast singing and dramatic programs with radio stations WKBW and WGR.

Mary Lou attended Florida State College during the last two years where she was engaged in many activities. She was a student in the college of Arts and Sciences, in which she majored in speech, taking eighteen hours in the two years she was enrolled. She was very interested in dramatics and singing, and entered all activities which would aid her in her preparation for a dramatic career. She was the freshman Lady in Fealty, was a member of the cast of Junior Ministrels last year, and took an active part in the college glee club and the Y. W. C. A

Mary Lou is a member of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority, and served as activity chairman for that sorority in her sophomore year

Seniors to Attend Meet

A vocational guidance meeting for all seniors and two-year certificate students will be held Thursday night, March 12, at 7:30 o'clock in the Augusta Conradi little theater, Dr. Elizabeth G. Andrews, director of personnel, has announced. Dr. Andrews will speak for a few minutes on facts concerning placement in teaching and other fields and an open forum will be conducted at the close. Dr Andrews has urged that all seniors attend.

Instruction is Given During Practice Hour

Practice has begun for the Colonial Tea Room's annual Easter Tea. Even tennis games, Dorothy Lancaster, leader of the Even tennis announced this week.

Instruction will be given to all students who attend the practices, if they so desire. Anyone who is interested in improving her tennis game, whether she thinks she has a chance of making one of the teams or not, is urged to come out for practices. Attendance is required at at least two practices each week in order to obtain credits towards an "F"

Even practices are scheduled for Tuesdays and Thursdays at 4:30 and for Saturdays at 9:30 Odd practices are scheduled for Wednesdays at 4:30 and for Fridays at 3:30 Janice Borten, leader of the Odd tennis will give instruction to anyone interested.

STUDENTS GIVE RADIO PROGRAM

Continued from Page Five

Barbara Hubbard, Jean Zacharias, Evelyn Bayless, Margaret Melvin.

Margaret Endsley, Helen Shepherd, Louise Bowers, Mary Allen Barkerly, Florence Wagner, Lucy Kelly, Madeline Duncan, Pearle Shepard, Evelyn Fisher, Jeanne Harned, Leona Howe, Mildred Seekins.

Members of the Little Theater orchestra, who took part in the Tuesday night broadcast are Mrs. Helen Sellers, Betsey Anderson, Martha Reddick, Virginia Long, Louise D. Johnson, Yvette Breur, Hazel Bowman, Annabelle Larsen, Betty Parker, Veola Evans, Sarah Tyler, and Marjorie Tillis.

Theme song of new Vani-Treds inspired by sparkling style and smooth-as-silk comfort and chorused by thousands of happy wearers!

$5.95
NOTE—
Made by Selby Shoe Co.

Quality Shoe Shoppe

SODA SPECIALS
Saturday and Sunday Luncheon
25c AND 35c
—CHOICE OF—
Roast Young Turkey with Steamed Rice, Giblet Gravy
Western Tenderloin Steak, Country Style
Congealed Fruit Salad
Selection of Fresh Vegetables, Sally Lunn Muffins
FRESH STRAWBERRY SUNDAE FOR DESSERT

SPECIAL COLD PLATE 20c
Potato Salad, Sugared Baked Ham, Lettuce and Tomatoes, Gherkins, any to Drink
Grant Double Dip Ice Cream Soda 10c; 2 for 15c
FRESH STRAWBERRY NUT SUNDAE 10c

BAR-B-Q Pork Sandwich, Potato Chips 5c
Drink 10c
Chicken Salad Sandwich, Small Chocolate Milk, with Ice Cream 15c
FRESH PINEAPPLE NUT PARFAIT 10c

THE LADIES' SHOP
"Where Styles are Shown First for Less"
Invites You to Our SPRING OPENING
Saturday, March 7th
The Very Latest in Dresses and Hats!
DRESSES $1.95 and UP
HATS $1.95 and $2.95

Vote in Primary Tuesday and Finals Thursday

The Florida Flambeau

Attend Y. W. C. A. First College Church Service

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, March 14, 1936

VOLUME XXIII. NUMBER TWENTY-TWO

Faculty Senate Presents New "Honors" Plan

Give Greater Freedom To Both Students And Departments

GUIDANCE EXAM TO SHOW ABILITY

Will be Responsible Only To Major Professor And Superiors

New regulations concerning honors work which will provide for more freedom and elasticity for the students and departments concerned were adopted by the faculty senate at a meeting held Wednesday, March 11.

In the revised regulation the major professor, the major department, and the honors committee are jointly given the power to approve the students for honors work. Under the old regulation the honors committee alone approved the admission.

More Freedom Is Given

In the advanced independent honors, both the major professor and the students are given more freedom in determining the nature and scope of the student's work.

In these courses it will be possible for the student to substitute a project for a paper. Moreover, the student will be responsible only to the major professor and to examinations for the presentation and quality of her paper or project. Previously she was responsible to examining committees appointed by the chairman of the honors committee.

As to attendance at classes, honors students will be given no formal attendance privileges except the respective fields of advanced independent study.

Honors students in the future will be required to take only one examination which may be of the written and will be conducted by and subject to the approval of their professors. Moreover, honors candidates will be eligible for one degree, which is the bachelor's degree with honors. Students graduating with honors are awarded the degree with honors or with highest honors. An improvement honors student may take advantage o, the new regulations if there is no conflict with the prerequisites of her department.

Sophomores May Apply

In accordance with the revised regulations students may apply to be admitted before April 1 of

Continued on page two

Conradi Tells Of State Trip

Meets Alumnae, Appears Before Civic Clubs

President E. G. Conradi has returned to Tallahassee from a twenty- four days' absence from the state, which was one of the longest in the history of the annual second annual F. S. C. W. tour.

Accompanied by Dr. Conradi, that our annual F. S. C. W. week is an institution of inestimable value not only to the alumnae but also because it brings to many in the state who keep alive among graduates of the college a keener appreciation of these ideals, but also because it brings to many in the state who come in contact with the college worthwhile information with regard to the aims and achievements through the programs conducted during the C. W. week many persons who would otherwise be completely unfamiliar with the methods and purposes of the institare gain an appreciative insight into the fine work which is being carried forward her."

Among the alumnae visited with Dr. Conradi met in the cities which he visited was Barbara Cuthkel, member of the class of 1935 and "itor-in-chief of the Flambeau during her senior year. Barbara, who was president an alumnae dinner in Miami, expressed the desire to extend through Dr. Conradi her greetings to the Florida Flambeau and to the entire student body of Florida State College for Women.

Guest Speaker Will Address Club Here

Dr. Manning J. Dauer will speak to the International Relations Club Monday night, March 18, at 7:30 in the Audubon Conradi theater on "The United States and World Peace."

Dr. Dauer is head of the politics, science department at the University of Georgia. He is a speaker of the International Relations Club there.

The entire student body is invited to hear him, it was according to Clarissa Knight, president of the club.

Students Vote Debate Issue

Florida Loses Decision In Favor Ohio Team At Convocation

A visiting team from the University of Dayton, Ohio, debating the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved that Congress should have the power to override with a two-thirds vote a supreme court decision declaring an act of congress unconstitutional" won the decision of the student body vote in convocation Tuesday.

The Florida team upheld the negating team took the negative side of the question.

Members of the affirmative side, Daniel Hobbs pointed out (1) the propriety of adopting the plan of the affirmative side of the question and (2) the necessity of adopting a plan to fit it.

The first point, Mr. Hobbs explained, is that the United States constitution was made for an agricultural economy — an eighteenth century institution to cope with twentieth century conditions. The second point he developed by labeling the supreme court "an obstacle." The court's three most famous decisions, Dred Scott, Income Tax and Legal Tender—all were overturned. He said on the side we have a choice of rule by the people or rule by a dead hand of rule by nine men.

The first speaker for the negative was George Smathers. He stressed the point that the Supreme Court in all its history had declared only one-fourth of one per cent of the acts of congress unconstitutional. He stated that while that was not absolutely perfect it is an argument for the present power.

The second speaker on the affirmative side, Marion Hay, declared that the mixed decisions of the nine men was no solution to obscure problems. The weakness revealed by the fact that true unconstitutionality may apply to only nine men. He used as an illustration the Child Labor Act. He concluded by saying that with the present power of the supreme court we have a nation of laws for laws' sake.

Shannon Smith, the second speaker on the negative side, summed up the case for the present congress as we now have would be more easily influenced by vested interests than the supreme court. It is the best congress that money can buy, he said.

In the rebuttal George Smathers, of Florida, said that the situation demands a change.

Rev. McLeod To Inaugurate YWCA Services

Monthly Religious Meets Are Group's Second Large Project

GLEE CLUB WILL LEAD IN HYMNS

Out-of-Town Ministers Of Interest to Young People Invited

Rev. Robert L. McLeod, Jr., pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Winter Haven, will be the first speaker of the church service which is being sponsored monthly by the Y. W. C. A. of this college for the next three months, it was announced Sunday morning, March 15, at 11:30 o'clock. The subject of Rev. McLeod's sermon is to be "God and the Individual."

Rev. McLeod received his B. A. degree at Davidson college, his B. D. degree at the Presbyterian Theological Seminary of Louisville, Kentucky, and his Ph. D. degree in the English university in Edinburgh, Scotland. During the time he studied in Scotland he was assistant pastor to the Liberton Parish church of Edinburgh.

Travels Widely

In 1924, he spent eight months traveling and visiting in 21 different countries of Europe and the Near East, including Italy, Palestine, and Egypt. During 1925 and 1926 he conducted "Student Life Institutes" in the colleges and universities of North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, and Virginia.

Rev. McLeod has served as Westminster Fellow to the World People's conferences of North Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, and Florida and as pastor of churches in Louisville, Kentucky; Laurel and Jackson, Mississippi. For the past five years he has been pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Winter Haven, Florida.

He is a member of the Pi Kappa Alpha social fraternity and of the O. D. K. honorary fraternity.

Is Y. W. C. A. Project

These monthly church services are the first large project which the Y. W. C. A. this year and has for its purpose the encouragement of the religious interests of students in the college. Out-of-town ministers of interest to students and faculty pastors who are capable of

Continued on page two

Esteren Chooses Twenty Pledges

Honorary Taps Members In Dining Room

Esteren, Even honorary, tapped twenty new pledges in the dining room last week.

Pledging was held following dinner with the president, Mrs. Sarah Thompson, officiating. The new members were formally welcomed by initiated this year, and the sophomore pledges will be initiated next fall.

Seniors tapped were Amelia Jones, Margaret Martin, Sara Christman, Betty Akin, Lucy Lee Linn, Rose Panovski, and Margaret Bell.

Sophomores tapped were Dorothy Gallant, Mary Frances Hall Asher, Betty Oetlund, Madge Glenn, Jean Lyles, Cora Sherrod, Ellen Jane Wilson, Frances Hodges, and Louise Gehan.

Juniors tapped Bond Dickenson, and Miss Elisabeth Washburn members of the college faculty, and Miss Kay Warren, secretary to the dean, were also tapped.

The purpose of this organization is to strengthen the ties between the faculty, alumnae and to promote a feeling of friendship and cooperation.

The officers of Esteren are: president, Margaret Thompson; vice-president, Caroline Hall; secretary and treasurer, Betty Meyer.

Initiated members are Janet Griffitts, Betty Meyer, Caroline Oliver, Margaret Thompson, Margaret K. Anderson, Minna Dunn, Edith Webb, Margaret Graham, Kitty Blood, Ermine Lawrence, Sybil Gordon, Margie Rasiter-son, Ann Mizell, and Frances Lewis.

Faculty members are Miss Elisabeth Lynn, Miss Katie Montgomery, Miss Elizabeth Stevenson, and Miss Hazel Allison Stevenson.

College Girls Converse About Many Subjects

Elections, Panhellenic Dance Are Subjects Of Conversation

Just what do students talk about as they hurry from class to class, arms loaded with books? The next day's assignments? Perhaps. But more often they are talking about the various campus activities.

This week, the coming election is the most talked of subject on the campus. Each student debates silently with herself as she tries to decide whether the pretty redhead should be elected, or the dark-eyed brunette. After a few minutes' thought she confides to her room-mate that the redhead really is more suitable to that certain office, but then the little brunette is her best friend. What should she do?

Skipping over the heads of several students, our eyes alight on two sorority girls talking excitedly about the Panhellenic dance. The words tumble out of one girl's mouth, faster and faster as she describes her new "swanky" evening gown on which she has expended plenty of her allowance—just for John, too. With a sweep of her arms she describes the principal lines of the gown, while a flutter of fingers is indicative of the flowers on the shoulder.

The other listens with a half smile on her face, waiting for her companion to stop chattering so she can get a word in edgewise about her new silver slippers with the glistening rows of rhinestones on them.

As we push through the Monday night crowds at the movies, we hear two students talking earnestly in one corner of the post office, while in the opposite corner a throng to get to their mail boxes, their faces lighting up as they catch a glimpse of a little white something in their cozies. "Hope it's not for my room-mate, she gets letters to herself as she gives one enthusiastic "pump" a vigorous shake. The two girls in the corner continue their private conversation, unaware of the great commotion going on about them. They nod their heads slowly as they discuss the merits and demerits of the two big debating teams which came to chapel last week. One speaks with elaborate words as she speaks to the affirmative team from the University of Dayton, Ohio. The other hangs on her every word. The varsity team from the University of Florida, the negative team was concerning congress and its power to override by a two-thirds vote a decision declared by supreme court, declaring laws passed by congress unconstitutional. Yes, very interesting. Suddenly, their conversation is interrupted by a not-overly-polite freshman who demands in a loud voice, "Is why-don't-you-get-out-of-my-way look.

Sitting at the dining room table we hear an animated conversation about the week-end, the food, and wishes for warm weather. While the girl across from her

Continued on page two

Profession Of Date Dishing Flourishes Over Week-Ends

"Opportunity Knocks But Once," Say Philosophic, "But How Will a Girl Let It Knock?" Is the Subsequent Lament

By KNOW-IT-ALL

"—perchance, then, where's Betty? Betty, hey, you've gotta have been very quiet since the now, you can't fail me. They just got in town and one's a Pike and the lodge's a mess. And I've already told them you'd go, and you too," she adds pointing to the other girl of a group of four.

"—Sucker!" murmur the victims, "what do they look like and what are their names?"

"I don't know but you'll meet 'em when they get here. Now I hope they're all fine, cause they're friends of Eddy's and you know Eddy is okay and they're from well there is one and he'll be good sports and show some

After this much rambling speech only the name of the "tractor" of the dates everything is considered fixed and two bewildered girls dash hurriedly from a card table leaving two other, very bemuddled ones to try and find out what all the previous discussion was about, and just who had the car which would have made that little slam.

Then the week after week and sometimes in between at P. S. C. W., this novel way of taking the experience as a teacher, vocational leader, counselor, and principal in schools located in the country, in a large industrial city, as a psychological examiner of pupils and of shoe brought before the courts; and as director of a State Bureau of Child Welfare, supervision over state prisons, jails, and community agencies for delinquency prevention.

In his position of federal parole executive he exercises supervision over all United States prisoners released from any penal or correctional community in this country. He has had a large part in the great world of crime in its social manifestations through his desk every day. It is significant that the federal system has been free from the violent attacks of the parole to which many jurisdictions have been subjected.

Affiliations

Mr. Huff received his M.A. degree from the University of Pittsburgh, and has done other graduate work at the University of Alabama, George Washington university, and Harvard. He is

Continued on page two

State Supervisor Calls All-Day Meeting Here

Home economics teachers of the Ochlockonee district will gather at Florida State College Saturday for an all-day meeting, March 21, called by the state supervisor of home economics education, Miss Boletha Projen to discuss the testing program in home economics.

The meeting will be held in room 209 Science building from 9:00-12:00 a. m. and again in the afternoon from 2:00-4:00. according to Miss Elizabeth Connor, associate professor of home economics, who is in charge of the program.

Huff To Talk On "Prisons And Paroles"

Gathered Data Teaching In "Crime Areas" Of Industrial Cities

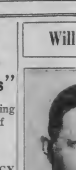
CLOSE STUDENT OF CRIMINOLOGY

Forum Lecturer to Speak To Student Body On Eve of March 18

The Honorable Ray L. Huff, parole executive for the United States Board of Parole and Bureau of Prisons of the Federal Department of Justice, will speak on the student body next Wednesday night, March 18, on the subject, "Prisons and Parolees."

Student Crime

Mr. Huff has been a close student of crime problems for more than twenty years. He has gained his experience as a teacher, vocational leader, counselor, and principal in schools located in the country, in a large industrial city, as a psychological examiner of pupils and of shoe brought before the courts; and as director of a State Bureau of Child Welfare, supervision over state prisons, jails, and community agencies for delinquency prevention.



In his position of federal parole executive he exercises supervision over all United States prisoners released from any penal or correctional community in this country. He has had a large part in the great world of crime in its social manifestations through his desk every day. It is significant that the federal system has been free from the violent attacks of the parole to which many jurisdictions have been subjected.

Affiliations

Mr. Huff received his M.A. degree from the University of Pittsburgh, and has done other graduate work at the University of Alabama, George Washington university, and Harvard. He is

Continued on page two

Will Speak

Dietetic Meet Convenes Here

Program Will Open With Address of Welcome By President

A complete program for the second annual meeting of the Florida State Dietetic association scheduled today at the Florida State College for Women has been announced by Miss Anna May Tracy, association president and college dietitian.

Dr. Edward Conradi, president of Florida State College for Women, will welcome the convention group at its morning session. The scientific topic will be guests of the college at luncheon that day in the Jennie Murphree hall where will be shown over the college kitchen and food departments by the student dietitians. A picnic supper is planned for the group that night at the college camp at Lake Bradford, about five miles from Tallahassee, with the college dietitians as hostesses. Early arrivals at the one-day convention will be entertained Friday morning, March 20, at an informal open house at the college home management house. Exhibits of interest to dietitians will be placed in the college library during the meeting here.

The program will be:

Friday morning, March 20—Informal open house at college home

Continued on page two

Cast of Senior Play Completed

Three Tallahassee Men Will Take Part

The complete cast for the senior play, The Importance of Being Earnest," has been announced and committees are now at work. It is to be presented April 2 and 3.

Tallahassee men who are playing the male parts are Kenneth Williams as Gribsby, Bill Thomas as Algernon, and Clyde Gregory as Chasuable. The female parts are being played by Mamie Beck as Lady Bracknell; Betty Hutchins as Gwendolen Parker; Eleanor Jenkins as Cecily Carew; Evelyn Leonard as Miss Prism, Evelyn Collins as Merriman; and Pat Given as Lane.

Miss Elizabeth Lynn, general chairman and Emily Johnson is assistant chairman. The play is being sponsored by Mortar Board. Other committee chairmen are: publicity chairman, Lucy Estelle Ruhn, general chairman Margaret Graham; tickets, Cris Leverett; committee, Betty Manning; programs, Sarah Graham; properties, Flor Lenert; stage manager, Sara Howes, lights, Mary Frances Mizell; and costumes, Gwendolyn Adair.

Peck Will Read Poetry

Betty Peck will read religious poetry this Sunday evening March 15, at the regular weekly vesper service in the Augusta Conrad theater at 7:15 o'clock. A special musical program is also being planned, and everyone is invited to attend, according to Mary Jeanne McKay, chairman of vespers committee.

Candidates Named For Primary, Finals

Dickens Movie Will Return March 26-27

Mortar Board announces a return engagement of "A Tale of Two Cities," a picturization of the Dickens classic featuring Ronald Colman and Elisabeth Allan. The picture will be presented March 26-27 at the Rita theater, and tickets can be procured from students on campus. Mortar Board will get credit for all tickets bought from students.

McKay and Whitaker Will Run For Leadership Student Body

FLAMBEAU PRINTS OFFICE POLICIES

General Elections Will Be Run Off Between March 19-24

The yearly Florida State College elections got underway yesterday with the nominations committee's announcement of nominees for the major campus offices. These nominees were suggested by the student-body in a special convocation Thursday morning and were notified of their nomination by the committee later in the afternoon.

Nominees stated by letter their acceptance of the nomination and gave a resume of their platform policies for publication in this issue of the Flambeau.

Primary Procedure

All candidates on the official primary ballot will be questioned in convocation Tuesday morning by Katherine Blood, president of the College Government association, with the candidates coming to the chair in groups according to classes. Each girl will be introduced and the office for which she is a candidate will be stated. After the group has been introduced it will back the auditorium while nomination speeches and their platform policies are given in place. Nominees from each class will be presented in this manner.

Primary elections will be held on Tuesday afternoon from 1:30 until 6:30 and from 7:15 until 8:30.

Speeches by Candidates

The two nominees for each office receiving the greatest number of votes in the primary will be presented alone with the candidates for publications offices in the Thursday convocation. At this time the final candidates for the offices of president of C. O. A., chairman of the student legislature, and editors of the three campus publications will give short speeches re-stating their policies and will be open to questions from the floor for each other.

The final voting for the major offices will take place Thursday

Continued on page two

Tampa Artists Offer Concert

Friday Morning Musicale Reciprocity Recital To Be March 19

Members of the Tampa Friday Morning Musicale will present a reciprocity recital in the college auditorium next Thursday night at 8:15 o'clock. This concert is a return for a recital given in Tampa by members of the college music faculty in January.

The program will consist of musical numbers and dancing with the following presented by Barnes and Charles Wilkes to play group numbers for two pianos. Miss Annie Laurie Stanley and John Phillip Shaddick, baritone; Ruth Bullock, dancer, and Nella Wells Crandall, accompanist.

These artists have been receiving much favorable comment for and recitals in Tampa and other cities. The piano team of two young men who have competed considerably in their ensemble work will appear in two groups.

There will be no charge for admission. The student body and public are cordially invited to attend.

Among the members included in the program are: Sonata in D Double Concerto in E ..Mosart

Allegro
Andante
Verace
Barnes-Wilkes
Aria Deriegia ..Bach
.....Opera Louise-Charpentier
Lo Hear the Gentle Lark ..Bishop
Annie Laurie Stanley
Dance—Sy phlie Waltz
Gail Armour
Esblishdelsohn Concerto ..Rubenstein
Der Doppelganger ..... Shubert
El Lacerato Spirito
Opera Bizet-Bonci Negra-Verdi
John Phillip Shaddick
Duet La ci darem la Mano
Opera Don Vivanni-Molzart
Annie Stanley-Shaddick
Wings of Night Winter Watts
Charity Richard Hagemann
Lovely Month of May Hammond
Annie Laurie Stanley
Dance—Russian Folk Dance
Gail Armour
Three Salt Water Ballads. Keel
Phillip Shaddick
Polichenelle Rachmaninoff
Romance, Op. 15 From Faust
.....Arensky
Etude, Op 16, No. 2 ..... Chopin
Malagueno from Spanish Rhapsody
.....Lecuona
Barnes and Wilkes

French Honorary Taps Two Students Recently For Outstanding Work

Beta Pi Theta, national French honorary tapped two new members recently. The students tapped were Anna Grover and Winifred Hall.

The French honorary is open to students who do work of a superior quality in French and who maintain a high average in other subjects. Requirements for members are an A average in French, and a B average in other subjects. Also the 300 course in French must be completed.

The girls tapped will be required to present a program in French before they are pledged and initiated into the fraternity.

Student members of the club include Maurie Lassiter, president, and Alice Porter, Leona Stimmel, Ruth Mock, Ruth Dickson, Betty Boggs, Ruth Feinberg, Wylma Tolbush, Mary Carson, Lillian Turlington, Josephine Bunton, Pearle Overhulz, Dorothy Crews, Barbara Cromland, and Anna Glenn Hall. Miss Finnegan is the faculty advisor.

Death of Caesar Will be Enacted

Ides Of March Celebrated With Presentation

The members of the Caesar class of the classic department will present a Latin play entitled "Julius Caesar" on Tuesday night in Ruse hall at a meeting of the Classical club.

The play is to depict the murder of Caesar, in keeping with the season of the Ides of March. Ruse hall will be transformed into a Roman theater, and the members of the club will be dressed in costume by means of a Roman theater party. Following the Roman custom of seating the audience according to rank, the "senators" will have the position of honor, the juniors as "knights" and following in general Roman and sophomores will be classed as "people."

The characters of the play include the following: First citizen, Ruth Dickson; second citizen, Florence Evers; Caesar, Edna Hobbs; Antonius, Zula Marchetta; Wales, soothsayer, Jane Sutton; Calpurnia, Mary Tiller; Portia, Miss Brenfroe; Cinna, Lulu Walker; Casca, Banks Wood; Calpurnium, Julia Beckman; Brutus, Florence Evers; Servus, Jane Sutton; Metellus Cimber, Julia Beckman.

Members of the Latin class in teachers college will have charge of the setting, costumes, rehearsals, and properties.

Committee chairmen include Maurie Lassiter, general chairman, Elizabeth Weatherly; rehearsals, Rielemany Pratch; staging and properties, Hazel Varnell; costumes, Holly Walker; tickets and programs, Mary Marshall; ushers and publicity, Marie Herrold.

"Exitum Caesis" was written by Miss Virginia Herold of Shipley school, Bryn Mawr.

"Who Is God?" Queries Finner

"Worship With the Mind," Hebrew-Christian Religion Says

"You, of this campus, must grow up religiously as you do in other sciences of life and education, and you still have a long way to go," said Dr. Paul F. Pinner, in opening his talk on "Who Is God?" Thursday night. This meeting was the first of a series of forum discussions to be sponsored by the follow-up committee of Religion. Emphasis week.

Before continuing his speech Dr. Finner quoted from the thirteenth chapter of Corinthians when Paul stated that when a child, he spoke, thought and argued as a child, but when he became a man, he put away childish things. Thus, when we pray, we must pray for a building of the character, and not for the finding of a lost fountain pen, or for a clear day tomorrow; for these are childish things and we have now become women.

The Hebrew-Christian religion, according to Dr. Finner, says that we are to worship with our minds, which means to question, to argue and to express our opinions. We must know the truth, but how can we when our minds ask questions and we subdue these desires in forcing ourselves to speak other things. We are coming to a much deeper scholarship in the study of religion that will be challenged by the best of minds.

"There is no proof that there is a God," said Dr. Finner, "neither is there disproof. There is no argument for it, although some say that the universe has a cause and that cause is God. But what is the cause of God

"People who are looking for God should not use science as a means. As yet, we do not know enough of the universe, we know it only partly. We are only on the first rung of the ladder," says Dr. Finner, "and if God expects have the law of physics, chemistry and biology are the wars in which God works. Science has no proof of a God, and people

A Million ways try to discover a God in the universe only muddy it," warns.

Each to his own religion was the idea expressed by Dr. Pinner. "Do not tell the people who do not believe in God or the way you believe, for they may have a thought more about the problem than you. Many of the people who live in no God or in other gods. We are doomed to live in a world where the idea of God has a question mark after it, for now even the Bible is doubted by the critical minded person." If one person worships with her heart, soul and mind, she has established a firm worship, making a perfect life. She has come as near to God as any one can. But for those that question God, they are in a great company and must be tolerant and respecting of the views of others.

"I myself," said Dr. Finner, in closing, "believe the evolution of man to be the best conception that we have of the universe. If there are doubts of your religion that arise, listen to them, let them come out, and see what is left. Enough will be left to come out with a song."

Following Dr. Finner's talk it was announced that the second of the series of discussions will be given by Dr. Enda Devinney on the subject of "Does Science Disprove Religion?" Thursday night, March 19, in Jennie Murphree parlor at 7:30. In preparation for this talk, Dr. Devinney has made a collection of the statements of outstanding scientists on this subject.

Professions of Date Dishing Flourishes On Week-End Ends

Continued from page one

known arrives that she had had the foresight to have bombarded the opportunity and have fled in the opposite direction, for if he isn't perfectly homely and a complete pest, he is either has a steel girl who is in the infirmary or the hospital for the week-end and has only reason he wanted a date was because so-and-so thought the steady gal was making an awful sucker out of him and he just wanted to show her, or else he is nice looking and acting but he spoils it by continually lying on his financial status and how he spent all his money last week-end (when you know he must have been pulling this same gal on some other other week-end at the time, but probably not the same place.

You finally sum up to yourself that men are all like tires—they look all alike outside and are awfully that you hadn't been so unlucky as Tommy the last time he was up, because he was awfully nice and he did show you a good time—did he?

But to an on—these "dished out men" are the smartest of four-kinds or types—the or last—time made one. The B variety, or those made over at the last by the friends of the friends of a friend. And by doing so you mean information about the church is a subject of study.

Miss Gehan also wishes to announce that ten new books have been added to the library of the Episcopal students' headquarters in Page Hall. These books are "Kagawa" by Billing, "Jesus Came Preaching" by Bultred; "The Christian Way" by Alec Vidler; "The Green Light" by Lloyd Douglas; "The Meaning of Faith" by H. E. Fosdick; "The Holy Spirit and the Church" by Charles Gore; "The Gospel According to St. Luke" by Leavens; "Book of Devotion" by Whitehead; "Jesus Christ" by Papini; "People's Life of Christ" by J. F. Smyth; "Modern Christian Church" by W. Walker; and "Ignatius Loyola" by Paul Van Dyke.

The library is open to all students of the college and they are invited to use it at any time, according to Miss Gehan.

Students Vote Debate Issue

Continued from page one

press court does not prevent, but rather passes judicial opinion. He pointed out that the affirmative case had said the supreme court was wrong, and added the question, "Do the gentlemen of the affirmative know more law than the supreme court?" He concluded by saying that the supreme court is a stabilizer, a rudder on the ship of state.

Marion Bell, of Ohio gave the rebuttal for the affirmative side. He began with a 5-4 decision, the fate of the nation lies in the hands of the man. He also said the supreme court is usually against social legislation, and it is controlled by nothing else than votes Pierce, Butler, and Van de Vanter, who are corporation lawyers in the interests of "big business" before they were appointed to the bench. In saying this, he should have faith in congress because we are a part of it.

THE TIME IS SPRING!
The Place Is
DIANA SHOP
The Leading Lady Is
YOU!
EASTER ENSEMBLES:
—Easter Dresses
—Tailored Suits
—Smart Hats
—Lingerie
—Hosiery
WE ARE ALSO SHOWING NOVELTY COTTON DRESSES AND BLOUSES
DIANA SHOP

Bellamy Will Lead Meeting At Ruge

Episcopal Students Make Plans For Week

The Episcopal students of this college are making many plans for the coming week which include an open forum on racial problems to be led by Dr. Raymond Bellamy, professor of sociology, Sunday afternoon, March. 15, at 5:15 in Ruge hall. Everyone is invited to attend this forum, according to Miss Julia Gehan, student sponsor of the organization.

Sunday morning at 10 o'clock Dr. A. F. Liddell will continue his class on the study of the Bible. The subject to be discussed at this time is "The Ten Commandments."

Throughout the remainder of the year the Episcopal students are giving waffle suppers in Ruge hall to which everyone is welcome. Reservations may be made by telephoning 892-W.

The student choir is scheduled to meet Monday afternoon to rehearse special songs for Holy Week. Miss Margaret Dow has charge of the choir which further plans must be made for music during the year.

From 8 to 8:30 Monday evening, March 16, confirmation class is held under the direction of Rev. Durfield. Anyone wishing to obtain information about the church is asked to attend.

Miss Gehan also wishes to announce that ten new books have been added to the library of the Episcopal students' headquarters in Page Hall. These books are "Kagawa" by Billing, "Jesus Came Preaching" by Bultred; "The Christian Way" by Alec Vidler; "The Green Light" by Lloyd Douglas; "The Meaning of Faith" by H. E. Fosdick; "The Holy Spirit and the Church" by Charles Gore; "The Gospel According to St. Luke" by Leavens; "Book of Devotion" by Whitehead; "Jesus Christ" by Papini; "People's Life of Christ" by J. F. Smyth; "Modern Christian Church" by W. Walker; and "Ignatius Loyola" by Paul Van Dyke.

The library is open to all students of the college and they are invited to use it at any time, according to Miss Gehan.

Faculty Senate Presents New "Honors" Plan

Continued from page one

their sophomore year for admission to honors work. D. exceptional cases, with the approval of her major professor, a student may apply as late as December of her junior year. The application states in what field or fields of knowledge the candidate desires to concentrate and what other studies she expects to pursue. It also gives as references the names of three members of the faculty under whom she has studied, including the member of the major department who prepared the student for her work.

Acceptance of candidates for honors work will be based as before on the student's having maintained a two-point average in her college work and on evidence of her ability to work independently. The number of continuing honors work is contingent upon the maintenance of a high quality of work.

The nature of this work will be determined by the major professor and the student with the approval of the honors committee in view of variations in types of subject matter and corresponding differences in methods required by the particular plan of procedure in each field. Conferences with department and from course to course will be arranged. It is expected toward giving the student, through a wide reading program, a broad background in her field or fields, or may be more intensively focused on a special topic.

Evidence Required

Tangible evidence of the student's work will be required and will be considered in the final report in determining her fitness for graduation with honors. In some cases the student may be required to prepare and submit specially written papers covering a part of her advanced independent study. In other cases the entire study may contribute to a single paper. It is even possible that in a few cases the thesis of the work may best be expressed in some other form.

The rule requiring physical education for women is waived. The students who safe-guard, their health through proper recreation.

Only one honors course will be given to students taking honors work. The student's grade in this examination will be discretionary with the major professor in some instances, but in most cases preceding the regular undergraduate examinations. The exception to this professor, at least two other faculty members and one colleague in the same or a related department and one a member of the honors committee, to be on the written examination or be present at the oral one.

During the last quarter of the senior year the honors examination shall be given by the major professor to each honors student and a note prepared on the result preceding the regular undergraduate examinations. The exception to this professor, at least two other faculty members and one colleague in the same or a related department and one a member of the honors committee, to be on the written examination or be present at the oral one.

Prospective Scholar Discovers Obstacles To Learn In Dorm

Welcomes any Digression From Burning Famed Midnight Oil

"Now's my chance! I've got two hours to study!"

A would-be studious college student, who wants to get all her next day assignments done for a change," puts a "study sign upon the door of her room and sits down on her bed, contemplating her surroundings and thinking of what lesson she should do first. Her eyes fall upon a lamp that is on her desk. That lamp would look much better on the dresser, besides giving her and her roommate more light, so she turns on their make-up.

So her would-be studious girl gets up and moves the lamp from the desk to the dresser, going through many maneuvers of changing the lighting cords and fixtures. Two fifteen minutes of her time is gone with no studying accomplished.

Again she sits down upon the bed and in so doing remembers that she hasn't changed the sheets for the past two weeks. "Never mind if till tomorrow, what you can do today," she says to herself and gets out clean sheets to put on her bed. Changing the bedding took her another fifteen minutes, and now a half hour is gone from her two hours allowed for studying.

This time she sits in the chair before her desk and opens her book. Here is what a typical her drawer is—and Bill's letters at all unlooked for and knowing all along that two days from now it will be as big a mess as ever. By the time this task is completed, two more hours have slipped away, leaving an hour and ten minutes in which to do her studying.

However, her drawer was so much that she has to get out and wash her hands. In the hall she meets Grace who tells her that she has just received a letter from home and asks her to come share his cookies. Our college girl is the type of girl who never refuses such wonderful opportunities, so she goes to Grace's room; to get a piece of that delicious chocolate cake and while you mostly read about while in the room she does have the chance to taste.

Of course when two talkative girls get together, time flies out the window to—goodness knows where. Suffice it to say that realize it, they spend a half hour in the room. Grace's roommate is now sewing sown to the awful exam their afternoon professor gave them that morning. Our college student suddenly becomes aware of the time and hastily thanking Grace for the delicious treat, runs to her room with the idea that she's going to study now or know the reason why.

Just as she is comfortably seated before her desk and ready to begin her Spanish translation, she hears a whistle outside her window. She goes over to the window and sees Peg standing out there wanting to know what the idea is of putting a "study" sign upon her door. At first our college girl does not weekend and says she has to study. But when Peg says, "Aw, come on! Let's go down and smoke," Spanish is far from her thoughts, and away she goes down to the smoking room, leaving herself she can probably do her Spanish in a half hour anyway.

Peg has a lot to tell her, though and our student spends forty-five minutes in the smoking room. Then other girls come in and our girl's time is continuously, and they also have a lot to talk about —from her dresses, going through many maneuvers of changing the lighting cords and fixtures. Two fifteen minutes of her time is gone with no studying accomplished.

Again she sits down upon the bed and in so doing remembers that she hasn't changed the sheets for the past two weeks. "Never mind if till tomorrow, what you can do today," she says to herself and gets out clean sheets to put on her bed. Changing the bedding took her another fifteen minutes, and now a half hour is gone from her two hours allowed for studying.

This time she sits in the chair before her desk and opens her book. Here is what a typical her drawer is—and Bill's letters at all unlooked for and knowing all along that two days from now it will be as big a mess as ever. By the time this task is completed, two more hours have slipped away, leaving an hour and ten minutes in which to do her studying.

However, her drawer was so much that she has to get out and wash her hands. In the hall she meets Grace who tells her that she has just received a letter from home and asks her to come share his cookies. Our college girl is the type of girl who never refuses such wonderful opportunities, so she goes to Grace's room; to get a piece of that delicious chocolate cake and while you mostly read about while in the room she does have the chance to taste.

Of course when two talkative girls get together, time flies out the window to—goodness knows where. Suffice it to say that realize it, they spend a half hour in the room. Grace's roommate is now sewing sown to the awful exam their afternoon professor gave them that morning. Our college student suddenly becomes aware of the time and hastily thanking Grace for the delicious treat, runs to her room with the idea that she's going to study now or know the reason why.

Just as she is comfortably seated before her desk and ready to begin her Spanish translation, she hears a whistle outside her window. She goes over to the window and sees Peg standing out there wanting to know what the idea is of putting a "study" sign upon her door. At first our college girl does not weekend and says she has to study. But when Peg says, "Aw, come on! Let's go down and smoke," Spanish is far from her thoughts, and away she goes down to the smoking room, leaving herself she can probably do her Spanish in a half hour anyway.

Peg has a lot to tell her, though and our student spends forty-five minutes in the smoking room. Then other girls come in and our girl's time is continuously, and they also have a lot to talk about —from her dresses, going

In the course of time, we again find our college student back in her room fifteen minutes left in which to complete her studying. Suddenly the door flies open and she is surrounded with the afternoon mail. Naturally our college student is human so she has to open her letters immediately, for the joy of college life is receiving letters.

After she reads her mail, she realizes that there's no use in even trying to study now. Her thoughts are where her letters are—home, boyfriends, parties, wife. Besides, it's near the end of the week and she has to get her light-cuts yet. She might as well get all that's coming to her, for all she has a light-cut tonight and "study."

Dietetic Meet

Continued from page one

management house; exhibit, Florida State college library.

Saturday morning, March 21—9:30 a. m. meeting of executive committee, room 301, Science hall. 10:00 a. m. business meeting, Auditorium, Science hall. Miss Anna May Tracy, association president, presiding; report of committees; appointment of nominating committee; discussion of association business; 11:00 a. m. program, "A Greeting from the College," by Dr. Edward Conradi, college president. "Planning Tuberculosis Units for the State," Phil F. Kennard, architect for the state tuberculosis board; a talk, "Modern Trends in the Treatment of Tuberculosis," by Dr. L. S. LaPrite, Jacksonville. "Some Curriculum Changes at Florida State College for Women," Dr. Arizona Reid, professor of chemistry and nutrition; "Curriculum Changes in the School of Home Economics," Dr. Margaret Rector Sandels, dean of the school of home economics; 12:40 p. m., luncheon, college dining hall.

Saturday afternoon, March 21—2:00 p. m. visit to the college kitchen and food demonstration; 3:00 p. m. program, Augusta Conradi theater, Miss Florence Ber, Miami, vice president, presiding; "A Nutrition Story from Birth to Death," by Miss Mary Keown, district home demonstration agent; "Progress in Malaria Research," by Dr. Mark Boyd, director of the division of malaria investigation, state board of health; "The Effect of Nervous Influences on Digestion," by Dr. Frederick P. Wahl, Thomasville, Ga.; "When You Plan Your Kitchen," by Herbert D. Meredith, hall, resident engineer of Florida State college; report of nominating committee; election of officers.

Saturday night, March 21—7:00 p. m., picnic supper, Camp Flastacowo, college dietitians as hostesses.

Faculty Will Speak On Style and Fashion For Modern Women

Rosina McDowell Lynn, one of the foremost authorities on style in America and a fashion consultant, will speak here Wednesday March 18, at 4:30 in the Science building.

A graduate of Barnard college she pursued specialized studies in Europe supplemented by graduate work in Fine Arts at New York university. Miss Lynn has engaged in extensive research in comparative art and costume design. Her study of and practical experience in the fashion industry has made her an authority on the subject. She is in frequent demand as a lecturer and consultant by department stores and as a speaker before educational groups.

There will be an open forum following her lecture, at which time she will answer any questions read from the floor.

Those who are interested in the practical side of fashion will receive points from her talk on the art of dressing well or on the part clothes play in the creation of personality.

College Girls Converse About Many Subjects

Continued from page one

wishes twice as hard for cold weather so she can wear her new suit!

So the trends of thought trail on and on during the morning recitations from weather to politics. Students never tire of talking.

Hoft to Talk On "Prisons and Paroles"

Continued from page one

Association and the American Association for the Advancement of Science; the American Sociological society, and the National Educational association. He is secretary of the Florida Parole Association, and a member of the committee on Education and Research, the Committee on Research in Principles, American Prison Association, and the American Association of Social Workers.

Rev. McLeod to Inaugurate Y. W. C. A. Services

Continued from page one

taking to young people and is admitted to speak at these services.

At the service this Sunday morning Miss Cornelsen will be in charge of the meeting and Miss Which is the official organ of the Cornelsen's association, explaining its various features and its value to the organization.

Miss Cornelsen was introduced by Miss Ruth Mettinger, president of the school of Home Association. Miss Cornelsen is making a tour of Florida during the month of March, with the plan of speaking in every nurses' club in the state.

Cornelsen Addresses College Nursing Staff

Miss Dora M. Cornelsen, field representative of the Nursing Journal of Nursing, addressed a meeting of the College Nursing Association of Florida, at Miss Cornelsen talked on the Educational Journal of Nursing which is the official organ of the association, explaining its various features and its value to the organization.

Miss Cornelsen was introduced by Miss Ruth Mettinger, president of the school of Home Association. Miss Cornelsen is making a tour of Florida during the month of March, with the plan of speaking in every nurses' club in the state.

Candidates Named For Primary, Fina

Continued from page one

afternoon from 1:30 to 4:30 and from 7:15 to 8:30.

Finals on March 24

The remainder of the College Government nominees, the associate association nominees, and the Y. W. C. A. nominees will be presented Tuesday, March 24, at convocation and will be voted on that same afternoon in the same manner as the other candidates for office.

Due to the fact that each person who was nominated for more than one position selected the position for which she would run in the primaries and finals the names for only five offices will be presented on the primary ballot. The candidates for president of College Government, chairman of judiciary, editor of the Flambeau, editor of the Florida Review, and business manager of these three publications will be placed on the primary ballot as they now stand.

The polls will be open all day next Tuesday are from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Those in charge of the election are Miss Ruth Mettinger, president of College Government association; Miss Betty Mack, and Miss Mary Whitaker.

Candidates for president of College Government association are Mary Jeanne Hoffman and Mary Whitaker; for chairman of judiciary, Martha Masterson and Mary Miller; for editor of the Florida Review, Martha Baker and Dorothy Fisher; for business manager of the Flambeau, Alma Butler and Marie Gee; for editor of the Flambeau, Frances Forth and Marjorie Tillis; for business manager, Jane Mitchell and Ruth Reid.

Candidates for associate editor of the Florida Review are Elizabeth Jones and Marjorie Nowak; for associate business manager, Lillie McGuire and Gertrude O'Rourke.

Learn The Shorthand That saves time, money, effort
SPEEDWRITING
A shorthand for all purposes
Especially valuable to college students. Learned in six to eight weeks.
Speedwriter wins third place in recent 10,000 question test of Civil Service examinations, with grade of 99.24 per cent.
Phone or see Mrs. Strain
LITTLE STORE
701 W. Jefferson

THE SWEET SHOP
703 W. Jefferson Opposite Gilchrist
Phone 1091 We Deliver
WEEK-END SPECIALS
Ice Cream Soda 5c
Apple Pie a la Mode 10c
Small Cheese Sandwich 5c
Strawberry Short Cake 10c

A New Walking Oxford of white calf with tan alligator trim, 1¼-inch leather heel. Built over the famous Hosmer last. Sizes AAA to C.
TWENTY-TWO OTHER STYLES IN THIS TYPE SHOE
BROWNBILT SHOE STORE
115 E. College Ave.

GELBERG'S
New Store . . . College Ave.
Invites Your Inspection.
Co-ed Dresses
$10.95
Peter Pan Dresses
$14.95
Silk Undies, Accessories, Dress Materials
Famous Kellogg Girl Oxfords in white and combination colors.
$2.95

NOMINEES STATE OFFICE POLICIES

President of C. G. A.

The main function of the president of the College Government association is the administration and supervision of her organization. It is her duty also to maintain a progressive attitude with a view toward sound advancement of the system. She should function as a unifying force and see that her organization runs harmoniously as well as efficiently. Any policy advocates efficient administration backed by progressive attitude.

—Mary Jeanne McKay

I, Sue Whitaker, if elected to the office of president of College Government association promise to perform to the rules and regulations of the school. I will try to uphold the high standards of the college and to further in any way I am able the ideas of F. S. C. W. In addition to the honor and privileges bestowed upon the holder of the office, I would also accept the accompanying duties and obligations, and I would devote them to the best of my ability.

I believe in a rigid point system which will be capable of preventing several girls from entering into too many activities, enable them to more ably fulfill the duties of their offices and allow some other hitherto non-participants to enter into campus activities.

I believe that there is a need to, as someone so ably expressed it, "mix in the dining sitting" between faculty and student members."

I regret that there is at present on this campus a strained feeling existing between sorority and non-sorority girls. It is my opinion that this difficulty could be wrried out in part through the social committee by urging sorority girls to attend dormitory dances, by having dormitory girls frequently to their own dances, and to attend other nights.

I advocate a practice system for who shall succeed to office. It is not to be the professor or such a person as a student assistant. Such a system would be worthless for those girls who will not cheat as a practice system would prevent these girls who will appropriate another's information from doing so.

I do not believe in political parties or campaigns. I do believe that every student should be interested enough in elections to nominate and vote for both general and secondary elections. I do not believe, however, that students should accept recommendations for their voting from a person who does not know the qualifications of the individual candidates for the office or offices in question.

—Sue Whitaker

First Vice-President

If I should be elected first vice-president of C. G. A., I should consider it an honor requiring the very best I have and can give. There is little I could give besides an earnest endeavor that I would give with all my heart.

The first vice-president, I believe, should be the president's steady aide. There are many little things which the president has not enough time to do but which could easily be designated to the first vice-president. She should not wait to be called upon, but should offer her services in any way she can, keeping herself well informed of all that is happening under C. G. A. legislation. These things I should try to do.

If the proposed plan, for the first vice-presidency of C. G. A. to act as chairman of senate, should become a part of the constitution, I should strive to fulfill the responsibilities of that position ably and intelligently, and feel all issues squarely and impartially, and give willing help for carrying out decision from all angles, with equal opportunities for discussion.

I should try to meet any situation unforeseen with an open mind in order but brief phrases to sleep. I should try to be and do my best.

—Mickey Conn.

I hereby accept the nomination of first vice-president of C. G. A. My policy would be to understand and support the president. I would endeavor to qualify as an efficient executive when needed or during the president's absence. I would cooperate with all officers and the faculty. I would also endeavor to be a link between the College Government association and the student body and perform any special duties required in this office.

—Marjorie Horton

I recognize in the office of first vice-president of C. . A. the opportunity and need for the use of executive ability, an earnest interest in P. S. C. W., and practical common sense.

—Betty Ostlund.

Second Vice-President

I accept the nomination with pleasure and shall endeavor to the best of my ability to perform the duties of my office efficiently. First of all, I will help the president of the association, in any way possible, and second to devote my untiring efforts to the development of the new body of freshman councilor whatever name is to be given to this group. As a sophomore councilor, I realize the tremendous opportunities of making a group of representative sophomores a significant factor in campus life. I will do my best to make this group aware of the broader responsibilities of citizenship in our college life, help them to make this school better throughout the student body and sophomore class from the ideals of service, leadership and honor.

—Phil Asher

Florida State College for Women is a school to be proud of, and I, if elected to the office of second vice-president of the College Government association, would be proud of the opportunity to serve my school.

As second vice-president, working with the new organization, a sophomore councilor, I feel I would be to make this a unified group harmoniously working for the betterment of the welfare of the campus.

As a member of the student senate, and as the assistant of the first vice-president, I would try to maintain a spirit of fun and mindedness, fair play, and support of the ideals of the school.

—Jean Duncan

I hereby accept my nomination to run in the primary election for second vice-president of C. G. A. and decline my nomination for first vice-president.

The duties of vice-president as a member of college council, executive council, and college senate I consider best in assisting to make C. G. A. effective in solving the problems of the student body. I would be willing to give my time to the performance of these duties and in assuming the sponsorship of the freshman group which will next year take the place of freshmen commission and freshman cabinet. The duties and policies would be for a broadening opinion of the student body as a group, and for a definite plan of co-operation and unity of thought with the new freshman class. As a member of college council, executive council, and college senate I would do my best to represent the opinions of the greater number of students.

—Dorothea Marsh

I believe that one of the best means of serving our campus lies in designing the program set up for the coming year. Should I, with sincere desire to serve in this way is shown by my acceptance of the nomination of second vice-president of College Government association.

—Marjorie Raulerson

Secretary of C. G. A.

If chosen to be secretary of the College Government association, I will pledge myself to attend all the meetings of the executive council, student senate, and college council and to endeavor to the utmost of my ability to keep accurate and competent records of all of their proceedings. I will also pledge myself to faithfully and diligently, to do my work conscientiously, to uphold the standards of the College Government association, "and as a member of its executive council, to work to the best of my ability strive to enable it to promote the welfare of an efficient, essential element of C. G. A. Judging from my previous budget and auditing committees this year, there is every reason to expect a change of attitude on the treasurers of all groups whereby more is to be demanded of them in the way of accurate and complete books and records.

—Betty Mack.

I hereby announce my candidacy for the office of treasurer of college government association by common support. If I am elected to that office I promise to do my utmost to live up to the standards of that office and to meet to the best of my ability its requirements, exercising great diligence to fulfill those duties, which are as follows; to keep good books in exact form, to do my utmost to keep the budget in balance, to be asset as a senate representative, and to serve on the faculty committee to the best of my ability.

—Betty Taylor

Secretary of C. G. A.

If elected to the office of secretary of C. G. A., I would earnestly try to fulfill the duties connected with it, and would take a sincere interest in all Ba working associations.

—Betty Harrison.

My policy as a citizen of the campus of Florida State College for Women and in the capacity of secretary of the College Government association would be as follows:

To attend all meetings.

To perform all duties required of my office to the best of my abilities.

To take initiative in the betterment of College Government association and to cooperate with the executive council in all College Government association activities.

To recognize campus problems and to assume my responsibility in combating them.

To welcome all suggestions from the student body with an open mind.

To support wholeheartedly any innovation sponsored by the College Government association.

To exchange ideas with officers from student government bodies in other schools and to put into practice those which are proven better than the ones in present use.

To give my unlimited support to those measures which will help to form the nucleus of present College Government association.

—Mary Ann Hart.

The policy I should attempt to follow as secretary of College Government association is: To keep accurate minutes of the meetings.

To work to stir up enthusiasm and interest in the work of the class in the issues and undertakings of the student body.

To gain from the class its opinions on issues confronting the association and to represent those opinions to the council.

To conscientiously consider such opinions as I shall receive and be the right opinion unless it be proven wrong.

To support extra-curricula activities such as all sports, N. S. P. A., W. C. A. A., the debating club and the Classical club.

To work for even more and greater interest on the students and the abolition of a few rather petty rules by the placing of more responsibility on the student herself.

To support the honor system.

—Betty Hatch.

Treasurer of C. G. A.

As treasurer of College Government association I should endeavor to keep an accurate and complete account of the funds entrusted to my care.

As a member of the executive council and senate I should also do my best to advocate all plans and ideas most favorable to the advancement of the Student Government association.

—Margaret Claire Lafferty.

Clear, concise, to the point—that this association's policy be that that thereby embodying the perfect fundamental characteristics of the work of any treasurer. The job is there. It can be overlooked or taken into a more figure-head, or it can be worked with and through with an efficient, essential element of C. G. A. Judging from my previous budget and auditing committees this year, there is every reason to expect a change of attitude on the treasurers of all groups whereby more is to be demanded of them in the way of accurate and complete books and records.

—Betty Mack.

I hereby announce my candidacy for the office of treasurer of college government association by common support. If I am elected to that office I promise to do my utmost to live up to the standards of that office and to meet to the best of my ability its requirements, exercising great diligence to fulfill those duties, which are as follows; to keep good books in exact form, to do my utmost to keep the budget in balance, to be asset as a senate representative, and to serve on the faculty committee to the best of my ability.

—Peggy McMichael.

Chairman of Judiciary

In my opinion the influence of the judiciary should be constructive, less rather than restrictive. I advocate that our judicial policy be one of education, cooperation, and growth, leading toward a thinking body of regulations as well as a higher standard of conduct and of honor.

—Martha Hakenson

In order that any later group of people might be organized into a well regulated, smooth working machine, a constitution stating the ideals, standards, and laws of the organization is necessary to an absolute necessity. Do not mistake me here as saying that we should allow this to become a mechanized system of government for we are human beings and very much so. But each should be allowed individual adjustments, in keeping of course, with our standard of government. In order to uphold this constitution and enforce the laws of the representative body is maintained, which is the judiciary. It is the duty of over which a chairman presides. It is the duty of the chairman of the chairman of judiciary. I shall earnestly endeavor to uphold the constitution of the student body of Women, enforce all laws which have already been made and duly been established, and with the aid of my fellow members, shall suggest amendments which will in any way, better the morals and conduct of the student body. The entire work shall be directed toward the betterment of the campus and the students thereof. I shall do all in my power to uphold the standards of this college for Florida State College for women.

—Mary Miller

Freshman Adviser

The office of freshman adviser offers a large opportunity for worthwhile service to the class. Through the freshman adviser and her council first year classes receive their first contact with our college set-up. I feel that to be the most important responsibility not only of the simpler aspects of orientation, but also of the spiritual and intellectual attitude among the members of the class. That always is what works. Therefore, before accepting any responsibility, I should consider it my duty to arrive at a definite, workable plan of action to be followed by members of our student body practical help in enabling freshmen to become an part of our whols with the least possible waste of time.

—Jo Boston.

As freshman adviser, I shall endeavor to the best of my ability to work with the advisory council in the formulation of a quote orientation program so that the incoming freshman class will easily become assimilated in the campus life and its activities, and instill in them a feeling of responsibility and spirit for the college. I shall do my best to keep in touch with the advisers during the summer so that the work may be started at the first to start the program at the beginning of the fall.

—Edith Manford.

I think working with the freshman class is the most fruit fields as far as doing something beneficial for the college is concerned. Most freshmen arrive with a lot of high school spirit (many that have been looking forward to it all their lives) and if this enthusiasm is turned to the right channel in the best direction, it means much to the college and student body. I would like to see the class know their own group better. I think that the freshman adviser should be appreciated and enjoyed, and I believe this is possible if they see the necessity of these meetings. I think the adviser should try to cooperate with the freshman sponsor and freshman adviser in planning for the class and in putting over their projects on campus.

I would like to see school songs sung in class meetings with Odd and Even songs left for campus meetings and for those interested. We would have our school songs to become as do alumnae from other colleges.

I understand the importance and duties of this office, I believe, and I would be very much interested in working wholeheartedly if I were elected.

—Peggy McMichael.

Editor of Flambeau

The Florida Flambeau in the past has arrived from both the editorial and the news standpoint as presents a mixed view of the real campus life while at the same time the staff of the paper has tried to embody the highest of journalistic standards in the make-up, the writing, and the news selection presented in the paper. These ideals have been lived up to by the students who put out the paper each year as proved by the consistently high rating which the Flambeau has received in all national college news contests.

As editor of the Flambeau I would like to do my best this work for a continuance of this same editorial policy; striving, of course, to set the paper at even a higher level of journalistic perfection and at the same time attempting to make the Flambeau a true representation by their student body of the Florida State College for Women by instilling a definite interest in the paper.

It is necessary always to remember that the Flambeau is not owned by the staff which runs it but by the student body in recognition of this fact I would encourage a definite interest and loyalty attitudes and opinions through the "Pro and Con" column and by a large coverage of campus news—only possible when both students and faculty members cooperate with the reporters from the paper.

—Hazel Brannon

I should like to see the Flambeau express the real student opinion on campus.

I believe it is a natural reaction to educational processes in fact it is embodied in education itself. I would seek to revitalize the traditional Flambeau policy by encouraging every type of student on this campus to express her criticisms through the "Pro and Con" columns, guest editorials, and feature interviews.

Each one of you, I know, has an idea of how the paper could be run, for instance, the faculty and student senates should be open to recommending changes in even such minor regulations as light bulbs in bathrooms, length of privileges, and number of week-ends.

I believe we have our so-called "democratic" instruments of government take democratic action in solving the active campus problems. then we must lay bare before the student body the various law-making groups all opinions and not campaign because of their radical or how conservative it may be. Through the Flambeau, I, the voice of the student body, approach to democracy and freedom.

Qualifications for office:

Present literary editor of the Flambeau and reporter last year.

Student assistant in journalism.

Three years' journalistic experience last summer—reporting for the Miami Herald, the Daytona Beach News-Journal for two months and acting society editor of the Daytona Beach News-Record for one month.

—Eleanor Williams.

Business Manager of the Flambeau

For business manager of the Florida Flambeau my policies are: To see that the Florida Flambeau is a publication kept for the students and about the students, and to courageously remove any obstacles in the way.

To raise the total standard of the paper in every possible way.

To put the Florida Flambeau gets a budget comparable to the standards of the Flambeau and of F. S. C. W.

To increase the circulation of the Flambeau.

To secure more national advertising.

My high school experience consists of three years on the advertising staff of the school paper and one year as advertising manager. In college my experience includes clerical work on the Flambeau, 1934-35, delegate to the Associated Collegiate Press convention in Chicago, 1936; and assistant business manager of Flambeau, 1935-36

—Lillie McGuire.

As business manager of the Flambeau, I would endeavor to uphold the excellent standard of efficiency that has been set by those who have held the position in the past. I have had a year of experience in advertising work, and I feel would serve me in good stead in handling the national and local advertising for the paper. I shall also utilize my past experience in book-keeping, which is the main object of this office.

—Clotilde O'Rourke.

Editor of Flastacowo

Being sincerely interested in the Flastacowo, our college yearbook, I offer the nomination as candidate for the office of editor of this publication.

If you, the student body, consider me capable of this office, I will unstintingly devote my time and energy in maintaining the present standard of the book.

I will give my very best effort and cooperation to the staff in their work for the best interests of F. S. C. W.

—Frances Forth

In formulating a policy for the publication of the Flastacowo, I feel that it is the student body which are worthy of consideration. I believe:

That membership on the staff should be based on merit, not friendship.

That a workable system of typists should be established so that the publication of the yearbook on a more democratic basis. Those students desiring to work on the annual should be given the opportunity to show their ability for eligibility.

That there should be a definite unifying theme, not too abstract her too informal.

That emphasis should be encouraged to contribute snapshots for the activity pages. This would make for greater representation of contributors to the publication.

That an announcement should be made prior to the day on which the votes are cast for the beauty section. This would enable students to consider carefully their best-fitted girls.

That the staff of the Flastacowo by reason of perseverance, the courage of its convictions, ability to cooperate with initiative, and an earnest desire to please the student body, may publish a satisfactorily planned, meticulous yearbook.

—Marjorie Tillis

Editor of Distaff

The Distaff has consistently described itself as a publication distinctly feminine. Consequently, given the opportunity to take an active part on that magazine my first consideration would be to make it fulfill that capacity—not of the thought of one group, of fraternities, of writers, but of all groups and classes.

Each article submitted to the Distaff, I believe, regardless of its management with initiative, and an earnest desire to please the student body and intellectual appeal, carefully planned, meticulous yearbook.

—Martha Baker

The only honest and candid policy, I feel, that any candidate for any office can set forth is one of sincerity and intelligence. It should, I shall earnestly try to put out a Distaff which is, not only representative of the finest ideals of the student body but which is a stimulating and encouraging factor in provoking more and varied student expression.

The Distaff is a common college publication and the personality of one person or of a single group of persons. The staff will be chosen from those who have proved themselves qualified for their respective positions both by interest and experience. Material contributed will be judged impartially and carefully and that selected for publication will be the best representation of campus desires and ideals.

I shall try to make the student body realize that the Distaff is their publication and that their suggestions and criticism are necessary if it is to be truly their own and that they should contribute to the Distaff the means of setting forth their aesthetic and intellectual impression.

—Daisy Parker

Students With Wanderlust Plan Glamorous Travels For Vacations

Difficulties Are Already Noted by Wood-Be Vacationists

With spring in the air and attractive window displays of the the well-dressed co-ed will wear this season, the students of Florida State College for Women seem suddenly to have acquired the restless air that only spring and the keen expectation of the joys and vacations of the summertime can inspire. However, as they still have one third of the school year to the through, their newly awakened spirits of freedom is more or less confined to glorious though impossible, plans for their summer vacation.

Two students are planning to go to Bermuda in June for six weeks. Their hopes were dashed several months ago for their idea of a one of long duration by their erstwhile and long-suffering parents who agreed that the proposed trip of their eager daughters was perfect, except for the fact that the money to come from? Our would-be travelers were not daunted by this but went into the business of selling soft drinks and candy during the past three months they have netted $2.26. They hope that at the warm weather comes on, business will pick up in the refreshment line.

Then there is the ambitious junior who has visions of seeing Europe from the seat of a bicycle. Lack of finances also crushed into her dreams and for a while her air castle was completely demolished. But not! The shattered bits were gathered up by her roommate and the girl down the hall, glued back together again and indeed, with three carpenters at work in the place of one, several new additions were added. The problem of crossing the ocean was the greatest. This was solved after fifteen minutes of weighty thought and continuous discussion. One could be a stewardess on a liner; another, a hostess, and the third student, unable to think of a suitable position for herself, about a ship decided to apply for the lowly position of dish washer. But one small snag occupation transport these students from New York to Europe. Could they make enough money to last them on their jaunts in the old country—nearly enough, anyway

Most students believe in the old motto: America first. At least, if they don't exactly believe it they think it more likely they will see America first if they see anything at all. Conversations and answers to the maidens' prayers when they are afflicted with the wanderlust fever. Daddy and Mother will always come through with the wherewithal when such an educational opportunity as a convention in at stake; unless, of course, there are conventions themselves. To the age-old plan of girls going to conventions is to stay with Mary's Aunt Becky in Timbuctoo that Fred Polly's grandmother at Cake Walk the next night and so on until their make enough is reached. However, Cert simply refuses to go. Cert's grand-mother's because she and Polly can't stand each other and Cert can't afford to go under any obligation to Polly or her grandmother either. And as for Pete, Students get to conventions, but how they get there no one knows until they arrive and relate their experiences en route.

"It's a glorious enchantment," but it is safe to wager that three of these girls will see Mexico, California, Bermuda and Europe on or before the summer is over.

I shall try to make the student body realize that the Distaff is their publication and that their suggestions and criticism are necessary if it is to be truly their own and that they should contribute to the Distaff the means of setting forth their aesthetic and intellectual impression.

—Daisy Parker

STATE THEATRE
—FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—
"Little Lord Fauntleroy"
with
Freddie Bartholomew and Dolores Costello
—SUNDAY—
'COUNTRY DOCTOR'
with
DIONNE QUINTUPLETS
—TUESDAY—
JESSIE MATHEWS
"FIRST A GIRL"
(Then a Boy)
—WEDNESDAY—
Frank Buck's "Fang and Claw"
—THURSDAY—
MAJOR BOWES' AMATEURS
(IN PERSON)
—ALSO—
Laurel and Hardy in "The Bohemian Girl"

ADAMS' STUDIO
"Photographs that Please"
Phone 387
187 E. College Ave.

BANNER SHOES
YOU CAN'T GET GAY when you're two feet from happiness
WEAR Naturalizer Shoes
How can shoes so glamorous-looking feel so good? Naturalizers are fashioned on famous Plus-Fit Lasts. These scientific lasts, based on the findings of 89,736 X-Ray studies, conform to the bones within—as well as the foot itself. There's a Plus-Fit Last for every type of foot—narrow heel, broad toe, short arch, fallen metatarsal or weakened ligamental arch.
GET INTO NATURALIZERS AND GET MORE OUT OF LIFE
MOST STYLES
$6.75
White Crushed Pigskin (Tinted)
Brown Leather Heels
VOGUE SHOE PARLOR
TALLAHASSEE
"WE HAVE YOUR SIZE"

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

RUTH PERSONS ..... Editor
ALTHEA SMITH ..... Associate Editor
HERTRUDA KUHN ..... Managing Editor
HAZEL BOWMAN ..... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Features, Martha Baker; Sports, Elaine Klepper; Society Margaret Lafferty, Exchange, Virginia Early; Literary Editor, Eleanor Williams; Copy Editor Arline Lockhart; Outside News Editor Grace Mary Webster; Art Editor Caroline Adams.

REPORTERS-Caroline Adams, Minna Agnes Eloise Andrews, Ella Brooks, Jean Bovey, Marjorie Brown, Marian Conn Margie Creel Sarah Beth Davis, Margaret Duncan, Sylvia Fega Evelyn Fisher Mary J Gallemore, Ethel Grasfield, Pauline Hamilton, Frances Hartley Barbara Holmes, Billie Hotard, Eleanor Jenkins, Mary Lynn Masse, Dorothy Olmstead, Clotilde O'Rourke Nan O'Shaughnessy Mary F Phillips, Jane Quinn Hildred Sampson, Sarah Sealey Pearis Shepard Elizabeth B Turner Elwell Turner

BUSINESS STAFF

MARY PATTERSON ..... Business Manager
Assistant Advertising Managers, Janet Crook Grace Mary Webster and Clotilde O'Rourke
CECIL LEVY ..... Circulation Manager
Assistant Business Manager Lillie McGuire. Assistant Circulation Manager Caroline Adams

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1915 at the post office at Tallahassee Fla. under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

We're Going 'Round and 'Round

The strong shall lead the weak. But at F. S. C. W. the "week" is simply walking all over the strong. Far be it from us to intimate that there are no "strong" in our campus—nevertheless we cannot but count them of exhibiting weakness—or rather—"week-ness." What was at first an innocuous enough idea has woven its spell over us unaware until suddenly we find we've worked to find ourselves enmeshed in the thing.

Immediately upon the opening of the fall school term, not content with our Freshman Week, we plunge ourselves with Orientation Week, and Rush Week in rapid succession. Feeling that no battle is won unless it be fought in capital letters, we proceed through the year in a breathless succession of Library Week, Honor Weeks, Review Weeks, Book Weeks, Health Weeks, "Hell" Weeks, Jubilee and Anniversary Weeks, Music Weeks, the tense atmosphere of Election Weeks, the annual Religious Emphasis Weeks (emphasis on the "week") and F. S. C. W. Weeks.

And not only are we painfully week-conscious—there are the week-ends, too. Initiation week-ends, prom week-ends. Thanksgiving week-end, May Day Week-ends, and on and on, ad nauseam. (We won't even go into the matter of the "Days" that we capitalize).

By the time we've arrived at our Mecca (Graduation Week) we're almost too weak in the knees to get up the aisle to receive the piece of parchment which certifies we've spent four years being "educated"—four years of "Weeks."

Can't anything be done about it?

The Greeks Are Growing Up!

That the Greeks do "have a word for it" is becoming increasingly evident, as school after school all over the country attack the very real problems of the fraternity system through the editorial columns of their student publications.

Appropriate in the light of a recent discussion in our fraternity life is a comment on what other editors have to say on the question. That the subject is one of those upper-most in the minds of many students is evidenced by the attention given one phase of the Greeks' activities in numbers of university papers only last week. The subject under discussion in most of them is "hell week"—one of the most objectionable of fraternity traditions.

Editors of the Orange and White of Texas [illegible] ...ment of "that bloody ...ation as "Hell ...ance of debate on that ...ubject, while the weakest ...ity system, the writer ...on to denounce the practice as harmful and needless, pointing out that the national interfraternity conference has repeatedly gone on record opposite it, that the national officers of nearly all fraternities have outlawed it, and that the objectionable of many schools have declared it taboo on their respective campuses.

Lehigh's Brown and White pokes fun at the system in an editorial captioned "Antique Antics," referring again to the interfraternity council's decision, and, in view of the impending administrative axe, advises its own local council to take action on the question.

To take "time-out"' from progress for the unprofitable activities resulting from hell week is not only foolish but hysterically regressive, the editors of the Davidson college paper declare.

Even more graphically speaks the Daily Northman: "Revenge is a sordid term. Revenge acted into actuality is more sordid. . . . In social relationships those who are ostracized who follow its contemptible lead, will set under the banner of "hell week," colleges of today carry the world's despicable nature forever onward." The writer continues his argument by asserting that the practice today has hidden its true significance under euphemistic terminology, when its continuation is simply desire for atonement—for retribution.

"It is our obligation as fraternity men to develop, help, and make better men out of our pledges," said another publication. "It does not come without one jurisdiction, however, to endanger the physical and mental well-being of these men."

That fraternities are finding their own weaknesses and beginning to do something about rectifying them, is increasingly evident from these excerpts and many others which might also have been quoted.

Fortunately, women's fraternities as a whole, and on our campus in particular, have had little to do with the childishness of pre-initiation hazing. That we are outgrowing many unnecessary traits to make way for the essentials is indeed encouraging. Perhaps the Greeks—perhaps the student bodies which form their backgrounds—are growing up!

Youth Goes On The March

Youth may be short-sighted. Youth may be hot-headed. Youth may be impetuous, whatever its imperfections, youth doesn't take things "sitting down." Or at least all youth doesn't. Last week 224 undergraduates from 37 New York colleges and universities appeared in Albany to testify before the Senate committee on Public Education against a bill prescribing a "loyalty oath" to the federal and state constitutions for all students in New York state institutions of higher learning.

Their case against the measure included the following statements: "We object strenuously to the reflection this bill casts upon the loyalty of students. We object to any stifling them out for such an oath. This is an attempt to legislate patriotism. We love our country. . . . That love cannot be questioned; and if it is questioned, it cannot be created by a loyalty oath. Although this proposal seems an innocent affirmation of the principles of the constitution, such a law may of the rights guaranteed in that very constitution."

It is to be hoped that action on the part of these students will secure defeat of the bill. This idea of requiring students to take loyalty oaths is merely the next step after teachers' oaths—and we have heard so much about recently. Although such measures are futile since loyalty cannot be inspilled merely by passing laws, it is our duty as citizens to object, and object strenously, to the violation of our rights implied in the bill. One thing leads to another, as the old saying goes, and loyalty oaths are just an entering wedge for an even greater suppression of freedom of thought.

But whether or not they are successful in their attempt to prevent the passage of this legislation, New York students are to be applauded for their efforts. If students everywhere were as keen on the alert wideawake, American youth would come into its own.

Poll Reveals Student Ignorance

In the recent nominations 864 students out of an approximate 1600 enrolled exercised their right to suggest a candidate for president of College Government association. This is probably as large or larger than the number cast for any one office. Whether this obvious small number of participants is caused by lack of information or just "plain disinterestedness" is a question for some energetic person to answer. However, when we hear students complaining about this officer or that, we feel the urge to point out the fact that "if you had just taken advantage of your opportunity to vote"—

Well, a conclusion can be drawn by those who are not blind.

Magazine Thumbings

BY ELEANOR WILLIAMS

Note: Arline Lockhart has functioned as guest columnist this week.

HIGH TARIFF VERSUS TRADE
By Cordell Hull
Harpers, March

In answer to adverse critics of the Trade Agreements Act, Secretary of State Hull gives a clear analysis of how the reciprocal agreements are reaches and gives statistics showing benefits already derived by the country since the act was passed in 1934.

There is no truth, Hull states, in the assertion of some critics that tariffs are now being changed at will under clandestine pressure in the executive mansion, with no regard for specific industrial, commercial, or agricultural interests. According to the writer, even the humblest citizen may present his case and be certain that it will be carefully and symathetically considered before any trade agreement is concluded.

Every state in the Union shares directly and indirectly in foreign trade, some to the extent of hundreds of millions. Hull blames our tariff policy in the past six years, the highest in our history, as having one of the great contributing forces responsible for depression and distress throughout the country. When America slammed her doors shut against foreign products, she found the door shut against her own products.

Ten nations have signed agreements with the United States so far, whereby concessions are granted foreign governments in exchange for like concessions. Concessions granted the states. Negotiations are progressing with other nations.

Among the statistics, Hull gives, showing the loss of trade during the tariff regime and recovery of that trade since the Trade Act, are those of Cuba. When our Cuban trade fell from an average of more than $600,000 in the years 1921-25 to $82,000,000 i n 1932. Fourteen months after the first agreement was made trade gained about seventy-five per cent, which is steadily increasing.

Hull believes if we give the Trade Act its fullest chance it will see foreign trade markets opened, high tariff barriers lowered and stagnation of international trade ended. One nation cannot do this alone, but at least a country as big as the United States can lead the way.

THE NEW DEAL AND PROHIBITION
By Albert Jay Nock
American Mercury, March

With a few reminders of the issues Americans have gotten themselves into in the last few years, such as taking on the war debacle, the "new era" at last in the '20's, and the nightmare of prohibition, Nock, disproving themselves glittions for punishment, the author launches into a strong condemnation of the New Deal.

He cites a complete parallel between the New Deal and Prohibition and explains how they are alike in six respects. The ears they are alike in their inception, in their principles, in their theory "fundamental principle, in respect to the quality of the people who support them, in respect to the kind of apologists they attract to their service, and in respect to the spirit and character of the nation.

In nailing his points down, Nock calls the reader's attention to the statistical study Henry L. Mencken and Charles Angoff made four years ago to demonstrate the relative cultural standing of the different states. Then he shows the result of the investigation Mencken made between that table and the Literary Digest's poll on prohibition in 1932 and the Digest's poll on the New Deal in January of this year. These results pointed out in both cases that the drys voted almost as against prohibition and the New Deal like more uncivilized for them.

FAILURE IN SCHOOL
By Johnson O'Connor
Atlantic Monthly, March

It is not always the student lacking ability or intelligence who fails in school or college, according to this writer, but often one who has considerable such ability. The article deals with the latter type of student and his problem of student, and offers a remedy for him.

Since the larger the number of aptitudes inherent in an individual, the greater is the chance of success, naturally this type of student should rank at the top in scholarship. Frequently however he fails to the foot of the class and leaves school or college under the stress of some deficiency.

The failure of the highly endowed boy or girl appears most strikingly in college, O'Connor states, giving as a reason for this, that the student has progressed through the lower schools on his inherent ability. In college the [illegible] ...ercised. But that omission may have serious consequences when what he has got by memorizing and provocative military preparation—Minneola Daily.

SOCIALIZED MEDICINE

Papers the early part of the week carried an article about a man in Kansas who pleaded guilty to forging a request for discharge from the army in order to obtain the benefits of a government hospital. He had no objection to the prison sentence when he learned he would be sent to a hospital ward in the Leavenworth penitentiary.

A few weeks ago a man died in Decatur for lack of appendicitis because he was living on the wrong side of the railroad tracks, thus unable to pay for an appendectomy.

The above are only two examples of the drastic need for socialized medicine in this country. Here we have the best medical science in the world, yet it is not for every person, no matter on which side of the tracks he happens to be born. In this country, factories, schools and occasionally remote communities are making the services of a physician available when needed, but on the whole medicine is being denied when there is no money to pay.

It is the interest of society to have the best of medical care possible given to every person in their number. Medicine is too

Continued on page seven

OBSOLETE

"A lecture is the process by which the notes of the professor become the notes of the student, without affecting the minds of either," quotes Professor Rainbow of Stanford University.

Fortunately, all lectures at Pennsylvania are not subject to this stifling, but unfortunately the majority of lectures could be successfully eliminated. Assimilation and not just repetition is the important factor in modern education. It is not uncommon to see twenty-five per cent of our lecture class reading newspapers, playing bridge, blackjack, or doing the last hour's assignment while other members of the class feverishly slip down the grms of wisdom spouting from machine gun lungs from the lecturer's mouth. Quiz groups which are in reality merely small lecture classes are of benefit in that knowledge from text books and lectures their academic problems in full sessions.

Harvard, Yale, and Princeton have substituted discussion groups and tutorial systems with positive success. Let us hope this is the complete abolishment of the lecture system, we do suggest a modification.—Daily Princetonian.

STATISTICS

Statistics, like the Scriptures, it is said, can be made to prove anything one wishes to prove—if judicious omission of pertinent fact is exercised. But that omission may have serious consequences when it is continue to extravagant and provocative military preparation—Minneola Daily.

SOCIALIZED MEDICINE

Papers the early part of the week carried an article about a man in Kansas who pleaded guilty to forging a request for discharge from the army in order to obtain the benefits of a government hospital. He had no objection to the prison sentence when he learned he would be sent to a hospital ward in the Leavenworth penitentiary.

A few weeks ago a man died in Decatur for lack of appendicitis because he was living on the wrong side of the railroad tracks, thus unable to pay for an appendectomy.

The above are only two examples of the drastic need for socialized medicine in this country. Here we have the best medical science in the world, yet it is not for every person, no matter on which side of the tracks he happens to be born. In this country, factories, schools and occasionally remote communities are making the services of a physician available when needed, but on the whole medicine is being denied when there is no money to pay.

It is the interest of society to have the best of medical care possible given to every person in their number. Medicine is too

Continued on page seven

STATISTICS

Statistics, like the Scriptures, it is said, can be made to prove anything one wishes to prove—if judicious omission of pertinent fact is exercised. But that omission may have serious consequences when it is continue to extravagant and provocative military preparation—Minneola Daily.

SOCIALIZED MEDICINE

Papers the early part of the week carried an article about a man in Kansas who pleaded guilty to forging a request for discharge from the army in order to obtain the benefits of a government hospital. He had no objection to the prison sentence when he learned he would be sent to a hospital ward in the Leavenworth penitentiary.

A few weeks ago a man died in Decatur for lack of appendicitis because he was living on the wrong side of the railroad tracks, thus unable to pay for an appendectomy.

The above are only two examples of the drastic need for socialized medicine in this country. Here we have the best medical science in the world, yet it is not for every person, no matter on which side of the tracks he happens to be born. In this country, factories, schools and occasionally remote communities are making the services of a physician available when needed, but on the whole medicine is being denied when there is no money to pay.

It is the interest of society to have the best of medical care possible given to every person in their number. Medicine is too

Continued on page seven

Spirit of the Week . . . . . By Adams

EXCERPTS FROM THE EDITORS
CHOSEN FROM UNIVERSITY NEWSPAPERS

ONE THING THEY FORGOT

Even though a college businessman and interest was shown in the F. S. C. W. week program in connection last week, one side of campus life was completely overlooked or ignored in spite of the fact that it has kept pace with the other activities of our constitution. Our faculty, our equipment, our curriculum, and our social and athletic activities are unsurpassed, but religion and its influence on our lives as students in this outstanding college for women seemingly had no place as a contributing factor to the full development of our alma mater.

Our religious leaders and student secretaries hold decrees and honors, and they through their personalities are striving daily to give us a more realistic view of the abundant life. Not a day passes that they do not contribute to the world's growth even though their deeds are unheralded by black headlines and long newspaper columns.

Does any program which is organized to engage the attention and advantages of an institution fully accomplish its aim unless it gives a full picture of the religious with capital—in the form of action, accomplishments, and interest in the spiritual and mental values in the world? If our parents had been present at the chapel program, would they have understood that F. S. C. W. summed up physically, mentally, and spiritually? Do the parents of the class of 1940 heard of the religious activities at the college, would they wish their daughters to enroll next fall?

Religion whether we wish to admit it or not plays a part in all of every student on our campus. Even the one who denounce it as one of the advantages which the Florida State College for Women a sound investment.

Signed: Mary Ola Reynolds.

NEW SCHOOL SPIRIT

When the old spirit of the tense feelings the excited Hurrah-for-the-Blue-and-Gold attitude that accompanies the approaching Homecomment on its campus dies, there is little left to cheer at Thanksgiving games by either the Orange or Evens, the school spirit of the campus is gone. The original and disheartening problem of Odin or Thor, a thing more radical leader, sniffed at by the conservative body, makes an appeal to the mob for the old spirit, but other than this the general attitude of the student body on the subject is reflected in and confined to the still-hearted emp-

Continued on page seven

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES
By GRACE MARY WEBSTER

Note: Nan O'Shaughnessy acted as guest columnist this week.

DRUMS roll as German soldiers goose-step on the Rhineland for the first time since 1918, while at home the German nation celebrates with pride the Third Reich' Memorial day, created by Chancellor Hitler in honor of the dead of the last war.

Were only words were takes completely unawares, but no sooner had the news spread than every house and building was covered with flags. Public rejoicing was added to with patriotic enthusiasm and, then, these areas have lone been considered as emergency and the garrisons supply a healthy boost to large section of the populace.

Chancellor Hitler's announcement orders synchronized with the notification to the powers concerned as if Germany no longer find herself bound by the Locarno treaty, whose basis and fundamental idea had been destroyed at the conclusion of the Geneva-Soviet pact.

Herr Hitler offered a twenty-five year non-aggression pact and negotiations for a demilitarized Rhineland area on a parity basis with England and France, but these terms for such a truce. "A truce" he said, "is not a truce of broken ones!" The French government rejected the proposals "inacceptable" and declared that in case before the League of Nations Council. The work of contract and international relations is thus threatened and primitive law is the alternative.

Meanwhile, guns have ceased firing as Germany's pacific accepted the proposal of the league and the peace terms. It is reported as seeking a deal with Britain—by support with you against Germany, if necessary, as to the League of those troublesome Nazi Nationalists.

Germany's war minister, General von Blomberg, speaking at a Memorial day ceremony, announced war with its "false romanticism," but demanded a peaceful revision of the causes of war. He says: May reason and not passion, guide the decisions of Europe!" statement and, Whether or not peace rules the world does not depend on Germany; the Opinions expressed in this column do not necessarily express the views of the Flambeau staff. This page is a column of personal comment and is open to all who wish to submit shorts and constructive criticism. Letters should be signed but names will be withheld in the publication.

Pro and Con

ONE THING THEY FORGOT

Even though a college businessman and interest was shown in the F. S. C. W. week program in connection last week, one side of campus life was completely overlooked or ignored in spite of the fact that it has kept pace with the other activities of our constitution. Our faculty, our equipment, our curriculum, and our social and athletic activities are unsurpassed, but religion and its influence on our lives as students in this outstanding college for women seemingly had no place as a contributing factor to the full development of our alma mater.

Our religious leaders and student secretaries hold decrees and honors, and they through their personalities are striving daily to give us a more realistic view of the abundant life. Not a day passes that they do not contribute to the world's growth even though their deeds are unheralded by black headlines and long newspaper columns.

Does any program which is organized to engage the attention and advantages of an institution fully accomplish its aim unless it gives a full picture of the religious with capital—in the form of action, accomplishments, and interest in the spiritual and mental values in the world? If our parents had been present at the chapel program, would they have understood that F. S. C. W. summed up physically, mentally, and spiritually? Do the parents of the class of 1940 heard of the religious activities at the college, would they wish their daughters to enroll next fall?

Religion whether we wish to admit it or not plays a part in all of every student on our campus. Even the one who denounce it as one of the advantages which the Florida State College for Women a sound investment.

Signed: Mary Ola Reynolds.

NEW SCHOOL SPIRIT

When the old spirit of the tense feelings the excited Hurrah-for-the-Blue-and-Gold attitude that accompanies the approaching Homecomment on its campus dies, there is little left to cheer at Thanksgiving games by either the Orange or Evens, the school spirit of the campus is gone. The original and disheartening problem of Odin or Thor, a thing more radical leader, sniffed at by the conservative body, makes an appeal to the mob for the old spirit, but other than this the general attitude of the student body on the subject is reflected in and confined to the still-hearted emp-

Continued on page seven

Collegiate Come-Backs

What with the big Panhellenic formal this week-end, it begins to look as if the town will be full of men you can't put your spoon down without stepping on the toes of some male.

After hearing "Rhythm in Nursery Rhymes" forty-seven times, as it was absent-mindedly sung in a quavering treble by an Omega-Sweet, we bet the end of a pencil and wrote:

Old Mother Hubbard went to the cupboard
Hi-de-ho!
The sheep's in the meadow, the cows in the corn
Ye Gods!
Along came a spider and sat down beside her
Come-home-to-roost!
Wagging their tails behind them
Hot-cha-cha!

Sophomore: "I think I have a sonnet."
Senior: "How come?"
Soph: "It was given to me on vocation this morning."

Embarrassing Moment No. 1963: When you meet on the street the professor whose class you have just cut.

The Auburn Footprints contributes this little bit
"What's the idea, wearing a raincoat?"
"It's raining. You wouldn't want to get your suit wet, would you?"

The art of embalming is at least as old as 4,000 B. C., according to Dunlap's "Life," and there are some specimens walking around on campus that must date back before that!

Some day when your stay ma-jesty is nearing the extreme close let them put from the Wood-stock it's cute

COLD LUVS
Put cold in the cold.
n the prifers
ll been in ish eds n cools.
With m mish ma to thrists And better time to study stromy.

As the buck said to the doe
"Some fawn, eh, kid?" — Pitt Jacket.

Russian students are classed as workers and are paid 100 rubles a month by the government.—Oklahoma Daily.

Candidates for government offices in Chicago have their records plank for your party platform.

The girl that thinks no mail is worth reading has not begun to hear more often she's left.

The judge asked: "Are you positive about the condition of the defendant's mind?" The officer replied: "Well, I saw him put a penny in the parking meter and then look up at the clock on the courthouse and shout: 'Darn it, the last fourteen times I've done that it's been wrong.'"

My Anna lies over the ocean
My Anna lies over the sea
My Anna lies over the ocean
Oh bring back my Anna to me!

Overheard in Orville-Seal when need: "Are you an officer?" "Sure I am." "Oh, sure, I'm an English major."

The rooster learned his lesson concolately against the barn door
He'll not crow no more said sadly, "Fears yearedis, disinsons today, feather dusters tomorrow."

Italian gals don't Mussolini because he's the Fascist man in Italy.—Bernard Bulletin.

Bill Gerhke—Sorry, can't write her because he always bring. Hic!

A dozen full blown sardines in the mess hall—Fraternity Row.—Ariel guest columnist this week.

From St. Mary's comes the story of the Washington univ. student who was sent to the office outside of his class room during a quiz. When asked if he would admit that he cheated when he attempted to cheat, he replied that he had fooled them. He turned the grades in the day before And he always bring gold low laid he college students are!

of confidence and contributes to calmness reviews.

WHY can't we have dirndls in the house?" asks Mrs. Rip Zionchock of Washington. as, in the same breath, he accused Mrs. Roswall of Oregon of making a fool of himself by taking time to explain his view of communism. Rep Ekwall retaliated by mentioning a jackass, pandemonium reigned, and finally, leaning against the gentlemen of the House filed into the chamber to vote the barah words off the [illegible] ord.

The Social Week

First Annual Panhellenic Hop Will Be Held Tonight

The first annual Panhellenic hop will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the college gymnasium with approximately 800 sorority members and their guests in attendance.

The dance floor will be elegantly decorated for this event to carry out the Panhellenic theme and the music will be played by the University of Florida Collegians.

Pal Foster is chairman of the dance and is being assisted by Mary McGunagle, Ann Donnell, Ann Cartwright, Jane King, Margaret K. Anderson, and Kay Harris.

Activities Attending

Members of the sororities and their guests planning to attend the affair are: Zo Kinsey, Chase; Frances Thomas, Jess Ferguson, Anita Bailey, Billy Sapp, Mildred Hudmon, C. E. Seibert, Jane Gray Stevens, Donald Robinson; Frances Gates, Spec Broome, Caroline Oliver, J. M. Jones, Junior Pittman, Arthur Riddle, Lula Lamar, John Ausley, Margaret Thompson, Charles Andrews, Sophia Mathews, Joe Brown; Helen Miller, Joe Mathis; Edith Perkins, Herbert Phillips, Dorothy Avis, Bonneau Murray; Mary Jo Layton, George Landers; Elinor Harwood, Allen Babcock; Virginia Roberts, Edward Crosland; Mary McDaniel, Tweed McMillan; Catherine Fuller, Ed Thomas, Alice Dean Mabry, Paul Cochran, Sara Thomas, Jane Webb; Jean Bowen, Buddy Lewis, Marguerite Dolan, Billy Bryant; Erma Ezell, George Smith; Lutrelle Peterson, Jesse Mae Waldrop; Helen Jones, James Jones; Martha Edwards, John Parr; Petrea Cannon, Stephen Mann.

Mary Jane Bullen, Harry Perkins, Jane Harwood, John Sapp; Ann Bixby, Sam Harris; Lois Hensley Gaither; Lucy Cee Linn, Wallis, Jr.; Nancy Wilkinson, Sam Brown; Charlotte Peteana, Janet Cox; Mary Jane Michel, James A. Boehm; Jane Brown, Robert Forbes; Jean Tilden, Bill Mayo; Virginia Payne, Buddy Winton; Janet Challis, Hendrix Lee; Betty Peck, Billy Dowling; Mattie Williams, Harold Bradley; Jean Gillies, John Atwater; Margaret Ware, Tom Powell; Dorothy Ree Richard Dees; Betty Wheeler, Ben Stewart; Dorothy Gilchrist, Bennett Land; Billie Hotard, Frank Murphy.

Ruth Sadler, George Aiken; Elinor Hickson, Charles Betts; Dorothy Richards, Johnny Redmayne; Anna Tilden, Billy Murphree; Ann Bixler, Tommy Bixler; Jewell Turner, Raymond Tyndale; Yulee Fay, Bill Lazarus; Sarah Lewis, Jack Rawlins; Jane Cartwright, Taylor Jones.

Reed Russell Kennard; Nancy Pell, Dan McKinnon; Helen Noe, Fred Brenner; Alice Pope, Crowell Stanton; Mary Madeline Gunther, Logan McCall; Madge McCall, Jack Blake; Laurita Pearson, Dick Sutton; Frances Robbs, Bob Bishop; Helen Young, Norrman Schumacker; Sarah Graham, Boyd Ouzts.

Betty Barr, Harold Coleman; Dora Godard, George Mitchell; Jane Sutton, C. D. Williams; Alice Sloan, Bruce Greene; Mary Carter Billy Power; Pearle Shepard, Joe Shepard; Virginia Weldon, Paul O'Pinneran; Kathleen Harris, Harold Hobbs; Margaret Parkinson, Johnnie Jones; Jean Jackson, A. C. Clark; Adelaide Ireland, Reynolds Sarva; Mary Catherine Mosley, J. B. Capehart; Gwendolyn Adair, Maynard Mann; Ruth Suah, Frank White; Kathleen Smith, Hudson Bullard; Patty Jones, Hilton Cooper; Ruth Lee Bishop Brown; Evelyn Kennard, Charles Robbins; Anna Glen Elsbon Bowen; Janet Cook, Ivan Trueblood; Virian Marshall, S. A. Griffin; Bascom Knight, Lucius Bellamona McLean, Bob Burnett; Dawn Latham, Wallace Montgomery; Sarah Mae Davis, Bate Scarborough; Lucille Hamm, Olin Ricker, Martha Hoss, Billy Dr-Milly, Sara Hoses, Jack Mcock-Margaret Anderson, Billy Hodges, Leona Stimmel, Clarence Rossy Fenton Woodward, Edward Hennigan.

Mary Catherine Drennan, George Brady; Beverly Brown, Frank Mayo; Virginia Lee Mc-Taylor; Mary Kay Don Prison; Ann Linger, Frank Duval; Harriet Lawrence, Alfred Adcock; Martha Wallston, Dr. A. J. Gr; Barbara Veith, Lloyd Griffith, Lurline Goodman, Frank Dodman; Polly Flint, Ray Dodman; Valerie Stubbs, A. C. Van Dusen; Sara Mikels, Clarence Bruce; Patricia Bowers, James Strickland; Karie Spurlock, Sam Fleming; Mildred Seekins, Jimmy Smith; Rosemary Hamly, Sam Vatz; Lillian Schuyler, Jack Mills; Sara Sealey, DeWitt Trowsick, Mollie Holden, Jimmy Tuttaleti; Robert Dunning, Mary Ann Snell, Frances Williams, Sidney Silley; Henry Bacch, Raigh Sourwine; Ruth Riddle, Robert Colton; Dorothy Cowart, Bruce McKenzie; Kathleen Kyle, Charlie Chandler; Anita Leonard, Roger McMamara; Elizabeth Carter, Max Hall.

Lois Adkins, Jimmy Adkins; Phil Aster, Burrell Howard; Dander Baker, Boyd Bryant; Petrea Cannon, George Davis; Betty Clark, Tom Kennedy, Margaret Gourlie, Jack Webb; Jean Brown, Buddy Lewis; Marguerite Dolan, Billy Bryant; Erma Ezell, George Smith; Lutrelle Peterson, Jesse Mae Waldrop; Helen Jones, James Jones; Martha Edwards, John Parr; Petrea Cannon, Stephen Mann.

Mary Jane Bullen, Harry Perkins, Jane Harwood, John Sapp; Ann Bixby, Sam Harris; Lois Hensley Gaither; Lucy Cee Linn, Wallis, Jr.; Nancy Wilkinson, Sam Brown; Charlotte Peteana, Janet Cox; Mary Jane Michel, James A. Boehm; Jane Brown, Robert Forbes; Jean Tilden, Bill Mayo; Virginia Payne, Buddy Winton; Janet Challis, Hendrix Lee; Betty Peck, Billy Dowling; Mattie Williams, Harold Bradley; Jean Gillies, John Atwater; Margaret Ware, Tom Powell; Dorothy Ree Richard Dees; Betty Wheeler, Ben Stewart; Dorothy Gilchrist, Bennett Land; Billie Hotard, Frank Murphy.

Ruth Sadler, George Aiken; Elinor Hickson, Charles Betts; Dorothy Richards, Johnny Redmayne; Anna Tilden, Billy Murphree; Ann Bixler, Tommy Bixler; Jewell Turner, Raymond Tyndale; Yulee Fay, Bill Lazarus; Sarah Lewis, Jack Rawlins; Jane Cartwright, Taylor Jones.

Reed, Russell Kennard; Nancy Pell, Dan McKinnon; Helen Noe, Fred Brenner; Alice Pope, Crowell Stanton; Mary Madeline Gunther, Logan McCall; Madge McCall, Jack Blake; Laurita Pearson, Dick Sutton; Frances Robbs, Bob Bishop; Helen Young, Norrman Schumacker; Sarah Graham, Boyd Ouzts.

Betty Barr, Harold Coleman; Dora Godard, George Mitchell; Jane Sutton, C. D. Williams; Alice Sloan, Bruce Greene; Mary Carter, Billy Power; Pearle Shepard, Joe Shepard; Virginia Weldon, Paul O'Pinneran; Kathleen Harris, Harold Hobbs; Margaret Parkinson, Johnnie Jones; Jean Jackson, A. C. Clark; Adelaide Ireland, Reynolds Sarva; Mary Catherine Mosley, J. B. Capehart; Gwendolyn Adair, Maynard Mann; Ruth Suah, Frank White; Kathleen Smith, Hudson Bullard; Patty Jones, Hilton Cooper; Ruth Lee Bishop Brown; Evelyn Kennard, Charles Robbins; Anna Glen, Elsbon Bowen; Janet Cook, Ivan Trueblood; Virian Marshall, S. A. Griffin; Bascom Knight, Lucius Bellamona McLean, Bob Burnett;

COLLEGE CALENDAR

March 19th to March 21st

Sunday

11:00 a. m.—Church services

7:15 p. m.—Vespers

Monday

5:30 p. m.—Orchestra rehearsal

7:15 p. m.—Glee club rehearsal

8:00 p. m.—Orchestra rehearsal

Tuesday

11:30 a. m.—Convocation — elections

5:30 p. m.—Orchestra rehearsal

7:30 p. m.—Musical club—Broward club room

Wednesday

4:30 p. m.—Home Economics lecture—Sallie Lynn—Augusta Conrad—Union

4:30 p. m.—Student music recital

7:15 p. m.—Glee club rehearsal

8:15 p. m.—Lecture—Dr. H. Hoeh "Prisons and Paroles"—Augusta Conradi theater

Thursday

11:30 a. m.—Elections — auditorium

5:30 p. m.—Orchestra rehearsal

6:15 p. m.—Musical rehearsal of Tamps—auditorium

Friday

5:30 p. m.—Sorrells hall tea

8:00 p. m.—Senior party—A. A. Gray—Sorrells hall

Saturday

Meeting of the Florida State Dietetic association.

den; Virginia Clements, Ed Windham; Ruth Rose, Ben Stafford; Ruth Rohse, Roy Shuford; Nettie Sullivan, Spencer Weaver; Evelyn Ballard, Ward Wynne; Dot Peagler, Bob Barton; Clairinnelle Brown, Dr. Hamilton Mayo; Waller McCormick, Frank Foster; Bink Parker, Frank Carter; Mary Baker, Sue Osborne; Margaret Reedy, Jim Harrison; Virginia Hendrix, Jack Cone; Janice Sanchez, Frank Hedrick; Berks Wood, Red Maltraw; Betty Gordon, Ward Wynne; Dot Clark, Bill De Milly.

Mary Alexander, Jay Schwartz; Janice Brill, Louis Peinberg, Edna Mae Gibbs, Louis Peinberg, Louis Gibbs, Margaret Fisher, Joe Fiel; Elaine Kleptson, Alex Smith; Marjorie Meyer Sigal; Miriam Stein, Joe Mandel.

Emily Blackwell, Johnny Hair; Mary Brandon, Roscoe Pettwood; Mary Alexander, Roy Shuford; Mary Elizabeth Dougherty, Herschel Graves; Gilbert Bennett, Ben Brown; Ellen Fleming, Joe Mandel; Anne Lee, Chandler Cowles; Eleanor Hutchison, Bill Hunter; Gerry Knapp, Jack Cadwell; Carolyn Lutheyer, Lee Messer; Margaret Milton, Tib Cone; Mary Alice Julian Smith; Sara Ball Palmer, Julian Proctor; Helena Ruth Powell, Louis Hill; Mary Audrey Smith, Alex Smith; Marcia Thomas, Johnny Hinson; Elizabeth Trantham, James Porter; Elizabeth Whidden, Andy Anderson, Tommie Cone Parrish, Brown Dowd, Florence Mayfield, Clifford Beasley; Phoebe Lee Frances Munroe, Jack Cone; Georgie Palmer; Margaret Ann Bixler, Lucille Edenfield; Hight Daniels; Olivia Sorenson, Greely Palmer, Jake Hodges, Ed Mason.

Roberta Gammon, Moss Mabry; Virginia Peyton, Merle Bowden; Patricia Givens, John Fordham; Flvn Moore, John Sheridan; Jean Cartwright, Jan Taylor; Betty Harrison, Cheever Lewis; Sarah Moore, Alfred Miller; Mary Chilty, Ned Mashews; Jean Whiteside, Jim Mashews; Elizabeth Murphy-Smith, Jack Morton; Betty Manning, Paul Pope; Mary Shackleford, Thomas Brown; Betty Finch, Selwin Chalker; Elise Richards, Jack Cone; Jean Lykes, Francis Kearney; Nancy Adamson, Jack Robinson, Sallie Anthony, Charles Bellamy; Mary Phillips, J. L. Edwards; Frances Lewis, George Lewis; Sunny Dell, Landon Allison.

Betty Leach, Victor Embry; Elouise Cork, Frank Hay; Frances Pemberton, Edwin Coleman; Clara Dos Lankford, Ed Shearer; Marjorie Stump, Hsi Jones; Virginia Shuts, Dorsey Williams; Esther Hay, David Dickenson; Mary Frank Price, W. C. McDonald; Mary Gordon, H. E. Gooding; Margo Arnold, Bill Taylor; Elisabeth Gammon, Atkins Embry; Elaine Britt, George Aiken; Betty Wadsworth, Billy Watts; Evelyn Stump, Dan Naucho; Frances Lingle, Alton Floyd; Floy Lenert, George Kroll.

Mary Perry Pollock, Charles Alford; Roberta Clifford, Clarence Parramore; Janet Griffitts, David Lee; Barbara Hendry, Bill Hood; Pair Mallerr, Jimmy Wilsthire; Marion Mason, E. B. Crim; Mary Frances Whitesell, Charles Chapman; Mabry Sumner, Ben Hill; Leisla Bond, Red Smith; Margaret Wilson, Frank Inman; Mary Ellen McMinn, Bruce Barfield; Mae Ingle, Kimball Bobbit; Elisabeth Malone, Wright Pierson; Elisabeth Penn, Ed La Mar; Lucy Houser, Eddie Boardman; Lillian Simmons, Lenard Cowles; Lillian Lukens, Edward Cook; Blanton Barrett, Lee Wareham; Virginia Chamberlin, Albert Lounds; Lydia Craig, Bob Johnson; Mary Pichard, C. C. Sellers; Genevieve Crowley, Hubert Andrews; Jean Willis, Glover Blake; Jane Moyer, Howard Terry.

Girls attending the hop as stags are Helen Bellinger, Carol Parabee, Betty Mack, Barbara Moore,

Kappa Delta Pi Will Honor Freshmen At Informal Party

Kappa Delta Pi, national education honor society, will entertain at a party Tuesday night in the home of Mrs. Paul Pinner honoring the members of the freshman class in the school of Education who are on approbation.

The rooms of the Pinner home will be decorated attractively with arrangements of sweet peas and other spring flowers.

Refreshments will be served by the members of the honorary who are acting as hostesses.

Students who will be the guests of honor at this time are Betty Ambler, Elisabeth Boyd, Fay Corey, Mary Elizabeth Dancy, Erma Gish, Charlotte Hall, Dawn Latham, Mary Elizabeth Ortzman, Melba Parker, Ruth Riddle, Rachel Riberd, Prudrics Roberts, Frances Williams, and Nellye Woodham.

Lucille Seed, Hasel Anderson, Madge Gibbs, Martha Lanier, Virginia Northcutt, Mary Kathryn Osbeco, Del McLean, Grace White, Sue Whitaker, Helen Ayala, Jean Beachman, Mate Anderson, Frances LaMarca, Gerry Miles, Genevieve Summers, Virginia Phillips, Ann Mizell, Doc Phillips, Inez Seabrook, Cecil Hicks, Nellie Pain, Mary Mettinnis, Josephine Bhinon, Anne Sams, Beck Ashton, Helen Turnbull, Marjorie Nargis.

Barbara Taylor, Jane Tharin, Jane Jackson, Martha Kennedy, Agnes Goss, Sibyl Cheshire, Nina Hughes, Martha Moore, Margaret Graham, Dorcas Williams, Betty Blalock, Betty Boggs, Elsie Frink, Frances Morton, Kasmir Mumby, Jean Clark, Ermine Lawrence, Mary Irene McKay, Katherine Todd, Virginia White, Winifred Ewart, Polly Ann White, Betty Ann McKenzie, Freddie Frink, Marguerite Groover, Florence Barr, Flossie Morris, Marion Ailes Rogers, Eleanor Williams, Ruth Garcia, Margie Creel, Carl Brigham.

Carolyn Logan, Margaret Vance, Martha Carter, Jane Grable, Betty Hamilton, Edith Merrill Ramsaur, Edith Huddleston, Ann Knight, Mary Louise Manning,

PHI ALPHA THETA ENTERTAINS AT TEA
STUDENTS HAVING HIGH HISTORY RECORDS

The members of Phi Alpha Theta, history honorary, gave a tea yesterday afternoon honoring all students who made a grade of "A" or "B" in the first semester of freshman history course. The entertainment was held in Broward club room from four to six o'clock.

Faculty guests included Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, Dr. Venilla Sherer, Dr. and Mrs. Robert S. Cotterill, Professor and Mrs. Arthur Williams, Miss Marian Irish, Miss Adrienne Taylor, and Dean Olivia N. Dorman. Miss Florence Tryon, Miss Velma Ocken, and Miss Louise Conradi were alumnae guests.

The afternoon's entertainment also commemorated the fifteenth anniversary of the founding of Phi Alpha Theta.

Student members of Phi Alpha Theta are Rosalind Parker, Rebecca Kinlin, Daisy Parker, and Goldie Levinsky. Dr. Annie M. Popper is faculty sponsor.

Students who had been invited to the tea were Evelyn Anderson, Louise Barnhill, Elsane Britt, Tex Brown, Leila Davis, Francis Douglas, Ann Gubin, Ethel Hainowski, Betty Hatch, Winifred Hill, Ruth Howard, Josie Kinsey, Ann Knight, Martha Mae Little, Mary Anne Lupsey, Mary Manning, Mary Mathis, Christine Mays, Dorothy Molnar, Marjorie Rauleson.

Ruth Rubin, Elizabeth Scott, Evelyn Scott, Evelyn Smith, Susanna Trussler, Mary Conelly Wallis, Nelly Williams, Lona Adkins, Clara Anderson, Danner Baker, Dora Ballard, Helen Birmingham, Victoria Bickow, Elizabeth Boyd, Sybil Cheshire, Honor Coleman, Daisy Ann Massey, Carlotta Cubillas, Elizabeth Filer, Mary Ellen Lovelace, Winona Ireland, Geneva Morris, Charlotte Kinsie, Rachel Griffin, Frankie Wildman, Gertrude Kuhn, Virginia Cary, Mary Vesch, Mary Lee Hopkins, Mary Gunsenhaur, Mary Frances Campbell, Mary Patterson, Marjorie Horton, Mary Ann Hills, and Betty Spicer.

Nine Faculty Guests To Be Entertained With Formal Tea

Theta Upsilon sorority will entertain at the sorority house on Jefferson avenue Sunday afternoon with a formal tea from 4 to 5 in honor of several members of the faculty.

The house will be decorated with beautifully arranged vases of seasonal flowers.

Guests invited for the affair are Miss Elisabeth Lynn, Mrs. J. Alfriend, Miss Helen McKean, Miss Sadie Young, Miss Luella Rickey Miss Ruth Schaarschuerz, Miss Natalie Bond Dickinson, Miss Mildred Finnegan, Miss Adrienne Taylor.

Members and pledges acting as hostesses are, the Misses Anne O'Donnel, Barbara Greene, Lucile Edenfield, Mary Lanehart, Mildred Smith, Harriette Jefferies, Elisabeth Leach, Penny Tomkins, Margaret Neff, Annie Leigh Robinson, Clara Gunsenhaur, Lois Hudson Jean Hodges, Lorraine Gyles, Mary Louise Somerall, Valarie Hunt, Eunice Moe, Nancy Rooevo, Grace Brewer, Dot Stewart, Doris Seeger, Frances Ellis, Marie Wesley.

Student Recital Given Wednesday at College

The regular Wednesday afternoon student recital was presented in the college auditorium Wednesday, March 11, at 4:30 p. m.

The program was as follows:

Nocturne — Grieg

Bettie Routh

Nocture in B flat, Op. 18, No. 4 — Paderewski

Edna Moon

Hornpipe from "Water Music" — Handel-Grainger

Evelyn Chauncey

Violin

Andante—Concerto in E minor — Nardini

Viola Evans

Sparks — Moszkowski

Marjorie Stump

Violin

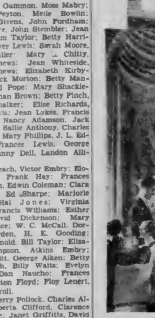
Tempo di Minuetto — Mozart

Pugnani-Kreisler

Anabelle Larson

Dance ritualle di fos — De Palla

Virginia Lons



S. 10th. E. Lallamarde Tomson Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

For Digestion's Sake...smoke Camels

Smoking Camels Helps to Ward Off Indigestion Caused by the Breathless Pace of Modern Living

WHEN YOU'VE EHIT the books hour after hour and day after day, the strain and tension seek for a weak spot—so often digestion. You'll find that smoking Camels aids digestion.

Faster—faster—faster goes the modern rush. People are "always on the go." No wonder indigestion visits so many from time to time. People can't seem to pause for proper eating. But here's one simple step every one can take! Smoke Camels for the sake of the positive beneficial effect Camels have upon digestion. Camels stimulate and promote natural processes of digestion. And above all, Camels are made from finer, costlier tobaccos. Camels bring a supreme enjoyment of mildness and flavor.

Modern life in one of its most attractive phases —the Jeunesse Dorée Room (above) at the Ambassador in New York. Louis, maitre d'hotel at this celebrated dining place, says: "Our guests come so the Tranon Room from New York and from all over the country. It is interesting to see how they agree in preferring Camels. Those who enjoy dining here also appreciate the delicate flavor of the finer tobaccos in Camels. Camels are an overwhelming favorite at our tables."

NO FRESH FOOD HERE—the Morrissey during an Arctic expedition. . . Harold McCracken, leader, says: "Stomach upsets are a constant hazard. I've discovered that smoking Camels at every meal and after helps digestion."

"DELIGHTFUL with meals and after," says Betty Chase, star figure skater. "Camels make food taste better and help digestion along. And certainly smoking a Camel is one of life's most agreeable experiences."

THE LADIES' SHOP

"Where the Styles are Shown First for Less."

NEXT TO STATE THEATRE

See our many chic numbers in dresses bought for college girls. . . Hats galore!

DRESSES $1.95 to $10.90

HATS $1.95 and $2.95

I-SC Contributes Talent To Radio

The ether is full of the voices and instrumental music of Florida State college students. Eleven of them are broadcasting regularly over WTAL, Tallahassee's new radio station, according to Mr. Richard Kincaid, director.

Emilie Johnson, known as the Poetess of the Air, reads poems each Sunday night at 9 o'clock. Betsy Boggs and Ruth Mock perform with the WTAL Radio Players on Monday and Friday nights at 8 o'clock.

Marie Wesley sings every Friday night at 8 o'clock as the Dream Girl. Mildred Hurst plays her xylophone on Wednesday afternoons at four and Sundays at 3:15. Mary Ellen Thorpe, Clairnelle Gilbert, Mildred Smith, Sarah Frances Oaired, Mamie Louise Strange, and Isabelle Sands play piano numbers at regular intervals.

WTAL has been in operation only since last fall. The station broadcasts on a frequency of 1310 kilocycles.

Directors Entertain Honoring Freshmen With Formal Tea

Miss Rose Denham and Miss Flossie Currie, directors of Janie Murphree dormitory, entertained Thursday afternoon for students living in that dormitory with a formal tea from 5 to 6 o'clock.

The parlors of the hall were decorated with profusion of sweet peas and other out spring flowers.

Bettie Taylor introduced to the receiving line which was composed of the two hostesses, Miss Denham and Miss Currie, Dean Olivia N. Dorman, and Miss Florence Tryon. Presidents advisers acted as floor hostesses.

Pouring tea during the afternoon were Mary Kay Warren, Miss Charlotte Stevens, Miss Edith West, and Miss Dorothy Stewart. The social committee under the direction of Miss West and Miss Glover, served the refreshments of sandwiches, mints, and coffee.

Seger Reveals Hitler's Policy

"A Nation Terrorized" Is Discussed By Forum Speaker

Mr. Gerhart Seger, special democratic member of the German Reichstag, member of its committee on Foreign Relations, and secretary-general of the German Peace society, lectured to the student body Wednesday night, in the Augusta Conrell theater on the subject, "A Nation Terrorized."

Mr. Seger answered the question, "How can such a progressive nation as Germany fall under the power of a dictatorship?" by enumerating the events of Hitler's regime.

In 1920 Hitler first published his political platform based on two psychological facts, the bitter nationalistic feeling aroused in approximately one-third of the population as a result of the "Treaty of Versailles" and the anti-democratic feeling which arose when the allies set up a democratic constitution in Germany in 1919. It was on the basis of this bitter nationalistic feeling that Hitler capitalized and offered himself as a dictator.

Hitler's party in the year 1919 was represented in the reichstag by only thirteen members out of a total of four hundred and ninety-three; but within the year 1933 and after there came a change with the depression, and the Nazi party triumphed with a great increase in votes, however, it has never received a majority in any free election.

When Hitler was appointed chancellor in 1933 and had only thirty-three per cent of the votes, instead of inviting other parties to join the Nazis, he dissolved the parliament and undertook to gain the majority independently.

It was at this time that Mr. Seger and others of his party were arrested on the suspicion that they had voted against Hitler, and it was by this means that Hitler gained a majority at last.

Once in power, Hitler dissolved labor political party and organization and gained control of all sources of information such as newspapers and broadcasts. Secrecy of the mails and freedom of speech were soon forgotten by the German people and thousands were condemned for expressing disfavor of the government in out-going letters.

Although eighty per cent of the Germans are against the Nazi party, they don't revolt against it because Germany is a nation terrorized, the speaker said. The present dictatorship in Germany maintains its political power on two strong weapons, first, its most barbarous political jurisdiction, any violation of which results in imprisonment, and secondly, the Protective Custody, the "night-mare" of the German nation, under which any man, woman, or child may be arrested or imprisoned for an unlimited time with-out a warrant or trial or any legal procedure if any Nazi official suspects that they might in any future time imdermine their freedom.

The Concentration camps which are the result or outlet of the Protective Custody contain approximately 120,000 political prisoners of the Nazi regime.

Mr. Seger revealed that out of forty-one prisoners with whom he was held at a concentration camp, two died within forty-eight hours, literarry beaten to death. "And this," Mr. Seger exclaimed, "is not an exception—it is the rule!"

After three months in jail Mr. Seger was released into Czechoslavia, although his wife and family were held prisoners in the concentration camp for four months.

Answering the question, "What is going to happen?" Mr. Seger predicted that if there should be a downfall of the Nazi party, it would arise out of the economic and financial situation. Hitler has promised much more than a dictatorship could ever accomplish. He has even ordered the elections to be held in the open, for as he says, "Only thieves need curtains and anyone who wants to vote for Hitler can do it in the open!"

Mr. Seger also discussed the question of what the foreign policy will lead to war. The answer can be found in the psychology of a people who are oppressed by a dictatorship. In other words, "we have gone on the march to get farther!"

The nations of Europe do nothing suppress Hitler it will strengthen his tremendously, but on the other hand if force and violence are applied it will liberate sentiment against him. The problem must be solved from the inside, by the undermining of the dictatorship and by the open political of the churches. The people must conquer Hitler and his councillors who are in reality the slaves of the dictatorship, and then Hitler uses war to cover up any dissatisfaction.

Mr. Seger expressed an old German saying that there are only three things in Germany that may be, but no German is more than two of them. They are: honest, intelligent, and a Nazi. Thus if you are honest and a Nazi, you are not intelligent. And if you are a Nazi and intelligent, you are not honest. And if you are honest and intelligent you are not a Nazi.

SORORITIES WILL ENTERTAIN GUESTS AT UNUSUAL AFFAIRS THIS WEEK-END

Panhellenic Dance Will Be Augmented by Numerous Social Activities To Be Given For Dates of Various Chapters

Included among the many social events at which the various sororities on campus will entertain for their guests for the Panhellenic Hop this week-end are formal dances, tea dances, "Dunking" parties, open houses, buffet suppers, St. Patrick's parties, and breakfasts. Many unique motifs will be used to make these functions interesting.

Alpha Gamma Delta

A Flirtation Walk, reminiscent of the famous one at West Point, will lend the pattern for the Alpha Gamma Delta tea dance this afternoon in the punch bowl which will be placed in the side yard.

The front yard of the house will represent a beach scene with colorful umbrellas, beach chairs and other yard furniture. The inside of the house will be decorated with beds of war-time days.

The dance will begin at 3:30 o'clock and will be chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Lucy Lane Blount and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Long.

The guest list for this affair includes the following names, Ferd Walker, Ruddy Beaudry, Jack Lewis, Wilby Rouse, Vincent McMahon, Tom Riley, J. C. Parrs, Jimmy Chick, Judd Hansard, Roy Shuford, Bodi Jones, Wylie Nettles, Frank Lane, Rouse Vallation, Ross Sullivan, Lewis Maxwell, Ling Torres, Fred Patterson, Charles Hopkins, J. C. Woodward, Carr Gibson, Jack Wilson, Bill Jackson, Harris Dukes, Loree Howard, Dave Clark, Bill Pickard, William Jones, John DeMille, Gene Butler, and Robert Shelfer.

Phi Mu Fraternity

The guests of the Phi Mu sorority will be entertained with a buffet supper and a "Dunking" party this week-end. The buffet supper will be given tonight at 7 o'clock preceding the Panhellenic Hop.

Violets, sweet peas and other spring flowers will be used to decorate the house for this affair, and the supper will be served by the pledges.

The "Dunking" party will be given at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the house. The pledges will also serve at this time.

Sorority members and their dates who will attend these affairs are Mabry Sumner and Bennett Hill, Elizabeth Malone and Wright Long, Lucy Jane Blount and James Hand, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Long.

The guest list for this affair includes the following names, Ferd Walker, Ruddy Beaudry, Jack Lewis, Wilby Rouse, Vincent McMahon, Tom Riley, J. C. Parrs, Jimmy Chick, Judd Hansard, Roy Shuford, Bodi Jones, Wylie Nettles, Frank Lane, Rouse Vallation, Ross Sullivan, Lewis Maxwell, Ling Torres, Fred Patterson, Charles Hopkins, J. C. Woodward, Carr Gibson, Jack Wilson, Bill Jackson, Harris Dukes, Loree Howard, Dave Clark, Bill Pickard, William Jones, John DeMille, Gene Butler, and Robert Shelfer.

Phi Mu Fraternity

The guests of the Phi Mu sorority will be entertained with a buffet supper and a "Dunking" party this week-end. The buffet supper will be given tonight at 7 o'clock preceding the Panhellenic Hop.

Violets, sweet peas and other spring flowers will be used to decorate the house for this affair, and the supper will be served by the pledges.

The "Dunking" party will be given at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the house. The pledges will also serve at this time.

Sorority members and their dates who will attend these affairs are Mabry Sumner and Bennett Hill, Elizabeth Malone and Wright Long, Lucy Jane Blount and Eddie Boardman, Caroline Barritt and Lee Worthham, Pair Miller and Jimmy Willshire, Lillian Lakers and Ed Cook, Mary Ingram and Kinball Bobbitt, Mary Frances Whisnant and Charlie Chapman, Patricia Clifford and Clarence Parramore, Barbara Shuford, Bodi Jones, Wylie Nettles, Wilson and Frank Inman, Leitha Bond and Red Smith, Janet Griffiths and David Lee, Marian Bunson and Elmer Grim, Virginia Amann and Leonard Coles, Lib Penn and Ed Lamar, Mary Perry Pollock and Charlie Alford, Mary Ann Merchant, Lillian Bonnette, Marian Purviance, and Lib Pierce.

Sorority Dances

Walking under a ladder was the first unfortunate obstacle that the guests of the Delta Phi Epsilon sorority had to encounter in attending their formal dance last night. Friday the thirteenth, at the Hotel De Soto, Pensacola was the house was appropriately decorated with superstitions of all descriptions. Throughout the house upside down horseshoes and broken mirrors were seen as black cats, thirteens, sevens and elevens. Ribbons of the sorority colors were hung from the ladder across the porch preventing anyone from entering other than under the ladder.

Ruth Feinberg, president of this chapter, acted in the capacity of mistress of ceremonies during the dance. Guests included a "Lucky number dance." Dire Leadout, "Five Show," starring Edna Feinberg and Connie Lee, "Prize Waltz," "Stick up for your sex" and "Jacks." All other popular numbers were rendered.

Among the invited guests were Louis Gibbs, Louis Feinberg, Perry Thompson, Irving Bell, Herman Mendelson, Harold Mendelson, Julius Goulderis, Herman Rubinstein, H Bloomin, Bill Landau, Irving Lander, Sidney Pearlman, Jack Lander, Henry Taylor, Morris Levine, Leon Levine, Sam Blumberg, Harold Blumberg, Jack Behrman, Joe Feinberg, Ralph Kolesky, David Goldberg, Paul Goldberg, Milton Wit, Dan Bennett, Feinberg, Ralph Morris, Leo Gilbert, Leroy Perman, Dave Gerson, Irving Gibbs, Lecky Harvey, Joe Pomerance, Meyer Seigal, Jay Schwartz, Joe P. Safer, Joe G. Safer, Sandy Bronson, Ervin Wahnish, Sidney Wahnish, Bernard Fleet, Maurice Cromer, Seymour Miller, Jerry Kass, Lillian Fleet, Rosalind Mendelson, Alvin Cassel, Chester Cassel and Leonard Pepper.

Zeta Tau Alpha Picnic

Zeta Tau Alpha sorority will entertain Sunday morning with a picnic at Orchard Pond. Several interesting events have been planned for the occasion when the members of the sorority will entertain their dates.

Among those invited are Vicky Embry, Frank Ray, Edwin Coleman, Ed Sharpe, Hal Jones, Francis Williams, David Dickinson, W. C. McCall, H. E. Gooding, Bill Taylor, Roy Atkins, George Akin, Billy Waits, Don Nauchoo, Alton Floyd and George Kroll.

St. Pat's Buffet Supper

Pi Beta Pi sorority will entertain with a buffet supper tonight at the house on College avenue. The house will be appropriately decorated with St. Patrick's color schems of green and white being carried out in house decorations and refreshments. During the afternoon informal dancing will be held at the house for the actors and their dates.

Guests invited for the affair are Jimmy Adkins, Burrell Howard, George Avant, Jud Bassard, George Davis, Tom Kenady, Bob Perrenas, W. H. Anderson, Verne Goodwin, Ed Graham, Ed Morrow, Francis Harrison, Jimmy Phillips, Dick Seidel, Bill Carlle, Fred Harrington, Boyd Harris, Buster Cannon, Dick Gardner, Gus Watkins, Tommy Sammons, Johnny Warren, Randel Peoples, Logan King, Clarion Logan.

Theta Open House

The members and pledges of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority will entertain this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock with open house. A buffet supper will be served to the members and guests from 6 until 7. Both affairs will feature a Mardi Gras and various types of entertainment in keeping with the theme will be featured. Balloons of various colors, streamers, confetti, will furnish the decorations throughout the house.

Invited for the affair are Spencer Weaver, Ed Ward, Bob Bentley, R. B. Geoghegar, Frank Foster, Frank Carter, La Rue Osborne, Jim Harrison, Jack Leary, Frank Hedrick, Red Mahrans, Bill Jakemare, Bill DeMilly, Howard Kinlow, Pete Myers, John Tigert, Doc Edwards, Mac Keene, George Owens, Clem Haley, Gayte McCord, Jim Harman, Bob Harrison, Summers Warden, Ed Winslett, Jack Parker and Roy Shuford.

St. Patrick's Party

Chi Omega sorority will entertain this Thursday at its sorority house on Jefferson street this afternoon. In keeping with the St. Patrick's theme the house will be carried out in both decorations and refreshments.

The refreshment course will be decorated colorfully with green and white cakes and other dainties decorations to suit the occasion. Music will be furnished from an electric phonograph.

Guests invited are Bruce Tyler, John Courtier, Norman Brown, Hubert Schuckit, Merle Bowlin, Charlie Hunter, J. C. Lasseter, Gwynn Parker, Phil Graham, John Shumpert, Jack Wright, J. J. Parrish, New Mathews, Jim Mathews, Frank Lane, Max Brown, Spec Mitchell, Bill Hood, James McCarty, Oscar Davis, Elmo Robinson, Chervee Lewis, Gewen Lewis, Francis Kearney, Arthur Cobb, Blake Cole, George Smith, Sam Petty, John, Jimmy Baker, Brien McCarty, Carrington Bares, Francis Barnett, Jack Cooper, Jack Robinson, T. B. Van Brunt, Moss Mabry, Tip Cowan, Marion Fisher, Paul Pope, Carl Anthony, Jimmy Pratt, Bill O'Brien, Alford Miller, Fred Hinson, Jimmy Minson, Buck Powell Howard, Donald Clarkburn, Harold Pope, F. G. Byrd, Hanmer Miller, John Boone, Bud McLean, Tom Stool, Godfrey Smith, Julian Smith, Bob Beasley, George Palmer, Bruce Skinner, Nelson Davis, Buck McCullough, Billy Van Brunt, Billy Marge, Julian Love, Jack Pinkerton. Frances Vann Branch Brown, Mary Grant, John Ausley, Jack Simpkins, John Lane, Jr., Cammon Cookie Cooper, Arthur Webb, Landon Allison, John Allison, Mari Bates, Joe Mathis, Roy Williamson, Donald Robinson, Ban Stewart, Fred Bruce, Bert Sikes, Milton Bacon, Judson Freeman, Chester Freeman, Sherwood Spencer, Frank Bowen, Billy Chace, Jack Lee, Bill Lovell, Skester Caldwell, Tweed McMillian, Paul Shelley, Silwyn Challen, Jack Smith and other sorority men.

Sigma Kappa

Sigma Kappa Sorority will entertain this afternoon with its formal open house at the sorority house on Jefferson street.

Vases and bowls of seasonal flowers will be placed throughout the lower floor of the house to carry out the informal motif. Refreshments will be served during the afternoon by the pledges of the sorority.

Among guests for the afternoon will be Hilma Cooper, Philip Brown, Charlie Robinson, Ben Bowen, Ivan Truman, R. A. Griffin, Lonnie Lee Perman, Dave Gerson, Wallace Montgomery, Bobbe Scarbrough, Cecil Bell, Billy Mills, Jack Agrock, Clarence Rowan, Edward Henriques, Bob Blount, Jimmy Drumwright, Jack Williams, Walter Liddell and Neil Walker.

Kappa Delta

The Kappa Delta sorority is entertaining with open house this afternoon at the house on Copeland street. The decorations will be of garden flowers placed through the house.

Guests invited are Spec Kinsey, J. H. Jones, Arthur Riddle, John McKinnon.

Impatient Girls Wait and Hope

Faith, hope, and fear are reflected in the voices of the efficacious students each morning at 9:35 as they impatiently greet their roommate or friend with the query, "Have I any mail?"

Perched on the steps of the Administration building or lined up on the sidewalk, the ever-hopefuls gather in swarms. They may be recognized by the stacks of books which bespeak continuous classes until noon. An undercurrent of conversation may be heard as to the probabilities of number whether they have time to run to the house and back before the bell rings.

A few are certain of a letter from home or from a suitable "flame" in Gainesville, and, smugly complacent, they stay a little apart from the rest. The others, less certain of receiving a contact from the outside world, fill the remaining time with their watches and frantically tear up small bits of paper. Minutes drag on. The suspense is wearing on them, and faces begin to assume a haggard, worn appearance.

At last the friend breathlessly arrives with the longed for, weekly waving some small white squares and oblongs. The waiting group sways in one accord, chanting in unison the cry "Have I any mail?"

Crossland Represents BSU at Sanford Meet

Cecilia Crossland has been chosen to represent the Baptist Student Union in the stewardship contest which is to be held in Sanford, Saturday, March 14. Miss Crossland will receive a trip to Ridgecrest, N. C., this summer to attend the B. S. U summer camp.

According to Mary Nell Pinckard, president of the B. S. U., the various circles of the Young Women members of the organization are urged to present at the time, an's Auxiliary will meet Friday evening in homes throughout the city to discuss the subject, "What Shall We Do About Liquor?" All

Ausley, Charles Andrews, Joe Brown, Joe Mathis, Herbert Bolster, Bonneau Murray, Jr., Georgo Sherrod, Jack Spencer, Bob Crolaine, Tweed McMullen, Ed Thomas, Paul Cochran, Billy Chase, Jesse Ferrill, Sam Harris, Billy Baker, C. E. Selph, Harry Brown, Donald Robinson, Arthur Webb, James Jones, Buddy Lewis, Billy Van Brunt, Billy Smith, Buster Waldrop, John Parr, Tom Brigham, Ben Ferris, John Sapp and Billy Geither.

Tri Delts Attend Dance

The members of the Delta Delta Delta sorority held their annual dance at the sorority house on Park avenue last night from 8 to 11 o'clock.

The chief rooms of the house were decorated with arrangements of spring flowers and fern, while the rooms in the rear of the house were decorated to carry out the "Pirates Lair" idea.

Punch and cookies were served throughout the evening.

Guests of the sorority at this affair were Guy Walls, Alton Brown, Abney Cox, James A. Rich, Sam Gilbert, Fortes, Bill Ingram, Buddy Nunnum, Hendrix Lewis, Billy Dowling, Harold Brady, John Atwater, Tom Powell, Richard Deas, Ben Stewart, Benjamin Murphy, Jr., George Aiken, Charles Betts, Bob Ingram, Billy Murphy, Tweed Bixler, Raymond Tyrander, Bill Lazarus, Bernard Rawls, Taylor Jones, Russell Kersey, and Dan McKinnon.

For Your Convenience

The Pike Studio, in accord with their policy of always giving you the latest and best in photographic service, are now equipping a new residence studio at 317 West College Avenue where, amid quiet, homelike surroundings and with the aid of new and modern equipment you can be assured of the utmost in modern portraiture.

The new Pike Studio will be ready to serve you about March 23rd. Until that time business will be conducted as usual at the present location.

It's SMART this SEASON.....

to have matching patent leather Shoes & Bags

To wear field flowers of all colors; to carry one of those new linen bags with the cut-out work in contrasting color; to trim up an old dress with Bottenburg colors.

Prices from 50c to $5.00.

WILSON'S

Since 1837

LINDEN'S ADVANCE Easter STYLE

DEMONSTRATING

PRICE LEADERSHIP

An honest value giving event demonstrating foremost "Quality and Price Leadership." Every garment in this large stock has been re-priced in line with our NEW VALUE-GIVING POLICY which you will agree has no equal in this trade territory. We invite you to inspect the new Spring and Summer merchandise arriving daily and compare the values....

Extra Special!
TWIN SWEATERS
New Spring Styles, Colors!
Regularly $2.95.
A special purchase enables us to offer you this group of new Twin Sweater Sets. Nearly all sizes.....
$1.59

All Silk
FULL FASHIONED
HOSIERY
Irregulars of a nationally advertised line of silk hosiery selling for $1.00. Every pair guaranteed perfect except for the length which we guarantee to be what you want when delivered to a customer. . .
44c

Greatest Dress Values in Town!
Chic New Spring Styles!
NEW DRESSES
VALUES TO $5.95.
For sport, street and afternoon. . . . You must see this group!
$3.95

SPRING FROCKS
REGULARLY $7.95.
Fashioned in Summer's most flattering styles, glorious colors and glamorous details. In crepes, sheers and novelties.
SIZES: 12 TO 44.
$5.00

EASTER DRESSES
VALUES TO $14.95.
Last minute styles! Last minute materials! That will answer the slightest whim or fancy of those looking for quality plus economy.
$6.98

GAYTIME DRESSES
VALUES TO $22.50.
You'll adore this lot of dresses! The sassy, jaunty styles and their irresistible appeal to Springtime gayety. Plenty of dark and pastel colors for street and daytime needs. Types too many to enumerate. All sizes for miss and matron.
$9.75

Ladies'
LINEN SUITS
Mannishly tailored.. Pre-shrunk. Imported quality linen . . . .
$2.44

New Summer
EVENING DRESSES
TWO SPECIALS GROUPS
"To Compare Prices"
In sheer chiffon, mousseline - de - soie and laces with bolero, or other styles of summer smartness.
$6.98 $9.95

Clearance!
SPRING SUITS
Mannishly tailored and Swagger styles. All are new, this season's styles and in all colors. Sizes to 20 only.
Values to $12.95
$6.98
Single and Double Breasted Styles!

Large Selection New SPRING HATS
Straws and Felts
What excitement there'll be donning these important hats for Easter! Each is a brand-new style to many thrilling versions. You'll hardly believe this is believe that this low price is true. From—$1.95

LINDEN'S FASHION SHOPPE

College Library Gets Additions

Books Cover Philosophy, Religion, Economics And Sociology

The library has recently received a shipment of new books covering fields of philosophy, religion, sociology, economics, literature, and biography.

Those on the subjects of philosophy and religion are, Crawshaw: The Indispensable Soul; Cadman, Aventure for Happiness; Powys, The Art of Happiness; Ames, Religion; Brightman, Personality and Religion; Carter, How Shall I Learn to Teach Religion; Douglass, God Among the Germans; Fosdick, The Mind of Paul; Fosdick, The Power to See it Through; Gearhart, Finding the Way; Harnan, Science and Religion; Hodgson, Radio Talks on Prayer; Hoolf, What Religion Is and Does; Leon, Progress Through Religion; Logan, Psychology of Christian Personality; Milner, The Sky is Red; Morgan, Great Teachers of the Bible; Sharman, Jesus As Teacher; Simpson, Testament of Love.

The new material on sociology and economics includes, Bakeless, How to Spend Money; Cole, What Everybody Wants to Know About Money; Cole, Some Relation Between Political and Economic Theory; Dawson, Hold Fast the Middle Way; Garside, Cotton Goes to Market; Hawtrey, The Gold Standard; Seabrook, Asylum.

There are twenty-three new books on travel, drama, prose, and poetry, which are, Bell, Tinsel As a Hobby; Bruce, So You Want to Write a Song?; Candee, The Tapestry Book; Collins, How to Make Your Own Movies; Cooper, Story of Music; Leighton, Four Rodgers; McCandless, A Method of Lettering the Music; Nef, Outline of the History of Music; Selden, The Dancer's Quest; Talbot, Byzantine Art, and Stokowski, The Layman's Music Book.

Baker, History of the English Novel; Baskervill, Elizabethan and Stuart Plays; Bent, Basket For a Fair; Bent, Prose and Poetry of Elinor Wylie; Deutsch, This Modern Poetry; Green, French Short Stories of the 19th and 20th Centuries; Grudin, Mr. Eliot Among the Nightingales; Hamilton, "So You're Going To Write a Play!"; Jeffers, Solstice and Other Poems; Markwick, The Women in Shakespeare's Plays; Parks, The English Drama, 900-1642; Ridge, Dance of Fire; Robinson, King Jasper; Spencer, Up From the Earth; Woollcott, The Woollcott Reader.

Books in the fields of biography, travel, and history include, Bergamini, Economic Geography of Asia; Brenner, Your Mexican Holiday; Brown, Brownstone Pranks and Saratoga Trunks; Bryan, Man's Adaptation of Nature; Carr, Riding The Tiger; De-Waterville, Speak to the Earth; Franck, Trailing Cortes Through Mexico; Snyder, Gringos.

Adams, Familiar Letters of John Adams and His Wife, Letchworth, My Friend Jane Addams; Baird, First Years; Barina, Puppet Show of Memory; Dreiser, If This Be I, As I Suppose It Be; Gosse, Life and Letters; Gray, Young Walter Scott; Grebanier, The Romantic Rebels; Kirkland, Girls Who Became Artists; Lamb, Letters of Charles Lamb; Lorenz, Life of Sidney Lanier; Hendrick, The Lees of Virginia; Rhea, Hugh Swinton Legare; Mantle, Playwrights of Today; Zweig, Mary Queen of Scotland and the Isles; Moore, Determined Women Writers; O'Brien, Will Rogers; Vidoq, Life of Vidocq; Walker, Customs, Last of the Aztec Emperors; Woodward, Three Flights Up.

Barnes, History of Western Civilizations; Durant, Story of Civilization; Foster, Making of Modern Iraq; Jackson, The Post-war World; Lawrence, Seven Pillars of Wisdom; Means, The Spanish Main; Wilis, Road to War; Annals, 1914-1917; Roosevelt, On Our Way.

Excerpts

Continued from page four

ting a thing to be denied: medicine is too important to be used for the benefit of the few; it should be everyone's birthright.—Campus Chat.

TEACHERS VS. SCHOLARS

One of the most discouraging aspects of the teaching profession is the consistent failure of men who put their best efforts into their teaching to receive equal recognition with those who are teacher-scholars. Attention to this past week has been called to this situation by the report of Dr. Walter A. Jessup, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Learning, in the annual report of that organization published last week. "In the struggle toward academic respectability in which many institutions have engaged, much emphasis has been placed upon the external trappings of scholarship that are all too frequently specious," he says in that report . . . Emphasis on degrees, he contends, has resulted all too often in an "accumulation of colorless, superficial scholars. We might well give more recognition to our own great teachers as artists. Fortunate is the college which has at its central aim the desire to recognize, liberate and preserve this essentially artistic personal element in the teaching staff."—Michigan Daily.

Beauty Ideas For Spring!

Be as smart as your new Spring clothes! Our hair dressers are the best. Our manicurists use Tinkon polish in all the new Spring shade. Our Andrea Duval Facials will keep your complexion young.

POWDER PUFF BEAUTY SHOP
108 So. Adams Phone 656

Personal Mention

Alice Porter is spending the week-end in her home in St. Petersburg and Tampa.

Adelaide Duval of Ocala was a visitor at the Delta Delta Delta house last week.

Mrs. Herbert Aldon and Mrs. R. L. Fleming of Atlanta were visiting here this week. They took their daughters, Ann Jeter and Elsie F. ning with their guest, Doris Risk, back to Atlanta to spend the week-end.

Anna Grover visited in Lake City last week-end.

Eleanor Hutchinso was a visitor in Lakeland last week.

Doris Risk, Mary Brandon, and Ellen Fleming went to Thomasville last week-end to visit.

Visiting at the Tri Delta house this week-end were Helen Payne and Dorothy Ostcoup of Orlando, and Kathryn Barrs of Jackson.

Last week-end Mamie Brunson visited in Bainbridge, Ga.

Pro and Con

Continued from page four

ing of Garnet and Gold as they strive to win the game.

It is necessary in the discussion of college athletics to maintain a spirit to define the term itself. Certain things we should not, she bars men from her gates cheats herself out of the greatest source of school spirit in the realm of colleges and universities is the pinnacle of nerv-worship, glamor, and general campus approval, and Stanford furnishes a large majority of colleges the means where-by Alma Mater is glorified. Never is the feeling for dear old Middle so strong as on the numerous occasions when its star half-back is slipping down a muddy field with a pig skin under his arm in her honor. But Florida has a passion now and then for heroes to carry it is she did. Without the attraction of this, the King of College Sports, without the glory and the shouting that is accorded to Alma Mater as the winning touchdown is scored, can you expect to find a school spirit on this campus?

Again I say it is necessary to define the term of school spirit. If Florida States is "footballess" can we expect to develop a school spirit by any definition on this campus? Admitted or unadmitted the school spirit of the majority of colleges is inevitably interwed with the superficial rahrah that characterizes the school sports. A considerable number of girls' schools get around the difficulty of a man-less, and thus essentially sportless, world by attempting to infuse in their students a love for their school for tradition's sake. They build up elaborate ceremonies which aim at the arousing of feeling for their alma mater; they teach their underclassmen the "customs" of the school; in every phase of their school life they establish a combination of rabid sentimentalism and superficial loyalty to the established code that serves for them as school spirit.

Florida State is not gone to this extreme in her definition of the term. Nor has been content to remain restless hazy in her definition, and to urge among her students the impress of something of which she is not quite sure herself. Whenever the question of the spirit of loyalty to the college comes up, someone points with pride to the Homecoming festivities. Let no one dare accuse us of being spiritless. Do we not attend the Odd-fown games en masse? Do we not make ourselves hoarse for a week? Do we not cherish the memory of these times far far more our lives? Isn't this devotion of the truest type?

As in all institutions, questions arise now and then on the campus about the incompliness and the value of this type of school patriotism. There may even be quite a little stir for a time about the matter. The leaders of the school may complain that a these type of school spirit is among the missing elements on the campus, but in the main the life of the campus goes on undisturbed by the vague rumblings that constitute the few movements among students for better school spirit.

German Club Discusses Dresden, Berlin Culture

Der Deutsche Verein held its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in Reward Lounge.

The subject for this program was the study of the cities, Dresden and Berlin, as they relate to literature, art, and music.

At the last meeting of Der Deutsche Verein the following new members were taken in, Margaret Brooks, Florence Devine, Winifre Edwart, Anna Glen, Marion Harrold, Annie Jennings, Charlotte Kemper, Elizabeth Knapp, Mary E. Octocman, Alice Porter, Rita Rinder, Sue Whitaker, and Frankie Wildman.

History of Florida State Is That of Its Various Schools

Dr. Conradi and Faculty Receive Credit For Leadership Which Has Made This a Leading Women's College

The four schools, Education, Arts and Sciences, Music, and Home Economics, of Florida State College have come to be what they are today as a result of years of struggling and work. Much of the credit for this achievement is due to Dr. Edward Conradi, who became president of the college in the year of 1909, and to the faculty members of the college.

From the small beginning of twenty-seven years ago, the College of Arts and Sciences has exhibited steady growth and progress. This has been seen in the bringing together of a corps of teachers of broad training in their respective fields and in the improvement of the curriculum.

From an organization which at first comprised a number of so-called schools—such as the School of Art, and the School of Expression. The College of Arts and Sciences has developed into a unified aggrestation of departments, each offering its own major. Dr. W. G. Dodd is dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, having been given this position the year of 1913.

The Home Economics School, of which Dr. Margaret R. Sandels is dean, was planned in 1909 by two instructors, brother of whom and a college degree. Due to the efforts of various people connected with this school, home economics has made its contribution to the general education of its students and has been alive to the need for professional training of its graduates. It has provided instruction in the various divisions of its subject matter, foods and nutrition, clothing and textiles, the house, family economics, and family relationships.

At the time of President Conradi's Inauguration in 1909, the School of Music was making its early struggles for right standards, a larger proportion of students being of preparatory rank rather than of collegiate rank. In the year 1911, Miss Ella Scoble Opperman was made dean of this school. Courses were being given in applied music, theory, and history of music.

However, it was not until the fall of 1911 that a curriculum leading to the Bachelor of Music degree and the granting of this degree was authorized by the board of control. The advancement of this school has proved to be along highly credited lines, as was evidenced by the results of the examination made by the National Association of Schools of Music in 1930, at which time the School of Music was made a member of this national organization.

In 1924 a four-manual Skinner organ was installed in the college auditorium. The addition of this instrument has made it possible for students to major in organ and also to prepare for the American Guild of Organist's degree examinations. The college glee club has presented programs of high quality for many years while the college orchestra has emerged from a string ensemble into a well-organized body.

The School of Education has also had its trials and tribulations. Previous to the year of 1913 there was an education department in combination with the normal school. This name was changed to the School of Education in 1913 when Dr. N. M. Salley was made dean of the school. Today many of the teachers in Florida as well as in other states in this vicinity are graduates of this department.

Signed: Evelyn Fisher

Phi Elpha Theta Elects Mitchell as President Of Group for New Year

At a meeting of Phi Alpha Theta, national history honorary, Anna Marie Mitchell was elected president for the coming year, and Daisy Parker was elected secretary-treasurer.

The retiring officers are president, Rosalind Parker; secretary-treasurer, Rebecca Keith.

Members of the organization present were Rebecca Keith, Rosalind Parker, Daisy Parker, Goode Levitsky, Lucy Coe Lane, and Anna Marie Mitchell.

Dr. Annie Pooper, faculty advisor of Phi Alpha Theta was reelected to fill this position for next year.

Sun-Tan Takes Toll As Spring Visits Campus

Olive Oil Enthusiasts Get Out Paraphernalia For Campaign

It is an age old tradition that the robin is the first sign of spring but on the campus of F. S. C. W. there's a surer sign than that.

Already, even in the early month of February, the wintry blasts have subsided into gentle zephyrs and roume and red birds have been seen fluttering among the leafless branches of the trees. Although we have been rudely awakened by the cheerful chirp of an impertinent arrow, that which is more significant is the fact that on traversing the campus one frequently stumbles across figures lazily reclined on blankets and pillows. These figures are saturated with olive oil, absorbing the sunshine, which beats down upon them abundantly.

During the past week girls who all winter have been wont to remain indoors embracing a radiator have become the possible prey to accompany them on long walks, the duration of which is reported by expounding on the wonders of nature.

Occasionally, but increasingly frequently, we are being shocked into attention by the appearance of a strap ruffly dress or a freshly pressed white linen suit.

Beaches—here, there, and between meals—esher in the coiffure smoking area, singing laughing, talking, while they smoke.

But even in the midst of all this revelry is a sadness which cannot be shaken from the soul. These days of spring drive us not to last, for March may yet interrupt our leisure hours with driving rain and blustering winds.

Skit Night and Street Carnival Bring to End FSC Week on Campus

Skit night and the street carnival brought to a close the program of F. S. C. W. week.

"Department of Interior," presented by the dining room girls, was judged best of the four skits given Friday night. The cast included Beth Deard, Viola Brooks, Sara Martin, Jane Tombaugh, Irene Hammontz, and others.

The street carnival took place in front of the gym on Saturday evening. While fortune tellers, games of chance, ice cream booths, and hot-dog stands allured one into spending the last nickel, dancing went merrily on to the strains of the latest dance tunes. The costumes for the occasion ranged all the way from cowboys to Shirley Temple including Spanish senoritas, country lassies, and belles of the nineties.

The program, under the direction of Rose Pasanowal and Mickey Conn, was presented inside the gym. It consisted of a freshman trio, Lois Hughes, Genie Olsen, and Nancy Rogers, an adagio dance by Del Colburn and Viola Brooks; presentation of the new college song by a quartet of girls; acrobatic tap dance by Viola Brooks, Mary Carson, and Janet Lockwood, and a piano duet by Milford Smith and Sara Frances Cantrell.

Hazel Bowman received the award for the best F. S. C. W. girl.

Sue Whitaker, impersonating Mae West, received the prize for the best costume.

Club Meeting Postponed

The regular monthly meeting of the Home Economics club was postponed from March 10 to next Tuesday, March 17.

Louise Johnson and Helen Wahlburg will be the speakers, according to the secretary, Shirley Stevens.

For centuries the world has gone to the Near East for its flavors and aromas and spices.

. . . and today Chesterfield imports thousands of bales of tobacco from Turkey and Greece to add flavor and fragrance to Chesterfield Cigarettes.

Turkish tobacco is expensive. The import duty alone is 35 cents a pound. But no other place except Turkey and Greece can raise tobacco of this particular aroma and flavor.

This Turkish tobacco, blended with our own American tobaccos in the correct proportions to bring out the finer qualities of each tobacco, helps to make Chesterfields outstanding for mildness and for better taste.

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Students' Philosophies Show Contrasting Outlook On Life

Reporter Investigates Innermost Thoughts Of Classmates

BY PEARLE SHEPARD

The college girl at Florida State is a fatalist, an optimist, a pessimist, a believer in predestination, an Epicurean, and a hard worker—according to her philosophy of life.

My exploration into the philosophies of my classmates began quite casually one night at dinner. Little knowing I would find such a world of interesting information, I asked those sitting near me, "What is your philosophy of life?"

I found I could not ask my question without a little elucidation however, for immediately a wry arose: "Explain yourself." Without benefit of a philosophy course as a background I inadequately tried to explain what I meant as this: "That idea! that makes one keep going, that acts as a buffer for all the disagreeable things in life, that comes to one's aid when monotonous things in the process of our living have to be evaluated."

"Ah, make the most of what we yet may spend, before we too into the dust descend," recited a girl.

"Exactly," I answered, but with the faint trepidation that she did it too blandly.

"To strive, to seek, to find and not to yield," she continued.

I remembered then that she was a speech major. I passed her by for the time being.

The girl at my right admitted that she had no philosophy. She said she had tried several and they had not sufficed. The junior across the table agreed with her, acknowledging the fact that she had tried very hard to find some philosophy that would give her a sense of security.

That night I went to a sorority house to seek out the innermost thoughts of those that who must have some sort of philosophy to enable them to live in such close contact.

"I'm entirely Epicurean," said one girl on her way to take a shower.

"Yes," added another, "she always wants the extra piece of cake."

"Those are my sentiments, too," chorused someone. "Get all the fun out of life that you can and don't worry about the problems, for what will matter anyway, fifty years from now?"

"You have to be 'jip'," said a freshman, I was just about to ask what that meant when she went on to say, "I believe the Lord helps those who help themselves."

A senior in the School of Education and preparing to teach primary children professed this idea:

"I believe," she said, "that we have to work for what we get and work hard."

"Yes," said an honors' student, "but I think one should work hard in the particular field in which he is talented but be shallow in his second if it will greatly lessen the happiness of others. In other words," she continued, "people should not step on the toes of others to get to the top."

"I'm an optimist," another girl said, "and I have illusions. It makes life worth living."

"Oh, I'm a fatalist," another immediately broke in. "What's to be, will be," she said in a foreboding voice, eyes lifted heavenward.

A junior, preparing for bed, broke up them. "I'm an optimist, too. In fact I'm such a good one that I'm going to bed right now and I have a term paper staring me in the face. I'm not worrying. I'm not quite sure but I think she added, "Not much."

That night after I had returned to the dormitory I still went in pursuit of philosophic ideas. I approached a rather light-headed sophomore getting a drink at the water cooler. Having asked my question I waited for a shallow answer. Instead I received a very serious reply.

"I have faith and hope and without them I shouldn't care to live to get along." I left her resolving never to judge people before ask ing them their philosophies.

Probably the best self-analysis came from the girl next door. A decided individualist, I knew that whatever she said would be worth noting. This girl is strong in her likes and dislikes, rather outspoken but very considerate. She is studying religious education with the ultimate aim of being a home missionary worker.

First of all, she defined her idea of religion, which is the foundation of all her beliefs. A member of the Anglican church, she has defined for herself the meaning of the church's doctrine, the Trinity.

"God," she said, "is three-fold to me. There is a part of him, the Father, that is watching over us. God, the son is all-sympathetic, since he has been one of us and understands our weaknesses. and God, the Holy Ghost, offers us comfort."

"I don't see," she explained, "how a college girl can go through life without having thought out her own salvation. Everyone should have his philosophy."

Questioned as to whether she believed in predestination, she answered, "I believe that there are two alternatives given to every one. If he chooses one way he will meet a series of events that have been planned out and should he take the other way those things which he does come in contact with were already planned. But the important fact is that the individual has some say in the matter. We can take advantage of what intelligence or good sense we have in making our decisions. I have to believe that."

When I had finished my interview I sat down to take stock. The college girl as I had found her has her philosophies, the majority following the doctrine of "drink and be merry for tomorrow we die." Some are more like Sancho of "Don Quixote"—"live and let live." Some are like Don Quixote himself, fighting for the things in life, even if it be against windmills.

Breakfast Rush On Saturday Is Confused Event

Local Tea Room is Scene Of Weekly Dining Of College Girls

Mingled with the buzz of many voices, the ringing of a telephone, and the sizzling of frying bacon is heard a loud crash! Just another cream pitcher or sugar bowl shattered on the floor during the Saturday morning breakfast rush at a nearby tea room.

The buzz grows louder as the stupor of an extra three hours' sleep wears off and the girls eagerly sniff the tantalizing odor of hot coffee and coffee.

Girls dieting to reduce consume a meager portion of orange juice or an egg in turn consume by an overwhelming desire for some of the richer things in life, such as toast and jelly. These girls, having satisfied their greatest (ugh) the appetite, grumblingly (but so contentedly) declare, "Next time I'll go to the dining hall for breakfast. No chance for over eating there!"

Confused waiters blunder to and fro

Study Hours Develop Curious And Revealing Conversations

Talk Drifts From Current Exams to Dates and Wardrobes

By SARAH DAVIS

"I'm so glad you've come to study with me, Janet," said Martha as she removed some of the books from her cluttered desk in an effort to make room for Janet and her rather bulky bacteriology text.

"I believe we'll learn more by working together," —net predicted. "It's only 4 o'clock now. We ought to get an awful lo done between now and light flash."

The two girls were going to have a semester examination in bacteriology at 8:30, the next morning and they had decided to settle down and study a bit.

"You know," said Janet, taking her place opposite Martha, "this is an interesting course, but I'm scared to death of the examination. What do you suppose Miss Parsons will ask us? I have just loads and loads of notes, but I never could memorize. What would d'you say we ask each other questions? That's the easiest way to review."

"Okeh," Martha consented, "I'll ask you the first question. What are the symptoms of the common cold?"

"Sore throat, watery eyes, red nose, inflammation of the nasal passages, and headache," was Janet's ache. You know, Martha, this is a valuable course. It teaches us such practical things. Everybody especially the mothers of the world, ought to know the symptoms of a common cold and the means of curing one. You tell me the proper means of treating a cold."

"Well, the patient should take a strong laxative, remain in bed for at least twenty-four hours, and eat soups and citrus fruits. Eat soups and citrus fruits. That's easy to remember. It's the best to memorize all the cures for all the diseases, but that's an easy one. Eat soups and citrus fruits. Five words and five 's' sounds. And soup and fruit almost rhyme. Do you ever remember facts that way, Janet?"

"I, h yes." Janet began, "I did practically the same thing in botany in order to remember the vitamins. We had to learn all the known vitamins, where they are found, and what a lack of them causes. Some of them, like vitamin B, were comparatively easy to remember. Vitamin B is found in bread, and the lack of it causes Beri-beri. Beautifully easy! But vitamin F! It was awful. It is found in liver and leafy vegetables. So I finally remembered it by changing the 'v's' to 'f's' and saying, 'Vitamin F, found in liver and leafy vegetables.'"

"That's pretty good, Janet. I wish you could think up some such way to remember this bacteriology. What can we study next? Let's follow our charts and ask each other the salient clinical features, the diagnosis, the portal of entry, the modes of infection, the methods of prevention, and the cure of all the diseases we've studied so far. You begin with the last one on the list, diphtheria."

"All right, here goes. Diphtheria: salient clinical features, sore throat, slight fever, pain in limbs and back; the diagnosis, throat and nose examination; portal of entry, nose and throat; the modes of infection, milk, ice cream, secretions from the mouth and nose; the methods of prevention, immunization with diphtoxoid; and the cure, give antitoxin."

"And Martha, you should see the chart Harriet Jen...na made us on Miss Parsons' room showed it to me last night while we were studying English. It goes something like this: Disease, Particulars; salient clinical features, headaches, pain in the back, general feeling of illness, and woebe-gone and hopeless expression; diagnosis, they look at you incessary; portal of entry, ears and eyes; modes of infection, by majoring in bacteriology; methods of prevention, take bacteriology; the cure, flunk out or just drop the course."

"That's clever," Martha laughed, but I hope Miss Parsons never does it. I want to get a 'B' on her 'A'. You know she made 'A' on the quarter."

"I know it," Janet sighed. "I do not see how she does it. She doesn't study any more than I do during the quarters and she doesn't cram for exams. I saw her going to the library tonight as I came over here. She said she hadn't studied bacteriology yet and wasn't going to much. I'll bet she'd make 'A' though without opening a book. Miss Parsons likes her mighty well."

"Well, it seems like some people get all the lucky breaks. But, come on, let's go down to the smoking lounge and have a cigarette. We've been working for over an hour without any conversation. The psychologists tell us that our minds work best after a rest ten minutes out of each hour. Down in the smoking lounge we can chat into one 2 those big easy chairs for a while and enjoy a warm room. Come on. We can take our notebooks along.

"Francis, I hate to run you out of your own room, but Margaret two and some girls are giving Shakespeare with me tonight. We're going to be locked up about a real deal and I'm afraid we'll bother you. Would you mind going to Martha's room for a while? Your roommate is there, but she's reading and will be quiet."

—And thus Francis was sent away, so that her roommate, Virginia, might study Shakespeare with Margaret.

"Have you read all of the plays, Virginia?" asked Margaret.

"Oh, yes. I've read each of them twice, but that's nothing. Janie Beach has read them all six times. And her term paper is twenty-one pages long. Mine is only nine pages."

"Mine is nine and one-half pages long," said Margaret, but I think I'll get a 'B' as mine is hard tonight. I've taken one of those No-doze tablets to keep me awake, so I'm good for an all-night's study."

"No-doze?" questioned Virginia. "You take those things? I surely wouldn't. Julia McCall took one last Wednesday night and she couldn't go to sleep until two o'clock Thursday afternoon."

"They're too strong for some people," replied Margaret, "but they don't hurt me. I'm an old sleepy-head. We'd better get busy or shall we begin studying?"

"We can begin by a discussion of the first play we studied in class, 'Romeo and Juliet.' I heard a group of students discussing it the other day. One of them said she considered Shakespeare's weakest play. She thought that Shakespeare did not allow Romeo and Juliet to become well enough acquainted to be true, sincere lovers—lovers who would die rather than live without each other. I didn't agree with her at all. Last Christmas vacation, when I went on that Progressive Students' convention in Philadelphia, I met a man and fell in love with him in two days as hard as Juliet fell in love with Romeo.

"Margaret, he was wonderful. A senior at the University of Chicago, five feet, ten and one-half inches tall, weighs 160 pounds, has brown eyes and wavy black hair. Oh, he's just perfect. And he's going to be a professor of history. We had grand times together. We went to three shows, one night club, and three dances at the hotel. But the dances at the hotel weren't so much fun.

"Marion Simmons was a stick on our hands. Because she was representing our college, I felt that I should sort of look out for her. I danced with her all the boys I met and tried to get dates for her. But she was a problem. We had lovely dances in the hotel and she didn't even want to go to them —and at the forum meetings! Marion never said a word. Whenever a word was spoken in behalf of our college I did it.

"And that reminds me, Virginia. I've been waiting for an opportunity to tell you of the open forum which I conducted."

And so they talked until three o'clock in the morning.

"Sssssh. Sssssssh, Helen. That fussy old librarian is about to pop an eye muscle staring at us."

"I hope she does. She's the snappiest person on this campus. She'll probably come over here in a minute and tell us to be quiet. If she does, we'll leave."

Ten minutes later Helen again broke the silence. She remembered that she had not told Jane of the new green dress her mother had sent the day before.

"It's olive green," she whispered, "and it's an exact match for my eyes. Mother knows that green is my favorite color. I'm going to wear it to the dance Friday night. Do you think it will be all right?"

"Sssssh. Sssssssh, Helen. That fussy old librarian is about to pop an eye muscle staring at us."

"I hope she does. She's the snappiest person on this campus. She'll probably come over here in a minute and tell us to be quiet. If she does, we'll leave."

Ten minutes later Helen again broke the silence. She remembered that she had not told Jane of the new green dress her mother had sent the day before.

"It's olive green," she whispered, and, "with kick-pleats in front and back and the cutest wooden buttons you've ever seen."

With such remarks the girls were diverted from their French verbs every ten or fifteen minutes, until after about an hour and a half of "studying," Jane decided that they should walk over to the drug store and get a drink.

When you're spending from 8:30 in the morning" till 11:30 at night studying," said Jane as they descended the library steps, "you ought not to study over an hour at any one time without resting."

"You're right," Helen agreed, "and I don't think I'll review that French anymore. I worked on forty-five minutes yesterday and don't think we ought to spend more than two hours reviewing any exam. They simply aren't worth it. What do you mean anyway? They certainly aren't everything in life."

GENERAL MOTORS
A Public-Minded Institution
CHEVROLET · PONTIAC · OLDSMOBILE · BUICK · LA SALLE · CADILLAC

Luckies a light smoke
OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO—"IT'S TOASTED"

Luckies are less acid
Excess of Acidity of Other Popular Brands Over Lucky Strike Cigarettes
BALANCE
LUCKY STRIKE
BRAND B
BRAND C
BRAND D
PROPER AGING
Tobacco in its natural state is harsh and strong. Though "cured" by the grower before sale, it is unsuited for use without further aging. During this aging period (which ranges in the case of Lucky Strike from 1½ to 3 years) important changes occur. These "Nature" changes result in the partial "smoothing out" of the original harsh qualities of the leaf. Our process of manufacture carries these improvements many steps further—as every Lucky Strike Cigarette exemplifies: A Light Smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco.
LUCKY STRIKE "IT'S TOASTED" CIGARETTES
LUCKIES ARE LESS ACID!
Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.
*RESULTS VERIFIED BY INDEPENDENT CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS
"IT'S TOASTED"—Your throat protection—against irritation—against cough

See "Tale of Two Cities" Return of Which Is Sponsored by Mortar Board

The Florida Flambeau

Be Sure to Vote Again Next Tuesday To Elect YW and WAA Officers

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOLUME XXIII. | Tallahassee, Florida, March 20, 1936 | NUMBER TWENTY-THREE

Grades To Be Abolished On Mid-Semester

Only Students to Receive Slips Whose Studies "Unsatisfactory"

NOT TO GO INTO EFFECT TILL FALL

No Provisions Yet Made For Probation, Cuts And Quarterlies

Beginning next fall quarterly grades will be abolished, with the exception of "unsatisfactory" slips which will be sent to those students whose standings have fallen below a "C" average.

This action was taken last week by the faculty senate, upon recommendations made by the committee on grading of which Miss Hazel A Stevenson, associate professor of English, is chairman.

Changes Recommended

The committee recommended: (1) That mid-semester grades as now given be discontinued: (2) that as a substitute the instructor submit to the registrar a list of students whose work is unsatisfactory—"unsatisfactory" to be defined as below the "C" level. To these students and to their parents the registrar's office is to send reports of unsatisfactory performance: (3) That this change be incorporated in the college catalogue.

The college executive council, according to S. R. Doyle, registrar, will work out the details of the proposed plan. The question of cuts and probation will be decided. Whether the college calendar will include the end of the first and third quarter will be another matter to be decided.

This new ruling will in no way affect students' scholastic ratings, Mr. Doyle said, since grades for the first quarter have never been kept on the records.

Lessens Grade Emphasis

Dr. Hazel Stevenson said that the grading committee has been at work for more than a year on the question of grades. It has been the aim of this body, she explained, by eliminating the first and third quarter reports to lessen the emphasis on grades. She pointed out that this would help not only the student but also the instructor who in such a short time would not possibly be able to give a fair estimate of the quality of work of each student.

To eliminate grades entirely, Dr. Stevenson said, would necessitate the correction of other problems. While the committee was working on the new plan, systems in various universities were studied. Only six institutions in the country, Dr. Stevenson said, one of which is the University of Florida, has adopted the system of "pass" and "fail" entirely.

Some of these colleges go even

Continued on page two

Graessle Names Six Hop Ladies

Will Lead Freshman Ball At U. of F. March 28

The six winners of the freshman hop beauty contest sponsored by the freshmen at the University of Florida were announced yesterday by Albert Graessle, president of the U. of F. freshman class. Those chosen to act as "ladies of the ball" include Ercel Anderson, Danner Baker, Mary Virginia Dell, Jean Hodges, Frances La Motte, and Kathryn Patterson.

According to hop tradition the queen of the annual freshman-sophomore week-end to be held in Gainesville, March 7-2., will be selected by a class poll and the five runners-up will be her attendants.

Girls to represent Florida State College in the annual contest were selected by the different floors of the freshman dormitories and by the sororities, and their pictures were submitted to the freshman class at the university.

Other freshmen who took part in this contest were Claire Wells, Winifred Hill, Edith Stanley, Dorothea Ruff, Frances Williams, Margaret DeGuenther, Geraldine Rosenberg, Betty Gause, Myrtle Wilson, Mary Elizabeth Daugherty, Margaret Wilson, Jane Sharon, Nellye Woodham, and Marga- Stoutamire.

Dickens Movie Will Return March 26-27

"A Tale of Two Cities," picturization of the Dickens classic featuring Ronald Colman and Elizabeth Allan, will have a return engagement March 26-27 at the Ritz theater. Tickets can be bought from various students on campus at any time and at a table in the lower floor of the Administration building Wednesday afternoon and Thursday morning. The price is twenty-five cents. Mortar Board, which is sponsoring the show, will get credit for all tickets sold by students.

Revision Made In Honor Work

Application Procedure In Simplified Form Is Accepted

A revised application procedure for honors work, conforming to the revised and simplified regulations concerning honors students which were recently adopted by the faculty senate, was completed this week.

The revised application is simplified in that students are required to fill out only one form blank. Formerly each student had to fill out at least three different blanks. Another feature is that honors students may now register for their classes in much the same manner as do regular students. After their program for honors work has been accepted by the honors committee, students may complete their registration at the office of the college registrar. Previously honors students were required to complete their registration with the honors committee.

To each student desiring to enroll for honors work an application procedure is given which states each step she must take in applying for the work. These steps in order are:

1. Consult your major professor and the chairman of the honors committee.
2. Apply to the office of the college registrar for two application blanks before April 1.
3. Fill out part 1 of the duplicate blanks.
4. Request the professors given as references in the blank to write a letter of recommendation to the chairman of the honors committee at once.
5. Take the duplicate forms to your intended major professor, in consultation with him or her plan your program of studies, and enter the information requested on the application blank.
6. Secure the signature of your major professor and apply for the signed approval of the head of the department on the duplicate blanks.
7. Within a week from the date of application return the duplicate blank filled out in detail to the chairman of the honors committee.
8. The committee on honors will notify you whether or not your program for honors work is accepted.
9. When your program has been properly approved and you have been notified to that effect, take one blank to the office of the registrar and complete your registration in that office.

The application procedure was revised by Mr. Herman Kurz, chairman of the honors committee, and Mr. S. R. Doyle, registrar. All students interested in honors work are asked to watch the academic bulletin boards for further information.

YWCA To Hold First Retreat March 20 To 22

Initial Time Sponsored Among Collegiates Of Florida

ROLLINS, U. OF F. SEND DELEGATES

Varied and Interesting Program is Planned For Week-end

Beginning tonight and extending through Sunday, March 22, the Young Women's Christian association of Florida State College for Women will sponsor on this campus a retreat, the first ever to be held among college students in Florida.

Designed as a follow-up of the Student Volunteer Movement convention which met in Indianapolis during the Christmas holidays the retreat will have as its objective the bringing together of alert and mentally receptive students for the formulation and discussion of opinions concerning the relation of Christianity to the social, political, racial and economic problems existing in the world today.

Three Colleges

The following Florida colleges will be represented: Rollins, which is sending six delegates; the University of Florida, which is sending twenty-five delegates; and Florida State College for Women, to be represented by thirty members of the student body.

An interesting program has been planned for the Retreat, according to Lucy Gee Linn, president of Y. W. C. A. After an informal social gathering tonight, a morning worship service will be held at 6:30 tomorrow under the direction of Dr. Luther Christie. Breakfast will be served to delegates at 7:45, after which, at 9:00 a. m., a devotional service will be conducted by Lucy Pope. At 9:30 Jimmy Bryant, presiden of the Y. M. C. A. at Gainesville, will discuss the purpose of the Retreat; at 9:45 Mr. Eleaber, chairman of the Inter-Racial Commission of Atlanta, will speak on the subject of "Race Relations."

Lunch will be served at noon, after which a devotional service will be led by Bernice Oliver. From 2:00 until 3:30 several of the delegates will speak on problems of current interest. Among the speakers scheduled for this occasion are: Bob Specht, of Gainesville, who will discuss "Co-operatives"; Stanmore Cawthon, also a student at Gainesville, who will speak on the subject, "Politics and the Modern World"; Dove Parker, whose subject will be "International Relations"; and Mary Jeanne McKay, who will speak on "The Present World Crisis."

Devotional Service

After a 6 o'clock dinner, a devotional service will be conducted at 7:00 under the direction of Harbert Gregory of Gainesville. At 7:15 Dr. Olivia N. Dorman, dean of students at F. S. C. W., will deliver an addre son the subject "The Needs of a College Student"; at 9:30 the activities of the day will be concluded with a general sing led by Roy Tew.

On Sunday morning, after breakfast at 8:00, Virginia White will conduct a devotional service at 9:30. From 10:00 until 11:30 Dr. West, of New York, will deliver an address, after which, at 12:30, lunch will be served. From 2:00 until 3:00 on Sunday afternoon an

Continued on page two

Speeches and Sweet Smiles Show Besides Spring, Elections In Air

Psychological Slants Are Food for Thought To Observing Girl

More things have been in the air recently than the songs of the little birdies and the sweet smells of returning spring! With a shower of speeches, a flow of subterraneous whisperings, an electric quality to even the most ordinary of conversations the annual election fever is now raging in epidemic proportions on campus.

By her sweet smiles, her hearty greetings to all friends and foe, her I-will-be-my-own-sweet self attitude you may know her—our friend, the candidate. Placed in the glare of the spotlight with the analytical eye of hundreds upon her, the candidate generally feels as one of them aptly expressed it "like an amoeba under a microscope!" Nor do the trials of a candidate for office end with walking across the stage hurriedly as in days of yore. This sighting of candidates has been done away with. As a consequence they spend many hours practicing speeches before their more or less good-natured roommates, while all except the speech-trained individuals suffer deliria tremens at the thought of the fatal day.

The people who get the most fun out of elections are the candidates' friends. One finds them in a constant paroxysm of mirth at the various things that the suffering nominees must do. They take great delight in rushing up to their friend in any public gathering and asking in a pretended stage whisper "How's your campaign?"

Of course there are many other ways to test a candidate's sense of humor. You can shout across the campus, much to her embarrassment, that you have secured another vote for her. "How many does that make—five?" or you can remind her that when she becomes a C. G. A. official that no longer can she go out of the dining room munching her last cookie — it wouldn't be dignified. The helpless candidate can do nothing but grin and bear it in any case—because votes are votes!

Among the students themselves speculations run riot. Each day brings forth a new avalanche of "behind the scenes doings." "I heard's," and new and heretofore unmentioned line-ups.

In this group there is always the prophet of the hour who knows exactly what each group will do even before they know, who can tell you the precise outcome of each item on the ballot, and who, if you are so rash as to disagree with her, will argue you right through dinner down to the toothpicks!

Another prominent figure in these exciting times is the cynic, who may or may not be a disappointed office seeker, who declares that all politics are rotten anyhow and states in burning tones that she does not consider it an honor to get a position of any kind on this campus.

Scattered here and there around the campus also are the few genuine psychological souls who take

Continued on page two

Huff Explains Federal Parole In Recent Talk

Ban on Prisoner's Family Is More Intolerant Than Prisoner's

"From the process of becoming educated for social living, two groups emerge: the reputable citizens who are able to maintain the same standing, and the disreputable members of society or the criminals who drop out of the process to find the comfort they desire with some other people elsewhere," stated the Honorable Ray L. Huff, federal parole executive, speaker on the lecture series appearing in college auditorium Wednesday evening.

The speaker said that we do not all start life with the same opportunities, are not taught the same thing in school, and do not have the same family ties and feeling of security. Disruption in the process of becoming educated in social living causes the victims of the disruption to go elsewhere for comfort and the standards of living they desire. In this group of disreputable citizens are the majority of the people who are or who will be in prison, stated the speaker.

The reputable members of society express their moral code in the written laws, and find security in the reputable activities, but the disreputable members who drop out go to other communities with other standards and codes which causes conflict among them. This conflict, stated the speaker, should be resolved by the members who abide by written law. The prisons exist for the punishment of the disreputable members who cause the conflict, and for the protection of the reputable members, Mr. Huff added.

"But we must remember that

Continued on page two

Students Ask For Peculiar Library Books

Reserve Room Workers Have Hard Life, Writer Finds

The life of a librarian is hard indeed—particularly in the reserve room.

On Saturday afternoons students, in the fond hope of checking in gout very popular books for the week-end, skid into the reserve room on one ear and by some miracle, land in an upright position, panting, before the desk.

Still munching on her dessert so rudely taken from its native haunt, the dining hall, one girl, who has been assigned Ibsen's Wild Duck, asks excitedly for Ibsen's Lame Duck, or White Duck or Ugly Duckling. On being informed that the book's title is Wild Duck she smiles sweetly and says, "Oh, I guess I got the wrong name."

One flustered girl asks for a book by Smith. "Now let's see—I can't remember the name of that book—but you should know. It's by Mr Smith, or maybe it was Miss Smith—Smith anyway."

A freshman saunters up to the desk and demands a book about a fountain. "No, I don't know the author's name but the book is something about a fountain. It's for English." And said freshman becomes quite impatient when, after a search the student librarian returns with no book, after a weary search in the stacks.

A student goes to the desk, asks for a book entitled Candy Jar, and expects the librarian to know that she wants the book Candida.

Very often, in the reserve room, five or ten students wait in line grimly, for a book on which a test is to be given the following day and at 9 p. m. there is practically a revolution to determine who is to check the book out for the night.

At one minute past nine on school mornings there may be heard resounding through the vast emptiness of the lower floor of the library the echo of a veritable stampede — girls returning books, supposedly before 9 a m

In extreme cases one may see several girls at one table huddled pathetically over one threadbare book furiously thumbing pages

Continued on page two

Journalism Class Will Edit Paper

Seventh Annual Edition Put Out by Students

Following a precedent established by preceding classes in journalism the members of the department of journalism will edit the Sunday edition of the Daily Democrat. This edition will be the seventh annual one published by the students of Florida State College for Women.

Students serving on the paper will be, Ruth Persons, editor; Althea Smith, associate editor; Gertrude Kuhn, managing editor; Hazel Bowman, city editor; Martha Baker, telegraph desk; Eleanor Williams, Arline Lockhart, Grace Mary Webster, and Virginia Early, copy desk; Elaine Klepper, sports editor; Margaret Claire Lafferty, society editor.

Reporters will be, Caroline Adams, Minna Agress, Eloise Andrews, Ella Brooks, Marguerite Brown, Marion Conn, Margie Creel, Sarah Beth Davis, Margaret Duncan, Sylvia Feiga, Evelyn Fisher, Mary J. Gallemore, Ethel Grassfield, Patricia Hamilton, Frances Hartley, Barbara Holmes, Billie Hotard, Eleanor Jenkins, Mary Lynn Massie, Dorothy Olmstead, Clotilde O'Rourke, Nan O'Shaughnessey, Jane Quinn, Mildred Sampson, Sarah Sealey, Pearle Shepard Elizabeth H Turner, and Jewel Turner.

New Plan Will Be Offered To Student Body

Sophomore Council Will Replace Old Cabinet And Commission

FORTY FRESHMEN WILL BE TAPPED

Small Routine Duties Of Present Groups Will Be Discontinued

The tapping of forty members of the freshman class for a new organization which will combine the present groups of freshman commission and freshman cabinet under the new heading of the sophomore council will take place some time in the near future provided that the new plan is passed by the college council and the student body.

The new organization which has recently been established by the executive council of the College Government association, the cabinet of Y. W. C. A. and approved by both freshman commission and freshman cabinet, will not abolish the principles of either cabinet or commission. It has been established with the purpose of combining the best and highest aims of each group.

Campus Service Group

In recognizing that the group should be, in the main, a training group for service to the campus, part of the plan for the new group will seek to do away with many of the smaller routine duties of the present groups in order that they may be replaced with broader projects.

The general purpose of the group will be to link the sophomore class with the rest of the campus as a whole and to help carry out well rounded programs of campus activity.

Choice of Members

In choosing the members of the new organization which will be from the incoming sophomore class, several lists will be considered. For the first time a freshman straw vote will be taken to determine what forty girls the freshman class itself thinks worthy of the responsibilities of the office. Other lists from the personnel office, the social directors, the dean of students, judiciary, the freshmen advisers, freshman commission and freshman cabinet will be added to the freshman vote and the total list will be considered by the executive council which exercises the right of final approval. The qualifications for membership will be scholarship, leadership and service.

Style Authority Discusses Dress

Requirements of Designer Considered in Talk By Expert

Miss Rosina McDowell Lynn, one of the foremost authorities on style in America and an expert fashion consultant, spoke to the Florida State College students Wednesday night on "Designing As a Career."

She discussed the requirements of a designer, bringing out the fact that they must know and be familiar with the history of styles during all past periods.

"The Oriental trend of styles this year flatters the slender girl, but is disastrous to those with big hips or chubby figures," Miss Lynn pointed out as she displayed a few of the latest styles in dress. From these we noticed the Spanish and Oriental influence of tunics, sashes and high necks. Straight lines are good now and a mannish tailored suit will probably be good for the next three years. Miss Lynn herself wore a black and white checked tailored suit, topped off by a blocked jockey felt hat, and carried a huge bag.

Printed silks with dark background and light figures blues and polka dots are good every spring. Light weight three piece suits are also popular. Short sleeves are being worn sooner than ever before this spring and the arms are being covered with capes and short jackets. Short skirts are also receiving favor once again.

Styles do not change gradually according to Miss Lynn, but only the cheaper models and fads

Continued on page two

McKay Wins Presidency By Majority Vote Of 402

Results of Final Ballot

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL OF C. G. A.
President
Mary Jeanne McKay	827
Sue Whitaker	425
Chairman Judiciary
Martha Makemson	706
Mary Miller	531
Freshman Advisor
Josephine Binion	718
Edith Manford	504
Treasurer
Betty Mack	582
Marie Taylor	674
First Vice President
Mickey Conn	662
Betty Ostlund	579
Second Vice President
Dorothea Marsh	340
Marjorie Raulerson	890
Secretary
Becky Ashton	580
Winifred Ewart	650
FLAMBEAU
Editor-in-Chief
Hazel Bowman	736
Eleanor Williams	482
Business Manager
Lily McGuire	588
Clotilde O'Rourke	504
FLASTACOWO
Editor-in-Chief
Frances Forth	808
Marjorie Tillis	381
Business Manager
Julia Vanderipe	707
Elizabeth Korst	330
DISTAFF
Editor-in-Chief
Daisy Parker	697
Martha Baker	480
Business Manager
Alma Butler	597
Madge Glenn	508

Makemson Defeats Miller To Be New Chairman Of Judiciary

BALLOT STATISTICS SHOW 1182 VOTED

Bowman, Parker, Forth Will Be Editors-in-Chief Of Publications

Mary Jeanne McKay and Martha Makemson were elected to the two highest positions in the College Government association in the final vote of the student body Thursday.

In the other College Government elections Jo Binion was elected as freshman adviser defeating Edith Manford. Marie Taylor received the position of treasurer against Betty Mack, and in the race for the vice-presidents of the organization Mickey Conn was elected to the office of first vice president defeating Betty Ostlund, and Marjorie Raulerson was selected for the position of second vice-president. Winifred Ewart won the position of secretary to the College Government association over Becky Ashton.

Bowman to Edit Flambeau

In the election of publications editors Hazel Bowman was named editor of the Flambeau; Daisy Parker was elected editor of the Distaff; and Frances Forth was selected to head the Flastacowo. Their opponents were, Eleanor Williams, Martha Baker and Marjorie Tillis, respectively.

Business managers of the publications were elected as follows: Flambeau, Lilly McGuire,; Distaff, Alma Butler, and Flastacowo, Julia Vanderipe. Their opponents were, Clotilde O'Rourke, Madge Glenn, and Elizabeth Korst.

This year's elections inaugurate for the first time on the campus an "Open Election System." Beginning with nominations last Thursday in convocation the entire procedure of elections has been changed in order that the student body as a whole might have a better opportunity of knowing the candidates for office.

Candidates Are Presented

Tuesday's convocation was taken up with the presentation of

Continued on page two

"Has Science Found God?"

Deviney Leads Informal Group Meeting Last Night on Subject

Dr. Ezda Deviney presented an informal talk on the subject of "Has Science Discovered God" last night in Jennie Murphree parlour.

In opening her talk, Dr. Deviney told her audience that not much of the following would be her own opinion, as she was quoting almost entirely from three eminent scientists in regard to their views. The book used as a reference was one by Edward H. Cotton, and Dr. Deviney urged all to read it.

"All of us are curious as to the meaning of life and the universe in connection with ourselves. We desire to learn its purpose and its mysteries. The business of science," said Dr. Deviney, "is to discover the facts, and it is the business of religion to realize the interpretation." Religion has not explained the theory of God, for they have tried to create Him in three dimensions. But science is a search for reality, and thus a search for God.

The first man to be quoted by Dr. Deviney was Edward G. Conklin of Princeton university. "There is no real conflict between science and religion, for they deal with entirely different phases of life. The aim for the first is to understand and control natural phenomena, while the aim of religion is love, faith and hope." The greatest conflict, according to Mr. Conklin, comes from those people who believe that the Bible is a divine revelation of nature as well as the Supreme Being. Natura itself, the order of the universe, proves God. Another quotation from this same source was "The real dignity of man consists not in his origin, but in what he may become."

Curtley Mather of Harvard university, quoted by Dr Deviney, stated that science does not sanction a religion that is based on the past. It must be constantly seeking newer and better phases of life. As in science, there must be some standard of evaluation, and in religion, this standard is Jesus. The worth of this standard can not be proved by any process of logic, but can be justified only by putting it to a practical test, and we are in the midst of this experiment at the present time. Is the Christian way of living the best? The only answer is, try it and see

The last man to be quoted by Dr. Deviney was Robert Milliken of California Tech. "There are two essentials of religion. The first is inspiring mankind with concern for common good and the second is to live the Golden Rule. Science must determine what is for the common good." The keynote of both Jesus and Science is service and the joy and satisfaction of service. Concerning the individual, science has added nor subtracted nothing but that na-

Continued on page six

Turkish Habits Are Considered

Pay Day is Set Aside At Monthly Meeting Of Home Ec Club

At the regular monthly meeting of the Home Economics club on Tuesday, Louise D Johnson spoke on the habits of the Turkish people, and Helen Wahlburg discussed the foods of the Turkish people.

At the business meeting, Thursday was set aside for "pay day" in order that the members might make a special effort to catch up with their back dues. Edith Manford was appointed chairman of the committee.

The club received a special invitation from Miss Anna May Tracy to attend the Florida State Dietetic association meet Saturday, March 21.

At the next meeting Mrs. Ester B. Ferguson, assistant social director in Reynolds hall, who has lived in Turkey will continue the discussion on this race.

Those attending were Martha Williams, Syrena Stockbridge, Gladys Harvard, Mary Catherine Coody, Hazel Myrick, Clara Bell Trible, Jean Gillies, Kathleen Owens, Ellen McLeod, Betty Anderson, Shirley Stevens, Katherine Jittman, Alta Vann, Louise Fitzpatrick, Mary Burgoon, Mary Elizabeth Stevenson, Elise Barrett, Katherine Trobough, Mabry Sumer, Opal Walker, Elizabeth Lounds, Sara Nance, Louise D. Johnson, Marjorie Beach, Leona Rehninder Carlot Cubillas, Clara Langford, Virginia Pinney, Sarah Tweed, Irene Day, Mary L. Hoenshel, Constence Windham, Jean Willis, Virginia Duke, Miriam Blaisdell, Edith Hobson, Catherine Fox, Gwendolan Adair, H[illegible] Wahlberg, Welma Sumlock, F[illegible]ence Wagner, Dot White, Margaret Walcott, Mary Ja[illegible] F[illegible], Julia Harris, Betty Wad[illegible], Anna Louise Polle, M[illegible] [illegible], Margaret M[illegible] and Edna Mae McIntosh, at[illegible]

Tin Strongbox With Glamour Of Old Age Reveals History

Uncovered Corner Stone Shows Rules, Pictures, Catalogues of Florida State College For Women in Infancy

It's just an old tin strongbox, but there's a story inside.

It's a story about the baby Florida State College for Women, back in 1910. This was the year the cornerstone of the Administration building was laid. When the north side of the building was torn down, the cornerstone went with it, but not before this precious little box with its relics was removed.

Musty and in a state of poor preservation, certain printed material is still clearly legible and that written in ink is fairly readable. Some of the paper is finely pulverized or is very delicate and must be handled carefully lest it dissolve in one's hands.

The first thing that came out of the box was a list of the students in the college, each student having signed her name in ink, 196 in all. Affixed to the bottom of this list in a little-girl hand is the name of Elizabeth Conradi, daughter of the then new president, Edward O. Conradi.

Then there's the list of faculty and as the page is scanned several

Continued on page two

Balcony Forms Ringside Seat For Spectators

Pledges at Panhellenic Dance View Methods Of Struggle

The gym is a gay scene of colorful, dancing forms, of evening skirts and stiff shirt-fronts. It is the night of the Panhellenic dance. The band beats out a tantalizing tune, with the inimitable rhythm of the "Florida Clubmen."

Every foot is tapping in time to the music, but some of them, alas! are tapping with the reserved authority that they can't get out on the dance floor and hoof it. Wallflowers? We'll, something like that. Look up and above the large wooden imitations of sorority pins that adorn the balcony rail you will see a line of eager faces, hanging over the rail to watch the crowd below. The are the pledges, who can't go to the dance but who can perch on the balcony rail and get a kick out of watching.

They are who is rushing whom, who is stuck with somebody else's date and making frantic faces, who is getting a rush and who isn't. In their position, they feel like the fortune-teller who "sees all, knows all." They are the birds watching the war through the mob looking for "that tall man that's such a marvelous dancer." They catch themselves just in time to keep from yelling to tell her where he is.

From their lofty height, the wide-eyed pledges can see all the fancy dances, and they size them up ruthlessly. The hopper, the glider, the shuffler, the clasper, the Tangoer, the leaper, and the man who stands in one place and beats time with his feet while his partner balances on her toes—they all have "cracks" made about them which keep the "gallery" amused.

It's not all fun sitting in the balcony, however, especially when the pledge sees that blonde making a play for her chosen idol. She sits with a cold, doubtful look on her face as she watches the blonde pulling her "line" with many boneyed words and cloying smiles, and mutters the oft-repeated "How in the world can he swallow that stuff!"

At intermission, the watchers can get a full and unobstructed view of the floor show. The best part about it is the balcony though, is avoiding the dense crush at the floor-room when the last program dance is over.

Huff Explains Federal Parole in Recent Talk

Continued from page one

some day the prisoners who go into the world to return to the outside world of reputable citizens, and if we are to secure protection from the temporary criminals deased from prison, we must realize that he will be back to it as an enemy or as a friend, stated the lecturer.

The criminal undergoes a correctional process in the prison, but his family are nothing but a suffering worse than his for they become outcasts of society. The law did not specify this, but it is the natural effect upon the prisoners' families. It may be best from society's present point of view, but if it is, the representative members of the community will not be doing right in denying the family the support and maintain its reputable position."

"It is characteristic that the ostracized members of society will find health, comfort, and life with those who will receive them. Prisoners go out from prison and find the group with which they can find comfort. This process offers promise. The prison situation is in sufficient place. The process includes both the prisoners' families and their relatives as the entire group is needed, a group to 'service' the family while the man is imprisoned."

Mr. Huff added that parole played a great part here.

"Parole means supervision after release, but to be effective in the public interest it must begin at the time the prisoner is sentenced and be active in the community with the prisoner's family throughout his imprisonment. The second vice-president displace the disreputable associates of the family and to substitute reputable associates. It is to provide employment and suitable people for the family and to help them keep their standards. There is no other effective way to provide support for them to live in harmony with their fellows."

A field officer who becomes a representative of the state takes the responsibility of seeing that the things that are necessary to help the family maintain its standard. This consists mainly of interest and companionship of reputable citizens, particularly of the parole officer. Facilities of correction and help should be given to meet exactly the needs of the prisoner and assist the field officer in preparing the community for his release. Neighborly interest provides protection and assurance of the survival of reputableness of the man and his family after his release, said Mr. Huff.

Mr. Huff stated that in the case of parole violators, the parole is being taken to advance this philosophy. Many educational, social, psychiatric, psychological, and industrial services are being used for the best of the individuals. In the typical prisons of today physical and mental examinations are restricted, but the progressive prisons are getting away from that practice, the lecturer added.

Mr. Huff concluded his lecture saying, "Crime is the consequence of the inability of groups of people to live as reputable citizens. Prison is an area of retreat in which we come and go quickly. In the evening dresses, one first detects the change of style, which if well inked is modified into other models.

STYLE AUTHORITY DISCUSSES DRESS

Continued from page one

A graduate of Barnard college, Miss Lynn pursued specialized studies in Europe supplemented by graduate work in fine arts at New York university. She has engaged in extensive research in comparative art and costume design, and her wide study and practical experience in the fashion industry have made her an authority on this subject.

Campus Vote Statistics

	No. Stude.	Prim. Voting	Ballot Cent	Gen. Voting	Election Per Cent
Alpha Chi Omega	15	14	93.3	14	93.3
Alpha Delta Pi	20	15	75.0	16	80
Alpha Gamma Delta	20	17	85.0	19	95
A. O. Pi	13	6	46.1	12	92.3
Alpha Xi Delta	14	11	78.6	14	87.5
Beta Phi Alpha	8	2	25.0	5	62.5
Chi Omega	22	21	95.4	19	86.4
Tr. Delta	21	20	95.2	21	100
Delta Phi Epsilon	7	4	57.1	4	55.5
Delta Zeta	5	0	0.0	1	20
K. A. T.	18	15	83.3	8	44.4
Kappa Delta	22	14	63.6	22	100
Phi Mu	10	5	50.0	7	70
Pi Beta Phi	21	15	71.4	18	85.5
Sigma Kappa	25	6	24.0	13	52
Theta U	3	2	33.3	3	99.8
Z. T. A.	15	10	66.6	14	93.3
Gilles Residence	4	1	25	1	25
Jinks Residence	21	0	0.0	0	0.0
Campaside (Lloyd)	21	10	47.6	19	90.5
Middlebrooks	6	2	33.3	3	50
Broward	199	104	47.5	132	63
Bryan	138	85	64.4	118	85.5
Jillehrist	276	189	68.3	233	84.4
Jennie Murphree	306	222	72.5	265	86.4
Reynolds	204	143	70.0	143	70
Day Students	180	16	8.8	52	28.8
TOTAL	1549	951	61.4	1382	76.3

McKay Wins Presidency By Majority Vote of 402

Continued from page one

the candidates that were to appear on the primary ballots in the nominating procedure nominations for the president of C. O. A., chairman of judiciary and freshman advisor were brought down finally to two people this office were not voted on in the primary elections. Names appearing on the primary ballots were: treasurer of C. O. A., Margaret Claire Lafferty, Bertha Mack, Marie Taylor. For first vice-president, Marion Conn, Marjorie Horton, and Sarah Stevenson. For second vice-president, Phil Asher, Jean Duncan. Doris Mae Hall, Marjorie Hall Powell. For secretary to C. O. A., Evelyn Anderson, Rebecca Alston, Winifred Ewart, Jean Gillies, Betty Harrison, Mary Anne Hart, and Betty Reich. Primary elections were run off Tuesday afternoon.

State Politics

In the student body meeting on Thursday candidates for the five offices in the history of the college were called upon to state their policies in speech to the student body. Candidates for the offices of president of C. O. A., chairman of judiciary, freshman adviser, and the editors of publications, have been chosen and were questioned by members of the student body. Other candidates for office included in Thursday's vote were presented to the student body.

The election of Y. W. C. A. officials, minor college government officials and officers of the athletic association, will take place Tuesday. Some of the candidates for the offices have been presented to the student body in convocation.

Those who run for three offices in the Y. W. C. A. are as follows: president, Mary Ann Hart and Nan Norris; vice-president, Kathryn Todd and Margaret Stout; secretary, Janie Gillemore and Sarah Graham; treasurer, Martha Lester and Sara Nance.

Earl Chapin May, Wife Relate Imaginative Travel Visit Mendenhall Here

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Chapin May, well known writers for such magazines as the Saturday Evening Post, Good Housekeeping, and others, stopped off in Tallahassee last night to visit Herbert D. Mendenhall, resident engineer of Florida State College for Women, who is an old friend of theirs. Mendenhall hasn't seen the two, since 1911. He knew them then as they lived in Lakeland where Mr. May was editor of the Lakeland Auburndale Herald, and again in Jacksonville.

The Mays are on a coast-to-coast motor tour studying the production, processing and distribution of food.

Earl Chapin May is the author of several books including, "2,000 Miles Through Chile"; "The Circus, From Rome to Ringling"; and "The Prairie Parade." He is a former reporter for the Minneapolis Journal and has served as a publicity man. He has written articles in the Saturday Evening Post, Collier's, Country Gentleman, Popular Mechanics, and many other magazines. His wife, Stella Burke May, has written articles for Good Housekeeping.

Gay Nineties Setting To Be Used in Senior Play by Oscar Wilde

The atmosphere of the Gay Nineties will be carried out in the stage setting and the costumes for the senior play, "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde, Sara Hosea, stage manager, announced. The play will be given Thursday and Friday nights, April 2 and 3.

There will be three different scenes, a living room, garden and woman's club scene. Gertrude Parks, Betty Peck and Betty Ruth Ware will be in charge of these sets. Vivian Marshall is in charge of the furniture committee, while Gwendolyn Adair is costume chairman. The entire stage craft class is assisting with the stage work.

Miss Henrietta Ruth Shyrer, assistant professor of textiles and clothing, and Miss Helen A. Thrush, instructor of dress are assisting in costumes and staging.

Those who are attending rehearsals, under the direction of Miss Kemper Moore, are Kenneth Williams, Julian Alford, Clyde Gregory, Marjorie Harris, Betty Loggs, Eleanor Jenkins, Evelyn Collins and Pat Glives. Bernice Krentzman is general chairman.

Students Turn Out For Fire

"Maybe it's Reynolds!" "With my luck, my one spring dress burns first! . . ." "It's getting bigger!" "Come on. . . ." —And the students who had just stepped out of the History building after the lecture Wednesday evening, were off in the night to see what the orange glare in the north sky meant.

"To Belgium—where we can all see," said a small girl as she bit into a hoecake which was obstructing her view. Several night-robed figures slunk from doorways and joined the mob.

A veritable mass of student body finally came to a shuddering halt in Belgium. They peered, and still could not recognize the flaming ruin—the far-away glow. They asked somebody.

"That place? Oh, just a house." "House, hell! WHO GOT ME OUT OF BED?"

Grades to Be Abolished On Mid - Semester

Continued from page one

further by adding another ranking for the better student, that of "high pass" or for some cases "merit." The latter is used at Agnes and Goucher college sends out "pass" and "fail" but prefer the student has graduated on "high pass" or "merit" because's office if her work was given "credit." In Oberlin classes the students are given grades according to their knowledge and ability. The best student is classed as number one and the worst fails at the bottom of the list.

Not Eliminated Entirely

In all of these schools which employ systems of this sort, Dr. Montgomery says, grades are not completely done away with, for in the registrar's office the grades are kept and used. They also take care of the provisions needed to be made for graduate study for honorary societies and for references demanded by certain schools.

Members of the grading committee have been doing research work along this line as Dr. Mark DeGraff, professor of education; Dr. Frederick Ahlgren, professor of history; Dr. Paul P. Pinner, professor of psychology and Dorothy F. Becker, associate professor of geography, and Dr. Stevenson.

Speech and Smiles Show Besides Spring

Continued from page one

this excellent opportunity to study mob psychology and the art of mocking eye, the whimsical smile, and analyzing the mind. Others are regarded coldly, however, by the "cold stare" and the "cool eye" all psychology as "nuts" anyway and regard this latest development as a huge joke.

But the little lady who most typifies the spirit of the week is born "politicker." It is her idea of a thrill to wear her shoe leather out politicking for the candidate she is backing. She goes to the "Big Boss" and asks how and she walks the rope of public opinion. If she has been born in a circus, she does not. Conditions she will probably wire mama —"Mary was good fend doctor's excuse for me to come home stop I am exhausted."

Piano Students Compete

Superintendent Kican of the Bainbridge City schools will bring his band and glee club here to have a contest with music students of this school Friday in the auditorium on Wednesday afternoon, March 25.

Dean Ella Scoble Opperman of the school of music is providing three judges for the occasion.

Dr. White Will Conduct Open Forum Next At Ruge Hall Next Sunday

Dr. Sara P. White will lead an open forum on the subject of "The Three Questions" this Sunday in Ruge hall at 5:15 p. m. Anyone interested in this subject is urged to attend the meeting.

Dr. A. F. Liddell will continue her classes on the study of the Bible Sunday morning, March 22, at 10 o'clock to which everyone is invited. At 6:30 that evening the regular weekly waffle supper is held, and anyone having reservations may obtain them by telephoning 893-W.

The student choir under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Bryant has scheduled to practice hymns Monday afternoon, which are to be sung for Holy Week during Easter.

The weekly confirmation class will hold its meeting Tuesday afternoon March 24, from 6 to 6:30 in the cottage under the direction of Rev. W. J. Affriend.

At 7:15 a. m. on Friday, March 27, the annual Holy Week communion will take place in Ruge hall to which everyone is invited.

Students Ask For Peculiar Library Books

Continued from page one

and dog books. Many planes cast at the clock by these girls are not the glances of clock watchers but rather they are looks of tearful glances of girls whose dates have failed to appear. Material is not covered in fifteen or twenty-five minutes.

And in the last minute rushes for books, how complacent is the look of the librarian as assignments the day on which it was assigned.

Tin Strongbox Of Old Age Reveals History

Continued from page one

familiar names strike the eye Reading the list of names Miss Conradi, president. Then there's Arthur Williams, professor of poultry husbandry, Clarence Nelson L. S. Barber, professor of agronomy and geology; Miss Rowena Longmire is instructor in English in the normal school; J. O. Kellum is the business manager and secretary of the Board of Control. Added to these names is a copy of the Tallesman, college magazine.

It's the kids' names, number and in its pages are all sorts of news about the college. Under the athletic notes is found names like "Prickles Pears" and "Nettles," these being basketball teams, belong to opposes each other in a contest.

About the Young Woman's Christian association, a rising and energetic organization is found an article which began "though invisibility at present, they cannot be seen so much good in the work of this organization still we hope that the good seed sown will spring up and bring forth much fruit in time to come." The association should be the strongest one connected with the college and we hope it will be in the near-by-near future.

Also found in the box is a list of the co-eds not responsible for any social infringement by the co-operation of all the students, together with that of members of the faculty. Let us all earnestly toward that end." Little did these students realize that their efforts would be so far-reaching.

Vespers were announced and then there was a joke to which Dr. Smith's name gives full credit for saying. Mr. Smith in class—"Well, the Bible verse has passed and I am still waiting for the resurrection of this class."

The Minerva club, given space in this number, had its yell printed, as well—"We are it, so we are, Minerva, Minerva, rah, rah, rah." The society was a literary institution. There was a picture in the magazine but the caption had been effaced and only the heads of boys and girls were distinguishable.

Other things in the box were a

Camp Arrangements To Be Made Friday

Miss Maude Flowers has requested that all students planning to go to Camp Flastacowa for the week-end make complete arrangements before 11:30 o'clock on Friday. In order to facilitate matters this should be done whether the group is leaving Friday or Saturday.

history of the college by A. A. Murphree, first president of the institution with a few supplementary statements by Dr. Edward Conradi, bringing the history down to March 1, 1910. A copy of Tallahassee The Trus Democrat, a five-column paper, was also in the box, along with a memorandum of the early history of the predecessors of P. K. C. W., a number of school laws, a catalogue of the University of Florida, and a list of the names of persons who contributed to the box.

Mr. Kellum, striking broadly over his ballooned head and bodice, was surrounded by an audience of at least eight from his own organization, and many students not a faculty audience who happened to be passing at this time and were attracted by the unusual commotion from that office.

YWCA to Hold First Retreat March 20 to 22

Continued from page one

open forum with the council for general discussion, following which the designation will adjourn.

Sunday night a vesper service will be led by Mrs. Bryant in the culminating phase in the school's study of Africa. The concluding portion of the previous programs to be of unusual interest, for at that time Mrs. Mary West will speak and Roy Tew will sing.

The principal speakers for the retreat will be Dr. and Mrs. Wm. of New York. Having been for thirty years as foreign missionaries and having spent a great influence through the formation of the Student Volunteer Movement in New York, Dr. and Mrs. West will, it is felt, have a most inspiring message for students.

Retreat Committees

Various committees have been appointed to deal with the technical details involved in making the retreat a success. Chief of these are the entertainment committee, with Frances Lewis, Lewis Ewart Stout, and Carol Ramsey and the food committee, eliminating Mary Ann Hart, Virginia White, and Kathryn Todd.

Other committees for the occasion are Dr. Bellamy, Dr. Liddell, Marie Taylor, Other members of the Executive council will also assist in the activities of the Retreat, Margaret Claire Lafferty, Dr. Henry Becker, Miss Elizabeth Lyna, Dr. Elisabeth Andrews, Dr. Sara White, Miss Sara Sarah Thomason, and Miss Lillian Crow.

The following students will serve as delegates from F. S. C. W.: Martha Masterson, Lewis, Virginia White, Martha Lester, Kathryn Todd, Carol Ramsey, Lewis Ewart, Gladys Crow, Bernice Oliver, Elizabeth Kirkland, Helen Ann Hall, Frances McKay, Daisy Parker, Beverly Bennett, Ruth Hubbard, Jane Hubbard, Margaret Claire Lafferty, Lottie Kemper, Maurie Lissen, Mary Graham, Jeanette Bertin, Betty Hatch, Betty White, Winifred Ewart, Florence Bottari, Katherine Aubrey Ruth Hendrickson, Betty Wynn, Sarah Seidenberg, Mary Ann Hart, Nan Norris, Sarah Hethcox, and Dora Helen Bagnott.

Kellum Receives Bubble, Balloon

"They say that there is no fun on using a bubble and fan.

If this be true

We suppose that you

Use these the very best you can."

This note with six beautifully colored balloons and a bubble set was presented to Mr. John Calvin Kellum by his office force Thursday morning just before he left for Orlando, Florida State College week, at the Lions Club luncheon at which Miss Sally Rand also was present.

Mr. Kellum, striking broadly over his ballooned head and bodice, was surrounded by an audience of at least eight from his own organization, and many students not a faculty audience who happened to be passing at this time and were attracted by the unusual commotion from that office.

PHOENIX HOSIERY ANNOUNCES

New Colors

. . in Harmony with SPRING

To Nature herself—the "Perfect Colorist"—PHOENIX for new Spring Shades. Now we present . . . Earth, Brush, Briar, and Twig are the names . . . in both name and character they are in harmony with . . . in tune with Fashion's newest colors. Lingerie Shades at

79c $1.00 $1.15

See those PHOENIX "Back-to-Nature" colors . . . with Custom-Fit Top, All-Over Tipt-Toe, Reinforced Sole, Duo-Heel, Duo-Seam, Extra-Mileage Foot, Anchor Lock Stitch and other exclusive Phoenix features. . . . Ask about selecting the proper hose for the occasion by Thread-Weight.

LINDEN'S Fashion Shoppe

Wear A DIONNE SANDAL
in the
EASTER PARADE

This Spring will see the greatest galaxy of color and style in footwear ever . . .
The Dionne Sandal offers new and attractive style in many dashing colors.

Golden Yellow
Foam Green
Bleu Soiree
Mexican Red
Fog Grey
White or dyed any color you wish . . . . . .

$1.95 to $2.95

THE FRENCH SHOP

STATE THEATRE
—FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—
SYLVIA SIDNEY AND HENRY FONDA
in
"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine"
—SUNDAY AND MONDAY—
GLADYS SWARTHOUT
in
"GIVE ME THIS NIGHT"
(Transferred to Ritz Tuesday and Wednesday)
—TUESDAY—
PRESTON FOSTER in "MUSS 'EM UP"
—WEDNESDAY—
EDMUND LOWE
in
"THE GORDON MURDER CASE"
—THURSDAY—
ANN HARDING & HERBERT MARSHALL
in
"THE LADY CONSENTS"
—FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—
SHIRLEY TEMPLE in "CAPTAIN JANUARY"

Camp Arrangements To Be Made Friday

Miss Maude Flowers has requested that all students planning to go to Camp Flastacowa for the week-end make complete arrangements before 11:30 o'clock on Friday. In order to facilitate matters this should be done whether the group is leaving Friday or Saturday.

Select Your
EASTER DRESS AND HAT NOW!
A Small Deposit Will Hold It!
Dresses
$1.95 to $10.90
Hats
$1.95 AND $2.95
THE LADIES' SHOP
"Where Styles are Shown First for Less"
Next to State Theatre

At Bennett's Soda Dept.
SATURDAY AND SUNDAY LUNCHEON
25c and 35c
ROAST YOUNG MILK-FED TURKEY AND DRESSING WITH GIBLET GRAVY
WESTERN TENDERLOIN STEAK WITH STEAM RICE
Sliced Pineapple and Grated Cheese Salad, Buttered Peas, Creamed Potatoes, Marshmallow Yams, Graham Muffins, Chocolate Pie or Ice Cream for Dessert,
Special Cold Plate—25c
Potato Salad, Barbecue Pork Ham, Lettuce and Tomatoes, Olives, Sweet Pickles, Sulphured and Sy. Drink.
Deviled Ham Sandwich, Choc. Milk with Ice Cream 15c
Chicken Salad Sandwich, Fresh Orangeade 15c
Baked Ham and Tomato Sandwich, Jumbo Choc. Frosted 25c
Double Dip Ice Cream Soda with Fresh Pineapple Fruit 10c
Butterscotch Nut Fudge Sundae, Whip Cream 10c

Candy Kitchen Is Setting For Many Activities

...ffee is Most Popular Among Frequenters Of This Room

"The toast is burning!" . . . "Hell this taffy's hot!" . . . "Who's got some more coffee?" . . . "Oh, right on my new pa... . . . 'Who's got the ...?" . . . "Where's the pot-...?"

Such exclamations intermingled in noises peculiar to kitchens recently float from the candy kitchen in nearby Bungry Hollow. Although originally intended for the making of candy, the basic candy kitchens now become periodically breakfast nooks, tea rooms, drug-store dining-rooms or, if end back yards, with suitable food to match.

Coffee is the favorite product of the candy kitchens, principally because it suits so many tastes. Big boxes from home and ...ver-candy-of-the-month are ...ways better with coffee. The many dons a rushing business when we're in a party-mood, and no one can't imagine how good coffee is with brownies" 15 or ...re used pounds and pounds of ...dive in the candy kitchens this ...ar, against one candy-kitchen ...own. During exams several ...ne-dunder coffees were held ...n the candy kitchens. Not only ...ulve food with boxes of food ...m home and cakes from the ...ores, but it keeps "exam-crams" awake—for a little while ...gway! Bring your own cup" ...as the only requirement on the ...vitations with the words that ...e kitchen looked like a munic...pal dime store!

Home-made candy is without ...ubt the best, and expert candy ...kers just can't keep away from ...e kitchens. And they tempt ...e odor of candy with: it is ...aking! A very thoughtful—and ...mewhat forgetful—roommate ...ently attempted to make some ...ndy for her roommate who was ...uffering. But I never get any ...ld the studious roommate "because some girls drifted in while ...e was making it and she just ...ad to pass it around!" One ...ndy kitchen recently was the ...ene of a taffy-pull. The taffy was good, but the results of making it were somewhat disastrous, for both the girls and the kitchen were rather thoroughly decorated with taffy. A few nights later another group popped pop-corn, a less messy operation, but there was pop-corn in the kitchen for days. How fortunate it was that the two groups didn't combine!

The ovens in the kitchens are perhaps the most used. Excellent for "toast," admitted a dining-room-sewing-up for eats-dwelling-house-cleaning-for eats-bawling-out-and-butler, if you can get the scent out before it burns." The odors of all the bread-and-sewing-up that has been to have toast for late lunches and breakfasts!

According to all reports of the candy kitchens there are just two drawbacks to usage them. We always have to clean up our things, and we never can stay up late enough at a time. If it wasn't for classes and lights-out of a taffy-pull. The taffy-pulling always starts about 1:30 a. m. and the candy kitchens are just two hours from the dorm. Oh, well, we always have to clean up our things, and we never can stay up late enough at a time. If it wasn't for classes and lights-out of a taffy-pull. The taffy-pulling always starts about 1:30 a. m. and the candy kitchens are just two hours from the dorm.

Nominees State Policies

President of YWCA

In my mind the Young Women's Christian association is an organization that should offer opportunities to our students for spiritual development. I believe that this office is worthy of more time and effort than any other office on our campus. I would be more than honored with an opportunity to serve in the capacity of its president.

—Janee Borton

The duties of the vice-president of Y. W. C. A. in the comma year will be mainly to know and to work among all students of the freshman class. Unquestionably there is a definite place on our campus for this organization. If I am elected to this office it shall be my purpose to fulfil the obligations involved as capably as it is possible for me to do so.

—Margaret Stout.

Secretary

If elected secretary of the Young Woman's Christian association of this college I shall faithfully execute those duties which will be mine in connection with this office.

—Janie Gullemore

As secretary of Y. W. C. A. if elected, I shall endeavor to fulfill the duties and obligations of the office to the best of my ability. I shall work towards making the influence of Y. W. C. A. felt in every woman and I shall cooperate with executive cabinet in every way.

—Sarah Graham

Treasurer

I, Martha Lester, by accepting the nomination of treasurer of Y. W. C. A. will endeavor with all my heart to live up to the standards of this office, and I will work earnestly and sincerely to prove my requirements by keeping accurate and complete books.

—Martha Lester

If elected to the office of treasurer of Y. W. C. A. on 6th campus I promise to perform my duties faithfully and to the best of my ability, striving in all ways possible to better this organization and make it a helpful factor in this part of our college life.

—Bess Nance

Music Students Give Wednesday Afternoon Recital in Auditorium

Students of the school of music presented their weekly recital in the college auditorium Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 p. m. All students and the public are invited to attend these recitals.

The program Wednesday afternoon was as follows:

Allegro from Sonata Op. 7, No. 3 ..... Grieg
Hazel Hinsey

Singing Fountains ..... Niemann
Martha Lee Williams

Impromptu, C sharp minor ..... Reinhold
Louise Bowery

Organ, Prelude and Fuge in G minor ..... Bach
Jessie Jane Mackay

Organ, Andante, Strainer, Funiculia ..... Buenzer
Mary Lea Wheeler

Ballade, Op. 118, No. 3, Brahms
Catherine Gray Pinner

Polonaise, Op. 40, No. 1, Chopin
Isabelle Sands

Violin, Ballade, G minor ..... Vieuxtemps
Anabelle Larsen

Songs, L'Heure Exquise, Poldowski; Gallala ..... Sibella
Concerto, B flat minor, Andante con troppo e molto maestoso, Orchestral part on second piano ..... Tschaikowsky
Virginia Long

Eighteen Are Entered In Tennis Tournament

The first rounds of the faculty-student tennis tournament will be played off Saturday morning, beginning at ten o'clock.

Those entered in the tournament are, Evelyn Fisher and Miss Elisabeth Lyon; Evelyn Glaster and Miss Elisabeth Autrey Marjorie Horton and Dr. C. P. Heinlein; Wynn Tuten and Dr. Paul F. Pinner; Mac Fernandes and Dr. Coyle Moore; Florence Jones and Miss Grace Imogene Fox; Marie Joffre and Miss Nellie Bond Dickinson; Valerie Hunt and Miss Mary Settle, Audrey Cooper and Miss Helen Davis.

Three Torches

Week-End Specials:

Mixed Ham Sandwich With Potato Salad 10c
Gingerale with Ice Cream 5c
Chocolate Pie 5c
We Deliver ..... Phone 887

Audience Thumbs Down on Dinner Diet Dramatics

Dining Hall Drama Stars Betty Beet with Bob Bean Opposite

By HONOR COLEMAN

The F. S. C. girls have not shown much enthusiasm recently about the novel method of co-starring Mae West and her tall, dark, and handsome bow-friend. According to box office receipts and personal interviews Mae's latest productions have not been very successful.

The voluptuous Mae and her suave sheik were cast as the leading dishes on the dining-room menu for a four-day run last week. Mae's vivid personality and luscious curves were well-revealed in the character she portrayed, as Betty Beet. Bob Bean was as well known to campus audiences as the "beaned string," played opposite her.

It had been rumored by the critics that the unfavorable reception this production has received is due to the poor selection of the theme and characters. Also, the supporting cast was not well chosen. Leanna Pie, the comedienne has not enough zest and vitality to carry off the difficult part which was hers. She fails to tickle the palate.

Soupy two bowl was produced even at the dining hall last week. Each show had an entirely different cast. The plot and characters of the two were similar, however. The ingredients played their parts well—almost too well. They tried to outdo each other. Consequently the girls gave up trying to puzzle out what type of production it was. Soupy did not make such an impression on the girls last week as most of them have forgotten what the show was all about.

The Potato family, which is very familiar to this audience last week, took a large part in the shows given at the dining hall. Some member of this family had a prominent role every night. Probably the reason for the Potato family's success is that each and every one of them possesses that irresistible something called Carbohydrates. Their audience always derives great good from seeing them. Frenchie Potato is probably the most beloved member of the family, but Ida Baint's been billed on the menu for many roles this year. Creams Potato has frequented the dining hall more often than any other and she is always at her best when she is accompanied by her good friend, S. R. Gravy. Mr. Gravy sometimes, but rarely, co-stars with Miss Sweet Potato, much to the delight of her coffee fans.

Members of Kappa Delta Pi to Hear Report Of National Convocation

A special meeting of Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary, will be held Tuesday afternoon at 5:00 in 201 Education building Mr. Kenneth Williams, chapter delegate to the national Kappa Delta Pi convocation in St. Louis last month, will report on the meeting. A business session will be held following Mr. Will ams' report.

The members of Kappa Delta Pi entertained last Tuesday night in honor of the new members of freshman in education classes. As part of the program, Dr. Robert Cottrell spoke on his trip to England last summer. The affair was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Paul F. Pinner.

Freshmen honored were Beth Ambler, Elisabeth Boyd, Fay Cosey, Mary Elisabeth Daney, Elma Guth, Charlotte Kamper, Dawn Latham, Mary Elisabeth Overman, Mona Parks, Ruth Riddle, Rachel Ribert, Frederica Roberts, Frances Williams and Nellye Woodham.

Some feat, we'll agree. But nothing compared to the feat of developing the improved hydraulic brakes you find on new GM cars—not to mention "Turret Top" or Knee-Action. It takes vast resources to pioneer such improvements—and a vast production to make the cost per car as low as it is today.

GENERAL MOTORS
A Public-Minded Institution
CHEVROLET PONTIAC OLDSMOBILE BUICK LaSALLE CADILLAC

Student Publications Make Gigantic Strides Since the Day of the "Argo"

Distaff First Introduced In 1926 Following "The Talisman"

Just imagine, if you can, how it would be to get a Flambeau each week, or not to be able to look forward to the publication of the Distaff and the Flamboyeo. A little over thirty years ago that was the situation on this campus.

The first attempt at a student publication was made in the form of an annual called the "Argo," published by the West Florida Seminary in 1900. The Argo chronicled developments in the history of the school during the year of its appearance. These included changes in the faculty, improvements in the athletic department, the introduction of several new courses and the story of the first Florida inter-collegiate debate.

The Argo continued until 1908, when the co-educational college known as the West Florida Seminary became the Florida Female College. The name was changed again in 1909 to Florida State College for Women.

Twenty-six years ago the first edition of the "Flambeau" appeared. Its pages were about eight by eleven inches in size and around one hundred in number. This first issue was bound in red vellum. It contained pictures and information concerning the classes, the history of the various institutions of the college and a directory of the organizations.

The feature section was introduced a few years later and proved so popular that it has been continued in subsequent editions of the annual. The 1930 Silver Jubilee issue was awarded All-American honor ratina by the National Scholastic Press association.

The first magazine publication was called the "Talisman." With the establishment of the Florida Female College in 1908 Dr. C. M. Rucker, professor of English, organized a literary society and supervised the establishment of the magazine. It was published by seven inches, contained about sixty pages and bore in gilt letters on its tan cover the name. The name of the college and the college seal. At the time there was no student activity fee to take care of the circulation, and the price of the "Talisman" was at first a dollar a year. Later it was reduced to fifty cents in an effort to gain subscribers.

The Talisman ceased publication in 1914 because, due to the World War and the changing ideas in life, the students felt the need of a more effective medium of expression, according to a statement made for the jubilee issue of the Flambeau in 1930 by Miss Rowena Longmire.

There was no college magazine from 1914 to 1926, when the Distaff Sponsor of Yarns, was introduced. The title was suggested by Maxine McClellan and the scientific wheel on its cover was designed by Effie Cruttenden. The new Distaff was the same size as the old Talisman had been.

It first assumed the appearance of a modern journal in 1934. The ideas and policies of the Distaff were changed at this time to the critical literary publication it is today.

Dr. Edward Conradi, president of the college first suggested the idea of a campus newspaper to the students in 1915. He pointed out at the time that there was enough campus news to justify printing a college newspaper. The suggestion elicited an enthusiastic response on the part of the students and they voted to have a paper with a staff selected by the faculty. Today the editor of the Flambeau who is elected by the student body selects her own staff.

The first Flambeau was a four-page paper, and the copy was censored before it went to press. Dr. W. G. Dodd was the critic, and three other faculty members, Edward Conradi, Professor Arthur Williams, and Miss Rowena Longmire, helped the students with the Flambeau in the days of its infancy.

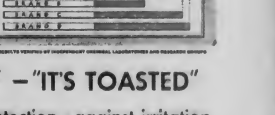
The first jubilee issue, containing eight pages was edited later in the year of 1910. Most of this issue was written by Mrs. Carson, the editor, between 10 o'clock at night and dawn, since her staff had not covered their assignments and had neglected to inform her that they had no copy until the night before press time. She spent the night in Bryan vanity kitchen pounding away on her typewriter and passing at intervals to drink

Continued on page six

Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company



A LIGHT SMOKE
OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

Luckies are less acid. For hundreds of years, tobaccos were selected—and gradations in flavor secured—by the roughest sort of rule of thumb methods. Hence, one of the most important innovations made by the Research Department was provision for chemical analysis of selected tobacco samples before purchase: the resulting reports offer the professional buyer an accurate guide and reinforce his expert judgment based on the senses of sight, smell, and touch. Thus extreme variations toward acidity or alkalinity are precluded by such selection and subsequent blending.

Luckies—A LIGHT SMOKE —of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco!

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%

RESULTS BY METHODS OF INDEPENDENT CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS

Luckies — "IT'S TOASTED"

Your throat protection — against irritation — against cough

Smart Feet
TREAD EVER SO LIGHTLY IN THE NEW Vani-treds
$2.95 to $5.95
QUALITY SHOE SHOPPE

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

RUTH PERSONS ..... Editor
ALTHEA SMITH ..... Associate Editor
HARTRUDE KUHN ..... Managing Editor
HAZEL BOWMAN ..... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Features, Martha Barr; Sports, Elaine Klepper; Society Margaret Lafferty; Exchanges, Virginia Early; Literary Editor, Eleanor Williams; Copy Editor, Arline Lockhart; Organic News Editor Grace Mary Webster; Art Editor Caroline Adams.

REPORTERS:Caroline Adams, Minna Agress, Elinor Andrews, Ella Brock, Jean Brown, Marguerite Brown, Marian Conn, Margie Creel, Sarah Beth Davis, Margarett Duncan, Sylvia Feiga Epstein Fluhr, Mary J. Gallemore, Ethel Granfield, Retha Hamilton, Frances Hartley, Barbara Holmes, Billie Hotard, Eleanor Jenkins, Mary Lynn Massie, Dorothy Olmstead, Cleddie O'Rourke, Nan O'Shaughnessey, Mary F Phillips, Jane Quinn, Mildred Sampson, Sarah Sealey, Pearle Shepard, Elizabeth H. Turner, Jewel Turner.

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press

BUSINESS STAFF

MART PATTERSON ..... Business Manager
Assistant Advertising Managers, Janet Cook Grace Mary Webster and Clifford O'Rourke
CECIL LEVY ..... Circulation Manager
Assistant Business Manager Lilla McGuire, Assistant Circulation Manager Caroline Adams

Entered as second class mail matter January 26, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

No More Apples to Polish

Florida State College is indeed entering a new regime. With the reorganization of curricula for the first two years into orientation courses for undergraduates now completed and ready to stand trial next fall, the attention of the administration has turned to the launching of an experimental grading scheme to replace the one now in use.

The proposed new system, whereby students work will be graded simply as "satisfactory" or "unsatisfactory" on the first and third quarters has before it a task of monumental proportions; the shifting of emphasis in the minds and practices of the student body from grades to what they stand for. That the antiquated era of "apple-polishing" is actually drawing to a close is evidenced increasingly in the student's interest in the new type of grading, already in use and under consideration in universities and colleges in various parts of the country.

Now more than ever before must it be possible to clarify the question "What are we educating for?" Until plans for the proposed change appeared the high-sounding phrases had been bearing all our lives on the cultural aims of "developing the whole man in one ear an odist the other, in the majority of cases. For as long as we were given opportunity to work for them, we couldn't quite resist the temptation to subordinate everything else to the necessity of earning our ABC's. With the false incentive removed, arrives a long sought opportunity to prove that working for grades alone is not the inevitable theme of a college education. Credited with sufficient maturity to recognize the worth of the courses we are offered and to realize it in our own experience, we exhibit that maturity. Given an honor-day school set-up, we, for the most part, allow ourselves to slip aimlessly into the set set aside for us.

Obvious advantages would follow the permanent installation of the tentatively planned system, if it were extended to cover semester grading also. Probation, approbation, many honor societies, and other devices contributing to the "premium-reward" method of encouraging effort will have to go, or be replaced with an impartial set-up. The college has taken one step in the right direction. She's outgrowing our system—for education is rapidly freeing itself from the stultifying pressure of the "our fathers-before-us" habit.

We have heard much of late about student discourtesy to speakers during convocation. The rudeness of reading, drawing pictures, rattling papers, or knitting has been repeatedly pointed out. Although there is bad enough in convocation, at a lecture where attendance is not compulsory such conduct is unheard of. And when undigned in not only by students, but by faculty members we wonder what has happened to the so-called culture that educated people are supposed to possess.

Are College Students Uninterested?

College students have frequently been charged with an utter uncontern about social and economic matters. Although this accusation may have been true a decade or two ago, it is hard to believe when we hear about some of the activities of youth today.

Not very long ago, for instance, representatives from colleges and universities all over the country have assembled in Washington to attend a joint hearing for the American Youth Act which has been arranged by the Senate Committee on Education and Labor and the House Committee on Education. Other colleges unable to send delegates have submitted statements to be read at this time.

This bill, which was introduced into both houses of Congress, is sponsored by many great youth agencies of this country including the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., N. S. F. A., and the American Student Union. It would provide for the immediate establishment of vocational training and regular employment for all youth between the ages of 16 and 25 who are now unemployed through no fault of their own. The Act further states that they shall be employed on non-military and non profit-making projects which will be beneficial to the individual community.

Regular wages at the prevailing rate would be paid, the prevailing rate being determined by the representative body of organized labor. However, in no case would the wages fall below $15 a week plus $5 for each dependent. Other provisions of the Act provide for increasing opportunities for high school, vocational school, and college education.

Those people who favor the passing of such an Act contend that it would more nearly provide an opportunity for each young person to go as far as his special abilities will permit him to. It would give impetus to a greater cultural advancement among the masses by providing opportunity for more people to become educated; and it would raise the funds by taxing such things as inheritances and incomes over $5000 a year thus reducing the funds which accumulate in the hands of the few and increasing the purchasing power of the normal business of farm, factory, and retail establishments.

That college students are interested enough in the plight of youth to attend the hearing of the American Youth Act is added evidence of their increasing initiative and self-reliance. We extend our best wishes to fellow students who are now in Washington.

Guest Editorial

What's Good For the Goose

Students at Princeton have established a society of future war veterans—and they want their bonus now.

A group of Vassar students have banded together and call themselves Gold Star Mothers of the Future. The aim is to see now the spots where their sons will be buried.

It is interesting to find in the American university this spirit of satirical ridicule of perpetual warfare—a modern gift for peace.

We are a roughly-schooled generation. We began our careers during the greatest war. We early saw a great period of buoyant prosperity collapse and since have made $1.98 our motto and a nickel the national emblem.

The cool attitude becomes us. We do it nicely when we criticize lengthily the moves of European statesmen and sketch more diplomatic plans for them.

But the attitude of the student is notoriously one of active participation when it comes to conflict. In Spain, Mexico, Cuba, young people flock to fight governments that are not up to their ideals.

Give us a nice well-sounding principle and we'd send the flag sky-high and tap our feet to martial music.

Let us take not an ideal, but an idea, a thought of what may confront us, and be ready to give a sane answer in spite of soapbox oratory, ballyhoo, and propaganda.

The day which was predicted for us at innumerable graduations, "when we would be men and women of the future," has come. Let us hope we have all become men and women and there is not left among us the little boy with his toy bonds.

—NAN O'SHAUGHNESSY.

Now that campaign speeches on the part of elections candidates are in order, all the system needs is a soap-box. Judging from the smoky sessions in the lounges when echo each formal convocation the cigars and babies-to-be-patted-on-the-head will soon be forthcoming.

Magazine Thumbings

NOTE. Pearle shepard acted as guest columnist this week.

THREE YEARS OF DR. ROOSEVELT
By H. L. Mencken
American Mercury, March, 1936

The acid Mr. Mencken has attacked the New Deal in probably its original form by as say of the writers up to now. Naming President Roosevelt "Doctor," he calls him "typical of friendly and ingratiating quacks," and adds that if the outlook appears to recovery through his Brain Trust efforts it should be given all their fraudulent and ineffective medicine, but in spite of it."

"Dr. Roosevelt," he records out, may at one time have had a leaning toward these ethical practices" for he promised once to balance the budget, clean out useless jobholders and protect the dollar. Mr. Mencken says. "If Thomas J. Walsh, attorney general, had lived, the supreme court would never have had to swim ashore through those great rollers of alphabetical soup. He would have heaved every agency of the New Deal window as fast as pedagogues and new constitutional lawyers brought it in. It was Walsh's death, the author of the article declares, that made it possible to return to natural and more comfortable quackery.

Mr. Mencken makes a concession—the NRA in its early stages was more successful than it is in final "stickness." Rational plans were abandoned and the "brain trusters" were brought in to give the country "planned economy, scientific management, and what not. It would flow the More Abundant Life, with everyone rich and happy and the very birds m the trees singing Hallelujah."

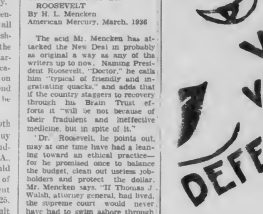
He has a few caustic words for the "Wizard," whom he describes as "a mercilessly bad speaker, a rapid fire gag packages, out-of-work P. R. M. C. A. secretaries, third-rate journalists, and the like." The only thing they have in common, he says, is that they are all men who have worked hard, saved money and tried to provide security for old age and the future of their children.

The description of the CWA project, its beginning and those responsible for it is interesting and probably the most violent attack in the whole article. As an example he says, "Its actual head was ahead of this project. "No man in the whole country, he says, could get to blow him up. They are out and all flagrant and incurable asses and they have been for years in the hierarchy of buncombe the more genial they are the worse it goes further in his attack of the men behind the CWA work, administration by pointing out that only one, Hopkins, was included in the White House staff, the remaining 31,081 names.

Mr. Mencken concludes his tirade by saying all the blame for the "dreadful burlesque" at this term of Roosevelt's "is the president since Hoover." He accuses him of having thrown away billions away to no useful end or purpose and of piling up a debt that will take generations to pay. Instead of safeguarding the money, Mencken says, Roosevelt is here a quack, he further says, will count out elections. "Every vote will be for or against him. His opponents will be only the residuary brazier, the ancient hyrdrocele."

Whatever the politics, this article is interesting in its caustic style. If only to read the biting Mr. Mencken at his best.

DIPLOMATIC PAY AND CLOTHES
By Mark Twain, 1899
Forum, March, 1936



A taste of the past from the pen of the master humorist, Mark Twain. Dated from Vienna, January 5, 1899, Mr. Twain in humorous vein comments that For a long time we have been reaping damage from a couple of disastrous precedents. One is the precedent of shabby pay for the diplomatic standing for the power and dignity of the Republic in foreign lands; the other is the custom of condemning them to exhibit themselves publicly in clothes which are not only without grace or dignity but are a pretty loud and pious protest against the frivolous costumes worn by other officers."

Mr. Twain in a playful fashion pokes fun at the ridiculous garb worn by the foreign ministers and ambassadors, as contrasted to the color and luxuriousness of the clothes worn by foreign diplomats. He advises that our diplomats have conferred on their ministers a temporary rank of admiral or general and allow him to wear the corresponding uniform at public functions in foreign countries. "Our ambassador scuttling around in a sea of vivid coloring is like a mallard Presbyterian in petticoats," he says.

For business reason ambassadors Mr. Twain points out should

Continued on page six

Spirit of the Week . . . . . By Adams

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT
UNIVERSITY EDITORIALS

TOTAL DESTRUCTION RESULT OF NEXT WAR?

The daily papers are constantly reminding us of the horrible destruction that will be concurrent during the next great war. What leading editorial writers are contributing to the subject, "After War—What?" After the carnage, after the bombing of great cities, after poison gasses have wrecked their havoc, what will be the effect on modern civilization? The majority of the journals, particularly those of more sensational type, seem to regard the next war as the final "end-it-all" from which there will be no emerging of a new civilization, but will result in the complete destruction of every vestige of our culture. But they may be wrong.

More than one student will someday be called upon to face a future conflict. Many will undoubtedly play their parts as pawns in the great international game, only to be ignominiously snuffed out at the whim of a great power.

If, as seems very likely, the leading nations of Europe depend upon sone incident as an excuse to fly at each other's throats, the modern economic structure of the occidental world is such that its destruction will be certain. The western hemisphere must inevitably be drawn into the conflict. With this conflict terminate the centuries of the white race's domination? A weak and war-weary continent could offer little resistance to a militant eastern power.

That is only one conceivable result of the next war. Should it live up to the advance notices terrified in the "yellow" journals of the war involving every nation in the world, might end in a complete throw-back to the primeval age. A handful of survivors would wander, about the face of a barren world, eeking out a miserable existence from flora hagard and touched by poisonous chemicals. These plants would be rare, however and the majority of the drinking water would be polluted with deadly poisons. Men would turn back thousands of years to a state of complete savagery and bestiality.

Perhaps the nations of the world would at last learn of the futility of war, could learn to control each individual's innate lust for power, and finally united in that long-sought brotherhood of man.—Junior Collegian.

FOR LESS GLORIFICATION OF THE PENCE IS EDUCATION

In times of anxiety and discontent, every thinking person is considered the belief that great and widespread economic and social changes are needed. There is the risk that men or states may act hastily, rushing to new schemes which seem promising chiefly because they are new. People catch at quick panaceas for the superficial age of practicality, and forget the general theory upon which practical plans should be based. It is education and the proper application that people should look to.

Modern doctrines of equality have dwindled the ancient view that the chief aim of instruction is to prepare the few wise and good for the government of the state. It is not upon this world but also upon the material welfare of the world, power and acquisition of

Continued on page five

HEADLINES and FOOTNOTES

By GRACE MARY WEBSTER

NOTE. Hildred Sampson has acted as guest columnist this week.

GERMANY returned a heavily conditioned acceptance Monday night to the invitation of the League of Nations Council to be represented at a meeting to discuss the Locarno pact violation by the demilitarized Rhineland.

Adolf Hitler agreed to send a delegate to the meeting of which many were received as an equal, and if the Council decides that Hitler's peace proposals in connection with the violation of the Locarno treaty, charged by France and Belgium.

The action of Nations Council refused to consider his peace terms, but conceded his demand that he be included as an equal in considering the Locarno pact which is being violated by France, Belgium, and Germany could not vote when action was taken, Germany being charged with many guilty of "infringement" of the treaty was included in the Council.

In Berlin, acceptance by Hitler of the League's invitation was forecast as the Fuehrer returned to Berlin after making a speech in Frankfurt. Army Day was celebrated throughout the nation, and in the Rhineland military display was restrained.

Word was made in Paris that France, unless she got satisfaction of her grievances, would quit the League.

Fears were held in Rome that a France-British alliance would spoil chances of large Italian gains in an Ethiopian settlement.

In Moscow, Russians gave up hope that Germany would withdraw from the Rhineland and felt that war preparations must go on GERMAN Socialist seniores, driven from ship-wrecked manners, have developed an ingenious method for spreading their "underground" propaganda to lands to Germany. Hundreds of thousands of books, printed in a third ballot, with Senator Vandenburg running-up on the voting.

* * *

WILHELM FURTWAENGLER, internationally-known German conductor of opera and symphony orchestras, has withdrawn from his new post of general musical director of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Society, because his appointment failed to bring the question of politics into the music of music. His appointment had been criticized of that York by persons and publications opposed to the Nazi regime in Germany.

* * *

SOME of the sparkle and fire with which the public has mixed in Congress lately, drives promise will returning soon. The submission of President Roosevelt's relief bill opened talks that probably open the most controversial subject of the session, and further progress in drafting the $782,000,000 tax bill is believed certain to develop sharper issues. Glevsage on this sweeping measure.

* * *

A "TRUE cross-section" of forty-four industries surveyed at the suggestion of President Roosevelt on changes in labor and trade practice standards, as to labor provisions and fair-trade practices, was released yesterday.

As to minimum wage payments in some industries there has been a widespread breakdown. The worst offenders are found in retail trades, in which there was a "very general lack of fair-trade practice standards," following the department decision invalidating the NRA.

The report revealed that in no industry did there have been actual abandonment by all establishments of the basic labor and trade practice provisions of the code.

COLGATE university students, in a model national convention patterned after the regular London, of Kansas, for President on a Democratic platform.

"HOW many feet in a Scotland Yard?" was one of eleven questions given in a placement test to find out how much its graduates have learned and presented by the Federal Office of Education in a radio program. Thirty per cent of the New York general knowledge by Maurice Lewel, superintendent.

The program was one of several given in connection with the office of education with a view to the relief adjustment.

Other questions were: "Do you think a croquette ever makes a good wife?" "How many legs has a full-grown elephant?" and "Where would you go to buy a rooster?"

* * *

WHILE Western operators and other service employees returned to work in New York Monday, the great majority of the 2500 buildings affected by the recent strike of Building Service Employes Union, which ended in a compromise settlement early Sunday, approximately 1900 workers in 372 buildings found themselves locked out by owners.

While employers declined to reinstate many men on the ground that they were guilty of violence and other ominous conduct, during the strike, union officials charged that the lockouts were a conspiracy to destroy one of the most active union members.

Clover Sale Is In Order Just Before Quarter

Four Leaves Still Hold Charm as Evidenced By Bended Knees

Lucky charms have again put in an appearance, and this time they are four-leaf clovers.

As soon as spring arrives, and everyone feels assured of its staying, one can see by their carnpus girls diligently searching for these oddities of nature. Whether the girls are really superstitious or whether the quest is merely an excuse to keep from studying cannot be ascertained.

For some girls looking for four-leaf clovers is a way of getting out into the open to enjoy nature. These are usually nervous, energetic persons who feel that they can rate thing a moment without doing something. Hence, they hunt busily while their more indolent companions look on in the job.

A few girls belong to that school of thought; which maintains that it is not the clover that counts, but how many one finds. These girls are pitiful sights, crawling on the hand-full and generously dotted with the dew until the knees and hands. Naturally, if one uses this method it is necessary to keep a note-book and pencil handy, so that one won't underestimate the size of the day.

What they do with these rare specimens after having found them is another question. Some girls carry them around by the stems until the dry and fall from wilts and ties. These are the kind of girls who either forget they are carrying them or else they have changes within the span of a few hours.

Other girls pull off the shell a thick, indestructible substance carefully place a charm between the impressed pages. Of course this stains the book and usually gives the clover a crushing blow, but it is supposed to be necessary to preserve the clover's four leaves. This method is proof to one's friends that the clover was completely passed one by.

If one has examinations with his present popularity, the four-leaf clover is undoubtedly doomed to extinction. However, if one always pass a law to protect our prized lucky charms.

One entertaining young lady has suggested that the ancient view that the chief aim of instruction is to prepare the few wise and good for the government of the state. It is not upon this world but also upon the material welfare of the world, power and acquisition of

Continued on page five

Collegiate Come-Back

From the Davidsonian we gather that a recent survey made by the life insurance companies shows the fact that the average college girl's longest life of any of the professional groups. In other words, if you want your best in black, don't marry a minister.

* * *

Co-eds at the University of Texas are in a class by themselves when it comes to wash with the majority of men.

They expect too much from them.

* * *

Their idea of a good time is a girl and a "pig."

* * *

From the pen of a well-dressed man is Mahatma Ghandi.

* * *

The reason they don't wear hats is because they can't afford them big enough to fit the head.

* * *

Their line of gab sounds like the Broken Record.

* * *

Their dancing is a cross between a Mexican jumpin' bean and a jitterbug with the jitters.

* * *

They think that manners and decency have no place in the modern scheme of things.

* * *

We might add that most of them are afflicted with what is called Columbus, the exploring instinct.

* * *

According to Dr. J. B. Rhine, psychologist of Duke University, you can guess seven out of twenty-five cards correctly, you have the "extra-sensory perception." Intelligence have nothing to do with the extra-sensory perception. Thank heavens! If this latter state is there he true, we've got something in which to mater.

* * *

TO A SORORITY SISTER
'a is Pannellenic boy?
The dance was a success.
The music grand, I guess.
It was the biggest of the year
And the best I will confess.
It was nice to see our friends
Meet he true, we've got something in which to mater.

* * *

TO A SORORITY SISTER
'a is Pannellenic boy?
The dance was a success.
The music grand, I guess.
It was the biggest of the year
And the best I will confess.
It was nice to see our friends
Meet he true, we've got something in which to mater.

* * *

And awful mess you brought.

* * *

From the Daily Trojan we gather a Bowdoin physics instructor is saying, "Examinations are a relic of the past as a means of men and women." What's the matter with Pro? Bad luck with all three?

* * *

A professor of psychology at Oregon State, reports the Athenaeum claims that many professors in rule give A's to students who attend and study regularly and especially moulded by their instructors. Students whose ideas coincide with those of the professor get B's and on down the scale. Rose Mother reads this. Me? He'll explain those last grades that went home.

* * *

According to the Junior College Journal, a diet for the world via radio. "You become what you eat. Then we're omitting onions from our diet from now on, to avoid losing of hash.

Also from the Junior College Journal comes the information that the University of Paris is offering a course in "Rare Wines and Liquors."

Continued on page six

The Social Week

eniors Will Be Honored Tonight By AAUW Party

The Tallahassee branch of the merican Association of Univer- Women will give a party for the seniors of this college ight in the parlors of Gilon hall at 8 o'clock.

The parlors will be decorated for the affair with flowers ast sprays of sweet peas and ster garden flowers.

All of the seniors in the colge have been sent special invitions to attend this affair which is an annual event given by the organization every ear.

Dr. Liddell to Receive

Dr. Anna Forbes Liddell, past esident of the A. A. U. W., will e the guest at the door and induce them to the incoming esident and vice-president. Mrs. J. Hemken and Mrs. Coyle E. ers.

Those who will pour during the ening are Miss Gilvia Dorman, Sadie Young, Miss Dorothy ore, and Mrs. Arthur Seymour. Among those who will act as hostesses are Miss Margaret ffett, Miss Katherine Warren, Miss Frances Gunn, Miss Marion Taylor, Miss Mildred Pinkton, Miss Elizabeth Lynn, Mrs. neth Williams, Miss Julia ith, Miss Lucile Stevens, Mrs. Sara Herndon, Miss Marion and Mrs. J. R. Long.

Students Attending

Members of the senior class who e been invited to this affair Gwendolyn Adair, Betty Akin, ance Allen, Margaret Kay Allen, Carolyn Allison, Sylvia Arnold, Helen Ayala, Dora Helen ner, Zetta Baker, Mrs. Irene Ball, Evelyn Ballard, Elizabeth ush, Elizabeth Beckrell, Adah Bell, Mary Bennett, Ruth Bevis, Miriam Blaisdell, Florence Blood, Betty Bonar, Bowen, Mary Brandon, Ida Breaut, Martha Brine, Bell, Mamie Brinson, Bet- Brooks, Juanita Buchanan, Cantz, Agnes Campbell, May Carmine, Mary Carson, Virnia Cato, Evelyn Chauncey, Clayton, Hazel Clayton, Cletta Clifford.

Mrs. Margaret Cogswell, Evelyn Cole, James Cook, Jean Crapo, Frances Crumpler, Virginia Cromartie, Irene Crosland, Genevieve Cuyler, Virginia Crump, Carlotta Dallas, Victoria Curtis, Anna Davidson, Dorothea Delaney, Elsie Dell, Ethel Helen Davis, Mary Dismukes, Florence Devine, Dorothy Dodson, Mary Dollin, Josephine Donalson, Mary Catherine Dorman, Aurilla Driggers, Bernice Duncan, Mary Frances Dunn, Stella Dunn, Tessie Dvoskin, Lucile Edenfield, Ethel Mae Edwards, Mildred Emmelhainz, Betty Ann Marjorie Pain, Carol Parker, Adria Ruth Parker, Audrey Parker, Ruth Pemberton, Betty Pelham, Nancy Pell, Mrs. Jessie Perry, Elizabeth Pier, Dorothy Pierson, Alice Pletcher, Jo Beth Pittman, Martha Harriet Poetker, Mrs. Fossler, Catherine Pox, Catherine Puller, Carolyn Garvin, Moore Oates, Marguerite Gehan, Mr. Gules, Jean Gilmer, Patricia Glass, Isabelle Glissach, Margie Gunn, Emma Lee Goodwin, Agnes Mrs. Lucille Gould, Margaret Graham, Mary Alice Graham, Ella Grainger, Elizabeth Sims Grant, Florence Greene, Janet Griffin, Anna Groover, Ruth Hagstrom, Irene Haimovitz, Winifred Hansen, Shirley Harkness, Polly Harrell, Marjorie Harris, Zelma Harrison, Marie Herrold, Edith Hobson, Marguerite Holder, Sara Howze, Lucy Hosier, Gladys Howard, Nina Hughes, Berniece Hutchison.

Melba Hutchison, Mary Irvine, Doris Isted, Harriette Jeffries, Eleanor Jenkins, Emily Johnson, Anita Jones, Bonnie May Jones, Kathryn Karrick, Rebecca Keith, Jewel Kelly, Mrs. Genevieve Kenley, Evelyn Kennard, Eva Margaret Key, Helen Kibler, Josephine King, Charlotte Kinsey, Elisabeth Kirby-Smith, Eleanor Kleppner, Mary Kluppenberg, Harriet Knapp, Lucille Knight, Sara Kreutzman, Gertrude Kuhn, Julia Lamar, Geneva Lamb, Dorothy Lancaster, Mary Lambert, Opal Langley, Clara Lankford, Rosalie Lastra, Harriet Lawrence, Margaret Lawson, Fleyr Leonard, Eva Levy, Goldie Pauline Lewis, Anna Belle Lingo, Lucy Gee Linn, Mary Lischel, Virginia Lisle, Adelaide Loftin, Ruth Loveless, Jessie Lumpkin, Maurice Lyle, Mrs. Alice Dean Mabry, Bertie Mackey, Betty Manning, Zula Mann, Mary Marshall, Vivian Marshall, Sarah Martin.

Marion Mason, Laura Mathis, Edith McCaskill, Mary Walker McCormick, Jane McCown, Virginia McKeehan, Mary Irene McKay, Mrs. McKenzie, Betty Merritt, Betty Middleton, Sara Mikell, Helen Miller, Jeanne Mitchell, Ethel Mintzer, Anna Marie Mitchell, Ruth Moon, Miss Moore, Frances Moore, Mrs. O. F. Moore, Jane Moyer, Marjorie Mueller, Mary Murphy, Elizabeth Murray, Ruth Murray, Eleanor Murrell, Edna Mutch, Caroline Oliver, Gladys Oliver, Clairnelle O'Steen, Laura Owens, Sarah Bell Palmer, Anne Louise Parks, Mrs. Patterson, Gertie Lou Peal, Lucitia Pearson.

Mary Frances Pemberton, Edith Perkins, Ruth Persons, Faye Peterson, Margaret Pharis, Mary Pollock, Alles Porter, Mary Frances Porter, Dorothy Purse, Martha Reddick, Joyce Reed, Margaret B. Roberts, Anne Leigh Robins, Betty Routh, Lou Rutherford, Mercia Scott, Dorothy Shaw, Helen Frances Shepard, Edna Shuler, Audrey Smith, Lurline Smith, Mildred Smith, Allnes Smith, Miriam Stein, Margaret Stewart, Leona Stimmel, Geneva Stone, Frances Stubbs, Evelyn Stump, Antoinette Sullivan, Lavada Sweat, Nellie Taylor, Frances Taylor, Vivian Testa, Henrietta Thames, Mary Ella Thielenhaus, Ethel Thomas, Adeline Tillman, Ruth Toland, Mary Jane Tolbert, Lillian Turlington, Wynn Tutin.

Sara Tyler, Mary Vesch, Bertha Veuth, Alice Wahl, Anita Walder, Sally Walder, Lois Walker, Tulee May, Elizabeth Weatherly, Edith Webb, Grace Wells, Mary Catherine Wheeler, Madeline Weeks, Ida Weinbrauh, Virginia Weldon, Marie Wesley, Mary Frances Whisnant, Grace Wicks, Monica Wiley, Margaret Wilkinson, Nancy Williamson, Louise Williams, Edna Williams, Martha Williams, Mrs. Doris Willoughby, Constance Windham, Mary Wise, Martha Wolfenden, Katherine Younge, and Helen Elisabeth Young.

Faculty and Students

F. S. C. W.

You are invited to attend

The Formal Spring Opening

of

Gelberg's New Store

College Avenue

Monday Night, March 23rd

8 to 10

GELBERG'S

"Style Plus Economy"

STUDENTS IN REYNOLDS HALL WILL BE ENTERTAINED WITH FORMAL TEA TODAY

Miss Ida Rebecca Rowan and Miss Mamie Andrews, directors of Reynolds hall, together with Miss Maude Flowers, director of residence halls, will entertain this afternoon from 5:30 to 6:30 o'clock with a formal tea for students living in Reynolds hall.

Sweet peas, fern, and other floral decorations will be arranged attractively throughout the parlors.

The receiving line will be composed of Miss Olivia N. Dorman, Miss Flowers, Miss Katherine Warren, Miss Andrews, Miss Rowan, and Mrs. Esther B. Ferguson.

Floor hostesses will be the freshman advisors who are Sisters Stevens, Mary Ann Hills, Marie Taylor, Anne Sams, Jo Dalton, Maxine Wise, Ella Mae Fox, Kathleen Gruppe, Betty Brooks, Agnes Campbell, Nettie Lee Hall, and Dorothy Wheelis, to act as floor hostesses.

Those assisting during the afternoon will be Dr. Venita Sheren and Mrs. Ina Vann. The social committee under the direction of Miss Edith West and Miss Frances Bryan, will serve the refreshments of sandwiches, mints and punch.

Honor guests at this time will be Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Vance, Miss Edith West, Miss Flowers, and the infirmary staff, which secretaries and sorority chaperones.

Excerpts from the Editors

Continued from page four

Modern education, commerce, finance, wealth and prosperity in all its forms, that is the purpose of the day.

Modern education should have this purpose.

One aim is to fit the students to be discoverers, inventors, and discoverers, in the fields of science and learning.

A second is to fit them to be leaders in the field of action, leading others and by their initiative and their diligence, but also by the power and the habit of turning a full share of their energies into tasks upon whatever work they may have to do.

A third is to give them the taste for, and the habit of enjoying, literature and literatures.

Many moralists, ancient and modern, regard pleasure a bad name because they saw that the most obvious and powerfully seductive pleasures, pleasures which appeal to all minds alike, were indulged in excess, and because a source of evil. But all students will have pleasure and ought to have pleasure. The best way of drawing them off from the more dangerous pleasures is to teach them to enjoy the better kinds. Moreover the pleasures of the intellect mean rest and greatest power for resulting work.

At the present time, however, there is a tendency in some quarters at least— of unduly emphasizing the specifically vocational, or professional, side of education. The man of affairs knows little or nothing of the young minds and their limitations, or the educational values of the various studies in a school curriculum. He is prone to choose subjects chiefly or solely because of their immediate practical utility. Thus in his view the chief reason for learning a modern language is that business communications will thereby be facilitated.

Strong pressure is being brought to bear to commercialize American education, to make it subservient to wealth and convert the students into a money-making mob. A nation cannot last as a money-making mob. It cannot with impunity—it cannot with existence—go on despising literature, despising science, despising nature, despising compassion, and concentrating its soul on peace.—Dolly Kanaan.

LET 'CATCH PHRASES' CATCH YOU NOT

Few men, besides after dinner speakers, sidesh0w barkers, and brush agents, are greater masters of mob psychology than politicians.

Political bigwigs know the value of catch phrases. They know that when they say, "A Chicken In Every Pot!" the great unwashed will immediately run to the polls, deposit therein their votes, and scamper home to get out the pots and start the fires.

They know that if they cry, "A New Deal!" hundreds of thousands of thousands will take their ketties off the stove and run into the dining room to get the card tables out. And looking in, with their faces pressed to the window, the "Outs" will hoarsely shout, "Yah-h! A Raw Deal!"

The "Outs" are constantly watching for a chance unlucky phrase that can be turned about to fire confusion into the ranks of the "Ins." That America has a "horse and buggy Constitution" will be vigorously decked by those same voters who rose in arms when told that "the grass will grow in the streets of a hundred cities."

It is most regretable that the "outs" are not the cake for the ironing, or if you will, the

Hop Pictures on Exhibit

All pictures taken during the week-end of Panhellenic Hop by the Photo-new- service of the University of Florida will be on exhibit at Pike's studio.

Orders will be taken and photographs delivered from this studio.

Theta U. Sorority To Entertain Rushees At Steak Supper

Members and pledges of the Theta Upsilon sorority will entertain rushees and friends Sunday afternoon with a hike and steak supper.

Guests will be Sara Frances Gaitrell, Betty Hammond, Bettie Dean Beaty Cleland, Frances Thill, Katherine Pratt, Hettie Lou Niblick, Boots Evans, Sara Lytle, Agnes Shippers, and Betty Bow.

Members and pledges of the sorority are will be honorees at this time are Anne Donnell, Barbara Greene, Lucille Edenfield, Mary Lanehart, Jean Rodgers, Mildred Smith, Harriette Jeffries, Elisabeth Leach, Penny Tomlins, Margaret Neff, Anne Leigh Rollins, Olivia Sorenson, Lois Hughes, Lorraine Gyles, Mary Louise Hosmichel, Valerie Hunt, Bunkie Moore, Nancy Rogers, Grace Brewer, Dot Stewart, Doris Geiver, Frances Ellis, and Marie Wesley.

daughters last week-end at the Alpha Omega house.

Nadis Grainger is visiting friends in Valdosta, Ga., this week-end.

Eleanor Flint will visit in Orlando this week-end.

Jimmy Lee Malone is spending the week-end in Ft. Lauderdale.

Miss Mary Perry Pollock will visit in her home Ft. Myers this week-end.

Attending the Pi Kappa Phi "concave" in Gainesville this week-end will be Banks Wood, Margaret Schmidt, Kitty Craney, Petres Ballard, Clairnelle O'Steen, and Annie Laurie Sanches.

Personal Mention

Laurabell Hopkins and Emily Hopkins of Orlando visited at the Delta Delta Delta house last week-end.

Donna Detle of Tampa was a visitor at the Tri Delta house last week.

Florida State girls who have been invited to act as hostesses during the Pi Kappa Phi convention in Gainesville this week-end are Sara Graham, Annie Laurie Sanches, Mary Eunels, Lillian Burford, Kitty Craney, Caroline Oliver, Katherine Fuller, Big Lockwood, Virginia Rogers, Elisabeth Ayala, Peggy McMichael, Louise Harris, Ethyle Mae Edwards, Virginia Peyton, Flynn Moore, Helen Kibler, Ted Goodwin, Jean Tilden, Betty Wheelis, and Muriel Watson.

Mildred Smith will spend the week-end in Jacksonville.

Margaret Neff is spending the week-end at her home in Jacksonville.

Harriet Jeffries is visiting her home in Jacksonville this week-end.

Miss Doris Seals of Pensacola was a guest at the Beta Phi Alpha house last week-end.

Lucille Edenfield and Mary Lanehart spent last week-end in Perry.

Merle Cason spent last week-end on her parents' plantation near Jasper.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Spurlock of Jacksonville visited their "forest for the trees." To exclude the catch phrases dangled so temptingly before our faces is not the easiest thing to do, but it's more satisfying to hold individual opinions reached by impartial study than to be clipped and shorn by the sheep herders—The Crisis-Onion.

FRONTIER CHARACTERS GATHER AT COTTERILL HOME WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Cotterill, entertained members of the Frontier History classes Wednesday night at their home with a historical masquerade.

Guests attended in costumes of characters prominent in the history of the period. The entertainment consisted of novelty dances by characters, singing of Western songs, and a duel between Sam Houston and Kit Carson over Peggy O'Neil. At the conclusion of the duel Dr. Cotterill passed around the peace pipe.

Refreshments consisted of coffee and cake, candy, open-face sandwiches and peanuts.

Guests attending and their characters they portrayed were Lois Collins, Jim Bridges; Ida Wenrauh, Kit Carson; Geneva Bryant, Sam Houston; Edna Schuler, Daniel Boone; Sara Tyles, Mrs. Daniel Boone; Virginia Thomp, John C. Fremont; Betty Pellows, Mrs. Jesse Fremont; Hazel Sasser, Chief Black Hawk; Clara Bell Lipsey, Mrs. Black Hawk and Grace Mary Webster, Peggy O'Neill.

Delta Zeta Sorority Honors Newcomers With Banquet

The members of the Delta Zeta sorority entertained with a combination pledge and initiation banquet last Wednesday night at the Dutch Kitchen honoring four new members and two pledges.

A color scheme of rose and green was carried out in the flowers which were sweet peas and in the place cards. Dinner was eaten by candlelight, rose colored tapers being used.

Honor guests at this time were members, Doodie Ault, Emily Bush, Mary Kathryn Mockler, and Martha Moore; pledges, Tina Christel and Mary Lou Watt.

Members and pledges of the sorority who also attended the banquet are Kathleen Harris, Jean Jackson, Alberta Mayfield, Margaret Pinkoon, Kathryn Smith, Dorothea Stabnow, Edith Adkinson, Jeannette Nordman, and Margaret Stoudamire.

Omicron Initiates Stevens and Howard

Shirley Stevens of Fort Lauderdale and Gladys Howard of Dade City were initiated recently into Omicron Nu, home economics honorary.

Tallahassee members include: Margaret Bevier Sandels, dean of the school of home economics at Florida State college; Miss Edna Mae McIntosh, Miss Helen Davis, Miss Helen Richey, Miss Ruth Holloway, Miss Carrie Belcher, Mrs. Hugh Wasdon and Mrs. Hugh Wasdon and Mrs. G. C. Cubbedge, Jennie Tift, of Florida State College, is an honorary member.

COLLEGE CALENDAR

March 22 to March 28

Sunday

11:30 a. m. Church services.
7:45 p. m. Vespers.

Monday

5:30 p. m. Orchestra rehearsal.
7:15 p. m. Glee club rehearsal.
9:00 p. m. Sorority meetings.

Tuesday

11:30 a. m. Convocation — electives.
5:30 p. m. Orchestra rehearsal.
6:30 p. m. Student music recital — auditorium.
7:15 p. m. Glee club rehearsal— auditorium.

Thursday

5:30 p. m. Orchestra rehearsal.
7:30 p. m. Discussion group—following Religious Emphasis week—Gilchrist parlor.
8:15 p. m. Student speech recital—Sarah Hosea — Augusta Conrad theater.

Friday

8:15 p. m. Piano normal department ensemble recital—music annex.

Saturday

6:15 p. m. Modern dance recital —auditorium.

Pledges of Alpha Chi Entertain Members At Irish Party

The pledges of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority entertained with a St. Patrick's day party for the members last Tuesday night.

The decorations were carried out in the St. Patrick's day motif of shamrocks, the color scheme being green. Games were played during the evening, and several skits were presented.

The hostesses were Jane Upton, Helma Buffkin, Dorothy Colburn, Connie Wallace, Melba Parks, Marcia Rainey, Helen Richbrach, Christine McCullen.

The guests were Yvette Bruce, Juanita Buchanan, Betty Brooks, Beverly Brown, Elizabeth Carter, Helen Cate, Cora Chesney, Roberta Diamond, Mary Catherine Dresman, Sherman Hunt, Patricia Foster, Lurline Poodman, Margaret Graham, Rosemary Hamby, Mollie Holden, Mary Kay Hallett, Lawrence, Anne Lingre, Sarah Mikell, Margaret Murray, Lillian Schulte, Mildred Seekins, Sara Seiler, Marie Spurlock, Valeria Stevens, Bertha Veith, Martha Wollston, Dorothy Crews, Betty Walch, Anita Cantrell, Ruth Riddle, Frances Williams.

Alpha Omicron Pi Is Hostess at Coffee

Members and pledges of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority will be hostesses to friends at an informal after dinner coffee Saturday night.

The refreshment committee is headed by Dorothy Pierce. Other members are: Edith Avers, Betty Mary, Dora Godard, Nina Rhodes, Mary DeGuenther, Agnes Goss, Madeline McCall, Virginia Weldon, Alice Porter, Laurita Pearson, Alice Sloan, Pearle Shephard, Mary Clarke, Angela Griffin, Lucille Finley, Helen Youge, Sara Graham, and Carolyn Daniel.

ADAMS' STUDIO

"Photographs that Please"

121 E. College Ave. Phone 297

Copyright, 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

For Digestion's sake—smoke Camels

Smoking Camels eases tension—stimulates digestion—and fosters a feeling of well-being!

DEEP IN STUDIES. "The semi-efficient" up in poor digestion. Enjoy Camels for their positive benefit in aiding digestion, by stimulating and restoring the natural flow of the digestive fluids.

Again and again, we make up for lost time by eating in a hurry. Digestion must meet the strain. How foremost that smoking Camels during and after meals delights stimulates digestion and helps to ward off the effects of our hurried, nerve-wrecking life—by aiding and restoring the natural flow of digestive fluids. Today, Camels are being everywhere recognized as a healthful part of the art of dining. Camels are incomparably mild—never get on your nerves or tire your taste. Enjoy Camels with meals and the whole day through, for their matchless blend of costlier tobaccos—for their energizing "lift"—for the welcome feeling of well-being they bring you.

Camels set you right!

WIZARD ON SKIS, Sig Buchmayr, says: "I smoke Camels while eating and afterwards. It seems to me that after good food there's nothing like smoking a Camel to aid digestion and build up a fine feeling of well-being."

TOMMY BRIDGES, of the World Champion Detroit Tigers, says: "Ball players have no watch digestion. I find Camels a real aid to helping digestion. Camels set me right!"

L'AIGLON, IN CHICAGO, RENOWNED FOR ITS CONTINENTAL CHARM AND CUISINE. "Today," genial host to this lively crowd you see in the picture above, is an internationally famous maitre d'hotel. "We feed our patrons from one end of the world to the other," he says, "they know good tobacco. There is no question but that Camels are the most popular cigarette."

TUNE IN! CAMEL CARAVAN WITH WALTER O'KEEFE DEANNA JANIS, TED HUSING GLEN GRAY AND THE CASA LOMA ORCHESTRA

Tuesday and Thursday— 9 p.m. E.S.T.-8 p.m. C.S.T., 7:00 p.m. M.S.T., 6:30 p.m. P.S.T.,—over WABC-Columbia Network

COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

Dauer Relates Foreign Policy

United States Must Make Economic Sacrifices For Peace's Sake

Dr. Manning J. Dauer, faculty sponsor of the International Relations club and professor of political science at the University of Florida, gave a lecture Monday evening in the Little Theater here on "The United States and World Peace" before members of the International Relations club and visitors.

"With the situation so disturbing in Europe today the topic is a timely one," said Mr. Dauer. "During the division between the European powers as a danger to peace France, England, the Little Entente, and even Russia, he said, are seeking to keep the status quo while Germany and Italy are trying to get a larger place in the sun through enlarging their territories.

"The danger of war in Asia is ever present, too." Dr. Dauer said, with Japan's having extensive aims in Asia, and with the existing possibility that conflict may occur with China or Russia because of these aggressive aims.

"The United States is faced with the likelihood of war breaking out, and then spreading to include us in the conflict. The latest events, the Fascist Revolution and Hitler's tearing up the Locarno Pact have only served to dramatize the situation."

It is time that the United States take stock so she can see if it is at all possible to stay out of such a conflict. The United States' peace program has already proven ineffective as she was helpless in being drawn into the last world war. It is time that she find something more effective than the foreign policies that have already failed. Dr. Dauer said in suggesting a policy.

The United States should be concerned with an attempt to prevent an outbreak of war, and to maintain a consistent policy that will keep the United States out of war if one breaks out. There should be a direction of policy toward general peace, he said through cooperation with the existing peace machinery as, for instance, economic sanctions. It is necessary, we state definitely, we will not exist at the expense of those countries trying to make peace effective, but cooperate and make effective action against the aggressive nation.

Showing the amount of trade increase with the Allies during the World War, Dr. Dauer pointed out how easily it was to build up a financial stake with a temporary commercial advantage.

The customary rights with neutral nations were disregarded and the contraband of war was greatly extended in the last World war and these things are bound to continue in the next war.

In stating a foreign policy that will aim to keep us out of a world conflict, Dr. Dauer brought out the desirability of some of the following measures the Senate Investigating committee has suggested:

First, neutrality legislation should be made so that war materials will not be shipped to any belligerent; second, we should try to keep down the volume of trade to normal peace times; third, we should notify nations to belligerent nations that they are operating at their own risk; and fourth, we should deny passports to Americans traveling in war zones. These are the four measures Dr. Dauer thinks aim to keep us out of war.

After closing his speech with the question, "Are immediate trade orders worth more than our citizens' lives and temporary economic sacrifices?" Dr. Dauer answered a few questions from the floor.

Collegiate Comebacks

Continued from page four

ters." Bet that's one lab we'd enjoy.

* * *

From the Auburn Plainsman comes the following:

A pig is a pig because of having been born a pig. He looks like a pig and grunts kind of like we think a pig should grunt. He wallows around in the mud and makes unethical sounds through his nose—only his nose is called a snout. He is very ugly and mud clings to him. Loathsome was inserted in Webster's book after the great man had seen a pig.

The pig is a beautiful animal. His eyes are honest brown, and his coat is prettier than a $196.99 feminine coat from Milady's Shoppe. He has pride in his appearance, is dignified and loyal and pets better than a $10.98 blonde.

And we eat the pig. And we don't eat the dog. Why?

Six Freshman Beauty Winners

Pictured above are the six members of the Freshman class of the Florida State College for Women who were chosen by the Freshman class of the University of Florida as the Queen and maids of honor for the Freshman Hop at the University Saturday, March 28. They are (left to right) top row: Jean Hodges, Miami; Frances LaMotte, Tampa; Mary Virginia Dell, Ocalnswille; bottom row: Kathryn Patterson; Ercel Anderson, Dade City; and Dorothy Bailey, Miami. One of these six girls, the one having the highest vote, will be declared Queen at the Hop Saturday, March 26. Her identity will be kept secret until that time.

Student Publications Make Gigantic Strides

Continued from page three

hot coffee given to her by a faithful freshman.

The Flambeau has undergone a gradual metamorphosis. In 1922 it developed into a small eight page publication. In 1926 every student was automatically made a subscriber to the Flambeau upon payment of her student activity fee.

The paper was changed in 1928 from its baby size to a four-page regular newspaper. A course in journalism added to the college curriculum in 1928 provided a means for training students in scientific news writing and make-up, under the supervision of Professor E. L. Vance.

"Has Science Found God?"

Continued from page one

ture is benevolent is a contribution of science to religion. "Religism," quoted by Dr. Devinev, "will continue to adapt itself to a growing and developing world."

In closing, Dr. Devinev said that there is no sense in taking the Bible too literally. "If the world was created gradually instead of all at once, it makes it more wonderful to us. There are some things we can never answer, but we can keep learning, and not be too conceited about that which we already know."

The third of the series of talks will be in Broward club room, next Thursday evening, March 27, at 7:30. Further notice of the topic and speaker will be posted.

Flastacowo Photographer Plods About With Camera On Shoulder

Disgruntling Moments Found in Life Of Snap Taker

By BILLIE HOTARD

"Please girls, look at the birdie! Well, try to look at it anyway! Now smile!"

Have you seen her, the Flastacowo photographer, as she hoists her camera over one shoulder and plods on to the next group of BWOC (Big Women on Campus, to you)? Or, it may have occurred to you, if you are the type to whom things occur, that this would prove to be a pleasing pastime. It would be so novel to take photographs of people seated in front of them. It would be so elevating to see our leading politicians pose in their best Sunday manner. Ah, such school spirit!

But suppose the day is cloudy? Not a nice supposition, but life isn't all springtime. It is a matter of dire necessity that those faces must adorn the roll of film, and they must be placed there soon. What bitter irony (only she probably won't call it that) to find that Mother Nature does not cooperate! What a tax on the most uplifting of disciplines to find that the sun, the one and only sun, is playing peek-a-boo with some wandering cloud! It merely means the cancellation of all plans for the day. It means calling up the girls and informing them that it will be tomorrow instead, and then wait for the expected answer that they cannot possibly meet tomorrow, but the next day. Then you sit for an hour gazing first at the camera and then at the place where the sun should be shining and wonder which one merits your newly learned oath.

On to the next disgruntling moment, and we find a group of animated girls, well-known voters and tappers of the ——— club, debating to themselves just what pose will be most suited to the situation, all for the benefit of the "birdie" who is supposedly lurking behind the lens of the camera. "Ready?" Someone has to assure. The photographer relaxes and the group scatters a bit. "Now. Ready again?" But, here comes Providence, late but coming nevertheless. The crowd shoves over to make room for Prudence and it is decided (not aloud, of course) that perhaps there isn't room for Prudence. Finally a meek but exasperated voice dares to inquire if perhaps, maybe, all might possibly be in readiness. The picture is taken. The proof shows that a finger—a decidedly nice finger—is apparently the most prominent thing in the entire five inches of a well intended photograph.

Again all is in readiness, and then once things are going along in an Utopian manner. Then the film gets black plaque! Spots, not freckles but man sized moles, appear in every conceivable place, even to the covered portions of the face of the subject. Or else, if that isn't enough, the photographer gets a small case of jitters (and who wouldn't?), and the results look like St. Vitus Dance in the midst of action. And the third, if the first two don't suit you, is the fact that it's always so pleasant to find that one picture is taken on Number 7, when the photographer definitely recalls that the previous group was also taken on Number 7! Heigh ho!

The last straw would seem to be when a pride of the campus turns out looking like the latest exhibit of a carnival show. The girl whom we wanted to point out to our parents has either a sickly grin that makes her look like a moon-eyed calf, or else her teeth are protruding like stepping stones. Of course we can attempt to explain in a most apologetic manner that the portrait is most unflattering and is due to a freak camera, but listeners usually raise a quizzical eyebrow over such explanations.

It's always such a help, too, to find that two or three more people are in on something that was intended for a select few. A picture is taken of a group of officials, and the results show three freshmen lurking in the background. In act, so outstandingly in the background that they overshadow the high and mighty officials. Worry, worry, what to do? From one extreme to the other, it seems. Either we have no one than we need, or else it is manly impossible to get everyone together without carrying on searching party in every conceivable corner of the campus.

Spring-Rushers Find Problem in Weather

To be or not to be dressed . . . that is the question this in-between time of year.

The weather, a topic resorted to only as a final test of avoiding boredom or embarrassment, has become a colossal vital importance with the advent of March and the return of the birds. Its desultory moods have caused varied modes of dress to appear on campus: one day optimists, in their light and airy short socks and white sandals; the next, the sensible ones who still cling to woolen sweaters and skirts. Then a momentz later rain returns and they all get drenched.

The problem of dress is not a serious one, for at seven o'clock morning the thermometer registers a considerably lower temperature than at eleven, when it wants to be comfortable for her morning classes. yet dresses sweltering through one-thirties and two-thirties in everyone tries to rush the season with sunbacks, poque, culottes, and white skirts. Even the furnace men, imbued no doubt with the spirit of spring, ruminate in their own unique manner by deciding to shut off the heat. Hooyd dormitory hover anxiously over their charges, valiantly striving to detect the slightest indication of warmth, but the many-chinned stairs coldly refuse to warm. Life is sad in spring.

The question of raincoats, rubbers, and umbrellas, or perhaps a coat, galoshes, and umbrella causes considerable speculation. Bright sunshine may at any moment give way to forboding skies which early fulfill their promise of rain in no little amount. Such elements caper around with the lighthearted zest of a child—and mere humans resign themselves to watch and wait for the arrival of true spring, with accompanying joys of budding blossoms, singing birds, and maidens, and lazy days.

Magazine Thumbing

Continued from page four

get enough salary to be able to meet their social obligations. In return for game and champagne the Americans must offer ham and lemonade.

In a P. S. he says he notes he's not to be the new ambassador here (Vienna), after all. Not that he wanted it. He concludes, "I will not take any ambassadorship in the gift of the flag at a salary short of $75,000 a year."

ARE YOU PSYCHIC?
By Arthur Train
Scribners, March, 1936

Since Alexia Carrel's book, "Man the Unknown" was published there has been much speculation in and out of scientific circles concerning telepathy. The great Dr. Carrel, winner of the Nobel prize, believes that "Clairvoyants perceive not only events spatially remote but also past and future events."

Arthur Train, lawyer and a personal friend of Carrel's and also a disbeliever in telepathy has written his article skeptically. He confesses his skepticism but on the other hand presents "supernormal" experiences he has had which might have convinced him of some plausibility in telepathy. He says, "Since Dr. Carrel does not blame those who refuse to accept the evidence of telepathic phenomena he must include his friend, the writer, in his general absolution."

In describing one experence he tells of making preparation for writing a story, "The Lost Goddel." One morning he went to the library with his material, ready to begin his manuscript. A book lay open on the table. He picked it up and found that the title was "Under Pointus Pilate" and as he read it he found so many details corresponding to his own ideas that a cold shiver ran down his back. Who put the book there? He never discovered, for he was the first in the library that morning and all the books had been placed back on the shelves the night before.

Once he had a dream about a bird with the pale face of a woman, who in the dream looked at him and cried, "My name is Wilhelmina." The next night he went with his wife to see Houdini for the first time. The magician did a trick with pigeons and at the end of the act brought one forward, and looking straight at me said, "Mr. Train and, "he announced, "her name is Wilhelmina."

In the air—
WEDNESDAY 9PM
POSIE JONES
SATURDAY 9 P.M.
NINO MARTINI
KOSTELANETZ ORCHESTRA AND CHORUS 9 P.M. (E. S. T.)—COLUMBIA NETWORK.
© 1936 Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Don't Miss "The Importance Of Being Earnest"

The Florida Flambeau

Congratulations And Condolences To Victors and Victims

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, March 27, 1936

VOLUME XXIII. NUMBER TWENTY-FOUR

Elections This Week Complete Campus Voting

Beth Daane is Unanimous Choice for W. A. A. Presidency

Y. W. C. A. ELECTS JANICE BORTON

Shirley Stevens to Head House Chairmen For Incoming Year

Janice Borton will head Y. W. C. A. for next year and Beth Daane will be president of the Woman's Athletic Association as a result of Tuesday's elections in which minor C. O. A. athletic association, and Y. W. C. A. officials were chosen. Janice won over Anne Norris by a vote of 458 to 175 while Beth was unanimously elected Tuesday in convocation.

Candidates Presented

Candidates for all the offices were formally presented in convocation Tuesday morning. The election of senior representatives to judiciary put Betty Peck and Marie Stanford in that position with Mary Katherine Gibson as the runner-up. In a close race for junior representatives the final election was Louise Cetrulo, Dorothea Marsh, and Betty Outland with Phil Asher, Frances Lewis and Lawrence Cain runners-up. The two sophomore representatives that were elected were Rebecca Ashton and Jean Gillies defeating Eloise Cork.

House Elected

Shirley Stevens was elected chairman of house chairmen over Dora Belle Bagnell with the following house chairmen under her: Ila Gilbert, Bernice Hall, Kathleen Robinson, Sara Rutledge, Maxine Ward, and Edith Manford. Other candidates running for house chairman were: Myrna Brewton, Anna Mae Mitchell, Mary Ola Reynolds, and Betty Wasden.

On the off-campus committee Catherine McGarry was elected chairman over Douglas Dalgard with the following members under her: Jessie Clark, Ellen Flannery, Winona Ireland, Ruth Land, Frances Lingle and Mildred Seeley. Others running for the position were: Margaret Neff, Lillian Robinson, and Mary Bowling Smith.

W. A. A. Officers

In the other Athletic Association elections Felicia West won a close race for vice-president over

Continued on page two

Prom Highlights Next Week-end

Georgia Bulldogs to Play For Annual Dance

The Junior-Senior Prom, which is an annual event of Florida State College for Women, will be held Saturday night, April 4, in the college dining room. Dancing will be from 8:30 until 12:00, and music will be furnished by the Georgia Bulldogs.

Taking the place of an intermission, there will be the coronation of the king and queen. The queen and her attendants were chosen by secret ballot by the student body but the outcome of the voting will be announced only at the dance. This year, for the first time, the king will be a man and his attendants will be chosen from the dates of the queen's attendants.

The decorations are being kept as a surprise to be revealed only the night of the function.

For Saturday morning many sorority and fraternity "pop dances" There will be informal and each Chapter has to have open house during these hours. In the afternoon there will be a dance in the gymnasium from 3 till 5. Music at this time will also be furnished by the Georgia Bulldogs.

Invitations are being distributed and tickets are now on sale. Monday night will be the deadline for having tickets. The programs will be out Monday or Tuesday of next week. There are to be no non-Greek program dances.

Mary Miller and Caroline Oliver are in charge of all the general arrangements for the dance. Committees working under them are:

Betty Manning, in charge of the coronation; Mary Jean McKay, entertainment; Alice Porter, in charge of refreshments; and Sue Walker, decorations.

Conductor Is Astonished By Lack of Drawl

Interviewers Without A Dixie Accent Make National News

When a trio of Flambeau reporters were interviewing Eugene Ormandy, conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony, recently little did they know that a few years hence they spoke would practically cover the continent.

It was in the middle of the interview. The ardent seekers after interesting news for Flambeau readers had been asking the famous conductor about various phases of his musical career, when suddenly he stopped the conversation to ask them,

"Say, don't any of you talk like Southerners?"

Surprised in this query as to the existence of a Dixie accent Flambeau viewers Hazel Bowman, Jean Duncan, and Evelyn Parker hastened to assure him that they were from Pennsylvania, California, and Baltimore respectively.

The conductor was a greatly amused by the meeting of characteristic of Florida State college.

After the interviewers returned to classes they found that all over the college publicity office, heard at the chapel meeting, had been turned it over to the Tallahassee office and the Associated Press. Yesterday she has a sheaf of "squibs," sent in by clipping bureaus which have grown that the college paper in newspapers from Minneapolis to New York, New West, and from Denver to Boston and New York.

Rollins College Makes Awards

Conradi Public Orator When "First Lady" Is Given Medallion

President Edward Conradi was the public orator for the awarding of the Rollins College Founder's medallion to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at Rollins college, Sunday, March 15.

President Roosevelt was also honored at this time by being presented with an honorary degree of literature. President John B. Thurs, of the Rollins faculty presided as public orator for the presenting of the medallion to Mrs. Roosevelt. Dr. Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins college, conferred the honorary degree on Mrs. Roosevelt and presented the award to Mrs. Roosevelt. This is the first time an American institution of learning has publicly honored the president and his wife at the same exercise.

The awards were made Rollins college announced, "not in recognition of scholarship, professional skill, or distinguished service, but by reason of the attainment of the finer elements of the spirit of humanity, helpfulness, purity of motive, exalted ideals of service, and the power to inspire these qualities in others."

Harold Ickes and other officials, his seven university and college presidents, and Lily Pons and Walter Winter Park joined the faculty and student body in the academic pageant presenting these awards.

President Roosevelt gave a fireside chat address at the college ceremonies which people from all over the state attended.

Music Students Will Compete Here Friday

Superintendent W. T. Burt of the Florida Schools, consolidated school will bring a group of piano students to the School of Music of Florida State College for women on to take part in a contest on Friday afternoon. The students receiving the highest rating will represent Tamalle at their district contest. The judges for the Tallahassee contest are selected from the faculty of the school of music.

Superintendent E. O. Ekan from Bainbridge, Georgia brought a group of students here last night and will present them on Wednesday afternoon of this week.

Dance Recital Postponed

The modern dance recital which was scheduled this Saturday in the auditorium has been indefinitely postponed, according to an announcement by Miss Nellie Bond Wrenwson.

Honor on Campus To Be Discussed

"Honor on Our Campus" will be the topic for discussion at the NSFA open forum to be held Tuesday night, March 31, at 7:30 in 412 Education building.

"Two students, the speakers not having been decided on as yet, will give their conception of what honor implies. In addition to this Margaret Graham will give a summary of what the honors committee has been doing.

Linn Reviews First Retreat

Three Florida Colleges Sent Representatives To Meeting Here

The Y. W. C. A. Retreat held here March 20-22 proved a success in the opinion of Miss Lucy Lee Linn, president of Y. W. C. A.

"The retreat was a definite step in forwarding the co-operative movement in the Florida Y. W. C. A. field," said Lucy Gee. "The discussions which took place among the delegates indicated that the young people of our state are thinking definitely of interest in social, racial, and economic problems of the day, and that they are endeavoring to achieve logical solutions for these problems It was shown that the college students of today are eagerly reading books, newspapers, and periodicals in the hope of arriving at conclusions based on solid fact, so that we may be intelligent when they may cope intelligently with the baffling problems of social, international dissension with which the world is at present confronted. It is the hope of the delegates that through similar conferences it will be made possible to offer to others the stimulating influence of the Retreat."

Designated as a follow-up of the Southern Regional Conference convention which met in Indianapolis during the Christmas holidays the retreat had as its objective the bringing together of girls who had actively participated in and for the formulation and discussion of questions concerning the solution of Christianity to the problems existing in the world today.

Approximately seventy-five of the retreat were Rollins, which sent six delegates; the University of Florida, which sent twenty-five delegates; and Florida State College for Women, which was represented by thirty members of the student body.

The principal speakers for the Retreat were Dr. and Mrs. West, of New York City, who served for thirty years as foreign missionaries, and who have been active through the conference through the formation of the Student Volunteer Movement in New York. Dr. and Mrs. West had a genuine message for their audiences.

Committees which planned the Retreat were the entertainment committee, consisting of Frances Lewis, Margaret Stout, and Carol Hendricks; and the food committee consisting of Martha Lester, Virginia Ann Hall, and Dorothy Tod.

Faculty chaperons for the occa-

Continued on page two

June Maule Will Compete in Meet

Gives Exhibition With Katherine Rawls

June Maule, of Miami Beach, a member of the Florida State college for women Aquatic seaboard and state diving champion, appeared in an exhibition of fancy and trick diving at the Miami Biltmore pool, and will take part in diving contests in the national indoor swimming meet on April 2 in Chicago, Illinois. Chicago till is sponsored by the American Athletic Union.

June, who placed fourth in low-board diving at the national meet in Chicago last year, is to enter in the low-board and springboard diving events this year.

The Florida State college freshman star will make the long trip to Indianapolis in the company of Katherine Rawls and the latter's coach, Willis Conlins. Conlins will coach both girls at Indianapolis.

June recently placed first in the 40 yard breast stroke held last week in the college pool as sort of a national telegraphic swimming meet. Her record was 33.2 seconds.

"Names Make News" Is Adage Controlling College Publicity

Local Office Sends Out Stories Regularly To 150 Papers

"Names make news."

This adage is the foundation on which the publicity office of Florida State college has built its news writing service, say Mrs R H Leslie, college publicity director, and Rachel Pitchford, assistant publicity director.

Every time a Florida State college student takes part in some campus activity or gets tapped or pledged by an honorary or social sorority, a story is written for the newspapers of General dispatches about the college and its students, as well as the local papers, are sent out regularly to approximately 150 newspapers of Florida including dailies and weeklies representing a circulation reaching into the thousands. Stories also are sent to the Associated Press.

The new college newspaper with the publicity office in this mammoth job of sending college news to the state's papers, especially since the publicity facilities of somewhat limited and the publicity director also performs the duties of executive secretary of the alumnae association.

Aiding the publicity office this year in the writing of stories are of freshman journalism correspondents made available by Earl Lunn Yates, head of the journalism department, at the request of the publicity office. Each of these college correspondent for her home town newspaper, writing news chiefly about activities of students from her city. This has proved helpful to the publicity office newspaper editors. The stories are assigned and mailed from the publicity office.

In many instances faculty members have been asked to write special stories for special occasions or conventions which have state wide significance. Often a given faculty member lends help in writing stories for publication in his or her department. Recently Miss Ora Saxon, assistant professor of mathematics, at the request of the publicity office, and one of her math students work up statistics on the heights of Florida State college girls. The story was used by the Associated Press last Saturday. The statistics also are called upon by the publicity office as in the case of "F. S. C. W. Rock" which appeared in college bulletins were asked to send in "rock" stories by faculty members, or by the reports to the joint papers.

The biggest single story the publicity office has handled this year has been the Florida State College awarded Ruth Bryan Owen, minister to Denmark, an honorary degree last October. News about this event was "carried" for the Associated Press in eastern states including such papers as the New York Times, the New York Herald-Tribune, and stories and pictures about the affair were amounted to approximately 2,000 inches. Mrs. Owen really got the degree from Florida State but has been generally known. The first time was several years ago when several ceremony when the publicity office arranged for a photographer to take pictures of Mrs. Franklin Conradi, college president, handling Public Service Work. This enabled the college news writers to write a special story on a train which left Tallahassee about the same time Mrs Owen was getting many precious hours. Other pictures were taken of Mrs. Owen and the principals in the degree presentation, including Governor David Sholtz, and were sent off by the Associated Press for use in the state's papers.

Homecoming and "F. S. C. W. week" are other times of big news stories of the year and stories

Continued on page two

Andrews Will Address Duval County PTA And Robert E. Lee Pupils

Dr Elizabeth G. Andrews, director of personnel, will address the Duval County Parent-Teacher association and the Robert E. Lee High school in Jacksonville on Friday, April 3.

Dr. Andrews will speak first to the student body of Robert E. Lee High school at 10:00 o'clock, 11:15, on "the subject of "Shall I Go to College?" Friday evening she will address the Parent-Teacher's association on "Character Education in the Home."

During her stay in Jacksonville Dr. Andrews will be the guest of Mrs. Margaret Culp, dean of girls at Robert E. Lee on Thursday night, and Mrs. Ethel Mrs. Tom Palmer on Friday night.

Kappa Delta Pi Taps Members

Williams Gives Report On National Biennial Convocation

Three students were tapped today by Kappa Delta Pi in recognition of outstanding work in education. Williams students honored are Roberta Clifford and Grace Mary Weeks, seniors, and Virginia Early, junior.

At the last meeting of Kappa Delta Pi, held on Wednesday afternoon, the members heard a report of the organization's national biennial convocation, which took place at St. Louis in February. Mr. Williams, Williams' critic teacher and instructor in education, was the delegate to the local chapter.

Mr. Williams stated that the theme of the convocation was "Looking Backward, Twenty-five Years and Looking Forward Twenty-five Years." Since the meeting was in celebration of Kappa Delta Pi's silver jubilee, much time was devoted to reviewing the history of the organization.

The education honorary was founded at the University of Illinois as a co-educational group. In 1916 there were 16 chapters, and at the present time there are 192. Thirteen new chapters have been installed during the last two years, one of them being at Chaussible. The first chapter in Florida. This is Kappa Delta Pi's only graduate chapter. The fraternity has 30,000 members in international scan, said Mr. Williams. Miss Ora Saxon of Puerto Rico has petitioned for a chapter

An important step taken at the meeting said Mr. Williams was the changing of the name of the official publication from The Kadelphian Review to The Educational Forum. The magazine in the future will, according to Mr. Williams, be of a more general interest to the entire field of education.

An announcement was made at the convocation that Kappa Delta Pi is offering its third research award of $1000 for the best report on any significant phase of the history of education received, written by anyone interested in the field of education.

Mr. Williams stated that one of the ideas stressed most at the convocation was that Kappa Delta Pi should be more than a scholastic and professional group and should recognize and fulfill its opportunity for service.

Mrs. Kellum Is Head of FFWC

Resolution to Be Sent To Advisory Group

Mrs. John G. Kellum was elected president of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs at the state meeting held here last week. Mrs. Kellum, wife of the Williams Professor of Physics at State College for Women, is known throughout Florida for her work in the state federation and in the home demonstration field.

Mrs. Kellum's term as president also is a member of the D. A. R. and a past president of the Tallahassee Woman's club and a past state president of the Association of County Agricultural and County Home Demonstration Agents. Mrs. Kellum is also a member of the College Dames of Florida State College for Women, a member of Epsilon Sigma Phi honorary organization composed of university workers in service ten years or more, and an active worker in the Presbyterian church. She was the first home demonstration agent in old Dekalb county and later was home demonstration agent in Leon county.

Borton to Lead Vespers

Regular vespers will be led by Janice Borton. The meeting will be held in the Augusta room of the Conradi theater.

Senior Play To Be Thursday, Friday Night

Famed Oscar Wilde Skit Is Under Direction Of Kemper Moore

PROCEEDS TO GO TO SERVICE PLAN

Tallahassee Men Among Those Taking Parts in Play

The Importance of Being Earnest, by Oscar Wilde, the senior play, will be presented next Thursday and Friday nights, the week-end of the Junior-Senior prom. Thursday night everyone is invited, but Friday night is reserved for those persons and seniors and their dates.

Tickets on Sale

Tickets will be on sale this week in the lower floor of the Administration building. Any person selling ten tickets will be given one free according to Sara Krentzman, chairman Tallahassee men who are playing in the main cast are Kenneth Williams as John, Julian Alford as Algernon, and Clyde Oregon as Chasuble. The female parts are being played by Janice Borton as Lady Bracknell, Betty Boggs as Gwendolyn Fairfax, Eleanor Jenkins as Cecily Cardew, Mary Frances Whitaker as Miss Prism, Evelyn Collins as Merriman, and Pat Given as Lane.

Committees Named

The committee chairmen are publicity chairman, Gertrude Kuhn; rehearsal chairman, Margaret Cornell; Cecil Levey; usher committee, Betty Manning; programs, Sarah Grissett; properties, Virginia Ann Hall; stage manager, Sara Howes; lights, Mary Frances Whitaker; costumes, Gwendolyn Adair; and furniture, Vivian Marshall.

Mayor and Mrs. Wade Assist

Miss Henrietta Ruth Boyer, assistant professor of textiles and clothing and Miss Beth A. Thrush, instructor of art, are also assisting in costume and stage. The stage craft class is assisting with the stage work.

The committee under the direction of Miss Kemper Moore e.

The proceeds from this play will be used by Senior Boxes to carry out their service program. The members of Mortar Board who assisted in the production of this play, are Ann Norris, chairman; Margaret Graham, Minna Dunn, Edith Webb, Ruth Persons, Gertrude Kuhn, Lallah Torturro, Betty Boggs Meyer, Lucy G Lynn, Kitty Blood, Mary Frances Whitaker, and Marie Reddick, president.

Tennis Matches Will Be Played

Student-Faculty Games To Be Continued

The student-faculty tennis tournament, which was begun here last Saturday, will be resumed and continue this Saturday with two matches scheduled.

Playing this week will be Miss Elizabeth Autrey and Evelyn Gilbert, Miss Autrey's coach, and Evelyn Fraher; Dr. Paul F. Pinchon and Miss Mary Lou Bailey; Miss May Downey and Audrey Cooper.

Last Saturday morning in the first round Dr. C. P. Heinlein and Marjorie Horton won from Dr. Cecil P. Moore and Mae Perman; three sets of 6-2 6-4 6-2. At the same time Miss Mary Bettle and Valarie Hunt defeated Marie Jolfre and Miss Nellie Bond Drawdy; 6-4 6-4. Miss Bettle and Miss Hunt defeated Marie Jolfre and Miss Nellie Bond Drawdy; 6-4 6-4. Miss Bettle and Valarie Hunt defeated Marie Jolfre and Miss Nellie Bond Drawdy; 6-4 6-4. Miss Bettle and Valarie Hunt defeated Marie Jolfre and Miss Nellie Bond Drawdy; 6-2, 6-0. In another match Dr. C. P. Heinlein and Miss Mary Bettle defeated Miss Grace Fox and Florence Jones with a score of 6-4, 6-1.

Hosea Presents Recital

Miss Sara Hosea presented her senior speech recital at 8:15 o'clock last evening, in the Augusta Conradi theater. She read "Mary Rose" by Sir James M Barrie This was the first of a series of recitals recitals to be given by the speech department.

Camp Truck Leaves At Appointed Hours

The college truck which is used to take students to camp will leave only at scheduled hours Students are requested to be in back of Bryan hall on time as the truck driver has been asked not to wait for late arrivals.

Signed: Maude Flowers

F. Ward Breaks Former Record

FSCW Enters Nationwide College Telegraphic Swimming Meet

Florence Ward, freshman, last Saturday morning broke Martha Makremon's 100-yard crawl southern record of 1025 by two seconds, when she covered the distance in the intensive water meet.

The telegraphic meet held in the college pool was sponsored by Florida State College for Women Chemical college, and was entered by college swimmers from the country. Whether Florence's record will lead in the international contest will not be known until final results of the meet are announced during the week of April 7.

Other events in the meet included 40-yard crawl with Martha Makemon placing first with 23.8 and Florence Ward 23.1; 40-yard breast stroke, June Maule placed first with 33.2 and Irma Emrie second with 33.4; 40-yard back crawl with Martha Makemon placing first with 25.4 and Ward 25.6 and Marion Weeks, second with 26.4. 75-yard medley relay with Florence Weeks down the back, June Maule breast stroke, and Martha Makemon crawl in 1:03.

Certain scholastic requirements were necessary to enter the meet. A student must be a full time college under-graduate student, carrying Martha Herbert's physical education of school, and not be subjected to disciplinary action by college authorities.

The meet held here was under the direction of Miss Betty Wasden, swimming instructor, and Sara Hethcox, student manager.

Miss Wasden herself acted as starter and referee. Timers were Rose Panoseal, Ruth Deane, Claire Rochelle, Victoria Crap, Betty Outland and Sara Hethcox. Margaret Maxwell was scorer.

Students Oppose Honor Code Plan

Activities of Clubwoman Has Broad Scope

At a student meeting held in the Administration building last Saturday night a protest, in the form of resolutions, prayers and opposition to the honor code which the Judiciary has recently offered for consideration to the advisory committee on conduct.

The petition, which is to be sent to the chairman of the advisory committee, reads as follows: We, the undersigned realize that the conditions of honor in the College for Women should and must be improved. After having discussed the introduction of the honor system as formulated for the consideration of the advisory committee on honor, we wish to have our opinions represented as a part of the student body to be taken under consideration.

We choose as our representatives Irene Haimowitz and Elimsbeth Bedford.

Many weaknesses of the new code were pointed out and student opinion voiced by Miss Autrey. No new stands puts too much emphasis on cheating and does not go deep upon honor, thus detracting from primary aim of the code

It is hoped by these students that some system may be worked out by which more responsibility will be placed on the student rather than upon a monitor or professor. Other suggestions made at this meeting also advocate that there be a discussion of honor code at a meeting of the student body.

Miss Briggs Will Speak

Miss Amy Briggs will speak on Genre painting at the regular meeting of the American Association of University Women March 30, at eight o'clock in room 307 Administration building

Following the business meeting a social hour will be held in Dean Dorman's office.

Florida State Glee Club Will Offer Concert

Annual Presentation Is Under Direction Of E. Robertson

PROGRAM WILL BE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Present Group is Sharp Contrast to First Organization

The Florida State College Glee club will give its twenty-fifth annual Spring Concert on Wednesday evening, April 1 at 8:15 o'clock. This program will be presented under the direction of Miss Etta Robertson who will be assisted by Martha Reddick, accompanist and Mary Bowling Winslow and Martha Lee Wilkerson, accompanists.

The present Glee club is a great contrast to the original organization which gave its first concert in March, 1912. It consisted of nine members, three each as first sopranos, second sopranos and altos. The concert was held in the old Cox Concert, and the members dressed in old period gowns, said quaint old songs.

Spring Program

In sharp contrast to the Glee Club members of today will be dressed in modern evening gowns while the stage will have special lighting effects.

The program is:

To Music ..... Schubert-Baar

Rosalind Kennedy

Dark Is Thy Couch ..... Schubert-Baar

To Be Sung on the Water ..... Schubert-Brower

Ensemble and Solo ..... Prinz

Serenade ..... Schubert-Vogrich

Martha Herbert—violin obligato

Violin obligato, Martha Reddick

Hark, Hark the Lark ..... Schubert-Paar

The Seasons ..... Swedish Folk-Song

Spring ..... Arr by Gaines

Norwegian Mountain Song ..... Arr by Fiske

Marion Carson and Glee club

Song of Home ..... Silvestre

Polk-Song ..... Arr by Lester

Betty Johnson and Glee Club

The Devil Take the Indians ..... Arr by Traver

Miss Robertson and Glee club

Andante ..... Mendelssohn

Concerto ..... Mendelssohn

Spanish Dance ..... Lie Nieto

Brevo ..... De Palla

Miss Reddick

A Spirit Flower ..... Campbell-Tipton-Treharne

Clibiribibi ..... Pestalozza

Pop! Goes the Weasel ..... Schaffer-Kount

The Rocket ..... Victor Harris

Garnet and Gold ..... Arr by

Presennet of Club

The Glee club consists of forty-eight members and the officials of thirty-one, making a total of seventy-nine. The faculty sponsored of the Glee Club and chorus include:

Past sponsors: Josephine Binion, Sara Hethcox, Edna Moore, Mrs. Thomas Brown, Frances Hales, Bette Johnson, Marian Hefner, Margaret Graham, Mar-

Continued on page two

Redfearn Makes Plans for Award

Miami Man Offers Prize For History Paper

Word has been received here by the history department that Mr. Ed Redfearn, Miami lawyer has offered a prize of $50.00 to the student at Florida State College for Women who writes the best historical article. the subject of which is to be announced soon.

It is too late for this prize to go into effect for this year but Mr Redfearn signified his willingness to allow it to be carried over next year and for the succeeding years. Further announcements as to the topic and terms of the contest for next year will be made in the Flambeau next month. The terms will be drawn up by the members of the history department in cooperation with Mr. Redfearn.

Mr. Redfearn, who is greatly interested in the history of Florida and who has written frequently for the Florida Law Journal has also offered prizes of fifty dollars to the members of the school of law at the University of Florida Stetson, and the University of Miami for the writing the best articles of a legal nature.

Excited Cries Greet Victors Of Elections

"I guess I'd better go now and congratulate my opponent," was the cry of one excited girl just informed that she had been elected, which caused an increased roar of laughter from her many friends surrounding her.

This just shows how unstudied and confused, yet happy, were these victors who were greeted by a crowd in front of their door bellowing congratulations.

On election night everyone on campus was kept well-informed as to how the votes were falling before the final results were announced, for there were girls in every dormitory who seemed to take it upon themselves to become a "Paul Revere" and gallop up and down the halls shouting the latest returns for the benefit of those who rushed to their doors anxiously awaiting the outcome.

But the most fun of the election was waiting to see the reaction of the victor when the news was broken to her. One candidate got sick with nervous indigestion when her election was announced. Another just looked blank, then slowly a big grin appeared from ear to ear as her face lit up when the meaning sank in. It took three people to convince one girl that she was elected. Then tears began to flow and her arms were flung around one neck and then another.

When another girl was told that she won by an overwhelming majority she just knew there had been a mistake and that the votes had been counted wrong, or that it was an accident. One candidate kept shouting, "Is it authentic, are you positive? I don't believe you!"

Florida State Glee Club Will Offer Concert

Continued from page one

son Kirkland, Betty Wilson, Marion Carson.

Second soprano: Nellie Bahrt, Lois Bowen, Annabelle Larsen, Clarnelle O'Steen, Virginia Pinney, Eleanor Daniels, Alma Bevill, Anita Lenhard, Helen Burns Jones, Josie McCollum, Marshies Cottingham, Chaugney Neil Coleman, Ruth Porter, Margaret Peacock, Mary Frances Pemberton, Mary Eagle, Jean Zacharias, La Nelle Thanns, Evelyn Fisher, Gertrude Rodgers, Elsie Renfroe, Marguerite Branan, Julia Beckman.

First altos: Ruth Knight, Evelyn Stump, Jane Hubbard, Barbara Hubbard, Evelyn Bayless, Marguerite Melvin, Maxine Ward.

Second altos: Margaret Endsley, Louise Bowery, Florence Wagner, Madeline Duncan, Pearle Shepard, Virginia Long, Esther O'Byrne.

Members of the chorus are: first sopranos: Elizabeth Carter, Mildred Seeklins, Katherine Kyle.

Second soprano: Anita Waider, Mary Elsie Pemberton, Valeria Stubbs, Anne Norris, Jeanne Harned, Bachara Swanston, Mary Ann Hart, Mary Lou Duncan, Mary Klueperberg, Mary Jane Bush, Julia Burnett, Leona Howe, Patricia Foster, Mary Catherine Scott, Esther Goodwin, Louise Hill.

First altos: Elva Melvin, Dorothy Scott, Jo Douglas, Roberta Rogers.

Second altos: Evelyn Edwards, Helen Birmingham, Mary Gober, Mary Price Pfink, Marsha Phillips, Betty Reed, Frances L. Ellis, Mary Lopez.

Plans for Intramural Games Near Completion

The coming of spring heralds the beginning of the Intra-mural activities on the campus, and all clubs, sororities, and dormitories are urged to enter teams in these various sports.

Under the supervision of Miss Betty Washburn, and managed by Dorothy Lancaster plans are near completion for intro-mural games of volley ball, tennis and archery. Of interest to the freshman is the announcement that the night of April 24 has been set for the annual freshman swimming meet. The set will be held as a feature of play nite to be held at that time All freshmen interested are urged to enter the meet.

Elections This Week Complete Campus Vote

Continued from page one

the organization against Viola Brooks: Marjorie Horton was elected secretary over Janet Cook, and Sara Lotie defeated Bunny Lowery for the position of treasurer. Marion Weeks was unanimously elected senior intramural manager.

In the Y. W. C. A. elections Margaret Stout defeated Kathryn Todd for the vice-presidency, Sarah Graham defeated Mary Jane Cullemore for secretary and Martha Lester was elected treasurer assinat Sara Nance.

Prof: Why was Ben Hur sentenced to the galleys?
Soph: Because Valerius Gratus didn't have a chariot with a "Turret Top"

Solid steel over your head certainly makes modern automobiles safer, and this improvement like many others has resulted from the pioneering work and vast resources of General Motors. Few people realize the initial cost of developing the "Turret Top," and it is only the fact that it is used on millions of GM cars which enables the average person to afford its benefits.

GENERAL MOTORS
A Public-Minded Institution
CHEVROLET · PONTIAC · OLDSMOBILE · BUICK · LA SALLE · CADILLAC

RESULTS OF CAMPUS ELECTIONS ARE TABULATED

JUDICIARY

Senior Representatives

407 Mary Kathryn Gibson
572* Betty Peck
404* Marie Murdock

Junior Representative

363 Phil Ashen
385* Louise Gehan
175 Ermine Lawrence
366 Frances Lewis
400* Dorothea Marsh
383* Betty Ostlund

Sophomore Representatives

579* Rebecca Ashton
309 Elsie Clark
512* Jean Gillies

Chairman of House Chairmen

323 Dora Helen Beagott
451* Shirley Stevens

House Chairmen

407 Myrtle Everett
515* Sara Hethcox
180 Anna Marie Mitchell
371* Bernice Oliver
361 Mary Ola Reynolds
506* Kathleen Rothrock
476* Sara Rutledge
411* Marion Ward
205 Holly Walker
447* Edith Manford

Chairman of Off-Campus Committee

312 Douglas Dabney
378* Catherine McGarry

Off-Campus Committee Members

560* Jean Clark
424* Ellen Fleming

* Indicates election.

580*	Winona Ireland
482*	Ruth Lind
449*	Frances Linsie
337	Margaret Neff
502*	Millard Sekins
385	Lillian Simmons
372	Mary Bowman Smith

Athletic Association

President

Beth Deane

Vice-President

388 Viola Brooks
413 Felicia West

Secretary

229 Janet Cook
567 Marjorie Horton

Treasurer

336 Myrtle (Bunny) Lowery
407 Sara Lytle

Senior Intermural Manager

Marion Weeks

Y. W. C. A.

Only Y. W. C. A. members can vote for these officers.

President

436 Janet Richardson
175 Anne Norris

Vice-President

388 Margaret Stout
241 Kathryn Todd

Secretary

188 Mary Jane Gallemore
408 Sarah Graham

Treasurer

308 Martha Lester
266 Sara Nance

Campus Humor Runs Away

Girls Who Awaken You Just As the Breakfast Bell Is Ringing Are Public Enemies No. One, Also the Cocoa Spiller

BY ELIZABETH TURNER

I've always admired a good sense of humor; in fact, everyone admires a good sense of humor, but the senses of humors I have encountered as F. S. C. W. by far surpass anything I ever anticipated in my younger days.

I had just about decided that youth was devoid of humor until I found out what sort of things appealed to the average college girl's sense of humor.

Isn't it lovely to be awakened as the breakfast bell is ringing, by a terrific knock at your door and a cheerful, "Are you going to breakfast?" It's perfectly obvious all that time that you hadn't planned to go to breakfast, and now you are awakened. It's too late to go to breakfast, and instead of the soothing sleep you had planned, you toss around trying to get away from the tantalizing bacon odor of breakfast.

No, it isn't so lovely, but it is one of the thousand little thoughtlessnesses that may be expected every day of your dorm friends —and it is supposed to be funny.

Then, too, I've always found it particularly amusing to be lulled to sleep on the afternoon by the soft music of the radio, and after having achieved a sound sleep, to be abruptly plucked and awakened with, "You lazy thing! Don't you know that you can't sleep with the radio going!" Certainly you can't sleep with someone shaking you brutally.

Some people find it a lot of fun to be in the infirmary and have a room mate or some other thing equally as annoying came under their window to entertain them. Don't tell them how lovely it is outside and how funny they think it is because the patient's temperature just won't get down to normal so that they can be released from the infirmary.

And one of life's biggest jokes is for one student to bluff her way along in class, never studying, and get a higher semester grade than the girl from whom she has copied all her work during the semester.

It's very funny when someone spills a glass of water in her lap but it's funnier if it's milk or cocoa instead.

And there's nothing that puts us into hysterics more than for someone to fall down the steps and it's even more humorous if a leg is broken.

When an unfortunate dancer trips on the floor at play-night, her friends gather about her, titter, giggle, and beg her to do it again.

An embarrassed and modest freshman is the laughing stock of the whole dormitory as she tests the heel off her shoe on the board walk going to the Gym.

I'm afraid I can't convey to you our funny was the situation which arose last week when a girl who was traveling at a fast rate speed, on skates, fell and skidded on her right eyebrow for long fifteen feet. She did have to have a stitch taken in her forehead. I true, but look at the entertainment she afforded her companions.

Then when a girl gets fat restrictions inflicted on her, that's a yo good for a laugh. Just think, she can't leave campus, have dates, can't even go to the Sweet Shop! Have you ever heard of anything so funny?

It always makes us just too hilarious to go into the smoking room and find three bridge fiends subjecting an unsuspecting victim to a three or four hour bridge session. The more mistakes she bewildered novice makes, the more uncontrollable a one our mirth.

The thing that appeals to my sense of humor is to be an eye witness to one who receives quite a jolting shock while fooling around with radio wires.

Some people had rather pour vinegar or salt into some one else's glass of water at dinner than to eat. You've no idea what fun may be derived from such unless you have tried it.

And there's something else you must try, if you haven't tried it already. Trip some one and see how graceful the spills are. It's long, face downward. If there's mud on the ground—so much the better.

Another way to produce a laugh from your friends is to pull a chair out from under one of your friends just as she is preparing to sit down. This works better in the dining hall. A good laugh will be forthcoming.

It's just too funny for words when a girl comes into her room and a group of her friends looking innocent in their glee, inform her that they have just "cleaned up" the remains of a box that had just gotten from home that morning.

When someone gets caught in the rain and arrives at class with a drippin, bedraggled, sheep's nothing in the world any funnier —except when the girl catches a cold which develops into double pneumonia.

All this may sound absurd, and it would be absurd except for the fact that it is true. Girls actually laugh at such things as I have mentioned.

For some strange reason, anything that happens among a group of girls is extremely and excruciatingly funny, while if these same things were analyzed and one found them humorous, it would be truth, be only disgusting.

Girls find misfortune, pain, humiliation, and anger funny.

I can see no explanation for such senses of humor—it's just that everything's funny—a good murder or the crunching of bones —Let's laugh!

THE SWEET SHOP
708 W. Jefferson — Opposite Gilchrist
Phone 109 — We Deliver

WEEK-END SPECIALS

Strawberry Shortcake	10c
Fresh Strawberry Sundae	15c
Goody Special with Hot Fudge	10c
Single Dip Ice Cream Soda	5c

"Names Make News" Is Adage Controlling College Publicity

Continued from page one

about Commencement always receive wide "play." Where college events are known some time ahead, the publicity for such is sent out months in advance of the actual occurrence. stories being woven around whatever new angles have developed. Phi Mu Kappa's coming to Florida State college last spring, the biggest single story of last year, is an example of this kind.

By subscribing to a clipping service, the publicity office gets clippings of practically every story written about Florida State college. In many instances the news re-appear in far-away places particularly where unusual or humorous facts are concerned. For instance the publicity office gave the Associated Press a little story about Eugene Ormandy, director of the Minneapolis symphony, being surprised to find his three Flambeau interviewers without "southern accents." This story appeared in such places as Boston, Minneapolis, Denver, and other cities and it afforded a splendid way to work in the fact that Florida State college has a cosmopolitan student body with girls enrolled from sixteen other states besides Cuba and the Canal Zone Another time the Associated Press used a story about Florida State College being the third largest woman's college in America. This story was printed in sixteen states besides Florida.

The news bureau of Florida State College for Women is a comparatively new department of the college, having been established in the spring of 1929 under the direction of Professor Yates of the journalism department. In the fall of that year Mrs. Louis A. P. S. C. W. graduate of the class of 1928, was appointed as director. She had been doing the publicity work single-handed until October, 1935, when Rachel Pitchford, reporter on the Daytona Beach News-Journal, and also an F. S. C. W. graduate of the class of 1929, was added to the staff.

F. S. C. W. Sends Seven People to S. I. A. S. G. Gathering in Atlanta

Florida State College for Women will be represented by seven delegates at the convention of the Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Government, which is being held March 27-29 at Agnes Scott college in Atlanta, Georgia.

Katherine Blood, president of S. I. A. S. G. left Thursday for Atlanta, as did Mary Jeanne McKay and Martha Masterson, recently elected president of C. O. A. and chairman of Judiciary, respectively. Dean Olivia R. Dorman, Miss Edith West, assistant professor of classics, Mary Raulerson and Marion Conn will leave today.

It is customary for newly elected president of C. G. A. and chairman of Judiciary to attend the S. I. A. S. G. convention and Marion Conn were chosen as delegates by the senate.

The convention will conduct a study of student government problems and will serve as a partial training course for the newly-elected officers.

Dr. White Gives Talk At Open Forum Discussion Held Sunday Afternoon

Dr. Sarah P. White spoke on "Education and Conduct in Life" at the open forum discussion held in Sugg hall last Sunday afternoon.

There are three great examinations in life, according to Dr. White, and we are all called upon to take these examinations sooner or later, "We might call the first one an examination of our past, requiring all of the training of our youth. The second is an examination of our contemporaries, wherein we are examined for our ability to become social beings in the work with others. The third is an examination of ourselves, involving a knowledge of the facts of life and our ability to handle our great instincts."

A humorous point brought out by Dr. White was that the word "Bible" comes from a Greek word of much the same sound. "Strange to say," said Dr. White, "the word in Greek meant letters. Today it seems to mean a place for the employment of leisure."

Following Dr. White's talk, there was a discussion by the entire group. This was one of the series of open forums which are being held each Sunday afternoon during Lent.

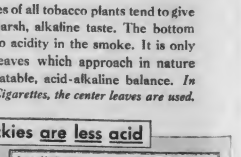
LINN REVIEWS FIRST RETREAT

Continued from page one

were Dr. Bellamy, Dr. Liddell, and Miss Taylor. Other members of the Executive Board who assisted in the activities of the Retreat included Miss Marian Irish, Dr. Henry Bellamy, Miss Elizabeth Lunn, Dr. Elizabeth Andrews, Dr. Edward Conradi, Miss Sarah Thomson, and Miss Lillian Cross.

The following students served as delegates from F. S. C. W.: Martha Masterson, Frances Lewis, Virginia White, Martha Lester, Kathryn Todd, Mary Frances McKay, Mary Parker, Beverly Brown, Barbara Hubbard, Jane Hubbard, Margaret Stout, Charlotte Kemper, Marcia Lander, Sarah Graham, Janice Borton, Betty Hatch, Betty White Winifred Ewart, Florence Nash, Helen Cale, Mary Jeanne McKay, Mary Parker, Beverly Brown, Barbara Beasley, Mary Emily Parker, Carol Harrison, Sarah Hebron, and Dora Helen Beagott.

Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company



Each Puff Less Acid

A LIGHT SMOKE
OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

The top leaves of all tobacco plants tend to give a definitely harsh, alkaline taste. The bottom leaves tend to acidity in the smoke. It is only the center leaves which approach in nature the most palatable, acid-alkaline balance. In Lucky Strike Cigarettes, the center leaves are used.

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

4 RESULTS VERIFIED BY INDEPENDENT CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS

Luckies—"IT'S TOASTED"

Your throat protection—against irritation —against cough

FLORIDA STATE ALUMNAE NEWS

nside College Gates

BY PEARLE SHEPARD

ics important among the in-ortant happenings around Flor-
State campus is the result of week's elections. But more esting probably to the stu-ts was the inauguration of the en Election system." For the time the candidates were en opportunity before vot-to express their policies. They e done in speeches before the dent body at convocation last nesday, immediately following elections carried on that afternoon ballots.

Mary Jeanne McKay, Tampa, elected president of College ociation, defeating with Whitaker, also from Tampa,
Rita Mansueto, Fort Lauder-ale, won over Mary Miller, Or-ndo for the office of chairman judiciary.

Marie Taylor, Fort Pierce, re-ved the position of vice-presit under Council, St. Cloud, and arlie Faulkenon, Okeechobee, s elected Latin to succeed
e prudencia, respectively. Wini-ed Evart, Miami, won the po-ion of secretary to the associan.

The editors of the three publi-ons are Hazel Bowman, Bevie-
, Flambeau; Daisy Parker, ahassee, Annuals; and Frances ch, Punta Gorda, Flastacowo.
anime managers for the two blications, respectively, are Lil-n McGuire, St. Augustine; Alma
Spicer, Chipley, and Julia Vir-
Stone, Manatee.

• • •

Three important changes have en made at the college recently.
First, an educational cause and ect in the faculty senate which up-recommendations of the grad-committee has decided to olish quarters. This means ons that, at the first and third arters no grades will be issued m the registrar's office, with exception of "unsatisfactory" ades which will be sent to those dents whose standings have n below a "C" average. To ce Dr. Hazel Spencer, associ-professor of English and irman of the grading committee this action was taken as a p to lessen the importance of des for better and more effective rning.

The freshman cabinet and the freshman commission will be com-ined to form a new organization ed the commission, that is to ve pen plan is pleased by the cole council and student body ident. Members of the freshman ss will be tapped in the near ure for this purpose when there ed is to be a training group service to the campus. In oming the members of the or-nization which will be from the ent freshman class several ls will be considered. For the ld be a freshman straw vote ld be taken to determine who ny girls the freshman class fa-thinks worthy of the responsi-
ty of the office.

Next meeting concerning ions work which will provide more freedom and stability the students and departmental anges were adopted recently the faculty senate. In the reed regulation the major pro-ram, the student department and honors committee are join-in the power to approve the ograms for honors work. Under old regulations the honors mmittee alone approved the seions. In the advanced lodeation which the major pro-ram and the student are ven more freedom in deciding the nature and scope of the dent's work.

• • •

The importance of Being rnest to the student body is ell senior play which will be esented April 2 and 3, the work one of the greatest writers, s Kreuzman of Milton, is ern and delightful comedy full dramatic director, is directing play which is being sponsored Mary Roach.

• • •

Green, Eve honorary, tapped new pledges recently.
ere brought into the society
ville: Marjorie Harris, Fl-
Mrs Kreutzman, Milton;
Mary Akin, Winter Garden; Sal-
Lenn, Lakeland; Rose Panow-
Milton, and Marjorie Pitts-
Suwanee. Sophomores tapped
Dorothea Marsh, Lynn Ha-
Marion Dean, St. Cloud; Phil-
Orlando; Betty Oglund,
Mange, Miami; Mary Tampa;
Lokes, Tampa; Cora Cheney,
Ala.; Viola Brooks, Mc-
Effie Lee Hall, Tallahasand Louise Gehan, Tallaha-

• • •

ulling team from the Uni-ity of Dayton, Dayton, Ohio, ing the affirmative side of question, "Resolved: That should have the power
ull by two-thirds vote me Court decision declar-
of congress unconstitu-

Newspaper Excerpts Give FSCW Week Activities Of Alumnae

The following newspaper accounts show the wide variety of alumnae activities during F.S.C.
W. Week. Due to limited space it is impossible to publish all write-ups in this issue of the Flambeau.
—EDITOR

An informal reception honoring
Dr. Edward Conradi, president of Florida State College for Women in Tallahassee, and his daughter, Miss Adelaide Conradi, was held in the Woman's clubhouse last evening after the church hour, with the Barlow alumnae as hostesses.

The reception room of the clubhouse was artistically decorated with bouquets of azaleas while calendulas graced the sun parlor.
The refreshment table was laid gold being featured in the appointments of the dainty plates.

Mrs. Pinson Childers was chairman for the evening and introduced the guests of honor and Mrs. A. H. Blanding, who was unable to attend. Mrs. Conradi was in serving fruit punch and wafers were Mrs. Joseph Hutton, Mrs. J. W.
Pamplin, Mrs. Ben Evans, and Mrs. W. L. Seward.

Other members of the alumnae who acted as hostesses were Mrs.
Frank Pierce, Mrs. Ben Stevens,
Metcalfe, Miss Katherine Swearingen, Mrs. Roy T. Gallemore,
Mrs. Ralph Hendricks, Mrs. Wilson Driver, Mrs. W. R. Jordan,
Mrs. Arthur Mosely, Mrs. Arthur
Holland, Mrs. R. Borden Wilson,
Mrs. Alfred Chiles, and Mrs. Spesard Holland.

Dr. Conradi spoke delightfully on the development of education in the state college grow to its present size and position of importance among the educational institions of the country. His audience was composed of alumnae, and friends of the college enjoyed the opportunity to become re of the state's and the college's earlier and smaller days.

During the course of the program three college songs were sung, the F. S. C. W. song being played by the composer, Dr. Dodd.

Reserving for the luncheon hour
Dr. Dodd, Miss Mildred Kirkhuff,
Miss Dorothy Hefner, Miss Caroline Mathews, Miss Mary Lou Bennett, Miss Alice Reid, Miss Margaret
Turner, Miss Robert Dodd, Miss
D. B. Sutton, Mrs. Alex Knight,
Mrs. David Eckbert, Miss Elina-beth Conradi, Miss Mary Lou Milton, Miss Betty Ruth Jennings,
Miss Earl B. Gilbert, Miss Mary
McCoy, Mrs. Julia Fuller, Mrs.
Thomas Dauphin, Miss Jessie
Miller, Miss Maybelle Martin, Mrs.
Lee Parker, Miss Mary Frances
Bedford, Miss Mary Bennett, Miss
Zoe Wright, Mrs. H. H. Hastings,
Miss Martha Sutton, Miss Frances
Sutton, Mrs. Paul Hullinger, Miss
Louise Goodbread, Mrs. W. W.
Stokes, Miss Ruth Bell, Miss Mary
Claire Moore, Miss Louise Burgess,
Miss Pauline Cawthon, Miss Mar-
Gladis, Mrs. William Vanderlipe,
Miss Grace Gamble, Miss Frances
Register, Mrs. J. W. Alison, Mrs.
A. H. Blanding, Mrs. Pinson Childress, Mrs. T. M. McDuffee,
Mrs. A. J. Lawlor, Mrs. W. H.
Lawlor, Mrs. Ben Stevens, Mrs.
Mildred Hall, Mrs. Andrew Miller,
Mrs. Rufus Mann, Mrs. Christo-phine Hanner, Miss Emma Keis, and others.

—The Bradenton Herald.

• • •

CHIPLEY

Honoring Miss Rowena Longmore, president of Florida State College for Women, members of Chi-pley alumnae chapter entertained with a delightful luncheon at Chipley Country Club.

One of the interesting features of the meeting was the unveiling of a F. S. C. W. club, with Mrs. F. B. Calloway as chairman deals of the college that year the alumnae provided interesting and a source of amusement to the students. Since that time the club has changed so much in sentiy-ity of Florida have been announced by the executive board dent of the U. of F. freshman class. The queen of the annual freshman-sophomore week-end to be held in Gainesville today and tomorrow will be crowned by the class poll and the five runners-up will be her attendants.

• • •

Miss Hall presented Florida State college in the annual contest are Miss Mary Virginia Bell, Miss Eli-ber Baker, New Smyrna; Mary Virginia Fort, Miss Dorothy Ann
Hodges, Miami; Frances LaMotte,
Tampa, and Kathryn Patterson,
Graceville.

• • •

When the right wing of the st building was razed recently, the cornerstone laid in 1910 and, ins of being left before a small crowd containing many souvenirs was removed. Placed there by stu-

Merit Award Medallion Creates Much Interest

Interest in the Alumnae association's plan to give an award of merit at the May Homecoming is growing. About 19 nominations have been made thus far for prospective Florida State college candidates to receive the award. The award will be a handsome medallion. Exact number of graduates to receive the medallion has not yet been determined.

The committee to decide who gets the awards will meet early in April. Miss McAdam, 220 N. W.
Twenty-fifth street, Miami, is chairman. Work on the medallion is underway.

• • •

and Mrs. Olin Shivers es secretary-treasurer.

Miss Lonzine's remarks on the alumnae association and the college were received with much enthusiasm. Alumnae present for this enjoyable affair ranged from 1911 to 1935 and included: Irene
McSween Callaway, Nelia Wells
Shivers, Mary McSween Smith,
Pleda Parrior Huggins, Marion
Campbell Hutchinson, Frances
Whitted Bowen, Ruth McCeachy
Williams, Ruby Bowen Dunn,
Myrtle Harrell Shivers, Mary Ann
Warren, Marie Lingo Hudson, Lillie Cawthon Strickland, Rima Mc-son, Viola Parker, Beth Finley,
Carmel Brock Lewis, Mildred
Kilpatrick Bernschadt, Louise Pickle,
Mildred Fellows Morgan.

The luncheon hours Miss Longmire visited the Woman's Club of Chipley with the alumnae on "Some Returns of the State's Investment in Florida State College for Women."

Last week was marked by F. S.
C. W. meetings in all parts of the state in which much interest was manifested.

—Washington County News.

• • •

CLEARWATER

Committees for F. S. C. W. Week activities in Clearwater are as follows: publicity, Miss Sara DeKirk-patrick; program, Mrs. Thomas
Greene; dinner, Mrs. Grace Johnson,
Mrs. Ollie Goss, and Mrs. Lillian
Cooksey; decorations for dinner,
Miss Doris Lee, and Miss Uarda
Briggs; reservations, Mrs. Anna
Campbell, Miss Martha Carlton,
and Mrs. W. Layton Dunning.

The local club is sponsoring the following program: Monday, Mrs.
Thomas Johnson, alumnae tea from 3:30 on a fifteen-minute program over WFLA. Tuesday, dinner at the home of Mrs. Alex Knight, with Miss Cooksey and Miss Maude Mc-Call will speak at the Lions club dinner in Tampa. Wednesday, dinning at 6:30 p. m., and Miss Mc-Call will entertain members of the Woman's club in the afternoon.
Thursday, alumnae dinner at Schaeffer's restaurant, starting at 8 p. m.

—Clearwater Sun.

• • •

Members of the Florida State College for Women alumnae association gathered for a luncheon
Thursday night at Schaeffer's restaurant in connection with the state-wide celebration of F. S. C.
W. Week.

Mrs. Raymond Bellamy, profesor of sociology at F. S. C. W., was the principal speaker of the event.

Miss Virginia Anderson acted as toastmistress and the musical program were Miss Eloise Goss, Miss Virginal Walling, Mrs. Reed, Mrs.
Rumbley, and Miss Mildred Hall.

• • •

Alumnae attending the banquet were Miss Doris Lee, Miss Margaret Lee, Miss Jane Brock, Miss Sed of Miss Mary Ann Shirley of Largo, Miss Irene Northup of Miss Mary Ann Warren, Mrs. D.
McDonald, Miss Leura Newell,
Mrs. A. G. Wright, Mrs. R. L.
Rodgers, Mrs. George Johnson,
Miss Uarda Briggs, Mrs. Ollie
Mullen, Miss Virginia Anderson,
Miss Sara DeKirkpatrick, Mrs.
Martha Carlton, Mrs. Frances
Houchard of Largo, Mrs. R. J.
Knight of Largo, Mrs. Thomas
McLaughlin, Miss Meares, Miss Sara Byers, Miss Maud McCall, and Miss Virginia Walling.

• • •

DeLAND

The city's observance of Florida
State College for Women week, which is now being celebrated throughout the state, will include brief talks by alumnae before the civic and service organizations and a luncheon meeting at the club day afternoon.

Miss Ezra Campbell, chairman of the local arrangements committee, announced the following schedule of talks.

Thursday: Kiwanis Club, Mrs.
Marjorie Mosely; Rotary club,
Mrs. W. Layton Dinning; high school assembly, Mrs. Mosely.

Friday: U. D. C., Miss Kimball, retired faculty member.

All senior girls of the DeLand high school will be the guests of the local alumnae at a tea from 4 to 6 Friday at the home of Mrs.
J. E. Peacock.

—DeLand Sun News.

DeLand alumnae of Florida
State College for Women entertained girls of the senior class of DeLand high school Saturday afternoon with an informal tea at

Dixie County Club Reports Dues Paid

Congratulations are in order for the Dixie county alumnae club, which is the third Gamma Alumnae association. That club reports that its 16 members have paid their dues
100 per cent!

President of the Dixie county club is Miss Augusta Poer, of the class of 1924. Mrs. Dana Sparkman, secretary of the class of 1931, is secretary.

Crestville Gives Dance

Florida state college alumnae in Crestview and Niceville did not take part in "F. S. C. W. Week" this year but, instead, gave a benefit dance which resulted in $15 profit. This money was sent in to the alumnae office recently by Mrs. Cena Pilcher, the former Mayme Turner, of the class of 1930. The sum will be applied on the alumnae scholarship fund.

Library is Given Paper

The library of Florida State College for Women has received season a sheet from an old Key West newspaper which Mrs. Prince Allen Stockton, '13, found in some time ago. The paper dated 1845 and is in fine bulk, sides of it may be read.

Would other alumnae would contribute such as this to our treasures," said Miss Louise Morgan, librarian, upon receiving the old paper.

• • •

the home of Mrs. John E. Peacock of North Clara Avenue.

Miss Lonzine and the guests were entertained were exceptionally attractive with spring flowers.
Hugh sprays of plum blossoms were used in the sun parlor. The dining room was lighted for the rangement of dark red snappdragons in candelabra at the side of the flower throw.

The refreshment was at the floor, and in the receiving line were Mrs. Peacock, Miss Anna
Campbell, Miss Martha Carlton
and Mrs. W. Layton Dinning.

Mrs. A. H. Blanding and Mrs. F.
P. Hahn invited the guests to the alumnae dinner, which Frank Johnson poured from 4 to 8 o'clock and Miss Lucy Kimball at the door.

Assisting in serving were Mrs.
W. W. Flynn, Mrs. Ollie Mullen and Miss Frances M'Quarrie.

Mrs. Blanding and the high school students and alumnae of the college were guests at a theater party fair, which was one of many celebrations held throughout the entire state in connection with F. S.
C. W. Week."

—DeLand Sun News.

• • •

FT. LAUDERDALE

Nathaniel M Dailey, dean of the school of education of Florida
State College for Women, was guest speaker last night at the Fort Lauderdale luncheon club of the Alumnae Association of Brow-ard county, which met for the annual F. S. C. W. week. Miss Mildred Hall, president, presided for the evening, introduced Dean
Dailey.

Miss Elizabeth Atkison, accompanied by the harpist, Mrs. Frank Stranahan, sang two solos.
The spirit of the school was awakened by the singing of Miss Ruth Sara Helen Smith, freshman at the Tallahassee school, particularly by the Florida State college songs. Each alumnae and each guest responded to roll call by account of her vocational experience.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs.
Ruth Hendricks, president; Mrs.
Mrs. C. J. Rempe, secretary; Mrs.
Mrs. A. H. Blanding, treasurer.

Committees for the dinner were: program Mrs. Dictvenmueller, Mrs. Marie Joiner, Mrs. Genevieve Cooksey; reservations Mrs.
Irene Dichtenmueller, Mrs. F. H.
Hahn, Mrs. Mildred Chambers,
Miss Gertrude Boyd; reception
Miss Opal Atwater and Miss Anna
Belle Atwater; decorations Mrs.
Stewart and Miss Trivble.

Alumnae attending were from
Ft. Lauderdale, Miss Hazel Goss,
Miss Anderson, Miss Helen Bar-
Miss Atwater, Mrs. Wall, Miss
Irene Dichtenmueller, Miss Boyd,
Miss Trivble, Mrs. Ruth Sharp,
Miss Ola May Grant, Miss Mary
Mrs. Dictvenmueller, Miss Mildred Hall, Miss Mary Ann Warren,
Miss Richard, Miss Olga Kanet, Mrs. Mabel
Mrs. Mildred Chambers.

From Pompano were Miss San Hobson, Mrs. Louise Fox, Miss
Henrietta Chapman and Miss Cal-ie Johnson, and from Hallandale,
Mrs. Ester Lindstedt Seeter, Mr. and Mrs. Ulric J. Bennett were honored guests.

—Ft. Lauderdale Daily News.

• • •

FT. PIERCE

Local observance of Florida
State College for Women Week

Miss Anna May Tracy Has Built New Home

Miss Anna May Tracy, Florida
State college's genial alumnae secretary, whose student motto is to know sooner or later, is wearing a broad smile these days. The reason? She's just built a home near the campus and she's move-in this week-end.

Her new home is a small two-story apartment of modified English type construction. The lower half is built of Wakulla county limestone and the upper half of timber. The apartment is located at 410 W. Call street where Miss Tracy will be at home to all her friends. Miss Flavia Gleason, state home demonstration agent, who has been living at the dietitian's cottage with Miss Tracy will share the apartment with the college dietitian.

All Miss Tracy's spare moments will be spent in planting a garden.
She says.

Canovas Announce Birth

Mr. and Mrs. Levy Canova, Jr., of Miami, announce the birth of a baby boy born about the middle of December. Mrs. Canova is the former Mona Alderman, class of 1928. The baby has been named
Levy Canova, III. The couple moved into their newly built home a few months ago.

• • •

was featured by an address by Dr.
Randall, president of the institution, to alumnae at a luncheon meeting Saturday noon in the New Fort Pierce hotel.

Mrs. Alto Adams, as president of the alumnae association, pre-was in charge of the affair, which took place in the sunrise room of the hostelry, where table decorations of bougainvillea, nasturtiums and calendulas were used to emphasize the college colors of garnet and gold.

Mrs. Adams introduced Dr.
Randall. Following a group of group sang college songs. Mrs. J.
E. Noble, Jr., playing the accompaniment.

—Ft. Pierce News Tribune.

• • •

GAINESVILLE

One of the most important of the season's events in the University City was the alumnae tea Saturday from 4 to 6 in the Woman's club, planned in observance of the nationwide F. S. C. W.
Week with Miss Kemper Martin and Miss Mary Bennett as hostessses as guest speaker.

At the door Mrs. Robert Harris, Mrs. Frank Adams, Jr., and Mrs. Howard Bishop welcomed the guests and directed them to the receiving line composed of Dr. J. R. Benton, president of the Gainesville branch of the alumnae association, Miss Kemper Moore, honored alumnae and Dr. John J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida, and honorary member of the Gainesville branch of the Florida State group: Mrs. J. M. Lang and Mrs.
S. W. Ames.

The receiving setting was formed in the assembly room by the use of palms, ferns and bouquets of yellow jasmine in profusion against the walls. Mrs. D. T.
Stone and Mrs. Harry Cannon.

Mrs. George G. Hack led the guests to the dining room, where with piano accompaniment furnished by Miss Mary Ann Shirley
A light reminiscent skit of college days by Misses Mary Ann
Ayley, Miss Helen Lynch, Mrs.
Harry E. Wood and Mrs. Ralph Yon was enthusiastically received.

Dr. J. R. Benton introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Miss Kemper Moore, one of the alum-nnaiae at Florida State College for Women. Her talk was delightfully humorous and reminiscent from the assembled members and guests.

Mrs. Horace F Zetrouer and Mrs. Ralph Yon presided at the tea—and were assisted in serving by Mrs. W. J. Ferrazzi and Mrs. A.
Mrs. Wayne Sutton, Mrs. O. H.
Hagtsmans, Mrs. Hugh Pillsbury,
Mrs. Ralph Yon, Mrs. Frank W.
John Wilson, Mrs. Howard Bishop,
Mrs. Fred C. Cubberly, Mrs. E.
Mrs. Harry Cannon, Mrs. W. J.
Blanding, Mrs. A. W. Tenney,
Mrs. W. J. Ferrazzi, Mrs. Horace
F. Zetrouer, Miss Elizabeth Pugh,
Mrs. R. E. Harriwer, Mrs. O. T.
Mrs. Thomas Fielding.

Mrs. L. W. Traxler, Mrs. J.
Russell McCaughan, Miss Gwendolyn Lloyd, Miss Marian Youngs,
Miss Lucy Lang, Mrs. Robert Carter, Mrs. K. F DeBusk, Miss Minnie McAuley, Mrs. J. M. Lang,
Miss Clarissa Rolfe, Miss Mary
Lynch, Mrs. Rosalind Williamson,

Acquaintances Renewed by F. S. C. W. Graduates At Dietetic Gathering

The annual meeting of the Florida State Dietetic association on this campus last week-end was the occasion for a reunion of a number of F. S. C. W. graduates who are members of the dietetic association.

Helen Spiller, graduate of F. S.
C. W. in 1931, completed her term as secretary-treasurer of the organization. Mary Lib Gill, F. S.
C. W. graduate of 1931, was program chairman and Inez Acre, F. S. C. W. graduate of 1930, and Mary Lois were members of the nominating committee.
Helen is a dietitian at Riverside hospital, Jacksonville, while Mary
Lois and Inez are dietitians at Vo-
Duval county hospital, Jacksonville, and Mamie Pain hospital at St. Petersburg, respectively.

Miss Anna May Tracy was re-elected president of the dietetic association.

Miss Mary E. Keown, district home demonstration agent, who has headquarters at this college is one of the speakers on a pro-Rico where she spent eighteen months before coming to Florida.
Miss Nelle J. Morris, and Mrs.
Harry E. Wood.

—Gainesville Daily Sun.

• • •

GRACEVILLE

Alumnae of Florida State College for Women in Graceville attended the meeting of the Woman's club in that city, at which the importance of the college in lege faculty was the speaker. Mrs.
J. F. Adamson was the alumnae chairman in charge.

• • •

JASPER

The Jasper Parent-Teacher's association met Thursday in the school auditorium to observe
Founder's Day and F. S. C. W.
State College week. Mrs. Frank Bamberg, Jr., president, presiding.

Mrs. W. B. Lewis, chairman of the publicity committee, introduced the distinguished guest speaker for Florida State College Week. Dr. Marion Jewell Hay, associate professor of education of the college, who gave an address on, "Return of Your Investment in Talk Made at Parent-Teacher College." At the close of this talk Mrs. Clarence Tyson, leader of history in Tallahassee, who accompanied Miss Hay to Jasper, was introduced and the visitors were presented corsages by
Mrs. Myrtle Jennings, Florida
State College student, now teaching in the Jasper high school.

Following the business of the afternoon the Florida State Woman's College Alumnae club was entertained with a tea honoring the distinguished guests by the executive board of the Parent-Teacher association and pas-sidence, a delightful one. Mrs. J.
E. Register, hostess, presented the guests in the dining room and rooms and green candles were used in the decorations. Miss Sara Sarah Elizabeth Byrum Jim Corbett, and Mrs. Art Bradley assisted in serving.

Florida State College alumnae present were: Mrs. Myrtle Jennings, Miss Alice Bell, Miss Estelle Register, Miss Sarah Bradley, Miss Mamie Lila Montigomery, Miss Susie Harrison, Mrs.
Jim Corbett, Miss Sarah Byrum, Mrs.
Rhoden Tolen, Miss Merle McDermid, all of whom were members of the Jasper school faculty, Mrs.
Art Bradley, Mrs. Bamberg, Mrs.
Bertha Hunter Register, Mrs. Gertrude Wickey Register, Miss Jim Corbett, Miss Sara Elizabeth Bryan Simmons, Miss Hilda Mae Marcus Gay, and Miss Olive Wakefield.

—Florida Times Union.

• • •

JACKSONVILLE

Committees for the luncheon of F.
S. C. W. Week, local alumnae of the college honored Dr. aKthryn
Mary Mc Call, dean of women of Miss Elizabeth Young instructors from the college and the college entertained at the George Washington hotel.

Also giving short talks were Miss Dorothy Dodd, alumna, Mrs.
Ruth Hendricks, former alum-residence hall; Miss Elizabeth
Young, professor of economics,
Miss Mary Bennett, W. S. Manning, alumna of 1901; and Miss Caroline DeMontigny, local alumnae chairman.

Those attending the luncheon were: Mildred Greene, Mrs. Trusman Hoyt, Theresa Palmer, Virginia Bryant, Carolina DeMontigne, Mrs. Rosser, Christine Mc-Kinnon, Margaret Flook, Nelle
Cook, Elizabeth Crenshaw, Charlotte Jelks, Viola Yeomans, Julia
Rosser, Mrs. T. T. Sloan, Mrs. W
S. Manning, E-alyn Markham,

Two Local Women Are Recognized in Story

Recognition has come to two women closely associated with
Florida State College for Women, and readers of the April issue of the Woman's Home Companion have conceded.

In an article on page four,
titled "What Makes Women Great." Anna Steese Richardson has written a description of two women whose she does not call by name but whom readers of alumnae on this campus believe to fit Miss Anna May Tracy, college dietitian, and Mrs. John O. Kellum, wife of Florida State College's business manager.

Mrs. Richardson visited the Florida State college campus last November during a tour of Florida, accompanied by Mrs. Kellum, then first vice president of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. T. V. Moore, of Miami, was elected president of the state at that time and Mrs. Myrtle Taylor Bradford, of Miami.

• • •

Ruth Metin Succumbs At Chicara University

Ruth Metin, B.S.—1930, died this month of pneumonia at Chicago, according to word received by Miss Ruth Cromer, assistant professor of mathematics.
Funeral services were held last Friday at Orlando, Ruth's former home.

The F. S. C. graduate also was a graduate of Rush Medical school at the University of Chicago. She had served her internship at Tampa municipal hospital and was taking a post graduate course in radiology at the University of Chicago at the time she was stricken with pneumonia.

Ruth also had served as instructor at the University of Chicago and was associated with Florida State college for a summer she took care of Dr. Weingart's practice while he was on a European tour.

Ruth received her high school education in Orlando where she was invested as the first "golden arrow" of the Girl Scouts of Orange county.

Continued on page six

Florida Harding, LaVita Tidwell,
Mabel Barnes, Lou Ellen Rose,
Pauline Richardson, Ann Richardson, Katherine Mary Lou Sanderson, Georgia Ruth
Work, Willie Pearl Wilson, Alberta Burns, Burnie Helen Vriese Sherman, Marie Payne,
Margaret Campbell, Jane Duff,
Hazel Royal, Elizabeth Ransaur,
Tatum, Marie Parrish, Mar-
ies Grumbine Christie, Lorelle
Tait, Elizabeth Poole, Elizabeth
Mary Bennett, Mary Margaret
McGraw, Martha Lee Segui, Alice
Reid, Mary Elizabeth Bedford and Mildred Denton.

Miss Blanding depicting interesting phases of life at the college in various downtown more houses, of which alumnae Miss Carolina DeMontigne and Miss Flavia Gleason, members of the following schedule of speakers were heard during the week:

Thursday, dinner at Mrs.
Truman Hoyt before the South
Jacksonville Civic club. Tuesday, Mrs. Lee McCubbin before the Riverside club. Wednesday, Dr. Abbey before the Woman's club. Mrs. Lee McCubbin before the Kiwanis and Exchange clubs.
Thursday, Dr. Abbey at Landon and Lakeshore high schools. Friday, Dr. Abbey at the Lions club, Mrs. Lee McCubbin at the high school.

In addition the following gave short talks. Monday, Miss Carolina DeMontigne. Tuesday, Mrs.
Lee McCubbin. Wednesday,
Judge Burton Barns. Thursday,
Dr. Abbey. Friday, Miss Flavia
Day, Mrs. Lee McCubbin.

—Florida Times-Union.

• • •

KISSIMMEE

Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrew, director of personnel, met at an informal tea on Friday with alumnae members of the Business and Professional Women's club, and girls of the senior class at the Kissimmee high school. Miss Ruth Cromer, '30, and Miss Elsie Rosen was chairman of the affair.

• • •

KEY WEST

Dr. Edward Conradi, president of the Florida State College at Tallahassee, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Louise Conradi, is due to arrive in Key West this evening over the highway to be in attendance at the F. S. C. W. Week activities in Key West.

Miss Conradi and daughter will be entertained this evening at a dinner to be given at the Casa Cuba home of Mrs. Bethel by the officers of the college alumnae in Key West.

He will address the students of the high school tomorrow morning and will give a talk to Rotarians at a meeting to be held at the noon hour tomorrow.

Tomorrow afternoon he will address the Woman's club and tomorrow night he will be enter-

The Florida Flambeau

Member

EDITORIAL STAFF

RUTH PERSONS ..... Editor
ALTHEA SMITH ..... Associate Editor
VICTORIA KUHN ..... Managing Editor
HAZEL BOWMAN ..... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Features, Martha Baker; Sports, Elaine Klepper; Society, Margaret Lafferty; Exchanges, Virginia Early; Literary Editor, Eleanor Williams; Copy Editor, Anne Eichhart; Outside News Editor Grace Mary Webster; Art Editor, Caroline Adams.

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1915 at the post office at Tallahassee Fla. under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Florida State Sells Old Lamps for New

Aladdin had the right idea when he rubbed his wonderful lamp in hopes of new and better experiences.

At F. S. C. W., March winds, carrying the tale of a student body that thinks before it votes, have blown us into the elections season. That student body is to be congratulated on its response to last week's opportunities to use its voting power. Now that the March winds have subsided enough to allow the new torches to be lighted, the weather may at last be favorable for a really fair weather ahead for Florida State College.

As the 1935-36 campus offerials relinquish their trusts others will follow to continue their work during the coming years. And the procession marches on.

During the coming year there is much to worry on. Traditional attitudes have been attacked on every side during the past few months, and now that new theories are assuming definite shape, there is much ground work to be done before the blueprint of the new regime is ready for use.

Most of all there are the elections themselves. Not for a new keynote was struck when the College Government pendulum began a campaign to abolish the time-worn finger-to-lip tendency so long characteristic of our method of choosing our new sets of leaders. A list of girls qualified to run for publications offices was published so that the voters might have something fairer than rumors or sorority swapping tactics on which to base an intelligent decision. Candidates for major offices spoke for themselves, both in print and before the student body in convocation. Freedom of discussion and accurate information afforded enormous aids to voting. Voting by one's own, not one's neighbor's opinion, voting for principles, not personalities, voting with interest not just because one happened to pass the polls on a day of the results, indicated, at least by the large percentage of students who cast their votes this year.

If, in the coming year, the same problem remains to a lesser degree, but nonetheless apparent. New officers of the campus governing body will have to decide whether always the tentative system can be improved, or declaring carefully the phrase now so ominously in use which describes our present elections season as one of "open politics."

Secondly, suppose all our campus organizations, honoraries, and committees really functioned. Is this a real worthy of achievement, or impossible? At any rate, the organization is in the air. Shall we abolish our groups which are united and useful in name only or shall we plan new programs and start doing about it?

Student government has taken great interest in program of liberal trend. Will our new officials remain individuals, progressive in their own private policies but ready to listen to experience and compromise or will they unite blindly in the new progressive body and so cement the structure that students and faculty advisors have built up together during the past two years?

And if honor is to be redefined at Florida State, will that definition and resulting regulatory action look toward the elementary or the mature method in dealing with the problems recurrent always under that heading? Are we to educate ourselves to a higher level of integrity in everyday practices, or are we to be relegated to the horrors of being policed, from whose bonds any system of social regulations has only emerged in the very recent past?

Lastly, and most important of all, are we to realize that the expressed opinion of the American college student is needed, is respected, and is a patriotic duty to our country, and that the voice of that student should carry meaning into the arena of public opinion which he will soon enter? Historically and socially we are more mature than the preceding generation. We have all their mistakes as data to begin with. We ought to do a better job than our parents did. We are freer from economic and social superstition than they were. What the undergraduate thinks today, society will think tomorrow. In education for the ends just stated to advance and to broaden, are we to forget our social idealism in frantic attempts to learn only how to keep ourselves supplied with bread and butter?

Coup d'etat, Via Campus Grapevine

Recently, the campus grapevine whispered if around that in the near future the Honorable Faculty would, by a coup d'etat, dethrone the royal grade system.

How will the courtiers to the great King A react in the crisis? The ladies-in-waiting to Lovely Queen B will have nervous breakdowns, no doubt, if the radicals get control of the government. They have had a monopoly on the realm of Education for such a long time that evacuation of the throne will be a hard blow to the hoodwinked subjects who can see things only with the eyes of the royal A and B, Prince C and court clown D.

Rumor had it that a provisional government would be set up headed by President Satisfactory, who is to be assisted by a cabinet which will handle all difficulties of state. The duty of the cabinet will be to report cases of Unsatisfactory work among the subjects.

Diplomats have been working on the plan at the League of New and Better Ideas for some time, and it is said that they have considered it best to settle the matter by arbitration for the time being, while keeping in mind the ultimate end of the revolutionaries, viz., that grades be abolished as a measure of determining a subject's intelligence and progress in the field of Education.

The plan that the arbitrators propose for trial is that: At the end of each semester, grades will be given as usual, but instead of giving grades on the quarter, the Honorable Faculty will report the work on the students as Unsatisfactory, in cases that fall below C. Eventually, it is hoped that all those concerned with the art of education will come to realize the advantages of the proposed plan of abolishing grades, and in the end the ABCD system will be relegated to the past.

At last testing aside, we students of the Florida State College for Women should take an intelligent attitude toward the question. As one professor on campus puts it, we must "critically evaluate" the scheme that tend to further progress in higher education.

If you stop to think you must realize that nearly every student you know is working for grades. This is a broad statement but nevertheless true. Our system, though, if you can depend on the freed of student conversation after examinations, is not, "Has higher education meant anything more fo us this quarter?", but "Did you make your grades?"

With the abolition of the present grading system, a higher standard would be set up for students to have as a goal. The incentive would no longer be an A or a B in a subject, but instead students would work for the sole purpose of learning.

Some contend that the new system would lower the standard of learning, because students would be content to do only so much as would carry them to the next grade. This is a weak argument, because a teacher would notice if a student began to neglect her work, and in such a case would protest at the time of reckoning a verdict of unsatisfactory.

Certainly, it is a recognized fact that grades as they are now, are not a true measure of a person's ability. A person who has no organization ability, may be an authority on a body of facts and hand them back to a teacher word for word. Another person may be gifted with good ideas and a thinking analytical mind, but still be unable to retain many facts. Do you think it is fair to either of these students to measure them by the same yardstick, the present grading system?

The introduction of a modern, and feasible plan which would abolish the unscientific system of grades with which our campus is afflicted today would be a true mark of progress in the intellectual growth of our campus.

By JANE QUINN

A modern example of "ignorance is bliss" is the person that believes all the campaign speeches.

After some of the mud slung in the last election we think it isn't only the dirty stories that ought to undergo spring house cleaning.

Magazine Thumbings

(NOTE: Caroline Adams has acted as guest columnist this week.)

STRUTHERS BURT
Is Patriotism Necessary?
American Mercury, March

With all the cynics making way with our pet theories, this author undertakes to show what is needed to build up our lost patriotism.

Although he doesn't think much of America, these artists either wilfully or through ignorance have an misinterpreted it, these intellectuals, with their talent for being clever at all costs, have so betrayed it, whose man population for the most part leaderless, has brought as little credit to it, or whose business men have used it so ruthlessly as an inexhaustible gold mine."

Pseudo-patriotism, Mr Burt believes, affords the country at opportunity to use his country for his own personal ends. Following periods of natural world disillusionment and the wide-spread appearance of the disillusioned, even wise men and women begin to regard all manifestations of patriotism and nationalism with suspicion.

Tracing patriotism from the birth of America, the author says Americans have exploited the new proverbial notion that to breathe a word of criticism against America was to commit high treason to the place where an average intelligent, thinking man entertains the equally provincial notion that to say a word of praise of America is to make oneself a mental defective.

Intelligent patriotism has like intelligent Christianity not yet been tried enough to be condemned.

When the American recovers from the self-consciousness of the pioneer and the humbleness of the colonist, he will at last be equipped to become once more an intelligent patriot. A sense of the past, present, and future of your country—this trinity—lies at the very beginnings of the creation of intelligent patriotism.

It is this intelligent patriotism that Mr. Burt thinks is necessary, not the pseudo-patriotism that is in existence now.

CAN THE OLD CULTURE SAVE US
Lin Yutang
Harp, April

Sketching the mind of China today as a "third-class" mind with arrears and eddies, Mr. Yutang shows the chaotic literary, political, social, and artistic state that surrounds the modern Chinese.

He points out that it was not the everlasting unanswered questions that are hanging in the air, but they may make for a questioning mental attitude and liberalization of the growing generation. At the same time, such a total upset of the standard of values is going to cause a loss of the intellectual center of gravity.

As Mr. Yutang says, "The mind overburdened by ideas and problems too big for comfort in human intelligence loses its balance and occupies itself in some spiritual hunt for "nearly new models."

The battle of ideas receives itself into two camps, the conservative —salvaging the old civilization, and searching for the new.

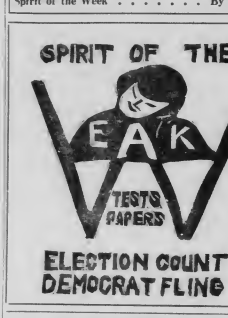
The quicker China becomes modern, the sooner will come her salvation. Consular reports from missions seem to call for an immediate and unremitting effort to Chinese life and philosophy.

In conclusion, Mr. Yutang says that it is not a question of whether the Chinese can preserve their old culture, but whether their old culture can preserve them in the modern world.

A DEFENSE OF THE ACQUISITIVE INSTINCT
Ludwig Lewisohn
Forum, April

At last a defense of the well known habit-collecting. The first thing the author points out is the fact that no matter what you collect, you would never exchange it for some one else's collection, no matter how much more precious he may be.

The things that our acquisitive instinct has led us to collect are far more than things. They are expressions; they are poetry and confessions of faith; they are the necessary outer symbols of crucial inner facts.



There would be no arts nor crafts, no attic nor cultures, neither pottery nor architecture, neither statues nor gardens, neither textiles nor toys, without the acquisitive instinct. Maker and collector are the two sides of the same human instinct.

This is a defense too of the saying, "I work for money," at least as much as I can get as the author suggests, because the things into which the money is changed are the living breathing expressions of life and the inner spirit, pregnant with both history and hope.

He favors the man with the middle-sized pocketbook as the best acquirer of culture. He has both brutal extremes of limitless accumulation or wealth and of denial of right to private property and in the exalvement of the mind.

The article justifies the acquisitive instinct in that it is closely interlaced with the creative instinct for neither can function without the other, and only with these reasonably free interaction of the two can civilization become human and humanly interesting.

Spirit of the Week . . . . . By Adams

We're "Honor"-ed

Reportorial Nightmare Reveals the Horrors Of The "Proctor-in-Action-on-Scene-Of-the-Crime" System

By GERTRUDE KUHN

The room was so quiet that the nervous breathing of the students standing straight and stiff beside their desks could really be heard.

As they waited there, immobile and eyes staring directly ahead, the sharp elanging of a bell pierced the silence, causing the students to start and blink. Seating themselves as noiselessly as possible, they again became still, facing the front of the room with hands folded neatly in their laps.

Suddenly a door opened with a slow, deliberate steps a small, dainty man with grey stiff hair standing erect, entered the room of approximately the large desk in front. Making a well-directed right angle turn, he faced the silent group in front of him. His black beady eyes glanced up and down the rows, coming to each person in turn and then going on. His pale face remained void of expression as he began to speak, slowly and evenly, with a low, husky voice.

"Before beginning this final examination—" He stopped, looked around the room slowly, and then continued. "Before beginning this examination, I shall read to you the rules for examination procedure as set forth in section 64, article 21, clauses 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 of our college Constitution. Each student will please carefully to this reading and will thereafter be personally responsible that each of these restrictions be carried out to the letter."

He stopped again, smoothed the lapel of his black coat as he glared at a student who had leaned low her running nose, and started to read.

Rules Are Read

"First—Each student shall present herself for examination with two well-sharpened pencils, preferably blue, and a McCord threefolded eraser."

"Second—Each student shall come comfortably and neatly dressed so as to be able to remain still for the two hours."

"Third: No student shall chew gum, bite her fingernails, or play with a rubber band while the examination is in progress."

"Fourth: Each student shall be quiet during the examination, refraining from any shuffling of feet, loud sneezing or coughing, seats or any excess motion whatsoever."

"Fifth: Each student shall answer the questions that compose the examination in the time allotted for each question, carefully refraining from taking time to think about the question which undoubtedly is not necessary and could be used for answering the examination.

"Sixth: Any infraction of the above stated rules is considered cheating and the Proctor will deal with the accused as he sees fit."

Having clearly ended the last word with a well-enunciated "f" and having dropped the paper he held in his hand in its precise place on the desk, the somberly-attired Proctor added one final kind, "Mr. Saulbeaucoup, will you administer the oath to the students of the desk?"

Mr. Saulbeaucoup came forward, taking each step calmly and picking up his feet quietly, his expressionless face matching that of the small man behind the desk.

"Mr. Saulbeaucoup, will you repeat the following words after me? I, Henri Saulbeaucoup, do hereby swear that on my honor I will in my capacity as proctor of

Continued on Page Six

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

By GRACE MARY WEBSTER

Note: Sylvia Feiga contributed the column this week.

THE most prominent place in the week's news seems to have been given to the flood. It is really a horrible situation and instead of retreating the water seems to be coming territory at a fast rate of speed. Starting in Pennsylvania and Ohio it has ravaged Kentucky, West Virginia and damage is mounting up to the millions. To make matters worse the floods were disturbed by tornadic wind ripping away property. Relief agents states, leaving a score injured and a million homeless and hungry.

Rain and more rain pushed into the overflowing Ohio river during the week carrying a new threat to thousands of homeless in the upper valley.

* * *

FLORIDA made front page news this week-end when Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt were honored at a luncheon given by Rollins College. Dr. John Tigert, University of Florida, Dr. Edward Conradi and Dr. Henry Saulsbury, of Women. Following this session President Roosevelt left for the east coast of Florida where he boarded his yacht to do some much needed fishing.

* * *

MUSSOLINI recently issued a royal decree announcing special reforms in preparation for an inevitable war. He's not certain when, why or how war will break out, but he's making these changes in order that necessary to face the supreme test of war From the point of view of the world at large the most interesting point in Mussolini's recent statement is that he regards a European conflict as inevitable and that Italy must be ready. He undoubted that he is quite sincere in his belief, and unfortunately observers of European events would venture to contradict him. Looking about one sees nothing but nations who are desperately arming. Indecision on the part of nations that should safeguard peace, and historical, racial and insincerity taking the place of what was once correct diplomatic usage. The Premier evidently thinks this is all a prelude to war, and is determined that when it breaks out Italy will be ready to make her weight felt in the battance.

* * *

A Stop-Gap' naval treaty was finally signed early yesterday by the United States, Great Britain and France, which will run five more years the expiring Washington and London agreement. This treaty is chiefly diplomatic realists as leaving the door open for further limitation of naval expansion—however it was hoped that other countries would soon sign the agreement. The hope rather got a slap in the face when Mr. Hirota Japanese premier Pinno Orandi vehemently declared that Italy would never sign the agreement, and that Japan would far as other countries are concerned with this treaty remains to be seen.

* * *

We would have a hard time if horses, cows and pigs should suddenly decide to vote. According to Henry Ford that is the only way farmers can help, and he intends to do something about it. So fix time with this theory that all farmers who can be registered, the magnet is establishing what is known as a "free press" project near his plantation in Georgia where he intends to train young people of the rural districts in Georgia.

* * *

RECENTLY the President was the center of attention because a well known publication declared that the Harvard Alumni bulletin, official organ of the President's alma mater was relegated to the waste paper basket. Consequently the next issue of the bulletin gently chided the President and raised the question of how it got banished to the kitchen. At a recent press convention the question was put before Mrs. Roosevelt who promptly replied that all magazines in the White House after being read by the President were forwarded to various places throughout the White House.

Pro and Con

Opinions expressed in this column are not to be construed as opinions of the editorial policy of the paper. It is a column of personal comment and is open to all who wish to express their constructive criticisms. Letters should be signed, marked "Flambeau" and mailed in the postoffice.

SHOULD FRESHMEN BE ALLOWED TO VOTE

During the recent reign of politics on campus, the time-old question, should freshmen be allowed to vote, was again the subject of much discussion.

Each year there are between six and seven hundred members of the freshman class, and when elections time comes, these girls, the majority of whom do not even know the candidates by sight, allow themselves to be dragged to the voting room, set down, and urged to vote for a given candidate.

They vote blindly, and are wont to say, "It doesn't make any difference to me who I vote for. I don't know any of the candidates so I might just as well vote the way a friend wants me to vote."

By a friend wants me to vote with the girls who are running for offices, freshmen are easily influenced while in reality, they know nothing at all about the character of girls for whom they are voting. In this way it is possible for the clique to get behind and solid as the proverbial "solid south" to swing a vote for an office in which they are interested.

In discussing the question with a representative group of freshmen, one finds that the majority of that group are in favor of allowing the privilege to vote at all unless it were possible to know the candidates in a more intimate way than by a name and a figure on the stage of the auditorium.

Rather than voting interestedly and thoughtfully, as voting should be done, most freshmen seem to take it as one of the necessary evils of college life. The idea of forming of an unpleasant task or duty. Even girls actually admit counting every candidate name on the ballot sheet in order to save time, and not because of absolutely unfamiliar names.

The freshmen are segregated, so to speak, in their own dormitories, and have little or no opportunity to become acquainted with upper classmen they form practically all of their opinions of girls from upperclassmen. Since circumstance forces freshmen to live apart from the rest of the student body, why should they be included as an integral part of the voting body?

It is difficult enough to get the right girl for the proper office, without letting a new freshman vote place a girl in office.

In talking with girls over with upperclassmen, nine out of ten of them seem to agree that it is unwise to allow freshmen to vote, but since freshmen are not to do anything about it, they submit.

Perhaps the best solution is to do away with the upperclassmen alone to take action on this matter which is of such importance to the campus.

Signed: Elizabeth Turner.

Collegiate Come-Back

What with quarterlies and editions both usurping the last remaining bit of our energy we suggest a week-vacation for the time when we can get it that we get fit again.

* * *

From the Christian Science Monitor, we see that engineers working on an old phonograph cylinder in an effort to make the world the voice of Queen Victoria. Hundreds of similar wax cylinders recently rediscovered the voices of Florence Nightingale and of Queen Victoria, others who may soon be heard again are Elizabeth Browning, Disraeli, and P. T. Barnum. Wonder how long it'll take to store the voice of Clarence Darrow. It'll be worth waiting for.

* * *

ODE TO CHEMISTRY
Should I adore
The Hall of Fame,
Make me pray praise praise
Merely write beneath my name
"Behold, he passed all tests"
—Horvet

* * *

The Oregon State Barometer tells us that even a democratic pest was troubled with redistribution difficulties. We're not know they had colleges in Oregon in those days, it's disclaimed for everything else.

* * *

According to the Mustang, the man who'd try to take advantage of a young girls inexperience used to be called a cad an optimist. We always thought a cad was already try to take advantage of a girl's inexperience was a brute, and we think we've a mean streak in us that says us that he's still a brute.

* * *

Professor Charles Reed of Northwestern university thinks the human race is degenerating. We've always thought we perpetrated and pelted. They don't make mistakes like they used to. They can't take it the way their grandmothers did.' Isn't it funny how we always think the old enough to remember is the generation that's all right, and he that's what confused education and cynicism does for a man.

* * *

LEAP YEAR FANTASY
Slippery ice—very thin.
Pretty girl—tumbled in.
Gave a hero—quick chance
Gave a shriek—then she sank
Down on bended knee with Jumped right in—helped her out.
Now he's hers—very nice.
But she had—to break the ice.
—Villanova

* * *

A Miami university student in inquiring about the new accelerated cheating was very perplexed at that institution. He first thought the women did most of it. We don't doubt that. It takes an amount of brain power to be a cad that's something about which we're not capable of the opinions of the opposite sex.
Apologies to Gainesville.

* * *

An exchange tells us twenty Connecticut Wesleran university students are studying psychology scientific problems in Washington. That's the last amount of brain power we've heard a cad that's something about which we're not capable of the opinions of the opposite sex.
Apologies to Gainesville.

* * *

An exchange tells us twenty Connecticut Wesleran university students are studying psychology scientific problems in Washington. That's the last amount of brain power we've heard a cad that's something about which we're not capable of the opinions of the opposite sex.
Apologies to Gainesville.

* * *

Recent examination answer in Waldorf College unmarked and unmarred by pencil:
Shelley unfortunately died while drowning in the Gulf of Lerici.

Romeo and Juliet are an example of a tragic romance usually represented by Dido and Aeneas.

Romeo and Juliet are an example of a tragic romance usually represented by Dido and Aeneas.

Robert Louis Stevenson married and died on the island of the moon. It was then that he wrote Travels with a Donkey.

Professor Quiz: Who was a famous lunger who lived on an island.

A vokel is the way people talk in each other's dialect.

Rural life is found mostly in the country.

A corpus is a dead gentleman. A corpse is a dead lady.

From the Tornador comes the news that students at Trinity college, Hartford, Connecticut have organized a guild for the protection of their dates declaring that compulsory chapel attendance and strict student spiritual life by the department of compulsion. That's doing the very words out of our own mouths.

* * *

Jack and Jill went down the hill
To see the scenic view
Jack came back, his eyes were black—
For she was a preacher's daughter.
—Auburn Plainsman

* * *

The Johnsonian comes forth with the profound fact that the lowest lefters are usually written by the shortest college girls.

Lucrezia Tries to Find Other Half Of Knowledge So Highly Advertised

Search Through Library for Unknown Quantity Proves Fruitless as the Right Books Are Always Found Missing

By ARLINE LOCKHART

Lucrezia stood on the library steps of one of the better Northwestern colleges. The bright rosy rays of night's clock sun crept through into clear relief the tired eyes above the dark circles that lay half in maxim again: The half of knowledge is to know where to find knowledge. She sat it to herself. It sounded good. It went well with the Doric architecture of the building, the colored frescoes of the high ceilings, the polished desks, the gleaming silent floors, the rows and rows of books which were well with the green spread of the campus, the tall trees, the other buildings. It was rather a symbol of college—itself.

Library Aspects

At exactly 8:37 the wide doors were unlocked by the librarian and Lucrezia walked still smiling. This eighteen-hours-of-"A"-student had two term papers to write and she had decided to begin on neither without its being held against her. Since December she had written such bills passed recently in several states, and conditions were ripe for communism in other states, she had determined to write a paper showing the part Lucrezia might play in bringing more freedom in reading, writing, printing and believing whatever one wished.

Five minutes later Lucrezia stopped reading Suzy and combed the cards again in the Dewey-Decimal System. Books on political economy and sociology were not there. Nor were they in the Library of one of the greatest authorities of intellectual life in America has ever had. Pragmatism, the reconstruction of the theories of Ingersoll on her bookshelf at home.

Tackles Other Paper

Not in the mood then for intellectual literary pursuits, Lucrezia set to tackle her psychology paper. She left her lip when Havelock Ellis's name was not in the Library's card catalogue. After all, Harper's recommended him as the foremost authority on sex and his Studies in the Psychology of Sex was generally conceded to be the world's greatest encyclopedia on the subject. She decided she had combined she had his books at home, too.

Lucrezia bitterly slammed a third box into the wall with finalities after finding that of all the works of H. G. Wells in the library, the Outline of History and his new book, The New America, The New World were not there. She had not one of her teachers recommended the Outline of History the other day? When? H. G. Wells considered to have one of the most powerful minds of the generation? What could be famous? Lucrezia tossed another librarian over the shoulder.

Why, she demanded of him, should he have rejected us the books?

What? Oh, Inspired. I believe we used to have a set, but one was a-a sort of upheaval about eight years ago and—it was removed."

You have quite a few books by H G Wells, why not the Outline of History?" Lucrezia asked patiently.

"I—I think it was removed, too." The man hurried off. Lucrezia stomped out of the library.

Discussion Ensues

By eleven o'clock our heroine was sprawled in a red leather chair at the campus hangout. The place was loud with the noise of talk and clinking dishes. The modernistic designs on the walls were vague through the dense cigarette smoke. Lucrezia, surrounded by five of her cronies, was embroiled in a heated student discussion.

"If library budget allows each department so much money a year to buy books, can't any book wanted be selected?" third cronie queried.

"The prof's select only those they know will be approved," fifth cronie answered.

"Then I guess they wouldn't approve my reading this book, the newest cronie snickered from behind the pages of Dresser's Great American Tragedy.

"You mean that isn't in the Library?" came a chorus of voices.

"Certainly not. Brought up in the high standard of Temple Beller's other Slippers. Ludwig Lewisohn says Dresser will be remembered by coming generations when our more popular writers are forgotten."

"Do you know there are only about twenty of the eighty-four books on the Pulitzer list worth reading?" third cronie contributed. "The ones on religion are like the ones Ludwig always have—trying to prove that Christianity is not passing out, that religion is not dead, that there is no conflict between religion and science, that the Bible is the best guide to follow Christ—"

"Oh, you're quickly interrupted as a listener-inner.

Wants Arguments

"Certainly I am," retorted the cronie. "I'm not saying it isn't it be interested in it. All I said is that they give us a few atheistic and agnostics' views on the subject, and we'd like to hear the other side of the argument. I want all religious beliefs presented. I'm a student, I'm not a Christian preacher's conception of God, I'm not a communist or a Socialist."

"Yes, Lucrezia leaned forward in her chair, "all sides of every question. Not that we want to be propagandized in favor of this or that, but we want to know the truth about them. Aren't we capable of that? Isn't the best in college students are as conservative as we're supposed to be why don't they trust us?"

The listener-inner said, tentatively, "Maybe it's because they're afraid of losing their positions if they're known to have a book on atheism by George Berkley and a few on communism and Socialism."

"Yes, but among those missing is 'New Light on Communism' and Sinclair Lewis' Elmer Gantry," Lucrezia said, disgustedly.

"If you ask me, she library overlooked the list of books It Can't Happen Here wasn't bought," added fifth cronie.

"Isn't it about Fascism in America? Well, how in Hoover's Hennessy Discourse cronie 3 inquired. "A really clever book I've heard. I'd certainly like we want to read it we will have to buy it."

"If we are going to get a liberal education we must read the best books regardless of what teachers only present colored facts. Two engineering students in the back of the mystery have been out nearly four years," second cronie said, puffing on her cigarette. "They are. The Strange Death of Presidential Virginia, and The Shocking The President's Daughter, by Nan Britton."

"I know another worth reading though not available here. I'm not sure," declared. "George S. Counts' Dare the Schools Build a New Social Order" has aroused considerable controversy. Why half the books in the library are so dull no one will ever read them."

"But you haven't answered my questions." Lucrezia said. "Why aren't these books in the library? Who chooses them? Is there a special committee? Do the students ever recommend the books? Why don't we? We have to read them, don't we?"

Purity League

"Oh, you," cronie sighed, sneered weirdly, "since the townspeople formed a sort of Purity League and investigated all the books in the library several years ago, a censor committee was appointed to set their seal of approval on every book that comes in. The committee is rather passive now because no one dares to suggest or order a very shocking book. As for students selecting them—hah! We're just the people that go to school here. What do we have to say about anything? The school is run by outside interests—the American Legion, legislatures, women's clubs, churches, business men of the state. We're taught what they want us to teach. We read what they want us to read and after that we may read anything that isn't harmful—if them."

"Is the school afraid," Lucrezia questioned, "of adverse criticism which might result in curtailment of appropriations by the legislature? Surely, the brilliant Inspired isn't to be subnormed because of his challenge to the church and clergy? And in my opinion no one can claim to be educated and be ignorant of the Havelock Ellis works. Isn't it necessary to know the underlying causes of sexual perversion, insanity, and crime? Shall things do face us in real life. Aren't the Nazi soldiers guarding the German camps, sadists?"

"You're right," cronie 1 agreed. "That's what the fuss is all about. I say, if the old theories and orders can't stand up under the searchlight being thrown on them today, let them fall and fall fast. The truth and the good will stand. It is up to the youth to come to the aid, and—"

Just then Lucrezia stated briskly, "by betting with the librarian, Dan, do you have any way to get that committee to meet this afternoon?"

Cronie 1 shuffle to a room in the administration building of the college that at 4:30 that afternoon. The occupants of the room are the five suaters, the librarian and the additional members composing the library committee.

"Gentlemen," the head librarian began in sonorous sotone, "the meeting was called for a most unusual reason. Six of the outstanding students of the college have sent me a list of ten books for the library that I have recommended these in the interest of intellectual life, scholarship, and the education of the student body and the good of these United States. And the list is before you. Robert G. Ingersoll, 12 v., $35.00."

"The atheist!" The first gentleman's spectacles fell off.

"Havelock Ellis, 7 v., $15.00," librarian continues reading.

"Sex rubbish for young people!" The second gentleman's face turned a dull red.

"H. G. Wells' Outline of History—"

"That unscientific—" the third gentleman's fist fell heavily on the arm of his chair.

"The magazine, New Masses—" the librarian read on calmly.

"Communistic!" the fourth gentleman looked as though he might have apoplexy.

"The budget does not permit further expense." the first gentleman said, recovering himself.

"Precisely." the head librarian replied. "It is impossible for the library to buy these books at just bought eighty-four of the books on the list. Shall we order the students now."

Lucrezia and her five cronies left the room, hands stuck into bulging pockets.

"You are going to order them?" Lucrezia asked, turning to the point.

The committee has decided that at this time the library cannot afford—" one began bravely.

"You mean, you won't." Lucrezia interrupted.

"Miss Lucrezia, such impertinence is—" the head librarian began in a shocked tone.

"Come on, fellow liberals! For Pantagruel's sake, let's get out of here," Lucrezia said, puffing on her cigarette. "They are. The Strange Death of Presidential Virginia, and The Shocking The President's Daughter, by Nan Britton."

"I know another worth reading though not available here. I'm not sure," declared. "George S. Counts' Dare the Schools Build a New Social Order" has aroused considerable controversy. Why half the books in the library are so dull no one will ever read them."

"But you haven't answered my questions." Lucrezia said. "Why aren't these books in the library? Who chooses them? Is there a special committee? Do the students ever recommend the books? Why don't we? We have to read them, don't we?"

Purity League

"Oh, you," cronie sighed, sneered weirdly, "since the townspeople formed a sort of Purity League and investigated all the books in the library several years ago, a censor committee was appointed to set their seal of approval on every book that comes in. The committee is rather passive now because no one dares to suggest or order a very shocking book. As for students selecting them—hah! We're just the people that go to school here. What do we have to say about anything? The school is run by outside interests—the American Legion, legislatures, women's clubs, churches, business men of the state. We're taught what they want us to teach. We read what they want us to read and after that we may read anything that isn't harmful—if them."

"Is the school afraid," Lucrezia questioned, "of adverse criticism

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT

UNIVERSITY EDITORIALS

TO A RASH YOUNG MAN

You who wrote that editorial for the Morning Daily entitled "Have You the Money, Honey?"—you are a very foolish young man.

Your very thorough argument that women should share the cost of dates is nothing short of sacrilegious.

Apparently you admire the attitude of your friend the graduate student, who makes his date bear half the expense of their round of dancing, drinking, etc. That is perfectly right, my friend.

But that doesn't excuse you for that paragraph, to-wit: "We believe the average college woman will be found to be exactly as intelligent, competent, honest, straightforward and able to make her way in the world as the average college man. We are convinced most women have this equality desirable and socially just—so why abrogate it in the young man and the young woman approach the cash register after an evening of fun?"

You should be ashamed of yourself for such immature and unthinking rationalizing your intention to ask your little Sugar Plum that last night you took her to the ticket with you. What you need is less sentiment and more facts. You are lacking moral integrity, too.

Let us delve into philosophy, psychology and science for the answers. Let us discuss the most practical economics would not be bad, either.

Consider first that man is a more conventional animal than the female. Why else do you think his fingernails? No. Would a man shackled to a woman as they are on his ankles? No. Would a man wear anything but dress as originally and as nakedly as possible for a party? Certainly not. He is a conventional animal. And since it is conventional for men to support women and to be responsible for them, it is the inherent tendency to continue the practice. It is a matter of masculine privilege.

Conversely, women have the same tendency toward being shown around and protected. The poor dears, they don't even think down their money, they ask only that they be kept safe from the perils and helpless. Do not quest-tion that privilege, either.

Then you must realize that women come to college for a mating, not intellectual, purpose. Let us bout a career. And when they have that, though, they often be might as well learn something about it. Domiant one of the sporting another person. If by happens to be financially embarrassed, he can always commit suicide, squandering to a coke instead of giving her a ring. Or he can always do the footing of the bill.

That is the philosophical, economic and psychological basis of the social side. The man should always be the dominant one of the couple. He makes the dates, doesn't he? Surely. And he should always suggest the route of entertainment, he should sit where he pleases and order what he may be. You see, my friend, the man should always wear the pants in the family. When he allows the woman to pay her share and thus rule her share, he lacks the proper initiative and is sacrificing the finest ideals of masculinity. And then what happens? We have a hermaphrodite.

You couldn't have realized how serious this subject was when you handed in the paper. Think it over, way. Take care, young man, take care. Because you are going to only in ruin. —Michigan State News.

THE STUDENTS OWN CHURCHILL

Taste in entertainment has long been regarded as a reliable criterion of intellectual interest. Because of modern communication and intelligence tests, the opinion picture, and because of the high per capita wealth in our country, the desire to be entertained is being more fully gratified than ever before in the history of mankind. This increases the importance of this criterion and makes a choice of entertainment a problem offering many solutions.

University students have built up this desire since their childhood, but what is more significant is the child of entertainment they chose, according to Prof. Robert Cooley Angell's book, "The Campus." This book is a study of contemporary under-graduate life in the American university, particularly as it was found by Professor Angell here in Ann Arbor. Professor Angell observed that those types of entertainment appealed to the higher powers of the mind, such as good drama, symphonic music, and thought-provoking lectures have a small following compared with athletic contests and frivolous or sensual movies which appeal to the "animal instincts" and require little critical appreciation. One illustration of this is Professor Angell's statement that probably 90 per cent of the men in universities and colleges in universities without all the campus have football games.

This tendency toward the immediately stimulating rather than the vital appeal is not only reflects the current esterilsation and superficiality of the times, but undergraduates are brought up. Few appose to have had the opportunities for cultural development.

Recreational reading by students was found by Professor Angell to reflect the same haste, superficiality, and lack of concentration that effected their choice of entertainment. These characters are not predicted by the characteristics of literary taste, and result in the indifferent spirit in which substantial magazines are taken, with personalities appealing to fiction are accepted as favorites. This is because the student desires a mid tension, and not for the reps in his academic routine, according to Professor Angell, rather than food for thought of which he feels he has an abundance in his academic life.

The quality of books read on the campus, according to the same survey by The Daily, proved them to be the exceptions in reading matter, for they were found in the lish courses, and shows the good effect that the university exerts in this matter, according to the accomplishment of the university. Professor Angell's conclusions against the intellectual indifference and the distractions incident to university life teachers, fanning a tiny spark into flame now and then, find that they are trying to lower into the land of good literature."

Professor Angell believes this group is growing, and so do we, if it weren't for the influence of college with only those interests they enjoyed on entering would have found their collegiate lives a huge extent. Observe. Lucrezs agree that the longer students remain in the university, the more interest they exhibit in the higher forms of entertainment, and the less in frivolous motion pictures. We only hope that the mension of these truths is effectively realized on "The Campus" will arouse the student mind to a fuller conception of college life and the importance of extra-academic readings in the development of character and the enjoyment of the present and those years after graduation. —Michigan State News.

FOR MORE LOAFING

Walter P. Crowder of the University of Iowa is convinced people do not idle enough. He urges bigger and better loafing for everybody. He is a real crusader for loafing. Especially do college students need time to idle, to think things out at their leisure. In that way does one learn.

Let us not idle under a delusion tree when an apple descended to his head. He discovered the law of gravity. Benjamin Franklin idly flew his kites. Master John Watt, in moments of leisurely loafing, wondered what raised the cover of the tea kettle. Great idlers, these.

Continued on page eight

A student isn't graduated from a university with a factual knowledge of the world. Even if he were, that wouldn't be an education. Co'lege properly teaches a student to mull over facts, think things out, weigh ...cts. That takes time—idling time. There is something out of balance in a college curriculum which causes a student to feel he is wasting time if he isn't doing something that is organized.

A university, too, should teach one how to enjoy life. "Culture" is an overworked word. But it takes a virtuoso idler to loaf through symphony concerts, current books, Einstein dramas and the "good" organ. A college or university curriculum should not only allow time for loafing. It should encourage it.—Minnesota Daily.

TYRANNIES ARE FOUNDED ON IGNORANCE, N.Y. SUN SAYS

An American liberalism would do well to stay at home and tend to its own affairs instead of criticizing the affairs of other European nations.

Here is much of the brutal anti-Semitism which seems to exist in Germany today. If these things are bad, as we believe they be, it is the duty of all believers in democracy to disapprove of War terrorism.

But does not the same think hold true of the Red terror in Spain? We certainly have much to disapprove of there. The burnings, aliens, and others who happen to be little Fascists in Soviet Russia, as ago the Ku Klux Klan won millions of Americans to the cause of the defense of Anglo-Saxon purity in the name of patriotism. Today the Klan is hardly to be regarded with profound fear criticism of the government which was granted by the constitution.

Should we not clean our own house before we undertake the clean stench made by our neighbors? Germany must work out its own salvation, as Spain, Russia, and anything that America should do now is to keep its own democratic ideals.

But we can fight for freedom at home. We can attack the insidious roots of fascism by uprooting the evils of Anglo-American class liberalism, and by eradicating capitalism and economic evils that upon prejudices and ignorance that all tyrannies are founded.—The Daily Worker.

PLANNED LOAFING

Two thousand years hence ethnologists, digging in the ruins of our middens, will dig out such artifacts of modern civilization as golf balls. The cram u a dull, boring weapon used to bar sleep from the student who is "in" on the week-end stamp, and otherwise insert into the Unrevised Standard Version of the world facts to pass exams.

This cram psychologists tell us, is a fairly effective way to pass an examination. But most of the students in the Long Island University retension suffers. The cram, too, helps. Its courses in the university student must interpret theories. The moral, professors tell us, is to study something during the quarter.

The Long-acquitish fashion called student-ship are politely rapped on the knuckles and told that it doesn't work because thinking must be done during the quarter, they tell us, not during examinations. Cramming is difficult.

The trouble is that classwork is not education. A conscientious student, interested in satisfying the academic requirements of success—good grades — while he learns, is under a great dilemma. He drives himself through uninteresting courses hunting prerequisites. Interest is outside of class activities, and interprets or thinks little because thinking wastes colleges time.

Harvard university gives its students a degree of freedom before each stage of examinations. These undergrads have a few weeks to ...e of gravity. Benjamin Franklin

Continued on page eight

Leisure Time Activities Best Tell Quality of Student Life

Young People Have Six Hours Daily For Their Freedom

By CLOTILDE O'ROURKE

It has been said that the quality of a man can best be told by the quality of his leisure, that the criterion of his life is not so what he does because he is obliged to by necessity, but what he does by choice. The same may be said of student life.

From the many complaints that we hear from students about their lack of time, one would think that they had very few idle hours indeed. A recent investigation by a mid-western university, however, shows that "students devote as much or more time to leisure than the average adult in civil life—that is, about six hours a day." New York Times Magazine, January 12, 1936, page 8. However conscientious one may consider this, it is certain that students have a fair proportion of leisure. Some of it is spent in movies, at dances, and in automobile drives. But, as there is not always a dance to be had for movies, and as dances and drives are relatively infrequent, the leisure pursuits which receive the most attention are those which, because of their listening, and bridge.

What Do Students Think About

But what do students really think during these idle hours? During the "bull sessions" which occur freely enough about dances, dates, and week-end trips. But during the "bull sessions" which no one is fouling, there are many remarks made about the dances, etc., and wishes expressed that there was "something doing."

The crux of the matter is perhaps that the student no longer recognizes any of the methods for finding enjoyment. That is by conversation. It is strange that such a college quality as conversation—diligently sought after by the foreigners, it should be so lost an art. To the college student, the idea of conversation for pleasure is an antique, that he does not even know the meanins of it.

This is not strange when one considers that he hasn't the vocabulary with which to carry on a conversation even if he wished to do so. The average student lives on slang. His remarks are not only punctuated with it, but they largely consist of it. He uses it at least two years in English courses—diligently and faithfully promptly forgets all he has learned. Slang is a fine thing and can be attempted to express himself as clearly and dramatically as possible. But, as we have heard in the second place, they deal only with facts, or concrete happenings. Conversation is a pursued as social obliviation. It requires ease and relaxation. It requires an exchange of ideas! It is, as Mr Erwin Edmon has said, a light and racy play of words and tempers over common human themes. It is not the aimal talk we employ at our parties and tea. It is not the heated discussions of politics, economics or social problems which stidents sometimes attempt and which usually end up in arguments.

It is the fare of all our ability it remains a question to wonder

Look Your Best at the Prom in a Ladies' Shop Gown!
Just Received for This Occasion
EVENING GOWNS
Lace, Figured Chiffon, Net and Celanese.
$5.95 to $14.50
THE LADIES' SHOP
"Where Styles are Shown First for Less"
NEXT TO STATE THEATRE

ADAMS' STUDIO
"Photographs that Please"
Phone 397
171 E. College Ave.

STATE THEATRE
—FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—
Shirley Temple in "Captain January"
(Transferred to Ritz Sunday and Monday)
—SUNDAY AND MONDAY—
Robert Montgomery and Myrna Loy
in
"PETTICOAT FEVER"
(Transferred to Ritz Tuesday and Wednesday)
—TUESDAY—
"TWO IN THE DARK"
WITH WALTER ABELL
—WEDNESDAY—
"F-Man" with Jack Holt
—THURSDAY—
"LOVE ON A BET"
with
Gene Raymond and Wendy Barrie

Sandals
Fashionable T-Strap Sandal, designed for comfort and smartness $3.00
Smart New Dress Sandals for afternoon wear $4.00
BROWNBILT SHOE STORE

Rumor Causes Much Cleaning In Dorm Rooms

Floors Feel Caress Of Broom; Dressers Are Dusted

Floors that haven't felt the caress of a broom for these many weeks were thoroughly swept, clothes that conveniently adorned chairs were whisked miraculously into closets, and at least the first two layers of dust, which were beginning to look quite familiar on the dresser, suddenly disappeared.

Cleanings, threats—all to no avail to effect methodical cleanings of dorm rooms, but what can't be accomplished by the rumor of "have you heard, nobody's coming to know, but rooms are going to be inspected—even the closets and drawers—actually Wouldn't that just slay you?"

Preceding the birth of the rumor the campus was in the characteristically calm Monday mood. Quite obviously the week-end had required a very extensive wardrobe to judge from the variety of clothes draped over the backs of room. An unwritten agreement to clean the room "later" was as usual honored.

But within a few hours the morning calm was abruptly shattered. Unfamiliar sounds of furniture being scrubbed, drawers hastily opened and shut, rugs being beaten came from room after room. Inquiring heads poked into the direction of the queer noises resulted in the owners furiously dashing to their own rooms and beginning the same procedure.

Finally, as the afternoon sun was murmurs began to grow louder. "Why, I even straightened my drawers." "Well, listen, you just don't know—I hung up all my clothes, and now I won't know where to find a thing."

The inspector who somehow or other didn't appear is the reason for the unusual air of cleanliness and tidiness in the dorms which has removed almost completely what we term the "coolest" atmosphere. And suspicious cleaners are forced sun while in answer to lullingly humorous remarks from less gullible colleagues.

John Hall Jones From University of Florida Will Teach Course Here

The Baptist students are to have as a guest next week, March 30 through April 3, John Hall Jones, student pastor at the University of Florida.

"Parson," as he is called by Baptist college students all over the state, will teach a study course book entitled "Planning a Life." The meetings will be held at the Baptist student headquarters during two hours of each day, so that students who are interested may attend. The sessions will be from 5:00 to 8:00 and from 7:30 to 8:30.

Mr. Jones attended Union University at Jackson, Tennessee, where he played four major sports and graduated with honors. After taking his seminary training at Southwestern seminary in Fort Worth, Texas, he returned to Union university in 1927 as financial secretary and publicity director. During 1928-29 he did promotional work for colleges in South Carolina, serving as vice-president of one of the denominational colleges. He came to Florida in December, 1929, as state secretary of Baptist student work.

New President

Mrs. J. G. Kellum is the president-elect of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs. She has been very active in numerous organizations for many years.

We're "Honor"-ed

Continued from Page Four

this examination report any student I see chewing gum, erasing excessively, daydreaming, thinking for any length of time, or breaking any of the stated rules for examination procedure."

The young man, tall and straight as an upright pine, repeated the words clearly and solemnly after the little wiry-haired man showing definitely that he felt the responsibility which had just been placed upon his shoulders. Finishing the oath he retired to a special chair in the right hand corner of the room facing the class.

Papers Are Passed Out

The Professor noting from the corner of his eye that the young man was in his place, turned his head to the other side of the room, looking directly at a girl on the front row. "Miss Chevaux, will you please pass out the examination papers remembering the accepted procedure of going from right to left in each row?" asked the teacher in a tone of voice which meant that she would negative answer to the question.

White Mss Chevreux hastened to perform her important task as quickly as necessary to stay in etiquette would permit, the Instructor spoke to a boy, small in stature, sitting by the window. "Mr. Vamieux, you will please remember that you shall serve as the official pencil-sharpener and you will see that your complicated mechanical instrument stays in working condition, so that it will not become necessary to stop the examination to send for spare parts."

Seeing that everything was in readiness the small man threw himself on his feet, stood at attention feet one inch and commanded the attention of his entire group. "Each person will remember the rules of examination procedure as set down by the constitution. Keep them well in mind. You may begin when I have tapped the gong three times." He raised his small hammer and slowly and deliberately struck the gong in front of him three times. As the last echo of the third tap died away all heads bent in concert and blue pencils began moving rapidly. The examination had started.

For a time all went well and everything proceeded as per schedule. The only sound in the quiet room beside the scratching of the pencils on the paper, was the movement of the official pencil-sharpener as he went about his work, stopping to cut the points which fell within the jurisdiction of his position.

Then three slow, but distinct taps were heard. Heads lifted immediately, writing stopped, and all eyes turned toward Mr. Saubeaucoup. One boy who had risen from his special chair in the corner of the room. The students followed the direction of the boy's object of it to be a rather pretty blonde girl in the back of the room, at the present blushing profusely and trying to appear calm.

The Professor also had risen, his black eyes sparkling dangerously, and his contracted right hand betraying the emotion which he felt. "Miss Salsbeaucoup," he demanded tersely, "will you please present the paper and the reply person before the class, immediately."

"Yes, Sir. It is Miss Nonsibon. I saw her pass move three times. Sir, and I am certain that she is chewing gum. Also, sir, she was not answering the questions quickly, but was taking time to think them out."

"Miss Nonsibon, will you come to the front of the room," commanded the little man, appropriately dressed in black for the important occasion of presiding over examinations.

Miss Nonsibon came forward quickly with her head hanging low.

"Miss Nonsibon, you have heard these charges. Do you plead guilty?"

"I do" came forth timidly, A common gasp of horror escaped the students and the Professor as they looked at each other astonished and amazed.

"You mean to say, Miss Nonsibon, that you admit having chewed gum and having taken time to think before giving the answers on this examination?" demanded the Professor, his voice hummed as he spoke and louder.

"Yes," murmured the accused, hanging her head still lower.

"Miss Nonsibon," came the stern reply of the one in charge. "You will stand over and tell the class exactly why you have done as you have."

Miss Nonsibon raised her head slowly, dreading to see the scorn in the Professor's eye and in her classmates' expressions. She glanced around hurriedly hoping to find some friend in the group, but there were no sympathetic smiles. Seeing no alternative but to obey, she started her recital in a faltering voice. "You see, sir, I am naturally of a nervous temperament and I chew gum to calm myself while studying or going through some ordeal. I thought that because I would make a better grade if I chewed while I worked on this examination. And as for the second charge, I did not quite understand the third part of the second A under number four in the seventh question. I was trying so hard to figure it out." Miss Nonsibon looked up quickly hoping that her reasons had been very natural, but there was no sympathy in the black, beady eyes which stared at her.

"Miss Nonsibon," began the Professor, speaking again in his usual slow, deliberate manner, "you have shocked me beyond words. Perhaps I would have been able to excuse the gum chewing, knowing that you have a tendency toward nervousness, but the other charge. I cannot imagine such a thing happening in the class where everything is done according to the letter and to the precise moment at which it is scheduled. Each day I have lectured to you from twenty minutes of nine to twenty-three minutes after the hour and now you say that you do not understand the third part of the second A under number four of the seventh question. There can be no pardon for this offense which you know is placed under cheating by the college constitution. I find it hard to believe this of you."

His monotonous voice stopped. His small, black eyes passed up and down the rows as if darting arrows to pierce the soul of each innocent opinion.

A moment's silence. "Miss Nonsibon, I find it my painful duty to report this case on you. Each day at exactly this time, ten and one half minutes after ten o'clock, you will report to the keeper of the cupola on the top of the college infirmary. There you will remain for one hour, thinking and repenting in silence the crime you have just committed."

Then turning to the class, the Professor announced, "Due to this unfortunate infraction upon the rules stated in section 64, article 21, clauses 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 of the Constitution, it will be necessary to repeat this examination. All students in this class will report to this room tomorrow at 6:30 o'clock at which time a new examination will be given."

Little Theater Players Presented Concert On Ether Thursday Night

Florida State college students went on the air at 7:30 o'clock last night as the Little Theater Orchestra gave another 15-minute broadcast over station WTAL of Tallahassee. The orchestra was directed by Owen P. Sellers of the school of music of Florida State college.

Students who were heard were, Martha Reddick, Yvette Breaux, Mary Eagle, Annabell Larsen, Marjorie Tillis, Veola Evans, Sarah Tyler, Betsy Anderson, Hazel Bowman, Betty Parker, Louise Johnson, Virginia Long, Martha Lee Wilkerson, Jean Crase, Eleanor Daniells.

The program includes, "Reception Overture" (R. Schleppeveil); "The Merry Widow Waltz" (Franz Lehar); and "Dancing Tambourine" (W. C. Polla).

Newspaper Excerpts Give FSCW Activities

Continued from page three

tained at a dinner to be given at the Delmonico Restaurant by the alumnae association.

—Key West Citizen.

LAKE WALES

The Florida State Colleges for Women alumnae banquet for members of this vicinity will be held at Barnay's this evening at 7 o'clock with Miss Dorothy Culver as toastmistress. Those who have attended Florida State College for Women in this section will be joined by out of town guests for the occasion, and Dr. Elizabeth Dordon Andrews, director of personnel and of the college placement bureau, will be the honor guest for the evening, delivering a talk appropriate to the occasion.

—Lake Wales News.

LIVE OAK

Miss Eunice Grady was elected president of the Live Oak branch of the Florida State College for Women at the meeting of the Live Oak alumnae during F. S. C. W Week. Over twenty alumnae attended the meeting, at which Miss Florence Tyson of the college faculty was present.

MARIANNA

Thursday afternoon at the high school auditorium the parent-teacher association held its regular monthly meeting. Alumnae of Florida State College for Women were present at the meeting at which Dr. Doyle E. Moore of the college faculty spoke on Florida State College for Women.

MIAMI

Miami alumnae of Florida State College for Women gave a banquet recently at the Miami Woman's club, honoring Dr. Edward Conradi, college president; his daughter, Miss Louise Conradi, and Mrs. T. V. Moore president of the Florida Federation of Women's clubs. Mrs. Charles M. Palter, alumnae president, was toastmaster, and Miss Margaret Pace greeted the guests on behalf of the Miami Woman's club and the alumnae.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, American minister to Denmark, was elected an honorary life member. Mrs. Moore told of the original college at Lake City, which was a co-educational institution. Dr. Conradi addressed the group. Miss Mary Lou Key had charge of the program. About fifty guests were in attendance.

—Miami Herald.

MONTICELLO

Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey and Miss Mary Settle of the college faculty met with Monticello alumnae of Florida State College for Women Saturday night of FSCW Week at a dinner meeting.

OCALA

Local alumnae of Florida State College for Women met Saturday at 12:30 o'clock at the Hotel Marion where reminiscences and memories of old times were revived by Dr. Virginia Rogers of the college English department who was the chief speaker at the delightful luncheon. Dr. Rogers was introduced informally by Mrs. R. C. Tucker.

Mrs. T. H. Wallis had charge of arrangements for the luncheon and was assisted in the table decorations by Misses Ava Lee Edwards, Mary Bailey, Adelaide Duval, and Anne Rooney.

The table was artistically adorned with flowers and fruit carrying out a motif of garnet and gold, the college colors.

Included on the guest list were Mrs. Wallis, Mrs. Rex Withers, Mrs. T. P. Drake, jr., Mrs. Gregory Kenny, Mrs. Joe McCullough, Mrs. Robert Bailey, Mrs. Harold Cumming, Mrs. Iva T. Sprinkle, Mrs. R. C. Tucker, Mrs. Pat Mellin, Mrs. Ray Daniel, Mrs. Frank W. Cawthon, Miss Ava Lee Edwards, Miss Anne Rooney, Miss Adelaide Duval, Miss Hallie Bailey, Miss Ethel Pat Pillans, Miss Frances Gary, Miss Clifton Sexton, Miss Lucille Jerome, Miss Belle Rossel, Miss Christine Closs, Miss Mabel Meffert and Miss Marian Meffert.

—Ocala Star

PAHOKEE

Cooperating with the "Florida State Colleges for Women Week", sponsored by the faculty and alumnae of the state institution, local graduates o fthe college and friends attended the alumnae banquet Thursday night at which Dean W. M. Bailey was guest of honor and principal speaker. The banquet was held at Pete's restaurant in Pahokee where plates were laid for 30. Miss Margaret York was toastmistress, explaining the purposes of the "special week" and introducing Mr. Bailey as Dean of Education at the Florida State College for Women. Dean Bailey had previously spoken during the day to the student body at Pahokee high school and at the noon meeting of the Pahokee Rotary Club.

Several toasts were given and college songs sung by those present among whom, besides the honor guest, were Prof. and Mrs. E. E. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Willis, Miss Margaret York, Browning Roach, Mrs. R. Heller, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lovell, Mrs. Minnie Calloway, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Sherrod, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Denton, Mrs. Louis Goolsby, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Arrington, Miss Genevieve Brown, Shimer Gove, Mrs. A. J. Pope, Miss Irene Dawson, Miss Allins Mae Bishop.

—Pahokee News

PANAMA CITY

Florida State colleges for Women alumnae in Panama City convened for a luncheon meeting and banquet held last night in the Dixieliberman Hotel, with Dr. Virginia Rogers, of the history department of the college, attending as principal speaker of the evening.

Prior to the banquet, the organization meeting was held in the mezzanine lounge of the hotel at which time Mrs. Sidney Daffin, jr., was elected president of the Bay County Alumnae Association. Sister Stater was chosen secretary-treasurer. As newly-elected president, Mrs. Daffin announced that she would appoint members of an executive council within a short time, with whom, she and Mrs. Cox, as ex-officio members would meet to make plans for future activities of the group.

Those who attended the banquet last night included Dr. Virginia Shores, Mrs. Alla L. Shores, Mrs. Carolyn Boykin Daffin, Mrs. Mary Cooper Dean, Mrs. Ethel Baker Joyner, Mrs. Estelle Cawthon Starling, Miss Julie Ingram, Miss Evelyn Webb Harrison, Mrs. Elmo Bullock Bonnet, Mrs. Burnice Millinor Bingham, Mrs. Thelma Porter Martin, Mrs. Georgia DeMilly Mercer, Mrs. Arrabella Joyner, Mrs. Thelma Brown Cox, Mrs. Ancenia Mullikin VeVerka.

—Panama City Herald

PENSACOLA

With covers laid for nearly fifty members and their honor guest, Miss Rowena Longmire, assistant professor of English in Florida State College for Women, the regular alumnae in Pensacola entertained Friday evening with a banquet at the San Carlos hotel.

Decorations of the room and favors reflected the colors of FSC with pennants of college song at each place.

The Barcelona room, with vivid background, colors and spirals of which carried out the history of Pensacola under the flags of Spain, France, England and Confederacy and the United States, made a fitting place for entertainment and a most attractive and colorful background for the banquet.

Miss Mary Doris Bailey acted as toastmistress, special features of the banquet being college songs and a talk by Miss Longmire. Miss Longmire spoke particularly of the work of the alumnae.

Continued on page eight

Electric Victrola Will Take Place of Muffled Piano at Play Nites

Dancing to the muffled sounds of the piano will no longer be the order of things at campus Play Nites hereafter, for tonight one of the multi-selective electric victrolas will provide dance music.

Instead of bulging contests one of those machines, which cost approximately $800, one is being rented for $3.00 a week from the A. P. Bagnell, who will bring it here and will furnish new records, selected by the students each week. Since it holds twelve records the students will be provided with the latest song hits. It also has a loud speaker and microphone.

The nickels to play this machine will come from the student activity fee and not from the pocket of the individual who desires to hear it, stated J. G. Kellum, business manager.

For Digestion's Sake...smoke Camels

Copyright, 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Smoking Camels found to have a positive beneficial effect upon Digestion...

Our modern "eat-and-run" way of living is hard on digestion. Experiences with indigestion are all too common! Hence unusual interest attaches to the following test that smoking Camels has been found to have a marked beneficial effect in aiding digestive action. You'll find Camels milder too, more delicate in flavor, packed with the rich enjoyment of choice tobaccos.

Turn to Camels for your digestion's sake ... for the greater pleasure to be found in smoking Camel's costlier tobaccos.

Camels set you right!

"BONKING UP" puts extra strain on your digestion. Camels help you ease off, by stimulating and promoting digestion. Camels are mild, smooth. They set you right. And never get on your nerves.

"CAMELS ARE A FAVORITE with us here," says Mr. Joe Moss, who produces Ken Murray's Hollywood Restaurant shows, where diners flock so enjoy fine food! "As I look over the crowd, I see Camels on toes of tables. We've found that success comes through giving people the best. The fact that Camel uses costlier tobaccos and people prefer Camels shows that they appreciate the best."

A SENSATION! Henry Tafi Snowdon, '34, intercollegiate wrestling champion. Snowdon says: "Smoking Camels after meals and between meals aids digestion."

OTIS BARTON, scientific-inventor, who dives in the "bathysphere," says: "Camels make my food taste better and help it to digest."

TUNE IN!...CAMEL CARAVAN with WALTER O'KEITH'S BAND, DEANE JANIS, TED HUSING, GLEN GRAY and the CASA LOMA ORCHESTRA Tuesday and Thursday—9 p.m. E.S.T., 8 p.m. C.S.T., 9:30 M.S.T., 8:30 p.m. P.S.T.—over WABC-Columbia Network.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

CAMEL

$ GELBERG'S $

STOREWIDE EVENT

$ DOLLAR DAY $ - FRIDAY - $

A Store Full of Bargains—Be Sure to Come!

SLACKS ..... $1.00 Sun Suits $1.00

SHORTS ..... $1.00 Polo Shirts, 2 for $1.00

AND HUNDREDS OF OTHER BARGAINS!

Visit Our Mezzanine

Modern Dress and Millinery Department

The Social Week

Social Sororities Announce Election Of New Officers

In line with the other campus elections most of the sororities have met recently and elected officers to serve for the coming year. These officers have been installed and will begin their terms immediately.

The new officers of the Alpha Delta sorority are Mary Ellen Steeles, president; Winona Ireland, vice-president; Clotilde Gore, corresponding secretary; Mildred Booth, recording secretary; Frank Wildman, treasurer and Marion Weeks, marshal.

Phi Mu Officers

The Phi Mu sorority elected and installed its officers Monday night. They are: Barbara Henderson, president; Margaret Smith, vice-president; Elizabeth Bush, secretary; Lois Hughes, treasurer; Jermaine Golden, chaplain; Gertrude Tomkies, alumnae advisor and Ann Dunnell, editor.

Alpha Chi Omega

The newly elected officers of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority are Patrila Foster, president; Miss Christy, vice president; Lucile Goodman, treasurer; and Miss Berkins, secretary.

Officers elected by the Alpha Delta Pi sorority are Sara Moor, president; Ellen Fleming, vice president; Charmian Luffburrow and Martha King, corresponding secretary; Elizabeth Bullock, recording secretary; Ruth Blackwell, house chairman; Thelma Holmes, Panhellenic representative and reporter.

The new officers of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority are: Betsy Patterson, president; Calderay McGarry, vice-president; Mary Wet Pritchard, second vice-president; Nellie Lamar, corresponding secretary; Amber Turner, recording secretary; Wenta Wilkins, recording secretary; Clara Stewart, librarian; Nan O'Shaughnessy, editor; Julia Harrison, scribe; Barbara Swannstrom assisted by Anne Hill, social chairman; and Mary Bishop, guard.

The Alpha Omicron Pi officers for the coming year are: Doris Bostwick, president; Betty Bury, vice-president; Frances Hobbs, treasurer; Jane Sutton, corresponding secretary; and Madeline McCall, recording secretary and rush captain.

New officers of the Beta Phi Alpha sorority are Jean Williams, president; Ruth Garcia, vice-president; Cari Brigman, secretary; and Jessica Jane Mackey, treasurer.

Kappa Delta

The new officers of the Kappa Delta sorority are: Frances Thomas, president; Peggy McMichael, vice-president; Jane Thurin, secretary; Helen Turnbull, treasurer; and Jean Brown, editor.

The Kappa Alpha Theta sorority has elected the following officers: Mary Emens, president; Lillian Burford, vice-president; Banks Wood, recording secretary; Marjorie Heedy, corresponding secretary; Marjorie Horton, treasurer; Clarice Sanchez, rush captain; Margaret Schmidt, librarian, Mary Lee Hopkins, alumnae secretary and house chairman; Virginia Hamilton, chaplain; Helen Donn, house manager; Mary Veach, marshall; Patty Hamilton, editor and Virginia Clements, Betty Spicer and Ruth Fisher, social committee.

Selected by the Delta Zeta sorority as officers for the coming year are: Anna Glen, president; Ruth Lain, vice-president; Lucille Han, corresponding secretary; Patty Sams, recording secretary; and Carol Rammage, treasurer.

The sororities not mentioned here have not as yet announced the results of their elections.

Sorority Guests Are Honored at Party

SORORITY GUESTS SOC A Reception of the Theta Upsilon sorority will be entertained with a candy pull at the sorority house at 5 o'clock.

Following the candy pull there will be skits by the pledges and a program by the whole sorority.

Honor guests at this time will be Ruth Deane, Frances Pratt, Betty Gelland, Kathleen Pratt, Boots Evans, Hettie Lou Niblack, Betty Hammond, Florence Ward, Shirley Stevens and Rebecca Keith.

Margaret Neff is going to Gainesville this week-end.

Personal Mention

Sonny Dell Katherine Patterson, Jean Gillies, Jane Cole, Emma Lee McCullough, Flynn Moore, and Patricia Given are going to Gainesville this week-end where they will attend the Freshman ball and other social affairs to be given Friday and Saturday.

Roberta Gammon is spending the week-end in Marianna.

Elizabeth Kirby-Smith, Henriette Thames, Betty Manning, and Sally Gilmore are spending this week-end in Jacksonville.

Eleanor Hickson is spending the week-end in Sanford.

Doris Godard, Betty Barry, Marie Carson, and Agnes Goff are spending the week-end in Alaka.

Nadia Grainger entertained the Alpha Gamma Delta chapter members Tuesday night in honor of her sister's birthday.

Mrs. E. B. Patterson and Mary Ellen Patterson, former students of Florida State College, visited Katherine Patterson at the Alpha Gamma Delta house this week.

Wynn Tuten visited her parents in Jasper last week-end.

Betty Peck and Janet Charles are spending this week-end in Jacksonville.

Mary Charles Mathis is spending this week-end in Panama City.

Angela Grilley, Frances Hobbs and Jane Sutton are going to Gainesville this week-end where they will visit in the home of the latter.

Jean Paulin and Gibson Dey are going to Miami to spend the week-end where Jean will visit with Miss Jean Hall.

Ann Hickman of Jacksonville was a guest at the Alpha Delta Pi house last Wednesday.

Shirley Harkness was pledged to the Beta Phi Alpha sorority yesterday.

Among those Kappa Alpha Thetas who will attend the freshman-sophomore hop at Gainesville this week-end are Margaret Schmidt, Estelyn Stanley, Lorraine Enslin, and Christine Williams.

Miss Clarrette O'Steen, Kappa Alpha Theta, is spending the week-end in Albany, Georgia, visiting friends.

Among those girls who will go to Pensacola this week-end for the horse show and military ball are Helen Dixon, Betty Middleton, Virginia Clements, Doris Purchase, Barbie Wood, Orlrade Park, Dorothy Barr, Ruth Rohe, Virginia Hamilton and Patty Hamilton.

Mrs. Iris Mashburn Tigret will spend the week-end in Gainesville.

Among those girls who will visit in Jacksonville this week-end are Harriet Lawrence, Martha Wolfson, Bertha Veiss, and Yvette Breaux.

Helen Dickerson and Mary Key will visit in Green Cove Springs this week.

Virginia Toffaletti and Mollie Holden will be among those in Gainesville this week-end.

Barbara Greene will be a visitor at the campus of Brenau College in Atlanta this week-end.

Elizabeth Simpson, Clotilde Rourke, Carolyn Oliver, and Margaret Claire Lafferty will visit in Atlanta this week-end.

Among those going to Gainesville this week are Dariner Baker, Phil Auler, Marian Neper, Betty Ann McKenzie, Martha Lee Wilkerson, Peggy Jackson, Betty Vann, and Elizabeth Simpson.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hosea and Dorothy Hosea of Miami are visiting Martha and Sarah Hosea on this campus.

Nelley Woodham is visiting at Emory University this week-end.

Visiting in Jacksonville this week-end are Elizabeth Kirby-Smith, Sally Anthony, Edith Huddleston, and Althea Smith.

Patricia Given will visit in Miami this week.

Bellamy Car is Stolen

Dr. Raymond Bellamy's car was stolen in front of the Kappa Delta house, Sunday night where his daughter, Dorothy, had parked it at about 9:00 p. m. Thirty minutes later she discovered the car was not in front of the house.

The police, notified immediately, telephoned Monticello, Quincy, Perry and Thomasville. The car has not yet been found.

Junior-Senior Prom Co-chairmen

Miss Carolyn Oliver of West Palm Beach, president of the senior class, and Mary Miller of Orlando, president of the junior class, are acting as co-chairmen for the annual Junior-Senior Prom to be held April 4.

ALPHA OMICRON PI SORORITY PLANS AFTER-DINNER COFFEE FOR MONDAY

An informal after-dinner coffee will be given by the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority Monday night in honor of the patrons and patronesses and the faculty advisor of the chapter, Captain and Mrs. Robert A. Gray, Mrs. Fred Gelzer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parker, and Miss Florence Bethea.

Dorothy Fineran and Sarah Graham who are in charge of the affair will decorate the house with lovely cut spring flowers.

Coffee, sandwiches, and mints will be served.

Hostesses for the evening will be Dorothy Fineran, Virginia Weldon, Mary DeGuenther, Alice Brewington, Mary Carson, Helen Young, Lauritia Pearson, Sarah Graham, Nina Hughes, Doris Godard, Betty Barr, Madeline McCall, Hazel Nee, Ephie Chesire, Jane Sutton, Frances Hobbs, Maybeth Goss, Jeanne Martin, Lucille Finley, Aurelia Grilley, Alice Sloan, and Mrs. Mary T. Whittington, sorority chaperon.

THETA UPSILON SORORITY WILL HAVE INFORMAL TEA FOR FACULTY MEMBERS

The members and pledges of the Theta Upsilon sorority will entertain with an informal tea Sunday afternoon honoring several members of the faculty.

Decorations will be vases of dogwood, spirea, sweet peas and other seasonal flowers arranged effectively in the rooms of the house.

The pledges who are in charge of this affair will serve refreshments of sandwiches, mints and tea during the afternoon.

Members of the faculty who will be the honor guests at this tea are Miss Elizabeth Linn, Dr. Annie M. Popper, Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Heinlein, Dr. and Mrs. Mark Woodruff, Dr. Donnie Till, and Dr. Raymond Bellamy.

Hostesses at this time will be Ann Donnell, Barbara Greene, Lucile Edenfield, Mary Lambert, Jean Robbins, Mildred Smith, Harriette Jeffries, Elizabeth Leach, Ann Hughes, Margaret Neff, Anna Leigh Rollins, Olivia Sorenson, Lois Hughes, Lorraine Dykes, Jane Boonchell, Valerie Hunt, Eunice Moe, Nancy Rogers, Grace Brewer, Dot Stewart, Doris Geiger, Frances Ellis, and Marie Wesley.

KAPPA DELTA MEMBERS AND FACULTY ENJOYED INFORMAL TEA YESTERDAY

Friends of the Kappa Delta sorority members and several of the faculty were honored at an informal tea in the sorority house on Copeland street yesterday afternoon.

Dogwood, bridal wreath, sweet peas and other spring flowers were arranged throughout the rooms to carry out the informal motif.

Tea, sandwiches, nuts and mints were served during the social hour.

Alice Dean Mabry, Sarah Tillman, Jean Brown, Marguerite Gehan, Erma Engel, Lutrelle Patterson, Mary Litschgi, Martha Edwards, Petrea Cabaniss, Mary Jane Adkins, Janet Lockwood, Ann Bayly, Lois Reiter, Billy Gaither, Helen Ballenger, Carol Parsons, Betty Black, Barbara Moore, Lucille Seed, Hazel Anderson, Madge Glenn, Martha Lester, Virginia Northcutt, Kathryn Gibson, Dot McLean, Grace Whitaker, Sue Whitaker, ETWen Ayala, Jean Baughman, Maie Anderson, Frances LaMotte, Gerry Miles, Genevieve Summers, Virginia Phillips, Ann Mizell, Dot Phillips, Ines Seabrook, Cecil Hicks, Mary Mcginnins, Nellie Fain, Josephine Bluine, Anne Sams, Becky Ashton, Helen Turnbull, Marjorie Wogan, Barbara Taylor, Jane Tharin, Jane Jackson, and Martha Kennedy.

COLLEGE CALENDAR

March 29 to April 4

Sunday

11:00 a. m. Church services.
2:00 p. m. Glee Club rehearsal.
7 15 p. m. Vespers.

Monday

8:00 p. m. Orchestra rehearsal.
7:15 p.m. Glee Club rehearsal.
8:00 p.m. Sorority meetings.

Tuesday

11:30 a. m. Convocation—A. A. U. program—Dr. Andrews, speaker.
5:00 p.m. Orchestra rehearsal.
7:30 p. m. Glee Club rehearsal.

Wednesday

4:30 p.m. Student Music Recital —auditorium.
7:15 p.m. Glee Club concert.

Thursday

7:15 p.m. Orchestra rehearsal.
7:30 p.m. Discussion group —follow-up of Religious Emphasis week—Reynolds hall.
8:15 p.m. Senior play. "The Importance of Being Earnest"—Augusta Conrad theater.

Friday

7:30 p.m. Orchestra rehearsal.
8:15 p.m. Senior play. "The Importance of Being Earnest" —Augusta Conrad theater.

Saturday

6:00 p.m. Junior-Senior prom.

Wednesday Afternoon Music Recital Offers Piano, Voice, Violin

The regular Wednesday afternoon recital by students of the school of music was presented in the college auditorium on Wednesday, March 25, 1936 at 4:30 p.m.

The program was as follows: Theme and Variations, A major ..... Mozart
Erma Lee Goodwin

Songs:
Sketches of London, Manning
Windsor Castle
June in London
Josephine Binion
Erma Lee Goodwin, accompanist

Sonata:
I. Heure Exquise ... Poldowski
Ballata ... Sibelia
Marion Carson
Martha Lee Wilkerson, accompanist

Rondo, A minor ..... Mozart
Virginia Long

Violin:
Andante from Concerto in D minor ..... Mendelssohn
Danse Espagnole ..... De Falla-Kreisler
Martha Reddick

End Of Christmas Vacation Finds Many People Wearing New Glasses

"I didn't know you wore glasses"—Well, I didn't until I went home Christmas." This little dialogue is heard so often on campus that it is about to become the F. B. C. W. password. The number of new glasses that have made their appearance in the last two months is quite amazing. Every evening after dinner "snap-snaps," can be heard all over the library as girls don their newly-acquired specs.

It isn't hard to identify the new glasses. Their owners always remove them very carefully from their shiny black cases and never put them on until they have been carefully polished. And then the new specs are constantly irritating their wearer and have to be adjusted frequently.

Have you ever noticed how girls's glasses usually suit their type? Of course there are exceptions, but in general, personalities of specs may be divided into five classes. The first grot, might be called the "horn-rimmed" type. We are all familiar with this group. Their habitat is some isolated corner of the library where they sit and devour piles of intellectual-looking books. They are more commonly called the "book worms," and only exist from one week's parallel to the next. Their glasses are usually bounded in thick black rims and are worn all the time. Another and very different type of person also makes use of the horn-rimmed spectacles. She is the unassuming, undistrafied, little girl who has to start practice teaching and wants to impress her pupils. She finds it very convenient to be able to glare over the rims of her specs when she desires to maintain order.

Another type of glasses to be found in a secluded nook of the library is the "octagonal-rimless-full view" group. These are worn by the girl who is afraid of spoiling her beauty. She wears them only when absolutely necessary and does not don them until she is safely hidden behind a book in a remote corner, lest her friends discover her affliction. She would not wear them at all if her dad had not threatened to cut her allowance if she neglected her specs.

A third class of specs is the plain rimless type. The wearer of these glasses is usually the sympathetic girl. She usually wears them all the time, but no one can remember whether this type wears glasses or not.

But whether of necessity or otherwise, glasses seem to have become very popular on campus.

Bergman's at Soda
Tallahassee's Smartest Shop Dept.
SATURDAY AND SUNDAY LUNCHEON
—CHOICE OF—
Roast Milk-Fed Turkey and Dressing with Cranberry Sauce
Broasted Chicken Supreme Baked Ham with Apple Sauce
Fresh Garden Pea Salad, New Boiled Potatoes in Butter,
Steamed Turnips with Greens, Creamed Carrots,
Whole Wheat Muffins, Banana Meringue
Pudding or Ice Cream for Dessert.
25c COLD PLATE
Creamed Fruit Salad, Lettuce, Whipped Cream, Cherries, Potato Chips, Gherkin Pickles, Pimento Cheese Sandwich and Iced Tea.
35c COLD PLATE
Potato Salad, Baked Ham, Lettuce and Tomatoes, Dill Pickles, Hard Boiled Egg, Saltines and Iced Tea.
Hot Pecan Waffle, Rasher Bacon, Maple Syrup and Coffee 25c
We Serve Hot Waffles with Bacon or Ham Any Hour of Day!
Minced Barbecue Sandwich, Fresh Orangeade 15c
Ham Salad Sandwich, Chocolate Sundae 20c
Fresh Strawberry Sundae 10c

Waiters Meet Waterloo

Artist Series Prove Bane; Janitor Sweeps Remains In Business Office; Reserve Room And Hops Bring Casualties

By NAN O'SHAUGHNESSY

Someone has thrown lights into the blackness that overwhelms undercrade with the smug yet hopeful work: They also serve who only stand and wait."

"Whadda yuh mean 'serve?'" says the cultured student of today. Does Professor Bigbrain temper the thrusts of his little red pencil when he has seen the assistent up to her neck in lime the day before? Does he say: (with proper lighting and the orchestra playing Hearts and Flowers), "She did her part! These quizzes are all fol-de-rol anyway!" Does he? No, sah, heh! he does not, and in those words is heartbreak.

Have you (or you, or you) ever wondered why artist series audiences seem a bit hysterical by the time intermission rolls around? Have you taken note of the haggard faces, the drooping eyes, the "coffee nerves"? Let us take a peek into the auditorium while it is still daylight of an Artist Series evening.

Deserted? No, no. With the exception of a few parasites who go to dinner and let their friends save their seats, the student body is present. As you enter, several aluft their pillows and yawn, some take another swig of coffee and try to comfort their weaker sisters, who cry out pathetically: "It's a-seven-thirty. She won't come 'til the finishes that a-fourth Serie!" And such like. It gets you.

Of all sad words of tongue or pen, these: "Line Forms to Rutht" take the fur-lined bathrobe. When Poo sends the monthly check he times it uncannily so that it arrives on Saturday, and you don sword and cuirass and head for the business office. On good days, the casualties are comparatively few, but with the depression the janitor has been complaining about sweeping up the mangled remains. It's not as if he minded arms and legs, he says, but this is too much—and he's a Union man.

The gentlemen who bring refreshments from our various campus delight parlors have a little to learn from Mercury, who had no lead in his ten-and-half As. The dormitory arcades of these winter evenings bring to mind Elias and the ice floes and "sailing is not so bad. The problem was solved by one able freshman who suspended a tin can on a string and waited in her wawa room. When the food arrived, the startled boy obediently went it up in the can, but as it passed the second floor, the fascinating hamburg odor was too much for a soul within; a strong arm relieved the can of its contents, and the chastened Edison on the top floor gave the errand boy hard looks for a week.

Is there a stude with conscience so dead that he hasn't waited in line for reserve books? If you want to be sure of getting the book, go after breakfast. If you don't care a whole lot, but are just going to make a try, go about an hour before lunch, that's if you want to be among the first hundred thousand. If you're flunking, don't go, health is something.

And then there was the girl who asked her B.F. to a hop, naively expecting to get him there. The ticket sale was announced, and, flexing her muscles, she worked her way into the line. Hours later, she emerged, bruised, torn, and tickerless. You can't win.

Outside the restaurant office may be seen an active little group practicing jiu-jitsu holds and darting around with lightning speed to be in sprinting condition should there be an empty place in line. The door opens and they get rushed in.

The most pitiful group is the one that congregates around the mail boxes and waits for news from the world outside. They key their hopes on the hand behind the glass door and won't accept an empty mail box until a stern reading: "POSITIVELY EVERY HUNK OF STATIONERY RECEIVED HAS BEEN GIVEN TO RIGHTFUL OWNER. NOW GO" is posted conspicuously.

There is an uncompromising code of ethics or perhaps a set of Marquis of Queensbury Rules, which bind line-standers. They are as follows:

Do not trip your neighbor, making her sprawl on floor and lose place in line.

Do not admit best friend to place ahead of you. Violence will follow such an act.

Do not walk up the back of the person ahead as the line moves forward. After all. . . .

When going through a line, do not push so as to remove bits of clothing or skin. Thank you.

Observe the niceties. Do not hit a fellow line-stander where it will leave a scar.

When meeting a fellow line-stander on campus, greet him cheerfully, treating him as though he were a friend.

Contemporary Students Thoughts

Continued from page five

terpret factual knowledge, catch up on recommended reading, tack unrelated courses together. A pre-examination study period allows time for study when a student is mentally set for learning.—Minnesota Daily.

Newspaper Excerpts Give FSCW Activities

Continued from page six

ise on the campus, and throughout the state.

Covers were laid for Miss Longmire, Mrs. John Murphy, Mrs. Ernest Mason, Miss Mae White, Miss Lola Walton, Miss Louise Quarterman, Miss Marianna Raborn, Miss Calhoun Walker, Miss Mary Louise Stewart, Miss Amy Doris Van Pelt, Mrs. Elizabeth Cermak Ahrens.

Mrs. A. C. Born, Mrs. J. A. Johnston, Mrs. Sarah Landrum Cawthon, Mrs. R. W. Jones, Mrs. Winthrop Randolph, Miss Emmie Gunn, Miss Dorothy Wright, Miss Margaret Baker, Miss Lettie Baxter, Miss Katie Barrineau, Mrs. W. E. Gunn, Miss Olivia Embery, Miss Mary Louise Robson, Mrs. Chester Griffin, Miss Roberta Anson, Miss Virginia Tyler, Miss Virginia Schmillel, Miss Marjorie Mackey, Miss Dolly Connor, Miss Sarah Lou Hammond, Dorothy Peake, Miss Elizabeth Brame, Miss Mary Doris Baxter, Miss Barbara Bell.

A number of courtesies were paid Miss Longmire Saturday, members of the alumnae driving her to points of interest, including the naval air station, the Scenic Highway and residential section of North Hill. Mrs. Charles Born entertained for Miss Longmire at luncheon and Saturday evening she was guest at dinner at the San Carlos hotel with several members of the alumnae as hostesses.

During her visit to Pensacola Miss Longmire addressed the public over WCOA, introduced by Mrs. Sarah Landrum Cawthon, spoke Friday morning to junior and senior high school girls, and in the afternoon, met mothers of prospective college girls in the Shantung room of the San Carlos.

—Pensacola Journal

POMPANO

The Pompano alumni of the Florida State College for Women met at the home of Mrs. T. H. Chapman, Jr., recently to complete arrangements for a luncheon to be held with the Pompano Rotary Club Friday, March 6, in observance of F. S. C. W. Week.

Dean N. M. Salley of the school of education of Florida State will be with old fashioned bouquets of

Visiting Speaker

John Hall Jones, better known as Gainesville as Farmer, will be the guest of the Baptist student here next week while teaching a study course, "Planning a Life."

be the principal speaker. Girls in the senior class are invited guests.

While in Pompano Dean Salley will be the guest of Miss Marie Jelks at Wahoo Lodge.

—Pompano Sun

QUINCY

Dr. Olive Dorman, dean of students at Florida State College for Women addressed twenty-two members of the college alumnae of Gadsden county at a luncheon held Saturday at the Kenwood Coffee House. Dr. Dorman was accompanied by Miss Edith West of the classics department.

ri'asW.Y. -B Qf ETAOIN

Garnet and gold, the college colors, were used in decorating the long table. Old fashioned bouquets of gold narcissi ted with garnet ribbon being at each place excepting those of Dr. Dorman and Miss West who were presented with old fashioned bouquets of gold freesas and garnet sweet peas. Garnet and gold place cards carrying the college seal were used, as the delicious luncheon was served.

During the business session officers of the county association were elected as follows: Mrs. Ben Bonick, president; Mrs. Buford Williams, secretary.

Plans for the forming of an association that would hold more frequent meetings were also discussed.

—Gadsden County Times

SANFORD

Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, personnel director of Florida State College for Women on the new college plan to be used next year is the school at the annual luncheon for Florida State College for Women alumnae. Phi Mu Kappa, and interested friends and parents held Saturday at the Mayfair Hotel.

Officers for 1936 for the Seminole county alumnae association were elected as follows: Miss Virginia Earle, president; Miss Rebecca Stevens, vice-president; and Miss Emilie Lingle, secretary and treasurer.

Mrs. Gladys Morris Williams, last year's president of the Alumnae association, presided over the luncheon which brought to a close annual Florida State College for Women Week.

Those present were Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews of Tallahassee, Mrs. Paul Dooley, Mrs. Stella P. Arrington, Mrs. Leola M. Dorman, Mrs. Allan T. Mealy, and the Misses Virginia Earle, Catherine Takach, Ruth Hand, Carmela Barber, Phyllis Smith, Thelma Tew, Nettie Mae Fowler, Rebecca Stevens, Lady Jane Leuders, Frances Wilson, Betty Hinkerminter, Jean Andrews, Frances Morrow, and Emilie Lingle.

—Sanford Herald.

Mrs. Roy Mann and Mrs. Ella McAnly entertained Sanford Rotarians and their guests at their regular weekly luncheon in the Mayfair Hotel today. Mrs. McAnly delighted Rotarians with a medley of popular songs while Mrs. Mann discussed the value of Florida State College for Women to investors in this state

—Sanford Herald.

Mrs. Roy Mann gave the Kiwanians the same illuminating facts about Florida State College for Women that she told to the Rotarians at the meeting yesterday, and Ella McAnly sang a medley of popular songs.

—Sanford Herald.

Only other number of the program of the Woman's club was an address, "Some Returns on Your Investment as Florida State College for Women," given by Miss Virginia Earle, an alumnae of the college, in observance of Florida State College for Women Week.

—Sanford Herald.

SARASOTA

Mrs. Andrew Miller, chairman for Sarasota of the observance of Florida State College for Women Week, today announced the various speakers who will appear before the clubs and schools this week, talking on various phases of the college work.

Miss Evelyn Miller, teacher at the Central school who attended the summer school sessions at F. S. C. W., will speak at 8:30 o'clock tonight to the members of the Business and Professional Women's club.

Miss Mary Jones, alumna and teacher at the high school, will speak on the same subject tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the meeting of the high school parent-teacher association.

Miss Emma Reis, member of the college faculty last year, will address the Rotary club members at their meeting Wednesday noon at the Central Park Manor.

Saturday noon, alumnae of Sarasota will attend an alumnae luncheon to be given in Bradenton at which Dr. William O. Dodd, dean of the college of arts and sciences, F. S. C. W., will be the speaker.

—Sarasota Tribune.

ST. AUGUSTINE

A charming affair of yesterday afternoon was the tea given in the quaint dining room of the Old Spanish Treasury for the alumnae of the Florida State College for Women. This social gathering of former students of the college was held in connection with the local observance of "F. S. C. W. Week."

Dr. Mark H. DeGraff, professor in the School of Education at Florida State college, and Mrs. DeGraff, were honor guests at the tea. Also present were Mrs. DeGraff's mother, Mrs. Maggio, and Miss Kites of Tallahassee.

The lace-covered refreshment table was centered with an usually lovely mixed bouquet, around which were placed tall pink candles. Mrs. Al Fields and Mrs. Herbert Pelzel presided at the table during the tea hour.

Among F. S. C. W. alumnae in St. Augustine who were present yesterday were Mrs. Noble Eberhardt, Mrs. Al Fields, Mrs. K. Emmett Gardner, Miss Mabel Poe, Mrs. E. Willard Howat, Jr., Miss Margaret Manford, Mrs. Frank Harrold, Miss Mertice Sellars, Miss Lula May Scarbrough, Miss Mary Katherine Nunum, Miss Frances Walker, Miss Helen Cook, Miss Raymondine Ponce, Mrs. Edward Buford, Miss Elise McGuire.

—St. Augustine Record.

In observance of "F S C W Week," which is being celebrated this week throughout the state, the study club yesterday had as its guest speaker at the regular luncheon meeting at the Hotel Monson Annex, Miss Lois Varn, member of the Florida State College for Women Alumnae.

Miss Margaret Manford, Kiwanis accompanist and alumnae of Florida State college, was called upon to play two of the college's songs, "Garnet and Gold" and "With Spirits So Bright"; and Miss Bell Bryan also a graduate of the college, sang two solos "Dust of the Sun and West of the Moon," and "Why Dream."

St. Augustine Record.

Miss Elsie McGuire was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Exchange club this week, her subject being in observance of F. S. C. W. Week. Miss McGuire, a graduate of the state college, talked in a most interesting and enlightening manner on its activities and curriculum. She also passed around attractive photographs of the campus and the various buildings in connection with the college.

During the meeting an entertaining recitation was given by Miss Mary Cone.

—St. Augustine Record.

WEST PALM BEACH

A dinner and reception were given last evening at the Mary George Washington for Dean Blanchael M. Salley of the Florida State College for Women by a dozen of the alumnae of this area. During dinner the orchestra played several college airs.

—Palm Beach Times.

Amy Briggs Speaks On Genre Painting, Shows Advancement of Culture

Miss Amy Peters Briggs gave a talk on Genre painting in the 307 Administration building this day afternoon at 5:30 in connection with the Artist Series edition of Genre painting from the seventeenth to twentieth century now on exhibit.

Explaining the meaning of Genre painting Miss Briggs said that it was a term denoting any painting or art concerning everyday life.

Genre painting, Miss Briggs noted, came into its own in England in the seventeenth century. The naturalism of the seventeenth century brought out Genre painting even in those centuries when classical tendencies favored historical-Biblical subjects.

Contrast in the seventeenth through the nineteenth century with the twentieth century she shows the advancement from dull colors to a greater brilliancy of color in the twentieth century.

Some of the paintings in the group are, A Musical Study, William Hogarth; Bel Ballet Alfred Maurer; The Music Lesson John Brown; Women Sewing Mary Cassatt; Ploughing It Under by Thomas Benton and Ruth, John Stuart Curry.

The exhibition will be open through April 1.

aroma... it's as much a part of Chesterfield as the taste

Did you ever notice the difference in the aroma of Chesterfield tobacco?

Every person who knows about tobacco will understand this... for to get a pleasing aroma is just like getting a pleasing taste from fruit.

Mild ripe tobaccos, home-grown, and welded with the right kind of tobacco from far-off Greece and Turkey (Samsoun, Smyrna, Xanthi and Cavalla)...

... that's why Chesterfield has a more pleasing aroma.

On the air—
WEDNESDAY SATURDAY
ROSA NINO
PONSELLE MARTINI
KOSTELANETZ ORCHESTRA AND CHORUS
9 P. M. (E. S. T.)—COLUMBIA NETWORK

... with that pleasing aroma

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

The Easter Parade
IS NOW ON!
Step into a new pair of shoes—of course
Quality Shoes

$2.95 to $5.95
SANDALS from $1.95
P. S.—A New Shipment of Kedettes has Arrived
$1.25
QUALITY SHOE SHOPPE
E. College Ave.

M & N CAFE
SPECIAL AT ALL TIMES:
STEAK DINNERS 40c OYSTER DINNERS 40c
TURKEY DINNERS 60c
PHONE 1054 119 JEFFERSON ST.

FLORIDA STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN
TALLAHASSEE FLORIDA

Let's Face the Music And Dance

The Florida Flambeau

To Phi Beta Kappa's Congrats

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOLUME XXIII. Tallahassee, Florida, April 3, 1936 NUMBER TWENTY-FIVE

Alpha Chapter Will Initiate Seven In April

Phi Beta Kappa Selects Seven from Liberal Arts College

DR. JOHN TIGERT TO GIVE ADDRESS

Students are Elected On Basis of Interest And Record

Seven seniors in the College of Arts and Sciences have been elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa fraternity, scholastic honorary, according to an announcement issued Wednesday by Miss Myrtle E. Dolbee, secretary of Alpha chapter.

They are, Katherine Marie Blood, Winter Haven; Barbara Crosland, Lake Wales; Sara Malcolm Krentzman, Milton; Laura Mathis, Jacksonville; Valera Kathryn Stubbs, Tampa; Lillian May Turlington, Gainesville, and Wylma Elaine Ter Bush, Miami.

Second Election

The election of these members marks the inception of the second year of Phi Beta Kappa on this campus. The local chapter was installed at a two-day ceremony March 4-5, 1935.

These seven students will be initiated as members in course April 11. Following the initiation there will be an address by President John J Tigert of the University of Florida, a senator in Phi Beta Kappa, in the Augusta Conradi theater. This will be open to the public and will begin at 8:15 o'clock.

After the talk a reception will be given in Gilchrist parlors honoring the guest speaker and new members of the society. Invited to this will be faculty members and students who are members of the various honorary fraternities on the campus.

Installation of Alpha Chapter

Last year two honorary members, seven alumnae and five members in course were initiated during the installation service which brought many important figures in the educational world here as well as other well-known people. Among the notables here were Dean Christian Gauss of Princeton; Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve, of Barnard college; President David A. Robertson of Goucher college, and President Theodore H. Jack of Randolph-Macon Woman's college.

The members chosen each year must have at least 100 hours of

Continued on page two

New Course Will Be in Catalogue

State Requirement Makes Geography Necessary

A new course in geography will appear in the college catalogue for 1936-37, announced Mr. S. R. Doyle, registrar.

This course is being offered to meet a new state requirement. A legislative enactment by the State Board of Education makes a course in conservation compulsory to anyone who will be certified to teach after September 1, 1936. This requirement may be fulfilled through three hours of either Geography 101 or Geography 210. There are no prerequisites to this course.

An extract from the new catalogue will explain the purpose of conservation. "Man secures the many economic commodities of our age by efficient or wasteful use of the natural resources of the earth. In so doing he stamps on the world a work pattern in which are clearly reflected both his greedy mistakes and his more fortunate adaptations. This course is concerned with the relationships existing between this world work pattern as expressed in regional production of the principal commodities in world trade and types of natural regions. An attempt is made to give a world view of the effects of natural conditions on large-scale production and commerce. Special emphasis is placed on the need for conservation of forests, minerals, soils, wild life, and land and water resources; in other words, on the re-adjustments which man over the earth and more particularly in the United States must make as he fits his pattern of work and play more wisely to his natural environment."

Editorial Contest Open

For the best editorial of timely campus interest Alpha Chi Alpha, journalism honorary, is offering a cash prize of $2.50. The contest, which is open to all students except Alpha Chi Alpha members, will be closed April 17.

Rules for the contest are: Manuscripts must be typed, double spaced. The editorial must be between 500 and 1000 words in length. The manuscript must be unsigned, and put in an envelope with the author's name typed on the front. Address the manuscript to Alpha Chi Alpha in care of the Flambeau.

Judges for the contest will be announced later.

Distaff Is To Come Out Soon

Editor Announces Third Issue Nearly Ready For Release

An announcement that the Distaff, critical quarterly college magazine, will be released soon, was made today by Sara Krentzman, editor of the publication.

Three articles selected for this issue are: "The Modern Student Seeks a Religion," by Bernice Allen, a new contributor; "Is a New Pan-Americanism Creeping Out," by Daisy Parker, who is the incoming editor; and "Heaven Looks at Higher Learning" a satire by Evelyn Fisher.

Among the stories will be found "Death Letter" by Evelyn Fisher, "Return" by Patricia Given, and "Adventure" by Nellie Lamar who won the five dollar prize for the best prose composition in the last issue of the Distaff.

In the "All-Wool" section is "What? No Courses in the Use of the Doughnut Hole?", a satire by Eleanor Williams; "Dear Teacher" by Nan O'Shaughnessy; Marie Joffre's "Campus Culture." and "Misunderstood Horse." by Eloise Trott.

The art work for the magazine is being handled by Eloise Moeller and Grace Whitaker. A campus scene, "Roommate," is to be the frontispiece, done by Eloise. Grace illustrated the "All-Wool" section and did a portrait of Walter Duranty for "Marching Letters." A group of poems on death are also illustrated by Grace.

Poetry was contributed by Mavis McMillan, Agnes Reedy, Phil Asher, Frances Hartley, Zulieme Russel, and Arline Lockhart.

Dorothy Barclay, Mauvis Lussier, Florence DeVine Barbara Crosland, Eleanor Williams, and Irene Hamowitz wrote the book reviews in this issue's "Marching Letters"

Three Speech Recitals Planned This Quarter

Three speech majors will present their senior recitals during this quarter. On Thursday, April 16, Emily Johnson will give "Holliday" by Phillip Barrie. Betty Boggs will present "Mary of Scotland" by Maxwell Anderson on April 22. "Design for Living" by Noel Coward will be presented by Ruth Mock on April 30.

Leading Tenor To Appear In Concert Here

Jagel of Metropolitan Is Known By Europeans And Americans

TO BE LAST ON ARTIST SERIES

Program to Be Presented On Monday, April 20, In Auditorium

Frederick Jagel, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera company, will come here in the last artist series of the year Monday evening, April 20, at 8:15 o'clock in the college auditorium.

In the winter at the Metropolitan Opera company, during the summer at Chicago's Ravinia Park, New York's Stadium concerts, Philadelphia's Robin Hood Dell or at the Colon Opera in Buenos Aires, in early autumn at the gala performances of the San Francisco and Los Angeles Opera, and in spring concert tours and festival appearances, Frederick Jagel has made and maintained a consistent and high record for beautiful singing and enviable musicianship.

Extensive Career

This young and successful American tenor was born in 1897 in Brooklyn, New York, and does not remember the time when he did not want to sing. His career has been a swift one. It started when a wealthy business man heard him singing solos in a church and offered to finance him. He went abroad and in August, 1924, made his debut at Livorno, the birthplace of Mascagni, singing Rodolfo in "Boheme." Engagements followed in the major cities of Italy, Holland, and Spain, and during those first three years he sang major roles in 194 performances.

All the time, however, that the young American was making a European reputation for himself, he had one idea in the back of his head—New York and the Metropolitan Opera company. Finally his day came. He was singing at the Dal Verme theatre in Milan when General Manager Gatti-Casazza heard him and immediately signed him up for the season of 1927-28. Frederick Jagel's first season at the Metropolitan proved to be the prompt fulfillment of a promise. His debut as Rhadames was acclaimed by both press and public. Since then he has gone steadily forward. He has been heard regularly at the opera house ever since and with cumulative success.

How Jagel Studies

When he learns a new role, he first studies it musically, then dramatically. He reads through the libretto, acquainting himself in general with its story and background. Then he works on the music. After the score has been absorbed into his subconciousness he starts to memorize the words. He has found the best method for himself is to write out the part, then repeat it aloud. An

Continued on page six

Comedy To Be Given Second Time Tonight

"The Importance of Being Earnest" Is Given As Senior Play

By MARY MASSIE

The second presentation of the three-act comedy, "The Importance of Being Earnest," the senior play, will be given tonight at 8:15 in the Augusta Conradi theater for juniors and seniors and their dates.

The setting of this farcical comedy is in London in the gay nineties. The costumes are most characteristic of this period, the women wearing beautiful hoop skirts, bustles, and flouncing hats, while the men appear in long frock coats and top hats.

The Cast

Marjorie Harris plays the part of one of the most amusing characters, Lady Bracknell, an old aristocratic, mercenary snob, who is the dominating ambitious mother of Gwendolyn.

Betty Boggs is cast as the beautiful, charming young daughter, Gwendolyn, who is desperately in love with John, whom she knows only as Earnest. There is a love scene during which Earnest, very much prompted and encouraged by Gwendolyn, gets on his knees to propose, and while he is in this position, Lady Bracknell walks in, and makes it clear that she thinks such conduct is outrageous.

The Hero

Kenneth Williams has the lead and is cast as John Worthin, a wealthy gentleman of twenty-nine who would be a most eligible young man if it were not for the fact that he does not know his real identity until Miss Prism unexpectedly and to the amazement of all, discloses it at the very last.

Cecily Cardew, acted by Eleanor Jenkins, is a frivolous but dainty little blond of eighteen, who lives with her guardian, John Worthing, at his country estate. John fibs and tells Cecily that he has a mischievous, wicked younger brother, Earnest, whom he is always having to go into town to straighten out. This gives John a good excuse to go to London to visit Gwendolyn. But the creation of this fictitious character, results in many entanglements and mix-ups.

Other Players

Julian Alford, as Algerman Moncries, is shown as the carefree man about town who falls madly in love and proposes to Cecily who thinks he is Earnest, her Uncle Jack's wicked but likable brother from London.

There is another love entanglement in the second act in the garden scene when the two young

Continued on page two

Churches Make Plans for Week

Easter Sunday Will Be Celebrated Here

The various churches of this city are planning a large number of events which are to take place this coming week in celebration of holy week and Easter Sunday.

Among the many affairs being planned by the Episcopal church is the sunrise service which is to be held on Easter morning, April 12, in the open air theater from 6 to 6:30 under the leadership of Ben Meginnis, jr. a student at the Suwanee Theological Seminary. Miss Margaret Do . director of the choir, is to have a special program of music at this time. All students who are to be here during the spring holidays are cordially invited to attend this service.

A round table discussion on all the open forums that were held during Lent will take place on Sunday afternoon, at 5:15 o'clock in Ruge hall. Elizabeth Kirby-Smith is general chairman of the committee which is also composed of Betty Ostlund, Louise Ostlund, Louise Lingo, Betty White, and Kathryn Bacon.

Special vesper services are being planned for holy week. On Monday afternoon, a vesper service will be held in Ruge hall from 6 to 6:15 at which time the Rev. W. J. Alfriend will officiate. The student choir will furnish music under the direction of Miss Margaret Dow. Vesper services are to take place on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons, April 6 and 7, from 6 to 6:15 in the Penitential Office where Miss Julia Gehan will lead the services. A special musical program will also be featured then.

All students interested in at-

Continued on page two

Orchestra Will Again Present Spring Concert

Cowles to Direct Second Annual Recital On Tuesday Eve

REDDICK TO BE CONCERT MASTER

Compositions of Corelli, Tschaikowsky, Mozart To Be Played

The Florida State College orchestra, under the direction of Walter Ruel Cowles, will give its annual spring concert in the college auditorium on Tuesday evening, April 7, at 8:30 o'clock. The soloists on the program are two seniors in the School of Music, Martha Reddick, violinist, and Virginia Long, pianist.

Martha Reddick, concert master of the orchestra this year for the third time, will present La Folia, a Spanish solo by Corelli. Virginia Long will play Tschaikowsky's Concerto No. 1 in B flat minor, Op. 23.

Second of Three

This is the second of a series of three concerts which are presented by the college orchestra each year. The final concert for the year will be given toward the end of the term. Mr. Cowles, professor of theory, has conducted the orchestra for the past six years.

The program is as follows:

Symphony in C major (Jupiter), by Mozart: Allegro vivace; Andante cantabile, Menuetto: Allegro. The origin of the title "Jupiter" is unknown. It was composed in 1788 and is considered by many to be one of the greatest symphonies of Mozart.

La Folia—variations serieuses for violin, by Corelli; soloist, Martha Reddick. La Folia is said to have been a Spanish solo dance, although very little is known about it. Corelli was one of the great composers and violinists of the seventeenth century.

Piano Concerto No. 1 in B flat

Continued on page six

Campus Honor Is Discussed

Whitaker, Bowman, And Graham Give Talks At Meeting

Opposite views of one of the most pertinent questions on campus were presented at the N. S. F. A. forum Tuesday night. Sue Whitaker, speaking on "A Proctor System for F. S. C. W.," and Hazel Bowman, speaking on "Give Our Honor System a Chance," presented a discussion on a proposed honor system. Margaret Graham, chairman of the advisors committee on honor at present preparing a tentative honor outline, clarified the work the committee is doing.

Favoring a proctor system, Sue Whitaker stated she believed that in enforcing honor the instructor should remain in the examination room in the capacity of an overseer. This would tend to discourage any cheating that might otherwise be attempted.

Opposing this system of effecting honor, Hazel Bowman advocated no proctor procedure, but instead the educating of the group to an attitude of disapproval toward dishonorable conduct. Social disapproval, rather than tangible legislation, would be the method of discouraging dishonorable behavior on the part of the student.

The point was made in the discussions that the ideal honor system would be no honor system at all. Honor varies with the individual and can not be defined as being composed of only certain, definite characteristics. Yet those characteristics of honor which are universally expected, it is believed, should be effected on campus. The means by which this can be accomplished vary, to judge from the open discussion held on the subject after the formal forum.

Margaret Graham, in explaining the proposed honor system, stated that nothing had been definitely settled yet in the work of drawing up an honor system. The suggestions which have been made by the committee are subject to discussion and rejection, she said

Continued on page two

New Officers to Be Installed

Mary Jeanne McKay and Martha Makemson, recently elected president and chairman of judiciary, who will be formally recognized in front of Bryan Hall Monday night.

Campbell Speaks On College Curricula Trends In South

Talk is Based on Data Gained from Survey Of 158 Schools

Dr. Doak S. Campbell of Peabody college, who visited the campus last year, spoke before a group of faculty members and students Thursday night in Ruge hall on the subject, "Recent Trends in College Curricula in the South."

Basing his talk on information gained in a survey of 158 colleges in the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the speaker defined the two most important trends in education as the breaking down of departmental barriers in universities and the liberalization of study, rather than specialization.

Dr. Campbell left this morning for Gainesville where he will attend a state meeting of high school principals. Dr. Campbell was asked to speak here by the local branch of the American Association of University Professors.

In describing some of the subjects taken up in his survey Dr. Campbell said that there is a great deal of confusion among the institutions of higher learning concerning their aims and functions, but that many of these colleges and universities are now setting about to redefine their purposes. The question of criteria of entrance requirements for students to enter college was another question discussed. The only criteria common to ninety per cent of the institutions was that the student be a graduate from a standard high school

"The amazing thing," the speaker said, "is that the criterion that has the least validity is that being adopted by many of the institutions." One of these that has the most questionable validity is a recommendation of a student by a high school principal.

The supply and demand question of teachers is another great problem. Dr. Campbell pointed out. Fifteen years ago, he said, there was a large demand for teachers but now there is a flood

Continued on page two

Professor Gets Distinct Honor

Seymour Named Academy Member by French Government

Dr. Arthur Seymour, professor of modern languages at Florida State College, has been named "Officier d'Academie" by the French government. This distinction is bestowed customarily upon French citizens only, yet it may be accorded to foreigners who "contribute to the intellectual scientific and artistic expansion of France," according to the national ordinance.

The brevet received by Dr Seymour bears the national French seal, and is signed by the Minister of Education, M. Henri Guerunt. The document mentions various decrees and ordinances relating to the granting of the honorary title The earliest one of these is of March 17, 1808 issued during the time of Emperor Napoleon at the same time that the University of Paris was reorganized The brevet also mentions royal decrees of 1844, 1845, 1846, followed by decrees of the third republic dated 1885, 1921, 1922, and 1924.

The decoration issued to an "Officier d'Academie" consists of an oval crown formed of a laurel branch entwined with a palm branch.

The visit of the French consul of New Orleans, M Drlage, to the Florida State College campus last year and his expressions of pleasure at the fine quality of work being accomplished here in linguistic training and in acquiring a knowledge of French life and literature has resulted in this recognition by the French government. It is through this consul that word has reached Dr. Seymour from the national Minister of Education of France.

Dr. Seymour has studied on several occasions at the University of Paris, the last time in 1930

Honors similar to that of the

Continued on page two

Evolution of an Easter Plan With 'Dear Diary' Adopting Exhaust Role Unsuspecting Families Deluged with Wires At Final Crisis

By PEARLE SHEPARD

Monday. Dear Diary—I'm not going home for Easter. And I'm glad I'm not, for many reasons. It is too expensive for the short time that we'll be home It seems ridiculous that all the girls are getting so excited over just taking a trip home for a few days.

I need the rest, too, and I know that when I'm home I wouldn't get it, dancing and everything. Besides Jim hasn't written me for a week now. It will serve him right that I won't be home.

I know that the family can afford to have me come home but I think it's much more sensible to stay here than ask them for the money. Funny they haven't said anything about it, but then I know that the money will be put to some good advantage at home.

I hear they have grand times up here, resting and doing all the things that we never have the time ordinarily to do It will be amusing to catch up in these. Let's see, I believe I will plan a program.

Tuesday—I've found someone else who is sensible as I am. Dotty isn't going home either. She lives in North Carolina, but then she's really not interested in going anywhere either. We've started on a program. Thursday afternoon we're going to play tennis, then take a plunge before dinner. Guess we'll go to a show or listen to the radio that night. I just love to spend the evening listening to the radio. On Friday we're going to take a walk in the country and go to Good Friday service at noon. Golf is scheduled for the afternoon and that night we're going to give a party We haven't found anybody to invite, but it's going to be a good one and more fun.

Edith can't understand why I want to stay here during Easter She's so excited about seeing "homey womey" that it's fairly nauseating to hear her. I tried to make her see how silly it is to go home for just a si stay and how expensive it would be But

Continued on page six

Campus Takes on Air of Breathless Suspense as Final Plans Take Form

Last-Minute Refusals Cause Disturbance Among Students

When new and dazzling evening gowns swish down the halls, when flowers begin arriving in profusion, when the whole campus down to the last wistful freshman begins to take on an air of breathless suspense, when everything is upset even the meals—then and then only can you know that the most looked-for event of the campus calendar has arrived—the Junior-Senior Prom!

Lofty juniors and seniors have for the last three weeks, or should we say months, been able to talk, eat, and dream of nothing but this pretentious occasion. Now that the event is actually about to happen their state is one of hectic activity. In spite of their ethereal state there are practical matters to consider.

Last minute date-seekers are now in full flower. There is the senior who paces furiously down the hall with a little sheet of yellow paper in her hand announcing to her supreme disgust that Bill has the mumps and will unfortunately be unable "to make it." Hers are the bitter eye and the weary footsteps as she tells all her friends grimly that she can't supply them with program dances as she has promised. With hardened eyes she looks into the closet where her new ice-blue satin hangs in slithering folds and listens to the pollyannish remarks of the dated smugs who tell her that it "will be fun to go stag anyhow!"

Kid brothers, youngish uncles, heretofore despised swains—it's surprising what one can dig up if one really has to—and after all this is an emergency. And how one loves one's roommate when she finds a short, fat, and unattractive date with whom she may prance delightedly into the ball room! In other words it's anything for a date in these trying times and how those town boys are getting the rush!

The last minute program dance filler-upper is a common sight upon the campus in these last days before the momentous occasion

Continued on page two

Installing Of New Officers To Be Monday

Reception Will Be Given In Gilchrist Parlor After Ceremony

EVENT TO TAKE PLACE AT BRYAN

McKay and Makemson To Be First to Light Their Candles

The installation of the newly elected officers of the College Government association for the coming school year of 1936-36 will be held Monday evening, April 6, at 7:30 o'clock, in front of Bryan hall. The officers to be installed at that time include the new members of the executive council, the representatives to Judiciary, the house chairmen, and the off-campus committee.

After the installation ceremony a reception for the new CGA officials will be held in Gilchrist Parlor, to which all the members of the faculty and the student-body are invited.

To Be Installed

The members of the executive council of the College Government association who will be installed are: Mary Jeanne McKay, president; Martha Makemson, chairman of judiciary; Marion Conn, first vice-president; Marjoria Raulerson, second vice-president; Winifred Ewart, secretary; Marie Taylor, treasurer; and Josephine Binion, freshman advisor.

The representtives of judiciary who will be installed then are: Betty Peck, and Marie Spurlock, senior representatives; Louise Gehan, Dorothea Marsh, and Betty Ostlund, junior representatives; Jean Gillies and Rebecca Ashton, sophomore representatives.

Shirley Stevens, newly elected chairman of house chairmen, will be installed. The house chairmen to be installed include Sara Hethcox, Bernice Oliver, Kathleen Robinson, Sara Rutledge, Maxine Ward, and Edith Manford.

Catherine McGarry is to be installed chairman of the off-campus committee Jean Clark, Ellen Fleming, Winona Ireland, Ruth Lind, Frances Lingle, and Mildred Seekins are to be installed the off-campus committee members.

Blood to Lead

The annual installation ceremony will begin with this year's officials, led by Katherine Blood, the retiring president, entering

Continued on page two

Geography Study Course Approved

Becker and Fawley Lead Committee Work

Formulation of a course of study in geography some months ago by the Florida Council of Geography Teachers under the supervision of H. F. Becker and Miss Gladys Fawley of the geography department of Florida State College for Women has resulted in commendation from educators in many different parts of this country. The course of study, which was prepared with the approval of the state department of public instruction, now is being used in many schools of Florida.

The course of study, consisting of 154 pages, is the first project of the geography teachers council, which was organized in the summer of 1934 for the purpose of improving the quality of geography teaching in Florida. The council roster includes approximately 100 members who are geography teachers in Florida schools and colleges.

The project of the state council, which is planned for pupils from the fourth through the seventh grades, has won the approval of such men as George J. Miller, editor of the Journal of Geography, the official organ for the National Council of Geography Teachers with which the Florida council is affiliated; from A. E. Parkins, professor of geography at George Peabody College for Teachers; and many others. Requests for copies of the course have come in from many different colleges and schools

Contributing to the course of study supervised by the Florida State College teachers were offi-

Continued on page two

SIASG Rejects Consolidation

Blood, McKay, Raulerson, Makemson and Conn Attend Meeting

Five students of Florida State College for Women returned to the campus this week after participating as delegates in the annual convention of the Southern Inter-Collegiate Association of Student Government which met on March 27-28 at Agnes Scott college, in Decatur, Ga.

The purpose of the convention, according to Katherine Blood, retiring president of the association, were "first, to study the part which student government may contribute to the emphasis of ideals and attitudes which may best serve to solve campus problems, and to the organization of a problem of education which will be rounded with the aesthetic, the spiritual, the intellectual, and the practical art of living; second, to discuss some common campus problems."

The principal features of the extensive program prepared for the occasion were the addresses delivered by deans and faculty members of the various southern colleges represented and the discussions among the delegates upon inter-collegiate problems. The initial phase in this program was the opening ceremony, which took place on Friday morning at 11:30. At this time Adelaide Bivens, president of student government at Agnes Scott, extended a friendly greeting to the convention and Dr J. R. McCain, president, and Miss Nannette Hopkins, dean of Agnes Scott, delivered welcoming addresses to the assembled delegates.

At 1:30 on Friday afternoon the opening address was delivered by Elizabeth Pinkerton of Sweetbriar following which a discussion was held on the subject, "What Student Government Expects from the College." One of the highlights of the program came at 7:30 that night at which time Dr Olivia S. Dorman, dean of students at F. S. C. W., addressed the convention upon the subject, "The Practical Art of Living."

Following a lecture on Saturday morning by Dean Christabel of the University of Louisville upon "Citizenship in College Government," discussion was held upon topics of interest to all delegates. The firm of these discussions, led by Elizabeth Dandridge of Vanderbilt dealt with the "Changing of Presidency." After this came a discussion upon "Orientation of New Students" led by Frances Pryor of Brenau.

On Saturday night Dr. Elizabeth Wright of Rollins, exchange professor from England, spoke upon the subject "As Students See the Curriculum in England and America." Subsequent to this address was the concluding discussion, "Academic Relations" led by Frances James of Agnes Scott. The climax of the program came when guests, delegates, and speakers assembled in Rebekah Scott dining hall for a formal banquet.

One of the most highly contested issues of the convention arose over the proposal that the Southern Inter-Collegiate association, the Western Inter-Collegiate association, and the Inter-Collegiate association, be consolidated in one body. This proposal the delegates emphatically rejected, those from F. S. C. W. among the rest, in the belief that such amalgamation would be inimical to the interests for which the S. I. A. S. C. was founded. Feeling that the solution of problems peculiar to southern colleges could best be attained through the maintenance of the S. I. A. S. C. as an entity separate from other inter-collegiate associations, the delegates voted to remain as a separate body with a central office

In speaking of the achievements

To Sing Here

Frederick Jagel, noted tenor, who is to appear in the college auditorium April 20.

Alpha chapter Will Initiate Seven in April

Continued from page one

liberal subjects, excluding all courses in professional, vocational and fine arts subjects and must have exhibited wide interest in things intellectual and be well regarded for moral and cultural qualities.

Students Elected Recently

Katherine Blood, who is now president of the College Government association, has for four years at Florida State college recelled and served in many fields. As a freshman she was a member of the German club and the varsity basketball team. In her sophomore year she was a member of the freshman commission, class secretary, the class volleyball team, Even Demostration, vice president of the German club and a member of the "F" club. She was elected to serve as second vice president of the College Government association during her junior year and was also a member of judiciary, member of the executive council, state, sponsor of freshmen and delegate to S. C. F. A. This year she has served not only as president of C. C. A. but also as president of the Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Government. She is a member of Mortar Board, Esteren, Even, Spinning and was a delegate to S. I. A. S. G. convention.

Barbara Crosland was a member of freshman commission and during her sophomore year was associate editor of the Flastacowa and was on the social committee for Even. Her junior year she has been a freshman advisor. She is a member of Beta Pi Theta, French honorary.

Sara Malcolm Krentuman served as a member of freshman cabinet during her freshman year. Last year she was assistant editor of the Flastacowa and has been elected editor for this year. She was also treasurer of the Y. W. C. A. last year. She is a member of Esteren and freshman floor chairman. She is a member of Mortar Board, Esteren and Phi Beta Sigma honorary sorority.

Laura Mathis is a member of two honoraries, Sigma Delta Pi, Spanish honorary, and Phi Beta Sigma of which she has been historian.

Valerie Kathryn Stubbs is a member of Eta Sigma Phi, classical honorary. Last year she was Glee club chorus this year. She is secretary of Alpha Psi Omega, social sorority.

Virginia Blaine TerBush is a member of Pil Beta Sigma, Beta Pi Theta and Sigma Delta Pi of which she has been secretary this year. She has been recording secretary of Alpha Omicron Theta, social sorority, this year.

Lillian May Turlington in her freshman year was a member of the 4-H club and the classical club. She was pianist of the B. Y. P. U. in her sophomore year and a member of Eta Sigma Phi, classical honorary. Last year she was vice president of B. S. U. and freshman floor chairman. This year she has been house chairman of Broward hall, vice president of Eta Sigma Phi, historian of Guitar Board and president of the Classical club.

The five members in course who were elected last year were Barbara Garfunkel, Bernice Jennings, Ida Engel, Frances Paris and Rachel McKinnon. Dr. Edward Conradi and Dean William G. Dodd were made honorary members. The seven alumnae members who were chosen, all who have been graduated from the college fifteen years or more, were Miss Agnes Edwards, dean of women at the Southwestern Louisiana Institute in Lafayette, Louisiana; Miss Ruth Reynolds, head of the English department of one of the New York city high schools; Mrs. Pollcia Williams Traxler, Gainesville, Florida; Mrs. Irita Van Doren, editorial staff editor of New York Herald Tribune, New York city; Dr. Inza Ollis Heineith, professor of education at the college of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Virginia; Miss Mittie Pettit, Waldo, Florida, and Miss Edna Williams, instructor in English at Smith college, Northampton, Massachusetts.

Officers of Alpha chapter are Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, president; Dr. Arthur Seymour, vice president; Miss Myrtle Dolbee, secretary; Miss Margaret Whitney Dow, treasurer, and Dr. William H Rogers, historian.

Library Open Only Part-Time Easter

The following announcement has been made in regard to library hours during the Easter holidays by Miss Louise Richardson, librarian:

Thursday, April 8
8:15-12 a. m.
1:30-4 p. m.

Friday, April 10
8:30-12:30 a. m.
7:30-8:30 p. m.

Saturday, April 11
8:30-12:30 a. m.

Sunday—CLOSED

Monday, April 13
9:30-12:30 a. m.

The reserve room will be open only from 8:30-10:30 after Thursday morning. Books borrowed for outside use at this hour and are due the following morning at the same hour. Books borrowed Monday morning are due Tuesday morning at 8 a. m.

Fines will run at usual on all books not returned on time.

The browsing room will be open all of the above hours after Thursday morning.

PROFESSOR GETS DISTINCT HONOR

Continued from page one

French academy have come to Dr. Seymour in past years. He holds an honorary degree of Doctor of Literature from Tung Lu university in China as the result of his educational work there in helping establish two universities. He also is a corresponding member of the academy of Granada, Spain, where he studied at one time. Dr. Seymour has also studied in Italy and Mexico and for the past two years he has been on the faculty of Florida State College. Prior to that the Dr. Seymour taught at the University of Wisconsin and the University of Illinois.

Comedy to Be Given Second Time Tonight

Continued from page one

girls, Cecil Carter and Dorothy Rest. In talking they find, so it seems, that they are both engaged to Clement Worthing and each tries to out her diary to prove her statements. Their efforts to outdo each other's romantic remarks and catty gossip about mutual friends are finally flares up and accuses the other of stealing her man. Can you imagine anything more embarrassing than a scene between a sophisticated society matron and a debutante society, and an innocent, imaginative dizzy blond from the country, whose favorite author is Cooper? Unexpectedly, however, they find that Clement Worthing is neither of the men, and have been deceived since neither one of the men is Clement Earnest.

Reasons Take Part

Miss Ann Reason, the comedian, played by Evelyn Kennard, is a precise old maid who is governess to Cecily, Jean's foolish youth. She has carried with her through life a secret which Lady Bracknell forces her to tell to make things right. Lord Worthing finds that all the lies he has been telling are the actual truth. Playing the part of Lord Orton is Lee Proctor, Dr. Chasuble, whom she has flirted with in her weaker moments, Clyde W. Gregory is cast as the rector, who wears the typical wide hat of the Anglican clergy.

The two maids who always whisper to each other at the wrong moment are Evelyn Collins as Merrimac, and Pat Given as Lane. Credit for the costuming of this play goes to Miss Kemper Moore, director, and Miss Ruth Eisenman, chairman; also to the committees, including publicity, Gertrude Kuhn; rehearsals, Margaret Graham; stage, Cecil Lewey; usher, Betty Manning; programs, Sara Graham Graham; ushers, Janet Scott; stage manager, Sara Hoses; lights, Mary Frances Whisnant; costumes and properties, Adair; furniture, Vivian Marshall.

Miss Hamilton Rivers, and Miss Helen A. Thrash assisted in costumes and staging, while the stage craft class helped with the scenery work.

The proceeds from this play will be used by Mortar Board to carry out their service program.

Geography Study Course Approved

Continued from page one

ment of the Florida Council of Geography Teachers, as well as Miss Adrienne Taylor, of the geography department of Florida State college, and Mrs. C. F. Dalson, of Tallahassee.

Officers in the Florida Council of Geography Teachers are as follows: President, Mrs. Annice Davis Elkins, Tarpon Springs; vice president, Miss Mary Bostick, Tallahassee; secretary-treasurer, Miss Frances Ballard, Tallahassee; corresponding secretary, M. Luther King, Milton. Mrs. Elkins, Miss Bostick, Miss Ballard and Mrs. Dalson all are graduates of the state college.

Professor Becker, head of the geography division at Florida State college, has been asked by the state council officers to serve as adviser to the Florida Council of Geography Teachers. At the national council meeting held at St. Louis in December he was elected a permanent board member from Florida.

CHURCHES MAKE PLANS FOR WEEK

Continued from page one

tending any of these affairs are cordially invited to do so, according to Miss Gehan.

Presbyterian Services

The Presbyterian Student League is to present a special Easter play entitled "Into Thy Kingdom" in the church auditorium on Sunday evening, at 8 o'clock. This one-act play was written by Dorothy Clark Wilson and directed by Louise Swadener, a senior in the speech department of this college. There will be no admission charged t.) attend this play, and everyone is invited to be present.

The cast of characters of the play is: Jane Tomlinson, Louise Swaderer, Harriet Duke, Fenton Woodward, Pat Campbell, Janet Cook, Jane Gay and Frank Trimmick.

A special musical program will take place at this time which will be given by the student choir under the direction of Sara Heldebrook with Fred Gehan at the organ. Musical numbers that will be heard then are "The Palm Branches" by J. Faure, "Hosanna" by J. Granier, and "Christ Triumphant" by H. R. Shelley.

Baptist Students

Special classes on the discussion of a book entitled "Facing a Life" by Dr. Eugene Watters have been held at the college this week and under the direction of John Hall Jones. Mr. Jones is from Calhoun and is the state B. S. U. secretary.

These classes were held every afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock and every evening from 7:30 to 8:30 in 203 Administration building. There will also be classes this afternoon and tonight, to which all students are invited.

Installing of New Officers to Be Monday

Continued from page one

from the right of Bryan hall to meet the new officials, led by Mary Jeanne McKay, the incoming president.

Katherine Blood and Margaret Graham will hand their cap and gowns to the incoming officials, Mary Jeanne McKay and Martha Makemson. The two latter will then light their candles from those held by the outgoing officers.

The new president of College Government association will install the other officers of the association who will light their candles from those of the girls they are succeeding.

The outgoing members of the executive council are: Katherine Blood, president; Margaret Graham, chairman of judiciary; Martha Makemson, first vice-president; Janice Borton, second vice-president; Marjorie Raulerson, secretary; and Margaret K. Anderson, treasurer.

Other retiring officials are Betsy Meyer, Mary Etta Thistlethwaite, Marjorie Moore, Josephine

Campbell Speaks On College Curricula

Continued from page one

of people having certificates to teach.

Concerning the trend in institutions toward liberalisation, Dr. Campbell said that only ninety per cent now are developing this program instead of specialization. Of the other trend, that of faculty members, regardless of their departments, working together toward a research approach to evaluating standards of the colleges, he said that many college faculties are laying their departmental interests aside and pooling their thoughts for the best interests of the students.

CAMPUS HONOR IS DISCUSSED

Continued from page one

contrary to the rumor that plans, which in reality are only tentative, are definitely accepted.

The fact that student government is founded on an honor system makes any breache of honor inimical to the effectiveness of our system of self-government. Toleration of cheating undermines the characteristics of the student body upon which the foundation of the student government is based. For this reason, Margaret stated, the situation of an effective honor system must be faced.

And now with the dance team four hours of practice finally nothing for the honored juniors and seniors to do but sit and grin that they will get credit for their corsage instead of everything.

Campus Takes Air Of Breathless Suspense

Continued from page one

with fervid eyes she rushes from friend to friend, from night lucubratance to slight acquaintance and even as a last resort from enemy to enemy in a mad dash to fill the program that has an appalling number of blanks on it. There is no telling to what pass she will sink in order that names appear on the little lines. And might even consent to allow the "horrible red-headed girl" that tried to beat my time with Tom to have another chance at him.

Gloom, dark and dismal reigns prevails among sophomores and Freshmen as they see their upperclassmen friends forging ahead in the dining room ball from whence delectable music is wafting. To the sophomores who have the memory of their "first" lingering on and who already have visions of themselves next year gracing the dance floor there's ray of hope. But for the freshmen nothing further than their life seems indeed futile. Imagine the disappointment when they watch the new dresses being displayed and with low mutterings of "cheap capitalism and labor" shove chairs all afternoon as the three higher and fiddler sing may dance.

And now with the dance team four hours of practice finally nothing for the honored juniors and seniors to do but sit and grin that they will get credit for their corsage instead of everything.

JOIN THE EASTER PARADE at THE HUB STORE

Largest Selection of Easter Dresses Ever Shown Under One Roof!

$1.95 to $6.95 DRESSES!

Save One to Three Dollars on a Dress Here!

Coat Dresses! Sport Dresses! Print Dresses!

Graduation and Party Dresses

$5.45 to $6.95

SANDALS Values to $1.95! SPECIAL! Friday - Saturday $1

Linen Crash 2-Piece SUITS Guaranteed Not to Shrink! $1.98 Val. SPECIAL FRIDAY AND SATURDAY ONLY! $1

Sizes 14 to 20.

LIPPMAN'S HUB STORE 104 EAST JEFFERSON

BENNETT'S BEAUTY SALON Phone 900

Easter Specials In Permanent Waves

$10 Shelton Oil Croquignole $7.50

$7.50 De Luxe Oil Croquignole $6.00

$6.00 Frederic, Eugene and Realistic Croquignole $5.00

$5.00 "La Gloria Sheen" Croquignole Permanent $3.00

ADAMS' STUDIO "Photographs that Please" 121 E. College Ave. Phone 297

Preview of the EASTER PARADE

Tailored Suits and Coats, Smart Dresses and Coquettish Hats are caught in the camera's eye.

SPECIAL PRICES FOR EASTER!

MAE'S SHOP

VARIETY is the keynote for spring hairdressing

You find in the new bob, frocks and coiffures—variety. We are making this new bob suit with coiffures to fit your personality and service to suit your taste.

MARIE PERMANENTS

By Powder Puff after the most discriminating women Complete satisfaction.

CLAIROL

Clairol (not a dye) the new shampoo permanent that the waves stay in and luster to once faded hair.

FACIALS

Plastic masks are applied by a staff of thoroughly experienced operators.

The Powder Puff Beauty Shop 106 S. Adams Phone 656

THE SWEET SHOP 701 W. Jefferson St. Opposite Gilchrist Phone 1061 We Deliver

WEEK-END SPECIALS:

Lime Freeze	5c
Strawberry Shortcake	10c
Home-made Cake	10c
Pecan Pie	10c

POTATO SALAD WITH ALL 15c SANDWICHES:

It costs us more to build a car like this

FORD quality goes far below the surface. It is built into every part of the car—in those things you see and those that are hidden. We say it with assurance—because it has been the experience of so many millions of drivers—that many months after your first ride you will still be saying—"I'm glad I bought a Ford."

The Ford Motor Company is not content with ordinary specifications for materials. Its own standards of quality for many important parts are considerably higher than usually accepted standards.

Ford valves are an example of this extra value. They are made of a nickel-chrome alloy-steel that contains 13% chromium, 13% nickel and 2% silicon. This unusually high alloy content increases resistance to heat—insures more efficient, economical performance and longer life.

Intake valves, as well as exhaust valves, are made of this more expensive steel in the Ford V-8. It is one of several good reasons why the Ford engine is singularly free of valve troubles.

It costs us more to build a car like this—yet the price of the Ford V-8 remains low. Ford manufacturing methods save many dollars for Ford owners—and bring fine-car quality within the reach of every one who drives.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY

Ford

Racquet Stars Here In Exhibition Tilt

layers Are Ranked With World's Greatest Professionals

INES AND BELL ARE VICTORIOUS

Tallahasee Fans Crowd Bleachers of Leon High Courts

By EVELYN FISHER

A large crowd of Florida State ollegians and Tallahassee townsfolk witnessed tennis playing of the highest order Tuesday afternoon as Ellsworth Vines, Lester Stoefen, Berkeley Bell, and George Lott, ranking among the world's greatest professionals, played exhibition matches on the Leon High school courts.

The first match which placed Vines, Bell the Tunisian Davis Cup opponent George Lott, the noted doubles player, beran with a display of brilliant serving and volleying and each player taking advantage of opportunities. With the games at 3-3, Lott broke Vines Bell's service to take the set at 4-3. Bell then resorted to his deadly forehand chop stroke to win Lott's service and make the score 5-4. Lott's cool-headed opponents and subtle serves combined to handle Bell's more powerful but swift western backhands and forehand drives and with the games at 6-6 Bell passed Lott at the net to win his own service and Vines' with the first set 8-6.

In the second set Bell's somewhat wild moments decreased and his accurate placements put him in the lead 4-1 when Lott settled down to take two games with his net game. Bell's ability to aim a ball that came over the net, however made the point his and the set at 6-3, and the match.

In the next match Ellsworth Vines, professional champion of the world, competed with the tried court "Little Rollo" Stoefen, former Florida State star. Vines's flawless display of all the power and brilliance which has established him as the world's champion was too much for Stoefen and Vines returned them calmly and consistently and won the first game after considerable struggle. In the next two games Mr. Vine's consistent playing and masterful placements won over the more brilliant but erratic strokes of his opponent. Stoefen broke through, however, to win Vine's service with the score at 5-3 only to succumb to Vine's accurate placements and cannon ball serves in the last half of the set to lose, 6-4.

In the second set Stoefen

Corps Meet Called

The Life Saving Corps will hold a short but important meeting at 1:15 today in Bryan Atrium.

Signed:
Jane Tombaugh,
President.

Recreation Head Will Speak Here

WPA Worker to Discuss Use of Leisure

Mr. Edward C. Lindeman, nationally known speaker in the field of recreation and outstanding authority on the principles of Community Organization for Leisure will be here Wednesday, April 8, for a conference with students, faculty and citizens of Tallahassee.

Mr. Lindeman has long been known as a teacher and lecturer, having been associated since 1924 with the New York School of Social Work. He is the author of a number of books among them "The Meaning of Adult Education," "Pioneering in Social Welfare" addresses he has given impetus to the movement for progressive education and for the self-expression of the masses of the people. During the war he served in War Camp Community Service sponsored by the National Recreation association. At the present time he is director of Community Organization for Leisure, Works Progress Administration for the federal government.

Mrs. Rolla S. Southworth, state director of community organization for leisure, in advising the Physical Education of F. S. C. W. of Mr. Lindeman's visit says, "That organization for leisure has become one of the important phases of contemporary community planning is unquestioned covering the needs of local groups for enlisting the support and collaboration of local citizens, civic clubs or private organizations. Such a council representing the cross-section of community thinking can do much with the resources at hand."

To help in overcoming planning the Works Progress Administration has a professionally trained staff of recreation executives who will be available for conferences, for surveys, for social recreation, handicraft, and drama institutes, and as speakers to appear before interested organizations.

The conference will be held in the Augusta Conradi theater from 3:30 to 6:00. Anyone interested is cordially invited to attend.

Play Schedule To Begin Soon

Intramurals to Consist Of Team Matches This Year

Beginning next week intramural archery, volleyball, and tennis tournaments will and this year's intramural program at Athletics Teams have registered this week in both tournaments and the actual schedule of play will begin next week.

In line with the policy of "mass participation" that has been carried out by the Athletic Association this year, the tennis tournament will be a team tournament for the first time in the history of its intramurals. Instead of individual competing as in former years, the tournament this year will consist of team matches. Each match between teams will consist of two singles and one doubles match. The winning team out of these three matches will be declared and the entire losing team will be eliminated. Two, three, or four players can be used to make up a team. The rules for these matches will be the same as in other intramural tournaments—the players must have A or B health and they may play on one team. There is no scholarship requirement for eligibility.

The volleyball tournament will also get under way next week with the schedule of play set. Each of these teams will consist of seven players and the rules follow those used in the tennis tournament. There will be no regular schedule of intramural archery, but their rounds shot by April 8.

Plans are being made to set up for the intramural tennis tournaments are, Chi Omega, Kappa Alpha, Hilda Spradlin, Freshman commission, Louise Gehan; Jennie Murphree, Harriet Duke; Alpha Delta Pi, Betty Scott; Epsecopal students, Betty White; Alpha Chi Omega, Beverly Brown; Kappa Alpha Theta, Marjorie Horton; Newman club, Marie Jeffry.

Club Will Build Open Air Ovens

Deep-Sea Fishing Trip Features in Plans

Plans are being made by the outing club for an all day deep-sea fishing trip for all students interested. The trip will probably be made from the college by truck to Carrabelle, a definite date has not yet been set.

Also under discussion is a series of suppers at Game Wood one night a week. H. D. Mendenhall, college architect, is drawing up plans for two ovens to be placed in some attractive spot near the college for the use of college students. This is being sponsored and financed by the club.

All students are invited, as members of the outing club, to join in the weekly trips made to Camp Flastacowo every Saturday afternoon. The truck leaves at 1:30 and returns at 5 o'clock.

Beth Deane, vice president of the athletic board, is the ex-officio head of the club working with Mildred Emmelhain, senior athletic manager. Miss Dorothy White and Miss Grace Fox, physical education instructors, are faculty advisors.

Life Saving Examiner To Come Here in April

Plans are being made by the physical education department for Ray Eaton, national red cross life examiner, to come here on April 24 unless other activities conflict.

Caroline Aiken, Janet Cook, Frances Thill, Mildred Emmelhainz, Jane Tombaugh, Ethyl Mae Edwards, Marian Weeks, Bertie Mackery, Mary Ward Peterson, Sara Herbers, Beth Deane, Margaret Holloway, and Eleanor Plant are preparing to take the examiner's test at that time.

—In this plan our ablest citizens must lead.

"To help us as citizens to meet this new challenge there are to be conducted two one-day conferences under the persons' direction of Edward C Lindeman, national director of Community Organization for Leisure. One of the conferences is to be held in Tallahassee.

Following Mr. Lindeman's address a panel discussion will be held under the leadership of Mr. Lindeman assisted by Mrs. Southworth and H. Crump, associate state director. In commenting on Community Organization for Leisure programs, Mrs. Southworth stated that "an advisory council or recreation commission is the

Continued on page six

Plays Exhibition Match Here

Ellsworth Vines, high ranking tennis pro, who played here this week with Berkley Bell, teenge Lott and Lester Stoeffen, on the Leon high school courts before a large crowd of Florida State college students and townspeople. Vines won the singles match and with Bell took the doubles match from Lott and Stoefen.

Riding Coach Begins Final Class Series

Marie Taylor, horse-back riding coach, issues her last call this week for new equestrian-minded students.

Marie has taught riding here for two years and teaches in either classes of four to six members or by individual instruction. The training course is planned to develop the skill of the rider from simple road riding into expert horse show paces and the knowledge of jumping and hurdling necessary to the follower of the chase.

The beginners take short rides to the haunted house and the big ravine and as their ability increases the ride lengthens until toward the end of the eight ride

Continued on page six

F Club Sets Day Of Water Sports

Members Plan Games At Camp Flastacowo

At a recent meeting of the F club plans were begun for the annual water sports day to be held at Camp Flastacowo April 25. The program will include canoe races, swimming races, kayak races, diving exhibitions, and several novelty numbers.

Mildred Emmelhains, president, is in charge of plans and has appointed under her on the transportation committee Audrey Cooper, on the canoe exhibition Martha Mackenson, chairman, with Sara Herbens, Jane Tombaugh, and Betty Calund; publicity, Martha Baker; novelty numbers, Marian Weeks, chairman, with Beth Deane and Caroline Athon. Janet Cook, Catherine Pratt and Mary Ward Peterson have been put in charge of the transportation and care of canoe.

Janice Borton was appointed odd canoe captain and Patricia West Even canoe captain. The Numeral club is going to be invited to participate in the program with an unannounced feature.

The water sports day is for the entire student body and special trucks will be arranged to take interested students.

Frosh To Hold Annual Meet

Swimmers May Compete For College Records On April 25

The first freshman swimming meet of this year will be held Friday, April 25, at 8 P. M. and will be open to all freshmen enrolled in swimming classes.

There will be no grade requirement of entrants in this meet. Students with A or B health records may enter the speed events and students having A, B or C health may enter form events. One student may enter four events, two of which may be speed tests. Girls entering the meet must attend two extra plunge practices.

The events to be included in the meet are the twenty-five yard dash, free style, twenty-five yard dash, English racing; the twenty-five yard back crawl; a seventy-five yard medley including the back stroke and breast stroke and the crawl, and form strokes for elementary back stroke and side stroke and single overarm

The dives to be included in the meet are the plain front, jack knife and two optionals.

There will also be one stunt race, the egg race, in which each contestant swims the length of the pool, holding in her mouth the handle of a spoon in which has been placed an egg.

Athletic Board Meets

There will be an important meeting of the athletic board tonight at 7:45 in Bryan Atrium.

Signed:
Rose Pascucci,
President.

LSU Defeats FSC In Rifle Tourney

Betty Harrison Holds High Score Here

In the telegraphic rifle meet to which Louisiana State university challenged Florida State College for Women, March 28, L. S. U. piled up a count of ninety-nine while that of F. S. C. W. was sixty-four.

For Florida State Betty Harrison with sixty-four and Marie Taylor had the two highest scores respectively. Other members of the team are Frances Lewis, Millicent Emmons, Frances Thill, Beth Deane, Jane Tharin, Eulalie Vance, Sarah Beth Davis, Louise Perez, Mona Dunn, Lila Parramore, Marion Weeks, and Dorothy Gordon.

Standard rules governed the meet, the shots being taken from fifty feet at a five bullseye target. The ten highest scores were wired to L. S. U.

This is the first meet of its kind in which F. S. C. W. has participated since the opening of the rifle range at camp last year. However, L. S. U. which has both indoor and outdoor rifle ranges challenges a different college nearly every week.

The rifle range was planned and the building supervised by Miss Elizabeth Autrey, professor in the physical education department. Regular practice hours have not been assigned but the majority of the shooting is done on week-ends. Miss Autrey personally directs all shooting done at the college range and the guns are college property.

College Professors Can't Resist The "Call of the Tennis Racquet"

Steady Hand That Wields Red Pencil Becomes Jelly on Courts

The hand that wields the red pencil on the examination paper isn't always so steady with a tennis racquet, as evidenced at the faculty-student tennis matches now being played.

It's plain to be seen that even college professors can't resist a chance to be collegiates again. Unofficial observers report that some of our feminine faculty members aren't an hard on the eyes when they appear on the tennis courts in revealing sports togs and bright-colored shorts and blouses. The male element, not to be outdone by their colleagues, don Gabe-like polo shirts and "ducky" white trousers in order to take on students who had the nerve to challenge them.

One sorority professor was not only smart enough to play a good game of tennis, but she also managed to get into a game of marbles on the side every time the tennis ball went out of bounds. Ph.D. would do that for all of us!

One psychology professor, with Tilden-like temperament, refuses to use the colorful red balls furnished by the physical education department, requesting instead white balls. Behind-the-line use of red balls one of our fair faculty members finds by many ruffled by the caroling white. The brambles and thorns which have adorned the tennis grounds for to three many years have occasioned no little impatience from gallant professors who refuse to be anything but the gentleman.

Perhaps the most general effect of the recent faculty-student tennis matches is the profusion of sunburn cases on campus. If this keeps up the number of beach trips during Easter vacation should be materially reduced.

It has been suggested that perhaps some of the faculty members accepted the challenges timidity, reflecting that refusal might produce wisecracks about their passing youth.

Copyright, 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

FOR DIGESTION'S SAKE—SMOKE CAMELS

Smoking Camels Assists Digestion to Proceed Normally and Promotes Well-Being and Good Feeling

CROWDED HOURS —Sunday, sports, intramural activities — no wonder digestion often ended at the strain of college life. Remember: Smoking Camels promotes digestion and well-being.

We live in high gear. So much to do and so little time to do it in! All too often the rush and tension play havoc with nerves and the digestive system. How can one offset the effects of modern living—that's the problem! Here is an interesting established fact: Smoking Camels has been found a definite benefit to promoting natural digestive action. Camels are supremely mild—never get on the nerves or tire your taste. Camels set well after meals—are your best companion at the table. Enjoy them!

"I HAVE TO EAT in 50 minutes"—and a rivester can't be walking around with nervous indigestion, on narrow beams hundreds of feet in the air," says Harry Fisher, steel worker. "Smoking Camels makes my food set better and helps my digestion."

SHE FEEDS THOUSANDS DAILY. Miss Frances Flinn, dietitian, says: "With me, it's always Camels! Smoking Camels during meals and after promotes digestion, causing increased flow of digestive fluids. Camels never jangle my nerves."

THE TERRACED MARINE DINING ROOM of the Edgewater Beach Hotel, Chicago. Those who dine at leisure also appreciate Camels for their aid to digestion. "Good times and good tobacco go together," says Fred, maître d'hôtel of the Marine Dining Room. "So many of our guests smoke Camels. They are immensely popular."

TUNE IN! Camel Caravan with Walter O'Keefe, Deane Janis, Ted Husing, Glen Gray and the Casa Loma Orchestra

Tuesday and Thursday — 9p.m. E.S.T., 8p.m. C.S.T., 7:30 p.m. M. S. T., 6:30 p.m. P.S.T.—over WABC-Columbia Network.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

CAMEL

STATE THEATRE

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—APRIL 3-4
"COLLEEN"
with
Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Joan Blondell

SUNDAY AND MONDAY—APRIL 5-6
"THESE THREE"
with
Miriam Hopkins, Joel McCrea, Merle Oberon

TUESDAY—APRIL 7
"BIG BROWN EYES"
with
Joan Bennett and Cary Grant

WEDNESDAY—APRIL 8
"SONG AND DANCE MAN"
with
Paul Kelly and Claire Trevor

THURSDAY—APRIL 9
"THIRTEEN HOURS BY AIR"
with
Fred McMurray and Joan Bennett

THE PIKE STUDIO

invites you to visit their new residence studio. In this quiet, homelike atmosphere, the latest photographic equipment is ready to serve you in producing new and varied effects.

THE PIKE STUDIO
117 W. College Phone 1315

The Florida Flambeau

Member 1938 Associated Collegiate Press Member

EDITORIAL STAFF

RUTH PERSONS ..... Editor
ALTHEA SMITH ..... Associate Editor
GERTRUDE KUHN ..... Managing Editor
HAZEL BOWMAN ..... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Features, Martha Baker; Sports, Elaine Knepper; Society, Margaret Lafferty; Exchanges, Virginia Early; Literary Editor, Eleanor Williams; Copy Editor, Arline Lockhart. Outside News Editor, Grace Mary Webster; Art Editor, Caroline Adams.

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

In Retrospect—
Editorial Views and Reviews

Once a year we have a general turnover in the Flambeau office—the old staff "turns over" to the new. And now that we editors-for-a-year are relinquishing our trust, we feel that the time is propitious for again bringing to mind the Flambeau slant on some of the many of student concern that have arisen throughout the year. When we speak of the Flambeau slant, however, we don't mean just the views of the editors or the staff, but the viewpoint of a cross-section of students on this campus, keeping in mind of course that someone has to direct, crystalize, and put into writing these thoughts and ideas. In our editorials theu we have attempted to give each subject its "due," for as editorial program which prmises without criticizing makes a weak paper.

Many columns have been expressed on the subject of whether college newspapers should take a stand on controversial questions. But in our opinion, the people who question the right of a paper to present an argument against or favoring a matter in dispute are questioning the right of that paper to be alive. For when the policy of a paper becomes passive, and is no longer sensitive and responsive to the real surrents of student life, that paper is dying. A paper that satisfies everyone, and stimulates nobody, will never amount to much. Any publication that is lenate or otherwise, has the right to print material which is vulgar, obscene or libelous, but every newspaper has the right to print the facts. The editorial columns of the college newspaper are intended to express the opinions of the editor and the "thinking" portion of the student body. This is their sacred right, and it is the duty of the student body to maintain it.

Thus as the old staff steps out of the procession and the new staff steps into the swing, we wish to pass on, among other things, that tradition of freedom which makes the college press the authentic voice of Young America. As the result of a long established practice we have enjoyed all this college year the freedom from administrative, faculty, or outside control—the continuance of which we have greatly appreciated.

Although the spirits of a college newspaper do not necessarily annually change, the paper needs a certain continuity of purpose. We have attempted to carry on and further what was begun so well. In order that our readers may get a birds-eye view of our editorial policy for the past year, we are reprinting clippings from various editorials which have been published. Each one we have included the date of The Flambeau from which it was taken so that it may be perused in its original context if anyone so wishes. The clippings follow:

PANHELLENIC at F. S. C. has greatly improved rushing conditions on campus since the introduction of the quota system this year. Deferred rushing is the next step to be taken by the forward sub-deans.—September 29.

LIFTING of restrictions is an opportunity, not an excuse, but for intelligent cooperative effort to live and to think as mature persons in a world paralleling normal life where one does not "sign up," but where, nevertheless, one abides by a personal code more rigid than ruling ever removed from the F. S. C. W. handbook. As a basis for college rulings, personal responsibility appears to be a... —September 27.

GRADUALLY we advance toward a two-year college course of liberal education, set apart from the universities of the country, which will turn inperceptibly, it is thought, into laboratories for high specialization in many fields, after college—laboratories for the discovery of the leaders of the future.—September 27.

TO MAKE the most of college, we look further than the course of study, for what is termed a well-rounded mental development. Extra-curricular activities fill the bill.

A successful balance between the two sorts of activity is needed, of course, but of equal importance is a balance among students engaged in the various fields open to them. Far too often it is the case that the same students make up the personnel engaged in every project, just as it is that the same group of students engages in every sport. Responsibility is centered rather than distributed enjoyment is limited to the same participants in every case. But those who enjoy and who lead are the "chosen few" only in the sense that the choice lies with each individual student. Choose yourself a responsibility and shoulder it, and you are in running things. Choose yourself some fun and have a part in playing, too.—October 6.

STUDENTS of today are adding to their turn to the history of F. S. C. "Know thyself," Socrates advised the Athenian youth as he might well advise them. He is the "master of his intellectual" fate of the college.

The relative desire to know everybody on campus can often produce the pathetic figure of the girl who knows everybody, but who has few friends, or who do not take time for self-acquaintance and self-realization as a fundamental requisite to the possession of that historymaking caliber, are apt to discover later that our education as well as our life, is directionless.—October 25.

THE PRESENT very plainly and without the least evident inexpensive solution in terms of F. S. C. "common" customs, such as Frolly, Torch Night, and their extension, are not only of necessity significant of loss of contact or absence of cooperative feeling among the classes.

However, now while the school year is yet young, is the time to take interstory of old rules. Today's freshmen are outstanding youths in the college year for promotion of projects by our classes and organizations are outworn, the spirit underlying them is by no means obsolete. Rather, let us say that by eliminating the formal, by the uniting of the classes, we are receiving the forces of the college life, free for new leadership and direction, catching a glimpse of the whole rather than units of that whole. Class pride and responsibility to our class names have become secondary to the possession of a genuine college spirit.—November 1.

IT IS undoubtedly true as has often been pointed out that when students are allowed to delve into any subject when they are allowed to listen to both radical and conservative opinions, when they are taught to weigh evidence together and arrive at their own conclusions, it is highly improbable that they will be "taken in" by any form of subversive doctrine propaganda. Students who are exposed to many different ideas and views and are allowed freedom of inquiry have every chance to become well-balanced and thoughtful individuals. Ignorance may be bliss, but education is the only possible foundation is known to the unlimited, unrestricted, and unprejudiced.—November 15.

IT SEEMS a pity that only the champion "Big-Shots" should be the directors of a few select organizations, who are given complementary tickets, should or allowed to attend The Thanksgiving dance—one of the few big college dance functions of the year. . . . Since the organizations as we all realize, is too small to accomodate all students and their mail friends, it has been suggested that we the students be allowed to the same evening with separate tickets issued for each and the entire student body privileged to attend one dance.—November 29.

NOW that we have just "come through the mill" again, with "demonstration memories" still fresh in our minds, it seems the logical time to do something about it. Are we going to allow tradition to rule us, or will we rule tradition?—November 29.

GETTING rid of custom is always a long process. Until then, we are making itself a banner year in the questioning-of-old-traditions campaign. Students in various colleges and universities all over the country are expressing their dissatisfaction with the old regime under which one rises at dawn to witness a reprise of Its Beth Pi or marry the senior books, or serenades at midnight . . . and perhaps as an old grad, sheds sentimental tears as the old ceremonies are recalled. . . . On the campus of Florida State College that change has appeared for the first time definitely, this year. Such rites as that of "Realty" are being modified or done away with, and a great many others are being questioned. Little by little "trapping" ceremonies are being abandoned . . . campus and organizations are being questioned as to usefulness, and even the sacred institution of the Odd-Even rivalry is on trial. Witness the beginning of revolution.—December 6.

IT IS EASY to suggest ways to spend the money that it at present set aside for demonstration expenses. It is just as easy to get rid of the demonstrations, or to combine them and cut down those expenses appreciably. In sophomore and junior class meetings next spring plans for the spring term will be laid. There lies the opportunity for the growing enamus opposition to the Odd-Even set-up to assert itself.—January 17.

INSTEAD of dangling the militaristrappings before the youth of America with all its additional social indoctrination, why not give a little other ways for the men to do their strutting? If strut they must. In this we women have a right to lead the way, for as long as we attach import ance to and place prestige on a uniform. We will fulfill a uniform function.

The passage of the Nye-Kvale bill would be the first important step in the struggle to keep militarism out of educational system. As Senator Nye has said, the purpose of the bill protect the interests of students who do not happen to be interested in training for an officer's corps in the Reserve Corps, without adding hardship to those students who are interesting in training.

Now is the time for college citizens who are convinced that conscription of students for military training is "un-American" in spirit and a violation of the American tradition to let their sentiments be known. The issue as yet has not been settled.—January 17.

STUDENTS are waking up. They are manifesting a real interest in student problems—their problems. Students are beginning to realize that so much as what it is that oils the wheels to keep the machinery running. Students are beginning to realize that they study the strength and weaknesses of our present system of campus government. Students are beginning to want to accept, without having a share in deciding what it is they are supposed to accept. They are beginning to realize that they will be "taken in" by any form of subversive doctrine propaganda. Students who are exposed to many different ideas and views and are allowed freedom of inquiry have every chance to become well-balanced and thoughtful individuals. Ignorance may be bliss, but education is the only possible foundation is known to the unlimited, unrestricted, and unprejudiced.—November 15.

IT SEEMS a pity that only the champion "Big-Shots" should be the directors of a few select organizations, who are given complementary tickets, should or allowed to attend The Thanksgiving dance—one of the few big college dance functions of the year. . . . Since the organizations as we all realize, is too small to accomodate all students and their mail friends, it has been suggested that we the students be allowed to the same evening with separate tickets issued for each and the entire student body privileged to attend one dance.—November 29.

NOW that we have just "come through the mill" again, with "demonstration memories" still fresh in our minds, it seems the logical time to do something about it. Are we going to allow tradition to rule us, or will we rule tradition?—November 29.

GETTING rid of custom is always a long process. Until then, we are making itself a banner year in the questioning-of-old-traditions campaign. Students in various colleges and universities all over the country are expressing their dissatisfaction with the old regime under which one rises at dawn to witness a reprise of Its Beth Pi or marry the senior books, or serenades at midnight . . . and perhaps as an old

Magazine Thumbings

NOTE: Sara Beth Davis functioned as guest columnist this week.

EDUCATION ON A MOUNTAIN
By Louis Adamic
Harpers, April

A group of students and professors, dissatisfied with the educational system at Rollins college, Winter Park, Florida, are succeeding in a unique experiment at Black Mountain college in Black Mountain, North Carolina, according to Louis Adamic. After visiting Black Mountain college for two and one half months last autumn, Mr. Adamic has written a first-hand account of the experiment.

The "rebels" left Rollins and established Black Mountain college in 1933. They were, Mr. Adamic says, artisan many things in the prevalent system of education, but were unanimous in one objection, namely that college university training, curriculum, and desires, most of whom were not teachers or scholars but executives and dissipliarians, had the power to interfere with the teachers' function.

Therefore at B. M. C. there are no trustees, no president, and no deans. The treasurer is a physics professor, the registrar is a chemistry professor; the registrar is a professor of romance languages. Professor John Rice, leader of the rebels, presides over the rector of the new college, but his main duty is that of professor. For years, while developing his theories about education, Mr. Rice has openly criticized the disciplinary educational system for its emphasis on mere fact-learning and head-stuffing. He believes that a college education not prevents the development of the artist in a man.

Mr. Adamic says that the faculty every man somewhat of an artist "at least potentially a person of creative talent, in spirit if not developed." As to curriculum, B. M. C. has no curriculum. Instead students are allowed to work independently under the guidance of a tutor or in classes.

Little conflict, if any, exists between faculty members and students at this college, for students and professors live and work on an equal basis. There are no "profs" and his three assistants, a fur-nace-man in charge of the sanitators, the college has no employes. Without distinction faculty and students share all other duties and chores.

All members of the college students and faculty alike, are subject to every criticism by all members. This practice is termed "group influence" and is carried on with the utmost honesty by the individual concerned.

This experiment in Mr. Adamic believes, enlightens educators and students who are discontentedwith the present educational systems in America and aid them in attempting to set up a new system of their own.

IF THE NEW DEALERS WIN
By Frank R. Kent
The American, April

Those who are to cast their vote for a senator of the United States in the coming election will participate in one of the most important elections in the history of the nation, according to Mr. Kent.

He declares that the New Dealers can win again but admits that sufficient factors may combine to make impressive some serious thought on the subject of what is likely to happen if control of the New Dealers should win next November.

Mr. Kent believes that if elected the New Dealers will conquer the Democratic party, control the Supreme Court, and the constitution, and "go the limit toward collectivism."

"In brief," he declares "the country will be run entirely by a dictator-president, in whom all authority is vested."

"Another four years of the Dew Deal," he continues, "would be governmental situation, now incredibly confused, will be wholly out of hand. No further comment is need fear—it is chaos."

WHAT ABOUT THE CONSTITUTION?
By Charles Grove Haines
Nation April 1

Mr. Haines there is "something" in every argument advanced by opponents and proponents of the constitution.

As for those who would amend the constitution to meet the present needs, Mr. Haines says, they think it made for horse-and-buggy days. Those who say that they are up against the same difficulties which confronted the framers of the constitution.

"The fathers considered," Mr. Haines points out, "that questions versus generality and decided on a combination. They conferred some powers expressly on congress. Then they authorized it to make all laws "necessary and proper" for carrying into effect the powers conferred upon congress and the branches of the government."

The hour for those who would destroy the constitution as they see Brand thinks, or for those who would amend it but not "out" the constitution, is at hand.

It may be well not to settle the constitutional dispute yet. Bend combines, but it is made in order to make a thorough study of the record of the convention which framed the constitution and thereby "the American nation would be better equipped for wrestling with the science and art of governance."

FIRST DAYS IN MOSCOW
By Samuel Wilson
New Republic, March 25.

"I take especial pleasure to be old and much, but it is modern and energetic," Mr. Wilson states in the first of a series of articles on Soviet Russia.

The Moscow which is the main business section he describes as being similar to that of any American city but less terribly exhausting to even a New Yorker. An absence of frenzied, illness and equality seems to prevail in the city. The natives call everybody, even strangers, "Comrade." No one is disagreeable. All are kind and seem especially self-conscious.

Mr. Wilson was surprised to meet a large number of Russians "crazy to go to America though they had been educated in the Russian newspaper and official publications of the country controlled in America.

This is partly, of course, because Russians has recently recognized the Soviets." Mr Wilson explains, "but it is also because there is still a tendency in all this part of the world to look upon the United States as the Promised Land."

The Russian movies, Mr. Wilson states, are for the most part dull and scarcely worth the price of admission. He finds the public Park of Culture and Rest colorless and bare.

Since not all of Mr. Wilson's articles is devoted to describing purely the pleasant or the unpleasant side of Moscow, one might conclude that he is really trying to paint the Russian picture honestly and as bright as possible in the unattractive as for the attractive features.

Spirit of the Week . . . By Adams

PROM

OPEN FORUM

Opinions expressed in the column are not necessarily expressions of the editorial policy of the paper. It is a column of open comment open to all who wish to submit signed and constructive criticism. Letters should be signed, marked "Pointless," and mailed in the college post office.

CAN "HONOR" BE SYSTEMATIZED?

Honor and character are inseparable but "Honor"—by the quotation marks I mean to imply the unbecoming farce which the word has gained through its application to a certain "System," and through the discussions which have grown out of this association—will have to be replaced by some other term, if any progress is to be made. It is my contention that the mere mention of an "Honor System" affects students with a wrong point of view.

Purpose of System.

Why do colleges have an honor system? They answer that its purpose is to do away with policing, which is a waste of time for working dishonestly. Well, they do people policing. Here, we can roughly divide students into three groups: those who regard both learning and grades as important; those who regard both learning and grades as important, but those who regard grades as important. Now, the only factor that if they manage to get a certain grade they may get out of trouble. They have lost sight of the fact that the grade is merely a symbol of achievement, their letter or number that it is, is worthless unless it indicates to some extent, the progress the student is making.

Signed: Dot Merrick

Condition to Be Changed

The happy news that this condition is to be partly alienated next year is already known, but the point I wish to stress is that of what benefit will the "Honor System" be to this campus? If it is intended to root out cheating, it is absurd the same lack of knowledge of the true situation as did the aristocrat in "The Tale of Two Cities" when, in answer to the plea for a betterment of the conditions of the people, he replied, "Shall we double the posts?" Believe it or not the conditions are fundamentally the same. Not force or harshness, but sympathy, understanding, and respect are the tools needed.

It is an accepted fact that laws or methods stated affirmatively are much more effective and salutary than are those which directly forbid. Why not apply some of these affirmative qualities to the people of this campus? Why not have a betterment of the proverbial sweetness of forbidden fruit still exists.

Webster and Wagnall's standard dictionary defines honor as: "A nice sense of what is right and conformable to a high stand ard of conduct." Character, it defines as "Quality or qualities commonly attributed to any person or thing." In the Honor Code are they are "admirable qualities." Will the "Honor System" develop these qualities?

The aristocrat thought of soldiers' duties. The people needed food. The "Honor System" needs "people" when that students need is "food" for thought. They come to college to learn. They should have the fair chance in the college to complete the moulding of mind and spirit which has been going on up to that time.

Signed: Marie Joyce.

FRESHMEN WANT TO VOTE

Some of the upper-classmen evidently underestimate the freshmen at all. They don't if they would. The freshmen go around campus for seven months without knowing the majority of candidates for office. They don't know the candidates and we emphatically do care who is elected! Not only that but we resent intensely having upper classmen try to tell us what to vote for. Too many misguided upperclassmen try to do.

Most of the freshmen who think voting "a necessary evil" do not vote because there is nothing compelling us to vote.

Elizabeth Turner stated that freshmen are "forced to vote" rather lightly." That is nor true and if it were it would be because upperclassmen chose to make it so. The fact that we are divided into two dormitories cause thorough no choice of ours. The people who are there are large and unprobably voted to make this so. But the mere fact that we are segregated does not necessarily our remaining in said areas during our spare hours.

The mere fact that freshmen are to be under jurisdiction of the elected candidates is full and sufficient reason for their voting. Freshmen are as large and important a part of our college as any other group or class.

The freshman class will deeply resent any movement taken to limit their voting privilege, and will fight it to the end.

Collegiate Come-Back

Almost on the verge of falling from shock, we've noticed that those elusive, two-footed creatures which we so vaguely call term men have always managed to arrive for the big struggle at last year, the Junior-Senior Prom. Let's hope those lone-some orchids and gardenias are vanishing besides botanical names, Father Webster defined.

Just to prove that a column never gets an opportunity to rest, we've gotten a few items from the following slam which we received from Gainesville, and the Boys from Old Florida and Our G-woman, in Gainesville, week-end reports that "The Seminoles from Old Florida" (number nine on our list) were most of the viciously small animals we've met, so don't get sore at your friend on reading this. He probably had nothing to do with Say the anonymous note.

Women treat men like cigarettes. If we don't inhale, we don't play another.

Woman's idea of a real man is to find a man with a razor and then swipe the jug.

Woman's theory of love: it's not the "Broken Record"—then we start stirring misfits to add more.

After all, we dance as we are taught—by women.

A woman judges how well she is dressed by the length of time it takes her.

Men's headdresses, few that they may be, at least resemble human hair. Women's don't.

Women consider all men yellow and think nothing of telling them their personal string.

Here's our Columbosonian of the asterisks, and the Stinker with the following advice. "Seek and ye shall find."

Last item censored

Now, we'd like to bury the boys' feelings by answering here; we have little brothers too. However, if they can't be kept clamped, self-addressed envelopes sent to the Flambeau office will bring forth one.

POME

He said to her, "I think that I shall call you 'Little Boy Blue.'"
And I wonder when are.

—Junior College Journal

The Collegian reports that the annual meeting of the board of University of California will be held April 1. All yarns will be welcomed by the publication and are to be limited to five minutes. Three prizes will be given for the best, the second best, and the most unbelievable. Judging of comedy coeds a special prize will be given the woman who can lie. Maybe we should send all of our fair readers down to Berkeley from the prom telling how many of the other girls' dates they have stolen.

According to the Transcript, New York newspaper is offering ten dollars each for stories about ten dollars each for stories about "The Most Unusual Flannel Nightwear. Now that the cold weather is over, here is the opportunity for the fair companies to make pajamas, even if they don't possess a mustachecup.

I wish I were a moment
In my professor's class.
For not another brief moments are.
They always seem to pass.

—College

The Drexel Triangle notes Pat Colmery, professor of psychology at Columbia university, as authority for saying that students actually study more hours a day than they admit, and quite agree with Dr. Colmery. We do spend much time in class.

In the Syracuse Daily Orange Professor William Yeruman remarks, "Coeds, in the main, are rotund bundle bore you; number three, they are dumb; number four, even if you don't graduate you don't understand them." Some letters not numbers on our list.

According to the Lazo-o students are a favorite food among some Canadian Indian tribes. What a barbaric custom! We don't blame the anoulites.

Also from the Lazo-O comes the Parisian style precast that prohibits should smile on the knee. What does one do about that while taking a stunbath?

Another item from the Lazo-O we considered a good "come-back" hear that she declined to remain at the prom because she thought it beneath her dignity to "Quick, Circle, Jitterbug."

The prize squeezier of the season comes from the Houston Cougar. "The stork that brought you should have been arrested for conspiring dope."

The Social Week

Junior And Seniors Will Hold Prom Tomorrow Night

The annual Junior-Senior prom will be held tomorrow night in the college dining room from 8:30 to 12 o'clock with music by the Georgia Bulldog orchestra.

The decorations for this affair are unique and will be kept secret, according to custom, until the prom begins.

There will be dancing for all juniors and seniors in Gulchrist and tomorrow morning from 10 to 12:30 and there will be a tea dance in the gym in the afternoon. Sororities on campus are also entertaining with pop dances throughout the day.

Instead of an intermission during the prom there is to be a coronation of the king and queen. The queen and her attendants were chosen by a secret ballot several weeks ago and their identities will be revealed until this time. The king will be chosen from the men of the attendants.

Caroline Oliver and Mary Miller are in charge of the arrangements for the affair and they are being assisted by the following committees:

Betty Manning, coronation; Mary Jeanne McKay, entertainment; Alice Porter, refreshments; and Sue Whitaker, decorations

Date List

Juniors and seniors and their men attending the prom will be: Betty Akin, George Akin; Audrey Parker, Edward Fletcher; Kathryn Blood, Jack Butler; Rita Snyder, Aaron Snyder; Eloise Keller, Lamar Knight; Julia Vandergrift, Wick Kirby; Anne Donnell, Tom Donovan; Gertrude Tenison, Austin Wynn; Mary Louise Hoenschel, Harold Jenkins; Eunice Moe, Curtis Bowman; Nita Sorenson, Greely Palmer; Margaret Neff, Ed Neff; Beth Dunne, Jed Dovell; Barbara Brent, John Snively; Lucille Kidwell, J. C. Gersen; Mildred Smith, Franklin Worth; Harriet Jeffries, John Mounts; Annie Leigh Rollins, Charles Collier; Kathleen Robinson, Madison Peel; Ethel Thomas, Phillip Bowling Elvira Mae Edwards, Harry Deter; Ruth Myrick, Claude Mims; Sirena Stockbridge, Everett Young; Juanita Buchanan, Fred Warnock; Mary Catherine Brennan, John Versaggi; Anne Greer, Cleveland Knight; Eleanor Fox, John Martin Sweeney; Harriette Lawrence, Frank Dorman; Stein Cate, Gates Welsh; Mildred Perkins, Maurice Davis; Pat Proctor, Billy Pipes; Yvette Breux, Dr. Vera Orr; Bertha Veith, Lloyd Griffiths; Mary Key, James Spurlock; Sara Mikell, John Mrus; Vera Brooks, John Duncan.

Also Attending

Elizabeth Carter, T. L. Carter; Martha Wollaston, Jimmie Walker; Roberta Diamond, Billy Norwood; Lillian Schulte, James Moody; Ann Sams, Bill Gantier; Martha Brisee, Clyde Driggers; Josephine Douglas, L. L. Russell; Victoria Cripp, James H. Fleas; Caroline Athon, Glenn Anderson; Annis Bowen, Harry Gorry; La-Verde Bowen, Lelia Abiotis; Sara Taylor, Arthur Tyler; Genevieve Crowley, Bob Kingston; Jane Moyer, Clifton Brooks; Grace Whitaker, Alonzo Turner; Mary Jo Clayton, George Sanders; Edith Perkins, Herbert Bolton; Jo King, Billy Chase, Frances Thomas, John Hinson.

Caroline Oliver, Clarence Reinschmidt; Helen Miller, Maynard Smith; Margaret Thompson, James Watson; Helen Ayala, Robert Gullan; Alice Dean Mabry, Paul Cochrane; Adeline Tillman, Buster Riddle; Julia Lamar, Brian McCarty; Dot McLean, Joe Smiley; Mary Lischgi, Elton Woodward; Fluff Pope, John McCarty, Virginia Rogers, Michael Chaney; Henri Turnbull, Joe Baker; Jane Tharin, Bob McKenzie; Sue Lockwood, George Baker; Betty Mack, Ben Wille; Helen Ballenger, Bobbie Barnes; Frances Oates, Bud McLean; Cara Parabee, Albert Stubbs, Peggy Michael, Randolph Thrower, Jean Brown, Buddy Lewis; Dot Benford, J. J. Parrish, Jr.; Elizabeth Ayala, Booky Cooper; Maryte Nogle, Jimmie Furman; Elizabeth Kirby Smith, Raymond Yockey; Betty Manning, Robert Schuchat; Sally Anthony, Godfrey Smith.

Additional Names

Henrietta Thames, Bill Bliss; Elizabeth Murray, Charles Elsy, Jean Gilmer, Jim Taylor, Mary Perry Pollock, Charlie Alford; Marjorie Fain, Ed Lowry, Irene Williams, Joe Winburn; Margaret James, Gene Tanner; Betty Ann Graham, Bob Wallace; Emma Jane Holland, Thomas Leonard; Sara Camp, Carl Anderson; Anita Walder, Russell McIntosh; Virginia Cromartie, Miles Calhoun; Ruth McAnulty, Bert Moody; Olive Dane, Harry Sample; Marie Taylor, Jack Thigpinson; Marie Ginn, Ralph Wilson; Pat Givens, A. C. Cobb; Katherine Younge, Bert Graham; Ruth Toland, Jack McDaniel; Lois Rutherford, Charles Quinn; Margaret Brody, Jim Harrison; Marion Ferrell, Jack Johnson; Ersil Webb, Bishop Pettus; Minna Dunn, Monroe Darby; Anita Jones, J. J. Griffith; Lucy G. Linn, Mac Batey; Nancy Fell, John Graham; Tules Gray, Bill Lazarus; Margaret Ware, James A. Boyd.

Betty Peck, Billy Dowling; Janet Charles, Charles Yancey; Mary Miller, Jack Bush; Elsie Kersey, Jack Barberson; Wenda Lou Hall, Fletcher Bullard; Victoria Curtis, Leon Howard; Louise Hill, Robert Mullins; Betty Anderson, David Scott; Amber Turner, John Causey; Mercia Scott, Frank Bennett; Catherine McCarty, Frank Lewis; Helen Godwin, Robert Sheffield; Lurline Smith, Robert Duff; Marguerite Holder, Tres Newcomb; Irene Edwards, Jim Harmon; Evelyn Ballard, Frank Alkins; Clarice Sanchez, Frank Medlock; Banks Wood, Dick Wilson; Mary Emmets, Walter Mayo.

Continued on page six

COLLEGE CALENDAR
April 12 to April 13

Sunday

11:00 a.m.—Church services
7:45 p.m.—Vespers

Monday

7:30 p.m.—Orchestra rehearsal
8:15 p.m.—Piano normal department ensemble recital and tones
9:00 p.m.—Sorority meetings

Tuesday

11:30 a.m.—Convocation—Easter music program
8:15 p.m.—Orchestra concert—auditorium

Wednesday

3:30 p.m.—Mr. Edward Lindeman, "Organization of leisure Time"—Little theater

Thursday

11:30 a.m.—Easter vacation begins

Personal Mention

Betty Leach is spending the week-end in Quincy visiting friends.

Elouse Cork and Lois Long spent last week-end in Gainesville.

Mary Lanehart is visiting in Jacksonville this week-end.

Mrs. E. C. Pemberton of Clermont is a guest at the Zeta Tau Alpha house where visiting her daughter, Mary Frances.

Newly elected officers of the Zeta Tau Alpha chapter are: Frances Lingle, president; Esther Hay, vice-president; Betty Wadsworth, secretary; Virginia Mayo, treasurer, Elouse Cork, assistant treasurer; Marjorie Stamp, historian, and Dorothy Borden, rush captain.

Miss Betty Hamilton, former student of F. S. C. W., has been studying at the Art Students' league the past year, is visiting in Tallahassee this week.

"F" Club Celebrates Founder's Day At Informal Dinner

The members of the "F" club celebrated Founder's Day Tuesday with a banquet in the dining hall.

Place cards were made of large parchment "F"s with small gold letters on top. Colored and gold streamers extended the whole length of the table. In the center there was a large bowl of calendulae on either side of which was an emblem and an "F".

Members of the "F" club are Mildred Emmelhainz, Hazel Wetzel, Betty Cotlland, Betty Akin, Caroline Athon, Ethel Barrett, Katherine Blood, Janice Borton, Viola Brooks, Juanita Buchanan, Audrey Cooper, Beth Deane, Sarah Beth Davis, Florence Devine, Louise Dunlap, Janet Griffiths, Dora Isted, Harriette Lawrence.

Phi Mu

Cecil Levy, Frances Lewis, Doris McKenzie, Martha Makemson, Dorothea Marsh, Margaret Maxwell, Betty Meyer, Mary Miller, Anna Marie Mitchell, Sallie Burt Numan, Kathryn Pratt, Rose Panowski, Mildred Seeking, Mary Simpson, Rita Superior, Shirley Stevens, Marie Taylor, Mary Etta Thimlebhwaite, Jane Tombaugh, Wynn Tuten, Marion Weeks, Pegleen Weil, Nancy Wilkinson, Martha Wilkinson, Martha Baker, Janet Cook, Tessie Jenkins, Carol Parsley, Ruth Methoss, Marie Joffre, Bertie Mackery, Mary Ward Peterson, and Eileen Robinson.

Initiation for New Members of Sigma Delta Pi Held

An initiation banquet was held last night at the Three Torches for the five new members of Sigma Delta Pi, national Spanish honorary, following the initiation services which were held in Rugg hall at 5 o'clock.

The fraternity colors, red and yellow, were used in the flowers, place cards, and programs which were placed on the banquet, table.

Short toasts and impromptu talks comprised the program for the evening.

The honorees at this time were Bernice Oliver, Betty Brooks, Zula Marchetta, Anna Von Dahlen, and Daisy Parker.

Faculty and student members of Sigma Delta Pi invited to the banquet were Dr. Dorothy Breen, Dr. Marie Burks, Mrs. Ada Belle Allan, Miss Myrtle Elizabeth Dubee, Dr. Mason Jewell Hay, Mr. Manuel L. Lopez, Dr. Arthur R. Seymour, Miss Mildred Flanegan, Miss Elisabeth Hutt, Miss Margaret Campbell, Ruth Dickson, Marcus Bayless, Mary Sara Krentzman, Annabelle Linder, Laura Mathis, Virginia Cromartie, and Martha Wollaston.

Piano Normal Has Recital Tonight

The piano normal training department under the direction of Mary Reeder will give a recital in the recital hall of the music annex on Monday, April 7 at 8:15 p.m.

ALPHA DELTA PI'S HONOR PROVINCE PRESIDENT AT AFTER-DINNER COFFEE

Mrs. J. N. Franklin, National Province president of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority who has been visiting the local chapter for the past week was the guest of honor at an after-dinner coffee held at the sorority house on Park avenue last night.

The entire lower floor of the house was artistically decorated throughout with huge vases of Japonicas and roses. Coffee was served from a table decorated with a Venetian lace table cloth and tapering candles.

In the receiving line were Mrs. J. B. Sikes, chapron, Mrs. J. N. Franklin, and Sara Moor, chapter president.

Fairclames invited for the affair were, Mr and Mrs. Jack Simmons, Mrs. C. T. Waller, Mrs. W. H. Smith, Mrs. T. S. Green, Mrs. James Messer, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Conrad, Mrs. Henry Rushin, and Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Cowles.

Among guests were Mrs. Jack Yaeger, Mrs. Arthur Williams, Mrs. J. A. Wesson, Miss Emily Lively, Mrs. Kent DeMoupied, Mrs. Charles Ausley, Miss Margaret Ausley, Miss Lucille Collins, Mrs. Milton Parker, Miss Grace Earl Bush, Mrs. Frank Moor, Miss Eleanor Mizell, Miss Susie Mickler, Mrs. Frank Shaw, Mrs. Virgil Hancock, Mrs. Ralph Stone, Miss Barbara Ainsworth, Mrs. Don Allenberre, Mrs. Henry Thomas, Mrs. Willis, Mrs. Don Pleding, Mrs. A. C. Kelley, Jr.

The faculty committee on Student Affairs and additional guests were Miss Lucy Lester, Dr. Marzie Burks, Miss Leonora Smith, Dean Olivia N. Dorman, Miss Maude Flowers, Miss Ruth E. Stevenson, Miss Herndon, Miss Sadie Young Dean and Mrs. W. Bailey, Mrs. Fred Moor, Mrs. A. E. Thurston, Mrs. H. E. Palmer, Mrs. Tom Young, Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. Paul Shelley, Mrs. D. B. Scott, Mrs. Earl Proctor. Chaperons and representatives from all other sororities on campus were also invited.

Among the hostesses were, Peggy Milton, Josephine Trantham, Betty Sweet Smith, Doris Rusk, Jean Paulin, Mamie Mizell Brinson, Elizabeth Whitten, Jerry Knapp, Audrey Smith, Martha King, Leona Howe, Leona Thornton, Mary Emily Parker, Gwendolyn Knapp, Evelyn Anderson, Doris Butler, Vera Grumwald, Ethel Young, Dorothy Lewis, Margaret Rogers, Margaret McCall, Annie Shelley, Lita Chapman, Eileen Pleming, Mary Reader, Dorothie Grace Faricloth, Charmain LuBurrow, Mary Elizabeth Dougherty, Anna Groover, Barbara Holmes Vennette Herron, Eleanor Hamblen, Betty Blackwell, Helen Ruth Powell, Betty Scott, Jean Harrod, Nancy Bow, Adele Timberlake, Jane Brown, Marcia Thomas, Isabel Yon, Mabel Rogers, Glenda Dye, Phoebe Messer, Sara Perkins and Winona Williamson.

SORORITIES ENTERTAIN FROM DATES AND FRIENDS WITH UNIQUE DANCES

Many unique ideas and themes are being carried out in the decorations for the tea and breakfast dances that the various sororities on campus are giving in honor of visiting dates for the Junior-Senior prom.

Nautical designs, Hawaiian scenes, bubbles, and many other decorations will be used at these affairs which include open houses, luncheons, breakfasts, and pop dances. Dancing will begin in most of the houses at 10 o'clock tomorrow.

Kappa Delta and Chi Omegas

The Kappa Deltas and the Chi Omegas will entertain jointly at a tea dance at the Kappa Delta house on South Copeland street from 4 to 6 o'clock tomorrow. It is to be open house for all seniors and juniors and their dates.

Refreshments will consist of punch and wafers. The house will be decorated with dogwood and honeysuckle blossoms.

At one o'clock the Kappa Deltas will entertain their dates with a luncheon at the Floridan hotel. The theme will be carried out with the Kappa Delta seal.

Phi Mu

Open house is being held by the Phi Mus tomorrow morning from 10:30 to 12:30 o'clock at their house on West Jefferson street. Special guests will include Mrs. B. E. Marshall, Miss Mary Heatherton and Dr. Enda May Devitney. Refreshments will consist of tomato juice and crackers.

The Phi Mu juniors and seniors and dates will spend the afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Martin in the Country Club estates.

Pi Beta Phi

Coffee and doughnuts will be served to the guests of the Pi Beta Phis at their breakfast dance tomorrow morning from 10:30 to 12:30 o'clock.

The Pi Beta Phi members will have affairs which include dates with a picnic Sunday afternoon.

Theta Upsilon

The Theta Upsilon house will be the scene of a buffet supper tomorrow at 6:30. A three course meal will be served to the guests. The house will be decorated in spring flowers and the menu will consist of small balloons.

Theta Upsilons and their dates will also be entertained at a waffle breakfast Sunday morning at 10:30.

Kappa Alpha Theta

The Kappa Alpha Theta house will assume the appearance of a shady harbor on the lea during a tea there from 2 to 4 tomorrow afternoon. Easels, palettes, drawing boards, canvases and paint brushes will help to carry out the Bohemian atmosphere. Waitresses in smocks and berets will serve punch and cookies to the guests during open house.

Thetas will entertain for their dates at a breakfast party at the Floridan hotel, Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. The theme of the breakfast will also be carried over for the breakfast.

Sigma Kappas

A buffet supper will be served to hostess and sisters of the Sigma Kappa and their dates tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock. The menu will consist of chicken salad, potato chips, cream cheese and olive sandwiches, tea, and cakes frosted with the sorority colors, maroon and lavender.

Alpha Gamma Delta

Alpha Gamma Delta sorority is entertaining tomorrow morning at the sorority house on Park avenue with an informal dance which following members and their dates will then be entertained with a luncheon at the Dutch Kitchen.

Decorations for the dance will be appropriate garden flowers throughout the entire house.

Alpha Xi Delta sorority is entertaining with a "Follow the Fleet" dance at the sorority house on Copeland street tomorrow morning from 10:30 till 12:30.

Shop decorations and navy colors will predominate throughout the house and refreshments will be served in a navy style.

Alpha Omicron Pi sorority will entertain its guests with a tea dance at the sorority house on Park avenue tomorrow afternoon from 2 till 4.

Upperclassmen and their dates will be entertained at a banquet at the Dutch Kitchen tomorrow night.

Decorations for the tea-dance will be garden flowers carrying out the sorority colors.

Opera Frolics

Alpha Chi Omegas is entertaining with open house all day tomorrow and a tea-dance from 4 on till 6 o'clock. Upperclassmen of the sorority will then entertain their guests with a buffet supper at the house.

Spring flowers will be used for decorations throughout the house and on the tea table.

The Delta Delta Delta sorority will entertain its members and their dates with a dance at the sorority house Saturday morning from 10:30 till 12:30. From there they will go to the Dutch Kitchen where they will be entertained at luncheon.

Informal Dancing Will Be Held in Dormitories

Informal dancing will be held in Gilchrist and Jennie Murphree parlors this week-end. Saturday morning from 10:30 until 13:30, juniors and seniors may dance in Gilchrist. Jennie Murphree will be open to freshmen and sophomores for dancing Saturday afternoon from 2:30 until 6:30, and Saturday evening from 7:30 until 1':30.

It Pays To Shop at
GELBERG'S
NEW STORE
COLLEGE AVENUE

Smart New EASTER Dresses CO-ED
$5.95 - $7.95
$10.95

Knee Length and Full Length All Silk Hose
59c and 79c

Peter Pan
America's Leading Stylists in Stylish Dresses
$14.95

Sandals
Black Patent
All Pastel Shades and Solid White.
$1.95 and up

Evening DRESSES
$4.95 and up

Evening Sandals
$1.95
In Satin and Silver.

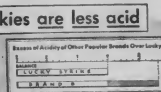
Beaded Evening Bags
$1.00

THE SURPRISE STORE

Each Puff Less Acid

LUCKY STRIKE "IT'S TOASTED" CIGARETTES

Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company



A LIGHT SMOKE
OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

Although the constituents of cigarette paper are, in themselves, unsurpassed in purity and wholesomeness, it may, if crudely fabricated, contribute a marked degree of irritation to cigarette smoke. Cigarette paper not only envelops the tobacco in forming a cigarette, but through its physical properties may exercise a favorable or detrimental influence upon the products of combustion. Paper for Lucky Strike Cigarettes is made under our own supervision. Samples of each lot of cigarette paper manufactured are subjected to the most rigid analysis before it is used in making Lucky Strike Cigarettes.

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

Excess of Acidity of Other Popular Brands Over Lucky Strike Cigarettes

RESULTS VERIFIED BY INDEPENDENT CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS

Luckies—"IT'S TOASTED"

Your throat protection—against irritation—against cough

Advisory Group Will Be Chosen

Effort is Being Made To Select Students Best Fitted

A new plan for selecting the group of thirty-five or forty upperclassmen to serve as freshman advisers next year is being carried out in an effort to choose those students who are best fitted and who can devote most time to working with freshmen.

Suggested names for these positions were sent to the office of Dean Olive D. Dorman by the present freshman advisers, executive council of College Government association, and freshman commission. The list of suggestions included the names of approximately 165 students who will be sophomores, juniors, and seniors next year.

Each of the students recommended received a letter from Dean Dorman asking for answers to definite questions relating to the work of a freshman adviser.

The students' replies were received last week. Approximately sixty-five of the students who seem most capable, as judged by their answers to the questions and their college records, will be selected and the list submitted to the student senate. Senate will then select thirty-five or forty from the names suggested and invite them to serve as freshman advisers.

The questions on which the advisers' qualifications are to be judged include the following:

"1. Shall you be able to devote the necessary amount of time without sacrificing your work and other interests? (A minimum of five hours a week is required for adequate leadership.)

"2. Are you keenly interested in this type of work?

"3. Do you think yourself fitted for this type of work?

"4. Will you agree, if elected, to take a training course during the fourth quarter?

"5. Please submit in outline form an original plan of orientation to cover six weeks. (This should be done without assistance from other students as it will be a test of your qualifications.)"

Included with the letters sent to the students who were suggested was an outline of the duties of orientation leaders which include taking a training course in the spring and a course of reading during the summer, and attendance at freshman class meetings, freshman advisory council meetings, and conferences with social directors and the dean of students.

The freshman advisers are also to conduct individual conferences with each freshman in their group to help in academic progress, social adjustment, and physical adjustment. The counselors will assist in social functions such as picnics, hikes, and presiding at freshman tables.

The final duty of a freshman adviser is to make her conduct an ideal to students in her group by "keeping up academic work; observing and upholding College Government regulations; demonstrating good citizenship by participation in general college programs of activities; and discharging all duties promptly and enthusiastically."

Juniors and Seniors Hold Prom Saturday

Continued from page five

berry; Mary Lee Hopkins, Tommy White.

Mary Bruce Patterson, J. B. Patterson, Wyanna Tre Bish, Rosert Barton; Mary Waller McCormick, Frank Foster; Mary Veach, Jack Whitehurst; Martha Baker, Ed Kaderr; Lois Walker, Jerry Walker; Mary Pollard, Dick Promhart; Winona Ireland, Meredith Gilbert; Evelyn Chamoun, George Johns; Virginia Cary, Hal Perrell; Marian Weeks, Dean Gough; Mary McGunagle, Richard Blaine; Betty Evans, James Winchester; Althea Smith, "Swede" Phillips; Jimmy Eller, Dr. Johnson; Mary Ward Peterson, Victor Nettles; Elisabeth Bronson, Frank Sheppard; Lucille Gould, George Cadki; Claire Williams, Guyte McCord; Ortrude Parks, Norman Parks.

Other Prom Dates

Charlotte O'Steen, R. B. Geoghegan; Nettie Sullivan, Bob Hurst; Ellen Fleming, Joe Edwards; Betty Sweet Smith, Tom Simmons; Eleanor Jenkins, Julian Alford; Betty Parker, Charlie Matheny; Betty Hammond, Gene Hammond; Arlene Gray Lockhart, Tony Harlowe; Eleanor Williams, Billy McGuire; Marjorie Tillis, Roy Echols; Barbara Freeland, John Smith; Bare McGregor, Creed Nunnin; Miriam Frye, Ira Parks; Dorothy Ravlin, Russell Henderson; May Whitton, Thomas Crosland; Florence DeVine, Bill Kachler; Ann Maggio, Edwin Middleton; Faye Pearson, Samuel Smith; Maxine Ward, Marcus Scott; Hazel Bowman Sam Black; Ethel Pacheco, Mario Gennes; Frances Forth, John Cole; Marion Lassey, Frank Smoak.

Madeline Duncan, Alex Smith; Elizabeth Whiddon, Julian Lane; Mary Bruce Patterson, Wyanna Tre Bish, Robert Barton; Mary Waller McCormick, Frank Foster; Mary Veach, Jack Whitehurst; Martha Baker, Ed Kader; Lois Walker, Jerry Walker; Mary Pollard, Dick Promhart; Winona Ireland, Meredith Gilbert; Evelyn Chamoun, George Johns; Virginia Cary, Hal Perrell; Marian Weeks, Dean Gough; Mary McGunagle, Richard Blaine; Betty Evans, James Winchester; Althea Smith, "Swede" Phillips; Jimmy Eller, Dr. Johnson; Mary Ward Peterson, Victor Nettles; Elisabeth Bronson, Frank Sheppard; Lucille Gould, George Cadki; Claire Williams, Guyte McCord; Ortrude Parks, Norman Parks.

Recreation Head Will Speak Here

Continued from page three

most acceptable number of diesmashed his way through the first three games to get a lead, only to have Vines take the net and two games. From then on the match was a "net duel." Each of the players "rushed" the net repeatedly displaying brilliant volleying and smashing. Vines' consistency finally gave him the victory, and his "thinking" tactics defeated Stoefen in the second set 6-4. This gave him the match with the final score 6-1, 6-4.

In the doubles match the fusion team of Lott and Stoefen who have won several championships in the past played Vines and Bell, to be defeated 6-4, 6-1. The first set got off to a wild beginning with first one team and then the other taking the net in a series of brilliant net rallies. With Vines and Stoefen smashing violently and Lott and Bell volleying with deadly accuracy the match was much closer than the scores show. It was again a question of the level-headed tactic of the Vines-Bell team against the brilliant but spotty playing of Lott and Stoefen, and again the "thinking game" won as Vines and Bell took the second set and the match.

Kappa Delta Pi Elects McCurdie as President At Meeting Wednesday

The members of Kappa Delta Pi, national education honorary, elected Miss Margaret McCurdie, critic teacher and instructor in education, as president of the group on Wednesday afternoon at a business meeting of the chapter.

Miss Nita Pyburn was elected vice-president; Miss Ruth DeGraff, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert Moon, corresponding secretary; Miss Lillian Cross, treasurer; Miss Helen Smith, historian; and Miss Florence Tyron, reporter.

Mamie Brinson, Sheldon Brinson; Isabel Yon, Bob Knight; Preston Milton, Tim Owen; Anna Groover, L. K. Cannon; Sara Bell Palmer, Julian Proctor; Audrey Smith, Risdon Lytton Boykin; Doris Goddard, George Mitchell; Helen Young, Gene Corfar; Angela Gregory, Dr. E. T. Fiske; Mary Dequenther, Billy Porter; Laurita Pearson, Dick Sutton; Virginia Weldon, Pat O'Flinngan; Madeline McCall, F. W. Hancock; Agnes Goss, Jimmie Sheppard; Mary Carson, Ed Goodwin; Alice Porter, Crowell Sexton; Edith Manford, Murray Sigman.

Mauvis Lassiter, Tom Lafferty; Grace Mary Webster, Gregory Hobbs; Margaret Claire Lafferty, Guy Andrews; Clotilde O'Rourke, John Delaney; Polly Harrel, Ben Markham; Lucile Ham, George Cirgit; Ruth Lynn, Lachis Butler; Janet Cook, Bunn Belle; Edith Hays Effinger, Billy Cooper; Martha Hoses, Johnnie DeMille; Margaret K. Anderson, Rufus Yeomans; Sara Mae Davis, Jack Aycock; Vivian Marshal'- Cheney Griffin; Anna Olen, Elton Beiter; Grace Wicks, Paul Tiller; Fenton Woodward, Blakie Clark; Evelyn Kennard, Everett Clay; Leona Stimmell, Bill Davis; Kathleen Owens, David Lee, Margie Glen; Bob Parker; Martha Williams, Neil Walker; Mildred Hurst, Nyron Winn.

Sara Hoses, Harry Crook; Emily Johnson, Andrew Ripley; Catherine Fox, Dr. E. D. Mathews; Jessie Mead, Ali Bahador; Betty Meyer, Rosa Lynne; Roberta Culford, Bill Hood; Janet Griffiths, Garland Peterson; Elizabeth Malone, Bob Mosher; Mary P. Whisnant, Charlie Cangrean; Lucy Houser, Graham Rose; Lillian Simmons, Neal Dale; Ruth Parsons, Bradshaw Wood; Genevieve C. Kenley, Joe Johnson; Elizabeth Simeron, Jack Sasaard; Clara Lankford, Ed Sharp, Frances Pennington, Paul Comlock; Margaret Arnold, John A. Brown; Edith Phelps, Ralph Prorhasit; Marion Hoper, Martin Fisher.

Jean Clark, George Stovall; Frances Morrow, Gordon Knott; Martha Lee Wilkerson, Harold Jones; Betty Borns, Virgil Perry; Helen Kibler, Gus Watkins; Martha Goddard, Cheevy Lewis; Virginia Peyton, Merrill Bowlin; Flynn Moore, John Stembler; Zula Marchetta, Al Schwartzs; Margaret Cogswell, Julius Cogswell; Joyce Reed, Joe McCreary; Bernice Oliver, Lewis Bevis; Roberta Rogers, Cy Kennington.

HEADLINES and FOOTNOTES

By GRACE MARY WEBSTER

HERR HITLER, backed by an overwhelming vote of approval on his foreign policy from the German people, this week offered Europe a definite peace proposal. Although the German dictator had promised such action diplomatic circles were doubtful of anything definite. The world is yet to come—getting France, England and Belgium to accept the proposal. Perhaps the most important part of the proposal is that France, Belgium and Germany have their frontiers controlled by an international commission the international commission is to be made up of one man from Great Britain, one from Italy and one from a neutral

Katherine Kyle, Wilmer Bassett; Margaret Pinkoson, Neil McMillan; Doodle Adair, Maynard Mann; Adelaide Ireland, Harry Owens; Katherine Smith, Hudson Bullard; Bernice Harbin, James Harbin; Anna Belle Larsen, George Grady; Mary Jeanne McKay, Ray Hagenbuhm.

Stag List

Helen Shephard, Jessie Lee Lumpkin, Frances A. Ellis, Dorothy Crews, Rosemary Hamby, Louise Johnson, Bonneviere Tomlinson, Gertrude Kuhn, Bonnie Smith, Eva Fowler, Betty Brooks, Mary Dickerson, Alma Lester, Sally Walker, Mary Bennett, Helen Wahlberg, Nancy Wilkinson, Ruth Sadler, Sara Kreminan, Eileen Davson, Virginia Crump, Elsie Davis, Mary Graham, Jeanette Annin, Nellie Babrt, Dorothy Shaw, Ruth Mock, Rebecca Keith, Lillian Turlington, Mary Ella Thistlehwaite, Anna Marie Mitchell, Leah Andrews.

Nina Hughes, Monica Wiley, Jane Crook, Shirley Stevens, Daisy Ann Massey, Betty Hamilton, Marguerite Groover, Agnes Campbell, Nettie Taylor, Floy Lenert, Frances Lingle, Rose Pancwski, Ruth Dickson, Eleanor Rogers, Don Lancaster, Anna May Jones, Margaret B. Roberts, Geneva Stout, Miriam Kaudell, Hazel Sangster, Mary Dunn and Charlotte Kinne.

power. In addition to this commission the three countries would promise not to increase their border forces and would stop all aggressions through the press and schools on the other nations. Theoretically this latter provision is an excellent one, for the enmity between France and Germany has long been fostered by school and press; whether France and Belgium, countries not under the control of a dictator who has his thumb on both agents, is a matter of question. The German dictator mentioned this enmity between his country and France especially, asking that both countries agree to "do everything possible in the education of youth to avoid anything that might poison the attitude of the two peoples to one another." This sounds like a big step on the part of Hitler. He also specified that the treaty be ratified by French, German and Belgian plebuscites. More general provisions of the treaty are that negotiations for another pact similar to the Locarno pact should begin immediately, that negotiations for a 25 year nonaggression pact should go forward and that a general disarmament conference be called. Alas, for this last provision! Disarmament conferences have a bad habit of ending in an attempt to prevent a "free-for-all." Germany, of course, would come back into the League of Nations if the new treaty were accepted. Europe again has something to work on. Will she "muff" it?

* * *

FLORIDA citizens should be interested to know that Senator Vandenberg, the man Hoover indicates he will back in the coming presidential election, was one of the leaders of opposition to appropriation for the Florida canal in Congress.

* * *

CONGRESSIONAL investigating committees eventually get to almost anything! Now an investigation of the Townsend club organizations is being made, the indications being that the Townsend clubs are not organized for the benefit of those over sixty years of age—but perhaps for the benefit of the organizers as well.

* * *

THE Russo-Japanese friction on the outer border of Mongolia and Manchukuo increases daily. Russia and Mongolia recently published a pact by which the Russian government promises to come to the aid of Mongolia in case of Japanese aggression. Another sore spot in world affairs!

* * *

THOUGH it isn't international, national, state, county or city news this issue of the Flambeau is the last which the staff of 1935-36 will write. We'll be with regret and turn it over to the new staff envyingly, it being the way of all things that the new replace the old. To you, my five readers, a fond farewell!

EVOLUTION OF AN EASTER PLAN

Continued from page one

she wouldn't listen to reason and then she said something about her family sending her money to come home. I wouldn't ask my folks for money for such a trivial purpose. It's very selfish.

Wednesday—These finger-waved girls' hair-do's spelling faces are getting on my nerves. No one seems able to talk about anything but Easter. In the smoking room, in class, on the campus, at the water fountain I hear them talking about "going home." I'm glad I'm not going—all this rush. I hate packing in a hurry and how I hate that terrible trip home. I know I wouldn't enjoy my stay a bit.

I know that I shall enjoy not to overeat here. Maybe we'll have eggs in the dining room. It should be a beautiful day here, with all the flowers in bloom. Wonder if the oleander is in blossom in Jim's yard. Wonder if Jim will go out with another girl during the vacation.

Guess I will stop. I don't feel so well tonight. It's not exactly a pain, just a sort of dull ache. I'm quite sure where. Must have been something I ate.

Thursday—Just a note, diary.

Riding Coach Begins Final Class Series

Continued from page three

course a two hour trip is made to the country club estates.

Six horses from the Middlebrooks stables are used and as the students range from beginner to top-notch the horses range from gentle to extremely energetic.

Students wanting to take lessons may sign up in 30 Reynolds and arrange class hours.

* * *

I'm going home! The family wired me money in answer to my telegram last night. Said they had forgotten it was Easter. I'm so excited. Dotty's going home with me. But I must hurry, for I've got to get my things packed by 1:30 and everything's in a mess, but what fun! We're going to ride in the Hendersons' rumble seat but that should be thrilling. I can hardly wait to see home and do things. P. S. Got a letter from Jim today.

Orchestra Will Again Present Spring Concert

Continued from page one

minor, Op. 23, by Tschaikowsky; soloist, Virginia Long. This concerto is in the repertoire of concert pianists because of its brilliance and melodic interest. It was performed for the first time in this country in Boston in 1875.

The members of the orchestra are as follows: first violin: Mary Lou Reddick, concert master; Yvette Breaux, Marjorie Tisdale, Marian Herbert, Marion Perry, and Betty Miller; second violins: Betty Parker, Veola Evans, Gertrude Tomkins, Betty Hatch, Bessie Jones, Ruth Brooks, and Bertha Veitch; violoncellos: Sarah Herndon, Gordon Epperson, and Owen Sellers; violas: Annabelle Larsen and Kathryn Beasley; bass: Sarah Tyler and Marie Wilkerson; flutes: Marjorie Cox and Jean Crago; clarinets: Sara Anderson and Eleanor Dennis; senior saxophone: Betty Wise; French horn: Margare. E. Tyre; trumpets: Mildred Hurs and Ireland Sampson; trombone: Ralph Bowman; and tympani: Lonie Johnson.

Leading Tenor Will Appear in Concert

Continued from page one

average role takes him from eight to fourteen days to learn.

"The New York World-Telegram had this to say: 'To concert it is a pleasure to observe in Jagel's singing the roundness of range, the resonance, the melodiousness, the evenness of scale and his voice displayed. He was a star of an exemplary care with respect to legato, phrasing, diction, and style.'"

You Must See Our Newest Styles In DRESSES AND HATS
For Easter!
DRESSES $1.95 to $10.95
HATS $1.95 and $2.95
THE LADIES' SHOP
"Where Styles are Shown First for Less"
NEXT TO STATE THEATRE

I want my cigarette mild, of course—I hardly think anybody enjoys a strong cigarette. But deliver me from the flat, insipid kind.

I find a great deal of pleasure in Chesterfields. They're mild and yet they seem to have more taste and aroma. I enjoy them.

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Hop a Truck
For Water Sports Day
Tomorrow

The Florida Flambeau

Take Part
In YW Church Service
Sunday Morning

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, April 24, 1936

VOLUME XXIII. NUMBER TWENTY-SIX

New Advisers For Freshman Are Revealed

First Meeting is Held In Jennie Murphree Hall Thursday

WORK EXPLAINED BY DEAN DORMAN

Off-Campus Orientation Leaders and House Heads Chosen

The first meeting of next year's freshman advisers was held last night in Jennie Murphree parlor. Dean Olivia N Dorman spoke to the group, explaining the work of the advisory council. A social hour followed the program.

The advisers were selected this week by the student senate from the names suggested by Dean Dorman. Her suggestions were based on individual qualifications for the work as indicated by a questionnaire sent to approximately 145 students last month.

Orientation Leaders

The list of freshman orientation leaders, according to Josephine Rumbley, freshman adviser, included the following: Virginia Phillips, Viola Brooks, Eileen Roman, Jr., Frances Lewis, Theresa Marsh, Polly Eveleth, Kathleen Grudipe, Hilda Spradlin, Phillis Dorn, Helen Baggott, Mary Ola Reynolds, Louise Lingo, Carol Gridley, Betty Cantrell, Kathryn Pratt, Lois Bowen, Anne Morris, Dot Marsh, Marian Harrold, and Mary Benjin.

House chairmen in freshman dormitories will be Sara Hutchison, Harriet Duke, Sara Ruinlage, and Janice Burton.

Off-Campus Girls

Orientation leaders for off-campus freshmen are to be Mary Phillips Chalker, Christine Griffin, Emmie Lewis, Dorothy Bowen, Anne Sasse, Molly Holmes Rosemary Paine, Sallie Burt Nunnin, Margaret Stout, Winifred Dent and Mary Ann Hills.

The freshman advisers will be assisted by the sophomore counsellors.

The freshman advisers will take a training course during the remainder of the year and a course of reading during the summer. They will be requested to attend freshman class meetings, freshman advisory council meetings, and conferences with social directors and the dean of students.

Text Used As Advisers

The freshman advisers are also to conduct discussion meetings with each freshman in their groups on topics on academic progress, social adjustment, and physical adjustment. The counselors will assist in social activities such as picnics, hikes and presiding at freshman teas.

The final duty of a freshman adviser is to make her conduct an ideal to which she will aspire through keeping up academic work", observing social regulations, College Government regulations; demonstrating good citizenship by participation in the college's program of activities; and discharging all duties promptly and enthusiastically.

Library to Take Valuable Books

Historical Volumes Will Be Collected Here

Plans have been furthered for making the Florida State College library one of the leading research college centers in the United States, for purchasing rare and valuable books on early American history and Florida History to be used by students in the field of history.

Dr. Randolph G. Adams, representative of the McGregor Foundation of Washington, D. C., who was here on April 7, stated that Florida State College for Women has the opportunity to build up a great library for scholars and those interested in American history.

The McGregor Foundation has invited Florida State College to become one of six colleges in the country to participate in the purchase of rare books on early American history, and Dr. Adams conferred while he was here with college and library officials relative to the collection of historical volumes for the library here.

Dr. Adams said that this is a distinct honor both to the college and the state of Florida.

Students Receive Gilchrist Awards

Dr. Edward G. Conradi, president of the Florida State College for Women announced yesterday that the Gilchrist scholarships have been awarded to Francis Porth, a junior in the school of commerce, and Hazel Sargent, a junior majoring in the school of education.

Those holding these scholarships this year are Katherine Blood and Clarines Knight.

Tap Sophomore Council Here

Forty-six Members Will Combine and Replace Two Old Groups

Forty-six members of the freshman class were tapped recently for membership in the new organization Sophomore council, which is considered a consolidated the present organizations Freshman Cabinet and Freshman Commission. The new organization will work in cooperation with all the sophomore activities including the College Government association and the Young Women's Christian Association, and will serve as a leadership training group.

New members initiated at Sunball recently were: Katherine Autrey, Jennie Bodet, Katherine Bacon, Mary Frances Campbell, Mary Catherine Cleveland, Harriet Duke, Mary Ensign, Mary Elizabeth Harris, Charlotte Kammer, Annie Mae Kennedy, Sara Lewis, Janet Lockwood, Sara Moore, Dot Marsh, Virginia O'Byrne, Lutrelle Patterson, Sue Pinner, Marion Purviance, Jane Ramage, Betty Russell, Betty Skinner, Beauford Thrower, Anne Tilden, Ester Mae Tucker, Ann Usher, Margaret Walcott, Evelyn Anderson, Becky Ashton, Connie Wallace, Francis Williams, Frances Ward, Jean Zacharias, Dot Zimmerman, Jane Manning, Bunny Lowry, Sara Lytle, Jean Gilles, Evelyn Hall, Mary Anne Hardy, Betty Hatch, Betty Hatcher, Dorothy Richards, and Mary Ellen Stubbs.

Members of the organization will choose their dance committees and were presented to the student body in a special convocation program the next day.

Students Are Honored Here

Dr. Tigert Makes Address For Phi Kappa Phi Initiation

Seven students were initiated into Phi Beta Kappa, national academic honorary society, at a convocation held in the auditorium of the University of Florida, and a reception in honor of the initiates was held for the members in Gilchrist hall.

Dr. Tigert who is a national officer of Phi Beta Kappa, pointed out that "tyranny of the masses" is the real danger that is threatening American civilization. The peril that our civilization is facing, he said, is the same kind but at the opposite end of the pendulum from that which overwhelmed it by the masses of the people in medieval Europe.

"From the tyrannies and oppression of unlimited monarchies and aristocracies," he said, "arose the peril of becoming enthralled in the tyranny of the masses and the mob mind."

The doctrine of democracy—political equality—was proclaimed by great thinkers—has been seriously misunderstood by the mind of the audience. "Superficial thinkers dream of an Utopia in which everybody will be alike. They imagine that education is a sort of mechanical process by which dull may be made bright and the weak may be strong. This perfect they are utterly unscientific, or morally. No man is ever the same in two successive days. Education, machinery an other other accessories of modern civilization have tended to make the strong stronger and the weak weaker."

Dr. Tigert pointed out that nothing could be more absurd than attempting to make a group of young men and women equal by forcing them to strip through a curriculum and administering to them identical and homeopathic

Continued on page two

Student Views Education With Doubtful Hopes

Asserts Colleges Do Not Encourage Critical Contemplation

BY IDA PEARL MILLER

H. G. Wells has said that civilization is a "race between education and catastrophe." Let us hope that education will be the victim in this race. I make the analogy for two reasons: First, because the volition and progress of education goes on at the pace of the tortoise; and second, because education (in my youth) that education will run out.

But we want not only to preserve our civilization but to better it for ourselves and our posterity. Can we do so without a critical appraisal of its institutions and a continual struggle towards readjusting them to the changing social needs? I think not.

We cannot entrust this second duty to the unwilling mind and still less to the semi-enlightened. It is not mass education that is the sense of those without formal education. I refer to those who can recognize the independent thinking and impartial judgment, and they behave that they have had formal training. Alas! Far too many of these have had their ancient school system does not educate towards independent thought and unbiased judgment. It does not encourage critical appraisal of social institutions. It does not fit for part in all of our life activities! I am not saying that it does. But that is irreasonable." And I say, "if that be treason, make the most of it."

If our institutions will not train for critical thinking, they should. It is far better that they give in to others than stand in the way of progress, intolerance and blind prejudices of our generation.

Only gradually will the specific impossibilities and duplications of curricula, its confusion of purposes, its inadequacy of its methods to lay interference is one of these impossibilities.

Are we teaching our young men and women to think beyond the scenes that they should know in order to remedy evils and to make intelligent part in social planning? Are we training them in self-direction? Are we in the habit of making out rose-colored glasses to those with which to view the present quo. We are handing out to them meaningless shepherdizing and dishing them with a nice paternal pat on the head, "Now you are educated; go forth and carry on the traditions of which we are so proud." Are we sure to which we say, "Now, you are as ignorant as when you entered." Are we sure that we have cut created by your forefathers for your forefathers' needs don't by no means fit everything which would make you want to get yourself and society out of the mire, and in order won't bear close scrutiny in the light of the ideals which we wish kept from your innocent eyes?

I have said that the evolution and progress of education is slow. I am sure that it is not necessary that there is some progress but it is of such a nature that it does not seem to keep up with an ever-changing society. Thus we must constantly be on the alert that revolutionary changes in our education and the rate of change do not keep pace with the times.

We must orient and re-orient the mind and on-coming generations concerning the vital phases of the times in which they may ever strive towards an ever-growing ideal.

This orientation cannot be accomplished without absolute freedom of expression within and without the classroom, I do not mean that the instructor should be taught to tear down all that has been built up. Only learn progress is attained by adding to such measures. But if colleges accept educating this generation by emphasizing as their underlying philosophy the ideal of education for blind maintenance of the status quo, then education might outrun the progress and civilization might progress.

Organist Guild Elects New Officers for Year

New members of the American Guild of Organists were recently tapped and at a recent meeting officers were elected. New members are Lois Bowen, Chalmette O'Steen, Esther O'Byrne, Mary Lee Wheeler and Evelyn Barton.

New officers are Margaret Whitney Dow, dean; Walter Rust Cooper, sub-dean; Jessica Jane Mackey, secretary; Frederick Gehan, Jr., treasurer.

YWCA Sponsors Services Led By W. Hargrave

"Christ Universal" Will Be Theme of Cocoa Minister's Talk

SERVICE TO BEGIN AT ELEVEN-THIRTY

Address Second in Series Of Church Programs On This Campus

Reverend William L Hargrave of St. Mark's Episcopal church in Cocoa will conduct the service and in the series of church services sponsored by the Young Women's Christian Association this Sunday at 11:30 in the college auditorium.

Dr. Hargrave's address which will be on "Christ Universal" is a part of the project sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. in which church services are held every month on the campus. This Sunday's service will be in charge of Janice Borton, newly-elected president of the organization and the music will be arranged by Sara Herndon.

Follows Up Week

Dr. Hargrave's talk is a follow up of religious emphasis week during which Dr. Poteat addressed the students on a series of lectures. Members o fthe Y. W. C. A. elected cabinet will serve as ushers and 'n the choir.

Reverend Hargrave. during his

Continued on page four

Changes Affect Light Cuts And Class Program

Revised System and New Schedule is Tried This Year

Several changes are underway at the Florida State college. Two of these changes have already been made and include having Saturday morning classes next year and an unlimited time for extra-classwork. Also, longer lights on after light flash.

According to President Edward Conrad and Mr. Simeon B. Doyle, registrar, it has definitely been decided that Saturday will be a day morning classes beginning in the fall of this year. However there will not be any classes after 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon on Saturday. Also, the new schedule will have classes that will meet on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday and those which will be held on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday. The program is scheduled in this way so that classes will not fall on the same hour each day for convenience the student in her studying. Mr. Doyle stated that it is probable for next year's classes is being arranged now and should be completed by next week.

A committee has also been appointed to study a social system for next year. Since grades are not going to be issued on the basis of the honor system, completely revise the present system. The new system is expected to be ready in about three weeks.

The new lights on the campus are already gone into effect. Upperclassmen are permitted to leave their lights on for one hour and a half with after light flash. The only thing they are asked to do is to place in the house chairman's box a slip of paper telling how long the lights were on. This slip is being done for the purpose of checking up on the college light bill.

Dr. Marion Hay Speaks At Honorary Gathering

Phi Alpha Theta, national history honorary, met Thursday, April 16, in the home of Dr. Annie M. Popper, professor of history.

The meeting was presided over by Anna Mae Mitchell. The program for the evening included a talk by Dr. Marion Hay, professor of education, relating some of her experiences in Spain during the Spanish revolution.

Attending the meeting were Anna Marie Mitchell, Daisy Parker, Rosalind Parker, Lucy Lee Linn, Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, Dr. Venita Shores, Dr. Annie M. Popper, Miss Florence Tyron, Dr. Robert S. Cotterll, Professor Arthur Williams, and Dr. Dorothy Dodd.

Mortar Board Will Select New Members

Incoming Torchbearers To Be Chosen From Junior Class

Symbolic torches will again glow in the traditional tapping ceremony of Mortar Board, senior honorary organization, which will be held in the college auditorium Tuesday evening.

This ceremony is one of the impressive events of the college year. In the hushed silence of the darkened auditorium will sit the members of the junior class. They will be dressed in white, which each girl dressed in white. With eagerness the student body will watch the tapping of the new members.

The officers of Mortar Board this year are, Murse Reddick, president; Sara Hutchison, vice-president; Mary Etta Thistlethwaite, secretary; Betty Meyer, treasurer, and Lillian Turlington, historian.

Student members are, Katherine Blood, Minna Dunn, Margaret Graham, Elizabeth Hamilton, Gertrude Kuhn, Dorothy Lasch, Lucy Gee Linn, Betty Meyer, Ruth Persons, Murse Reddick, Mary Etta Thistlethwaite, Lillian Turlington, and Edith Webb.

The Torchbearers, the local chapter of Mortar Board, was organized on this campus in 1925 and was installed a member of the national organization of Mortar Board in the fall of 1931. Only five, nor more than twenty students may be elected for membership each year.

The entrance qualifications are service, scholarship, and leadership. The standard required is eighty-five who have completed their junior year at the time of election in the fall term, are elected by a unanimous vote of the chapter, and whose scholarship standard is three points above the next succeeding campus average; a standard based upon the average of all the terms preceding election.

The purpose of Mortar Board is to provide for cooperation between the outstanding senior and junior women, to promote a college loyalty, to advance a spirit of service and fellowship among university women, to maintain a high standard of scholarship and to recognize and encourage leadership, and to stimulate and develop a finer type of college women.

Students to Aid At Rotary Meet

Daughters Will Conduct Tour of College For Visitors

Students of Florida State college for Women will entertain Rotarians will take part in the state convention of Rotary clubs being held in Tallahassee today, Saturday and Tuesday.

"Rotary Ambassadors" will conduct Rotarians and their wives on a tour of the campus at 9:30 o'clock to a Jennie Murphree Hall tea, sponsored by Kitty Blood and her Mortar Board sisters, who have been asked to meet in front of Bryan Simpson Memorial.

That noon a luncheon for the "Rotary Anns," as the wives of Rotarians are known, will be given in the college dining hall, and Rotarians have been invited. A banquet for the district governor, Alfred Gertrude Gleason, earlier will be held that night in the college dining hall at 9 o'clock with all Rotarians and their wives invited.

The music program for the fellowship dinner scheduled Sunday night at the Florida hotel will be furnished by college students. C. O. Kellum, business manager, is in charge of entertainment for the convention.

"Rotary daughters" at the college are Lucy Anderson, Helen Ayala, Jane Craig, Martha Edwards, Ann Gaines, Leary K. Mickler, Mary Irene McKay, Sara Tillman, Margaret Vance, Peggy Van Dyke, Virginia White, Ann Bayly, Marion E. Mason, Lelia Bulger, Doris P. Godard, Roberta Cammon, Marjorie Pain, Sara Moor, Dorothy Rickard, Frances Porth, Penion Woodward, Margaret McCall, Harriett Lawrence

Continued on page two

Third Quarter High Averages Show Decrease

Two Hundred Sixty-Four Make Approbation This Time

SENIOR CLASS IS BEST REPRESENTED

Cabaniss, Douglas, Jones, Harper Have Highest Grade Average

Two hundred and sixty-four students made approbation this quarter, a decrease of twenty-one from the semester.

The senior class again leads with eighty-one students; making "B" or better in all work, while the sophomore class faces second with sixty-three students, the freshman class with fifty-six, followed by the junior class which had forty-four students. Twenty-one special students were also on approbation according to the list issued from the office of S. R. Doyle, registrar.

Freshmen Lead

Four freshmen taking the lead in the highest grades, each making sixteen hours of "A." are Petrea L. Cabaniss, Mary Ann Douglas, Katherine E. Harper and Jamie Louise Jones. All four of these students are in the school of Arts and Science.

Two sophomores tie for second honor with 15 hours of "A." Mary Elizabeth Osteman in the School of Education and Dorothy Hill M. Jinks in the College of Arts and Sciences. Miss Osteman is a junior in the School of Education, made 14 hours of "A."

Seniors on Approbation

Seniors making approbation are: Arminta Elizabeth Akin, Margaret Ann Bailey, Virginia Baggett, Elizabeth H. Beach, Mary Blake Bennett, Richarda Marie Bond, Mary Evangeline Carson, Virginia Gardner Cleveland, Anne Cochran, Anne Curtright, Elise Dancy Davis, Esther Helen Davis, Ruth Elisabeth Dickson, Mary Elizabeth Dodin, Mary Frances Dunn, Minnie Lee Dunn, Mildred Elizabeth Emmelhainz, Betty Fellows, Martha Elizabeth Forsyth, Mary Ruth Fowler, Smith, Clarisse M Knight, Sara Kreinsman, Gertrude Kuhn, Mary Frances Lawhon, Opal Irene Langley, Tulita Ploy Lesser, Cecile Louise Lewis, Mildred Belle Linger, Lucy Gee Linn, Ruth Lockwood, Mary Elizabeth Cole Marchetta, Mary E Marshall, Sarah Irene Martin, Mary Ann Mason, Laura Matilda Doris McKenzie, Ethel Minteer, Ruth Mock, Edna Adams Moor, Dorothy Bell Palmer, Rosalind Parker, Mary Frances Patterson, Dorothy Fay Peterson, Alice R. Porter, Dorothy Pure, Martha M. Reid, Lorena Rowland

Continued on page two

Safety Committee Announces Contest

The governor's committee on public safety is offering a prize of $20.00 for the best essay on theh subject "How to Make the Streets and Highways of Florida Safe for Motorists and Pedestrians." Any student of the college is eligible to enter this contest, which will close May 12. The essay should not exceed 1500 words in length, and the manuscript should be typewritten. The essays will be judged by a committee from the college faculty, to be appointed later. Manuscripts should be left in the office of Miss Jessie McNeill, secretary to President Conradi.

Phi Kappa Phi Bids 24 Girls

Members May Be Chosen From Any College Department

Phi Kappa Phi, general honorary scholastic fraternity, has issued bids to twenty-four coeds at Florida State College for Women.

Only seniors in the upper ten per cent of their class, making better than a "B" average, are eligible for membership. Members can be selected from any of the college departments including the schools of arts and sciences, school of music, school of home economics, and the graduate school.

Invitations to join Phi Kappa Phi were issued by Mary Blake, seniors, Mary Bennet, Elise Davis, Ruth Dickson, Irene Hainowitz, Laura Mathis, Katherine Blood, Virginia Carr, Virginia Cromartie, Frances Younger, Elva Lee Crosland, Minnie Dunn, Anna Grower, Rebecca Hudson, and Lucy Gee Linn, Charlotte Kinzie, Clarissa Knight, Sara Kreinsman, Alice Wallace, and Lillian Turlington.

Recently elected officers for the fraternity are president, Miss Florence Tyson, vice-president, Dr. Dorothy Dodd, secretary, Miss Margaret Campbell; treasurer, Miss Mary Elizabeth Osteman, correspondent, Mrs. Eleanor McBride.

Plans for the public initiation service will be announced in the near future, according to Miss Tyson.

Kathleen Robinson Is Made New President Classical Club Tuesday

Kathleen Robinson was elected president of the Classical club at a business meeting Tuesday, April 14.

Hedy Walker was chosen vice president; Marcia Smith, secretary; Hazel Viertel, treasurer; Kathleen Robinson, chairman of the bulletin board; Jiadys Ware, co-chairman; Twilah Taylor, publicity director.

Outgoing officers of the club are Lillian Thrasher, president; Ruth McAnlly, vice president; Mary Elizabeth Osteman, secretary; Elizabeth Weatherly, treasurer; Julia Vanderipe, publicity director.

Conventions Claim Attention Of FSC Students And Faculty

Delegates Participate In Programs; Are Chosen For Office

Conventions throughout the country from Detroit to Miami, and from Boston to Seattle claim many of students and faculty during the past few weeks. Several members of the faculty and a large part of the student body were elected to office or had a number included on their programs.

J. O. Kellum, business manager of the college, was elected president of the Association of University and College Business Managers of the Southern States at a meeting held recently in Rock Hill, S. C. Mr. Kellum served as vice-president of the association last year and has been a member of the board of directors for a number of years. The association, which the college business manager heads includes all the southern states east of the Mississippi river.

Dorman Is Elected

Dr. Olivia Dorman, dean of students and head of the classics department at the college, returned last week from Cleveland, Ohio, where she was re-elected vice-president for Florida of the Classical Association of the Middle West and South. At head of the Florida delegation, Dean Dorman reported to the convention body that Florida showed a large percentage of membership increase within the past year, West Virginia coming next.

While Dr. Coyle E. Moore, member of the sociology faculty, was attending the Southern Sociological society meeting April 9 and 10 in Atlanta he was elected president of the Florida Conference of Social Work at a meeting in Daytona Beach. Miss Flavia Gleason, state home demonstration agent, was named secretary of the conference, as was Miss Burdine McClellan, Pensacola, a graduate of this college in 1928.

Mary Jeanne McKay, chairman of the local branch of NSFA and president of the College Government association, was recently elected chairman of the women's division of the southern and

Continued on page two

Activities For May Day Fete Are Announced

Identity of Queen, Maids Will Be Kept Secret Until Ceremony

BREAKFAST TO BE SATURDAY MORN

Florida Glee Club Will Give Presentation In Auditorium

Following a Florida State college tradition, the May Queen will be crowned next Saturday, May 2, in the open air theater which will form a Robin Hood setting for this year's fete.

Besides the important events will also take place that day on the campus. The annual sophomore-senior breakfast at which the sophomores entertain members of the senior class will take place early Saturday morning. That evening the University of Florida Glee club will give a concert in the auditorium.

Queen and Maids

Identity of the queen and the fifteen maids in her court will be kept a secret until the actual ceremony. The principals for the May festival were chosen recently by a student vote.

Speaking parts in the festival will be filled by Mary Stevens, as Robin Hood; Barbara Hendry, Little John; Mary Lou Gray Stevens, Sir Harold; Marian Conn, as "the shadow of a lark"; Helen Hand; Lirlande Beverly Watson, and Janet Cook, king's two messengers, and Katherine Preil, Will Scarlett. In addition to the cast, the fete will include elfin sixteen of Robin Hood's men, twenty-four country folk and twenty-four archers who also will dance.

Here's Da'rwin

General chairman of the May event is Jean Lykes. Ann Bayley and Phil Asher are assistant chairmen Heads of committees include Betty Lou Allen who will also edit Eileen Robinson.

Hilda Spradlin, newly elected president of next year's junior class, is in charge of the breakfast. Committee chairmen assisting her are Viola Brooks, entertainment; Dorothy Linn, programs; Louise Gehan, decorations; Margaret Stout, favors, and Betty Cantland, tickets.

Three Classes Elect Officers

Miller, Spradlin, Tilden Are New Presidents

Mary Miller, Hilda Spradlin, and Anne Tilden were elected to fill the presidencies of next year's senior, junior, and sophomore classes respectively in the recent run-off elections.

Senior officers who will work under Mary Miller, who was president of the junior class this year, will be, vice-president, Peggy McCrimmon; secretary, Betty Hatch; treasurer, Betty Mack; parliamentarian, Anne Norris; chairman of invitations for graduation, Edith Manford, representatives to the student senate, Ann Sasse and Martha Baker; chairman of senior breakfast, Ann Sasse; chairman of prom, Ruth Sadler, athletic manager, Winona Ireland, chairman of Senior Demonstration, Marjorie Tillis.

The newly elected junior officers include, vice-president, Polly Eveleth; secretary, Mary Nell Hutchinson; treasurer, Mary Burt Nunnin; parliamentarian, Helen Baggott; representatives to the senate, Frances Lewis and Eileen Robinson; athletic manager, Viola Brooks; chairman of Even Demonstration, Phil Asher; chairman of junior breakfast, Marjorie Jones, cheer leaders, Sallie Burt Nunnin and Peggy Hand. This group of officers replace one headed during their sophomore year by Mary Conn.

From among the sophomore the following officers were elected to serve under Anne Tilden, president; vice-president, Helen Baker; secretary, Betty Hatch; treasurer, Jean Gilles; parliamentarian, Elnor Trott; athletic manager, Dorothy Marwick; representatives to the Student senate, Betty Skinner and Dorothy Borders. Jean Gilles elected treasurer, served this year as the president of the class.

All officers will assume their duties immediately.

Cotillion Club Elects Officers

Tharin Named President Asher and Parramore Also Honored

The Cotillion Club elected officers for the coming year at a recent meeting. Those chosen are: June Tharin, president; Phil Asher, corresponding secretary; Lilla Parramore, secretary-treasurer.

Other members are Helen Miller, Virginia Peyton, Dorothy Watson, Nina Kirkland, Elizabeth Finn, Mary Jane Michael, Augusta Yuri, June Maule, Emilia Mae Lockwood, Mildred Emesthaler, Nell Foley Webb, Dorothy Batt, Ann Mixed, Eva Fowler, Dorothy Cleveland, Ellen Richards, Sally Wells, Marion Heger, Mary Frances Hales, Martha Hoses, Sara Mae Davis, Tommy Grace Patterson, Edna Mae Edwards, Jane Crook, and Jere Crook.

At this meeting plans were made for the dance to be given in honor of the University's of Florida give club which will give the annual concert here in connection with the May Day festivities on May 2.

Conventions Claim Students' Attention

Continued from page one

southeastern NSFA of the 1935-1937 term. Mary Jeanne is the first candidate to fill this position although she was appointed by the National NSFA to take charge of the women's division during the Memphis convention.

Mary Jeanne says that a complete survey of student problems was made including: the honor system, political set-ups, extracurricular activities, over-organization problems, form technique and social problems in relation to student government.

To Meet This Week-end

There are a number, of conventions scheduled for this week-end. Dr. Graham heads a delegation of students to the annual meeting of the Florida Student Government association, of which she is president, meeting in Miami today and tomorrow. The meeting is scheduled at the University of Miami at the same time of the Florida Intercollegiate Press association meeting. Among other Florida State college students expected to attend the press meeting are Eleanor Williams and Althea Smith, from the Flambeau, Sara Kreminas, Dorothy Parker and Aima Butler, from the Distaff Side, Wynderge and Frances Forth, from the Flastacova.

Dr. William G. Dodd, dean of the college of arts and sciences, Dr. Herman Kurz, head of the zoology department, and Registrar S. B. Doyle, are scheduled on the program of the meeting of the Florida Association of Colleges and Universities today at Rollins college. Winter Park. Registrar Doyle is vice-president of the association. Among those attending are Dr. Marion Hay, associate professor of education.

Dean Ella Scobie Opperman of the school of music is serving as chairman of judges at the state

DUKE UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL OF NURSING
DURHAM, N. C.

The Diploma of Graduate Nurse is awarded after three years and the Degree of Bachelor of Science in Nursing for two additional years of approved college work before or after this nursing course. The entrance requirements are similar, entrance, character and graduation from an acceptable high school; preference is given for one or more years of successful college work. The tuition is $100 per year which includes all cost of maintenance, uniforms, etc.

Catalogues and application forms which must be filed before August first for admission September thirtieth, may be obtained from the Dean.

Students Asked To Use Side Entrances

Miss Anna May Tracy, dietetian, has asked that the east or main door to the dining room be left free Monday noon for the use of visiting Rotary ladies who will be honored at a luncheon at the regular lunch time. Students may come in either the north or south doors, or the door in the lower dining hall.

The banquet for the Rotary convention is to be held in the dining hall Monday night. For this reason dinner will be at 6 o'clock instead of the customary 6:30, Miss Tracy has announced.

Miss Edna Mae McIntosh and Miss Sara Meador, instructors in home economics at the Florida State College for Women, will go to Colquitt, Ga., on Friday, April 24, where they will act as judges of home economics exhibits to be shown by rural schools.

Mrs. Laura Leslie, publicity secretary, and Miss Rachel Pridgeon, assistant publicity secretary of the college, are attending the fourth district meeting of the American College Publicity association today and tomorrow in Macon, Georgia. Mrs Leslie has been invited to take part in the program and will speak on 'State Woman's College and the Press.'

Heinlein Is Chosen

Dr. Christian Paul Heinlein, professor of philosophy and psychology, recently was elected to a three-year term as a member of the executive council of the Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology at the society convention in Atlanta. Other faculty members at the meeting were Dr. Andrew Lowe, head professor of philosophy, who gave a paper; Dr. Dorothy Rose Blumberg, assistant professor of psychology, Mrs. Heinlein also attended the session.

Dr. Liddell, who is president of the Tallahassee branch of the American Association of University Women, attended the convention of the Florida division of the A. U. W. April 17-18 at Miami. She was accompanied by Miss Mary Croom Whitfield of Tallahassee and Dr. Jennie Tilt, professor of physiology and chemistry and nutrition.

Attending the Southern Sociological society meeting April 17 and 18 at Atlanta were Dr Raymond Bellamy, head of the sociology department and Dr. E. Coy Moore. Students who attended were Barbara Hubbard, Edith Taylor, Anne Hall, Peggy Micklefield, Sarah Sealey, Jane Gage and Edna Williams. Dr. Bellamy served as chairman of the resolutions committee and Dr. Moore addressed the joint session of the Southern Sociological society and the Georgia State Conference of Social Workers on the subject, "Emerging Problems of Public Welfare."

Dr Margaret Rector Sandels, dean of the school of home economics, spoke on "Some Nutrition Problems of the South" at the meeting of the Georgia Home Economics association recently in Macon.

Connor Represents F S C

Dr Ruth Connor, associate professor of home economics at Florida State College for Women, was in New Orleans during the week of April 14-18 for the purpose of attending a meeting of the southern regional conference on vocational education. At this meeting, called by the office of education in Washington, Dr. Connor, as the person in charge of training teachers in vocational home economics, was the representative from F. S. C. W.

On Saturday there was a special conference on graduate work in home economics, at which time the plan of graduate work now in use at F. S. C. W. was discussed and made the subject of much favorable comment.

Registrar S. B. Doyle was in Detroit recently to be present at the meeting of the National Association of Collegiate Registrars which convened from April 14 to 16.

Dr. R. B. Parsons, superintendent of the demonstration school, was recently elected to membership in the American Educational Research association. Membership in this organization is limited to persons who have done significant work in educational research and is by invitation. He attended a few weeks ago the annual meeting of the Tennessee Valley association at Vanderbilt university. Dr. Parsons who was the main speaker had as his subject "The Relation of Teacher Education to the General Program of Higher Education in Tennessee." His paper was based upon a study of teacher education he made in 1933 and 1934 in Tennessee. Dr. Parsons also is the author of several articles published in the last few months in such educational magazines as the Tennessee Teacher, the Peabody Journal of Education, the School Review, and the Elementary School Journal.

Early in the month H. D. Mendenhall, resident engineer of the college, attended the twentieth annual meeting of the Florida Engineering society in Daytona Beach. Mendenhall, who has served as treasurer of the society for the past year, has attended every annual meeting of the organization since it was founded, with the exception of the two meetings held when he was in France during the World war. He also has the distinction of holding an office in the Florida Engineering society every year except when overseas. He was toastmaster at the annual dinner,

Student Senate Picks Chairmen

Delegates Are Chosen To Attend Meeting In Miami

Student senate elected the chairmen of standing committees and chose delegates to attend a meeting of the Florida College Government association in Miami this week-end, at meetings on Monday and Wednesday.

Committee chairmen include Mary Kathryn Gibson, social committee; Lucile Usher, semi-formal committee; Jeannette Annis, auditing committee; Marjorie Horton, extra-curricular; Jo Smith, and Frances Nell Colvin, handbook committee; Thad Ellen Fleming, budget committee.

Mary Jeanne McKay and Marcia Masterson were chosen as official delegates to the college government association, which is to be in session April 24 and 25.

Other delegates elected to go to Miami are Mary Frances Hales, Mare Taylor, Sue Whitaker, Mary Jeanne Jo Bunce, and Dorothy Bellamy.

Third Quarter High Marks Show Decrease

Continued from page one

dick, Marie Reddick, Joyce Reeves, Edith Richardson, Mary Lena Scott, Helen F. Shepard, Lucille J. Smith, Miriam R. Stein, Elizabeth Stuart, Mary Tull, Mary Rita Thistlethwaite, Ruth Valentine, Lillian Thomas Vaughan, Wynn Tuten, Grace Mary Webster, Nancy L. Williams and Mary Lou Young.

Junior List

Juniors are: Josephine M. Bingon, Hazel Lois Bowman, Mary Draper Burgson, Alma Dell Cobb, Mary Jane Cochran, Roberta Carson, Helen Dorothy Cate, Jean Valera Dudley, Lettie M. Clark, Olive Kay Dame, Margaret E. Denson, Ruth Early, Sarah Sylvia Everett, Frances Forth, Ellen Miriam Frye, Rosemmary H. Hamlin, Mary J. Hudson, Ruth Dorothy Margaret James, Mary Roberts Jones, Louise Mabry Jones, Little Alma Lester, Mary O. McGunagle, Grace Eleanor McKee, Mary Jeanne McNeill, Mabel Margaret Neff, Annawilda Norris, Bernice Nixon, Florence Mayfield, Pearle Overholtz, Ethel B. Pacheco, Daisy Parker, Mary Ola Reynolds, Miriam Ruth Sadler, Anne B. Sams, Hazel A. Sangster, Mary Elizabeth Simpson, Mary Bowman Smith, Bonnivere Tonnelier, Bernice Thurman, Dorothy Anna Von Dohlen, Maxine Ward and Frank Martha Widman.

Sophomores

Sophomores who made aprobation are: Virginia Elsie Andrews, Phil Asher, Frances Evelyn Baldwin, Dorothy Edith Barclay, Helen Sarah Bellamy, Ruth I. Bass, Judith Bell, Dorothy E. Bellamy, Ella Mae Bennett, Bernice Boyd Brown, Constance Brown, Mary Louise Bryan, Lillian Burford, Charlotte

STUDENTS ARE HONORED HERE

Continued from page one

dones of physics, chemistry, mathematics and similar subjects "Real chemistry," he said, "would give each individual equal opportunities to develop his peculiar capacities and powers of mind to the utmost, even though one individual might have one talent, another five talents and still another ten talents.

In referring to the students now in college, Dr. Tigert said that many do not have "a passion for learning or for scholastic or intellectual things" "We are beset," he said "by utilitarians, academic free-sitters, time-servers, socialclimbers, athletic aspirants, and others who have no place in the program dedicated to intellectual emancipation."

In the initiation ceremony students made new members were Katherine Brown, Mary Richmond, Sara Krentzman, Laura Mathis, Valerie Stubbs, Lillian Turlington and Wylma Terbush. At the reception members of various honoraries on the campus and members of the faculty were invited to attend.

Carlton, Isabel Elizabeth Clarke, Lillian Jean Collier, Janet Welch Cook, Kitty Mae Craney, Evelyn Fisher, Jean Gale, Louise Bradford Gehan, Phyllis Gerrin, Rita Gillelyen, Evelyn Glarier, Annette M. Harris, Mariam Harrold, Mollie B. Holden, Marjorie Durr Horton, Edith Huddleston, Kathleen Hughes, Eleanor Hutchison, Elizabeth H. Jinks, Ethel Orem Jones, Elizabeth L. Knapp, Nellie Lanar, Martha Jackson Lester, Mary Virginia Lopes, M. Charmian Lufburrow, Dorothea E. Mann, Betty Anne McKenzie, Mona Virginia McLean, Geraldine E. Meyers, Daryeen Morrell, Sara McCarley Nance, Geneva Ellen Nelson, Virginia W. Northcutt, Betty Cleland Gennelle Wren Perry, Mary M. Pfeiffer, Virginia Bell Phillips, Elizabeth A. Pierce, Ruth Prather, Jane Rice, Rachel Rothstein, Rose B. Safer, Donna Isabelle Sands, Margaret L. Schmidle, Sara Elizabeth Shaw, Margarite Shannon, Marcia Wallace Smith, Marianna

Editor of Distaff Wins Five Dollar Prize For Best Prose Contribution

Daisy Parker, associate editor of the Distaff for this year and editor for next year, has been awarded the five-dollar Distaff prize for her article, "A New Pan-American Creeping Out?" which was chosen as the best prose contribution in the April issue of the college magazine.

Honorable mention went to "The Modern Student Seeks a Religion" by Bernice Allen and to "Return" by Patricia Green.

Judges of the articles were, chairman, Dr. Velda Rhyne, professor of history, Dr. William G. Dodd, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and Miss Louise Richardson, librarian.

Deadline for the May issue of the Distaff has been set for May 1.

Swank, Jean Tilden, and Barbara Thompson.

From Freshman Class

Freshmen are: Betty Ashler, Evelyn Mae Anderson, Julia Ashton, Victoria Bickow, Elizabeth A. Blalock, Margaret E. Bolster, Elaine Sybie Britt, Petrea E. Cabanias, Betty Virginia Cashen, Marie Castellano, Frances Nell Colvin, Fay Lastie Corey, Wilton Virginia Crosby, Mary Frances Dancy, Lelia Marie Davis, Frances Mae Douglas, Mary M. Eudon, Winifred J. Ewart, Amanda Elizabeth Finch, Roberta C. Gammon, Eugenia Glass, Florence Gross, Katherine E. Harper, Betty Harrison, Helen Betty Hatch, Lucille Hazelton, Winifred Hill, Elsiee V. Horchell, Sarah Frances Howell, Jamie Louise Jones, Charlotte J. Kamper, Gail A. Kinsey, Ann Seymour Knight, Mabel Laura Lanier, Dawn Catherine Latham, Janet B. Lockwood, Ida Elizabeth Mann, Mary Lewis Manning, Beulah Peral Mitchell, Dorothy May Mosnar, Jean Alena Nash, Mary Elizabeth Orriman, Mary Elsie Pemberton, Marion L. Purviance Carol Leona Ramage, Elsie Moore Renfroe, Mandy Adele Ribley, Frederica O. Roberts, Mabel E. Rogers, Mildred Rose, Ruth Rubin, Shirley Scrven, Audrey Marie Swilley, Florence Wagner, Mary Cornally Wallis, Nedley Woodham, and Jean Adele Zacharias.

Speech Students To Present Play

"Ladies in Waiting" Will Be Given May 7, 8

"Ladies In Waiting," by Cyril Campion, the last major production of the year, will be presented by the Speech department on May 7, 8 in the Augusta Conradi Little theater.

This play is the center of interest on campus at present for several reasons. Primarily, it is a mystery play: real crime is committed, a real Sherlock Holmes on the crime. Moreover, this play was given recently with great success at Northwestern university with Doris Terrill, an F. S. C. W. graduate, taking part in the production. It has also been given successfully in the Tampa Little theater with Beacher McKay, a former student of Florida State, and Mary Jeanne McKay in leading roles.

The Speech department is under the direction of Kemper Martin sdcore, includes Ruth Mock, Sara Moses, Mary Stanton, Betty Peek, Betty Sweet Smith, Frances Linder, Vivian Marshall, Louise Schwarderer, Ida Larkin.

The committees for the production include: Sally Bass, stage manager; Betty Boggs, business manager; and other members of the Speech department. Tickets will be on sale next week, and may be secured from any member of the department.

Students to Aid At Rotary Meet

Continued from page one

Ethel Grasfield, May B. Ingle, Mary Halstead, Ann Armstrong, Pearle Shepard, Elizabeth Carter, Martha Hayes, Claudia Sheffield, Timberlake, Elizabeth Whidden, Clarrella O'Neen, Mary Wing, and Augusta Yuri.

Prizes Will Be Awarded For Poems Heretofore Unpublished in Books

Student poets of Florida State college will be interested in the Poe Memorial edition of Poems which is to be a compilation of unpublished poetry in the form of an elaborate anthology. Poems of more than two thousand contemporary poets will appear in this first edition. The contents will be selected from manuscripts by contributors whose work has been approved.

Prizes will be awarded as follows: $250 for the most original verse; $150 for the most original sonnet; and $100 for the most original quatrain. Only poems heretofore unpublished in book form, and preferably not over twenty-four lines in length, will be considered. All manuscripts must be typewritten and accompanied with a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and must be received by the editor on or before April 30, 1936, according to D. Wilford Poe, managing editor. The publisher is Carlyle Straub, 722 W Van Buren St., Chicago.

State Theater to Show TVA Movie on Saturday

A four-reel movie will be shown at the State theater Saturday, showing the activities of the Tennessee Valley Authority at ten o'clock Saturday morning. The picture shows all the work of blasting building dams, putting in power plants, work in flood control, soil erosion, building model homes, and all other phases of the project.

Daisy Parker Receives Unusual Commendation

Daisy Parker, junior at Florida State College, received both commendation recently for a composition titled "Florida and the Constitutional Democracy," which was considered markable as the work of a college girl.

This paper was read by Mortimer G Bailey at the annual meeting of the United Daughters of the Confederacy in Memphis, Tennessee. It was written by Daisy from notes which she had used in a talk given for the Jackson chapter of Tallahassee Mrs. W. G. Brockenbrough read the article for Sarah Law Lockhart through the courtesy of Dr. S. Cotterill of the department of history.

YW Sponsors Services Led by W. Hargrave

Continued from page one

four years of service in Cocoa, he has been active in civic affairs. At the present time he is president of the Kiwanis club of Cocoa, Scoutmaster of the Boy Scout troop, treasurer of the North Brevard county chapter of Red Cross, and director of the Cocoa Chamber of Commerce. Reverend Hargrava is active in the Worla Program of Education as a member of the Advisory Committee of Education. He has also been appointed county chaplain of Camp Winnegrann for the year of 1936.

Graduated from Law School

Reverend Hargrave graduated from the Atlanta Law school which time he was admitted to the Georgia bar. His extensive formal education was continued when he attended Morehouse college, Morristown college, Tennessee, Emory university, Atlanta, Georgia, and the Virginia Theological Seminary, Alexandria, Virginia. Degrees of Bachelor of Law and Bachelor of Divinity have been conferred on him.

STATE THEATRE
—FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—
WARNER BAXTER
in
"ROBIN HOOD OF EL DORADO"
—SUNDAY AND MONDAY—
GARY COOPER
in
"MR. DEED GOES TO TOWN"
—TUESDAY—
"SNOWED UNDER"
with
GEORGE BRENT
—WEDNESDAY—
James Dunn and Sally Eilers
in
"DON'T GET PERSONAL"
—THURSDAY—
"I MARRIED A DOCTOR"
with
Pat O'Brien - Josephine Hutchinson

ADAMS' STUDIO
"Photographs that Please"
121 E. College Ave. Phone 197

FOR DIGESTION'S SAKE SMOKE CAMELS

HARD GOING! In the contest you'll put an added burden on digestion. Smoking Camels counteracts this—restores your powers—and definitely promotes good digestion.

Smoking Camels a Pleasant Way to Encourage and Aid Digestion

Hurry, worry, and strain tend to interfere with normal processes of digestion — actually slow up the flow of the digestive fluids.

It is a scientific fact that smoking Camels helps to keep digestion active, its proper course, through restoring and increasing the flow of the fluids necessary to good digestion. Dine well! Smoke a Camel!

You sense a comforting "lift," a feeling of well-being, as you enjoy the delicate fragrance of your Camel.

Camels open a new world of pleasure, where mildness and rare flavor reign supreme.

You can smoke Camels steadily. They never get on your nerves or tire your taste. Camels set you right!

A RARE PLEASURE. Leisurely diners enjoying the continental cuisine at Jacques French Restaurant, nationally famous café in Chicago. Here soft lights and impeccable service give the perfect setting for such dishes as Baked Oysters à la Jacques and other specialties of the house. And Camels add the final touch to dining. "Camels are most popular here," Jacques himself observes. "They are clearly the favorite with those who know fine living."

TUNE IN!
CAMEL CARAVAN WITH WALTER O'KEEFE
DRANE JANES • TED HUSING
GLEN GRAY AND THE CASA LOMA ORCHESTRA
Tuesday and Thursday—
9 p.m. E.S.T., 8 p.m. C.S.T.,
7 p.m. M.S.T.,
6:30 p.m. P.S.T.—over
WABC-Columbia Network

THE WINNER! Kelly Petillo, first in the Indianapolis Classic, drives 500 miles during and after meals goes a long way in helping to keep digestion in good shape."

THE FLARE of the welding arc climbs to a temperature of 3700° Dan Rafferty, master welder, says: "Smoking Camels during and after meals helps my digestion."

COSTLIER TOBACCOS
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

CAMEL

Copyright, 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tob. Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Sport Squints

By "FLIP" TURNER

It was a battle of psychology, as well when Wynn Thomas served with Dr. Paul Finner played Marjorie Horton and Dr. C. P. Heinlein the finals of the student-faculty tennis tournament recently.

Following the normal probability curve the match wound down to each team took a set. In the third set the Horton-Heinlein pulled up a considerable lead of probable error and finally a decided increase in variability.

The match turned into a "ripping" good exhibition of match play. Heinlein went hide a loop to the net and had to resort to battle to his demise for main trousers confetty pins kindly by spectators were repaired.

He returned but the Indian Finner and Finner team came through the last points to win the championship.

It mattered declinations concerning sleep in, and if unmarried man is not taken by the powers of the country through the American Olympic committee, the United States for the first time accordingly will fail to take part in a medicare showbut at the 1936 Olympic schedulded to be held at Berlin in August 1936.

Word comes that the outstanding intercollegiate basketball teams of New York University, Notre Dame and Long Island University have received the invitation to compete in the eliminations to determine which team of protest arose from the Hotches of Cornell, Columbia and Vassar when it was learned that there was a possibility of Germany's invitation being already arranged to the detriment of the Olympic ideal these colleges rescind their invitation to play basketball games in the British Isles, where the universities of Birmingham and Cambridge and Oxford alone have declined to participate in the Middle Atlantic Heidelberg University. The government as a result has also withdrawn invitation to all English universities to play basketball games at home at all schools in the domain.—Tulane Hullabaloo.

Miss Dot Coburn's barrier performance in the 100 yd. water sports day tomorrow at Camp Flaschow. There was going to be a little number by Kyaks—the president of the association versus the president of the Pi club. Sign up to take on the truck now.

Dr. James A Naismith, seventy-four old inventor of basketball, raised the game only twice in life.—Associated Collegiate Press.

Just about the only extra-curricular sport about which there is difficulty getting a team to come out for is coin bobbing—and basketball as once did a European severion, are vieing for more in the sun.

Definite and final discontinuance of football as a major college sport has been announced by Lyle Bullock, athletic director in what some observers believe to be a significant straw vote, indicative perhaps of the gradual abandonment by all colleges.

Secrecy usually spells the "football squad," said Prof. Irwin Brown in explanation of the secrecy that will instead be reverted to in the spring practice. It is a prudent body and faculty of university, as well as a most select student body of any academic program.

In addition senior has been a topic of discussion for the past year the Board of Trustees decided that it would be better to provide recreation as facilities for the student body as a whole instead of continuing football as a very expensive form of athletics. From these innovations, a greater number will derive a more important educational and physical benefit.

All 1936 football games were called.

The university administration has found in will of a majority of Baltimore students when it says the step, and an editorial in Baltimore weekly paper. Indeed intramural facilities and emphasis on tennis and baseball is expected to offset the loss of football for most of the students.—Associated Collegiate Press.

There is nothing like strong drink to whet up to the thrill of the dry, record-holding watch.

Athletic Heads Are Installed

Banquet for Incoming, Outgoing Officers Precedes Rites

Beth Deane was formally installed as president of the athletic association in the traditional ceremony held in convocation Tuesday morning. Rose Panowski, retiring president, received the emblem and pledged the new officers, officially turning over her office at that time.

Felicia West was installed as vice president, Marjorie Horton as secretary, Ruth Lytle as treasurer, and Marion Weeks as permanent manager.

Incorporated in the ceremony Rose reviewed the purpose of the organization, which is, in brief, to promote the spirit of democracy, good sportsmanship, cooperation and high physical efficiency through wholesome recreational activities.

Beth Deane and Hazel Wetzel have been coaching and managing the two teams for the past two weeks and the close rivalry in evidence are each pitching for their team in the contest this afternoon.

The rest of the line-up will be: Jane Tombaugh, catcher, Cecil Evelyn Glasier first base; Hazel Hardin second base; Mel Emmethalin, short stop; Beth Deane, third base; Felicia West, right field; Rose Panowski, left field; Marjorie Beckery, center field. Substitutes will be Caroline Ahlon, Mildred Emmethaler, Ruth Thill, Louise Gehan and Marguerite Kinsey.

The line-up for the Odds includes: Ruth Barrington, catcher; Mary Palmer, second base; Johanna Kamaya, pitcher; Valerie Hunt, third base; Bunny Lowery, left field; Ruth Wynn Thomas, center field, and Dorothy Molnar, right field. Substitutes will include Marion Weeks, Ruth Wynn Thomas, Dot Kamiya, Beth Deane, Sarah Lytle, and Janice Borton.

Odds, Evens To Stage Ball War

Freshmen Take Honors In Hard, Active Weeks Of Baseball Practice

The Odd-Even baseball teams will stage a battle of wit and brawn this afternoon at 3:30 when they struggle for supremacy in one of the last Odd-Even contests of this year.

From the ranks of the Odd line-up the freshmen have been walking away with honors during the intramural sports season since there is only one upper classman playing in the starting position.

The sophomores have done little better, showing only one man in the infield and two in the outfield.

The game promises to pull down the house with the honors determined to bow out covered with glory for themselves and the freshmen the spirit of defeat determined to pull out of the red where they have pretty consistently remained this year.

Coach Beth Deane and Hazel Wetzel have been coaching and managing the two teams for the past two weeks and the close rivalry in evidence are each pitching for their team in the contest this afternoon.

The rest of the line-up will be: Jane Tombaugh, catcher, Cecil Evelyn Glasier first base; Hazel Hardin second base; Mel Emmethalin, short stop; Beth Deane, third base; Felicia West, right field; Rose Panowski, left field; Marjorie Beckery, center field. Substitutes will be Caroline Ahlon, Mildred Emmethaler, Ruth Thill, Louise Gehan and Marguerite Kinsey.

The line-up for the Odds includes: Ruth Barrington, catcher; Mary Palmer, second base; Johanna Kamaya, pitcher; Valerie Hunt, third base; Bunny Lowery, left field; Ruth Wynn Thomas, center field, and Dorothy Molnar, right field. Substitutes will include Marion Weeks, Ruth Wynn Thomas, Dot Kamiya, Beth Deane, Sarah Lytle, and Janice Borton.

College Games Are Justified

"Quit hypocrisy and come down out of the clouds before the distinctiveness and worthwhileness of college athletics is lost."

That was the appeal made by Harry Stuhldreher, athletic director, Henry W. (Eddy) Clark, secretary of the New York alumni association of his college.

The severe indictment of college athletics made by Mr. Stuhldreher in part "As I see the intercollegiate athletic picture today it is a rapidly crystallizing into set groups. There is the group of the second and the forming of various other associations in the public press, and I am very familiar with the situation know that there is a mad scramble for publicity and concerned with the proper group socially—so much so that ——— is coming to be a football schedules are making them as far ahead as 1940. Some of them are the wrong way to seek pressure. The first step is to put your house in order and seek out those who are doing likewise, then meet them in a common ground of facilities and ideals. After all, losing football games is not such a sound understanding.

"We hear a lot of talk of subsidizing and subsidized. Poor old Andy Carnegie never like a true Scot has had so much money which five years ago spent thousands of dollars annually to help boys get through college and at no avail. It would have been far better to have given two of them a year each at. Friends of college athletics are not deceived by the hypocrisy that is prevailing in many institutions.

"We should quit hypocrisy and come down out of the clouds before the distinctiveness and worthwhileness of college athletics is lost. We have no squint with professional athletics, for we are amateurs, for spectacles, for exhibitions, for the fun of it, and for our picture or problem; the professional has his interest and is to be censured for his calling.

"The answer, to my mind, is for each college to attend to its own housecleaning, and to do it in such a way as to satisfy its president rather than to please the alumni. By backbone we should endeavor to limit our schedules to institutions willing to play the game the way we play it. By leisure we should regard the whole athletic picture as our own responsibility."—ACP.

Odd-Even Line-Ups Announced

The line-up according to rating chosen by Bert Lancaster and Janice Borton to play in the Odd-Even tennis games this week-end is:

	SINGLES
Evens		Odds
Marjorie Horton		Valerie Hunt
Wynn Tuten		Marie Taylor
Felicia West		Janice Borton
Evelyn Flather		Fay Covey
	DOUBLES
Evelyn Glasier		Martha Baker
Celia Levy		Beth Deane

The line up elected by the entire baseball squads at recent meetings to play in Odd-Even games this week-end is:

Evens		Odd
Wynn Tuten	(p.)	Hazel Wetzel
Jane Tombaugh	(c.)	Ruth Barrington
Cecil Levy	(1st. b.)	Fay Covey
Marie Harold	(2nd b.)	Mary Palmer
Mildred Emmethalins	(s. s.)	Johanna Seagoth
Betty Cottland	(3rd b.)	Valerie Hunt
Felicia West	(r. f.)	Dorothy Molnar
Hilda Sgradilin	(c. f.)	Bunny Lowry
Bertie Mackery	(c. f.)	Ruth Wilson

Even substitutes: Caroline Ahlon, Evelyn Glasier, Frances Thill, Louise Gehan, and Marguerite Kinsey.

Odd substitutes: Marian Weeks, Martha Makemson, Dot Kamaya, Myrna Frink, Beth Deane, Sarah Lytle, and Janice Borton.

Senior Baseball Nine Bows Out In Glory By Winning Interclass Meet

Freshmen Take Second Place, Defeating Sophomores

The senior baseball nine made a victorious finale to their career as freshmen when they defeated the freshman team 19-4 in a fast and snappy game. The freshmen won over the sophomore and the seniors in the two semi-finals, placed these two teams to fight the semi-finals.

The seniors proved their superiority over their sophomore sisters by defeating them 10-5 to top the sophs ——— five points.

Batting for the freshmen were Ruth Barrington, Bunny Lowry, Faye Covey, Mary Palmer, Valerie Hunt, Johanna Seagoth, Ruth Lytle, Ruth Wilson, Dot Molnar, with Mary Lou O'Haver substituting for Ruth Lytle.

The sophomore nine included Betty Cottland, Hilda Wren Marie Jeffie, Evelyn Glasier, Louise Gehan, Marguerite Kinsey, Frances Thill, Marjorie Horton and Hilda Spardilin, with Marjorie Hutchinson substituting for Horton.

The seniors defeated the junior baseball team with a score of 14-1.

Marion Weeks scored the only run for the juniors in the seventh inning. The juniors playing on the junior team were Hazel Wetzel, Helen Bryan, Cecil Levy, Mel Emmethalin, Rose Panowsky and Dessie Janice Borton, Dot Kamiya, Ruth Thill, Marie Taylor, Jane Crook and Martha Makemson for Waxwell.

Cecil Tuten and Marie Herold both ——ved three runs for the seniors. Levy, Mel Emmethalin, Margaret Cogswell each scored two runs. Jane Tombaugh, Bertie Mackery and Betty Wilson each scored one run. Others batting for the senior team were Sarah Martin and Caroline Ahlon.

Miss Dorothy White was pair and strike umpire for the freshman-Sophomore game and Nancy Williamson was base umpire. For the Junior-Senior game, Miss Betty Ashburn officiated as pair and strike while Miss Imogene Fox was base umpire.

In the freshman-senior game Saturday morning Ruth Barrington and two of her teammates were the team's four points while Bunny Lowery and Dot Molnar scored one point each.

Jane Tombaugh was high-r over for the seniors with two runs to her credit. Cecil Levy and Wynn Tuten each scored two runs. Mel Emmalhain, Rose Panowsky and Gertie Mackery, chalked up two runs apiece for the seniors and Marie Herold, Margaret Cogswell, and Caroline Ahlon each have scored equally useless in the college athletic program.

In the Sophomore-Junior game the sophomores were again unfortunate in losing the game 16-14. Louise Gehan and Evelyn Glasier were top scorers for the sophomores with three runs each. Evelyn Glaster came next with two runs and Betty Cottland and Frances Thill each scored one each.

Marion Lessey was top scorer for the juniors with five runs. Beth Deane and Dot Kamiya chalked up three each, Margaret Maxwell, Janice Borton, and Marion Weeks, three each while Hazel Wetzel scored two.

Eaton to Give Examiner Test

Part of Work to Be Done At Camp Flastacowo

Approximately 12 students of Florida State College for Women will take tests here Friday and Saturday by which they may become Red Cross life saving examiners. The tests will be given in a course taught by Ransom A. Eaton, Red Cross field representative in the life saving division. Students who already are examiners will have the tests at this time. Student examiners on the campus now include: Miss Jane Thorin, of Dunedin; Miss Peggy McMichael and Miss Helen Miller, of Tampa, and Miss Marie Taylor, of Miami.

Camp Flastacowo, the property of the college and located on Lake Ella, about five miles from Tallahassee, will be the scene of part of the tests, the other instruction being given in the college gymnasium swimming pool. Part of the students taking life saving tests at the college here act as swimming instructors at summer camps.

9 Cannon Balls Are Discovered

Nine solid six-inch cannon balls and the barrel of an old rust-covered nineteenth century musket have been discovered in the excavation process of tearing down the walls of the old Confederate building, giving evidence of many old fortifications which has alleged to have been built during the civil war.

The workmen encountered the probable line of the trenches, by the deterioration of the cannon balls and parts of the ammunition. Evidence of an old well was also found during the digging. It is probable, according to Mr Mendelhall, that the old fortifications were carried far enough, there might be found some old relics of the civil war. Mendenhall further stated that he hopes to have the well completely cleaned in an attempt to connect it with historical fact.

It is added that the cadets of the military school which was situated on the site during the civil war, in the battle of Natural Bridge, prevented the federal troops from capturing Tallahassee. It is Mr. Mendenhall's theory that the fortification was built and is suited on the hill where the cadets had their drills, and that it was built to fortify the Old Spanish Trail, which was then the main road from Tallahassee.

Corps Holds Election

Sara Hethcox was elected president of the Student Aid Corps at the meeting last Tuesday night, it was announced by Jane Tombaugh.

Eleanor Flint was elected secretary and treasurer. Frances Thill, captain, and Evelyn Edwards instructor. The duties are to be elected after the next session of life saving test is given.

Sara Hethcox was also elected to attend the Life Saving Institute to be held in North Carolina in June.

Final Tennis Series To Be Played Here

Odd-Even rivalry again smashed its way into prominence as Valeria Hunt and Marjorie Horton led their tennis teams onto the courts yesterday beginning the last tennis series for this season.

The final choice for team was made after ten interclass matches gave a six to four victory to the two Odd teams.

Valeria Hunt and Fay Covey, freshman, and Wynn Tuten, senior, have proved themselves undefeated and will fight to hold their championship against Marjorie Horton, Evelyn Flaher, and Marie Taylor respectively.

The other seven match promises fireworks as Felicia West and Janice Borton, each undefeated in class games, play-off with a steady, consistant style battle for victory.

The tennis of the Odd and Even lines will be played some other time during the week-end.

Florence Ward Tops Freshmen

Colburn Takes Second In Swimming Meet

Florence Ward, of Winter Park, placed first among twenty contestants in the freshman individual swimming meet held yesterday night in the gymnasium pool.

Dorothy Colburn of Miami ran second and honors for third place were split between Mary Elizabeth Gussett, of New York city, Dorothy Mae Hinds, of Hendricks, and Dorothy Scott of Winter Haven.

The meet, staged by the swimming methods group included a 25 yard free style dash, side stroke for form, English racing—33 yard dash, egg race, elementary back for form, back crawl—33 yard dash, single over arm for form, diving, free style—33 yard dash.

Ward won the 33 yard free style race with a time of 14.1. Colburn was second in English racing with 18.1. Scott won the egg race with 39.2 and Ward was again victorious in the back crawl with a time of 19.6.

Other contestants in the order of placing included: Ann Knight, Jean Gillies, Dorothy Ann Amsler and Jane Tombaugh will compete in the finals coming from first to the end of the camp dock.

Rowboat Racing

The second meet will be a rowboat race between the odds and the evens. Janice Borton will row for the odds and Felicia West for the evens. The course will be the lake.

Beth Deane for the odds and Mildred Emmethaler for the evens will strive mightily in the kyak race which promises to be the most exciting and funniest event of the afternoon. The kyak is the boat just large enough to accomodate two people at most, propelled by paddles with a blade at each end. Both of the kyaks in use at the camp now were made by Miss Elizabeth Autrey, professor in the physical education department of women.

War Canoes Follow

Just for contrast the next event will be a war canoe race between the odds and the evens with eleven members to each team. Beth Deane will paddle stern for the odds with Bryant Wheeler, Valeria Hunt, Fay Covey, Marion Lessey, Betty Wynn, Marian Baker, Bunny Lowry, Margaret Neff, Dot Colburn and Janice Borton supporting. Felicia West will paddle stern for the evens and her team will be Frances Crisp, Lorie Joffre, Catherine Pratt, Janet Cook, Dixie Gist, Ruth McClain, Evelyn Edwards, Marion Horton, Mildred Smith, and Jane Tombaugh.

Stunts to Feature

Several stunts will feature the program. Bunny Tombaugh and Felicia West will race Sara Hethcox and Virginia Crisp in a double bobsting stunt in the canoes. No paddles are used and the contestants stand on the edges of the canoe and jump up and down to make it go. Speed counts.

Frances Thill and Dot Colburn will also do several acrobatic stunts in the canoes including standing on her head in one of the canoes during the progress of that position and other equally thrilling stunts.

Comedy Stunts

Dot Colburn, Fay Covey, and Marion Hinds will do a comedy diving and Beth Deane and Marjorie Horton will do a spiral comedy stunt.

The program is to close with a game of water polo by a girl water party including contestants and subsidiary officials. Swimming for all interested.

Dr. Raymond Bellamy will be in charge of the Kyak Carnival. Miss Elizabeth Autrey and Miss Ruth Bryan will assist.

College trucks will be at the back of the gym at 2:30 Sunday afternoon to take anyone who wants to go and a list has been posted on the bulletin board in the building to sign so that there will be a sufficient number of trucks. There is no charge being made for either transportation or admission.

Mildred Emmethaler, president, has been in charge of plans and under her on the transportation committee are Ruth Barrington, chairman, with Sara Hethcox, Ruth Thompson, and Mary Elizabeth Gussett, publicity committee, with Sara Hethcox, chairman; Beth Deane and Caroline Ahlon have worked under Rose Panowski, athletic chief and Mary Ward Peterson have been put in charge of the transportation and care of canoes. Janice Borton is in charge of the odd canoe captain and Felicia West even canoe captain.

Olympic Games Are Investigated

Athletic Union Will Study Nazi Policies

The Athletic Union of Florida has instituted an investigation of the Olympic games to be held in Berlin this summer, it was announced today by Dr. Paul Finner, president of the organization.

Finner said that the investigation will study Germany's invitation to the games and the alleged discrimination against Jews in the German sports.

Finner said that if the investigation should reveal that these colleges rescind their invitation to play basketball games in the British Isles, where the universities of Birmingham and Cambridge and Oxford alone have declined to participate in the Middle Atlantic Heidelberg University. The government as a result has also withdrawn invitation to all English universities to play basketball games at home at all schools in the domain.—Tulane Hullabaloo.

Florida High Auditorium Undergoes Many Repairs

The work of redecorating and repairing the auditorium of the Florida high school was begun recently and is progressing rapidly.

The work includes repairs, replacing the old floor and replacing the laying of tile flooring. The stage is being raised and widened. New lights and curtains have recently been purchased. The installation of a new stage will complete the project which is expected to be finished by May 1.

Besides the above improvements, a talking picture machine has been purchased by the board of trustees. library equipment has been ordered, amounting to an estimately $1,000, and two electric drinking fountains are to be installed.—ACP.

Kyaks, Rowboats, Canoes, Swimmers, Divers and Onlookers will Over-run Camp Flastacowo when the Pi Club holds its annual Water Sports Day, Saturday, April 25.

Four major races will lead off the events, opening with canoe races between the classes, freshmen Betty Wynn and Valerie Hunt; sophomores Frances Thill and Dot Colburn; juniors Janice Borton and Marion Lessey; and seniors Rose Panowski and Jane Tombaugh will compete in the starting room forty-five to the end of the camp dock.

Rowboat Racing

The second will be a rowboat race between the odds and the evens. Janice Borton will row for the odds and Felicia West for the evens. The course will be the lake.

Beth Deane for the odds and Mildred Emmethaler for the evens will strive mightily in the kyak race which promises to be the most exciting and funniest event of the afternoon. The kyak is the boat just large enough to accomodate two people at most, propelled by paddles with a blade at each end. Both of the kyaks in use at the camp now were made by Miss Elizabeth Autrey, professor in the physical education department of women.

War Canoes Follow

Just for contrast the next event will be a war canoe race between the odds and the evens with eleven members to each team. Beth Deane will paddle stern for the odds with Bryant Wheeler, Valeria Hunt, Fay Covey, Marion Lessey, Betty Wynn, Marian Baker, Bunny Lowry, Margaret Neff, Dot Colburn and Janice Borton supporting. Felicia West will paddle stern for the evens and her team will be Frances Crisp, Lorie Joffre, Catherine Pratt, Janet Cook, Dixie Gist, Ruth McClain, Evelyn Edwards, Marion Horton, Mildred Smith, and Jane Tombaugh.

Stunts to Feature

Several stunts will feature the program. Bunny Tombaugh and Felicia West will race Sara Hethcox and Virginia Crisp in a double bobsting stunt in the canoes. No paddles are used and the contestants stand on the edges of the canoe and jump up and down to make it go. Speed counts.

Frances Thill and Dot Colburn will also do several acrobatic stunts in the canoes and Dot Colburn will also do several acrobatic stunts in the canoes including standing on her head in one of the canoes during the progress of that position and other equally thrilling stunts.

Comedy Stunts

Dot Colburn, Fay Covey, and Marion Hinds will do a comedy diving and Beth Deane and Marjorie Horton will do a spiral comedy stunt.

The program is to close with a game of water polo by a girl water party including contestants and subsidiary officials. Swimming for all interested.

Dr. Raymond Bellamy will be in charge of the Kyak Carnival. Miss Elizabeth Autrey and Miss Ruth Bryan will assist.

College trucks will be at the back of the gym at 2:30 Sunday afternoon to take anyone who wants to go and a list has been posted on the bulletin board in the building to sign so that there will be a sufficient number of trucks. There is no charge being made for either transportation or admission.

Mildred Emmethaler, president, has been in charge of plans and under her on the transportation committee are Ruth Barrington, chairman with Sara Hethcox, Ruth Thompson, and Mary Elizabeth Gussett, publicity committee, with Sara Hethcox, chairman; Beth Deane and Caroline Ahlon have worked under Rose Panowski, athletic chief and Mary Ward Peterson have been put in charge of the transportation and care of canoes. Janice Borton is in charge of the odd canoe captain and Felicia West even canoe captain.

Cheer Leaders Selected

Sallie Burt Numan and Erma Engel were elected class cheer leaders by the present sophomore class for this coming year. They will succeed Anne Mizell and Jane O'Shaughnessy.

F Club Holds Water Sports Day Tomorrow

Colburn to Do Acrobatic Stunts in Feature Performance

PROGRAM TO END WITH OPEN GAME

Deane and Emmelhains To Stage Odd-Even Kyak Race

Kyaks, rowboats, canoes, swimmers, divers and onlookers will over-run Camp Flastacowo when the F club holds its annual Water Sports Day, Saturday, April 25.

Florence Ward Tops Freshmen

Four major races will lead off the events, opening with canoe races between the classes, freshmen Betty Wynn and Valerie Hunt; sophomores Frances Thill and Dot Colburn; juniors Janice Borton and Marion Lessey; and seniors Rose Panowski and Jane Tombaugh will compete in the starting room ferry dock to the end of the camp dock.

Rowboat Racing

The second will be a rowboat race between the odds and the evens. Janice Borton will row for the odds and Felicia West for the evens. The course will be the lake.

Beth Deane for the odds and Mildred Emmethaler for the evens will strive mightily in the kyak race which promises to be the most exciting and funniest event of the afternoon. The kyak is the boat just large enough to accomodate two people at most, propelled by paddles with a blade at each end. Both of the kyaks in use at the camp now were made by Miss Elizabeth Autrey, professor in the physical education department of women.

War Canoes Follow

Just for contrast the next event will be a war canoe race between the odds and the evens with eleven members to each team. Beth Deane will paddle stern for the odds with Bryant Wheeler, Valeria Hunt, Fay Covey, Marion Lessey, Betty Wynn, Marian Baker, Bunny Lowry, Margaret Neff, Dot Colburn and Janice Borton supporting. Felicia West will paddle stern for the evens and her team will be Frances Crisp, Lorie Joffre, Catherine Pratt, Janet Cook, Dixie Gist, Ruth McClain, Evelyn Edwards, Marion Horton, Mildred Smith, and Jane Tombaugh.

Stunts to Feature

Several stunts will feature the program. Bunny Tombaugh and Felicia West will race Sara Hethcox and Virginia Crisp in a double bobsting stunt in the canoes. No paddles are used and the contestants stand on the edges of the canoe and jump up and down to make it go. Speed counts.

Frances Thill and Dot Colburn will also do several acrobatic stunts in the canoes and Dot Colburn will also do several acrobatic stunts in the canoes including standing on her head in one of the canoes during the progress of that position and other equally thrilling stunts.

Comedy Stunts

Dot Colburn, Fay Covey, and Marion Hinds will do a comedy diving and Beth Deane and Marjorie Horton will do a spiral comedy stunt.

The program is to close with a game of water polo by a girl water party including contestants and subsidiary officials. Swimming for all interested.

Dr. Raymond Bellamy will be in charge of the Kyak Carnival. Miss Elizabeth Autrey and Miss Ruth Bryan will assist.

College trucks will be at the back of the gym at 2:30 Sunday afternoon to take anyone who wants to go and a list has been posted on the bulletin board in the building to sign so that there will be a sufficient number of trucks. There is no charge being made for either transportation or admission.

Mildred Emmethaler, president, has been in charge of plans and under her on the transportation committee are Ruth Barrington, chairman with Sara Hethcox, Ruth Thompson, and Mary Elizabeth Gussett, publicity committee, with Sara Hethcox, chairman; Beth Deane and Caroline Ahlon have worked under Rose Panowski, athletic chief and Mary Ward Peterson have been put in charge of the transportation and care of canoes. Janice Borton is in charge of the odd canoe captain and Felicia West even canoe captain.

Sorority Members Entertain at Tea Dance

Alpha Gamma Delta, Chi Alpha Omicron Pi, and the Kappa Alpha Theta houses.

Woody Esmail is a student at the University of Florida and has chosen photography as his avocation. He will fill six orders left at Pike's studio for duplicates of the pictures he photographed here during Pachelbecky week-end.

Sons of Solves Suffer On Sauntering Sandals

"The time has come," the walrus said,
"To speak of many things. Of shoes
Those few lines drifted through my head the other day as I watched a girl wearing sandals on the brass rail near the dining hall while a male companion stood in lines of pair of feet entering the dining hall door.

The question would understand immediately that the students on our campus are not Egyptians. Oxfords, principally brown and white, are in the majority. The Florida co-ed is a practical creature by thrifty souls determined to get the most for their money in the last piece of leather.

But the open-toed sandal still appear to favor heavy gum-soled little numbers of white calf. The would-be sports girl wears them on four-inch heels. The tiro of fashion wears them with socks around ankles of various size and thickness. Along stalk the number serves pleasure and the latter tone.

My fascinated eyes observed an amply proportioned student run hurriedly by on a pair of bright red patent leather sandals wondered if shoes had souls, and if so, what happened to the souls of poor sandals suffering such torture.

If the character of an individual can be told by his feet, then the conclusion follows that as a whole our personalities are sturdy, although sometimes inclined to wear the frivolous and disreputable.

Interclass Swim Meet to Be Held

Practices Open Every Day Until May 1

Practices are being held every afternoon for the interclass swimming meet which will be held in the college pool May 1 at 8:15. Sports leaders for the classes, senior, Sara Hethcox, Junior, Frances Thill, sophomore, and Mary Elizabeth Emmethaler, freshman, have held special practices Saturday, April 25, 3:15 at 4:30 P. M. April 28, and Thursday, April 30 at 8:15 for team practices and special instruction.

The order of events is to be:

1. 25 yard free style.
2. Elementary back form.
3. 33 yard breast stroke.
4. Side stroke for form.
5. 25 yard back crawl.
6. Back stroke for form.
7. 75 yard medley.
8. Diving.
9. 100 yard relay.

Florence Ward Tops Freshmen

Colburn Takes Second In Swimming Meet

Florence Ward, of Winter Park, placed first among twenty contestants in the freshman individual swimming meet held yesterday night in the gymnasium pool.

Dorothy Colburn of Miami ran second and honors for third place were split between Mary Elizabeth Gussett, of New York city, Dorothy Mae Hinds, of Hendricks, and Dorothy Scott of Winter Haven.

The meet, staged by the swimming methods group included a 25 yard free style dash, side stroke for form, English racing—33 yard dash, egg race, elementary back for form, back crawl—33 yard dash, single over arm for form, diving, free style—33 yard dash.

Ward won the 33 yard free style race with a time of 14.1. Colburn was second in English racing with 18.1. Scott won the egg race with 39.2 and Ward was again victorious in the back crawl with a time of 19.6.

Other contestants in the order of placing included: Ann Knight, Jean Gillies, Dorothy Ann Amsler and Jane Tombaugh will compete in the finals coming from first to the end of the camp dock.

Rowboat Racing

The second will be a rowboat race between the odds and the evens. Janice Borton will row for the odds and Felicia West for the evens. The course will be the lake.

Beth Deane for the odds and Mildred Emmethaler for the evens will strive mightily in the kyak race which promises to be the most exciting and funniest event of the afternoon. The kyak is the boat just large enough to accomodate two people at most, propelled by paddles with a blade at each end. Both of the kyaks in use at the camp now were made by Miss Elizabeth Autrey, professor in the physical education department of women.

War Canoes Follow

Just for contrast the next event will be a war canoe race between the odds and the evens with eleven members to each team. Beth Deane will paddle stern for the odds with Bryant Wheeler, Valeria Hunt, Fay Covey, Marion Lessey, Betty Wynn, Marian Baker, Bunny Lowry, Margaret Neff, Dot Colburn and Janice Borton supporting. Felicia West will paddle stern for the evens and her team will be Frances Crisp, Lorie Joffre, Catherine Pratt, Janet Cook, Dixie Gist, Ruth McClain, Evelyn Edwards, Marion Horton, Mildred Smith, and Jane Tombaugh.

Stunts to Feature

Several stunts will feature the program. Bunny Tombaugh and Felicia West will race Sara Hethcox and Virginia Crisp in a double bobsting stunt in the canoes. No paddles are used and the contestants stand on the edges of the canoe and jump up and down to make it go. Speed counts.

Frances Thill and Dot Colburn will also do several acrobatic stunts in the canoes and Dot Colburn will also do several acrobatic stunts in the canoes including standing on her head in one of the canoes during the progress of that position and other equally thrilling stunts.

Comedy Stunts

Dot Colburn, Fay Covey, and Marion Hinds will do a comedy diving and Beth Deane and Marjorie Horton will do a spiral comedy stunt.

The program is to close with a game of water polo by a girl water party including contestants and subsidiary officials. Swimming for all interested.

Dr. Raymond Bellamy will be in charge of the Kyak Carnival. Miss Elizabeth Autrey and Miss Ruth Bryan will assist.

College trucks will be at the back of the gym at 2:30 Sunday afternoon to take anyone who wants to go and a list has been posted on the bulletin board in the building to sign so that there will be a sufficient number of trucks. There is no charge being made for either transportation or admission.

Mildred Emmethaler, president, has been in charge of plans and under her on the transportation committee are Ruth Barrington, chairman with Sara Hethcox, Ruth Thompson, and Mary Elizabeth Gussett, publicity committee, with Sara Hethcox, chairman; Beth Deane and Caroline Ahlon have worked under Rose Panowski, athletic chief and Mary Ward Peterson have been put in charge of the transportation and care of canoes. Janice Borton is in charge of the odd canoe captain and Felicia West even canoe captain.

Sorority Members Entertain at Tea Dance

Alpha Gamma Delta, Chi Alpha Omicron Pi, and the Kappa Alpha Theta houses.

Woody Esmail is a student at the University of Florida and has chosen photography as his avocation. He will fill six orders left at Pike's studio for duplicates of the pictures he photographed here during Pachelbecky week-end.

The Florida Flambeau

Member 1935 Associated Collegiate Press

EDITORIAL STAFF

RUTH PERSONS ..... Editor
ALTHEA SMITH ..... Associate Editor
GERTRUDE KUHN ..... Managing Editor
HAZEL BOWMAN ..... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Features, Martha Baker; Sports, Elaine Kiepper; Society, Margaret Lafferty; Exchanges, Virginia Early; Literary Editor, Eleanor Williams; Copy Editor, Arline Lockhart; Outside News Editor, Grace Mary Webster; Art Editor, Carolyne Adams.

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press

Entered as second class mail matter January 20, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

"Lights Out" Gets the Curtain

Another commendable step in the direction of "greater privileges" for upperclassmen has been recently with the granting of unlimited lights for the remainder of the present academic year. According to College Government association officials this new policy is now only experimental in form, but unlimited lights may be the step to the future if the present experiment works out as is expected.

Again Florida State students are faced with what constitutes a real one night say, of their capacity to undertake new responsibilities in the way of self-government. Certainly their cooperation in the working out of new plans for a better campus life will indicate to a large degree just how much progress toward even greater privileges can be expected.

Why Not Spread Our Light?

With the new budget committee going into action this week end the classes voting to take the debating trip might be nice for us to look around and see where we want to spend our money.

The idea behind making the debating team intercollegiate is to advertise the college. It is true that only four or six would have to be sent on a debating team in comparison to from nine up-wards if the glee club, the orchestra or athletic teams were given the opportunity to advertise the college. However, the question arises as to the relative fairness and quality of sending an organization so recently begun rather than these more highly trained groups as an advertising unit. The debating team is a very worthwhile organization and should be encouraged, but whether it should be encouraged at the expense of other organizations is another question.

Recently eight people went to a convention held in Miami on the money allotted by the budget committee for two people. It doesn't seem absolutely necessary to allot six times as much money as necessary for the expenses of the men much better it would be to give the extra six-eights to a fund to be used for "advertising the college" by means of debating team perhaps, or for the orchestra, glee club or athletic teams.

Our orchestras have performed this year in a manner of the very finest quality, outstanding among which was the Tschaikowsky piano concerto in B flat minor featuring the sitting orchestra with a remarkable performance by Vivian Along on the piano. We could hardly offer any performance, intellectual, physical or musical that would prove a greater advertisement!

The glee club sang in the annual concert the four difficult Schubert numbers. To Be Sung On The Water, Hark, Hark, The Lark, To Music, and Serenade with a depth and quality that would make us proud to own it anywhere.

A varsity team picked from the members of the Odd and Even basketball teams that athletic event of a student body of 1650, would probably do a mighty pretty piece of advertising if given the chance.

It seems rather foolish to be hiding our lights under bushels. Our two representatives to conventions are probably not able to advertise us sufficiently those and who shouldn't we spread out a little more?

Florida Trots En Masse

The students resident in Florida's colleges have, in spite of the diversity of their respective institutions, at least two interests in common—the Florida Blue collegiate Press association and the Florida Student Government association. Since these organizations have done their parts in past years as separate units to establish a feeling of kinship among institutions represented by delegates to their conventions it is to be expected that an even greater basis for friendship and cooperation for Florida's colleges will grow out of the joint meeting of these associations now in session at the University of Miami.

Are We Men or Mice?

Are we being dull and stupid by not assuming a definite attitude on the matter of peace? College publications are over-run all over the country with editorials and news stories concerning peace strikes, future war scares, and the European situation, indicating a definite tendency on the part of other students to regard the peace problem as one in which they have a vital concern.

In marked contrast we sit idly, hands folded or occupied with our knitting. We have sunk into a lethargy rapidly becoming too deep for return. Will generals have to lead into a groove only wide enough to accommodate our classes and our social functions. That our day we may be faced with death and destruction seems to be beyond our range.

College students are making a desperate effort to fight war with the most effective weapon yet discovered—satire. The rulings of the dictators are now on campus for us to use or disarm as we see fit. A chapter of Home Fire Division of Veterans of Future Wars can be established here.

Accordingly As The Fans Judge It

With the consecration of the splendid Frederick Jagel concert on Monday night another artists' series season came to a close and another audience of faculty, townspeople and students began to look forward to the next season of performances by musical and dramatic artists.

In commenting on the season just ended it is perhaps proper to review the programs which the college has sponsored during the past six months and if possible to get a representative view of student reaction to said programs.

In her piano recital of last fall Gunnar Novaes presented a more than adequate picture of her knowledge of piano technique, however, at the same time baffling part of her audience and thrilling the remainder. Certainly those accustomed with the piano as an instrument were in the latter group, while those with only a casual idea of the instrument except as in its common use were rather disappointed in not hearing music which was within their range of musical knowledge.

Although the Hedgerow Theater's interpretation of "Emperor Jones" was probably not favorably received in most quarters because of the personality of its director of "a group of amateurs" and considered from this standpoint his company's performance of this difficult play was more than fair.

Charlotte Lockwood as a distinct addition to the list of artists who have appeared before the local artists' series audiences. Combining a marvelous organ technique with an ability to understand and interpret music Miss Lockwood more than fulfilled her audience's expectations.

The outstanding performance of the season was the concert presented by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra under the direction of Eugene Ormandy. Those who had never before had an opportunity to hear a symphonic orchestra of such a large group of instrumentalists undoubtedly carried away a glowing impression of what a well-chosen symphony program can be.

Truest among the performers of the season were the inimitable Vienna Choir Boys whose singing of German songs surprised their audience. It seemed difficult for some of the local students to grasp the idea that the boys were singing in their native tongue for the major part of the performance.

It is seldom that Floridians who are not in the habit of visiting New York or Chicago have opportunities to both see and hear a member of the Metropolitan Opera [illegible] Frederick Jagel occupy [illegible]. Roy Underwood was the pianist.

Jagel's voice, by virtue of its natural richness, and its pleasing, powerful tones of songs, but general student opinion seems to have it that Mr. Jagel was most easily appreciated in his operatic numbers. Someone has suggested the entire program of numbers from the great operas as a possibility for next year's artists' series.

In addition to this program by either some outstanding concert band or by some wind instrumentalist the rank of Edwin Franko Goldman has also been suggested.

As Logic Would Put It—

It has long been the opinion of the general public that institutions of higher learning are places in which it is possible to obtain an education. Looking at the definition of education we find as one of its synonyms the word culture. By logical methods of reasoning then, it would seem to follow that by attending one of these institutions there should also be the possibility of obtaining culture.

In accordance with the above general belief, trusting parents pook up their hard-produced-for college school offspring and send them to a college or university, as the case may be, expecting the youth to come home an educated, a cultured, person.

As for the youth of the land, they are told all the "finer things in life," of the "do or die for dear old school's" spirit, and of the high ideals of college life. And with these ideas in mind they journey to the college school offspring and send them to a college or university, as the case may be, expecting the youth to come home an educated, a cultured, person.

As for the youth of the land, they are told all the "finer things in life," of the "do or die for dear old school's" spirit, and of the high ideals of college life. And with these ideas in mind they journey to the college school [illegible] . . . Further on I hope John Strachey's startling book the indictment "Should I Be Despondent" with Strachey enumerating Mr. Hearst for refusing to allow critics to speak freely of our present economic situation.

Although little space was given to William F Russell's "So Conferred and Honored" book, the article has stood out long in my mind. Russell says there always have had and always will have those who believe in liberty on one side and those who believe in equality on the other. Our forefathers stated in a cardinal statement when they said "All men are created free and equal" for the two ideals are at opposite poles. "Where we have too much liberty we find the equality" we can readjust," he says. "And where we have too much equality and to little liberty we can modify."

Article on Liberty

In the article "Liberty—Is It Worth Fighting For?" Truslow Adams is concerned with the dangers of youth's sacrificing liberty for it is taking place in economic security but what Fascism and Nazism are really isn't security, says Adams.

Pearl Buck's article "Where Are the Young Men Now" stands out as significant in the thumber's returning to college in September. Mrs Buck considers the "intellectual young" of today have been so coddled by parents who did not want us to suffer the hardships they endured and have been so overprotective against life itself yet spiritless with the knowledge of it, that they will be many of the things wrong in our institutions are the ones which we only shrug our shoulders and turn away.

Then Norman Foster's article "Chicago and General Education" comes to the front as a most unusually fair criticism. The new is much better than the old, he says, but at present Chicago's plan gives the student scarcely more freedom than he enjoys in other colleges. Also one of Chicago's educational theories early specialization may result, Foster fears, in premature specialization. Foster says that while the humanistic course which some with the "collegiate" type of liberal course is supposed to give students a sense of values, the "moral experience in a year's time.

Professor Is Fired

The educational philosopher will find sympathetic and humorous treatment in Wendell Brooks Phillips' confession "I Was Fired From a Job." Phillips was fired from Chicago for she dedicated half a column to [illegible] "I was written out of politics" observer. Harold Laski, names [illegible] as one of the "Fear to the Republicans" reminding the Republicans their duty as an opposition party is to criticize and to offer strong alternatives in specific criticisms of the present administration instead of weakly criticizing measure in general.

There are many a brand of convention and recommend to the reader Edna St. Vincent Millay's lovely poems from a sequence "Conversation at Midnight" to be published in book form soon. This beautiful conversation we see the conflicting religious, social and political views that hold the world by the ears and the uses [illegible] Which will rule? Even Mrs Buck

Continued on Page Six

Magazine Thumbings

With the annual Flambeau staff "turn-over" which takes place soon the out-going magazine thumber customarily devotes a column to herself.

For nine months she has strived impersonally to recommend articles, she considers worthy of the college student's consideration. Now she thinks time is ripe for "pleading." Therefore she asks herself the following questions: Have I given students articles of more political than economic or religious import? Have I consistently played up the type of article in preference to another?

Naturally in selecting articles to recommend, I have been persuaded by my own outlook yet at the same time I hope my treatment of the author's points in the article has been sufficiently unbiased to allow the fine mind of journalism or literature as art.

Perhaps not always but most of the time I have consciously sought to suppress my enthusiasm over a certain plan I thought was "exactly" the solution to our ills and also to withhold my unrise of discovering a fallacy in this or that reasoning.

Year In Review

Now let's look at the past Flambeau files to see how I promised.

The article I gave first place in my initial publication last April "The Progressive Tradition" in which, if you remember, Rexford Tugwell and the essence of dynational attitude of faith is the gience in the people rather than a degree of human dignity and through the New Deal, he thinks, the ity has been [illegible] . . . Further on I hope John Strachey's startling book the indictment "Should I Be Despondent" with Strachey enumerating Mr. Hearst for refusing to allow critics to speak freely of our present economic situation.

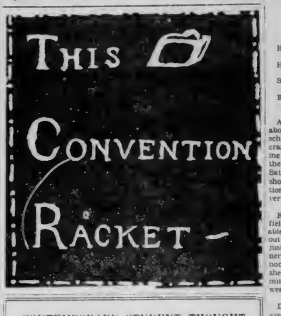
Although little space was given to William F Russell's "So Conferred and Honored" book, the article has stood out long in my mind. Russell says there always have had and always will have those who believe in liberty on one side and those who believe in equality on the other. Our forefathers stated in a cardinal statement when they said "All men are created free and equal" for the two ideals are at opposite poles. "Where we have too much liberty we find the equality" we can readjust," he says. "And where we have too much equality and to little liberty we can modify."

Article on Liberty

In the article "Liberty—Is It Worth Fighting For?" Truslow Adams is concerned with the dangers of youth's sacrificing liberty for it is taking place in economic security but what Fascism and Nazism are really isn't security, says Adams.

Pearl Buck's article "Where Are the Young Men Now" stands out as significant in the thumber's returning to college in September. Mrs Buck considers the "intellectual young" of today have been so coddled by parents who did not want us to suffer the hardships they endured and have been so overprotective against life itself yet spiritless with the knowledge of it, that they will be many of the things wrong in our institutions are the ones which we only shrug our shoulders and turn away.

Then Norman Foster's article "Chicago and General Education" comes to the front as a most unusually fair criticism. The new is much better than the old, he says, but at present Chicago's plan gives the student scarcely more freedom than he enjoys in other colleges. Also one of Chicago's educational theories early specialization may result, Foster fears, in premature specialization. Foster says that while the humanistic course which some with the "collegiate" type of liberal course is supposed to give students a sense of values, the "moral experience in a year's time.



Professor Is Fired

The educational philosopher will find sympathetic and humorous treatment in Wendell Brooks Phillips' confession "I Was Fired From a Job." Phillips was fired from Chicago for she dedicated half a column to [illegible] "I was written out of politics" observer. Harold Laski, names [illegible] as one of the "Fear to the Republicans" reminding the Republicans their duty as an opposition party is to criticize and to offer strong alternatives in specific criticisms of the present administration instead of weakly criticizing measure in general.

There are many a brand of convention and recommend to the reader Edna St. Vincent Millay's lovely poems from a sequence "Conversation at Midnight" to be published in book form soon. This beautiful conversation we see the conflicting religious, social and political views that hold the world by the ears and the uses [illegible] Which will rule? Even Mrs Buck

Continued on Page Six

Spirit of the Week . . . . . By Adams

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT

UNIVERSITY EDITORIALS

The entire country seems to be [illegible] be aroused every human principle—Creighton*ian*.

NATIONAL Commander Howard A Van Zandt of the Veterans of Foreign Wars announces to the world that "the students are all yellow" and that they will therefore not be drafted in case of future wars. This vehement declaration comes in magnificent rebuttal to Professor Nearing's terms of Future Wars—which now number more than sixty chapters over the United States.

Oh, we must remembered: when the occasion comes in our midst war poor Mr Van Zandt will have to stay home because he is too old to be eligible—G D—Stole College Aztec.

* * *

"They the "veterans of Future Wars' are a bunch of yellow cowards"

—Representative McSwain.

THEY RE collide the future veterans yellow. Not because they are yellow cowards. Because they have lit upon a powerful weapon in the most powerful engineering of now in their fight for future self-preservation. Laugh.

In these anxiety our war-mongerer friends have committed the worst possible mistake—they have revealed themselves for what they are. Their own [illegible] will smile and say nothing. Lib-

Continued on Page Six

OPEN FORUM

Opinions expressed in the columns are not necessarily expressions of the editorial policy of the publication. Communications are welcomed and will be given space as far as room will allow, subject to condensation. Letters should be signed, marked "Forum" and mailed to the college post office.

There have been numerous advertisements in regard to the conservative style of the Florida Flambeau. This is not written in the hope of publication, but in response to defense. Rather it is a question to be put to the readers desirous of flamboyant display.

Is the average American mind so set in the mold of conformity that it demands a headline blazoned across one page in order to [illegible] form the would-be reader that something of interest has happened? It would seem that this is the case. Judging from the few interest remarks we have overheard the staff. The Flambeau isn't exciting enough, it isn't progressive enough, it is prosaic".

Perhaps we have attained the ideal age, and consequently the ideal mentality, it seems a tragedy that the form of a "collegiate" newspaper should be one that is [illegible] with a large headline and large print were arrangement of articles. There seems to be no other explanation for the term "collegiate" which could apply to the higher type of learning toward which college students are supposedly striving. We students are here, in search of the best in learning, to start being educated. One of us [illegible] the fundamentals of education It would seem that our ultimate goal should be a part of us. our college publication, would indeed represent the goal that lies ahead of us. Our life is not going to be one of rah-rah college heroes. It is going to be a life of trials, national dealings, finances, business, and making proper mothers for children, and if we cannot settle down and appreciate reading something for its true value and look because the signal is the quadlest. then aren't we indeed making a bad beginning?

It seems incredible that our main idea of good newspapers deals with its sensationalism. And it is needed to this desire as do some newspapers, trite to form our [illegible] reading and appreciative ability [illegible] would be lowered. We would still [illegible] paper that put ten headlines two inches high, we could not read a thing and we didn't catch our eye. It would destroy our human quality of unknowing to us. we could gradually reach the state where it was necessary that [illegible] spoiled on us. It with, diminish our sense of either balance, for a few constantly seeing things arranged in overbalanced, awkward, even [illegible] manner. We should not appreciate a paper put out in this fashion.

There has also been comment expressing displeasure over the fact that we do not run a page of section with the Flambeau. Is it necessary to lower the standards of a paper by issuing a copy of publications that do not concern us. that are not in accord with the publications of the Flambeau that detract from the real value of the paper. Our guide minds the type that demands the above [illegible] thing, even in picture form? If so, the end of great talent is diminishing, that of thinking our own ideas, conforming up our own [illegible] to the mass.

Is the American student so following the old idea that "one cannot enjoy good reading" Can't we read and read an article for its sense value, and not because the headlines have caught our eye. Is it necessary that a red flag must be waved before his face for rah-rah [illegible] And if this is the case, if the Flambeau is too conservative for her, then something is definitely wrong. And what has made her this way? The answer, I believe, is that all unconsciously, the newspapers that she has been reading, that she has been brought up on, has seen in her home, have been of the cheaper [illegible] type that have blared forth their little murder or [illegible] with sensationalism. And it is needed to this desire as do some newspapers, trite to form our [illegible] sale, on the street corners, and to

Collegiate Come-Backs

SPRING FEVER

Her work is neglected,
She dotes in class;
Her pace is leithargic,
And sleep she misses.
She calls it spring fever
For now spring is here,
But what does she call it
The rest of the year?

* * *

All year we've been griped about everything in general and school in particular, until [illegible] cramming exams, "pre"... now he could be sorry. But now the news that we are to have Saturday classes next year. We should see sight anyone who mentions that old crack about the never lining.

* * *

Rumor has it that on a certain field trip a certain very [illegible] sole professor on campus got out as a pace that would have been unjustice to a Kentucky derby winner when a well-meaning student nonchalantly inquired if the prof she had been holding for [illegible] minutes. And they call us weaker sex!

* * *

Dr J W M Rooney of Harvard asserts that children are [illegible] unmannered. We have never been spotted at the age of six. That makes about thirteen years we've been spotted and haven't been about it.

* * *

For the benefit of those [illegible] of knowing a grain [illegible] owing epoch-making little [illegible] rest from the Toreador.

Spring has arrived.
The grass has [illegible]
A young man's fancy
The flowers in.

(Some time when we're not busy, we'll write the other lines.)

* * *

From the ACP we learn [illegible] Professor S Donnie Parks of Sedalo University, that the [illegible] rial firms are once again sending out [illegible] writing to executive employees. Almost anyone on campus could land a job [illegible] nightwatchman, or [illegible] amount of sleeping done in daytime.

* * *

According to an exchange the average grade of students at Worchester Tech have been steadily for many years. If we are anything like ours, we have to do a lot more rising before they get in the respectable group.

* * *

I sit alone in the twilight
Forsaken by all and I,
And murmur over and over
"I'll never eat onions again"
—Rutgers Targum.

* * *

According to the Brown and White Sprezone students [illegible] good politicians. During a recent election they found that many students robbed the ballot [illegible] and stuffed them down the sides of a furnace. Wouldn't it have been a better idea to put the politicians there as a [illegible] contribution to the temperature and they could [illegible] them of a comfortable [illegible] ity?

* * *

In Nebraska, where they believe in doing things differently the students have organized a club for friends to a dance in attending which they carried out their balances. We've seen a lot of friends around who would give the Easter rabbit a run for his money.

* * *

The Rotunda tells of the Wesley Junior College co-ed who went to bed by doctor's orders. She remained in every one of her pajamas and [illegible] that they were people don't recognize an author unless they see his picture. That's why magazine covers are disgusted and only knocks. ooze.

* * *

A bacteriologist on the Texas Ranger avers:

Though they affirm
A deadly germ
Lurks in the peppers hot
Let's hope tra-la-la
So far away
Of antiseptic bliss
So pray let me pulsonously
Try seeing if I die
Would simply be outrageous
To humor me
I'd much prefer
And let her be contagious

* * *

The Junior Collegian points out that [illegible] word "Beautiful bu: dumb" with regard to the beauty queens that have disgraced for the past [illegible] years at the University of Nebraska. Times have changed, Constitution! We aren't [illegible] after all.

* * *

An exchange offers the following Shakespearean counterpart: To be or not T. B.

* * *

Now we can't catch the eye of the pirate and the chamber maid!

The Flambeau should refrain from its "conservative" style [illegible] lowing its own ideals and being graciously to elevate our standard of appreciation.

Signed: Billie Holiday

The Social Week

Members of Kappa Delta Pi Fete Silver Anniversary

Alpha Delta chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, honorary education fraternity, entertained Tuesday evening with a banquet at the Dutch Kitchen in honor of new members of this year and in celebration of the silver anniversary of the national organization.

Students who were initiated Tuesday afternoon were Grace Mary Webster, Roberta Clifford, and Virginia Earp.

The banquet program, which was presided over by Murse Reddick as toastmistress, opened with a charge to the initiates by Mrs. Pearl F. Plumer. The response was given by Grace Mary Webster. Following three harp selections played by Miss Elizabeth Love, Mr. Kenneth Williams spoke on "Looking Backward," reviewing the history and achievements of Kappa Delta Pi in its twenty-five years of existence. Dean Malcolm M. Salley gave the closing talk, "Looking Forward."

Five members admitted earlier this year include Frank Williams, Lucy Ruth Howard, Agnes Reedy, Mary Evelyn Lanehart, Dorothy Price, Ruth Pimberg, Opal Lang, Dr. Sara Mikell, Fay Peterson, Myrvin Everett, Dorothy Cress, Hazel Sampley, Anna Von Dohlen, and Sylvia Guito.

Miss Nita K. Pyburn was general chairman of the banquet, assisted by Mr. Kenneth Williams and Mr. C. P. Priest. The decorations committee included, Ruth Peterson, chairman, Mrs. W. F. Shelley, Virginia Crumbaker, Anna Groover, and Faye Peterson. Members of the corsage committee were Myrvin Everett, Anna Von Dohlen, Dorothy Cress, and Ruth Howard. Programs were in charge of Hazel Sampley, Opal Langley, and Frank Williams.

Members and guests present included Ruth Peterson, Miss Florence Tryon, Dean N. M. Salley, Virginia Crumbaker, Rebecca Keith, Anna Groover, Ruth Howard, Murse Reddick, Dr. David H. Bennett, Miss Nita Pyburn, Mrs. Dora Skipper, Mr. C. P. Priest, Miss Martha Chapman, Miss Lillian Cross, Miss Margaret McCurtie, Hazel Sangster, Grace Mary Webster.

Miss Elizabeth Ruiz, Miss Ruth DeGraff, Mary Claire Kimbrell, Dr. Ruth Connor, Dr. Marion Hay, Mr. Oval S. Harrison, Miss Mildred Wilfong, Mrs. W. P. Shelley, Agnes Reedy, Dorothy Purse, Virginia Early, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moon, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Pinner, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Shearer, Mr. and Mrs. Arvah Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. Mackey, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Rickards, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Williams, Dr. and Mrs. Mark H. DeGraff, Dorothy Crews, Frank Wildman, Ruth Peterson.

Sara Mikell, Faye Peterson, Myrvin Everett, Anna Von Dohlen, Ruth Howard, Mary Evelyn Lanehart, Mary Lanehart, Roberta Clifford, Miss Elizabeth Pryor.

Province President Visits Group At Florida Staid

Mrs William S. Mitchell of Atlanta, Georgia, southern president of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority, arrived Wednesday for a visit with the actives, new members and pledges of the sorority entertained her with an informal coffee.

Mrs. W. H. Wilson of Gainesville, Florida, will arrive tomorrow to visit at the Alpha Chi Omega house for a few days. She and Mrs. Mitchell will be honored guests at a reception tomorrow night at the home on Park avenue. Colorful spring flowers will form the decorations. Coffee and cake will be served during the evening. Guests will include the presidents, patronesses and advisers of each of the sororities on the campus. Dr. Conrad and his daughter, Miss Louise Conrad, members of the faculty committee on sorority affairs, the deans of all schools, the social directors of the residence halls and the patronesses.

The members of the sorority will entertain their two guests again at a formal tea Sunday afternoon.

Delta Zeta, Tri Delt Hold Installations Of New Officers

The new officers of the Delta Zeta sorority were installed Thursday evening, April 16. They are: president, Adelaide Ireland; vice president, Emily Bush; secretary, Kathleen Harris; corresponding secretary, Jean Jackson; treasurer, Martha Moore.

The new officers of the Delta Delta Delta sorority have been recently installed. They are: president, Betty Peck; vice president, Mary Miller; corresponding secretary, Frances Barfield; treasurer, Jean Tilden; recording secretary, Betty Wheeler; marshal, Lucy Williams; chaplain, Margaret Ware; social chairman, Ruth Bader; rush captain, Janet Charles.

GELBERG'S
New Store
College Ave.

Famous
"Kollege Girl"
OXFORDS

Solid white and white with combinations. . .
Regular $4.00 values.

$2.95

FRIDAY IS DOLLAR DAY

Special Purchase of Silk, Washable Dresses
Just Recd.
All sizes.
Val. to $7.95

Dollar Day
Special
$3.95

GELBERG'S

Personal Mention

Sarah Tweed and Ethel Pacheco were pledged to Beta Phi Alpha recently.

Carl Brigman spent last week-end in Pensacola.

Miss Julia Cohen, secretary of the Episcopal Students' League, returned yesterday from St. Petersburg where she attended the Annual Convention of Diocese of South Florida.

Rachel Wylie, secretary of the Presbyterian Student League, is attending a Presbyterial in Pensacola. Miss Wylie is a speak on student work at this college.

Elizabeth Avitabile will be a visitor in Gainesville this week-end.

Edith Perkins is visiting in Jacksonville this week-end.

The members, pledges, and rushees of the Theta Upsilon sorority will spend the week-end in Sumatra.

Mary June Michael and Charlie Pearson have returned to school after a visit in Miami.

Mrs. O. E. Weldon of Tampa is visiting her daughter, Virginia, at the Alpha Omicron Pi house.

Mary Carson and Virginia Wellborn will spend the week-end in Thomasville.

Betty Brooks will spend the week-end in Tampa.

Mercia Scott and Betsey Anderson will be sponsors for the military ball at Rollins College, Winter Davidson, N. C., this week-end.

Members of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority will spend this week-end with Phyllis Flatterson in Miss Sara Meador and Miss Helen Everitt will be the chaperons. Parties will be given for them on the guests of the girls tonight at a steak fry.

Alpha Omicron Pi's Will Give Dance Saturday Night

The members and pledges of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority will entertain tomorrow evening with a formal dance at the house on Park avenue. Presiding over the hostesses will give a buffet supper at the house for their guests. Doris Sedacca, Madeline McCall and Sara Graham are in charge of all arrangements for the evening.

Red roses and cut spring flowers will be the decorations. Fruit punch will be served during the evening.

Chaperons for the occasion will be Miss Florence Bethea, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Parker, Capt. and Mrs. R. A. Gray, Mrs. Fred Gehan, and Mrs Mary T. Whittington. The hostesses are Mary DeQuincy, Virginia Weldon, Jeanne Goss, Alice Porter, Nina Hughes, Laurita Pearson, Mary Carson, Angela Griffin, Sara Graham, Helen Young, Pearle Shepard, Madeline McCall, Doris Godard, Betty Mary Hazel Noe, Sybil Cheshire, Frances Hobbs, Jane Sutton, Susanna Mazmo, Marybeth Goss, Lucille Finley, Alice Sicne and Mildred Williams.

Guests will be Robert Barr, C D. Williams, Jack Blake, Gene Gourley, George Mitchell, Wilmer Blake, Bill Dowda, Pat O'Flinnigan, Dick Moore, Jim Privett, Keith Keiler, Ed Godwin, Malvor Hansen, C. E. T. Flynn, Malcolm McCollum, Skeet Singleton, Louis McDowell, Howard Nelson, Robert Lee Wendell Brannan and Frank Hays.

Zeta Tau Alphas Will Entertain Sunday

The Beta Gamma chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha will entertain its patronesses Sunday night at an after-dinner coffee in the sorority house on College avenue. Tallahasse alumnae and mothers of Zeta Tau Alpha will also be guests at this time.

The rooms of the house will be decorated with lovely arrangements of sweet peas in variegated colors and other spring flowers placed in vases and bowls in appropriate settings.

Corsages will be presented to the honor guests.

Patrons and patronesses for the coming year will be Mr. and Mrs. Owen Bethea, Mr. and Mrs A. E. Thornton, Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Cottrill, Miss Florence Tryon, and Mrs. Lois Boots.

Other guests at this time will be Mr. and Mrs R. E. Selman, Mrs. Jane Allen, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Whitfield, Mr. and Mrs. James Wadsworth, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Coolter, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Reece, Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson, and Mr. and Mrs. William Marshall.

Hostesses at this time will be the members and pledges of the sorority.

CHI OMEGAS WILL BE HOSTESSES FOR RECEPTION SATURDAY NIGHT

The Chi Omega sorority will give a reception in the chapter house tomorrow night from 8 to 12 o'clock honoring members of the faculty, patronesses and alumnae of the sorority.

A variety of cut garden flowers will be used effectively in decorating the rooms of the house which will be opened en suite for the occasion.

Sherbert and cakes will be served to the guests during the evening.

Members of Chi Omega who will entertain at this time are Nancy Adamson, Sally Anthony, Nallwyn Brooks, Sarah Carter, Betty Casben, Mary Phillips Chalker, Mary Louise Chitty, Jane Crafts, Emily Davis, Bunny Dell, Betty Finch, Roberta Gamond, Jean Gilmer, Patricia Green, Martha Goddard, Betty Hamlin, Mary Elizabeth Harris, Betty Harrison, Edith Huddleston, Jean Johnston, Joan Johnston, Mary Lou Kelly, Jo-Smith, Ann Knight, Frances Lewis, Carolyn Logan.

Jean Lykes, Betty Manning, Mary Lewis Manning, Daisy Alice Massey, Frances Moore, Sara Moore, Berube Owen, Virginia Payton, Edith Merrill Ransom, Elise Richards, Mary Shackleford, Hilda Spredlin, Henrietta Thamas, Margaret Vance, Dorothy Waldeck, Genie Whitesell and Jean Mackey, and Sarah Nance.

Pledges of the sorority are Louise Brown, Alice Cannon, Elizabeth Causey, Wilma Coleman, Winifred Hill, Nina Kirkland, Margaret Mickler, Jean Mickler, Ruth Moore, Lucy Pyke, Sally Wells, and Evelyn Murphy.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS MEMBERS ENTERTAIN GAINESVILLE CLUB HERE

As the opening feature of the joint meeting of the International Relations clubs of the University of Florida and the one on this campus there will be an informal banquet in the lower dining room tomorrow night at 6 o'clock.

A color scheme of black and white will be effectively carried out in the place cards and programs which will mark each plate. The place cards will have the initials IRC and the pennants of the two schools embossed on them.

Spring garden flowers arranged with sprays of Pinafore Pinafore the banquet tables.

Special guests at this time will include the new members of the International Relations club on this campus, the members of the Gainesville club, Miss Marion Wahl and Dr. Manning J. Dauer, faculty sponsors of the two clubs.

New members of the I. C. R. International Relations club are Marjorie Tills, Dora Helen Bassett, Anne Griffin, Lucile Stevens, Betty Grleman, Katherine Harper, Irene Braverman, Patricia Hamilton, Mary Elizabeth Re-atrice Highsmith, Mary Ensign, Mary Elizabeth Hall, Mary Lou Marie Swilley, Elizabeth Mathewney, Evelyn Anderson, and Mary Sullivan.

Other members who will attend the banquet are Mary Bassett, Laura Mathis, Rebecca Keith, Clarissa Knight, Grace Mary Webster, Mary Ruth Hall, Frances, Edna Williams, Gertrude Wilson, Maurie Lussier, Agnes Siggins, Hazel Bowman, Mary Kathryn Gibson, Anna Marie Mitchell, Ruth Ida Hymowitz, Margaret Claire Lafferty, Clotilde Kuhn, Dorothy Adams, Mercedes Carrigs, Jane Quinn, Lillian Burdette, and Josephine Stanton Barrett, Marjorie Harris, Sarah Beth Davis, Helen Shepard, Mary Elizabeth Sasser Sangster, and Ruth Persons.

Vances Give Fishing Party and Dinner Honoring Staff

A floundering trip at Wakulla beach was given by Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Vance at their home in the Flambeau staff last Saturday night.

The party left at 8:30 o'clock and upon arriving at the gulf the group was divided into two parties for fishing before which the group went floundering and returned.

A dinner party featuring baked flounder and delicious fish was given for the group Sunday night at the Vance home in Pinecrest.

Faculty members and those on the Flambeau staff who took part in this trip were Miss Marion Irish, Miss Gladys Koch, Mr. and Mrs. Vance, Althea Smith, Ruth Persons, Jane Bowman, Marsha Baker, Artine Gray Lockhart, Frances Webster, Trudy Kuhn, Clotilde O'Rourke, Elaine Hopper, Margaret Claire Lafferty, Eleanor Williams, and Ellie McGuire.

Theta Upsilons Stir Chocolate, Butter, Milk at Party

The pledges of the Theta Upsilon sorority entertained Saturday night at 8 o'clock with a fudge party honoring the members and rushees of the sorority.

The affair was very informal with appropriate decorations and refreshments.

Members and pledges of the sorority present were Mary O'Donnell, Barbara Greene, Lucille Rudolph, Mary Lanehart, Jean Hodges, Mildred Smith, Harriette Jeffries, Elizabeth Leach, Teeny Tomkies, Margaret Neff, Anne Leigh Bollina, Olivia Sorenson, Lois Hughes, Lorraine Cyles, Mary Louise Hemphel, Valerie Hunt, Eunice Moe, Nancy Rogers, Grace Brewer, Dot Stewart, Doris Geiger, Frances Ellis, and Marie Wesley.

COLLEGE CALENDAR

Sunday
11:00 a.m. Church services.
7:45 p.m Vespers.

Monday
3:00 p.m Orchestra rehearsal.
5:00 p.m Collece dinner clearly because of Rotary dinner.
8:00 p.m Sorority meetings.

Tuesday
3:30 p.m Orchestra rehearsal.
7:30 p.m Mortar board chapel.

Thursday
11:30 a.m Y. W. C. A. membership meeting—Augusta Conrad theater.
2:00 p.m Orchestra rehearsal.
8:15 p.m Senior speech recital—Ruth Mack—Augusta Conrad theater.
8:30 p.m Demonstration school operetta—auditorium.

Friday
7:30 p.m One act play—speech department—Augusta Conrad theater.

Saturday
3:00 p.m May Day—open air theater.
8:15 p.m U. of Fla. Glee club—auditorium.

Alpha Gamma Deltas Go to Convention Held in Ocala

The state convention of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority was held on Saturday April 18, in Ocala. Trips to the canal and Silver Springs, luncheon at the Highland Country club followed by a formal tasle dinnerdance and formal banquet in the evening at the Hotel Marion were features of the convention.

Those attending from the chapter on this campus were Middie Moore, Martha Fales, Grace Gray, Nadia Grainger, Wenia Wilkins, Betsey Anderson, Nelle Lamar, Doris Isted, Mary Meiziel, Dorothy Bryan, Catherine McCarry, Mary Ann Hart, Flo Bottcari, Shirley Ann Merrill Scott Amber Turner, Victoria Curtis, Elsie Kersey, Louise Hill, Mary Nell Bradford, Mary Young, Mary Helen Godwin and Mrs. Rosabelle Gilliland.

Tallahassee alumnae who attended were Mrs G. C. Collins, Mrs. Kenneth Williams, Mrs. Gordon Long, Miss Virginia Middlebrooks, Miss Ruth Comstock, and Miss Sue Scarborough of Chattahoochee.

Honor guests at the convention were Mrs. G. C. Collins, alumnae house and finance adviser; Mrs Capers Jones, province vice president; Mrs. Truman Hert, chairman of the state alumnae; Nadie Grainger, retiring president of the local chapter; Betsey Anderson, newly elected president of the chapter; Mary Turner, treasurer of the local chapter; and Mary Nell Prichard, second vice-president of the chapter.

Home Ec Club to Meet

The Home Economic club meeting will meet tomorrow until Tuesday, April 28, at which time there will be an important meeting in the Science building at 7:30.

SOPHOMORES WITH HIGH AVERAGES ARE FETED BY HONORS COMMITTEE

Honoring those sophomores who have maintained a 2.0 average or above during their two years here the Honors committee entertained with an informal tea Tuesday afternoon in Broward Lounge.

Cut spring flowers were used to decorate the lounge for this affair. During the afternoon refreshments of tea, cookies, and mints were served.

Students who are now taking honors work served at the tea. They are Lillian Turlington, Mary Rita Thatcher, Mary Wynne Fox Bush, Alice Porter, Mauvis Lussier, Rosalind Parker, and Rebecca Keith, seniors; Frank Martha Wildman and Daisy Parker, juniors.

The members of the Honors committee who were hosts at this time are Dr. Bernard Kent, chairman, Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, Dr Elizabeth Donahue Andrews, Mr. Henry F Becker, Dr. Beulah Bribley, Dr. Mark DeGraff, and Dr. Ernest Bonnay.

Sophomores invited were: Kathryn Elsine Andrews Phil Ashe, Frances Evelyn Baldwin, Dorothy Edith Barclay, Beverly B Brown, Mary Louise Bryan, Hazel Betty Bussell, Charlotte Carlton, Mary Glenn Conrney, Nellie Louise Colcock, Kitty Mae Crasley, Evelyn Fisher, Maxine Barnes Fugate, Flora Orwin, Rita L. Gillevlen, Evelyn Carolina Glazier, Kathleen Anne Gruppe, Annette Marguerite Harris, Frances Catherine Hobbs, and Mollie B. Holden.

Marjorie Durr Horton, Kathleen Hughes, Elizabeth Louise Jinks, Elizabeth Louise Kluge, Nellie Lamar, Ermine Lawrence, Frances Lewis, Mary Virginia Lopez, Hazel L. Manuel, Dorothea Elizabeth Marsh, Geraldine Bethel Meyers, Dorothy Morrill, Geneva Ellen Nelson, Elizabeth Gordon Outland, Gennelle Wren Perry, Mary Margaret Pfeiffer, Elizabeth Augusta Pierce, Ruth Sara Ruth Ramsaur, Rachel Rochstein.

Eleanor Turner Ruff, Rose H. Safer, Donna Isabelle Sands, Margaret Louise Schmidt, Sarah Dorothy Sapp, Sara Elizabeth Shaw, Marguerite Sigstrom, Marianna Swaik, Jean Turner Tydes, Sarah Bernhardt, Vella, and Constance Lucille Williams.

Former Teacher Is Married Recently

The students of the college and the many friends of Dr. Edith Parks, formerly connected with this campus, will be interested in hearing of her marriage to Herschel Lansley Cozier which took place April 10 in Tampa, Florida.

Mrs. Cozier, who for three years was professor of hygiene here, was a graduate of Woman's Medical college of Philadelphia and since leaving the college she has been practicing in Tampa.

Mr. Cozley, a graduate of the school of pharmacy at the University of Georgia, is associated at present with the firm of Eli Lilly.

The wedding ceremony was held at the home of Miss Margaret Waring. Mr. Cozier remains in Tampa with the Rev. Ryan Wood, of Hyde Park Presbyterian church officiating.

Sorority Entertains With Novel Party

Last Saturday evening, April 18, the members and pledges of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority entertained a few friends at a "backward" party. Games and dancing were enjoyed throughout the evening. Punch and assorted cookies were served. Jack Spratt, Mother Goosrd, and Hasel Noe were in charge of the arrangements.

Dodd Will Play Piano At Theta Meeting

Dr. William G. Dodd, dean of the school of Art, and Sciences, will read poetry and play several selections on the piano Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock for the educational meeting of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

These meetings are a regular weekly feature of the sorority program.

REMEMBER MOTHER
on MOTHER'S DAY with a personality photograph made by . . . .

THE PIKE STUDIO
Residence Studio—317 West College

BENNETT'S CUT PRICE DRUG STORES

Bennett's
TALLAHASSEE, FLA.

BREAKFAST 25¢
Choice of Fruit Juice, Two Eggs, Bacon or Ham, Grits, Toast, Jam, Coffee.

LUNCH 25¢
Hot Waffle, Maple Syrup, Bacon or Ham and Coffee.

DINNER
MEATS
No. 1—Roast Young Turkey and Dressing, Cranberry Sauce
No. 2—Smothered Fried Spring Chicken, Country Style
No. 3—Prime Western Rib Roast or Beef Ad lus
No. 4—Diced Apple Chicken Salad on Lettuce
VEGETABLES
NO. 1—GARDEN PEAS NO. 6—BUTTERED RICE
NO. 2—STRING BEANS NO. 5—BUTTERED BEETS
NO. 3—CREAM POTATOES NO. 6—CABBAGE SALAD BREAD:
BRAN MUFFINS HOT ROLLS
DRINKS:
COFFEE, ICED TEA, BUTTERMILK, SWEET MILK
DESSERTS:
CHOCOLATE SUNDAE or STRAWBERRY SUNDAE

5¢ EXTRA SPECIAL Large Limeade with Sherbet

25¢ COLD PLATE Congealed Fruits, Whip Cream Dressing, Pineapple, Cabbage Salads, Toasted Cheese Sandwich, Potato Chips, say Ice Cream.

25¢ COLD PLATE Chicken Salad, Spiced Ham, ½ Peach, Whip Cream, Crisp Lettuce, Pickles, Potato Chips, and Ice Cream.

25¢ College Inn Club Steak, French Fried Potatoes, Ice Cream.

35¢ Small Western T-Bone Steak, French Fried Potatoes and Ice Cream.

25¢ Cold Baked Ham, Potatoe Salad, Cherries Pickles, Lettuce and Tomatoes, and Ice Cream.

25¢ Hot Plate Lunch
Your choice of one meat, two vegetables, hot muffins and drink as listed above.

35¢ Assid. Cold Meats, Congealed Fruits, Crisp Lettuce, Mayonnaise, Ice Drink.

15¢ Chicken Salad Sandwich, Large Fresh Orange-ade.

10¢ Fresh Strawberry Short Cake with Nuts.

10¢ Giant Double Dip Ice Cream Soda.

10¢ Slice Banana and Ice Cream Short Cake, Whip Cream.

10¢ Double Rich Malted Milk, Two Dips Ice Cream.

5¢ EXTRA SPECIAL Small Chocolate Milk with Ice Cream

Saturday and Sunday 35¢

All Kinds of Short Orders Cooked and Prepared During the Day

Budget Members Are Introduced

Questions and Plans Are Discussed At Meeting

New members of the budget committee were elected by senate were introduced to some of the problems of that group in a meeting held Wednesday night to discuss some of the questions of the present budget and the necessity for drawing up next year's budget immediately.

Evelyn Kennard, present chairman of the committee, introduced the new members of the group, Ellen Fleming chairman, Betty Ostlund, Dorothie Marsh and Annette Annin to the faculty group present which consisted of Dr. Vesilla Shores, Miss Anna May Tracy, Dean Olivia N. Dorman, and Mr. J. G. Kellum. Treasurers of the clubs and various other organizations of the campus were also present at the meeting.

Janette Annin, chairman of the auditing committee, made a request for all organizations to hand in their financial reports for this year and by any financial readjustment requests before April 27. The auditing committee, is attempting to get all books audited before the end of this school year.

Ellen Fleming, new chairman of the budget committee, laid aims before the member, for the planning of the budget before the school year is out in order that next year the budget may function at the very beginning of campus activities.

One of the chief topics of discussion brought before the committee was the request by the three editors of The Flambeau, the Flotsoweo and the Delaff for separate banquets instead of the combined banquet provided for in the present budget. The chairman read a letter from these editors stating that they felt that such a combination of their banquets would defeat their purposes. Considerable discussion followed during which it was pointed out that the plan as presented by the budget committee had been an experiment and that as a sub-committee of the college council they could do very little towards changing it until the council met again which would probably not be until final exam week since they had just had a call meeting. In the light of this and other discussion the request of the publications was refused.

In concluding the business of the evening the committee voted to let the Junior class use the money taken in as a profit from the Junior Minstrels for a junior-senior party if they so desired.

BETA PHI ALPHAS WILL HONOR MISS PYBURN AND MRS. PALMER SATURDAY

Psi chapter of Beta Phi Alpha will entertain in honor of Mrs. Pasco Palmer, chaperone, and Miss Nita Pyburn, faculty advisor, Saturday evening, from eight to ten o'clock.

Those receiving will be Dean Olivia Dorman, Miss Jean Wills, Mrs. Pasco Palmer, and Miss Nita Pyburn.

The house will be decorated artistically with spring flowers and rooms will be opened en suite.

The guest list will include, Miss Lucy Lester, Miss Rowena Longmire, Miss Elizabeth Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hancock, Mr. and Mrs. George Hall, Mrs. Charlotte Beckham, Mrs. Beckham Mendenhall, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bordon, Senator and Mrs. W. C. Hodges, Jr. and Mrs. H. D. Mc-Cleskell, Mr. and Mrs. Lelia Mae Ketchum, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Rogers, Miss Bethel Dickinson, Miss Rachael Wylie, Miss Billie Ruth Currie, Miss Margaret Moore, Miss Rhea Scott, Miss Edna Mae McIntosh, Miss Isabel McKinnel, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Seymour, Dr. and Mrs. Alban Stewart, Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Wasdon, Miss Edith Moore, Miss Dorothy White, Miss Mary Winslow, Miss Lula Margaret Wyly, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Vance, Miss Sadie Young, Miss Anna Mae Tracy.

Dr. Edith Buttingame, Mrs. Dorothy Breen, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bass, Dr. Margie Burks, Miss Elizabeth Autrey, Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, Dr. Kathryn Abbey, Miss Mildred Finnegan, Miss Margaret Dow, Miss Myrtle Labbee, Dr. Dorothy Disher, Dr. Ernest May Deviney, Mrs. Beatrice Williams, Miss Florence Tryon, Mr. and Mrs. Owen F. Sellers, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Kellum, Miss Sarah Herndon, Miss Mildred Hendricks, Miss Clara Hayden, Mrs. Ada Bell Allan, Miss Matilde Flowers, Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Heinlein, Miss Helen Davis, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Doyle, Miss Marion Irish, Dr. Ruth Connor, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Becker, Dr. Beulah Briller, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Lopez, Miss Amy Briggs, Miss Winnie Lee Davis, Miss Mamie Andrews, Miss Gladys Fowler, Mrs. Flossie Curry, Miss Marguerite Taylor, Miss Sarah Thomson, Dr. Margaret Sandels, Dr. Anna Peyton Liddell, Dr. Marion Hay, Dr. Annie Marie Popper, Miss Henrietta Sivyer, Dr. Venila Dorman, Miss Jean Wills, Miss Nita Pyburn, and Miss Nita Pyburn.

Tot: What's the idea of Casper using a bicycle?
Dot: He just heard that it isn't safe to ride without Knee-Action

Almost everyone knows that Knee-Action has greatly increased the comfort of riding, but not so many know that it is an important contribution to safety. Not so many know, either, that you can have the benefits of such improvements because they are manufactured by General Motors in such quantity as to bring the cost within reach of all.

GENERAL MOTORS
A Public-Minded Institution
CHEVROLET · PONTIAC · OLDSMOBILE · BUICK · LaSALLE · CADILLAC

Union Installs New President

Baptist Students Take Charge of Service

Dr. Wallace Alston, young pastor's director in the Presbyterian church, U. S. at Richmond, Virginia, was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Presbyterian Students' league, Sunday.

The drama group of the Presbyterian league represented their Easter play for the Presbytery recently. Students taking part in the play were Jane Tombaugh, Dot Marwick, Harriet Duke, Louise Schwaderer, Pat Campbell, Fenton Woodward, and Janet Cook. The Presbyterian student's choir also presented a group of their Easter selections before the group.

Presbyterian students who attended camp last week-end were Mary Wylie Klueppelberg, Mary Nell Belch Ransom, Louise Brown, Ruth Myrick, Eunice Maine, Virginia Taylor, Alle McClione, Adele Barnard, Annie Rollins, Marian Harold, Marjorie Pain, Kathleen Gruppe, Sara Hitchcox, Harriet Duke, Segrena Stockbridge, Nancy Pell, Dot Marwick, Mrs. Genevieve Kenley, and Miss Rachael Wylie.

Episcopal League Hostess

The Episcopal Students' league was hostess at a meeting of the third district of the Woman's auxiliary, Thursday, April 23. The meeting was held at Ruge Hall and during the day light refreshments were served to the members by the Episcopal girls.

A number of delegates from the Episcopal Students' league left Friday to attend an Episcopal conference at Saint Teresa, Florida. The conference is to be completed like the Young People's Service league camp. Classes are to be held under the supervision of Bishop Frank Juhan. Reverend Mr. William Hargraves, Reverend and Mrs. Girault Jones, and Dr. Grifing.

Contemporary Student Thoughts

Continued From Page Four

orals and pacifists will applaud. But only those who use future gains endangered by a successful attack on war—only these will try by every artifice and means, however contemptible, to stifle the growing strength of this organized youth.

—Height News

JAMES E. Van Zandt, national commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars, upon hearing of the collegian organization, angrily blurts: "The students are too yellow to go to war, therefore they'll never be veterans of a future war," states one college paper. It would be extremely absurd and impractical to even think students of today would not fight if our country were attacked or an invasion evident. College students seem to comprehend the futility and destructiveness of war better than those who have already received their "baptism of fire."

—Davidsonian.

IT WAS always said that he who built a better mouse trap would have the world coming to his door. It might also have been said that he who proposed the dinnest idea would likewise be bathed in bright publicity.

It seems that it was with hopes of such a result that Lewis Gorin, Jr., of Princeton, proposed his Veterans of Future Wars. The idea of a bonus for soldiers who had not yet fought a war was so crazy that the originator had no hopes of its success. He admits that he wanted publicity. There is no doubt that he got it.

It is his indecision of the leaders of the movement that has brought about a change in attitude toward the whole idea. Previously it was thought that all those joining up with the "Veterans" were doing so as a means of furthering peace. Certainly, though, little credence can be attached to their sincerity when they are dashing headlong behind leaders who don't know where they are going.

Gorin and his friends may chance upon some new theory that will satisfy their observers. It must not only advocate peace, however, but must also offer a means of furthering it. If they fail to put forth such a plan, the movement will become just another fad, here today and gone tomorrow.

—Michigan State News.

Conradi to Be Speaker

Dr. Edward Conradi, president of Florida State College for Women, had accepted an invitation to deliver the commencement address May 11 at the Florida Blind.

Magazine Thunderings

Continued From Page Four

lay, always the artist, does not attempt the answer.

Again Harold Laski challenges us. "The Decline of the Professions" is obvious and only through organizing them, with government control perhaps in the case of lawyers, can Laski see how the professions can stop submitting to pressure and resume the integrity they once were supposed to have.

Skimming a few issues we see Albert Jay Nock's article "Free Speech and Free Language," which refers to Dean Russell's article already mentioned. Instead of being for liberty, Mr. Nock says he is for license. For liberty is in existence when some perfectly respectable person gets up and says something that everybody agrees with; license, on the other hand, says Mr. Nock, is when some infernal scoundrel who ought to be hanged anyway, gets up and says something that is true.

In the next column we find, a review which challenges the attention given "I Was Fired From a Nick College." The article "What Religion Means to Me" is

S. P. White of the college infirmary.

Baptist Union Elects

The Baptist Student Union council is in charge of the evening worship at the Baptist church Sunday, April 26. The purpose of the service will be to install the new officers of the Union.

Newly elected officers to be installed are, president, Bernice Oliver; first vice-president, Anne Norene; second vice-president, Mary Ellen Thorpe; third vice-president, Mavis Mackellar; secretary, Louise Doyle; treasurer, Sunshine Maines; publicity chairman, Sara Rutledge; music chairman, Lois Bowen; Y. W. A. president, Esther Goodwin; Sunday school president, Mary Nell Pinckard. B. Y. P. U. president, Esther

College Library Shows Display of Pilgrimage

The Florida State college library is celebrating the beginning of the pilgrimage of the Chaucer pilgrims who started to Canterbury on April 18, as near as the date can be reckoned On display there are pictures representing each of the Canterbury pilgrims. These figures were made by Mr. T. C. Blodgett, of Germantown high school in Philadelphia, and were borrowed for the library by Dr. Stevenson

Salley to Go to Alabama

Dean Nathaniel M. Salley will go to Foley, Alabama, on Tuesday where he has been invited to give the commencement address for the graduating class of Foley high school.

An attempt of Nilla Cram Cook to analyze all the impressions in her life that have gone into her religion. Hearing about the life of Jesus Christ, of Allah, of Buddha, finding a design and harmony in mathematics and science, than as a Camp Fire girl finding the same harmonious design in forests and streams, later living in India and talking love with Gandhi, all these experiences become a part of her religion and she finally decides that religion means a type of action for her.

Finally Stanley Casson's article "Progress and Catastrophe" in which he finds symptoms of decay in the world today strangely analagous to those accompanying the first two periods of retrogression in history, and also George Soule's articles examining the Soviet Russian system come last to mind.

Better articles have appeared since but reporters at that time were acting as guest columnists. Now with a fervent prayer that more and more students will find within the covers of the so-called "quality" magazines these problems of contemporary life grow increasingly more challenging and

Moore Talks on General Race Problems of Today

"General Problems of Race Relations" was the subject discussed by Dr. Coyle Moore, professor of sociology last night in Reynolds parlor. This was the last of a series of lectures which have been held as a follow-up plan of Religious Emphasis Week.

The main points Dr. Moore brought out in his discussion were the questions of race origins and race equality, how race frictions and prejudices grow and develop, and the contributions of such personalities as Father Divine to the race situation.

Breen Recently Chosen By Illinois Honorary

Mrs. Dorothy Breen, assistant professor of Spanish and French has been notified that she has been elected to membership in the University of Illinois chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, general honorary scholastic fraternity. The University of Illinois chapter, established a short time ago, chose Mrs. Breen as the single representative from her class of 2,200 former students.

The honor to Mrs. Breen came on the day that 24 Florida State college seniors received bids to the local chapter of Phi Kappa Phi.

Eveleth to Speak Sunday

Vespers will be held next Sunday evening at 7:15, in the Augusta Conradi theater. Polly Eveleth will be the speaker. The subject will be announced later.

"Photographs of the Moment"
by
WOODY EZZARD
All photographs taken by me at the PANHELLENIC DANCE and that week-end are on sale at PIKE STUDIO
107 West College
See New Type of Finish Reasonably Priced at Fifty Cents.

You can tell by the twinkle in her eye
...she knows the time of day
...for downright goodness and taste... They Satisfy

Sport In Robin Hood's Court

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Attendez! French Talkie Saturday

VOLUME XXIII. Tallahassee, Florida, May 1, 1936 NUMBER TWENTY-SEVEN

Mortar Board Elects Eleven New Members

Thy Ideals' Accompanies March of Black-Robed Torchbearers

COFFEE FOLLOWS TAPPING RITES

Initiation Ceremony to Be Held at Mrs. Richards' Sunday Afternoon

The tapping of new members by Mortar Board, senior honorary society of Florda State College for Women, took place in the college auditorium at 7:30 o'clock on Tuesday evening.

The new members, who were selected from the incoming senior class, were chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and service. Only those persons are eligible who have completed their junior year at the opening of the fall term, are elected by a unanimous vote of the chapter, and whose scholarship standard is three points above the most recent campus averages. This standard is based upon the average of all the terms preceding election.

Traditional Services

The junior class, from which the new members were chosen, was dressed in white, and seated in the center section.

Into the darkened auditorium came the present members of Mortar Board, in caps and gowns, each bearing a gleaming torch of garnet and gold, as the organ played the official song of the organization, "Thy Ideals."

When the semi-circular group of members and faculty advisors had assembled under the glow of three red torches, Miss Sadie Young, senior faculty sponsor of Mortar Board, stepped forward and gave an inspirational talk and a challenge to the new members. This was followed by the reading of the poem, "The Torch," by Katherine Blood. The poem signifies the importance of the goal, not the bearer: the significance of service, not the person.

The auditorium was then flooded with light, and one at a time, the old members left the stage, selected a girl from the center section of juniors, and escorted her to the stage

New Members

The eleven new members tapped were Josephine Binicn, Hasel Bowman, Frances Forth, Mary Kathryn Gibson, Mary Jeanne McKay, Martha Makemson, Daisy Parker, Shirley Ctens, Marjorie Tillis, Sue Whitaker, and Eleanor Williams.

Following the tapping ceremony a coffee was given for the new members at the apartment of Miss Sadie Young, on 647 West Pensacola street. Those present were the new members, the alumnae members, as well as the present members on campus. Sponsors and faculty members acted as hostesses for the affair.

The initiation ceremony will be held Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs Harold F. Richards in Country Club estates.

The purpose of Mortar Board is to provide for cooperation between senior honorary societies for women, to promote loyalty, to advance a spirit of service and fellowship among university women, to maintain a high standard of scholarship, to recognize and encourage leadership, and to stimulate and develop a finer type of college women.

Torchbearers

The Torchbearers, the local chapter of Mortar Board, was organized on this campus in 1925 and admitted to membership in the national organization of Mortar Board in 1931. Not less than five nor more than twenty students may be elected for membership each year.

Seniors this year who were members of Mortar Board include Katherine Blood, Minna Dunn, Margaret Graham, Sara Malcolm Krentzman, Gertrude Kuhn, Dorothy Leach, Lucy Gee Linn, Betty Meyer, Ruth Persons, Murae Reddick, Mary Etta Thistlethwaite, Lillian Turlington, and Edith Webb.

Last Recitals Scheduled

The last of the regular weekly recitals by students of the school of music will be presented on Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 on May 6, and May 13, 1936.

Waive May 1 Privileges

After May 1 students will not automatically acquire the privileges of their next class. They will remain in the same classification until after final exams when grades have been recorded in the registrar's office. This announcement comes from the registrar's office. Mr. S. R. Doyle, registrar, pointed out that this privilege has never been officially granted to the student body.

Eight Chosen For Spirogira

Bids Given to 6 Juniors, 2 Freshmen as Odd Honorary Taps

Eight students were tapped by Spirogira, the honorary for outstanding Odds, at lunch Tuesday.

The six juniors tapped are: Honey Forth, Mary Katherine Gibson, Daisy Parker, Betty Peck, Shirley Stevens, and Marie Taylor.

Winifred Ewart and Sarah Lytle are the two freshmen who were tapped.

Ribbons of black and white, the colors of Spirogira, were pinned on the new pledges immediately after lunch. After that, the pledges, dressed in black and white dresses and wearing white cotton stockings, paraded with broomsticks in front of the Ad building.

The members and pledges attended a banquet in the dining room Tuesday night. The favors were individual fish-bowls in which theer were live goldfish.

The pledging ceremony was held Tuesday night. Later in the evening Miss Elizabeth Autrey gave a party at the Sweet Shop for members and pledges.

Officers of Spirogira are: Beth Daane, president; Peggy McMichael, vice-president; Mary Jeanne McKay, secretary-treasurar. Other members are: Martha Makemson, Mary Miller, Jo Binion, Janice Borton, and Betty Mack.

Members in the faculty are: Miss Elizabeth Autrey, Mrs. Pearl Hents Beverly, Miss Ezda Mae Deviney, Miss Olivia N. Dorman, Miss Maude Flowers, Miss Mary Settle, Miss Elizabeth Thompson, Miss Anna Mae Tracy, and Miss Edith West.

Two Clubs Hold Joint Meeting

University Group Brings 17 Delegates; FSCW Has 41 Present

At the joint meeting of the International Relations clubs of the University of Florida and the one of this campus, Saturday, April 25, Gainesville was represented by 17 delegates, while Tallahassee had 41 attending.

In session at Broward club room, the subject, "Whether or Not to Apply Sanctions," with special references to Germany, was debated upon with the University of Florida speakers taking the side for sanctions against Germany. Neal Dale introduced the university speakers, Richard Asheby, Jack Markgraf, and Kenneth Horton, while Anna Marie Mitchell introduced the Florida State college speakers, Clarissa Knight and Grace Mary Webster. After this an open discussion was led by Neal Dale.

William Norwood gave his idea of Germany's program, followed by H. L. Korloskar, from India and a former student of Cornell, speaking on clubs for interest of the students on that campus. Rebecca Keith then led a discussion on organizaiton.

Preceding the meeting a banquet in the lower college dining room was held at which Anna Marie Mitchell gave the welcoming address. The tables were lighted by candles and attractively decorated with place cards, programs, and individual rose buds and fern.

Anna Marie Mitchell and Neal Dale were chairmen of the meeting, while Miss Marian Irish and Dr. Manning, J. Dauer were the faculty sponsors of the two clubs.

Among the delegates attending from the University of Florida were Buck Sitzler, Jack Markgraf, William Norwood, H. L. Korloskar, Richard Ashby, Kenneth Horton, Mar Baer, Robert B. Beasley, Kenneth Lister, Allan Searle, Sam Rogers, Stanley Gaylord, Neal Dale and Dr. Manning J. Dauer.

Those attending from Florida

Continued on page two

Psychologists Conduct Test For Traits of Ideal People

Health and Personality Head List for Both Men and Women

By JEWEL TURNER

The fact that intelligence more than good looks appeals to students of Florida State College for Women was shown in a recent experiment carried on by Dr Dorothy Disher, of the Psychology department, in which 347 girls listed five traits for both their ideal man and woman.

In explaining some of the reasons for carrying on such an experiment Dr. Disher says "The question of ideals, goals to be striven for in the development of personality, is always an interesting one for anyone engaged in the formation of personalities. It is supposed that the ideals of an adolescent group must be influential in shaping the adult that finally emerges. Certainly they must serve as a measuring rod, against which all adults, and possibly other adolescents, must stand for diagnosis. What does the adolescent look for in his ideal man or woman?

"With this quesiton in mind we undertook to find out what girls at Florida State College for Women, girls for the most part well advanced in the adolescent period, consider the five most outstanding characteristics of their ideal man and their ideal woman."

Dr. Disher continued by stating that "anyone undertaking such an investigation encounters numerous interesting and puzzling problems. For instance, you ask for five chracteristics, and a girl writes of her hero, 'He must be tall, have black hair, blue eyes, and a good physique.' There you have four characteristics, all on one line. What to do with them? In this study, whatever appeared on the paper was tabulated. That is, when the ideal woman was described as "intelligent but tactful," a tally mark was placed by each of those traits.

Another problem that was encountered, according to Dr. Disher, was the interpretaiton of the language. What did the student have in mind when she described the ideal woman as "one who conducts herself properly at all times?" Did it mean she was poised? Courteous? Cultured? Moral?

One student wrote that her ideal woman must have a "recognition of the possibilities of creative love." Was this to be interpreted as a mental trait? A moral trait? A phase of personality?

Since 347 women, most of them sophomores, were submitted to the test there should have been 1735 traits mentioned. However, owing to the multiplication of traits by some of the girls, there finally resulted 1965 traits for women and 1906 traits for men. This shows that the girls were slightly less profuse in their description of males than of females.

"In studies of this sort, according to Dr. Disher, all the subjects do not submit their honest opinions. This one was no exception in that respect. No doubt some of the girls were purposely facetious. However, it is doubtful that they cooperated in their facetiousness to the extent of multiplying one trait 50 times."

According to the girls the ideal man must be honest, ambitious, and have a sense of humor, good health, and "good personality." They also placed ahead of good looks such traits as "good personality," neatness, a sense of humor, honestry, good health and poise.

One hundred and fifteen traits were listed as both common to the ideal man and woman.

Autrey Named Chairman For Sophomore Council

Katherine Autrey was alected chairman of the newly appointed Sophomore council at a meeting held this week under the direction of Marjorie Raulerson, sponsor.

Other officers elected were Jane Mills Brown, vice chairman; Frances Douglas, secretary; Florence Ward, treasurer, and Sue Penner, chaplain.

Appoint YW Committees

The committe cahirmen for the executive cabinet of the Young Women's Christian association have been announced by Janice Borton, president. They are as follows: world friendship, Jane Hubbard; playground, Bonny Lowry; vespers, Polly Eveleth; worship, Dora Helen Baggot; personnel, Anne Norris; church, Marjorie Noggle; membership, Katheryn Todd and Sara Nance, and social, Sallie Burt Nuzum.

Speech Play to Be Given

"Ladies in Waiting" To Be Presented May 7 and 8

The speech department of Florida State College for Women is presenting "Ladies in Waiting," a three-act play by Cyril Campion, in the Augusta Conradi theater on May 7 and 8.

The play, under the direction of Kemper Martin Moore, is the final speech department play of the season and is one of the most exciting ones that the students have produced. The setting is in Yorkshire, England, at the country home of Lady Spate. Una, her niece, who is to be married the following day, has her wedding attendants as house guests. The atmosphere should be a jolly, cheerful one; on the contrary, superstition, mystery, and crime prevail.

A string of pearls, the groom's gift to the bride, disappears. Were t . stolen? If so, by w om? Was it the "bogarts" or one of Una's friends? And is there an attempt at murder? These are one of the problems that confront Pamela Dark, the lady detective.

Sara Hosea plays the part of Janet Garner, the psychic person who believes she can solve the crimes with the aid of a seance. However, Pamela Dark, played by Ruth Mock, distrusts her powers, and proceeds to discover the solution by practical methods. The role of the bride who is the victim of the crimes, is taken by Betty Peck. Emily Johnson has the part of Lady Spate, the bride's aunt. Others in the cast are Vivian Marshall as Dora, the paid companion and second cousin to Lady Spate; Louise Schwaderer as Mrs. Dawson, the talkative old cook; Ida Larkin as Maud, the wide-eyed little maid; and Betty Sweet Smith and Frances Lingle as Phil and Pat, a pair of flippant sophisticated sisters, who are Una's bridesmaids.

Committees for the production are, stage manager, Sally Burt Nuzum; prompters, Dorothy Dietrich and Lorine Guin; publicity, Betty Boggs, Florence Jones, Eloise Prink, Sara Mae Davis, and Barbara Welles; tickets, Frances Lewis, Mary Ann Moore, Rachel Seay, Shirley Pemberton, and Margery Jones; programs, Jean Treadwell; ushers, Helen Young; properties, Lurline Goodman; off-stage noises, Lillian Burford; and business manager, Betty Boggs.

Moore Speaks On Racial Problems

Professor of Sociology Ends Lecture Series

"General Problems of Race Relations," was discussed by Dr. Coyle Moore, professor of sociology during the last of a series of lectures which have been held as a follow-up plan of religious emphasis week.

Dr. Moore began his talk with a brief discussion of race origins, explaining that the main difference between various types of men was physiological, and that race equality is the speed of foot of different individuals and keenness of insight, as there are no other adequate facts to support the theory of superiority of race over another if given equal opportunity.

With these introductory remarks Dr. Moore launched into a discussion on the racial situation in America. He stated that probably the two mots important factors are race friction and race prejudice These are brought about for the most part when two races compete with each other economically. They are also brought about by the percentage of the minority grou in the total population. Since the depression and even before, the problem that we have had here in the south is that the negro is being shoved farther and farther down the economic ladder. The whites invaded and took over occupations and trades that were formerly negro jobs. The negroes are in a serious dilemma from the standpoint of making a living, according to the speaker.

Dr. Moore also pointed out that many present racial adjustments in the south are inconsistent; at one time the people act on one

Continued on page two

New Editor

Hazel Bowman, recently elected editor of the Florida Flambeau in the annual spring elections on the campus, came into office this week. She formally announced Wednesday night the members of the staff who will assist her during the coming year.

Affair Held by Flambeau

Editor, Business Manager Announce New Staffs For Coming Year

The Flambeau staff for the coming year was announced Wednesday night by Hazel Bowman, editor, and Lillie McGuire, business manager, at the publication's annual banquet, which was held Wednesday night at the Dutch Kitchen.

Members of the editorial staff include the following: Eleanor Williams, associate editor; Martha Baker, assistant editor; Pearle Shepard, managing editor; news editor, Evelyn Fisher; art editor, Caroline Adams; exchange editor, Virginia Early; feature editors, Billie Hotard, Jane Quinn; society editor, Margaret Claire Lafferty; assistant, Minna Agress; sports editors, Elizabeth Turner and Ella Virginia Brooks; outside news, Clotilde O'Rourke; literary editors, Sarah Beth Davis and Sarah Sealey; special writer and reviewist, Arline Lockhart; feature writers, Ethel Grassfield, Margaret Jean Duncan, Frances Hartley, Mary Lynn Massie, and Eloise Andrews.

The business staff includes Jean Duncan, assistant business manager; Jane Quinn, advertising manager; Nan O'Shaughnessy, assistant.

All members of the new Flambeau staff have worked for at least a year on the publication. Hazel Bowman and Lillie McGuire, who were elected to their positions by the student body, served this year as news editor and assistant business manager, respectively.

Eleanor Williams and Martha Baker acted this year as literary editor and feature editor. Pearle Shepard and Evelyn Fisher are promoted from the reportorial staff. Staff members who have been reappointed to the same positions include Caroline Adams, Virginia Early, and Margaret Claire Lafferty. Clotilde O'Rourke has been assistant advertising manager this year and Arline Lockhart has served as copy editor. The other members of the staff have served this year as reporters.

During the banquet program, Ruth Persons, outgoing editor, presented Flambeau keys to five reporters chosen by the staff for their outstanding service. Those receiving keys were Ella Virginia Brooks, Pearle Shepard, Evelyn Fisher, Sarah Sealey, and Caroline Adams.

Dr. Heinlein to Give New Course Next Year

Dr. Christian Paul Heinlein, professor of experimental psychology, will offer a course next year entitled, Contemporary Points of View in Psychology. The course will be given the first semester and is open to juniors and seniors who have taken a course in elementary psychology.

Since this course alternates with other courses which Dr. Heinlein teaches, it will not be given the year after next. Contemporary points of view in psychology is a course that has been planned to orient students in the most interesting and vital phases of psychology as expressed in the points of view of leading psychologists throughout the world.

Press and CGA Send Sixteen to Join Meet

Miami University is Host To Delegates From Seven Schools

FLASTACOWO IS AWARDED PRIZE

Rollins College Selected As Assembly Site For Next Year

Sixteen delegates from Florida State College for Women were present at a joint convention of the Florida Student Government association and the Florida Intercolegiate Press association held on last Friday and Saturday at the University of Miami.

The convention opened with a joint session at which Harry Vetter, president of student government at the University of Miami, presided, and the delegates adjourned for separate sessions. At this time discussions of current campus problems were led by delegates from the seven Florida colleges represented and the business of the convention was conducted.

Resolutions Passed

Among the resolutions passed by the FSGA were the following: first, a resolution to the effect that FSGA approves the establishment of a conference of high school student councils for the purpose of promoting self-government among high school students, with emphasis on honor; a resolution providing that every member college in FSGA provide education for honor in its freshman orientation program, and that each college should later in the year observe a special honor week, a resolution expressing the approval of member colleges of participation in campus politics as good training for intelligent citizenship in life after college; a resolution approving open forums as a means of stimulating student thought; a resolution favoring the granting of athletic scholarships, to be awarded on the basis of academic standards and scholarship as well as athletic achievements; and a final resolution expressing the appreciation of the delegates for the hospitality of the students and administration of the University of Miami.

FSGA officers elected for the coming year are John Esterline, University of Miami, president; Dan Hall, St. Petersburg Junior college, first vice-president; Claudia Osborne, Stetson university, second vice-president; Mary Miller, F.S.C.W., secretary; Sue Whitaker, F.S.C.W., treasurer; and Ralph Gibbs, Rollins college, convention chairman Next year the convention will be held at Rollins colege, in Winter Park, Florida.

Publications Awards

At the final banquet FIPA awards were made for the most outstanding publications of Florida colleges during the 1935-36 term. The newspaper award, which was bestowed on the basis of improvement made since last year, was given to the Rollins Sandspur, with the University of Florida Alligator, the St. Petersburg Junior college Wooden Horse, and the Florida Flambeau ranking second, third, and fourth, respectively. The newspapers were judged on the basis of approximately 200 points, and the four which ranked highest were all within 10 points of each other.

The yearbook award, also conferred on the basis of improvement, was given to the Flastacowo, published by Florida State College for Women First place in the literary magazine field went to the Rollins Flamingo, the judgment in this instance being based upon the relative merits at the present time of the competing publication. The Florida Review, of the University of Florida, and the Distaff, published by F.S.C.W., were accorded second and third place, respectively.

Officers elected to serve the FIPA for the coming year are James Daar, University of Miami, president; Bill Chambers, University of Florida, vice-president; Elaine Keewan, Rollins college, secretary; and Eleanor Williams, F.S.C.W., treasurer.

Speakers Present

Among the speakers at the convention were Dr. John Thom Holdsworth, dean of the School of Business Administration at the University of Miami, who deliver-

Continued on page two

Florida State Holds Annual May Festival

Sophomores Will Honor Senior Sisters At Breakfast

UNIVERSITY GLEE CLUB WILL SING

Identity of Queen to Be Revealed at Open Air Ceremony

Tomorrow is an important day on the social calendar of Florida State college. Beginning wit the sophomore-senior breakfast at 6 o'clock the day will include three other interesting affairs—crowning of the May queen in the afternoon at 5 o'clock, the annual Glee club concert by the University of Florida Glee club that evening, and a dance in the gymnasium afterwards.

Annual Breakfast

The details of the breakfast and the May festival are always kept secret until they happen. The breakfast is in charge of Hilda Spradlin, newly elected president of next year's junior class, and will be attended by seniors and their sophomore sisters. Members of the newly formed sophomore council will serve.

The setting for this year's May day program will be laid in the days of Robin Hood, a picturesque program of dancing and speaking parts to precede the climax, the crowning of the queen and the revealing of the identification of the fifteen maids. Jean Lykes is general chairman.

Approximately forty-four men will be included on the roster of the Glee club which appears Saturday night and in addition there will be two specialty men, a tap dancer and an adagio dancer For this concert the program has been considerably revamped and will include semi-popular numbers and negro spirituals. These will form the greater part of the entertainment with a group of original skits bringing the program to a close.

The skit, "Cleopatra," written by Billie Van Brunt of Tallahassee, has been included on the program by popular request. The dancing, adagio dancing, chorus dancing, absurd dialogue, a stooge and "handsome" chorus girls are features of the skits.

The officers of this year's Glee club include Brian McCarty, Port Pierce, president; Sherwood Jones, Jacksonville, vice president, Frank Myres, Gainesvill, business manager; Harold Rikert, St. Petersburg, publicity; Walter Rollert, Miami, secretary; Arthur Jordan, Clearwater, assistant business manager, and George Mitchell, Tampa, skit director. Professor John W. DeBruyn is the director.

The dance that will follow at the gymnasium will be open to seniors, students of other classes who are escorted by members of the Glee club and members of the local Glee club. The senior class is sponsoring the appearance of the Glee club and will entertain members at dinner in the dining hall. Anita Jones is in charge of the dance arrangements.

Becker Writes Study Outline

Geographic Journal Has Chosen Article For Publication

The Journal of Geography, the official journal of the national council of geography teachers, has recently accepted an article written by Professors Henry F Becker and Gladys Fawley, entitled, "Some Exercises in Geography Study Techniques for College Freshman." The article will appear in a fall issue of the magazine.

The article grew out of an effort to improve study methods and testing techniques in the geography department at the Florida State College for Women, according to Professor Becker. It represents an effort to analyze the skills essential to the study of geography at the college level.

"This analysis grew out of the recognition that the majority of college freshmen lack the essential abilities and study habits requisite to the effective use of geographic materials, the article states. "For most students, poor study techniques are due mainly to the lack of geographic study between the early junior high school and the freshman year in college and to the inadequate training in these skills in the grade school. In order to develop accurate geographic thinking at the college level it was found necessary to include in the freshman geography manual exercises designed to establish or re-establish the study skills necessary in the use of geographic material These exercises were planned to develop in the student the ability o scure geographic data independently."

The article includes types of exercises and tests employed in directing students in the effective use of maps, pictures, graphs, statistics and reading materials in the study of geography. Rather than the textbook method, the method encourages the student to organize his own material.

Students Star Gaze in Early Morning Hours

That the students of Florida State college are star conscious was revealed Tuesday night when about seventy-five girls reported for an observation from 12 to 2 o'clock.

Jupiter, the largest of the planets, was the object of the observation which was conducted in front of the administration building by the physics department, Dr. H. F. Richards and Miss Elizabeth Lynn were hosts for the evening.

Each student made two observations of Jupiter and its moons, four of which the telescope made visible. Diagrams were drawn for each observation and a comparison of the two was made to see how far and where the moons had progressed since the first observation. Interesting results were discovered by the students who found that the moons move quite a distance within an hour's time.

Being able to see the planet was not the only attraction of the early morning gathering. Coffee and crackers were served in the physics laboratory room to all students present.

Four-H Club Play Day Will Include Baseball, Relay Races, Hit Pin

The physical education department of Florida State college is sponsoring a Four-H club play day May 9 on the campus for more than 150 children from neighboring counties.

The program will begin at 10 o'clock, and the morning activities will include team games, baseball, relay races, soccer, mass volleyball and hit pin. In the afternoon the children will participate in folk dances, individual challenged stunts and swimming in the pool until 4:30 o'clock.

The counties to be represented are Calhoun, Gadsden, Jefferson, Leon, Taylor and Wakulla.

French Talkie To Be Given May 2

French Society Sponsors Show to Be Given At State Theater

"Paris Mediterranee," a full-length French talkie filmed in France, will be presented at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, May 2 at the State theater under the auspices of Beta Pi Theta, national French honorary. The price is twenty-five cents.

The picture, which stars the French actors, Annabell and Jean Murat, is a comedy of errors concerning the romantic story of a young French girl and boy and an English lord. There will be English translations of the French in subtitles throughout the picture.

In addition to this movie, there will be a travelogue entitled, "Paris Sunshine," showing scenes of Parisian life and views of Paris, the explanations of which will be in English.

The entire program is scheduled to last approximately two hours Tickets may be obtained from members of Beta Pi Theta, the bookstore, or in the lower floor of the Administration building during mail hours.

Cary Makes Talk On Observations

Heinlein, Andrews Also Speak at Seminar

A psychology seminar was held Wednesday evening at the home of Dr. Hugh L. Waskom, associate professor of psychology, at which Dr. C. P. Heinlein, professor of experimental psychology; Dr. Elizabeth G. Andrews, director of personnel; and Virginia Cary, a student in psychology, spoke.

Dr. Heinlein told of the meeting of the Southern Society of Philosophy and Psychology which he attended at Atlanta, Georgia, during Easter vacation. The society, he said, is unique in that it combines both philosophy and psychology. At its meetings philosophers are given an opportunity to review the assumption of psychologists, and both groups are enabled to combine their efforts in order to get a more comprehensive view of the universe and of human nature.

During the meetings of the society, stated Dr. Heinlein, the fact that psychologists are breaking away from the mechanistic theory of life and human behavior was impressed. He was interested in noting the new developments in hypnosis and the lesser emphasis given number concepts in the interpretations drawn from experimental situations.

Virginia Cary revealed in her talk some of the data compiled during a recent class problem of observing social contacts of the children in the nursery school.

The class made two hundred and seven observations at fifteen second intervals, using as subjects six boys, whose ages ranged from two years and ten months to four years and three months, and eight girls, whose ages ranged from four years and three months to five years.

Eight hours and thirty-seven minutes of actual observation was made. Thirty per cent of that time the children spent in contact with adults, and forty per cent was in contact with another child. Seventeen per cent of the contacts were group contacts, while forty-one per cent were individual.

It was found from the data analyzed by Virginia, that the boys made five per cent more social contacts than the girls; but the girls made 3.27 times as many contacts with children as with adults, and the boys made only 1.4 times as many contacts with children as with adults. Of the entire group, a small boy who was most outstanding for having no adult contacts had the greatest number of social contacts with children. Similarly, the girl who had the most contacts with adults made the fewest contacts with children.

Of all the contacts fifty per cent were verbal and twenty-six per cent were physical, while ten were involved in twenty-three per cent of the contacts. The girls made 6.04 per cent more verbal contacts and 7.93 per cent more physical contacts than the boys. The girls were far more social, but the fact that the boys were younger and that the girls had been in school longer should be considered.

The boys made no social contacts more often than six girls, one child making no contacts in 38.50 per cent of the time he was observed.

Contrary to the statement of Charlotte Buhler, Viennese student of child development., who said "Boys appear much more inclined to display obstinate behavior than girls," the class found the girls in our nursery school to be slightly more negative.

A note of interest in the report was that 3 per cent of the time the children spent crying, but none of the crying was done by the boys. The low percentage of crying is unusual, for it has been found to be much higher in other nursery schools.

Dr. Andrews reported on the meeting of the American College Personal association which she attended recently.

"What Can The College Graduate Contribute?" Is Question Today

Writer Sees the College As a Large-Scale Producer

By NELLIE BAHRT

With four factors numerically required on the average to state the cost of the modern youth's college education, the question arises, "How much is the college graduate of today able to contribute toward solving the problems we are confronting?" We need only to take a peep around the nearest corner and instantly the crawl back into our shell, the answer constantly and all-too-loudly ringing in our ears. The burden of proof must lie in our present—or future — educational system.

Clearly, the college does not want the responsibility. It is a large-scale producer, labeling and distributing its wares according to distinct—and usually unique—specifications, save for the few credential edicts of social experiments—and there is no service departments which makes refunds to dissatisfied customers. You buy at your own risk.

The liberal arts college and its modern counterpart disregard the fact that today we are living in an era of high specialization and that without competition and unfortunately, the tempo of present-day living has brought its mark to bear on the college curriculum. The substance motive is foremost in our present-day system and the poor, biastral scholar, who is talented and industrious, becomes a pitiful sight in his horn-rimmed spectacles, with his round world sets him upon the mantlepiece, an ornament to be remotely admired by harassed, yet disinterested creatures.

What Is Wrong?

What is wrong? Surely is cannot be the professors who must choose one of two alternatives we find. Either they must perform their function of competent and required work or they must lose their positions on the grounds of inefficiency.

It all reverts to the college and its educational plan, the credit system which is the typical American college plan of intergrated intellectual development! The plan has been rightly referred to as the "summum of American education." the coin is the number of hours each week required of the student's time; then, at the end of the year, out pops the credits for the course. How truthfully descriptive that is of mindless-ness of the course of study and the attitude of both student and professor toward them!

The professor has tried to conceal his zest for knowledge and respond to the cry of the outside world for trained technological artists; he has subordinated himself to the traditional education plan through the necessity of earning his daily living, and with it he has buried what of the true scholar was lodged in his heart. There is no longer any stimulus to keep it alive. The college professor who is in the true sense a teacher is not to be pitied for his position per se; he is unhappy because he has become a slave to this credit system of compartmentalization. He will neatly arrayed in their separate little cubby-holes; he has no time to teach others how to think individually and integrate that knowledge. That to him is heresy. He would be sure if the system allowed, the supreme joy of doing so.

Indiscriminate Admission

Possibly one of the chief causes of many evils in the college course is that we have been indiscriminate admission. Since time-honored tradition numbers conventional society who could so afford, has always shown an interest in going to college, either for playing football, professional training or for "culture's sake"—college education in general has been the goal of our democratic standards. It is thus that we find ourselves with a heterogeneous student body of extreme variation between scholastic achievement and the vast number of degree holders. It is here that the degree is the objective of colleges education and that the student body is interested primarily in earning a living. Many are in college because their fathers spent time at college, when asked, concerning the vocation in which they are interested. "Have you a degree?", College is to them a mere routine full-filling of the social requisite, and their time is spent solely in that end.

In a recent "General Culture Test" conducted during a graduating college survey to determine the requirement of general knowledge, 39 per cent of the seniors fell below the average for the freshmen. A disappointing small amount of knowledge was demonstrated by the seniors after four years of college, which had been expensive intellectual development!

Specialized Learning

Could it be that the theme songs and hearty merry-making of college life are the forces responsible for distracting youths from the desire for learning? If so, it is probably a cure that has much to offer—not the boredom of the routine study which they are compelled to follow in the name of chapter assignments; they have not been taught to enjoy the art of thinking—without that, books are set aside in their minds as things of duty, with a task to be performed.

Fortunately, there is still existent in the world a remnant of the lost art, such as Oxford. There can be little curses, but research scholarship; through the latter, that body of true scholars finds rich living. Students gradually realize that they will be England's leaders, their love of scholarship and culture will be their guide. Here in America, one who is to enter public bodies must, rather than spend the time in educating himself to think intelligently, keep in the graces of the influential and know the weaknesses of public opinion and sentiment. The definite lack of political philosophy is reflected in our political campaigns, with the real issues so vague and indeterminable that there is hardly a line of division between opposition parties; the ability to make essential distinction is not required in the political ring; one simply lines up behind his favorite man along with his string of campaign promises.

Problem of Education

Educated youth wants to revolt against the present set-up and doesn't know which way to turn. The stress has been laid on practical matter, abstract subjects not dealing with the specific looming of hurdles to be cleared. The student realizes the futility of working for economic policies, and he is smart enough to know that attempts at patching up holes in the wall would not be worth the picster. History has recorded the result of revolutionary methods; we know that we cannot destroy without constructive something to replace the present order. Revolutionary tactics would have to be positive rather than negative. Our democratic parliamentary adding new laws to the excess of previous ones. Yet, it is difficult to find a startling place to attack when one is engulfed in the same sea of bewilderment which the whole system is suffering. The problem is where and not to sacrifice the execution of individual philosophy and beliefs—a gamble, to be sure—to join the mad scramble for a decent livelihood, ordered by a political machine which has sapped fr— him all hope of independent progress.

There is too much educational conformity and standardization, to avoid such results in students. the machinery must be scrapped. When American college education has become of the nature that whole college generations will partake of liberal rather than special education and respond to the real problems of contemporary life, America will at last gladly make use of impartial, intelligent thought: for its sponsors will be her leaders.

TWO CLUBS HOLD JOINT MEETING

Continued from page one

State colleges were Clarissa Knight, Rebecca Keith, Grace Mary Webster, Agnes Siggers, Nan O'Shaughnessy, Mary Bentley Gibson, Gertrude Kuhn, Ruth Perrone, Laura Medina, Mary Beth Davis, Marjorie Harris, Mercedes Garriga, Doris Isted, Edna Williams, Brad Sanger, Blanche Barrett, Polly Ann White, Beatrice Rich Smith, Marjorie Wills, Irene Braverman, Dora Helen Bagnoli, Mary Cat Reynolds, Virginia Bennett, Education Club; Caroline Adams, Anna Koons, Maria Lassere, Clotilde O'Rourke, Jane Quinn, Betty Haich, Betty Coleman, Katherine Hayes, Patricia Simpson, Mary Evans, Sara Sealey, and Anna Maria Mitchell.

Abbey Chosen Archive Director in Advisory Capacity Over Survey

Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, head of the history department, has been appointed by Dr. Phillip M. Hamer, national archivist, to serve in an advisory capacity for a federal archives survey which recently has been instituted in this state.

Dr. Dorothy Dodd, alumna of this college, will carry on the active administration of the survey as full-time executive secretary and assistant regional director. Work on the survey has been made possible through an act of congress in 1934 creating the national archives and records service. This act has already been started in Jacksonville, Miami, Tallahassee, Pensacola, Tampa, Miami, Key West and other cities and towns in Florida.

The survey is expected to uncover many historical records to prove invaluable to historians. students and others to the degree as the objective of colleges education. However, the survey also is interested primarily in earning a living. Many are in college because their fathers spent time at college, when asked, concerning the vocation in which they are interested. "Have you a degree?", College is to them a mere routine fulfilling of the social requisite, and their time is spent solely in that end.

The federal archives are defined as "unpublished records of any agency of the government of the United States, executive, legislative, or judicial, which were made in the performance of the functions of that agency, and any other record which has come into the possession of that agency."

Moore Speaks On Racial Problems

Continued from page one

theory and philosophy and at one time on another.

"Hindu and sanitary conditions are deplorable in the negro quarters of most, if not all of our American cities. We cannot ignore these conditions even if we want to, for we all are infinitely affected by other unsanitary conditions this race in the negro quarters are bound to arise in our quarters during some time or other."

In closing Dr. Moore said: "We need guidance through careful, intelligent and scientific scrutiny. In the past we have had too much heat and not enough light shed on these problems."

I. Lovpi Loses To Van Iscreme By 204 Tastes

'Weighty' Problem Forces Freshman to Choose Favorites

After much "politickin'," controversies, and changing of minds it was announced last Miss Van Iscreme, dressed in her latest ensemble of chocolate which was delectably decorated with a sprinkling of nuts, has won the popularity contest with a vast majority of 729 votes. Her steadfast rival, Mr. I. Lovpi, outlisted in a suit of all colors and designs came in with 525 votes. Some other delectable "runner-uppers" participating in the contest but whose votes were not quite as numerous are Mr. Walter Mouth, Miss Chalk Litpi, Mr. Pimsepal Upton Downe, Mr. Chew Kinair, Miss Lemmon Pi, and Mr. Berry Short.

On being asked where she would cast her vote one cynical student made the statement that she preferred Miss Lemmon Pi, because she (the Junior) had scored on the weight, "Huh, such cruel-

It appears that the faculty and the Junior Class have decided to do full justice to the merits of Miss Van Iscreme and her ensemble because of her popularity. Wondering why the Juniors chose to stay up all hours of the nigh' making out some trickery ballots, and why "huskies" seem to be able to "run away with everything." Even Downe, Mr. Pimsepal, is cheerful.

One bewildered freshman, naturally not being able to make up her mind, thought that she would start stated that she would vote for Mr. Pimsepal Upton Downe because he seemed to express the sentiments of the student body as presented with such a "weighty" question.

Now, dear readers, we come to the climax of the story. "What will result from such an election?" The greedy Juniors are already shining eyes for the return of Miss Van Iscreme and her ensemble while the gal with the bulky torso sighs with abandoned hope at the mention of her name. "Is a Van Iscreme or Lose." Their situation is desperate. What shall the outcome be? Shall Miss Van Iscreme and her ensemble return to the Junior Class with shining yells and cheers of delight, or will she stay away to be bemoaned by the student body as "Whatever Who Knows?" We refer you to Miss Tracy, she alone can answer.

Florida to Give Tests In Schools Over State

Dr. Mark H. DeGraff, professor of education at Florida State College for Women, who is in charge of this year's vocational and guidance program for the state colleges for association, announced that tests for the purpose of bringing about better educational and vocational guidance will be given to about 10,000 Florida high school seniors during the month of April and spring under the auspices of the Florida College association.

The tests, to be given in junior and senior high schools, are expected to reveal the general ability of the students and the strong or weak points in the school curriculum, affording a basis for future curriculum planning. Results of the findings will be sent directly to the schools involved and the schools will be urged and helped to make changes as a result of the results in improving school work.

FSCW Receives Peabody Awards

Faculty Member, Grad To Get Scholarships

The trustees of the George Peabody College for Teachers, at Nashville, Tennessee, have recently authorized the awarding of two resident scholarships to a faculty member and a graduate student of Florida State College for Women. Mr. Bruce R. Payne, president of the college, has announced to President Edward Conradi.

A resident scholarship of $300 has been set aside for a member of the Florida State college faculty, to be recommended by Dr. Conradi, for the school's next beginning September 22, 1936, and ending June 5, 1937. A second resident scholarship of $150 for a graduate of Florida State college, to be recommended by Dr. Conradi also, and covering the same period, has also been created. One third of the sum of the scholarships is available during each quarter of the period referred to.

The recipients of these scholarships must live in one of the college buildings and carry a regular load of residence work during the term of the scholarship. The requisites may also be required to render a minimum of educational services.

Southern Psychological Society Honors Heinlein In Meeting at Atlanta

Dr. Christian Paul Heinlein, professor of experimental psychology, was recently honored by the Southern Society of Philosophy and Psychology held in Atlanta, Georgia, April 10-11, when he was elected to the executive council of the association.

Each year two members of the association are elected by the council to fill the places left vacant by the retiring members. Dr. Heinlein was elected to serve a three-year term as member of the council in recognition of his contributions. He has published several articles on experimental and theoretical psychology.

Dr. Heinlein is the second of two members of the Florida State College for Women to be honored by the Southern Society of Philosophy and Psychology. Dr. Frederick Liddell, professor of philosophy, was elected vice president of the association for the year 1935, and a member of the executive council during the years 1930, 1931, 1932, 1933, and 1934. At the last meeting of the association Dr. Liddell gave a paper on "Experiment and Use of Aristotle Shown by Nicolai de Cusa in De Docta Ignorantia," as the major part of the philosophical section of the meeting was given over to study of Aristotle.

"The Southern Society of Philosophy and Psychology is unique in the sense that it combines both philosophy and psychology," stated Dr. Heinlein.

"Here philosophers help review the assumptions of psychologists, and they combine their efforts to get a more comprehensive view of the universe and of human nature."

Dr. Heinlein said that during the meetings and outside discussions of the association he was impressed with the fact that psychology is breaking away from the mechanistic theory of life and human behavior, and that a recognition of the conscious life of the individual in behavior has come about. He was also interested in noting the lesser emphasis given number concepts in the interpretations drawn from experimental situations, and new developments in hypnosis.

Montgomery to Address New York Alumnae Club

Florida State College for Women alumnae in New York and vicinity will meet during the second week in May. Although definite plans of the meeting have not reached the alumnae office, it is known that Miss Katherine Montgomery, head of the physical education department, who is at present on a leave of absence from Florida State, will be present and speak to the graduates and former students of the college at that time.

Alumnae interested in attending the meeting are requested to get in touch with Mrs. G. C. Williamson, 83 N. Walnut, LaFayette Apts., East Orange, New Jersey.

Mols Announces Marriage

Of interest to members of the Alumnae association is the marriage of Dr. Edith Mols, for three years the college orthopedic physician and instructor of hygiene, to Hershell Curley recently in Tampa. Dr. Mols was enraged in active practice at the time of her marriage.

Press and CGA Send Sixteen to Joint Meet

Continued from page one

ed the welcoming address: Dr. Orion Lowe, professor of English at the University of Miami, who spoke on the subject "Essentials of Writing in Student Affairs"; Andrew J. Kavanaugh, director of public safety, City of Miami, who addressed the delegates on the subject "Policemen, Past and Present"; Frank Malone, of the Miami Daily News; Judge Frank Stoneman, editor of the Miami Herald; and Dr. John C. Gifford, professor of Tropical Medicine at the University of Miami, who spoke on the subject "Economic Possibilities of South Florida."

Among the delegates from F.S.C.W. for the F.S.G.A. convention were Margaret Dowda, Mary Jeanne McKay, Martha Mahonnon, Mary Miller, Sue Whitaker, Dorothy Belcher, Ruth Hinton, and Marie Taylor. The alternates and delegates for F.S.C.W. were Eleanor Williams and Allie Smith. From the Florida Times-Union were Judge Frank Upchurch, Dailey Paxton, and Alma Butler, from the Duval.

O'Rourke Chosen Head of Newman

Club to Hold Installation Banquet May 12

Clotilde O'Rourke was elected president of the Newman club at the meeting of that organization held Sunday night. She succeeds Grace Mary Webster.

Other officers chosen at the time were Angelia Griley, vice president; Margaret Claire Lafferty, corresponding secretary; Elisabeth Lounds, recording secretary; Marie Joffre, treasurer; and Jane Quinn, parliamentarian.

An announcement was made concerning plans for the annual convention of the Federation of College Catholic Clubs which will be held this year at Orlando City, New Jersey. Plans were also discussed for the installation banquet which will be given at the Dutch Kitchen on May 12 at the time the newly elected officers will be installed.

The out-going officers of the Newman club are Orsic Mae Webster, president; Marion Lester, vice president; Jane Quinn recording secretary; Vivian Teal, corresponding secretary; Catherine O'Rourke, treasurer; and Celestine McCarty, parliamentarian.

Eat at the

M AND N CAFE

Jefferson Street

BROWNBILT

AIR STEP SHOES

The Shoe that Makes Every Other Shoe Old Fashioned!

All Sizes—Styles for Every Occasion.

$5.50

Exclusively at

BROWNBILT SHOE STORE

SPECIAL

—This Weekend—

Small Cheese Sandwich 5c

Lime Freeze 5c

Barbecue 15c

SWEET SHOP

STATE THEATRE

—FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—

LORETTA YOUNG AND FRANCHOT TONE

in

"THE UNGUARDED HOUR"

—SUNDAY AND MONDAY—

EDWARD ARNOLD in "SUTTER'S GOLD"

—TUESDAY—

"MOONLIGHT MURDER"

with

CHESTER MORRIS AND MADGE EVANS

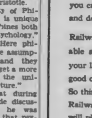
—WEDNESDAY—

James Oliver Curwood's

"THE COUNTRY BEYOND"

with

ROCHELLE HUDSON AND PAUL KELLY



—THURSDAY—

ANN HARDING

in

"THE WITNESS CHAIR"

Ship LAUNDRY Home by and save

Loose Change

Railway Express can handle laundry packages for you very easily and economically. Simply notify the folks that you are shipping your laundry by Railway Express and ask them to return it to you by express. If you wish, you can ship "collect." It saves time and detail, and loose change.

Railway Express is fast and dependable and can be relied upon to get your laundry back as fresh and in as good condition as when it left home. So think the idea over and telephone Railway Express. Our motor truck will pick up the package at your door at no extra charge.

For service or information telephone

117 S. Monroe Phone 131

Tallahassee, Florida

RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY INC.

NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

SALE!

The Very Newest Styles in Summer Dresses and Hats.

Everything Sensationally Priced!

$2.95 Wash Frocks $2.28

$1.95 Wash Frocks $1.58

$3.95 Silk Dresses $2.28

$5.95 Silk Dresses $3.88

$7.90 Silk Dresses $5.28

$2.95 Hats $1.88

$1.95 Hats $1.28

2 Prs. Silk Chiffon Hose .. $1.18

THE LADIES' SHOP

"Where Styles are Shown First for Less"

NEXT TO STATE THEATRE

Sport Squints

By "FLIP" TURNER

Robin Hood and his Merry Men will take the open air theater by storm on May Day when they will prance and sport all over the forest green—or could it be the modern dancing classes?

There's a rumor that the major sports meetings on campus this week will be conducted by the nearly tapped P Club goats, who are faced with the serious problem of withstanding a strenuous, laborious, and dangerous week-end at P camp.

West wind is no ill wind for Pelota! She sure made a name for herself at water sports down on that girl paddle a canoe! And is that Trill-West team a streak of lightning?

Walking classes—but for credit—are a new feature of Cornell's curriculum for women.

Every afternoon at 2:30, 3:30 and 4:30, a group of eager co-ed pedestrians swings away from the women's gymnasium. On Saturday, when 2:10 has been named as the official hour.

The Cornell Daily Sun, in reporting this latest educational development, adds only the facts, leaving some phases unexplained.

For instance, the Saturday walks will be through the Taughannock and Robinswilk gorges (both up and back, rain or shine) and transportation will be furnished.

Even though the gorges are three or four miles out of town, it looks like a mass course.—Associated Collegiate Press.

Several periodical inanities have published articles recently on the increasing popularity of tennis in Dixie and cited it throughout the United States. Not to be outdone, the tobacco classes on our campus have increased practically one hundred per cent under the guiding hand of Marie Joffre.

The University of Georgia students called King Edward VIII the silver dog bell that jingled around an athletic contest. His Majesty was; at least, one of the bells was 17th.—Associated Collegiate Press.

Students at F. S. C. W. have embraced a new sport, having been inspired by the Alice Marble series. And this fad is window gardening. Hundreds of window boxes, overflowering with quiet looking shrubbery—with now and then a blaze bush of pastel, are conspicuously protruding from dormitory windows.

Asia persisted in devouring the heads that one girl persisted in shaving, so as to be outdone by the resourceful student bought a bushel of gaudy looking pin cushions at the dime store and stuck them up in flower pots in front of her window. The bloomed forth brilliantly—until it rained.

After a dearising sound of hammers and saws, a new "Hall of fore" and an onlooker or a loiterer inner knows that some golf nodens is going to be benefited by doing away with the glass in the glass doors, and the handlighs on parked automobiles.

Springfield College, Springfield, Massachusetts, has just received an Olympic gold medal won three years ago.—Associated Collegiate Press.

Miss Autrey pulled some Amazon tackles and wrestlers at once when a canoe turned over and drifted back down the stream. She manned a rowboat, pulled furiously after the vagrant canoe, bailed it free, and returned triumphantly to the dock.

There are a lot of people who are just living to see Pansies Trill blossom forth dressed in a bicycle built for two—they'll see her, for she has taken out time down the road—behind the truck Friday afternoon.

It was all for the sake of the fresh women who are of the new Evans last her fellow team member Tullen, a pair of bright blue jersey shorts but the little incident almost cost our friend Wynn the match. It was on one of her first escapades to the net that the long bored Evan discovered that the borrowed shorts stretched almost to much as her Indian rubber legs. From then on it was a double struggle for Wynn—one to win the match and one to keep the shorts from gracing her ankles.

Play-Night Will Feature Swim Event at Gym

Sixteen swimmers are entered in the interclass meet to be held tonight in the college swimming pool. The interclass meet has been preceded by several weeks of practice under the direction of Frances Thill and Carol Parshley, who have been trying to find and determine class rankings but also to develop material for the choice of Odd and Even teams to meet next week.

The first event is to be a twenty-five yard dash with Bunny Lowry and Nata Lytle swimming for the freshmen, Felicia West and Frances Thill for the sophomores, Jane Bolton for the juniors, and Harriet Lawrence and May Fernandez for the seniors.

The next event is to be the eleven yard free style with Nata Lytle for the freshmen, Felicia West and Frances Thill for the sophomores, Jane Bolton for the juniors, and Harriet Lawrence for the seniors.

The twenty-five yard breast stroke will be swum by Fay Covey, and Valerie Hunt, freshmen, Felicia West and Frances Thill, sophomores, Jane Bolton and Ruth Taylor, juniors, and Mary Ward Peterson, senior.

Bunny Lowry, Sara Lytle, and Margaret Wolcott for freshmen, Felicia West and Frances Thill, Margaret Maxwell for juniors and Betty Mackey and Mary Ward Peterson for the seniors will swim the side stroke in the fifth event.

The twenty-five yard back crawl is entered by Mary Hinson for freshmen, Jane Bolton and Ruth Simmons, junior Borton for juniors and Harriet Lawrence for seniors.

The breast stroke for form. Is entered by Margaret Wolcott and Valerie Hunt, freshmen, Mary Frances Thill and Dorothy Scott for sophomores, Jane Bolton for juniors and Mary Ward Peterson for seniors.

The relay will include Bunny Lowry, Margaret Wolcott, Nata Lytle and Mary Hinson, freshmen, Felicia West, Frances Thill, and Dorothy Scott, sophomores, Janice Borton and Margaret Maxwell, juniors, and Mary Ward Peterson, Harriet Lawrence, May Fernandez and Betty Mackey, seniors.

Officials for the meet have not yet been announced. It will be run off tonight in conjunction with the regular Play-Nite.

PEA Elects New Heads Thursday

Frances Thill, Janet Cook, Fay Covey Chosen

The Physical Education association met Thursday, April 30, 1936, and elected the new officers for the coming year.

Frances Thill, president, Janet Cook, vice-president, and Fay Covey, secretary-treasurer.

The outgoing members of the association are Mary Hinson, president; Marion Weeks, vice-president; Felicia West, secretary-treasurer.

This association is an organization of the physical education majors, whose purpose is to promote a professional spirit, skills, to foster a spirit of unity among the group and with those both within the group and without, and to create a social and national field of physical duration. The primary purpose of the association is, of course, to form and maintain a professional spirit.

Continued on page six

Rotarians See Modern Dances

Members of the modern dance class, under the direction of Miss Mary Dickerson, presented a dance on a program given for delegates to the Rotarian district, at the State theater Tuesday morning.

The dance was developed in such a manner as to signify three of the aim Rotary—service, enterprise, and brotherhood.

Sarah Martin, Victoria Crisp, Catherine Ely, and Eleanor Bugger, of the advanced class, and Caroline Athon, Marjory Stump, Marian Weeks, Mary Ruth Clayton, Josephine Gordon, Edith Taylor, Beth Dunne, Myrna Prim, Ruth Wilson, Helen Hall, Betty Ostlund, Ruth Prather, Isabelle Sands, and Mildred Jenkins were the students who took part in the dance.

Campus Teams Play Matches

KAT, Episcopal Teams Advance to Second Tennis Round

The Kappa Alpha Theta and Episcopal tennis teams advanced to the second-round matches this week in the intramural tennis matches.

Running consistently, the Kappa Alpha Theta players won the three scheduled matches from their Delta Delta Delta opponents. The most surprising match of the day was the Theta-Delta Delt match, by Edyth Stanley and Marjorie Horton, Kate Jane Brown and Gibson Dye, ADPis. The fast-playing KATs won the first set 6-4. In spite of a long rain delay, Brown and Dye, The second set proved comparatively easy for the KATs, 6-2.

The third game was won by Marjorie Horton from Martha King through default.

The Episcopal tennis matches makes the Kappa Alpha Theta, Episcopal, and Jane Brown teams in the second-round matches next week.

The Episcopal students won two of the three matches they played with Delta Delta Delta, the match making them eligible for the second-round matches.

In the doubles match, played between Louise Lingo and Betty Mackey, Episcopals, and Jane Weeks and Fay Covey, proved to be the most interesting match yet played. The Episcopals lost the first set, 6-4, due to the fact that they were not used with all the time they are wondering whether or not they should come back in one piece.

But all that is—when there are no members around—they cast fond-loving glances upon the racket and put P which decorate their bosoms.

Evens Win Odd-Even Baseball Tilt In Exciting Seven to Three Game

Sixth Inning Starts Even Hit Merry-Go-Round As Tuten and Viertel Stage Close Pitching Battle for Victory

The Evens swept in another heavy victory last week when the baseball nine slammed out a seven to three score over the Odds. Up to the sixth inning the game see-sawed back and forth with Wynn Tuten and Hazel Viertel both putting up a remarkable pitching duel show.

Tuten and Vietel have been baseball leaders this season and were elected, each by unanimous vote, to be captains for the Odd-Even game.

The Evens took the field in the first inning and Tuten caught a pop-up to put Barrington out, and start the ball rolling. Going setb, batting next, struck out but Palmer put a grounder into second to take out Rose. Hunt knocked a beautiful high fly into left field only to have Wynn get it on the run for the first out.

Viertel pitched three stingers right across the plate and Herod fanned out in his style as a batter, on three to bat. Levy got a grounder as far as second base but Tuten put on Palmer's throw to first. Tuten followed in order, striking out on Viertel's lightening balls.

Tuten struck Molnar out on the first pitch to start the second inning but walked Covey. Lowry hit an easy out which put the first baseman's hands to chalk up the second out but Wilson followed up with a beautiful single down the shortstop and the third baseman to right field. Wynn got a high fly to the second baseman for the third out.

Immediately hit a high one into the third baseman's hands and Barrington followed suit with a strike out for the second out. Spradlin struck up a beautiful single to center and broke up the perfect Odd machinery when she hit a grounder to the pitcher who was also overthrown to first giving Spradlin second base. Tuten made she stole third on the first ball over and West struck out. Second baseman Mackary came up next but lived up to her threatening appearance when she hit a long drive to center. Spradlin made a steal a slide for the home plate on a fast ball right through the catcher. On the next ball West tried to repeat the Spiltz-Lyon combination but got caught between second and third and was out.

Barrington hit a high fly into the outfield which was caught and it was headed into the pasture but Sjostrom began what turned out to be a long run and at pulling down anything with a beautiful catch. Hunt followed with a long grounder went straight to first base to put her out. Palmer hit a high fly for the third drawing a walk but died there when Hunt hit a high fly to left field.

Covey took a bit but was ruled out on first when Tuten threw her there by a hair. Sjostrom hit a nice fly that dropped right between Spradlin and Betty Ann Lee, giving her first base. Viertel's grounder was fielded by Herod and she repeated her strike out. Sjostrom slid into second on the play but was called out on a out. Levy struck for the third out. Lee opened the fourth inning with a strike out but Covey remedied matters by getting on first on a fly to one just over the pitcher's head and short of the second baseman. Lowry walked but Tuten struck out on the next one and hit a beauty to left field which was fielded safely on first when Levy caught Wilson at the first sack for second out.

Tuten knocked a fly straight up which Catcher Barrington stepped into her hands. Frances Thill, Mary Frances Hale, Rose Panowski, and Valerie Hunt.

Stunts Performed

Felicia West capped her victories in the swimming meet with another win to add to her laurels. She swam Evans' Ruth Simmons, Ann Crisp, and Jane Tombaugh in a canoe race around the course. Before opponents crossed the finish line after her in the order

Dot Colburn and Viola Brooks performed a clever stunt with one of the canoes as a special feature of the program. Dot first stood on the bow of the boat with one foot and then threw her body over into a back dive. The same stunt was a flying fish with Dot Colburn diving over her feet. Next Dot and Viola did a double back bend. Frances Thill paddled the canoe and Ann Crisp stood.

Frances and Dot did a double back bend. Frances Thill paddled and Ann Crisp stood.

Frances and Dot did a double back bend. Frances Thill paddled and crooing in the middle of the canoe with perfect precision and coordination with parasols and sprawled about in various poses in perfect form. Sara Hathcox and Frances Thill gallantly went to the rescue of the drowning.

Betty White and Dot Marwick in an exhibition dive. Mary Catherine Scott and Winona Ireland in another had a tilting which ended with Winona in the water and the first canoe proudly emitting away.

Miss Mary Settle acted as starter and Miss Elizabeth Autrey, Miss Grace Fox, Dr. Viola Graham, and Miss Nellie B. Dickinson acted as judges. Mildred Emmelhainz, president of P club had complete charge of arrangements.

Sororities to Play in Finals

Three of Four Volleyball Games Are Scheduled This Afternoon

Three of the four final volleyball games will be played this afternoon on the courts back of the gymnasium at 3:30 and 3:30 o'clock.

Two games are scheduled for 2:30 The Kappa Alpha Theta team will play the Delta Delta Delta team, while in a nearby court another game will be played between Chi Omegas and the Episcopal teams, will be played. This last game was scheduled for last Friday, but had to be postponed until this week.

The teams winning these two games will play each other at 3:30 o'clock. The team coming out victorious in this game will play the Kappa Alpha Theta team which played up to the finals in a series of consecutive victories last week in a game scheduled for next week.

The members of the Kappa Alpha Theta team who will play this afternoon are Edythe Stanley, Patsy Cannidy, Sara Hathcox, Betty Middleton, Virginia Clemonte, Marjorie Horton, and Lorie Pratt chase. The members of the Alpha Xi Delta team which will oppose them are Mary Ann Bowden, Ann Heath, Jessie Meade, Victoria Crisp, Mary Ann Wynn, Winona Ireland, Betty Evans, and Fay Covey.

The Chi Omega players are Marguerite Gehan, Louise Lingo, Betty Ann Lee, Virginia Caldwell, Sara Lytle, Mary McGinnis, Jane Thomas, and Helen Dansilli and Betty Jane Lee. Substitutes are to be first opposed by the Alpha Delta Pi players which are Frances Cate, Polly Flint, Dot Colburn, Mildred Seekins, Virginia Tolfree, Mary Ann Hunt, Ann Hammond, and Frances Williams.

The Episcopal team which play in the finals next week, consists of Louise Lingo, Betty Mackey, Jane Kirkland, Sunny Dell, Louise Brand, Anne Knight, Betty Martin, Betty Hilda Spradlin, and Frances Lewis.

Continued on page six

Five F Goats To be Initiated

Formal Ceremony to Take Place at Flastacowo This Week-end

Five "goats" will be initiated into the P club this week-end at Camp Flastacowo in the beautiful Apalachicola country just below a week of heavy activity on the part of the incoming members.

Fay Covey won her letter as a forward on the Odd basketball team and as first baseman on the Odd baseball team, Frances Thill won hers as a forward on the Even basketball team and as center fielder on the Even baseball team. Valerie Hunt won her F as a member of the Odd volleyball team and as second baseman on the Odd baseball team. Jo-Jessie Spradlin was a member of the Odd volleyball team and short stop on the Odd baseball team. Hilda Spradlin won her letter as guard on the Even basketball team and as first baseman on the Even baseball team.

The "goats" were presented with their F's in the dining room last Monday, with an invitation to the week-end camp of the club this week.

Camp is to be held from Saturday morning until Monday morning and is open to active members, that is those who have attained at least ten practice hours. Miss Autrey and Miss Mildred Emmelhainz, president of the club, will be in charge of the arrangements and activities during the encampment.

Active members who will attend include Caroline Athon, Jane Cook, Betty Dansler, Mildred Emmelhainz, Louise Gehan, Majorie Joffre, Gail Lewis, Margaret Maxwell, Betty Mackey, Margaret Maxwell, Betty Ostlund, Rose Panowski, Catherine Pratt, Mildred Seekins, Shirley Stevens, Jane Tombaugh, Wynn Tuten, Virginia Tolfree, Marian Weeks, Felicia West, and Betty Aiken.

Faculty members attending are: Miss Mary Settle, Miss Elizabeth Autrey, Miss Nellie B. Dickinson, Miss Grace Fox, and Miss Claire Kenfield of the Leon county high school faculty.

Southern Meet is Being Held

Annual Water Conference Now in Progress At U. of Alabama

At the second Water Sports Conference of the South, which is being held at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa on April 30, May 1st and 2nd, Florida State College for Women is being represented by Marion Weeks, Sarah Strickland, Frances Thill, Martha Makemson, and Miss Betty Washburn, swimming instructor.

The aim of the meet is the conference centered around the Standardization and Official Rating of Officials. These projects will be continued, and from reports received here on work which has been done since last year's meeting, interesting developments have taken place and will be featured in the 1936 conference.

In order of the ranking received from a compilation of all optionals and required dives from the various judges, Florida State College for Women placed fifth.

The third and last game between Evans and Odds will be played by the first two games, her Odd opponent took the net and won the game, giving the Odds the match by a score of 2-6, 7-5, 6-2

The second game of match which resulted in the only Even victory was played under the same tennis tactics.

In the first set Tuten, for the Evens, took a lead of two games only to have Taylor win three straight games to tie the score. At one time when Taylor drove past Tuten at the net for service, Tuten allowed her opponent only one game. Advancing to the net after every ground stroke the even player romped through the rest of the set to win it, 6-2.

In the second set the players settled down to an even match of long drives and deep placing. Taylor consistently drove while Tuten played a variety of shots, drives, lobs, and volleys. When the final score of 6-3, Tuten came back with a series of line placements to make the score 3-5. In the last two games the mighty Wynn again upheld her reputation as a net player and proved her court covering ability by taking the first of these to make the score 5-6. The last game carried a strenuous worthy of seasoned tournament matches. Several times Taylor had the ad-

Continued on page six

Furtiveness Vs. Pride Struggle Under Large F

Goats Are Terrorized By Superior Members— And Like It!

Covered expressions, scared eyes, furtive glances, and dejected countenances are common on the campus all go to show that there are drawbacks, even to being an F club goat.

The girls with the F's pinned conspicuously on their backs (and pins) upside down on their dress (they are not to be detected) are cute, in constant horror that one of their superior members will give a surprise attack on their genuine public spot.

Two decks around corners, traverse deserted corridors or the dormitories, and crawl under the tables to find their way to the dining room at meal time.

If they never, they come unexpectedly upon an F member, they make a brave attempt at a feeble smile which only succeeds in only a fearful shrilliess cavity in the back of the throat. They then speak in trembling, supplicating voices, striving to be friendly and unobtrusive and succeeding only in drawing forth howls of glee from the knowing members.

They're cleaning shoes as they never cleaned them before, their cleaning up rooms as they have never seen rooms cleaned, they're training dresses as they train themselves, would have gone to the country or gone unwashed rather than they're running errands until their legs ache for a week or two week's time.

They try to act enthusiastic when all they wanna do is sleep and all the time they are wondering whether or not they should come back in one piece.

But all this—when there are no members around—they cast fond-loving glances upon the racket and put P which decorate their bosoms.

F Club Water Sports Day Brings Speedy Victory to Even Paddlers

Canoe, Kyak, Rowboat Races Staged And Stunts Featured

Frances Thill and Felicia West opened the F club water sports meet last Saturday when they pulled out in the sophomore canoe to win the interclass canoe race by a full length. The junior canoe manned by Jane Borton and Marion Lesuy doing the paddling came in for second place while second and the seniors, Jane Tombaugh and Rose Panowski, took third. Mary Wynn and Valeris Hunt had a few steerage difficulties and came in with a weak fourth for the freshmen.

Kyak Racing

Mel Sandiford took Beth Dsare for a ride in the kyak race, coming in second place in the rickety boat. Beth was running a good race until she fell out of the boat, Betty and turned her off the course, giving Emmelhainz a big lead for the rest of the race.

Betty Washburn, a wicked oar in the rowboat race and again made the Odds look a little weak when Betty Ann Lee lengths over Janice Borton. Heavy rowboats used for the Odds and Evens camp were used for the implements of war.

The Odd team of Sunny Lowry, Sara Hethcox, Dot Colburn, Nancy Williams, Marian Lesuy, Harriet Duke, Beth Dsane, Jo Gordon, Edith Wilson, Victoria Crisp turned the tables on the Evens in the war canoe race and took a full length lead at the beginning of the race to hold it over the finish line. The even canoe was manned by Jane Tombaugh, Caroline Athon Marie Joffre, Billie Spradlin, Polly Eveleth, Marjorie Horton. Frances Thill, Mary Frances Hale, Rose Panowski, and Valerie Hunt.

Stunts Performed

Felicia West capped her victories in the swimming meet with another win to add to her laurels. She swam Evans' Ruth Simmons, Ann Crisp, and Jane Tombaugh in a canoe race around the course. Before opponents crossed the finish line after her in the order

Dot Colburn and Viola Brooks performed a clever stunt with one of the canoes as a special feature of the program. Dot first stood on the bow of the boat with one foot and then threw her body over into a back dive. The same stunt was a flying fish with Dot Colburn diving over her feet. Next Dot and Viola did a double back bend. Frances Thill paddled the canoe and Ann Crisp stood.

Frances and Dot did a double back bend. Frances Thill paddled and crooing in the middle of the canoe with perfect precision and coordination with parasols and sprawled about in various poses in perfect form. Sara Hethcox and Frances Thill gallantly went to the rescue of the drowning.

Betty White and Dot Marwick in an exhibition dive. Mary Catherine Scott and Winona Ireland in another had a tilting which ended with Winona in the water and the first canoe proudly emitting away.

Miss Mary Settle acted as starter and Miss Elizabeth Autrey, Miss Grace Fox, Dr. Viola Graham, and Miss Nellie B. Dickinson acted as judges. Mildred Emmelhainz, president of P club had complete charge of arrangements.

Odds Take 3-4 Win in Tennis Against Evens

Two Singles, One Doubles Captured by Victor in Interclass Match

HORTON AND HUNT WILL PLAY TODAY

Borton and West Battle In Most Exciting Of Matches

By VIVIENNE FISHER

The Odds marched victoriously onto the tennis courts this week as they took three out of four final games played in the Odd-Even tennis series. Although the first three matches of the set between the two number one players, Marjorie Horton and Valerie Hunt has not yet been played the odds can claim the victory by three times out of four win already nursed in.

The odd victory in the Odd-Even series came out of the prophecy of last week's class games in which the Odd basketball women were triumphant.

This week's play saw three singles and one doubles match played. The match between Valerie Hunt and Janice Borton which will be played this afternoon will serve as the deciding one to the series since the issue is already decided, but since Valerie is the only member of the perfect her final last week in its class tennis career, the match probably provide plenty of excitement.

The first match played between was the one between Janice Borton raised third on the Odd team and Frances West, who took her same position for the Evens. After an interesting first set, Borton took with, competitive ease. Borton came behind in the second set to win the first games to five to win that set. She took the next, and the match by scores of 6-3, 6-4. A remarkable display of consistency on the part of both of the players.

In the first set each player took her own server in orthodox fashion with each of them displaying a consistency that promised a long and interesting match. With the games at three all, however, the set took a sudden change when Frances West escaped with her own service as a love game, and another through her opponent in the next. She concluded the set by taking her own service again to take the game 6-3

Consistency again at the zenge was the match in the second set so Borton took her first game after a deuce in which the ball had been serving. West ran through the next two games to get the lead but was forced to repeat the two games to the Odd, player when Borton reached consistency.

With the Even player in the lead 5-3 and Borton practically decided her odd conisster settled down to hard drivnn and extensive volley service in the set to score up to five all after she had broken Borton's service. Borton also took the next game with the aid of three service aces, and capped the set and the match game only after a severe battle of drive and volley with the 1936 score of that set 7-5 each team held service and the match ended 6-2 crossed.

The third set was again a battle in which each of the players displayed accuracy, stroking continuity. After West had won the first two games, her Odd opponent took the net and won the game, giving the Odds the match by a score of 2-6, 7-5, 6-2

The second game of match which resulted in the only Even victory was played under the same tennis tactics.

In the first set Tuten, for the Evens, took a lead of two games only to have Taylor win three straight games to tie the score. At one time when Taylor drove past Tuten at the net for service, Tuten allowed her opponent only one game. Advancing to the net after every ground stroke the even player romped through the rest of the set to win it, 6-2.

In the second set the players settled down to an even match of long drives and deep placing. Taylor consistently drove while Tuten played a variety of shots, drives, lobs, and volleys. When the final score of 6-3, Tuten came back with a series of line placements to make the score 3-5. In the last two games the mighty Wynn again upheld her reputation as a net player and proved her court covering ability by taking the first of these to make the score 5-6. The last game carried a strenuous worthy of seasoned tournament matches. Several times Taylor had the ad-

Continued on page six

The Florida Flambeau

EDITORIAL STAFF

HAZEL BOWMAN ..... Editor
ELEANOR WILLIAMS ..... Associate Editor
MARTHA BAKER ..... Assistant Editor
PEARLE SHEPARD ..... Managing Editor
EVELYN FISHER ..... News Editor

DEPARTMENTS

Art Editor: Caroline Adams: Exchange Editor: Virginia Early; Feature Editors: Sarah Beth Davis and Sarah Sealey; Outside News Editor: Coulide O'Rourke; Society Editor: Margaret Lafferty; Assistant Society Editor: Minna Agnes; Special Writer: Alma Lochhart Sports Editors: Elisabeth Turner and Ella Brooks; Literary Editors: Billie Hotard and Jane Kluttz.

Featured Writers: Elsie Andrews, Margaret Jean Duncan, Ethel Grassfield, Frances Hartley, Mary Lynn Maude.

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press

BUSINESS STAFF

LILLIE McGUIRE ..... Business Manager
JEAN DUNCAN ..... Asst. Business Manager
JANE QUINN ..... Advertising Manager
NAN O'SHAUGHNESSY ..... Asst. Adv. Manager

Enter as second class mail matter January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Please Believe Us!

The editor of any paper is rather on the spot, for either he expresses the views of his readers or his own views and neither jibe with the views of those who glance through his weekly stint. The following excerpt from the editorial columns of The Erskine Mirror seems to express the feelings of most college editors:

"We feel like tossing a few bouquets and also a wreath or two at the feet of our recently elected editor. In other words, we would sing for him both a tuneful melody and a dirge. No student on the campus has a better chance to have criticism heaped unmercifully on his dome or a more splendid opportunity to make enemies. No person living can please everybody and at times it seems that we please nobody. Anyway, however, we would like to wish him well and also say that the experience received and the knocks he encounters will prove of inestimable value. At least we hope so.—P. S. We would like to say in conclusion that we wouldn't take anything for the opportunity of having edited this sheet this year. We thank you!"

In Answer To Our Obstinance

Whether student editors in their publications should aim primarily at pleasing the students or whether they should seek to raise journalistic standards was the remarks of the majority of delegates on the use of scandal columns that the editors felt almost ordained by the gods or, perhaps, their business ventures, to delicate their efforts wholly to pleasing the student bodies. This policy accepted, the delegates then were more concerned with faculty censorship than the question of the use of gossip columns at all.

We want students to read our paper, some said, and even if it is just to see whether their names appear in a light gossip column, at least we know they read part of our paper. Then there's always the old saw, they added, that their interest might stray to the editorial comments or news stories after you once get them reading the paper.

We Florida State delegates, however, reneged. Admitting the student does not have to depend on circulation for its existence, we steadfastly maintained and still maintain we look to our standards first and the satisfying of our readers last, that is, if their interests happen to be below our levels. Students who at first demand light personal columns will eventually grow to respect the college paper that does not lower itself to meet their demands, we believe, if formal education is to have any effect.

Our objectives on the Flambeau have usually been considered two: first, to impartially campus news and, second, to reflect student opinion and stimulate further student opinion on campus and national and international affairs.

Therefore, clever quips, as most of the other delegates seemed to favor in their papers, about Mary's meeting Dick at the corner drug store we consider neither news nor opinion of much import. Mary's and Dick's behavior is only normal, we believe, and giving space to any comment on it is simply encouraging students to prolong a definitely "high-schoolish" attitude throughout college.

We regard our college paper, as we think all newspapers should be regarded, as a social force.

Therefore, individuals perforating petty trivialities each day do not interest us. Only the individual as a social idea, only the individual as representing a part of a definite movement or an organization concerns us in our publication. There are too many Marys and Dicks for us to comment on them all all without slighting some of them. Therefore, we make no remarks at all.

For our frivolous moments we have an exchange column which occasionally knocks in a subtle way certain phases of our college or other colleges and comments on this and that type of supposedly college wit. And our feature articles, which are sometimes too numerous, we think, attempt to add a bit of campus atmosphere to the grind routine. Aside from these, we might be considered as totally lacking in a sense of humor.

Nevertheless, we will continue to steer clear of faculty members' condemnation and Mrs. Jones' indignity by refraining from gossip columns about Mrs Jones' daughter and other parents' daughters and sons. Not that we are afraid of faculty censorship but what business is it of ours if Mrs. Jones' daughter did look slightly alcoholic on entering the dance last night and besides what about all the nice daughters who didn't look alcholic and who therefore didn't rate the space and attention given Mrs. Jones' daughter?

Thank You, Mr. University!

When one state finances two large college plants it has made a valuable investment in its own future. But that investment becomes even more valuable when these two institutions reach a common basis for cooperation and progressive movement in the educational life of the state.

During the past year the University of Florida and the Florida State College for Women have come more and more to realize their interdependence, and several worthwhile faculty-student meetings and conferences have been the result. Most notable among such meetings perhaps was the joint meeting of the Gainesville and Tallahassee branches of the American Association of University Professors last year, due mainly to that the Florida branch of the American Chemical society held a meeting here with representatives of the University of Florida, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and Florida State college in attendance.

Among student meetings held here have been the recent International Relations clubs parley attended by club members of the University and the Florida State College and the Student Volunteer Movement retreat held at Camp Flastacowo under the auspices of the YWCA.

There has been a rather frequent exchange of faculty speakers between the two institutions with the University sending Dr. John T. Tigert, Dr. M. J. Dauer, Professor S. P. Sashoff, and Dr. M. D. Anderson to address faculty and student groups here.

And lest we seem to disregard the aesthetic side of campus life mention the pending concert by the University of Florida glee club. Although we have sent student delegations and faculty speakers in return for those the University has supplied as we owe them a musical debt, for their glee club has appeared here several times and rumor has it that either the University band or orchestra is to appear here before the end of the term.

With these beginnings as precedent it would seem that the state of Florida has built up a strong educational force which should in future years function on more nearly equal terms as a coordinated unit. Let us always consider the influence these two institutions must have, representing as they do approximately 4500 homes and nearly as many communities.

Now that Chicago has set up a precedent by putting her clocks on Eastern Standard Time maybe Florida State College will take the street lamps down and set her clocks either up or back as the specific situation requires.

Magazine Thumbings

By SARAH SEALEY

ARE THE COMICS MORAL?

By John K. Ryan

Forum, May, 1936

The eagerness with which the American newspaper public reads the comic strips, says the writer, is an evidence of "the prevailing infantilism of the American mind." All important newspapers, with a few notable exceptions, carry at least one full page of comics daily and from eight to thirty-two pages on Sunday. The loss of a favorite comic strip can almost ruin a paper.

A number of comic features—Mom Alfalfa is an exception—present a harmless, rather wholesome, vulgar humor which appeals to the minds of children and immature adults. Others, however, tell unrealistic, melodramatic, crude stories of hair-raising adventures. Brutality, sadism, exhibitionism, fetishism are emphasized in such strips as Tarzan of the Apes, Flash Gordon, Secret Agent X-9, and Dick Tracy.

This exhibitionistic tendency with its powerful hold on the American mind should have alarming significance for educators and psychologists.

YOUNG CHINA GOES TO SCHOOL

By a correspondent of the Manchester Guardian.

Living Age, April, 1936

A young Chinese doctor, a graduate of Yale and Princeton, is carrying on a remarkable social experiment in an attempt to work out a solution for the regeneration of China's rural population of 340,000,000.

Dr. Y. C. James Yen began in 1926 a program aiming at the elimination of illiteracy, poverty, disease, and civic disintegration in Ting Hsien, a county in North China with 327,000 peasants in 472 farm villages. Dr. Yen's educational work is being done mainly with adolescents, who receive a practical elementary education and organize themselves into "alumni associations" in order to continue their study and to serve their communities. The village schools are organized into squads, allowing one teacher to handle as many as 200 children, while developing responsibility in the squad leaders.

Upstairs above the schoolhouse, Dr. Yen is training farmer-leaders in each community; teaching improved methods in weaving and basketmaking; organizing cooperative societies to supervise credit, purchasing, production, and marketing; and so on. The program has greatly improved hygienic conditions and medical facilities, and has secured the publication of 600 volumes of popular literature in an inexpensive edition and an understandable idiom.

Dr. Yen hopes that his experiment will serve as a model for similar programs to be carried out in all rural China.

AND WHY NOT SUDDEN DEATH?

American Mercury, May, 1936
By Gordon Carroll

Mr. Carroll thinks the number of deaths in America due to automobile accidents is not unreasonably small. According to all the laws of averages, accidents are a human destiny, he says, half the population of the United States should already be embalmed or invalided, while the remaining half should be fumbling in terror at the seaside.

Half the cars driven on our highways are lost cause and should junk-pile, he claims, and thousands of drivers are definitely unfit for motor use. The fact that almost any driver should pass a United State , irrespective of his mental or physical condition, can procure a driver's license is a great handicap to overcome in maintaining safety. Another difficulty is the stupidity of man. "Though he sees what a fool and reckless driver his neighbor is, he cannot connect either of these terms with himself.

"To the faithful, to the earnest, to the conscientious believers in the Golden Rule," continues Mr. Carroll concludes, "the solution of the automobile problem appears to lie in uniform and more stringent traffic laws, thorough mental and physical examinations of prospective drivers, jail terms and heavy fines for flagrant offenders, nationwide safety drives, police cooperation, a concerted campaign by the various state, and similar intelligent undertakings."

Spirit of the Week . . . . . By Adams

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

By CLOTILDE O'ROURKE

As the Democratic and Republican conventions for the nomination of a presidential candidate draws near, the state primaries are beginning to make the leading news. President Roosevelt's vote in the Pennsylvania preferential Democratic primary had climbed to the 750,000 mark this Thursday, 67% for Henry Breckenridge, his opponent on the Democratic ticket, was running far behind with a vote of 392,926. Senator William E. Borah, unopposed on the republican ballot, likewise was behind the president with a total of 394,613. The names of Governor Alf Landon and Herbert Hoover were written in on some of the republican ballots, especially in Luzerne county where they were 2,408 written in ballots for Landon.

State Democratic Chairman David Lawrence described Roosevelt's vote as a "smashing victory." He said it demonstrated that there is no opposition to President Roosevelt in party ranks and that the total primary vote was approximately 800,000.

* * *

Returns from Massachusetts show that Governor Alf Landon is not to be favorite on the Republican ticket. In a write-in vote, 94,353 voters turned in the name of Landon, while Herbert Hoover, William E. Borah, Arthur H. Vandenburg, and Frank Knox trailed with 87,000 sharing the remaining 18,694 votes cast.

On the Democratic side President Roosevelt beat his nearest competitor, Alfred E. Smith, by a margin of twenty to one, with Father Coughlin running third.

As regards Democratic politics in Massachusetts, the "official" Democratic and Republican candidates have been victorious.

* * *

The League of Nations has admitted its failure to cope with the Italo-Ethiopian situation and Mussolini continues to thumber contemptuously on two fronts—Ethiopia and Geneva. The Duce has made it clear to the world that it is his own private war and that he will make his own terms. He asserts that negotiations with Ethiopia will be carried without League participation, and that the armistice will be decided in Italopia by Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Italian commander in the field, and Haile Selassie. How long that day seem to be far distant. The Ethiopian army corps occupied Desaye last week, which is only 70 miles by a fairly rock road to Addis Ababa. Since that time, Marshal Badoglio has reported that the combined infantry has advanced 92 miles of that distance. Haile Selassie's capital is all she can do. Anthony Eden is decidedly worried, as who wouldn't be with the collective peace system embodied in the pact and principles of the British Empire at stake?

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT

UNIVERSITY EDITORIALS

We live in a civilized democratic country of freedom of speech and action. Here it or not.

Two days ago a grammar school children were sentenced to terms of from 5 to 10 years in the reformatory for resisting to take the Pledge of Allegiance. The children, sister and brother, are Disciples of Schoolcraft, and are prevented by their religious beliefs from saluting the flag.

Adding a new note to the ridiculous tenor of the affair, a number of the Fraternal Brotherhood of the American Revolution has announced that the children are criminals, that their children are alien and should be deported, and that the family should show more gratitude to the nation which has given them the opportunity to "make a living."

It is hard to believe that only four years ago Massachusetts was hailed the most civilized state in the union. Since that time the change is not hard to discover. It is summed up in the name James M. Curley, three-times Mayor of Boston, alderman, commissioner, legislator, representative, congressman and at present Governor of the commonwealth of Massachusetts. Long a thorn in the side of the democratic party, Curley attended the Cleveland convention in 1932 as the representative from Puerto Rico, because his home state refused to tolerate him.

The corruption which has led to ridiculous affair as the sending of the two children to the reformatory can be directly traced to Curley's activities. He has destroyed every remnant of liberty under law in Massachusetts. He laughed at the ethics of decent government, and made of the state house a muck-hole of corruption.

—The Michigan Daily.

* * *

The Daily Nebraskan hands it to the youth of today:

It has been characteristic of the young men and women approaching maturity, of those emerging from the immature to find a place for themselves in the world to do so. If ever a generation in this country has been pushed, through no fault of its own, it is this present generation that completed university, and graduated from college since 1929. It stepped out eagerly, with high ambition to work, and literally hundreds of thousands met with one cold or kindly rebuff after another, depending upon how those who do the hiring happened to feel.

That is something which youth has not been able to understand. These young people thought their services were needed. Aside from the social statistics of the unfortunate aspects of the campus atmosphere, running deep underneath was that coincidence and that assurance they could prove of use. And then to discover, no matter what that scholastic standing may have been, no matter what qualifications they may have possessed, it appeared the United States had reached the point where it merely was another overcrowded labor field and qualified people unable to find

Continued On Page Eight

Quotations Are Cited by Girls in Every Class

Wordsworth is Favorite Poet; Seven Others Are Selected

By ELLA BROOKS

"What is your favorite quotation?"

Through recently conducted interviews with twelve representative students, it has been found that Wordsworth is the choice for their favorite quotations those which pertain to their avowed interests, but those which please their straying fancies.

Shakespeare, popular poet, as judged by the answers to the above question, is William Wordsworth. Of the twelve students questioned, two chose quotations from Wordsworth; while seven quoted from Shakespeare, Sandburg, Bartle, Pope, Shelley, Longfellow, and Browning. The remaining three students confessed quite frankly that they did not know who wrote their favorite quotations.

A junior commerce major thinks Longfellow's "Psalm of Life" is the most beautiful poem ever written.

"The lines:

'Life is real, life is earnest,
And the grave is not its goal,
Dust thou art, to dust returnest—est

Was not spoken of the soul,' are so expressive," she said, looking wearily at a two-page accounting problem.

A sophomore English major votes the most beautiful poem to be "I Meet Lucy Up" by Wordsworth.

"That's my favorite because—oh, because that's how I feel sometimes—when I see a rainbow," she added.

The second student to quote from Wordsworth was a sophomore chemistry major.

"I like the one that goes: 'The meanest flower that blows can give thoughts that do often lie too deep for tears.' That's true, too," she added, opening her chemistry book. "He's so right about it, it's funny!"

"Shakespeare is my favorite poet," business ad major, music major in answer to the question. "And my favorite quotation is from Antony and Cleopatra, one that goes: 'Tomorrow, and tomorrow, and tomorrow,' but I've minds me so of the piece I played my first recital."

Another freshman, a pre-med student, holds Carl Sandburg as her favorite poet. "He's original and somewhat original poem.

"But sometimes I stay—"

A quotation from James M Barrie is the favorite of a senior bacteriology major.

"'It's not the load that breaks us down, but the way we carry it,'" she muttered, putting four thick books under her arm.

"Mine? Oh.

"The evening forms the common mind:
Just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined."

a bewildered freshman education major quoted from Pope next, looking after the retreating figure.

* * *

A Junior psychology major blushed furiously when questioned about her favorite quotation, and said, "You'll think it's silly for a psychology major, but I've liked it ever since I was a little girl and I don't know who wrote it, but I've got it about right.

"Isn't it strange that princes and kings,
And clerks that caper in sawdust rings,
And common folks like you and me
Are builders of eternity?—"

A freshman who has advanced up from the frog on which she sat to the platform said, "It's better to be inspected when suspected than to be suspected when inspected!" And I don't know who originated it!"

Looking dreamily into a roaring fire, a Junior art major whispered her answer to the question put to her:

"One word is too often profaned
For me to profane it,
One feeling too falsely disdained
For thee to disdain it.
One hope is too like despair
For prudence to smother,
And love is too like love dear
Than that from another."

Shelley wrote it," she continued. "And I think it's beautiful!"

A freshman major in physical education stopped rubbing a sore muscle long enough to quote a grim passage from Hawthorne's "House of Seven Gables."

"Life is made up of marble and mud," she muttered.

A sophomore major in mathematics confessed bitterly that she does not know who wrote her favorite quotation, but declares it is a good one and wishes more people knew it.

"It is just four simple words," she said, counting on her fingers one, two and three.

Collegiate Come-Backs

"These are the time that try girls' souls"— . . . In other words exams are in the offing, and how we are with one eye on spring fever, the other on last quarter's grades. It does seem that it is time for this late, but oh the power of spring fever.

* * *

Education and culture certainly are not synonymous, as was discovered this by the actions of those students out of the classes on Monday morning. Going on the assumption that all women were born beautiful, we suppose the full-length mirrors be placed at the doors. We're sure that if students could see themselves as others see them, they would cease their performances of their pulchritudinous desires, if not cultural ones.

* * *

If Coleridge had taken breakfast in our dining-hall for a week, he like would probably have two "Rags, rags, everywhere, nor any bite to eat."

* * *

The Crimson and White reports that a plan is now being formulated in Paris to add a day to the present 1,000 students a year in the United States and France. Wonder if they think we are ready for certain the little idiosyncracy of the week-end—especially the payments of their debts?

* * *

I could fait for a Byron, a brute and a sot,
A man with a sneer and a curl up his sleeve,
A life-bearer tyrant, an sneaker, but NOT!
The gentleman who "obviously doesn't believe"

—Pontoon

* * *

From the Lass-o we learn the following as to every comparison measurements of lawyer characteristics studied by the Bluma Supplemental Laboratory of Brown Institute, women make better lawyers than men. Now we know why every time we catch our roommate wearing a pair of our hose, we wind up by sending them to the laundry.

* * *

Dr F C Laubin, International authority, believes that the English language could be learned a lot faster if fifteen letters were added to the alphabet. Then, for the sake of economy, some one suppose please have those letters added immediately?

* * *

The AP quotes the editor of the Atlanta Journal as saying, in speaking, "Today it almost takes a college degree to read the handwriting of the average schoolboy." If you think your boy-friend is exaggerating, just remember you might ask him to type those love notes sometime. After a girl has to look out for her future.

* * *

Here's another of those never ending odes to chemistry from the Sarasota Plantation:

A little green ethanol
On a summer day
Some chlorine decided
In a little green way.
And now the green grasses
Tenderly wave
Over the ethanol's
Green little grave.

The Lass-O points out that excessive bathing may mean a guilty conscience. According to a University of Chicago psychologists. What a boon this knowledge is to small boys whose dirty ears will now be indications of honesty . . . I know!

* * *

From the Green Gander we learn:

X is the Roman notation for ten.

X is the mark of illiterate men.

X is the ruler removed from Holland's throne.

X is the quantity wholly unknown.

X may mean Xenium, a foreign gas.

X is a ray of similar class.

X mas is Christmas, a season of bliss.

X is that something that a fount is kiss.

X is for Xerxes, the monarch renowned,

Who marks the spot where the body was found.

* * *

Life is just one long "L" at twenty, the love, at forty, humbug, and at sixty, lunacy.

A-aspirants might copy the following answers found on papers at the Georgia Tech Journalism in anticipation of forth-coming exams:

Milton's sonnet "On His Blindness" beging, "I think that I shall never see."

A papal bull is the animal kept in the Vatican to give milk to the pope's children.

FLORIDA STATE ALUMNAE NEWS

BY RACHEL PITCHFORD

Inside College Gates

By SARAH SEALEY

THE tapping of students for honoraries is in order at this season of the year. Florida State College for Women's most important and most recently acquired scholastic honorary, Phi Beta Kappa announced its selection of members on April 1.

Those chosen were Katherine Wood, Winter Haven; Barbara Vreeland, Lake Wales; Sara Kuntzman, Milton; Laura Malhis, Jacksonville; Valerie Stubbs, Tampa; Lilian Turlington, Gainesville; and Wylma TerBush, Miami.

These seven students were initiated as members in course April 17. Following the ceremony Dr. John J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida, gave an address in the Augusta Conradi theater. A reception honoring Dr. Tigert and the initiates followed the address. Guests at the reception included faculty members of the society and student members of the various honorary fraternities on campus.

The election of these members marks the inception of the second year of Phi Beta Kappa on this campus. The local chapter was installed at a two-day ceremony March 4-5, 1935. Among the well-known educators who participated in the installation last year were Dean Christian Gauss of Princeton, Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve of Barnard college; President David A Robertson of Goucher college and President Theodore H. Jack of Randolph-Macon Woman's college.

* * *

FORTY-SIX members of the freshman class were tapped this month for membership in the Sophomore council, which is a new organization combining and replacing Freshman cabinet and Freshman commission.

The students chosen were Katherine Autrey, Kissimmee; Peggy Beleler, Clearwater; Katharine Bacon, Jacksonville; Mary Frances Campbell, Miami; Nell Colvin, Milton; Frances Douglas, Miami; Harriet Duke, Gainesville; Mary Fr[illegible], Gainesville; Mary Elizabeth Barris, Tampa; Charlotte Kemper, Cocoa; Anne Knight, Jacksonville; Ann Ladd, Jacksonville; Sara Lewis, Orlando; Janet Lockwood, West Palm Beach; [illegible] Moore, Tampa; Dot Marwick, Keystone Heights; Esther O'Byrne, Lake Wales; Lutrelle Paterson, Sarasota; Sue Pinner, South Jacksonville; Marion Purvigance, Clearwater; Carol Ramage, Tampa; Betty Russell, Winter Haven; Betty Skinner, Jacksonville; Beauford Thrower, Tampa; Anne Tilden, Orlando; Eloise Trott, Clearwater; Marian Usher, Miami; Margaret Wolcott, Lake Alfred; Evelyn Anderson, Bartow; Becky Ashton, New Smyrna; Connie Wallis, Jacksonville; Frances Williams, Florence Ward, Winter Park; Jean Zacharias, Jacksonville; Dot Borders, Sarasota; Mary Manning, Jacksonville; Bunny Lowry, Miami; Sara Lytle, East Lake; Jean Gillies, Winter Park; [illegible] Ewart, Miami; Mary Ann Hart, West Palm Beach; Betty Hatch, Dunedin; Betty Harrison, Tallahassee; Dorothy Rickards, Tallahassee, and Mary Emily Parker, Tallahassee.

* * *

A NUMBER of important changes in administrative rules have been made recently. It has been definitely decided, according to President Edward Conradi and Registrar S. R. Doyle, that there will be Saturday classes beginning next fall. This change has been made in order to eliminate all classes scheduled after 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon and in order to prevent students from having heavy schedules on any one day of the week.

Another change recently effected allows an unlimited time for upper-classmen to keep their lights on after light-flash. They are asked, however, to place in the house chairman's box a slip of paper telling how long the lights were left on. This experiment is being tried for the purpose of checking up on the college light bill with a view to making a permanent change in light regulations.

A committee is at work now on a revision of the present cut system. This was made necessary by the recent decision of the faculty senate abolishing quarterly grades.

* * *

THE year's artist series program came to a close April 20 with a concert given by Frederick Jagel, leading tenor of the Metropolitan opera company. Other artists who have been brought to Florida State college this year as part of the series include Guiomar Novaes, pianist; the Hedgerow players, presenting "Emperor Jones"; Charlotte Lockwood, organist; the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, directed by Eugent Ormandy; and the Vienna choir boys.

* * *

OUTSTANDING among recent athletic events on campus is the freshman swimming meet held on April 15. Of the twenty contestants Florence Ward of Winter Park placed first while Dorothy Colburn of Miami was second. Honors for third place were split between Mary Elizabeth Gusson of New York city, Dorothy Marwick of Keystone Heights, and Dorothy Scott of Winter Haven.

The interest of sports enthusiasts on campus was aroused by the recent visit to Tallahassee of several of the world's greatest professional tennis players. Ellsworth Vines, Lester Stoefen, Berkaly Bell, and George Lott played exhibition matches. Members of the "F" club entertained the tennis stars at dinner and an informal reception after the matches.

* * *

REVEREND WILLIAM L. HARGRAVE, Episcopal minister from Cocoa, conducted the second in the series of campus church services sponsored by the Young Women's Christian Association last Sunday morning. The program was in charge of Janice Borton, newly elected president of the organization.

Alumnae Drive For Dues is Announced

Beginning on May 1 the Alumnae association will make an extensive membership drive among the alumnae, faculty, and members of the class of '36. Annual dues in the Alumnae association are $1.00, while life membership is $15.00.

Alumnae clubs are being requested to have a 100 per cent paid-up membership by the opening of commencement week, May 23, on which day the annual meeting of the Alumnae association will be held in the Augusta Conradi theater. Reports from the clubs will be given at that time. The alumnae club at Cross City is the only club to date with every member having paid her alumnae dues.

During the period in which the drive will be conducted members of the college faculty will have the opportunity to affiliate with the college Alumnae association. Effort will be made also to have every alumnae of Florida State College for Women employed on the campus a paid-up member by commencement.

As in past years members of the senior class will be given a special membership "rate" if their dues for the 1936-37 year are paid before commencement. The rate for the first fifty seniors is $.50, for the next seventy-five seniors $.75, and for the remainder the regular price of $1.00.

Names of all alumnae, faculty members, and seniors who pay their dues between May 1 and commencement will be placed on a bulletin board outside of the alumnae office. Attractive membership cards will be given.

4-H Club Holds Annual Courses

Many Graduates to Come Back to Participate

The twenty-fourth annual short course for Florida 4-H club girls will be the occasion for the return to the campus of sixteen graduates of Florida State College for Women who are serving as home demonstration agents in the state and three graduates who are included on the state staff.

Florida's home demonstration organization has been a constructive force in Florida since its beginning in 1912. Through this channel more than 500 communities and 7,000 homes have been transformed in their physical surroundings and outlook on life.

Florida State graduates who are members of the state staff of eight members are: Lucy Belle Settle, district home demonstration, Gainesville; Anna Mae Sikes, extension nutritionist, Tallahassee; Clarine Belcher, extension specialist in clothing and textiles, Tallahassee.

Graduates of Florida State College for Women who are included among the thirty-six county home demonstration agents in Florida are as follows: Olga Kent, Broward county; Beulah Felts, Clay; Pearl Laffitte, Duval; Irene Hiley, East Hillsboro; Alice Lewis, Jackson; Mrs. Lucie K. Miller, Lake; Ethyl Holloway, Leon; Wilma Richardson, Levy; Tillie Roesel, Marion; Eleanor Barton, Santa Rosa; Josephine Boydston, Seminole; Eunice Grady, Suwannee; Mrs. Marguerite Norton, Volusia; Pearl Swain Penuel, Wakulla; and Eloise McGriff, Walton.

Marriages Are Announced Here

Several Alumnae Notify Headquarters of New Names, Addresses

During the past few months a number of wedding announcements of graduates of Florida State college have come to the alumnae office. These follow:

Mildred Harnsburger, L.I. '30: Mrs. Robert Eve, 435 Tenth avenue south, St. Petersburg; Margaret Dickinson, A.B. '30: Mrs Roy Duer, 327 Corinth drive, Ocala; Caroline West, A.B. '30: Mrs. Cyril E. Pogue, Clearwater, Florida; Mary Etta Johnson, B.S. '32: Mrs. Warren E. Thompson, Atlanta, Georgia; Ruth Price, A.B. '33: Mrs. Guy Hemerton, Rountree apartments, Fort Myers, Florida; Carolyn Hall, L.I. '33: Mrs. Robert LeRoy Ott, Bevan apartments, Hollywood, Florida; Nancy Gray, A.B. '33: Mrs. Clyde Powers Dorsett, Miami, Florida; Muriel Nelson, A.B. '35: Mrs. Philip Boardman, Avon Park, Florida; Helen Mendez, A.B. '34: Mrs. Chris Anderson, Cross City, Florida; Annetta Christie, L.I. '34: Mrs. James M. Powell, Hillsboro hotel, Tampa, Florida; Dorothy Marian Miller, B.S. '26: Mrs. R. J. Arango, Miami, Florida; Bernice Gallentine, A.B. '33: Mrs. Joseph Bechtal, 115 Volusia avenue, Daytona Beach, Florida; Florence Vivian Broward, A.B. '33: Mrs. Marvin Butler Bennett, 405 South Edgewood avenue, Greensboro, North Carolina; Mariba Louise Simmons, A.B. '29: Mrs. Clyde Fisher Campbell, Laurel Hill, Florida.

Esther Haile, A.B. '19: Mrs. Fred W. Connolly, 4437 Reservoir road, Washington, D. C.; Genevieve Crawford, M.S. '14: Mrs. E. L. Crawford, 41 Furman avenue, Asheville, North Carolina; Sara Hinson, A.B. '34: Mrs. Theodore Fraleigh, Madison, Florida; Charlotte Louise Arnold, L.I. '33: Mrs. Harrison Hine Finlayson, Donble Springs, Alabama; Treva McRae, L.I. '28: Mrs. Edward Roberts Greer, Fitzgerald, Georgia; Paola Castanedo Copeland, A.B. '33: Mrs. Arthur W. Grafton, Louisville, Kentucky; Sara Hulsey, B.S. '34: Mrs. J. K. Hays, Embassy apartments, Tampa, Florida; Rosalind Kennedy, A.B. '34: Mrs. Davis Lax, Old St. Augustine road, Tallahassee, Florida; Alice dePass, A.B. '30: Mrs. M. L. Lucas, 3304 Takon street, Tampa; Mary Gill, B.S. '31: Mrs. Mario Lindelio, 70 American Fruit Co., Tela, Honduras; Celeste Adelaide Fernandez, A.B. '32: Mrs. Ignazio Massari, 1907 Carmen street, Tampa; Ruth Gilbert, '22: Mrs. A. H. Smith, P. O. Box 1075, Orlando, Florida; Catherine Wynn, B.S. '31: Mrs. Colin B. Sims, Ft. Pierce, Florida; Nan Martin Allen, A.B. '32: Mrs. Byron Tolbert, Jacksonville, Florida; Frances Patricia Gill, B.S. '26: Mrs. Henry Eugene Tooke, jr, Orlando, Florida; Marcia Buchanan, A.B. '35: Mrs. Richard Henry Van Brent, Miccosukee, Florida; Viola Yates, B.S. '34: Mrs J. T. Aldorf, Dade City, Florida; Olive Duggan, B.S. '33: Mrs. Harry H. Ward, 338 N. E. Twenty-eighth street, Apartment 30, Miami, Florida; Sarah Kelley, A.B. '34: Mrs. James William Young, Perry, Florida; Margaret Roberts, A.B. '33: Mrs. William Fricke, 243 North Northwest highway, Park Ridge, Illinois.

Alumnae Plans Senior Party

Replace Annual Luncheon With Breakfast For Graduates

The Alumnae association of Florida State College for Women will honor members of the senior class at a "senior breakfast" Sunday morning, May 10, in the lower dining hall. This year the seniors will be guests at the "breakfast" in place of the annual alumnae luncheon held each year on the Saturday preceding graduation.

All candidates for degrees and certificates, which includes 237 students seeking the bachelor's degree, four the master's degree, and fifty-nine the teacher's and music certificates, will be invited to the affair.

The guest list will include also officers of the Alumnae association and members of the faculty committee on cooperation with the alumnae. Miss Margaret Gaillard of the class of 1932 is in charge of plans for the breakfast.

Members of this year's senior class represent 94 Florida cities, Pennsylvania, Mississippi, Georgia, and Cuba.

Services Of FSCW To State Are Enumerated For Alumnae

Library is Clearing House Of Information For Florida Citizens

Because of requests for material sent out from the alumnae office to be used during F.S.C.W. week this spring, a part of this is being printed. It deals with services to the state of Florida State College for Women.

In addition to the work of specific training of students for the many lines of endeavor open to women in the modern world and to the achivement of that more important ideal, the enrichment of human life, the college serves the interests of the state in manifold other ways. Below is a summary of these activities which are woven into the life of the college so unobtrusively that there is far too little realization of its existence and significance.

The library of the college is a clearing house of information for citizens in all parts of the state. Hundreds of questions are answered by mail each year. The library also assists in planning programs for clubs and gives information and advice regarding the organization and management of libraries in various localities.

The library is the store house of useful available records for research, civic work, state planning, and for any group or individual who cares to make use of them. It is the depository for books from the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. It is also one of the few institutions of the United States invited by the American Historical association to participate in the purchase of rare books in American history. Records acquired in this manner will be available for use by citizens of the state and visiting scholars.

Through the personnel office students are assisted in securing employment through which they earn all or a large part of their educational expenses. This year 373 students who otherwise could not be in college have been provided with work.

Out of the work of the department of geography has grown an organization called the Florida Council of Geography Teachers, also affiliated with and represented on the board of the National Council of Geography Teachers. This very live organization of about 150 members has already produced a one-cycle plan course of study in geography for grades 4-7, based on state adopted texts, which is receiving recognition both in and outside of Florida. The Council is now engaged in several new projects designed to improve the quality of geography teaching in the state.

Through the work of the placement bureau, efforts are made to secure positions for students along many lines. In 1935, 90 per cent of the graduating class was placed, which is a fine record at all times, but especially significant in a period of unemployment. The services of the placement bureau are free to any alumna who wishes to register.

The college houses the laboratory of the Rockefeller Foundation for Malarial Research. This is the only unit in the eastern part of the United States and is under the direction of Dr. Mark F. Boyd of international reputation.

The department of psychology has organized a psychological clinic which is open to any child or adult in Florida for the study of behavior problems. During the past year eighty-six children were studied.

All the departments of the college are ready to give information and advice regarding questions in the field of their endeavor. This phase of work assumes sizeable proportions in many cases.

The department of modern languages has made numerous translations for various state departments, for example, the translation of a booklet on the cultivation of Yerba Mate for the department of forestry which is being circulated in the state and the translation of material for the extension department to be used by agents among French settlers.

Assitance in various P.W.A. projects for the assembling and listing of Archive material has been given by the department of history.

The college has participated in the Women's Club Institute through housing, entertainment, and the providing of many speakers, discussion leaders, etc.

A member of the sociology department is a member and vice-chairman of the State Board of Social Welfare.

Three members of the history department were charter members of the Tallahassee Historical society. One member is second vice-president of the Florida Historical society.

Extension classes are being given in special subjects. A member of the sociology faculty organized a class for social workers in surrounding towns. Some workers come as far as sixty miles to attend.

The School of Home Economics has cooperated with the Department of Public Instruction in organizing and carrying out an Institute for Teachers of Home Economics. This institute was held at the college in June, 1935 and a similar institute will take place this year.

The college has been of assistance to the state through cooperation with the Department of Public Instruction on the part of the School of Education, the School of Home Economics, and certain departments of the College of Arts and Sciences toward the formation of courses of study for the schools of Florida.

The college has cooperated with the Department of Public Instruction through group conferences, and trips over the state by members of the faculty.

Members of the faculty hold membership in and have appeared before such state organizations as the Florida Education association, the Florida State Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, etc.

Several members of the School of Home Economics, home demonstration staff, and dining hall staff were charter members of the State Dietetic association. This association is affiliated with the American Dietetic association.

The librarian is a charter member and past president of the State Library association.

The college has been of service to the state through research studies of either faculty members or graduate students on subjects peculiarly applicable to Florida.

The college has been of service to Florida through membership on the part of the faculty in various learned societies of national standing. Contributions to the meetings of such groups and participation in the direction of such societies do much to increase the prestige of Florida State College for Women among the institutions of this country. At first glance, this may seem a remote service to the state, but when one realizes that Florida's tourist industry depends largely on the reputation which it builds in the minds of the nation as a whole the true significance of this aspect of the college is appreciated.

A course in the Utilization and Conservation of Natural Resources has been added this year to meet the new certification set up by the state law in 1935 and, also, to serve the state in a broader way by doing its share to create a more intelligent use of the natural wealth of Florida.

Last but not least F.S.C.W. contributes [illegible] to the [illegible] program of the state, in that it attracts many worthwhile citizens who become permanent residents. These citizens come to educate their daughters in Florida State College for Women because of its outstanding physical equipment, its high standards, its national recognition, and its well-trained faculty. For example: A business man of Knoxville, Tennessee moved to Tallahassee to place his two daughters in Florida State College for Women. He has now become a permanent resident. The same occurred when a retired physician of Pennsylvania placed his three daughters in Florida State College for Women. Examples could be multiplied all over the state.

Librarian Lists Reading Material

Requested by Many Alums Richardson Names Seventy Books

At the request of a large number of alumnae, Miss Louise Richardson, college librarian, has compiled a reading list of books on biography, economics, fiction, history, informal essays, plays, poetry, and travel. The list is given below.

Biography: Allen, Lords of Creation; Audubon, Singing in the Wilderness; Day, Life With Father; Deland, If This Be I, As I Suppose It Be; Duranty, I Write As I Please; Gray, Young Walter Scott; Grebanier, The Romantic Rebels; Hendrix, The Less of Virginia; King, Sunrise to Evening Star; Perry, And Gladly Teach; Zweig, Mary, Queen of Scotland and the Isles.

Economics: Agar, Land of the Free; Beard, America Faces the Future; Beard, The Open Door at Home; Chase, Economics of Abundance; Chase, Government in Business; Ford, Dictatorship in the Modern World; Forman, The Consumer Seeks a Way.

Fiction: Carroll, A Few Foolish Ones; Carroll, As the Earth Turns; Chase, Mary Peters; Chase, Silas Crockett; Corbett, Young Mrs. Meigh Field, Time Out of Mind; Glasgow, Vein of Iron; Hilton, Lost Horizon; Hummel, A Goodly Heritage; Nordhoff, Pitcairn's Island; Nordhoff, Men Against the Sea; Nordhoff, Mutiny on the Bounty; Sharrock, Snobs; Young, Miss Mole; Walpole, The Inquisitor.

History: Carr, Los Angeles; Roosevelt, On Our Way; Sullivan, The Twenties (v. 6 Our Times); Wreden, The Unmaking of a Russian.

Informal essays: Brooks, Pippins and Cheese to Come; Lucas, Lemon Verbena; Newton, Derby Day and Other Adventures; Pence, Essays of Today; Warner, Groups and Couples.

Plays: Anderson, Winterset; Anderson, Mary of Scotland; Housman, Victoria Regina; Kingsley, Men in White; MacLeish, Panic; a Plan in Verse.

Poetry and about poetry: Deutsch, This Modern Poetry; Eliot, Murder in the Cathedral; Engle, American Song; Untermeyer, Poetry, Its Appreciation and Enjoyment; Reese, Selected Poems; Robinson, King Jasper; Stuart, Man With a Bull Tongue Plow; Winslow, Trial Balances; Wurdemann, Bright Ambush.

Travel: Brown, Brownstone Fronts and Saratoga Trunks; De Watteville, Speak to the Earth; Ensolw, School-house in the Foot Hills; Fleishman, Footsteps in the Sea; Franck, Trailing Cortez Through Mexico; Johnson, Over African Jungles; La Varre, Gold Diamonds and Orchids; Lindbergh, North to the Orient; Owen, Leaves from a Greenland Diary; Raswan, Black Tents of Arabia; Sheppard, Cabins in the Laurel; Squier, Gringa; an American Woman in Mexico.

Miscellaneous: Cruse, The Victorians and Their Reading; Woolcott, The Wolcott Reader.

Class of 1926 Will Reunite

Tentative Plans Expected To Rival "Celebrated" Group of 1919

The reunion to be held this year at commencement by the class of 1926 is expected to rival that held two years ago by the "celebrated" class of 1919. During the past few months Martha Page Parkhill, class president, has mailed out letters to her classmates reminding them of the reunion, plans have been made for their stay on the campus, and by Friday, May 22, the campus will be in readiness for their return.

Tallahassee members of the class met Tuesday afternoon in the alumnae office to discuss entertainment for members of their class who are returning. According to Florence Tryon who called the meeting, tentative plans are to have a buffet or picnic supper for members of the class Friday night, May 22, at the home of either Ruth Schornherst or Mrs P. P. Finnar. Other plans will include attendance in a body at the alumnae luncheon the following day, dinner in the dining hall that evening, and a reunion breakfast Sunday morning.

Members of the class who attended the meeting were Mary Weedon Keen, Julia Mitcham Walker, Ruth Schornherst, Mrs. P. P. Finner, and Florence Tryon.

Among the members of the class of '26 who plan to attend the reunion are Effie Doran Ames, of Gainesville, newly elected president of the State A. A. U. W.; Sara Benedict, head of the Family Welfare Society in Louisville, Kentucky; Mary Pringle Smith, former president of College Government association; and Martha Page Parkhill, class president.

Phi Beta Kappa Program Printed

Talks from Last Year's Installation Collected

Copies of a beautifully planned edition of addresses delivered by some of the country's leading educators last year at the installation of Florida Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at Florida State College for Women were recently mailed to all graduates of Florida State College for Women.

The book which is comprised of eighty-four pages was edited by Registrar S. R. Doyle, and is said to be perhaps the most attractive bulletin ever issued by the college.

Addresses contained in the book are as follows: address of welcome, Dr. Edward Conradi, president of Florida State College for Women; The Scholar and His Country, Dr. Christian Gauss, dean of Princeton University; College in Memoirs, Dr. David Allan Robertson, president of Goucher college; address at the installation luncheon, the Hon. William H. Ellis, justice of the Supreme Court of Florida; Education for Today, Dr. Virginia C. Gildersleeve, dean of Barnard College, Columbia University, invocation at the installation banquet, Dr. Oscar M. Voorhees, historian of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa; An Intangible in College Education, Dr. W. G. Dodd, dean of the college of arts and sciences, Florida State College for Women.

Any alumnae of Florida State College for Women who failed to receive a copy of the Phi Beta Kappa bulletin is requested to notify the alumnae office immediately and a copy will be sent.

Alumnae Association Plans Active Reunion

To Award Medallions For Distinguished Work In Special Ceremony

INTERESTING MEET IS ON CALENDAR

Visitors Are Invited To Dress Rehearsal Of Seniors' Play

Plans are now underway for alumnae activities at the thirty-first annual commencement week of Florida State College for Women, May 23-25. Included among the events for alumnae will be the awarding for the first time of alumnae medallions, the annual business meeting of the Alumnae association, the alumnae luncheon, and class reunions.

As in former years alumnae who return on Friday preceding commencement will have the opportunity of attending the dress rehearsal of the commencement play given by students in the college speech department. The regular performance of the play will take place Saturday night, May 23, but due to the limited seating capacity of the Augusta Conradi theater where the play will be given only seniors and their guests will be given tickets for the final presentation.

Saturday morning a special ceremony will be held at which time alumnae medallions will be presented to a certain few graduates of Florida State College for Women who have particularly distinguished themselves in their respective fields of endeavor. Details of this ceremony have not yet been arranged.

The business meeting of the Alumnae association this year promises to be one of the most interesting and constructive in a number of years. During the past year the executive council of the Alumnae association has advanced plans for a number of new projects, details of which are expected to be presented at the business meeting.

The alumnae luncheon, which this year will be for the alumnae alone and will not include members of the senior class as has been the custom in former years, will take place Saturday noon in the lower dining hall.

During the week end various classes will hold reunions. Arrangements are being made for alumnae to stay in the dormitories during commencement week-end.

In addition to the events planned especially for alumnae, all graduates of the college are invited to the other functions of the commencement period.

Library Renews Its Request for Gifts

Alumnae of Florida State College for Women are reminded to remember the request made several months ago by Miss Louise Richardson, college librarian, to contribute to the library here any old maps, letters, books on Florida or by Floridians, pamphlets, papers, magazines, or books for the library or browsing room.

Among the gifts which the library has received since the request was first made is an extremely valuable and rare volume of "Florida Breezes," given by Mary Simpson Yarborough, '28, of Miccosukee; 100 volumes for the library and browsing room, by Nye Griffiths, '34, of Gainesville; The Gulf Fauna and Flora Bulletin, Volume 1, Number 1, June 1899, by Dr. H. E. Palmer, of Tallahassee; and a letter from a dietitian who served in France during the World war, by Miss Anna Mae Tracy, college dietitian.

Library to Get Valuable Books

FSCW Will Be One of 10 College Centers In United States

Alumnae of Florida State College for Women will be interested in knowing that plans were furthered recently for making the library here one of ten designated college centers in the United States for purchasing rare and valuable books on early American history and Florida for use by scholars in the field of history.

Dr. Randolph G. Adams, representative of the McGregor Foundation of Washington, D. C. which recently invited Florida State College for Women to become one of ten colleges in the United States to participate in the purchase of rare books on early American history, conferred recently with college and library officials relative to the collection of historical volumes for the library here. He stated that Florida State College for Women has the opportunity for building up a great library for scholars and those interested in research in American history.

The selection of Florida State College for Women as one of the ten centers is a distinct honor both to the college and the State, Dr. Adams said. Florida State College for Women was chosen because of its progressive library and its excellent work in Florida and southern history, he said.

Original edition of a number of books on early American history, dating back to 1624, have already been secured for the library collection here. The collection is under the immediate supervision of Miss Louise Richardson, librarian.

College officials with whom Dr. Adams conferred on his visit here were President Edward Conradi, Dr. William G. Dodd, chairman of the library committee, Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey head of the history department, and Miss Richardson. Dr. Adams, in addition to his connection with the McGregor Foundation, is director of the Clements Library of Americana at the University of Michigan, a position he has held since 1923.

Among the rare historical volumes which Florida State College for Women has received under the McGregor plan are the original editions of John Smith's "General History of Virginia," 1624; Samuel Purchas' "His Pilgrims," 1625-26, Esquemeling's "Bucanniers of America," 1684; Pigafetta's "Premier Voyage," 1801, Colden's "The History of the Five Indian Nations of Canada," 1755; Charlevoix' "Journal of a Voyage to North America," 1761, LePage Du Pratz' 'History of Louisiana, of the Western Parts of Virginia and Carolina," 1763; Thomas Jefferson's "Notes on the State of Virginia," 1787; Hennepin's "New Discovery of a Vast Country in America," 1699; Joutel's "A Journal of the Last Voyage of De La Sale to the Gulf of Mexico," 1714, and Bartram's "A Description of East Florida with a Journal Kept by John Bartram," 1769.

Cincinnati Meet Hears Address by Mrs. Beeson

Mrs E. L. Beeson, president of the Florida State College for Women Alumnae association, recently attended the national meeting of the American Alumni council held in Cincinnati.

One of the features of the meeting was a luncheon honoring presidents of the various alumnae associations affiliated with the American Alumni council. Mrs. Beeson had the distinct honor of being the spokesman for the women at this affair.

Leslie Addresses Meet

Rachel Pitchford and Laura Strunk Leslie (Mrs. R. H.), both of the class of '29, recently represented Florida State College for Women at the district meeting of the American College Publicity association held in Macon, Georgia. Mrs. Leslie spoke to the group on "The State Woman's College and the Public."

Classical Club To Hold Contest

Prize to Be Offered For Year's Program

Clasical club is sponsoring a contest open to students in freshman Latin classes, in which a prize will be offered to the student who submits the best outline of a year's program to be carried out by the organization.

The programs submitted are to suggest a broad program for the year's work with eight related topics as monthly themes. Entries, preferably typewritten, must be submitted by Friday, May 8.

Contestants are to be allowed to make their programs as broad or as detailed as they wish. The award will be a silver cup.

The program carried out by Classical clnb this year began in October with a Hallowe'en program. In November the club met with Eta Sigma Phi, national classical honorary, to participate in the internationally celebrated Horatian bimillenium. Programs during January and February included an illustrated lecture by Miss Gladys Freed on her trip to Greece and a discussion of "Astronomy and Astrology as Related to Roman Mythology."

At the March meeting, on the Tuesday following the Ides of March, the first year Latin class presented a play "Exitium Caesaris." A boat trip to the gulf will close the year's work.

University Glee Club and Officers

U. OF FLORIDA GLEE CLUB

Members of the University of Florida Glee club and their officers are shown in the pictures above. At the left is Briant McCarty, president, and at the right is Frank Myres, business manager. The club will appear here in a concert tomorrow evening in the college auditorium under the auspices of the senior class.

Odds Take 3-4 Win In Tennis Against Evens

Continued from page three

vantage only to be finally overcome by a net shot from her long legged opponent. The match finished witr a 7-5 set giving the Evens a 6-4, 7-5 victory.

Fay Corey, a freshman odd player and as yet undefeated in this season's tournament play swept through a match with Evelyn Fisher No. 4 on the Even team allowing her opponent only one game during the match.

The first set began with a considerable struggle over the first game during which Fisher tried hard to match her driving game to Corey's chop. After fifteen minutes of deuce points Corey took the game. After this beginning the freshman player had little trouble in taking the set and match from her upperclassman opponent. Serving consistently and chopping steadily she swept through the first set 6-1. In the second set longer rallies made the match a little more interesting but agal nCorey's consistency proved such an advantage over Fisher's erratic driving and serving that she took the second set 6-0 to give the Odds the most decisive victory of the series.

The doubles match played late Wednesday afternoon proved another walk away for the Odds. In this match Evelyn Glazier and Ceil Levy teamed together for the Evens to play Martha Baker and Beth Daane of the Odds. Although ths Even team showed nice stroking in spots on the whole their continuous errors gave their opponents the first set at 6-0.

In the second set the Evens started off with several brilliant plays to get an advantage in the first game only to lose it after considerable struggle to their steadier opponents. The Odd team had a three game lead in the set when the Evens rallied to tack two games. For a few minutes it looked as if the spectators would witness one of those rare last minute rallies that losing teams sometimes make but the Baker-Daane team proved invincible with their chops and the drives of the Evens consistently missed the baseline. The Odds dashed through tre last three games to win the set at 6-2.

Evens Win Odd-Even Ball Tilt By 7-3 Game

Continued from page three

first base and Molnar walked. Corey hit straight to the first baseman for an out and Lowery made the third out on a hard hit to second.

Lineup:

Evens	Odds
Barrington, c	Herold, 2b
Skagseth, ss	Levy, 1b
Palmer, 2b	Tuten, p
Hunt, 3b	Emmelhainz, ss
Molnar, rf	Tombaugh, c
Corey, 1b	Spradlin, 3b
Lowery, rf	West, lf
Wilson, cf	Mackery, rf
Viertel, p	Sjostrom, cf

Score by innings:

Evens	010 105 00—7
Odds	000 012 00—3

Eight Students Tapped Into Alpha Chi Alpha

Eight students were tapped Wednesday for membership in Alpha Chi Alpha, journalistic honorary fraternity.

Those chosen were Margaret Claire Lafferty, Virginia Early, Eleanor Williams, Arline Lockhart, Lillie McGuire, Grace Caroline Adams, Sarah Beth Davis, and Clotilde O'Rourke.

Alpha Chi Alpha recognizes students who are interested in journalism and who have served successfully for two years on a college publication.

PEA ELECTS NEW HEADS THURSDAY

Continued from page three

association between all the physical education majors.

In addition, the association buys equipment for Camp Flastacowo with the dues paid by the members.

The immediate activity of the association will be a party given for the freshmen physical education majors. Other parties will follow throughout the year, the final one to be given for the senior physical education majors by the other classes represented in the association. Trips to camp are sponsored throughout the year.

Episcopaleans Attend Special Camp Meeting On Religious Problems

Last week-end thirty Episcopal students of Florida State College for Women attended a camp at St. Theresa, for which a special program, centering around the theme. "The College Student and the Church," had been planned. The members of the faculty of the camp were, the Rev. Girault Jones, the Rev. William L. Hargrave, and Dr. Sarah White. Bishop Frank A. Juhan, D.D., and the Rev. W. J. Alfriend and Mrs. Allfriend spent a part of the week-end at the camp.

The following students attended: Mary Wing, Mary Bennett, Frances Ellis, Frances Lewis, Elizabeth Kirby-Smith, Betty Ostlund, Louise Lingo, Elise Davis, Mary Hamilton Meginnis, Louise Gehan, Betty Harrison, Catherine Bacon, Sue Pinner, Charlotte Kamper, Ruth Roble. Berahe Oven, Louise Whiting, Sarah Perkins, Charlotte Angier, Bette Root, Ann Knight, Scrap Manning, Margaret Gehan, and Beverly Brown.

Among the activities to be held by the Episcopalians this week will be a special party at Ruge hall tonight at 7:30. All Episcopal students are urged to come.

The Right Reverend Frank A. Juhan will hold a confirmation service at the Episcopal church Sunday morning, May 3, at 11 o'clock. The following students of Florida State College for Women are candidates for confirmation: Betsy Anderson, Dorothy Barclay, Blanton Barrett, Dorothy Gaylord, Helen Kierce, Jesslee Lumpkin, and Jean Root.

Three One-Act Plays To Be Given Tonight

Three one-act plays will be given by the second year students of Miss Kemper Moore's speech department tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Augusta Conradi theater. This program is open to the public.

The committee in charge is composed of Dorothy Dietrich, Lurline Goodman and Lillian Burford. The three plays are "The Artist," by A. A. Milne, "Highness," by Ruth Giroloff, and "Lace," by Glen Hughes: The stage managers are Marjorie Jones, Frances Lewis and Florence Jones, respectively.

Salley Will Give Address

Dean Nathaniel M. Salley has been invited to deliver the commencement address to the graduating class of Greenville high school on Monday, May 3.

WITH SUMMER REIGNING SUPREME YOU WILL NEED TO CHECK UP ON YOUR CAMPING OUTFIT.

P. W. Wilson Company

is offering

Bathing Suits .... $2.95-$6.95

Slacks and Shorts .... $1.00-$1.95

Also Bathing Suits, Shirts, Bathing Caps.

P. W. WILSON COMPANY

—Since 1837—

Ideal College Man Discussed by Campusites

Handsomeness is 'Taboo;' Grooming Essential To Perfection

Do girls in a co-ed school think more about the opposite sex than girls in a women's colleges? Some say "yes," some, "no," but if some kind of mechanism could be devised to measure the amount of thought on this subject in the two types of educational institutions, probably it would reveal that girls in a women's college ponder on this subject most, even though co-eds may have more dates than they.

The girls on the campus of the Florida State College for Women substitute "bull sessions" for dates in many instances. They have imagined and discussed the perfect college man extensively. He must not be divinely handsome—a shirt-collar-ad handsomeness—because the element of conceit invariably dominates the actions and character of such an Adonis. Above all, a college girl hates more conceit in a man than can be termed as self-respect. But he must be nice-looking with no glaring feature defects. He must be pleasing enough to the eye to attract the fickle attention of a college girl.

To be pleasing to the eye entails many small points which are more than necessary. First, above all things, a college boy must be neat and clean. Grimy fingernails, carelessly-tied cravat, dirty white shoes or a face which has not seen a razor since yesterday morning are not to be tolerated by a girl who has taken great pains and much valuable time in making herself appear dainty and attractive and feminine. His hair, preferably curly but acceptable if straight, providing it is not "plastered down" with perfumed goose grease, must be neatly combed. Blue, gray or brown eyes, long, luxurious lashes, even white teeth and a "football" physique are a few more of ths most desirable physical charsteritsics of the ideal college man.

There are other things besides ths physical that this college man must possess, however. Good manners are most essential. It seems that all boys would know by this time that it is customary to get out of an automobile to open the door for a date. Some of the nicest boys, however, fail to show this courtesy and either let the girl struggle with the difficult door handle herself or reach across her to open it. And what is more incorrect when crossing a thorouhgfare than to be suddenly bolstered up on one side by your escort, who has deemed it necessary to give your elbow a death grip for the 25 feet across to the other side! This is most annoying, especially to short girls, who feel as if they were being picked up off their feet and left hanging in mid-air for a perilous moment or two.

Graceful table manners since grandmother's day have been considered the most accurate sign of breeding and good home training This quality still stands near the top of a woman's list of "desirables in a man."

Excessive drinking and general unnecessary, vulgar display is taboo, as it has always been. Careless driving, in an effort to "show off," though enjoyed in a sense, is not appreciated.

New Curriculum Set-up of Florida State Undergoes Student Analysis

Is Definite Step Toward Idea of Liberalism In Education

BY ELAINE KLEPPER

Rumor is like a shuttle threaded with flashing colors which, flying across the loom, weaves a pattern that is practically unintelligible even to ths most discerning eye. Sometimes even an interpreter's progress is impeded by tricky and stubborn knots which prevent his getting a smooth perception of the pattern.

Rumor, now verified, has it that Florida State College will have a new curriculum system next fall. This new sytem is a step in the direction of the most modern conception of liberal education. The first two years of college studies are to be concerned with giving the student a liberal background in preparation for specialized work in the last two years. Even though the student may be so unfortunate as to be abie to attend college only two years she will at least have background enough to justify her attendance. The modern trend in higher education is to develop intelligence—the ability to cope with any situation: the ability to think clearly and decisively

Intelligence As Final Goal

Alexander Meiklejohn in his experimental college held up intelligence as the ultimate goal of his novel school. His students were subjected to as broadening and liberal a course as he and his coworkers could provide with their scanty equipment in materials and teaching facilities. His faculty, though handicapped, had plenty of spirit of the pioneer type and struggled on courageously in a game lost before it was begun. Meiklejohn's system was tried out in the midst of "practical-minded" Mannon worshippers who were not yet prepared for it.

The hardrock resistance surrounding his group has within the few years since his "failure" been somewhat eroded. Through the softening influence of time educators have begun to believe that perhaps he was not as radical and impractical as he seemed. Other schools are taking steps toward the "liberal" goal, though perhaps not with strides so long or so far from the narrow path.

The courses of the experimental college numbered two to be taken alternately. One year was given over to a complete study of the ancient Greeks as the best type of ancient civilization. The second year was given over to a study of American civilization. The outstanding feature of the school was its lack of departmentalization

Studies of Experimental School

A student studied Greek civilization, not philosophy, history, sociology as separate courses of study. From the point of view of the development of man in all phases — politically, socially, religiously, esthetically — the student studied civilization with its manifestations, relationships, and ramifications. Most of the work was done independently or with the slight help and encouragement of an advisor. This work took expression in a series of assigned papers which were prepared for by discussions and assiduous research.

With an eye to the practical the student was assigned a paper on his home community to be prepared during his summer vacation. This paper represented a thorough study of and search into the forces functioning in and controlling that community. Thus the students were led to apply their developing intelligence to relating their knowledge, attitudes, and theories to "real" life beyong the school. This application of school work to life beyond the school was another of Meiklejohn's goals. It is also the goal of the more advanced educators throughout the country.

Florida State's Experiment

Florida State College will take her next step toward the new liberality in scholarship next year. The step is a trembling beby pace since progress must be slow to be secure. The administration by keeping the same system of departments has been careful to preserve its bridge until it has been safely crossed. Many of the professors, blamelessly, have in the backs of their bewildered minds the first law of nature, but intellectually they want to be classed not as primitives but as progressives. Florida State must be as modern as the rest.

A brief resume of the plan of the College of Arts and Science is as follows. There are to be fo[ur] constants taught five hours a week lasting a semester each. Two w[ill] be taken the first year and tw[o] the second. The other ten hou[rs] required allow for much freedo[m] of choice for they may be used [for] electives.

Humanities is the title of one course which includes literature art and philosophy The second a course in social studies, including history, economics, politic[s]

Continued on Page Seven

Jones is Gamma Officer

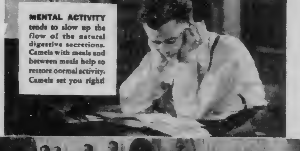
Mrs. T. Capers Jones (Dana Summitt) of Shamrock is vice-president of Gamma province of Alpha Gamma Delta. She was one of the presiding officers at the state convention of the sorority this month in Ocala.

Phillips, Tigert Will Give Baccalaureate, Graduation Address

Dr. John W. Phillips pa[stor] emeritus of the First Bap[tist] church of Mobile, Alabama, [will] deliver the baccalaureate serm[on] at Florida State College for W[om]en on Sunday, May 24. The [com]mencement address on Mon[day] May 25, will be give by Pres[ident] John J. Tigert of the Univer[sity] of Florida.

Dr. Phillips, an Englishman [by] birth, is regarded as one of [the] most prominent men of the Ba[p]tist denomination in this coun[try] and generation. He holds [a] Ph.D. degree from the Univer[sity] of London and received his [de]gree of doctor of divinity from [a] northern institution of this coun[try]. Dr. Phillips served as pa[s]tor of the Mobile church [for] about 25 years.

Dr. Tigert is a former Uni[ted] States commissioner of educa[tion] and is known throughout [the] country for his work in the fi[eld] of education. He has addre[ssed] the student body at Florida Sta[te] College for Women a number [of] times, but this will be the fir[st] time he will have addressed [a] commencement group at this co[l]lege.



ADAMS' STUDIO

"Photographs that Please"

121 E. College Telephone 291

Copyright, 1936, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

For Digestion's sake ... smoke CAMELS

Smokers Find Camels Help Digestion to Proceed Smoothly

Good digestion makes life more cheerful and enjoyable. Noise, worry, hurry, strain, and mental effort slow down the digestive process—the flow of essential digestive fluids is retarded.

Camels are a positive aid in relieving the effects of high-pressure living. Science and common experience are in accord that smoking a Camel is a pleasant and effective way to assist digestion. For Camels increase the flow of digestive fluids. And Camels are so mild that you can smoke all you want and they never get on your nerves.

AT THE MAYFAIR ROOM of the Book-Cadillac Hotel in Detroit, Camels are outstandingly popular. The fine tobaccos of Camels, their delightful flavor and "lift," are a natural complement to perfect dining. Paul Fischer, who adds a pleasing personal welcome to this smart and exclusive setting, has observed that Camels are the favorite here. "A glance around our tables," he says, "proves that those who appreciate quality have made Camels their choice."

COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS — Turkish and Domestic — than any other popular brand.

The Social Week

Committee to Give Final Faculty-Student Dinner

The last in a series of faculty-student dinners sponsored this year by the social committee will be given Tuesday night at 6:30 in the college dining-room.

These dinners have been sponsored to bring about a closer feeling of friendship between students and faculty other than that made through classroom contacts, and they have proved very successful.

Those Attending

Sitting at the head table as the guests of Mary Jeanne McKay will be Dr. Edward Conradi, Miss Louise Conradi, and Dr. Pi Williams. Virginia Long and Martha Reddick will be hostesses to the music faculty including Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Cowles, Miss Margaret Dow, Miss Gladys Koch, Miss Etta L. Robertson, Miss Mary Emily Reeder, Miss Zadie Phipps, Dean Ella S. Opperman, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Sellers, Mrs Cecile Strong, Miss Mary E. Winslow, Miss Augusta Murphy, and Mrs. May Murphy.

Other faculty members with their hostesses for this dinner are Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, Frances Forth: Miss Esther Smith, Ruth Prather: Dr. and Mrs. G. L. Diffenbaugh, Edith Menford Miss Betty Washburn, Ruth Daniel: Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey Betty Wynn: Mr. Bill Joubert, Mickey Gourlie: Dr. Sarah P. White, Jane Root; Dr. and Mrs. Leland J. Lewis, Annie Jennings: Miss Mildred Finnegan, Dot Broward Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Cotterill, Audrey Cooper; Miss Kay Warren, Betty White: Miss Edna Mae McIntosh, Florence Wagner; Miss Adrienne Taylor, Ethel Haimowitz: Miss Mary Settle, Katherine Autrey: Miss Sadie Young, Edith Atkinson.

Other Hostesses and Guests

Miss Bernice Deetz, Hazel [illegible] Miss Lucy Lester, Margaret Wolcott: Miss Marian Irish, Marjorie Tillis: Mrs. Dorothy Breen, Lillian Simmons: Mrs. M. B. Alfriend, Acalce Austin: Miss Mary Louella Richey, Marie Swil-[illegible] Miss Cross, Myrvin Everett: Miss Margaret Campbell, Inez [illegible]ink Dr. Marion Jewel Hay, Jane Brown; Dr. Mark DeGraff, Charlotte Kamper: Dr. Ezda Mae [illegible]ney, Jewel Groover: Miss Dorothy Rose Disher, Esther [illegible]gging. Miss Sarah Meador, May Ingle: Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Heinlein, Catherine McGarry: Miss Martha Chapman, Evelyn Kennard: Dr. Annie M. Popper, Miss Isabelle McKinnell and Miss Elizabeth Lynn, Betty Ettlinger: Mr and Mrs. Earl L. Vance, Grace Brewer: Miss Henrietta Sivyer, Madeline McCall.

Dr and Mrs. Coyle E. Moore, Genevieve C. Kenley: Miss Isabel McKinnel, Sophie Besvinisk: Miss Gladys Fawley, Ruby Blonstein: Dr. Beulah Bell Briley, Helen Hughes: Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Waskom, Lynn Hammond; Dr. Shores, Nell Colvin: Mrs. Mary H. Buford, Nina Huhges: Dr. Jennie Tilt, Martha Jean Jones: Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Bellamy, Cecile Crosland; Dr. and Mrs. William G. Dodd, Ruth Persons: Miss Nellie Bond Dickenson, Mary Boatwright; Mrs. DeMilly, Lorraine Gyles: Miss Winnie Lee Davis, Mary Ola Reynolds.

Mrs. Ada B. Allen, Helen Hall: Dr. L. S. Barber, Annie Laurie Sanchez; Miss Elizabeth Autrey, Evelyn Glazier; Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Seymour, Marie Rountree; Mrs. May Johnson, Janice Brill: Dean Margaret R. Sandels, Mary Miller: Miss Elizabeth Thompson, Lucy Gee Linn: Mrs. Irene Miller: Dr. and Mrs. Harold F. Richards, Miss Elizabeth Griffing, Melba Hutchison: Dr. Dorothy Rose Disher, Edythe Taylor: Dr. and Mrs. Herman Kurz, Mauvis Lussier; Miss Olivia N. Dorman and Miss Edith West, Rebecca Keith: Miss Mildred Henry, Myrtice Harvey: Miss Sarah Herndon and Miss Mary Helen McKean, Florence Duval.

Tri Delta Seniors To Be Entertained At Banquet Tonight

The members and pledges of the Delta Delta Delta sorority will entertain the seniors of their chapter with a banqnet this evening at 7 o'clock at the Dutch Kitchen. Modernistic decorations in black and silver will be featured. A program and piano selections by Mildred Smith will be given.

Those who will attend are Minna Dunn, Ann Curtwright, Lucy Gee Linn, Nancy Wilkinson, Nettie Taylor, Jellilee Lumpkin, Yulee Way, Joyce Reed and Nancy Felt. Hostesses for the occasion are Jane Brown, Jean Gillies, Eleanor Hickson, Frances Hartley, Janet Charles, Rosemary Payne, Billie Hotard, Sara Lewis, Mery Miller, Janet Charles, Jewel Turner, Betty Wheeless, Betty Peck, Ruth Sadler, Dorothy Rickards, Helen Bixler, Jean Tilden, Anna Tilden, Charlotte Pelsang, Mary June Michel, Margaret Ware, Lucille Williams, Dorothy Nye, Dorothy Olmstead, Betty Skinner, Irene Peck, Ann Dickson, Betty Gause, Eugenia Glass, Jean Duncan, Elizabeth Griley, Joan Ross, Lydia Land, Mary Louise Meriweather, Mary Hutchinson and Mrs. B. K. Scott.

Personal Mention

Georgette Brown, of Charlotte, N. C., visited at the Phi Mu house last week-end.

Frances Parks, of Monticello, was here Tuesday night for the Mortar Board tapping.

Lucille Strickland, of Clearwater, spent the night at the Phi Mu house Monday en route to Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

Edith Perkins left Tuesday for Gainesville to attend the funeral of Mrs H. L. Boltin.

Jean Gilmer visited her home in Tampa last week-end.

Althea Mebane, of Orlando, was a visitor at the Chi Omega house last week-end.

Marguerite Kreher, of Tampa, and Esther Daffin, of Marietta, will be guests at the Chi Omega house this week-end.

Members of the Pi Beta Phi sorority held a Founder's day celebration at the chapter house at six o'clock Tuesday morning.

Carolina DeMontigna and Virginia Southers of Jacksonville are spending the week-end at the Alpha Chi Omega house.

Marie Spurlock is spending the week-end in Callahan.

Mrs. W. G. Donald of Berkeley, California, who is the national president of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority, paid a short visit to the chapter house last Saturday. Mrs. Donald was accompanied by Mrs. William H. Wilson of Gainesville.

After-Dinner Coffee To Honor Members

An after-dinner coffee, followed by an informal "sing," will be held at the Kappa Delta house next Thursday evening for the members and pledges of the sorority.

Those present at this affair will be Adeline Tillman, Julia Lamar, Douglas Dabney, Cecil Hicks, Helen Miller, Edith Perkins, Elizabeth Ayala, Jo Binion, Mary Jo Clayton, Mary Catherine Gibson, Emelia Mae Lockwood, Betty Mack, Mary Meginniss, Dot McLean, Anne Sams, Helen Turnbull, Grace Whitaker, Peggy McMichael, Sue Whitaker, Marjorie Noggle, Virginia Rogers, Catherine Fuller, Alice Dean Mabry, Helen Ayla, Jo King, Frances Thomas, Helen Ballenger, Carol Farabee, Hazel Anderson.

Anne Bailey, Medge Glenn, Annette Harris, Mildred Hudman, Martha Lester, Geraldine Miles, Anne Mizell, Virginia Northcutt, Dorothy Phillips, Jane Rice, Ines Seabrook, Jane Gray Stevens, Genevieve Boomers, Barbara Taylor, Sara Tillmann, Mary Litschgi, Virginia Phillips.

Mae Anderson, Mary Jane Bailess, Dee Carroll, Pat Cabaniss, Martha Edwards, Nellie Fain, Lois Heiter, Helen Halloway, Jane Jackson, Martha Kennedy, Frances LaMotte, Janet Lockwood, Barbara Moore, Helen Glenn Merriday, Lutrell Patterson, Norma Robinson, Lucille Seed, Jane Tharin, Beuford Thrower, and Nell Robey Webb.

Taylor to Lead Vespers

Virginia Taylor will lead Vespers, Suday night at 7:15. The subject will be announced later.

JOURNALISTS MEET AT DUTCH KITCHEN FOR TRADITIONAL FLAMBEAU BANQUET

"Yellow Journalism" was the theme of the annual Flambeau banquet which was held Wednesday night at 7 o'clock in a private dining room at the Dutch Kitchen.

Large streamer headlines, lurid pictures, and glaring front pages of newspapers were used on the tables and walls to impart the atmosphere and carry out the theme for this affair. Programs, containing the menu, were miniature Flambeaux printed with red ink on yellow paper. Bowls of sweet peas, baby breath, and rosebuds were placed effectively along the banquet table.

Ruth Persons, out-going editor, wore a lovely corsage of tea roses which was presented to her by the members of the Flambeau staff.

Grace Mary Webster was the toastmistress for the evening. She introduced as the first speaker of the evening, Dr. H. F. Richards, who as "Davy Dix" spoke on the "Infernal Triangle" telling all he knows. Mr. Earl L. Vance, Flambeau Star Reporter, as Mr. Earst, gave a few pointers on the ideals of his profession.

The reporters were heard from when Pearle Shepard, as "Winchell's Girl Friday" gave some interesting slants on the old staff members. Ruth Persons, as "Louella Parsons" then conferred third degrees, Flambeau keys, on five of the outstanding reporters, following which "Miss Solvam," in the person of Hazel Bowman, new editor, testified as to how she had solved her cross word puzzle by filling in the names of the new staff. "Miss Rockybilt," Lillie McGuire, the business manager of the Flambeau, closed the program by revealing the secrets of her success and announcing those whom she has chosen to share in this success next year.

Invited to attend this banquet were: Dr. Edward Conradi, Miss Louise Conradi, Dr. and Mrs. Harold F. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Vance, Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Andrews, Miss Olivia N. Dorman, Dr. and Mrs. Guy Diffenbaugh, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Kellum, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tapers, Mr. and Mrs. John Kilgore, Miss Maude Flowers, Miss Kemper Moore, and Miss Rowena Longimre.

Staff members and reporters of the Flambeau are Ruth Persons, Althea Smith, Gertrude Kuhn, Hazel Bowman, Martha Baker, Elaine Klepper, Margaret Claire Lafferty, Virginia Early, Eleanor Williams, Arline Lockhart, Grace Mary Webster, Clotilde O'Rourke, Caroline Adams, Mary Bruce Patterson, Lillie McGuire, Ceil Levy, Janet Cook.

Minna Agress, Eloise Andrews, Ella Virginia Brooks, Mickey Conn, Margie Creel, Sarah Beth Davis, Jean Duncan, Sylvia Feiga, Evelyn Fisher, Janie Gallemore, Ethel Grassfield, Patricia Hamilton, Frances Hartley, Barbara Holmes, Billie Hotard, Mary Massie, Dot Olmstead, Nan O'Shaughnessey, Jane Quinn, Hildred Sampson, Sarah Sealey, Pearle Shepard, Elizabeth Turner, and Jewel Turner.

Alpha Chi Omega Has Chapter Breakfast

Julia Walker and Janice Borton were initiated into the Alpha Chi Omega sorority Sunday morning. Following the initiation a breakfast was held at the Three Torches Tearoom honoring the new members.

The actives and pledges who attended were Yvette Breaux, Juanita Buchanan, Betty Brooks, Beverly Brown, Elizabeth Carter, Helen Cate, Cora Cheney, Roberta Diamond, Mary Catherine Drennan, Eleanor Flint, Patricia Foster, Lurline Goodman, Margaret Graham, Rosemary Hamly, Mollie Holden, Mary Key, Harriette Lawrence, Ann Linger, Sarah Mikell, Margaret Murray, Lillian Schulte, Mildred Seekins, Sarah Sealey, Marie Spurlock, Valerie Stubbs, Bertha Veith, Martha Williston, Helma Buffkin, Dorothy Colburn, Dorothy Crews, Betty Hatch, Anita Leonard, Marcia Ranney, Ruth Riddle, Virginia Toffaletti, Jane Upton, Mary Wellis, and Frances Williams.

New Curricular Setup Florida State College

Continued From Page Six

science, sociology and allied subjects. Another is a course in physical sciences, including chemistry and physics. The fourth, natural sciences, includes biology and botany.

School of Education

As for the many School of Education courses such as that for L. I. certificates there has been no definite plan announced as yet.

One main problem to decide is whether these survey courses will be adequate substitute for the specialized courses lasting a whole year which students now take. Will English majors for example studying Humanities be satisfied to skim lightly over so many prominent men of letters whose works have heretofore been delved into? Will they be satisfied with studying types of literature instead of individual authors in order to allow time for art and philosophy? My answer is that the ten hours of electives and the junior and senior years leave enough time for such specialized delving. Art and philosophy should add something equally as valuable to the course. There are some who have spent a whole year with Shakespeare, a whole semester with Browning or with Chaucer, but have had no time in four years for philosophy or appreciation of art. The latter two surely should be considered as phases of culture.

As for the social sciences, they are so closely allied that the danger of the so-called evils of overlapping are constantly imminent. A line can hardly be drawn between socialogy and history, between economics and political science and sociology. Unless one is majoring in a particular one of these subjects the time spent and the brain power expended in a year course often seems wasted. A social attitude should be the goal for all these subjects and if they are taught together in one course it will be reached more easily.

With so wide a coverage of fields the student should be able to choose her major more satisfactorily and be able to go into it more intelligently.

Problem of Teaching

The next problem is how to teach the courses. Since no one professor is trained to handle all these subjects there must be some administrative plan arranged. Maiklejohn's system was so arranged that his faculty had to work doggedly, often in unfamiliar fields. Our system will probably be so arranged that each professor will teach only in his field, taking turns as often as the importance of his subject requires. There is the danger of differing methods of instruction, of differing attitudes, of differing emphasis which may confuse the student; therefore there should be a definite summing up of the subject by the student. This summation in itself will give her practice in independent thought and development of intelligence. Further practice will come in the comprehensive exams at the end of the course; they will not only serve to examine the student's knowledge and intellectual growth but will help her to organize her work. The strain will be on the professors rather than on the students, especially those who mapped out their lectures ten years ago and have been jogging along smoothly ever since. They will be jarred into re-studying their field They must change from emphasis on details to broad relationships between one field and allied subjects. For the student this necessary integration will be almost completely in the very current of the course, if it is taught correctly.

Sorority Entertains With After-Dinner Coffee at House

The members and the pledges of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority entertained a few friends at an after-dinner coffee last evening at the chapter house on Park avenue. Hasel Noe, Doris Gogard and Dorothy Finneren were in charge of the arrangements.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mary DeGuenther, Virginia Weldon, Agnes Goss, Alice Porter, Nina Hughes, Laurita Pearson, Mary Carson, Angela Griley, Sara Graham, Helen Young, Pearle Shepard, Madeline McCall, Doris Godard, Betty Bary, Hasel Noe, Sybil Cheshire, Frances Hobbs, Jane Sutton, Jeanne Magnus, Maybeth Goss, Lucille Finley, Alice Sloane and Mildred Williams. Mrs. Mary T. Whittington was the chaperon.

Zeta Taus Will Fete Alumnae Visitors

The members and pledges of Zeta Tau Alpha will entertain visiting alumnae of the sorority this week-end. Saturday morning an informal breakfast will be given at the chapter house in honor of the guests.

A buffet supper will be given Saturday evening, to be followed by a program of skits and dancing. The house will be decorated with garden flowers and appropriate spring decorations.

Hostesses for the week-end will be Mary Frances Pemberton, Mary Frank Price, Dorothy Borden, Elizabeth Green, Evelyn Stump, Eloise Cork, Betty Leach, Frances Lingle, Elizabeth Simpson, Margaret Arnold, Esther Hay, Virginia Schultz, Marjorie Stump, Clara Lankford, Floy Lenert, Betty Fellows, Elaine Brite, Betty Wadsworth, Ella Faye Price, Lois Long, and Mary Lucille Torode.

Informal Discussion To Be Under Moore

An informal discussion will be held at the Kappa Alpha Theta house Thursday afternoon under the direction of Dr. Coyle E. Moore. The question under discussion will be, "What will you contribute to your community after you leave college?"

Tea will be served from five to five-thirty, after which the discussion will be held.

Besides the members and pledges of the sorority, those attending will be Mrs. Coyle E. Moore, Ruth Persons, Laura Mathis, Louise Sullivan, Olive Dame, Hazel Bowman, Sara Lytle, Doris Reid, Isla McCann, Jessie McCollum, Kathryn Fox, Rosemary Payne, Sally Bert Nuzum, Ellen Fleming, Lillian Simmons, Betty Myer, Virginia Peyton, Dorothy Watson, Ella Faye Price, Sally Anthony, Feale Effinger, and Myrle Jones.

Pi Phis Bid Seniors Ceremonious Adieu.

A farewell service for the seniors of the Pi Beta Phi sorority will be given by the members and pledges of the sorority Friday night at six o'clock at the chapter house. This ceremony will be followed by a Cookie Shine.

The seniors who will be honored at the service are Betty Boggs, Helen Kibler, Marguerite Groover, Mary Irene McKay, Ruth Mock, and Alene Murphy.

COLLEGE CALENDAR
May 3 to May 9

Sunday

11:00 a.m. Church services
5:00 p.m. Tea for officers of student body—Miss Louise Conradi

Monday

5:30 p.m. Orchestra rehearsal.
8:00 p.m. Sorority meetings.

Tuesday

11:30 a.m. Convocation — Miss Madeline A. Jacobson—A A. U. W. speaker.
5:30 p.m. Orchestra rehearsal.
6:30 p.m. Faculty dinner.
7:30 p.m. Classical club meeting.
8:15 p.m. Graduation recital—Virginia Long—auditorium.

Wednesday

4:30 p.m. Student recital—auditorium.
7:30 p.m. Phi Kappa Phi banquet—Dutch Kitchen.

Thursday

5:30 p.m. Orchestra rehearsal.
8:15 p.m. Departmental play—Augusta Conradi theater.

Friday

8.15 p.m. Departmental play—Augusta Conradi theater.

Saturday

4:00 p.m. Day Students Mother's tea—Gilchrist parlor.
8:15 p.m. Emory glee club—auditorium.

YWCA Assembly Will Be Held at Blue Ridge, N. C. Beginning June 11

Beginning June 11, student religious leaders and Y. W. C. A. officials will assemble near Ashville, North Carolina, for the Blue Ridge Young Women's Christian association conference. This ten day conference will be held for all students from southern colleges with a cost of thirty dollars, including room, meals, and transportation.

The conference will seek to discover and redefine the essential nature of religion. It will attempt to find through the religion of Jesus, a meaning for life in relation to God and to people.

The chairmen of the conference will be Jane Cassels and Ray McClinton. Soon after being elected president of the Y .W. C. A at Georgia State College for Women, Jane became chairman of the National Student Council. Ray has served as president of the Y. M C. A. of Millsaps, and he is now chairman of the Southern Field Council of the Y. M. C. A.

Among the leaders will be Mr. T. Z. Koo, leader of Chinese students, Mr. Reinhold Niebuhr, author, Mr. Edwin Poteat, widely known lecturer, and Mr. W D. Weatherfor, founder of Blue Ridge.

The daily program will be: 7:00, reveille, 7.30, breakfast; 8:15, Bible study; 9:00, seminar; 11:30, association hour; 12:30, lunch; 1.00, recreation; 6:00, dinner; 7:00, appreciation hour; 8:00, platform address; 10.30, taps.

Alpha Xi Deltas Fete Chaperone Who Is Leaving Shortly

The Alpha Xi Delta members and pledges entertained Monday night following chapter meeting with a party honoring their house chaperone, Miss Jessie Smith, who returned to her home in Ohio this week. She will be replaced by Mrs. Nina Horne, of Jacksonville.

Miss Smith was presented with a French drip coffee urn as a memento of the occasion by the chapter members, following which cake and coffee were served.

Dancing was enjoyed after the party.

Hostesses at this time were Victoria Crisp, Jean Death, Dot Hoffman, Mary Pollard, Jessie Mead, Jean Crago, Charlotte Kensie, Elizabeth Filer, Althea Smith, Rachel Griffin, Lou Walker, Marion Weeks, Winona Ireland, Carlotta Cubillas, Mary McGunagle, Clotilde O'Rourke, Betty Evans, Geneva Morris, Mary Ellen Loveless, Mildred Booth, Gertrude Kuhn, Caroline Garvin, Frank Wildman, Monica Wiley and Fay Carey.

Faculty Instrumental Trio to Give Concert

The faculty instrumental trio will give a concert in Marianna on Friday evening, May 1. This concert is planned and sponsored by Mrs. Millard Davidson, wife of the superintendent of the Industrial Home for boys at Marianna. Mrs. Davidson (formerly Miss Louise Glover) was on the Florida State music faculty for a number of years before moving to Marianna.

Members of the faculty trio are Miss Augusta Murphy, violin; Miss Mary Estther Winslow piano; and Mr. Owen Sellers, cello.

In addition to trio numbers, each member will give a solo group on his respective instrument. Dean Operman will accompany the group as manager of the concert.

BANQUET DRESSES

All Colors. All Sizes.

All New Styles. $7.95 12.95

Sandals to Match $1.95 $2.95

Accessories to Match.

SEAMPRUFF SLIPS

Shadow-proof . . . full length . . . They will not tear at the seams . . . daytime wear . . . evening wear . . . sizes 32 to 44.

$1.95 and $2.95

GELBERG'S

New Store College Ave.

Knee-high to a Grass-hopper!

PHOENIX Bobbed Hosies

The grasshopper knows the delight of knee-freedom. Enjoy the same unrestraint in Phoenix Bobbed Hosies.

They offer you freedom for your knees and the assurance of comfort and style. The Lastex top holds them up securely.

In lively spring colors.

$1.00

LINDEN'S FASHION SHOPPE

Bennett's College Ave Pharmacy

50c Ipana	29c	500 Bennett's Tissue	24c
50c Phillip's Milk Magnesia	29c	10c Lux, 3 for	14c
25c Blue Jay Corn Pads	19c	35c Mum	31c
50c Hind's Cream	29c	25c Blondex	19c
35c Zip	39c	25c Shu-Milk	23c
		25c Shinola	23c

Remember Mother on Mother's Day With McPhail or Whitman's Candy!

"TURRET TOP, NO DRAFT VENTILATION, KNEE-ACTION, HYDRAULIC BRAKES AND THAT GAL! WHAT MORE COULD YOU WANT IN A CAR?"

You may be satisfied, but General Motors is going to keep right on trying to beat its share of this combination. That's the fortunate advantage of having the vast resources to keep on pioneering—and a demand for its cars vast enough to enable the production of new things at a price that fits the average pocketbook.

GENERAL MOTORS
A Public-Minded Institution

CHEVROLET PONTIAC OLDSMOBILE BUICK LA SALLE CADILLAC

L. Spelman to Give Program

Organist Will Give Recital In College Auditorium Thursday, May 14

Leslie P. Spelman, A.B., A.M., B.Mus., F.A.G.O., famous organist and authority on pre-Bach music, will give a lecture-recital on Thursday, May 14, at the college auditorium under the auspices of the Tallahassee branch of the American Guild of Organists.

Mr. Spelman was born in 1903 at Covert, Michigan. He began piano study with his grandmother, and studied organ with Dr. Walter Keller, of Chicago. After graduating with honors from Overlin College and Conservatory he was granted a scholarship for graduate study and received the A.M. degree in 1928 from Oberlin college. He then spent two summers at the University of Michigan studying organ with Palmer Christian.

In Paris from 1930-1932, Mr. Spelman studied organ with Joseph Bonnet, theory and composition with Nadia Boulanger, and conducting with Pierre LeGuennant. He was also organist and choirmaster of the American Church of Paris for two years and guest organist at Chapel Gerson.

Mr. Spelman has been director of the music department at Meredith college since 1932 and has been a Fellow of the American Guild of Organists since 1932. His splendid musicianship and sympathetic technique have been acclaimed by critics in Paris and America.

Recitals by Mr. Spelman will be given at the state convention of the American Guild of Organists in St. Petersburg, and lecture-recitals will be given in Gainesville and Jacksonville.

His program while appearing here will be:

Girolamo Frescobaldi (1583-1643, Italian): Canzona in quarti toni, Toccata per Elevazione. Francois Couperin (1668-1733, French): Sons: Monsieur Andre Raison (d0l718, French): Trio en Passacaille. Louis-Nicolas Clerambault (1676-1749, French): Dialogue. Samuel Scheidt (1587-1654, German): Cantilena Anglica Fortunae. Johann Kuchebel (1653-1706, German): Vom Himmel hoch da kommt ich her, Toccata. Dietrich Buxtehude (1637-1707, German): Passacaglia. Von Gott will ich nicht lassen. Johann Sebastian Bach (1685-1750, German): Passacaglia and Fugue.

Demonstration School Holds Music Festival

The Florida high school music festival held a contest in Tampa during the past week. Dean Ella Brooks Opperman of the school of music of Florida State College was the chairman of the judges, and made detailed plans relative to the contest.

Other members of the faculty of the school of music attending the contest were Mr. Walter Rust Cowles, Miss Etta Robertson, Miss Augusta Murphy, Miss Mary Esther Winslow, Miss Gladys Koch, and Mr. Owen Sellers.

CONTEMPORARY STUDENT THOUGHT

Continued From Page Four

employment; and with the old traditional legend that this is a land of milk and honey beckoning opportunity, smashed to smithereens.

At least, this is the way youth has thought about it.

Whatever may have been men and women's ideals of saving men and women, it can be said very simply, have been rather pallaid about it. Whatever may have been in their hearts, they took their sentence standing up. They haven't whimpered; they haven't turned communistic; they haven't even been embittered, except in isolated cases. They have been so thoroughly scarely under punishment, so much of the type of the thoroughbred, that to fail to recognize their attitude is to do them a great injustice.

Fraternities and honoraries come under fire in an editorial writer on the Rezelle gets his left under the collar.

Not that it is likely to do a great deal of good, but the National Student Federation of America struck a noble note at its recent convention when the delegates poured their wrath upon the attitude of such "honorary" organizations which infest the average campus — and Louisiana State university is no exception.

It is written that when two terrible pressures confront man, it is a desert island, one immediately seizes a gavel and raps for order. Not were these two college students, no less than twenty organizations which do little more than take up his more or less valuable time and add another item to the list beneath his name in the year book.

On this campus, there are 144 "prominent" organizations, with possibly that many more listed, and with others springing up as fast as the student body can think up names for them. In the ordinary run of this college existence, a student is hard put to it to avoid joining at least ten of them—and this is a conservative estimate when one looks at the appendages to the names of the "big shots" in the Gumbo.

For the inveterate "joiner," the possibilities are no less than infinite.

True, many organizations are on doubt worthwhile, but just as true, most of them are just examples of collegiate flubdubery.

The mushroom club which springs up with a name, no purpose and little activities not only is futile—it becmes expensive, it takes up time which an occasional student might spend in study, and it generally destroys the true significance of the fraternity on the campus.

In the words of Gungha Din or somebody, it's time to cry "enough" to the petty fraternity

William Randolph Hearst breaks into print once again in the Tower Times with the caption "Yellow Journalist Sees Red"—skidding on thin ice!

"The Red Faculty of Columbia" seems to be the greatest concern of one William Randolph Hearst these days, judging from an editorial which appeared recently in the local Hearst publication. The prominence of George Counts and Charles A Beard in the fight to repeal the law of Congress designed to stop teaching Communism in the public schools of the District of Columbia leads Mr Hearst to waste no few words in concluding that such professors as Counts and Beard are "marring the reputation of their university and reducing it to a communist seedling ground for the cultivation of sedition and revolution."

It is our opinion that many more serious threats face America today than Charles A Beard and George Counts, and foremost among those threats is William Randolph Hearst. The principles for which he stands constitute a major danger in America today and his erroneous conceptions coupled with his mastery of the art of propagandizing should be recognized by every thinking American as insidious, destructive, and totally wanting in logical foundation.

To teach the principles of communism in schools and universities today seems wholly in accord with the principles of America's educational system. What college student of today whose ultimate aim is a mature intelligence does not seek to know thoroughly the basis of communism, socialism, and fascism? What student of today can consider himself educated if he has confined his pursuits solely to his own national governments?

To condemn freedom of speech and expression is un-American, and yet William Randolph Hearst concludes a university which tolerates the teaching of communism is directly connected with Moscow University! And what is probably more despicable, he is trying to mold the minds of millions of Americans to accept his conclusions as facts. Nevertheless, it is indeed gratifying to notice that zonal college students do not allow themselves to be won over by such displays of emotionalism.

It is the duty of every college student of today to fortify himself against such irrational propagandizing and to keep constantly in mind those fundamental bases upon which a worthwhile education is founded. Broadmindedness, tolerance, understanding, and an unyielding search for the truth should be the major concerns of all students. The narrow mindedness, the unjustified conclusions, and the imminent threat of a journalist who misrepresents values and distorts facts should convince every student that his education should today.

Buckner Moves to Dallas

The following letter from Sara Gregory Buckner, '33, has just been received at the alumnae office.

"This is to inform you of a change in my address, so you may correct your mailing list.

"We are moving to Dallas, Texas, this week where my husband will be assistant to the general manager of Buckner Orphan's Home. Our work has been interesting and pleasant here, but the institution at Dallas is much larger and better equipped. It resembles a college campus, we have six and seven hundred children there, whereas we've had 150 here.

I have quite a fine son! He will be six months old April 30. We call him Gregory or "Gregg."

Sara Gregory Buckner

(Mrs. Robert Cooke Buckner.)

Seniors Look Back Over College Days to Discover Past Mistakes

All Would Change Plans Were They Again Underclassmen

By SARAH SEALEY

"If I were a freshman again—" muses the senior, with a dreamy look in her eyes, and she launches into an eloquent recital of what she would do if she were just entering college.

"I would work for grades," frankly states one senior, "I think, as worth the time and effort it requires. If I were a freshman, I would still want to take part in it." In regard to other activities, she said that she would not again make the mistake of accepting offices in several organizations, since all of them require the same duties of organizing and administration. A more sensible plan would be to center one's executive work in one organization, while participating in the group activities of several others.

This senior, a chemistry major, would prefer now not to begin specialization until her junior year. General and required subjects which are not directly related to one's major, she said, are much more helpful if studied during freshman and sophomore years. She would want also more study of the social sciences.

A second senior, majoring in history, would like to take advantage of the opportunities for entertainment and excitement offered to college students—better expressed as the desire to "raise Cain."

A sorority girl, she states that she would not decide on a sorority during her freshman year, but would wait until she could base her choice on a real acquaintance with the chapter on which she decided. She would like also to make a wider range of acquaintances during her first year.

Another member of the senior class, a Phi Beta Kappa, states that if she had her college career to live over she would place the same emphasis on intellectual work and campus activities as she has during her four years here did. She, however, prefer a broader range of courses. She would take no professional training in college.

In regard to social life and activities, she said that she would not make the mistake of living off-campus during her freshman year.

Two seniors, leaders in campus activities, said emphatically that they would give more time to studying the social sciences.

Heinlein Creates New Pieces of Apparatus To Measure Coordination

Dr. Christian Paul Heinlein, professor of Experimental Psychology, has created a new piece of psychological apparatus with which he has given the name "equilibriometer." Mr. Charlie Joe, college electrician, assisted Dr. Heinlein in the construction of the apparatus.

The instrument has been planned to measure a complex of psychological activities. The primary purpose of its design is to reveal individual differences in muscle tension and general response.

The equilibriometer is constructed in such a manner that the actual pattern of movement during a test trial of muscular balance may be recorded and measured in detail. A green neon lamp, which automatically flashes the level of movement serves as a visual motive and signal to balance. A permanent record of bodily movement per second is obtained on an external kymograph.

Dr. Heinlein holds that the instrument will reveal many characteristics of muscular coordination hitherto not demonstrated by other known laboratory methods. He stated he was working on the "hunch" that people not athletically inclined can balance themselves better than those who are athletically inclined.

the SANTA MARIA Columbus' Flag Ship

the ship that brought Columbus to America

..and tobacco to the world

History tells us that when Christopher Columbus' sailors took tobacco back home with them everybody hailed it as one of the first new pleasures in years.

Today tobacco gives more pleasure to more people than ever before.

Many different claims are made for tobacco, but most everybody agrees on this . . .

Smoking is a pleasure and the cigarette is the mildest and purest form in which that pleasure can be enjoyed.

..and now throughout the world smokers are saying

They Satisfy

MAKING A GOOD CATCH

is after all a wholesome feminine ambition. And what is better "fishing" equipment than fluffy afternoon frocks—gossamer evening gowns!

With our chiffons and organdies and light weight crepes, you can hardly fail to land something worth while!

The Vogue
feminine wearables
TALLAHASSEE FLORIDA

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Tallahassee, Florida, May 8, 1936

VOLUME XXIII — NUMBER TWENTY-EIGHT

For Relaxation Listen To A Week of Music

Future Alumnae Are Invited Out to Breakfast

Dr. H. L. Weber To Be Speaker At YW Service

African Transformation Through God Will Be His Subject

SERMON TO BE LAST OF SERIES

Vespers Will Feature Motion Pictures Of Travels

Dr. H. L. Weber, Presbyterian missionary, who is now in Lakeland, Florida, will be the guest speaker at the Y.W.C.A. worship service this Sunday morning in the Augusta Conrad theater at 11:30 o'clock. "How God has transformed West Africa in one generation" is the subject Dr. Weber has chosen for his address which will be the last of a series of monthly programs for this year.

College Attended

Dr. Weber received his A.B. degree at Hamilton college in 1896. Later he attended Rush Medical college, a part of the University of Chicago, where he obtained his master of arts and doctor of medicine degree. He was appointed foreign missionary by the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions two years after receiving his degrees, and was assigned to the West Africa Missions.

He established a modern hospital in the district of Cameroun after fifteen years of struggle. Most of his work there also was during lepers. He started three other colonies which all of them he made a knight of the French Legion Honor.

Dr. Weber has traveled extensively and has the reputation of being a splendid platform speaker.

Vesper Programs

He will show motion pictures of his travels at the weekly vesper service on Sunday evening at 7:15 o'clock in the Augusta Conrad theater. Everyone is urged to be present, according to Polly Evelyth, chairman of the vespers committee.

The regular weekly worship service sponsored by the Y.W.C.A. was held Wednesday morning, May 6, at 7:15 o'clock in the open air theater. Virginia Dyer, Alumnae speaker of the program, read religious poetry at this time.

Dora Helen Baggett is chairman of the vesper committee which is composed of Barbara Hubbard, Jane Tharin, Jean Dunn, and Janie Dallemore.

Senior Class To Be Honored At Breakfast

Alumnae Association Will Entertain On Sunday

AFFAIR SUCCEEDS ANNUAL LUNCHEON

Miss Margaret Gaillard Is Planning Details For Event

The present program of the Alumnae Association of Florida State College for Women involving activities of approximately 5,000 graduates will be presented to the 160 members of the year's senior class Sunday morning at a special breakfast to be given in the college dining hall.

Succeeds Luncheon

The breakfast is being planned by the Alumnae association in honor of the seniors who will automatically become members of the Alumnae association at graduation, May 25. In former years, the seniors have been entertained at the annual alumnae luncheon during commencement week. This year the luncheon has been changed to members of the Alumnae association.

The breakfast program will center around the present trend of the association, Miss Mary B. H. Leslie, alumnae executive secretary, will describe the accomplishments of the Florida State College Alumnae association; Miss Margaret Gaillard, Alumnae member and Agnes Scott alumna, will discuss Activities of College Alumnae"; and Miss Katherine Warren, former president of the Alumnae club in Jacksonville, "Future Projects of the Alumnae Association."

Miss Rowena Longmire, chairman of the faculty committee, in cooperation with the alumnae and representative at large of the alumnae association, will be on hand to welcome, and Miss Mary Settle,

Continued on page two

Best Essay Will Be Given Award

"Mary Cross" is Subject For Prize Article

Mr. D. H. Redfern, of Miami, is cooperating with the seniors through the history department a prize of $50 for the best historical essay written on a subject dealing with Stella Mary Croon."

This prize is one of the several offered each year to various colleges in the state. Other colleges which have received similar prizes from Mr. Redfern are Miami, Stetson university, and the University of Florida law school.

The person about whom the essay is to be written, Stella Mary Croon, was a daughter of the well-known Croon family, who came to Florida during territorial times. She, too, was prominently interested in their steamboat home. Out of that interesting family she was the most interesting and involved as suits recorded concerning the inheritance of her property.

The terms of the contest state that competition will be open to any under-graduate or graduate student on the campus. It is open to course in history in addition to the college requirement. The essay must contain a minimum of three thousand words, adequate bibliography, footnotes, and must be typewritten.

Students desiring to compete are requested to file their names with Dr. Kathryn T. Abbey, head of the history department, before the end of the first week of the second semester of the 1937 school term. All articles are to be handed in to the history department before May 25, 1937. The committee of the department will then select the three best articles, and from these three Mr. Redfern will select the winner.

Any students who may wish to work on this article during the summer months may do same now, and talk over the location of material for the essay with Dr. Abbey.

Sholtz to Speak Tuesday

Governor David Sholtz will speak in convocation Tuesday morning, on National Defense Day. The program is being arranged by the American Legion auxiliary.

New Presbyterian Officers Will Be Installed Sunday

Methodist Student Heads To Be Entertained At Breakfast

The new officers of the Presbyterian Student league will be installed on Sunday evening at 6 o'clock in the church auditorium. This will be a candle light service, one that has been worked out by the group and has been handed down for several years.

The service is conducted by the student counselor, Mrs. Rachel Wylie. The retiring president, after reminding the group of the purpose and connection with their tasks, gives the charge, in the form of a candle, to the new president, who, in accepting it, lights the candle of those who will help her in her work. After a prayer of consecration by the pastor, Dr. Caldwell, the whole group sings "Pass on the Torch." Martha Reddick, rushlight, and Prof. Orbison, organist, will play an offertory. Betty Johnson and Jean McCord will sing a duet.

New and Old Council

The retiring and incoming senior councils will be as follows: retiring president, Mary Wylie Klueple-burg; vice-president, Sara Hethcox; retiring vice-president, Betty Johnson; secretary-treasurer, president, Lillie McGuire; retiring corresponding secretary, Barbara Hubbard; incoming corresponding secretary, Marjorie Horton; retiring social chairman, Sara Hubbard; incoming recording secretary, Geneva Nelson; retiring publicity chairman, Ruth Hubbard; incoming treasurer, Lesia Gibbs Hall; retiring chairman of spiritual life, will be replaced by Alice McGehee; Christian education chairman, by Adele Barnard; Rebecca Keith, chairman of Christian activities, and Ruth Myrick; Sara Hethcox, chairman of the Y.W.C.A. Ward; Floy Lenert, publicity chairman, by Barbara Hubbard; Jane Tumbleads, dramatic chairman, by Sara Nance; Nettis Taylor, social chairman, by Katherine Todd; Annie Leigh Rollins, dietician, by Syreta Sheffield Scarborough, president of the junior-senior Sunday school class, will be replaced by Louise Brown; Mary Ann Moore, president of the sophomore Sunday school class will be replaced by Miriam Harold; Jean Craig Hall, social council, freshman sponsors, will be replaced by Katherine Kyle, Marcia Smith, and Dorothy Lee Pratt. Frank Wildman was elected as student body president.

Incoming Justice Council

Incoming junior council: president, Betty Reagin; vice president, Beth Reason; secretary, Mary Lou Dolner; treasurer, Carol Ramage; chairman of spiritual life, Sara Hubbard; social chairman, Elizabeth Pinic; social service chairman, Lorraine Gilbert; music chairman, Jean Daniels; dramatic chairman, Pat Campbell; publicity chairman, Betty Daniels; social chairman, Dot Marwick; chairman of Christian activities, Dorothy Duke.

A meeting of the Methodist Student league Monday, May 4, at 6:30 o'clock, will be the coming year. The newly elected officers will be installed by the out-going council at a chicken breakfast following a devotional service to be held at the Methodist church, Sunday, at 7:30 o'clock.

Newly Elected Officers

Newly elected officers who will serve the Methodist Student league till for the next year are: Virginia Clayton, president; Lucy Ola Stephens, vice-president; Anna Marie Mitchell, secretary; Rosalie Hall, treasurer; Margaret Delaney, financial chairman; Charlotte Carlton, social chairman; Mary Mervin Everett, worship chairman; Carl Brigman, publicity chairman.

Continued on page four

Mortar Board Members Are Initiated, Heads Are Elected for Year

Marjorie Tills was named president of Mortar Board at a meeting of the organization Tuesday afternoon. The eleven new members were initiated into the honorary fraternity afternoon.

Mary Catherine Gilham was elected vice-president of the organization; Ann Eleanor Williams, secretary; Dorothy Scott, treasurer; Sarah Bowman, correspondent, and Daisy Parker, historian.

Miss Mildred Pinnegan, Miss Leslie Richardson and Dr. R. F. Richards are faculty advisers. Miss Sadie Young is a retiring advisor. Other members of Mortar Board are Sue Whittaker, Jo Ann Cleveland, Mary Jeanne McKay and Martha Makemson.

Students Pass On Amendments

Duties of Vice President And New Council Are Points Included

Two amendments were added to the constitution of the College Government association by unanimous vote of the student body in convocation Tuesday.

The amendments read:

1. The first vice-president shall assume the duties of the president in the absence of, or at the request of, the president. She shall act as the chairman of the College Government association session.

2. The Sophomore Council shall be composed of approximately forty girls who shall be selected from the freshman class by the Executive Council of C. G. A. and the Executive Cabinet of Y.W.C.A. meeting jointly.

The choice of girls shall be made during the month of March.

The Sophomore Council shall not as a link between its class and the campus as a whole. Its members shall take the lead in developing and carrying out a well constructive program of campus activities.

An amendment was also made concerning sun-bathing. Girls are required to wear a bathing suit back of Jennie Murphree and on the arcades.

Counselors to Plan Program

Orientation in Accord With Many Changes In Curriculum

The freshman counselors whose first meeting was last week have been planning the program for Freshman Week and freshman orientation next fall. They have been especially working to set up a plan of studies in accord with the new curriculum of next year. The old plan of student conference will be used, in addition to a group of faculty advisers who will have charge of the freshmen.

In addition to the counselors there is a central committee composed of Dr. Elizabeth Andersen, chairman, Miss Ruth Richardson, Miss Mary Settle, and Miss Lucy Brown.

Stress is to be laid upon counseling and information and not on social activities. Freshman Week is chiefly drawn and an announcement will be made concerning the plan for the next year.

Those counselors recently appointed are Grace Caroline Adams, Jeanette Annin, Eleanor Bell, Mary Frances Borden, Ella Virginia Brooks, Nell Carroll, Marion Cone, Mary Louise Deane, Irene Day, Emma Louise Doyle, Virginia Duke, Hazel V. Ellis, Mary Pauline Fountain, Evelyn Everett, Sylvia Kathryne Peiss, Ellen Hanson, Mary Louise Hay, Louise Gehan, Mary Catherine Gibson, Grace Gilbert, Dorothy Grene, Sara Hethcox, Barbara Hubbard, Jane Hubbard, Elizabeth Hunter, Gladys Duke Jarland, Mary Roberts Jetton, Louise Jones, Frances Kennedy, Dorothy Lee, Frances Lingle, Betty Mack, Martha Makemson, Mary Mc-Nerney, Lillie McGuire, Peggy Mc-Michael, Maria McMillian, Mary Margaret Mann, Frances Monroe, Marrow, Annawilda Norris, Bernice Otto, Mary Ann Overstreet, Mary Ola Reynolds, Kathleen Robinson, Sara Rutledge, Anne Sims, Hazel Slaughter, Sarah Wesley, Lillian Simmons, Pearl Smith, Hilda Spradley, Marie Stanfield, Shirley Stevens, Mary Tiller, Marjorie Tills, Hazel Vincent, Mary Vanderdale, Elaine Ward, Gladys Ware, Mary Lee Wheeler, Sue Whitaker, Dorothy Wilson.

Graduate Gets Position

Miss Margaret Maxwell, former student of Florida State College for Women, has received her Ph.D. degree in nutrition from the University of Chicago, and has been appointed to a position of research in the University of California. She will begin her research work at the University in Davis, California at the beginning of the summer. She was graduated from Florida State College for Women in 1929 and received her masters degree in 1930.

Science Group Holds Meeting In Gainesville

Dr. H. Kurz, President, And Other Faculty Members Attend

DR. FINNER TALKS ON MOTOR ABILITY

Varied Program Featured Friday Afternoon And Saturday

The inaugural meeting of the Florida Academy of Science will be held this weekend at the University of Florida, Gainesville.

A large number of faculty members from the Florida State College for Women will attend the inaugural meeting of the academy, accompanied by several alumnae and students of the college. Several other citizens of Tallahassee who are interested in science, will also attend the meetings.

Dr. Herman Kurz, professor of botany and director of the botanical laboratories at the college, was recently elected to serve as first president of the academy.

Another citizen of Tallahassee, Mr. Herman Gunter, is also to be on the staff of the organization. He is chairman of the section of the physical sciences.

Faculty at the Florida State college who will be members of the academy and are attending its inaugural meeting are Ida Reid Kurz, Miss Elizabeth Lynn, Miss Mary Settle, Miss Ruth Richardson, Miss Rita Ruth Schortmann, Dr. Alan Stewart, Miss Jennie Tilt, and Dr. Hugh Wilkins.

The first session of the meeting will begin Friday at 2 p.m. in the auditorium. Mr. C. W. Billes of Rollins college will deliver the first address. His subject will be, "The Present Status of the International Commission on Zoological Nomenclature. Mr. P. H. Hull of the University of Florida will speak on Inheritance of Rest Period in Peanut Seeds." Mr. A. L. Bush will speak on "Fossil Cycads on The Effect of X-Rays upon the Growth of Seeds.

Mr. E. V. Komarek, mammalian ecologist of Thomasville, Georgia, will read a paper on Problems in the Mammals of Florida." Mr. Herbert Stoddard of Thomasville, Georgia, will speak on The Migration of Bats in the Region of Thomasville, Georgia." Mr. L. L. Rumoff and L. W. Gaddum of the University of Florida will speak on "Method of for the Determination of Microscopic Structure." Mr. Harold Mr. C. Williamson of the University of Florida will read a paper on Rifle sights on Molecular Structure: Mr. H. H. Mobbs of the University of Florida will speak on "Florida Crayfishes and their Habitat Distribution."

Continued on page four

Lingle and Melvin Will Head Closing Two Of Speech Recital Series

Frances Lingle and Elva Melvin will present their speech recitals on Monday and Wednesday evenings of next week.

Frances Lingle, a junior in the speech department, will read "Dress Suit Indispensable," a recital which she will present on Monday evening at 7:30, in the Augusta Conrad theater.

Elva Melvin, a freshman in the speech department, will read "The Dear Departed" by Winfred Kavanridge, on Wednesday evening at 7:30, in the Augusta Conrad theater. The public is invited to attend these recitals.

These two programs will close the series of recitals given by the speech department. Seniors have presented recitals as follows: Sarah Hoens read Mary Rose, by John Barrie; Emily Johnson read Holiday, by Phillip Barrie; Betty Reagin read Mary of Scotland by Maxwell Anderson; and Ruth Myrick, Design For Living by Noel Coward.

Famous Organist

Leslie F. Spelman, famous organist and authority on pre-Bach music, who will give a lecture-recital Thursday evening in the college auditorium under the auspices of the Tallahassee branch of the American Guild of Organists. The recital is open to the public.

Class Of '34 Gives Chimes

Bells May Be Installed By Commencement This Year

Musical chimes for the campus of Florida State College for Women have been ordered this week and will probably be installed by commencement May 25. The chimes are the gift of the class of 1934 which left appropriations for this purpose.

In announcing plans for the installation of this convocation address, J. G. Kellum, business manager, explained that the gift would be so arranged that they will be able to be heard at any of the alumnae who will attend the campus, and the establishment of scholarships and fellowships sponsored by the alumnae. She also pointed out that several colleges receive the outstanding service of alumnae with various awards, and also mentioned the valuable service rendered by alumnae associations in the way of placement bureau work.

Return of Alumnae

Kitty's talk also brought out the need of the alumnae for the alumnae house and the possibilities of new week-end to be devoted entirely to the alumnae and their return to the college. Many colleges, according to Miss Kitty, put on the activities of other colleges alumnae during the week-end following commencement to the return of alumnae.

Concluding her talk, Kitty said, "Alumnae work has changed from a rah-rah spirit to one of contribution of progress. It does not, however, mean that we should rather continuing it with vigor after a degree has been received. Let us live by the motto of the evening, Doris McKenzie, expressed the cheerful cooperation of alumnae work in her talk. According to her viewpoint the first duty of the alumnae organization is to help the college through any publicity that it can give to the college. Secondly the alumnae should contribute worthy projects. In her third point which regarded the help that the alumnae organization can be of great importance to the alumnae to attend and round robin letters sent to various classes.

After the talks an open forum discussion was held with chairman Margaret Delaney; publicity chairman, Eleanor Ruff, senior class president, Betty Reagin; junior representative, Lucile Williams, and senior representative, Betty Harrison.

The club enjoyed an outing at Camp Flastocovo, Wednesday. Leaving the college at 5:30 the group motored to the camp and after the evening swimming and canoeing before supper, had dinner over an outdoor campfire.

Those attending were Anita Leonard, Louise D Johnson, Miss Edna Mae McInnish, Helen Calhoun, Mary Catherine Gilham, Shirley Stevens, Virginia Duke, Lucille Duke, Edith Manford, Margaret Walcott, Helen Dillard Dorothy Broward, Syreta Stockridge, Margaret Ann Beach, Irene Day, Jane Roople, Joyce Hinckley, Hazel Myrick, Ruth Carrie, Mary Ann Williams, Margaret Delaney, Sophia Benovinski, Audrey Mercer, Marjorie Hewett, Helen Walberg Rosemary Hamby, and Miss Sara Mendor.

NSFA Sponsors Forum Meeting About Alumnae

Blood, Warren, McKenzie Speak on Problems Of Graduates

VARIOUS COLLEGE PROJECTS PLANNED

Alumnae House Suggested For Florida State In Discussion

Spelman Will Lecture Under Organ Guild Auspices

The music calendar of Florida State college for the coming week holds many interesting events, it will include a concert by the Federal Music Project-ects Symphony orchestra on Monday evening, a recital on Tuesday evening, and a piano graduation recital by Miss Virginia Lund on Wednesday evening. On Thursday evening Lucile Spelman will present an organ recital, and on Friday evening Miss Mary Maddox will present her violin graduation recital.

Orchestra to Play

Governor David Sholtz will conduct the opening number of the Florida Federal Music Projects symphony orchestra. The orchestra, under direction of Charmed Carter Nice, will present a concert in the college auditorium on Monday evening at 8:15 o'clock. It is composed of one hundred and fifty musicians mainly from Tampa, Miami and Jacksonville. It is a WPA project.

The concert here is the beginning of a tour. The public is invited to attend and there is no charge for admission.

Graduation Recital

Walter Rust Cowles, pianist, and Owen F. Sellers, violincellist, will give a faculty recital for the joint instruments in the Augusta Conrad theater at 8:30 o'clock, Tuesday evening, May 12. The public is invited to attend.

The program will be as follows: Opus 5, No. 2, by Beethoven: Adagio sostenuto ed espressivo, Allegro molto pio lesto presto, Rondo-Allegro; and Opus 36, by Brahms: Allegro non troppo, Allegretto quasi minuetto, Allegro.

Virginia Lund Performs

Virginia Long, pupil of Dean Ella B. Opperman, will give her piano graduation recital in the college auditorium on Wednesday evening, May 13, at 8:15 o'clock. She will be assisted by Marion Cone, accompanist, and Miss Etta Robertson, who will give a group of songs accompanied by Miss Esther Winslow, of the music faculty. The public is invited to attend.

Her program is as follows: Prelude, F Major, Opus 28, by Mendelsohn: Con moto agitato, Allegro scherzando, Presto, Vol doi Aurette al Cor, by Handel; Bergerette, by Rech; L'Heure assoupie, by Ganeval; Valse, in A Major, by Scventeen, arranged by Kramer Rondo, in C Major, by Weber, Nocturne. B minor (in manuscript).

Continued on page six

Offices Chosen By Home Ec Club

Manford Made President For Coming Year

Edith Manford was elected president of the Home Economics club at its election of officers for next year. Other new officers are vice-president, Mary Jane Blomfield; secretary Margaret Walcott; treasurer, Lucile Williams; chairman, Margaret Delaney; publicity chairman, Eleanor Ruff, senior representative, Betty Harrison; junior representative, Lucile Williams; sophomore representative, Betty Harrison.

The club enjoyed an outing at Camp Flastocovo, Wednesday. Leaving the college at 5:30 the group motored to the camp and after the evening swimming and canoeing before supper had dinner over an outdoor campfire.

Those attending were Anita Leonard, Louise D Johnson, Miss Edna Mae McInnish, Helen Calhoun, Mary Catherine Gilham, Shirley Stevens, Virginia Duke, Lucille Duke, Edith Manford, Margaret Walcott, Helen Dillard Dorothy Broward, Syreta Stockridge, Margaret Ann Beach, Irene Day, Jane Roople, Joyce Hinckley, Hazel Myrick, Ruth Carrie, Mary Ann Williams, Margaret Delaney, Sophia Benovinski, Audrey Mercer, Marjorie Hewett, Helen Walberg Rosemary Hamby, and Miss Sara Mendor.

Offices to Be Improved

Venetian blinds will be a new feature of the Oldchist and Jennie Murphree offices by commencement week-end, according to Miss Maud Flowers, director of residence halls. In the intermission between commencement and summer school, Bryan and Reynolds halls will be remodeled, according to this announcement.

Student Asks For Diversion Of Attention From Foibles

Defends Young People And Asks That They Be "Let Alone"

By MINNA AGRESS

As a member of the much-maligned and as much defended younger generation, may I very timidly venture to ask a question of both our critics and our defenders? May we, please, bonorable judges, "be ourselves"? May we be normally sociable or normally unsociable? May we have moods that are not analyzed as psychological quirks or stage sit in the adolescency period? May we, to put it bluntly, be let alone?

The college student seems most often to be the member of the younger generation chosen as the form of homo sapiens whose dissection and examination under the microscope proves most interesting as the subject of both scientific and non-scientific writings and analyses.

Learned psychologists have definitely established the interest through which a normal adolescent should pass, and we, wearily plodding through the voluminous results of their studies, guiltily wonder if our best friends are just being kind for not commenting on our obvious deficiency in not having the symptom described on page 6, paragraph three of "What Every Normal Adolescent Should Do." After all, the fact that we are not dogmatic in tying either our right or left shoelace first, but instead alternate between the two, depending upon which shoe our half-dazed eyesees first, is a very formidable divergence from the normal.

Progeny of the generation who discovered scientific child training, we have been subjects of avid experimenting. Punishment for a misdemeanor not the thorough spanking but a complicated procedure during which bewildered parents scan anxiously their references which recommend weight consideration of the negatives underlying the act. The plaidan idea that raiding the cookie jar at seven may have been caused by the fact that the culprit liked cookies is obviously ridiculous.

Even admitting the facetiousness of my illustrations, one must yet grant the existence of the fact that an exaggerated importance is being placed on our quite normal, prosaic actions. Mrs. Burp's "Where Are the Young Rebels" is but a small part of the [illegible] evidence of the conspicuous place the problem of our supposedly

REMEMBER MOTHER
with Whitman's
Give
Russell McPhail
Mothers' Day
Candies
Next Sunday
25c to $7.50
CHOCOLATES
Your gift of Whitman's Chocolates will give Mother double pleasure—it is from you and in the finest in the land. Make your selection NOW.
The Sampler . . . finest variety of chocolates in the world. 17 oz. $1.50
The Fareful . . . commands a box of favorite chocolates 1/2 lb. $1.00
Other Whitman's packages 60c-$5.00
Whitman's Candies are delicious from the makers — at 25c to $7.50

LUNCHEON 25c
GIFTS FOR MOTHER
NO. 1—ROAST YOUNG TURKEY AND DRESSING WITH CRANBERRY SAUCE
NO. 2—FRIED SPRING CHICKEN, SOUTHERN STYLE
NO. 3—BARBECUE WESTERN BEEF with BAR-B-Q SAUCE
NO. 4—HOT BAKED VIRGINIA HAM with INDIA RELISH
VEGETABLES:
No. 1—Mashed Potatoes, New Peas, English Gravy
No. 2—Fresh Snap Beans No. 3—Asparagus Tips
MUFFINS, BUTTER BISCUITS AND DRINK
FRESH STRAWBERRY SUNDAE DESSERT
SODA SPECIALS
FRESH TUTTI FRUTTI BANANA SPLIT 15c
GIANT DIP ICE CREAM SODA 10c
FRESH STRAWBERRY SUNDAE 10c
SMALL CHOCOLATE MILK SHAKE ICE CREAM 10c
LARGE FRESH ORANGEADE 5c
RUSSELL McPHAIL ICE CREAM, pt. 25c
BENNETT'S SPECIAL ICE CREAM, pt. 15c

Evening in Paris $2.50
Gift Sets, up from 2
Yardley's 0°C
Gift Sets, up from 89
Coty's $2.00
Gift Sets, up from $1.18
Montag's Box Paper— 39c, 49c, 79c and $2.50
Pomfalin 1
Yardley's
Pens, up from
All Leading Brands $1.00
Compacts, up from $2.50
Perfume, up from 6
Cordey $2.25
Perfume, up from 25
Elizabeth Arden
Perfume, up from 25
Yardley's $1.10
Perfume, up from

Mother's Day
THE IDEAL GIFT—and practical, too!
Give Mother Hosiery and a Beautiful Bag.
We cordially invite you to visit our store.
FRENCH SHOP

Science Group Holds Meeting at Gainesville

Continued from page one

tion; and Mr. J. Speed Rogers of the University of Florida on Limnological Reconnaissance of some Lakes, Ponds and Streams of Northern Florida.

From 5 to 8 p. m. the [illegible] was devoted to inspection of the University of Florida campus or to visit nearby points of interest. There will have an opportunity to do so.

An informal banquet for members of the academy and lady guests will begin at 7 p. m. at the Hotel Thomas in Gainesville. Dr. Herman Kurz will act as toastmaster. President John J. Tigert of the University of Florida will deliver an address of welcome to those present. Dr. Rogers will speak on the subject, Mr. C. A. Brown, an official representative of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, will be introduced by Mr. H. H. Hume of the University of Florida. Mr. Browne is supervisor of research in the bureau of chemistry, and soils at the United States Department of Agriculture and will speak on behalf of the academy as auxiliary address, Academies of Science and the Cooperative Spirit in Research.

An opportunity will be offered from 9 to 10 p. m. on the training for members of the academy to visit the laboratories of the University of Florida.

The second session of the meeting of the academy will begin Saturday morning a 8:30 in the Science hall. President Hume will again preside. Mr. C. F. Byers of the University of Florida will speak on The Habitat and Distribution of a Rare Plant in Dracaena. Mr. J. E. Kirby of the University of Florida on The Food and Feeding Habits of Two Florida Fishes; Mr. E. S. Deevey on Floral City on A Geological Explanation; and Mr. Hutchinson on Tropical Ferns in Florida; Mr. L. H. Rogers of the University of Florida on Results of Some Preliminary Studies of the Spelicographic Determinations of a Soil.

Mr. W. A. Leukel of the University of Florida will speak on Growth Behavior of Plants as Affected by Cultural Practices; Mr. J. W. Gaddum of the University of Florida on An Apparently Forgotten Physiological Chemical Analysis; and Mr. H. K. Wallace of the University of Florida on A Peculiar Spider, Chiracanthium Trimacata Hentz, in Florida.

STUDENTS MEET TO OPPOSE WAR

Continued from page one

house. At this time a name will be given the anti-war post and the fundamental issues underlying this national inter-collegiate movement will be further explained.

remarkable actions has taken in our contemporary scene.

Taking the side of the authors who advocate that we abandon the "individualistic," the [illegible] brow-beaten student enters the lecture determined to think for herself. The procedure is interrupted to a certain extent, perhaps, by a period of orientation, which of course every girl will admit is necessary as one obviously must be informed of the traditions to which she owes loyalty. This over, she again tightens her belt, grimly sets her jaw, and invades the classroom, emboled by the determination to "critically evaluate" the textbook, course, and professorial teaching procedure. The determination remains firm for a varying period for as long as two weeks in the student's case and for a day in the professor's case. After quite visible illustrations, she belatedly concludes that the instructors obviously don't agree with the author's point-of-view, patently recommends individuality. "Why," she wails, "is right?"

Would it be multitudes to suggest that we be allowed to consider ourselves normal if we didn't fit snugly into either of the two categories set up by our analytical Must one be place in the neurotic section of our group if she, against the advice of a number of our educators, attempts to think? Or, on the other hand, must we resign ourselves to the status of a moron if we are guilty of agreeing with even our professors in some instances, despite the warnings issued by our rabid individualists?

Our advisers seem to have overlooked only one detail in their attentative studies: what system does one use, after passing from the obviously remarkable period of youth to the prosaic, unimportant age of maturity, to discard the false sense of self-importance these critics have built for us?

As Others See U. S.

All Bey Reviews for Abdul Pasha Marriage As She Exists in a New Nation, Scarcely Civilized Up to Present

University of Paris
Paris, France
March 17, 1936

Mr. Abdul Pasha
Stamboul University
Constantinople, Turkey

My Dear Friend:

In compliance with your request that I advise you as to a reliable source of information concerning the institution of marriage in the United States and the customs and practices relating to it at the present time I should say immediately that a good newspaper from one of the larger cities would be of great assistance to you. As you know, the press in the United States is restricted by no censorship, as are the newspapers of so many European countries, and is operated, I understand by persons of the highest ideals and of a strong passion for truth for its own sake. Because of this fact, a news journal would, I think, contain more reliable and less biased articles on the subject, weakened as they are by theories, hypotheses, and statements of general trends introduced on in actual facts as given by the press.

Knowing that American newspapers are expensive and difficult to obtain in Turkey, I have taken advantage of the easy access to publications which I have here in Paris and have compiled a rather comprehensive summary of the facts I found there. I sincerely hope that it will be of some slight assistance to you in your research work.

I have chosen as the newspaper from which to draw more reliable information one which must indubitably be considered the outstanding journal in the United States. For it calls itself quite frankly, just below the title on the first page, "The World's Greatest Newspaper." Its other title is The Chicago Tribune. The edition which I have used do not constitute a complete bureau report of items, but have been chosen from different months during 1934 and 1935, in order to assure a perfectly fair sample of what the Tribune has to say about married life and family relations.

It seems that in America the family is a sort of military unit—that is, it must use physical force to protect itself against the violence of enemies. In one instance a family in New Jersey engaged in an actual battle, in which the wife was killed, the husband wounded and the two sons were arrested Their attackers were the representatives of a gasoline company which had condemned their property for the erection of a service station and filling station, founded as it is on principles of freedom and equality. In another instance the apartment of a couple in Chicago was broken into by a maniac who tied the husband and wife and beat the woman with her husband's belt. This same person is also accused of having attacked two other women and flogged them with a lead-tipped belt. I presume, however, that violence and cruelty are always present in a new nation, and that until it is completely organized and civilized, such horrifying occurrences will continue to exist.

I find, moreover, that this brutality exists not only against the home from external urges, but even within the home itself, between husband and wife. There is a case cited of a 50-year-old wife who was arrested for poisoning her fourth husband, another wife, according to the Tribune, did not love her husband but could bear to tell him so she paid $25 to a thug to push her husband over a cliff. The wife of a Chicago policeman found that her husband had taken the automobile which she had intended to buy her small son an electric set. She shot and killed him in the presence of two of their children. One would conclude that the American women are more brutal and savage than the men—a rather surprising fact to me. However, there is one case in which a young husband murdered his wife by overturning the canoe in which they were riding. His motive seems to have been an attachment for another girl.

These Americans, I believe, are extremely unstable individually and allow jealous passion or some other feeling related to marital life to lead them to acts of violence. Proof of this is the instance of a young carpenter and farmer from Missouri who killed by a mutilation murder a professor for marrying the childhood sweetheart of the farmer. Another young man was executed for murdering a man in order to buy a wedding dress for his third wife.

There appears also to be, besides an abundance of physical cruelty, a great deal of petty barbarism, such as in the case of a young husband who caused his wife to file suit for a divorce because he threw the family silverware at her. A doctor is suing for divorce because his estranged wife telephones him at all hours of the night and sends him on wild goose chases. An actress in Connecticut is seeking a divorce because her husband who never come home drunk, wake her during the night, and force her to talk on all sorts of subjects, depriving her of sleep. The mother of another actress has started suing for divorce because her husband would cause scenes and embarrass her in public places. A third actress divorced her husband because he would not dance as severely that she became ill. Another young wife, the wife of an army officer, a former football hero, complains that her husband would become intoxicated and beat her unmercifully. You will see that most of these incidents occur in the so-called better classes.

Even as barbarous as are the relationships of married life in America, married women are comparable to single life, especially for women. I find an instance in which three women, married, who had to operate their farm without any assistance, contracted pneumonia from overheating during haying season and one of them died. The struggle for existance among America's numerous quintuplets must be terrific.

One of the most deplorable things I found in my investigations was the cruelty to children in families. The courts are hearing the case of a 25-year-old father who beat his seven-months-old son black and blue for annoying him by crying. Another child, four months old, was beaten severely by its mother in a day nursery. After a week police began a search for the parents.

You have always been told, I presume, that monogamy is the accepted form of marriage in America. You can judge for yourself the truth of this by the examples I shall give. There exists at Short Creek, Utah, a polygamy camp, and in which 36 separate five hundred families are anxious to join it. Two men and a boy, in an, residents there, have been arrested for open and notoriously immoral relations. Another man, a Chicagoan, graduate of a college and a music conservatory, is being tried for having three wives at the same time, all living with children.

Probably you are appalled at these facts and are puzzled about the explanation of it all. I found in one of the newspapers a photograph which may be significant. The picture showed a young man and a young woman cycling together. Above their heads loomed the young lady clothed only in short trousers and a back shirt. It seems credible that promiscuous relations such as these might be a long way toward explaining the strange conditions in America.

Let me assure you that it has been a pleasure and an eye-opener to conduct this little investigation for you. I hope that it will contain useful material for you.

Sincerely,
Ali Bey.

Ship Home by LAUNDRY and save
Loose Change
Railway Express can handle laundry packages for you very easily and economically. Simply notify the folks that you are shipping your laundry by Railway Express and ask them to return it the same way. If you wish, you can ship "collect." It saves time and detail, and loose change.
Railway Express is fast and dependable and can be relied upon to get your laundry back as fresh and in as good condition as when it left home. So think the lines over and telephone Railway Express. Our motor truck will pick up the package at your door at no extra charge.
For service or information telephone 117 S. Monroe Phone 181
Tallahassee, Florida
RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY INC.
NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

ADAMS' STUDIO
"Photographs that Please"
121 E. College Telephone 297

New Presbyterian Heads Will Be Installed Sunday

Continued from page one

chairman: Sarah Martin, music chairman; Sara Lewis, dramatic chairman; Virginia Gaither, house chairman; Marion Heflin, social service cahirman; Margaret Holway, recreational chairman; Martha Hearon, sorority chairman; Frances Clements, off-campus chairman; Dora Helen Bagnell, president of the Sunday school class; Marjorie Faulkner, treasurer of the Sunday school class. The league program and social chairmen are to be supplied at a later date.

The Episcopal Students league will have their after-dinner coffee tonight at 7:15 o'clock in Rose hall. This entertainment is given primarily for Episcopal students, but students of all denominations are invited to attend.

There will be no meeting of the Sunday morning Bible study class, Sunday, May 10, according to an announcement made by Miss Lucile Cohan, student counsellor. The Episcopal students league will have a special meeting Sunday, May 10, at 5:15 o'clock in Rose hall.

Theatre Guild Starts Play-Writing Bureau

The Theater Guild has announced the starting of a new organization, "A Bureau of New Plays" sponsored by Miss Theresa Helburn, which will have for its purpose the discovery, fostering and encouragement of new writing talent in the theater. To that end the bureau will offer a number of prizes and fellowships to undergraduates and graduates of the colleges and universities of the country.

Six prizes of $125 each will be awarded annually for the best play of human relations, either a comedy or drama on a romantic or domestic theme; (b) the best play on a social theme; (c) the best melodrama; (d) the best farce; (e) the satiric play and (f) the best character play, modern or historic.

The bureau will also have available annual fellowships of $2,500 each, without any duties, which will be given to writers of promise who need financial assistance.

Girls Gaze At Glee Club Men At Billboard

Students Gather Around To Discuss Photos At Meal Time

By MARION CONN

Two, four, six, eight, shift! All together! Neat in line, shift! Hot football signals, but a little game which was played on the dining room arcade around the billboard advertising the University of Florida Glee club concert all last week.

At least half an hour before each meal found a crowd of girls gathered around the board. It might have been almost anything from a dress display to an cautionary tale. Judging from the amount of pointing and admiring and exchanging of opinions which ensued. The girl who could talk the loudest held the center of attention until someone with greater physical prowess pushed her way into the foreground.

"That's the one I'd take," somesweetly feminine voice was heard to say, and the owner endeavored through various means to squirm through the group to the front, pointing all the while to one very dark, handsome countenance.

"You would!" another taunted. "He looks like your type. I'd take this one," she said, indicating a face bearing a more tender expression. "He looks big and protecting."

Another shift occurred. Three privileged characters lost box seats, while the others took the favored places directly in front of the pictures, blocking all possible views from behind.

"He's mine," one of them gloated. Jamming a wad of nail into the eyes of some poor fellow on the other group on a social function, "I went to grammar school with him, and I thought he was dead. He taken me to the dance, too."

"I wouldn't dig up the past," another said, "but I'll pick out this one, here in the middle. I don't know him, but some one will, so I know I can get an introduction."

More scrambling took place as two girls left the back row, speaking in low tones.

"I think he is crude," one said "so stand there like that, just saying out loud which one you like best and which you think you think the big, blonde one looked like

Senior Class to Be Honored at Break

Continued from page one

former president of the organization announcement, will be toastmistress.

Others Will Attend

The college executive board headed by President Howard Caldwell, alumnae officers, and faculty committee on organization with the alumnae, will also attend the breakfast.

Details of the breakfast are not planned by Miss Marion Gaillard, another former president of the student body. Mrs. H. L. Bennett, alumnae president of the Alumnae association.

fun? I bet he has a sense humor."

Then from an unexpected source a young student heard disgustedly.

"Oh, you all look sort of pretty me. Aren't any of them big enough to play football? The sissies!"

This remark brought a long tirade of defense from those grouped the loud observer as members of the Glee club boys, doubt it was a fortunate thing war among the feminine assembled imminent.

DUKE UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL OF NURSING
DURHAM, N. C.
The Diploma of Graduate Nurse awarded after three years of Degree of Bachelor of Nursing after additional year of approved college academic work after this nursing course. The advanced curriculum offers experience, character and graduate from an acceptable hospital preference is given for six or more years of successful college work. The tuition is $100 per year which includes all cost of maintenance, uniforms, etc.
Catalogue and application blanks which must be filed before April first for admission September thirtieth, may be obtained on request.

GELBERG'S
NEW STORE COLLEGE AVE.
"Complete Store for Ladies"
Desirable Graduation Gifts!
All Silk HOSE
In new summer shades.
69c to $1.00
SILK UNDIES
Panties, Dance Sets, Gowns and Slips. Perfect fitting and durable.
50c to $3.50
LINEN HANKIES
Whites, Pastels, Fancies—Street and Dance Wear.
25c to $1.00
The Famous
SEAMPRUFF SLIPS
White and Tea Rose, Crepe and Satin, Street and Evening Wear. All styles. Every slip guaranteed. Hundreds of Other Gifts. . . .
$1.95 and $2.95
COME TO SEE US!

Sport Squints

By "FLIP" TURNER

The biggest kick anybody's got, as out of life during the past week, was the kick Marjory Hoover received while riding a horse last Sunday. The story goes that while she was in the saddle a mare kicked her. Yeah, it does sound sorta hash, but anyway that that's what Horton says happened to the leg she's carrying around all over the campus in a sling.

There's nothing like good old family rivalry as displayed at the equestrian swim meet last Friday night by Dorothy Scott, freshman, and Mary Katherine Scott, sophomore—and little sister ran away with honors.

Judging by the last minute dining room sprinters, F S C W would use excellent track material—with no extra workouts required.

Marie Taylor is capable of riding the horse with as much ease as she rides a horse—at least she stole a good part of the show at the horseback swimming meet last Friday night.

The once popular song, "I Couldn't Believe My Eyes," was very apropos at playnite last week. Most of the fair damsels were so sure just looking at the multitude of men that they completely forgot to dance.

Several of the hearty outdoor girls of the campus slipped last week-end. Verbel went walking, also those while at camp, and the sand or sumph's was hot so now she's cooling her soles in the infirmary.

